Or, have I said to the finest gold of all: thou art my confidence? ^{31:25}Have I rejoiced because my substance was great, and because my hand gat so much? ^{31:26}Did I ever greatly regard the rising of the son? Or, had I the going down of the moon in great reputation? ^{31:27}Hath my heart meddled privily with any deceit? Or, did I ever kiss mine own hand? ^{31:28}That were a wickedness worth to be punished, for then should I have denied the God that is above. ^{31:29}Have I ever rejoiced at the hurt of mine enemy? Or was I ever glad, that any harm happened to him? Oh no. ^{31:30}I never suffered my mouth to do such a sin, as to wish him evil. ^{31:31}Yet they of mine own household say: who shall let us to have our belly full of his flesh? ^{31:32}I have not suffered a stranger to lie without, but opened my doors unto him. ^{31:33}Have I ever done any wicked deed where thorow I shamed myself before men: or any abomination, that I was fain to hide it? ^{31:34}For if I had feared any great multitude of people: or if I had been despised of the simple, Oh then should I have been afraid. Thus have I quietly spent my life, and not gone out at the door. ^{31:35}O that I had one which would hear me. Lo, this is my cause. Let the almighty give me answer: and let him that is my contrary party, sue me with libel. ^{31:36}Then shall I take it upon my shoulder, and as a garland about my head. ^{31:37}I have told the number of my goings, and delivered them unto him as to a prince. ^{31:38}But if cause be that my land cry against me, or that the furrows thereof make any complaint: ^{31:39}if I have eaten the fruits thereof unpaid for, yea if I have grieved any of the plowmen: ^{31:40}then let thistles grow in stead of my wheat, and thorns for my barley. (Here end the words of Job.) ^{32:1}So these three men would strive no more with Job, because he held himself a righteous man. ^{32:2}But Eliu the son of Barachell the Bussite of the kindred of Ram, was very sore displeased at Job, that he called him self just before God. ^{32:3}And with Job's three friends he was angry also, because they had found no reasonable answer to overcome him. ^{32:4}Now tarried Eliu till they had ended their communication with Job, for why? they were elder than he. ^{32:5}So when Eliu the son of Barachell the Bussite saw, that these three men were not able to make Job answer, he was

miscontent: ^{32:6}so that he gave answer himself, and said: Considering, that I am young, and ye be men of age, I was afraid, and durst not shew forth my mind, ^{32:7}for I thought thus within myself: It becometh old men to speak, and the aged to teach wisdom. ^{32:8}Every man (no doubt) hath a mind, but it is the inspiration of the Almighty that giveth understanding. ^{32:9}All men are not wise, neither doth every aged man understand the thing that is lawful. ^{32:10}Therefore will I speak also (in so far as I may be heard) and will shew you mine opinion. ^{32:11}For when I had waited till ye made an end of your talking, and heard your wisdom, what arguments you made in your communication: ^{32:12}Yea when I had diligently pondered what ye said, I found not one of you that made any good argument against Job, or that directly could make answer unto his words: ^{32:13}Lest ye should praise yourselves, to have found out wisdom: because it is God that hath cast him out, and no man. ^{32:14}Nevertheless, seeing he hath not spoken unto me, therefore will not I answer him as ye have done ^{32:15}(for they where so abashed that they could not make answer, nor speak one word) ^{32:16}but in so much as ye will not speak, standing still like dumbⁱ men, and making no answer: ^{32:17}I have a good hope for my part to shape him an answer, and to shew him my meaning. ^{32:18}For I am full of words, and the spirit that is within me, compelleth me. ^{32:19}Behold I am as the new wine, which hath no vent, and bursteth the new vessels in sunder. ^{32:20}Therefore will I speak, that I may have vent: I will open my lips, and make answer. ^{32:21}I will regard no manner of person, no man will I spare. ^{32:22}For if I would go about to please men, I know not how soon my maker would take me away. ^{33:1}Wherefore hear my words (O Job) and hearken to me all,^j that I will say: ^{33:2}Behold, I will open my mouth, and my tongue shall speak out of my chaws. ^{33:3}My heart shall order my words aright, and my lips shall talk of pure wisdom. ^{33:4}The spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the almighty hath given me my life. ^{33:5}If thou canst, then give me answer: prepare thyself to stand^k before me face to face. ^{33:6}Behold, before God am I, even as thou, for I am fashioned and made even of the same mould. ^{33:7}Therefore, thou needest not be afraid of me, neither needest thou to fear, that my authority, shall be too heavy for thee. ^{33:8}Now hast thou spoken in mine ears, and I have heard the voice of thy words: ^{33:9}I am clean without any fault, I am innocent, and there is no wickedness in me. ^{33:10}But lo, he hath picked a quarrel against me, and taketh me for his enemy: ^{33:11}He hath put my foot in the stocks, and looketh narrowly unto all my paths. ^{33:12}Behold, unto these unreasonable words of thine will I make answer. Should God be reprov'd of man? ^{33:13}Why dost thou then strive against him? because he giveth thee no accomptes of all his doings? ^{33:14}For when God doth once command a thing, there should no man be curious, to search whether it be right. ^{33:15}In dreams and visions of the night season (When slumbering cometh upon men, that they fall a sleep in their beds) ^{33:16}he roundeth^l them in the ears, he informeth them, and sheweth them plainly, ^{33:17}that it is he, which withdraweth man from evil, delivereth him from pride, ^{33:18}keepeth his soul from destruction, and his life from the sword. ^{33:19}He chasteneth him with sickness, and bringeth him to his bed: he layeth sore punishment upon his bones, ^{33:20}so that his life may away with no bread, and his soul abhorreth to eat any dainty meat. ^{33:21}In so much that his body is clean consumed away, and his bones appear no more. ^{33:22}His soul draweth on to destruction, and his life to death. ^{33:23}Now if there be a messenger^m (one among a thousand) sent for to speak unto man, and to shew him the right way: ^{33:24}then the Lordⁿ is merciful unto him, and sayeth: He shall be delivered, that he fall not down to destruction, for I am sufficiently reconciled. ^{33:25}Then his flesh (which hath been in misery and trouble) shall be as it was in his youth. ^{33:26}For if he submit himself unto God, he is gracious, and sheweth him his countenance joyfully, and rewardeth man for his righteousness. ^{33:27}Such a respect hath he unto men. Therefore let a man confess (and say) I offended, but he hath chastened and reformed me: I did unrighteously nevertheless he hath not recompensed me thereafter. ^{33:28}Yea he hath delivered my soul from destruction, and my life, that it seeth the light. ^{33:29}Lo, thus worketh God alway with man, ^{33:30}that he keepeth his soul from perishing, and letteth him enjoy the light of the living. ^{33:31}Mark well (O Job) and hear me: hold thee still until I have spoken. ^{33:32}But if thou hast any thing to say, then answer me, and speak, for thy answer pleaseth me. ^{33:33}If thou hast nothing, then hear me, and hold thy tongue, so shall I teach thee wisdom. ^{34:1}Eliu proceeding forth in his communication, said: ^{34:2}Hear my words, (O ye wise men) hearken unto me, ye that have understanding. ^{34:3}For like as the mouth tasteth the meats, so the ear proveth and discerneth the words. ^{34:4}As for the judgment, let us seek it out among ourselves, that we may know what is right. ^{34:5}And why? Job hath said: I am righteous, but God doth me wrong. ^{34:6}I must needs be a liar, though my cause be right, and violently am I plagued where as I made no fault: ^{34:7}where is there such one as Job, that drinketh up scornfulness like water? ^{34:8}Which goeth in company of wicked doers, and walketh with ungodly men: ^{34:9}For he sayeth: Though a man be good, yet is he naught before God. ^{34:10}Therefore hearken unto me, ye that have understanding. Far be it from God, that he should meddle with wickedness: and far be it from the almighty, that he should meddle with unrighteous dealing: ^{34:11}but he rewardeth the works of man, and causeth every man to find according to his ways. ^{34:12}For sure it is, that God condemneth no man wrongously, and the judgement of the Almighty is not unrighteous. ^{34:13}Who ruleth the earth in his stead? Or whom hath he set to govern the whole world? ^{34:14}To whom hath he given his heart, for to draw his spirit and breath unto him? ^{34:15}All flesh shall come together unto naught, and all men shall turn again unto earth. ^{34:16}If thou now have understanding, hear what I say, and hearken to the voice of my words. ^{34:17}May he be made whole, that loveth no right? If thou were a very innocent man, shouldest thou then be punished? ^{34:18}For he is even the same, that knoweth the rebellious kings, and sayeth to princes: ^{34:19}Ungodly men are ye. He hath none respect unto the persons of the lordly, and regardeth not the rich more than the poor. For they be all the work of his hands. ^{34:20}In the twinkling of an eye shall they be slain: and at midnight, when the people and the tyrants rage, then shall they perish, and be taken away without hands. ^{34:21}And why? his eyes look upon the ways of man, and he seeth all his goings. ^{34:22}There is no darkness nor thick shadow, that can hide the wicked doers from him. ^{34:23}For no man shall be suffered to go into judgement with God. ^{34:24}Many one, yea innumerable doth he punish, and setteth other in their stead. ^{34:25}For he knoweth their evil and dark works, therefore shall they be destroyed. ^{34:26}They that were in the stead of Sears, dealt like ungodly men. ^{34:27}Therefore turned they back traitorously and unfaithfully from him, and would not receive his ways. ^{34:28}In so much that they have caused the voice of the poor to come unto him, and now he heareth the complaint of such as are in necessity. ^{34:29}If he deliver and grant pardon, who will judge or condemn? But if he hide away his countenance, who will turn it about again, whether it be to the people or to any man? ^{34:30}From the wickedness and sin of the people, he maketh an hypocrite to reign over them. ^{34:31}For so much as I have begun to talk of God, I will not hinder thee; ^{34:32}If I have gone amiss, enform me: if I have done wrong, I will leave off. ^{34:33}Wilt thou not give a reasonable answer? Art thou afraid of anything, seeing thou beganest first to speak, and not I? ^{34:34}For else the men of understanding and wisdom, that have heard me, might say: What canst thou speak? ^{34:35}As for Job he hath neither spoken to the purpose nor wisely. ^{34:36}O father let Job be well tried, because he hath turned himself to the wicked: ^{34:37}yea above his sins he hath blasphemed, which offense he hath done even before us, in that he striveth against God with his words. ^{35:1}Eliu spake moreover, and said: ^{35:2}Thinkest thou it right, that thou saidst: I am righteous before God? ^{35:3}Seeing thou sayest so, how doest thou know it? What thing hast thou more excellent than I, that I am a sinner?^o ^{35:4}Therefore will I give answer

unto thee and thy friends: ^{35:5}Look unto the heaven, and behold it: consider the clouds, how they are higher than thou. ^{35:6}If thou sinnest, what doest thou unto him? If thine offenses be many, how gettest thou his favour? ^{35:7}If thou be righteous, what givest thou him? Or what receiveth he of thy hands? ^{35:8}Of such an ungodly person as thou, and of the son of man that is righteous as thou pretendest to be: ^{35:9}there is a great cry and complaint made by them that are oppressed with violence, yea every man complaineth upon the cruel arm of tyrants. ^{35:10}For such one never sayeth: Where is God that made me? and that shineth upon us, that we might praise him in the night? ^{35:11}Which giveth us more understanding than he doth the beasts of the earth, and teacheth us more than the fowls of heaven. ^{35:12}If any such complain, no man giveth answer, and that because of the wickedness of proud tyrants. ^{35:13}But if a man call upon God, doth not he hear him? Doth not the almighty accept his cry? ^{35:14}When thou speakest then, should not he pardon thee, if thou open thyself before him, and put thy trust in him? ^{35:15}Then useth he no violence in his wrath, neither hath he pleasure in curious and deep inquisitions. ^{35:16}Therefore hath Job opened his mouth but in vain, and foolishly hath he made so many words. ^{36:1}Eliu proceeded forth in his talking and said: ^{36:2}Hold thee still a little, and I shall shew thee, what I have yet to speak on God's behalf. ^{36:3}I will open unto thee yet more of mine understanding, and prove my maker righteousness. ^{36:4}True are my words, and no lie: and the knowledge wherewithall I argue against thee, is perfect. ^{36:5}Behold, God casteth not away the mighty, for he himself is mighty in power and wisdom. ^{36:6}As for the ungodly, he preserveth them not, but helpeth the poor to their right. ^{36:7}He turneth not his eyes away from the righteous, he setteth up kings in their throne, and confirmeth them, so that they alway sit therein. ^{36:8}But if they be laid in prison and chains, or bound with the bonds of poverty: ^{36:9}then sheweth he them their works and deeds and the sins where with they have used cruel violence. ^{36:10}He with punishing and nurturing of them, roundeth^P them in the ears, warneth them to leave off from their wickedness, and to amend. ^{36:11}If they now will take heed and be obedient, they shall wear out their days in prosperity, and their years in pleasure and joy. ^{36:12}But if they will not obey, they shall go thorow the sword, and perish or ever they be aware.^Q ^{36:13}As for such as be fained, dissemblers and hypocrites, they heap up wrath for themselves: for they call not upon him, though they be his prisoners. ^{36:14}Thus their soul perisheth in foolishness, and their life with the condemned. ^{36:15}The poor delivereth he out of his straitness, and comforteth such as be in necessity and trouble. ^{36:16}Even so shall he keep thee (if thou wilt be content) from the bottomless pit that is beneath: and if thou wilt hold the quiet, he shall fill thy table with plenteousness. ^{36:17}Nevertheless thou hast condemned the judgement of the ungodly, yea even such a judgment and sentence shalt thou suffer. ^{36:18}For then shall not thy cause be stilled with cruelty, nor pacified with many gifts. ^{36:19}Hath God ordained^r then, that the glorious life of thee, and all such mighty men should not be put down? ^{36:20}Prolong not thou the time, till there come a night for thee, to set other people in thy stead. ^{36:21}But beware that thou turn not aside to wickedness and sin, which hither to thou hast chosen more than meekness. ^{36:22}Behold, God is of a mighty high power: Where is there such a guide and law giver as he? ^{36:23}Who will reprove him of his way? Who will say unto him: thou hast done wrong? ^{36:24}O consider how great and excellent his works be, whom all men love and praise: ^{36:25}yea^s wonder at him, and yet they see him but afar off. ^{36:26}Behold, so great is God, that he passeth our knowledge, neither are we able to come to the experience of his years. ^{36:27}He turneth the water to small drops, he driveth his clouds ^{36:28}together for to rain, so that they pour down and drop upon men. ^{36:29}He can spread out the clouds (a covering of his tabernacle) ^{36:30}and cause his light to shine upon them, and to cover the bottom of the sea. ^{36:31}By these things governeth he his people, and giveth them abundance of meat. ^{36:32}In the turning of a hand he hideth the light, and at his commandment it cometh again. ^{36:33}The rising up thereof sheweth he to his friends and to the cattle. ^{37:1}At this, my heart is astonished, and moved out of his place. ^{37:2}Hear then the sound of his voice, and the noise that goeth out of his mouth. ^{37:3}He governeth everything under the heaven, and his light reacheth unto the end of the world. ^{37:4}A roaring voice followeth him: for his glorious majesty giveth such a thunder clap, that (though a man hear it) yet may he not perceive it afterward. It giveth an horrible sound, ^{37:5}when God sendeth out his voice: great things doth he, which we can not comprehend. ^{37:6}When he commandeth the snow, it falleth upon the earth: As soon as he giveth the rain a charge, immediately the showers have their strength, and fall down. ^{37:7}He sendeth fear upon every man, that they might know their own works. ^{37:8}The beasts creep into their dens, and take their rest. ^{37:9}Out of the south cometh the tempest, and cold out of the north. ^{37:10}At the breath of God, the frost cometh, and the waters are shed abroad. ^{37:11}The clouds do their labour in getting moistness, the clouds pour down the rain. ^{37:12}He distributeth also on every side, according as it pleaseth him to deal out his works, that they may do, whatsoever he commandeth them thorow the whole world: ^{37:13}whether it be to punish any land, or to do good unto them, that seek him. ^{37:14}Hearken unto this, (O Job) stand still, and consider the wonderous works of God. ^{37:15}Art thou of counsel with God, when he doth these things? When he causeth the light to come forth of his clouds? ^{37:16}Art thou of his counsel, when he spreadeth out the clouds? Hast thou the perfect knowledge of his wonders? ^{37:17}and how thy clothes are warm, when the land is still thorow the South wind? ^{37:18}Hast thou helped him to spread out the heaven, which is to look upon, as it were cast of clear metal? ^{37:19}Teach us what we shall say unto him, for we are unmete because of darkness. ^{37:20}Shall it be told him what I say? Should a man speak, or should he keep it back? ^{37:21}For every man seeth not the light, that he keepeth clear in the clouds, which he cleanseth when he maketh the wind to blow. ^{37:22}Gold is brought out of the North, but the praise and honour of God's fear cometh from God himself. ^{37:23}It is not we that can find out the almighty: for in power, equity, and righteousness, he is higher than can be expressed. ^{37:24}Seeing then that every body feareth him, why should not all wise men also stand^t in fear of him. ^{38:1}Then spake the LORD unto Job out of the storm, and said: ^{38:2}What is he that hideth his mind with foolish words? ^{38:3}Gird up thy loins like a man, for I will question thee, see thou give me a direct answer. ^{38:4}Where wast thou, when I laid the foundations of the earth? Tell plainly if thou hast understanding. ^{38:5}Who hath measured it, knowest thou? Or, who hath spread the line upon it? ^{38:6}Where upon stand^u the pillars of it? Or, who laid the corner stone? ^{38:7}Where wast thou, when the morning stars praised me together, and all the children^v of God rejoiced triumphantly? ^{38:8}Who shut the sea with doors, when it brake forth as a child out of his mother's womb? ^{38:9}When I made the clouds to be a covering for it, and swaddled it with the dark? ^{38:10}When I gave it my commandment, making doors and bars for it, ^{38:11}saying: Hither to shalt thou come, but no further, and here shalt thou lay down thy proud and high waves. ^{38:12}Hast thou given the morning his charge (as soon as thou wast born) and shewed the day spring his place, ^{38:13}that it might take hold of the corners of the earth, and that the ungodly might be shaken out? ^{38:14}Their tokens and weapons hast thou turned like clay, and set them up again as the changing of a garment. ^{38:15}Yea thou hast spoiled the ungodly of their light, and broken the arm of the proud. ^{38:16}Camest thou ever into the ground of the sea: or hast thou walked in the low corners of the deep? ^{38:17}Have the gates of death been open unto thee, or hast thou seen the door of everlasting treasure? ^{38:18}Hast thou also perceived how broad the earth is? Now if thou hast knowledge of all, ^{38:19}then shew me where light dwelleth, and where darkness is: ^{38:20}that thou mayest bring us unto their quarters, if thou canst tell the way to their houses. ^{38:21}Knowest thou (when thou wast born) how old thou shouldst

Who hath gendered the coldness of the air? ^{38:30}That the waters are as hard as stones, and lie congealed above the deep. ^{38:31}Hast thou brought the seven stars together? Or art thou able to break the Circle of heaven? ^{38:32}Canst thou bring forth the morning star or the evening star at convenient time, and convey them home again? ^{38:33}Knewest thou the course of heaven, that thou mayest set up the ordinance thereof upon the earth? ^{38:34}Moreover, canst thou lift up thy voice to the clouds, that they may pour down a great rain upon thee? ^{38:35}Canst thou thunder also that they may go their way, and be obedient unto thee, saying: Lo here are we. ^{38:36}Who giveth sure wisdom or steadfast understanding? ^{38:37}Who numbereth the clouds in wisdom? lessly, and beateth upon the ground. He feareth not the noise of the trumpets, ^{39:25}but as soon as he heareth the shawmes blow, tush (sayeth he) for he smelleth the battle afar off, the noise, the Captains and the shouting. ^{39:26}Cometh it thorow thy wisdom, that the Goshawk flyeth toward the South? ^{39:27}Doth the Aegle mount up, and make his nest on high,^f at thy commandment? ^{39:28}He abideth in the stony rocks, and upon the high tops of hard mountains, where no man can come. ^{39:29}From thence may he behold his pray, and look far about with his eyes. ^{39:30}His young ones are fed with blood, and where any dead body lieth, there is he immediately. ^{40:1}Moreover, GOD spake unto Job and said: ^{40:2}Can he that striveth with the almighty, be at rest? Should not he which disputeth with God, give him an answer? ^{40:3}Job answered the LORD, saying: ^{40:4}Behold, I am too vile a person, to answer thee, therefore will I lay my hand upon my mouth. ^{40:5}Once or twice have I spoken, but I will say no more. ^{40:6}Then spake the LORD unto Job out of the storm, and said: ^{40:7}Gird up thy loins like a man, and tell me the things that I will ask thee. ^{40:8}Wilt thou disannul my judgment? Or wilt thou condemn me, that thou thyself mayest be made righteous? ^{40:9}Is thine arm then like the arm of God? Maketh thy voice such a sound as his doth? ^{40:10}Then arm thyself with thine own power, up, deck thee in thy jolly array, ^{40:11}pour out thy indignation of thy wrath: see that thou cast down all the proud, ^{40:12}look well, that thou makest all such as be stubborn, to obey: tread all the ungodly under thy feet, ^{40:13}cast them down into the mire, and cover their faces with darkness: ^{40:14}Then will I confess also, that thy own right hand hath saved thee. ^{40:15}Behold Behemoth^g (whom I made with thee) which eateth hay as an ox: ^{40:16}lo, how strong he is in his loins, and what power he hath in the navel of his body. ^{40:17}He spreadeth out his tail like a Cedar tree, all his veins are stiff. ^{40:18}His shins are like pipes of brass, his rig bones are like staves of iron. ^{40:19}First when God made him, he ordained^h the wilderness for him, ^{40:20}that the mountains should give him grass, where all the beasts of the field take their pastime. ^{40:21}He lieth among the reeds in the Mosses, ^{40:22}the fens hide him with their shadow, and the willows of the brook cover him round about. ^{40:23}Lo, without any labour might he drink out of the whole flood, and sup of Jordan without any trail.ⁱ ^{40:24}Who dare lay a hand on him openly, and undertake to catch him? Or, who dare put a hook thorow his nose, and lay a snare for him? ^{41:1}Darest thou draw out Leviathan with an angle? or bind his tongue with a snare? ^{41:2}Canst thou put a ring in the nose of him? or bore his chafes thorow with a nawl?^j ^{41:3}Will he make many fair words with thee (thinkest thou) or flatter thee? ^{41:4}Will he make a covenant with thee? Or art thou able for to compel him to do thee continual service? ^{41:5}Wilt thou take thy pastime with him as with a bird? Or give him unto thy maidens, ^{41:6}that thy companions may hew him in pieces, to be parted among the merchant men? ^{41:7}Canst thou fill the net with his skin, or the fish panner with his head? ^{41:8}Darest thou lay hand upon him? It is better for thee to consider what harm might happen thee there thorow, and not to touch him. ^{41:9}For when thou thinkest to have hold upon him, he shall beguile thee: Every man also that seeth him, shall go back. ^{41:10}And why? there dare none be so bold as to raise him up. Who is able to stand before me? ^{41:11}Or, who hath given me anything afore hand, that I am bound to reward him again? All things under heaven are mine. ^{41:12}I fear him not, whether he threaten or speak fair. ^{41:13}Who lifteth him up, and stripeth him out of his clothes, or who taketh him by the bit of his bridle? ^{41:14}Who openeth the doors of his face? for he hath horrible teeth round about, ^{41:15}His body is covered with scales as it were with shields, locked^k in, kept, and well compact together. ^{41:16}One is so joined to another, that no air can come in: ^{41:17}Yea one hangeth so upon another, and sticketh so together, that they can not be sundered. ^{41:18}His nesing is like a glistering fire, and his eyes like the morning shine. ^{41:19}Out of his mouth go torches and fire brands, ^{41:20}out of his nostrils there goeth smoke, like as out of an hot seething pot. ^{41:21}His breath maketh the coals burn, the flame goeth out of his mouth. ^{41:22}In his neck remaineth strength, and before his face sorrow is turned to gladness. ^{41:23}The members of his body are joined so strait one to another, and cleave so fast together, that he can not be moved. ^{41:24}His heart is as hard as stone, and as fast as the stithy that the hammer man smiteth upon. ^{41:25}When he goeth: the mightiest of all are afraid, and the waves heave. ^{41:26}If he draw out the sword, there may neither spear, nor breast plate, abide him. ^{41:27}He sitteth as much by a straw as by iron, and as much by a rotten stock as by metal. ^{41:28}He starteth not away for him that bendeth the bow: and as for sling stones, he careth as much for stubble as for them. ^{41:29}He counteth the hammer no better than a straw, he laugheth him to scorn that shaketh the spear. ^{41:30}He treadeth the gold in the mire like the sharp potsherds. ^{41:31}He maketh the deep to seethe and boil like a pot, and stirreth the sea together like an ointment. ^{41:32}The way is light after him, the deep is his walking place. ^{41:33}Upon earth is there no power like unto his, for he is so made that he feareth not. ^{41:34}If a man will consider all high things, this same is a king over all the children of pride. ^{42:1}Then Job answered the LORD, and said: ^{42:2}I know that thou hast power over^l all things, and that there is no thought hid unto thee. ^{42:3}For who can keep his own counsel^m so secret, but it shall be known? Therefore have I spoken unwisely, seeing these things are so high, and pass mine understanding. ^{42:4}O hearken thou unto me also, and let me speak: answer me unto the thing that I will ask thee. ^{42:5}I have given diligent ear unto thee, and now I see thee with mine eyes. ^{42:6}Wherefore I give mine own self the blame, and take repentance in the dust and ashes. ^{42:7}Now when the LORD had spoken these words unto Job, he said unto Eliphaz the Themanite: I am displeased with thee and thy two friends, for ye have not spoken the thing that is right before me, like as my servant Job hath done. ^{42:8}Therefore take seven oxen and seven rams, and go to my servant Job, offer up also for yourselves a brentoffering: and let my servant Job pray for you. Him will I accept, and not deal with you after your foolishness: in that ye have not spoken the thing which is right, like as my servant Job hath done. ^{42:9}So Eliphaz the Themanite, Baldad the Suhite and Sophar the Naamathite went their way, and did according as the LORD commanded them. The LORD also accepted the person of Job, ^{42:10}and the LORD turned him unto Job, when he prayed for his friends: Yea the LORD gave Job twice as much as he had afore. ^{42:11}And then came there unto him all his brethren, all his sisters, with all them that had been of his acquaintance afore, and ate bread with him in his house, wondering at him, and comforting him over all the trouble, that the LORD had brought upon him. Every man gave him a sheep and a Jewel of gold. ^{42:12}And the LORD made Job richer than he was before: for he had fourteen thousand sheep, and six thousand camels, and a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand asses. ^{42:13}He had children also, seven sons and three daughters. ^{42:14}The firstⁿ called Day: the second Poverty: the third All plenteousness. ^{42:15}In all the land were none found so fair, as the daughters of Job, and their father gave them inheritance among their brethren. ^{42:16}After this lived Job forty years, so that he saw his children, his childrens' children to the fourth generation; ^{42:17}And so he died, being old and of a perfect age.

The Psalm of David

The .i. Psalm

¹O Blessed is the man that goeth not in the counsel of the ungodly: that abideth not in the way of sinners, and sitteth not in the seat of the scornful. ²But delighteth in the law of the LORD, and exerciseth himself in his law, both day and night. ³Such a man is like a tree planted by the water side, that bringeth forth his fruit in due season. His leaves shall not fall off, and look whatsoever he doth, it shall prosper. ⁴As for the ungodly, it is not so with them: but they are like the dust, which the wind scattereth away from the ground. ⁵Therefore the ungodly shall not be able to stand in the judgment, neither the sinners in the congregation of the righteous. ⁶For the LORD alloweth the way of the righteous, but the way of the ungodly shall perish.

The .ii. Psalm

for thy possession. ⁹Thou shalt rule them with a rod of iron, and break them in pieces like an earthen vessel. ¹⁰Be wise now therefore, O ye kings, be warned, ye that are judges of the earth. ¹¹Serve the LORD with fear, and rejoice before him with reverence. ¹²Kiss the Son, lest the Lord^d be angry, and so ye perish from the right way. For his wrath shall be kindled shortly: blessed are all they that put their trust in him.

The .iii. Psalm

A Psalm of David when he fled from the face of Absalom.

¹Why are they so many, O LORD, that trouble me? a great multitude are they, that rise against me. ²Yea many one there be that say of my soul: There is no help for him in God. Selah. ³But thou, O LORD, art my defender, my worship, and the lifter up of my head. ⁴I call upon the LORD with my voice, and he heareth me out of his holy hill. Selah. ⁵I laid me down and slept, but I rose up again, for the LORD sustained me. ⁶I am not afraid for thousands of the people, that compass me round about. ⁷Up LORD, and help me, O my God: for thou smitest all mine enemies upon the cheek bones, and breakest the teeth of the ungodly. ⁸Help belongeth unto the LORD, therefore let thy blessing be upon thy people.

The .iv. Psalm

To the Chanter in Neginoth, a Psalm of David

¹Hear me when I call, O God of my righteousness: thou that comfortest me in my trouble: have mercy upon me, and harken unto my prayer. ²O ye sons of men, how long will ye blaspheme mine honour? why have ye such pleasure in vanity, and seek after lies? Selah. ³Know this, that the LORD dealeth marvelously with his saint: and when I call upon the LORD, he heareth me. ⁴Be angry, but sin not: come with your own hearts upon your beds, and remember your selves. Selah. ⁵Offer the sacrifice of righteousness, and put your trust in the LORD. ⁶There be many that say: Who will do us any good? LORD lift up upon^e us the light of thy countenance. ⁷Thou rejoicest mine heart, though their increase be great both in corn and wine. ⁸Therefore will I lay me down in peace, and take my rest: for thou, LORD only settest me in a sure dwelling.

The .v. Psalm

To the Chanter in Nehiloth, a Psalm of David.

¹Hear my words (O LORD) consider my calling. ²O mark the voice of my petition, my King and my God, for unto thee will I make my prayer. ³Hear my voice by times (O LORD) for early in the morning will I get me unto thee, yea and that with diligence. ⁴For thou art not the God that hath pleasure in wickedness, there may no ungodly person dwell with thee. ⁵Such as be cruel may not stand in thy sight, thou art an enemy unto all wicked doers. ⁶Thou destroyest the liars: the LORD abhorreth the bloodthirsty and deceitful. ⁷But as for me, I will come into thy house, even upon the multitude of thy mercy: and in thy fear will I worship toward thy holy temple. ⁸Lead me (O LORD) in thy righteousness because of mine enemies, and make thy way plain before me. ⁹For there is no faithfulness in their mouths: they dissemble in their hearts: their throat is an open sepulchre: with their tongues they deceive. ¹⁰Punish them (O God) that they may perish in their own imaginations: cast them out because of the multitude of their ungodliness, for they rebel against thee. ¹¹Again, let all them that put their trust in thee, rejoice: yea let them ever be giving of thanks, because thou defendest them: that they which love thy name, may be joyful in thee. ¹²For thou LORD givest thy blessing unto the righteous: and with thy favourable kindness thou defendest him, as with a shield.

The .vi. Psalm

To the Chanter in Neginoth upon Shemith, a Psalm of David.

¹Oh LORD, rebuke me not in thine anger: Oh chasten me not in thy heavy displeasure. ²Have mercy upon me (O LORD) for I am weak: O LORD heal me, for all my bones are vexed. ³My soul also is in great trouble, but LORD, how long? ⁴Turn thee (O LORD) and deliver my soul: Oh save me for thy mercies' sake. ⁵For in death no man remembereth thee: Oh who will give thee thanks in the hell? ⁶I am weary of groaning: every night wash I my bed, and water my couch with my tears. ⁷My countenance is changed for very inward grief, I consume away, I have so many enemies. ⁸Away from me all ye wicked doers, for the LORD hath heard the voice of my weeping. ⁹The LORD hath heard my humble petition, the LORD hath received my prayer. ¹⁰All mine enemies shall be confounded and sore vexed: yea they shall be turned back and put to shame, and that right soon.

The .vii. Psalm

Sigaion of David, which he sang for the words of Cus the son of Jemini.

¹O LORD^f my God, in thee do I trust: save me from all them that persecute me, and deliver me. ²Lest he hantche up my soul like a lion, and tear it in pieces, while there is none to help. ³O

LORD my God, if I have done any such thing, if there be any unrighteousness in my hands: ⁴If I have rewarded evil unto them that dealt friendly with me, or hurt them that without any cause are mine enemies: ⁵Then let mine enemy persecute my soul, and take me: yea let him tread my life down in the earth, and lay mine honor in the dust. Selah. ⁶Stand^s up (O LORD) in thy wrath, lift up thyself over the furious indignation of mine enemies: arise up (for me) in the vengeance that thou hast promised. ⁷That the congregation of the people may come about thee, for their sakes therefore lift up thyself again. ⁸The LORD is judge over the people: avenge me then (O LORD) according to my righteousness and innocence. ⁹Oh let the wickedness of the ungodly come to an end: but maintain the just, thou righteous God, that triest the very hearts and reins. ¹⁰My help cometh of God, which preserveth them that are true of heart. ¹¹God is a righteous judge, and God is ever threatening. ¹²If men will not turn, he hath whet his sword: he hath bent his bow and made it ready. ¹³He hath prepared^h him the weapons of death, and ordained his arrows to destroy. ¹⁴Behold, he travaileth with mischief, he hath conceived unhappiness, and brought forth a lie. ¹⁵He hath graven and digged up a pit, but he shall fall himself into the pit that he hath made. ¹⁶For his unhappiness shall come upon his own head, and his wickedness shall fall upon his own pate. ¹⁷As for me, I will give thanks unto the LORD for his righteousness' sake, and will praise the name of the LORD the most highest.ⁱ

David.

¹O LORD^j our governour: how wonderfull is thy name in all the world? how excellent is thy glory above the heavens. ²Out of the mouth of the very babes and sucklings, thou hast ordained^k praise, because of thine enemies, that thou mightest destroy the enemy and the avenger. ³For I consider thy heavens, even the work of thy fingers: the moon and the stars which thou hast made. ⁴Oh what is man, that thou art so mindful of him? either the son of man that thou visitest him? ⁵After thou hadst for a season made him lower than the angels, thou crownest him with honor and glory. ⁶Thou hast set him above the works of thy hands: and thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet. ⁷All sheep and oxen, yea and the beasts of the field. ⁸The fowls of the air, and the fish of the sea, and whatsoever walketh thorow the ways of the sea. ⁹O LORD our governour, how wonderful is thy name in all the world?

Th̄ .ix. Psalm

To the Chanter upon Almuth Laben, a Psalm of David.

¹I will give thanks unto thee (O LORD) with my whole heart, I will speak of all thy marvelous works. ²I will be glad, and rejoice in thee, yea my songs will I make of thy name, O thou most highest.^l ³Because thou hast driven mine enemies aback, they were discomfited, and perished at thy presence. ⁴For thou hast maintained my right and my cause: thou sittest in the throne that art the true judge. ⁵Thou rebukest the heathen, and destroyest the ungodly, thou puttest out their name for ever and ever. ⁶The enemie's swords are come to an end, thou hast overthrown their cities, their memorial is perished with them. ⁷But the LORD endureth for ever, he hath prepared his seat unto judgment. ⁸He governeth the world with righteousness, and ministereth true judgment unto the people. ⁹The LORD is a defense for the poor, a defense in the time of trouble. ¹⁰Therefore they that know thy name, put their trust in thee: for thou (LORD) never failest them that seek thee. ¹¹O praise the LORD, which dwelleth in Sion, shew the people of his doings. ¹²And why? he maketh inquisition for their blood, and remembereth them: he forgetteth not the complaint of the poor. ¹³Have mercy upon me, (O LORD) consider the trouble that I am in among mine enemies, thou that liftest me up from the gates of death. ¹⁴That I may shew all thy praises within the ports of the daughter of Sion, and rejoice in thy saving health. ¹⁵As for the Heathen, they are sunk down in the pit that they made: in the same net which they spread out privily, is their own foot taken. ¹⁶Thus the LORD is known to execute true judgment, when the ungodly is trapped in the works of his own hands. Selah. ¹⁷The wicked must be turned unto hell, and all the Heathen that forget God. ¹⁸But the poor shall not all way be out of remembrance, the patient abiding of such as be in trouble shall not perish for ever. ¹⁹Up LORD, let no man have the upper hand, let the Heathen be condemned before thee. ²⁰O LORD set a school master over them, that the Heathen may know themselves to be but men. Selah.

Th .x. Psalm

¹Why art thou gone so far off, O LORD? whilst thou hide thyself in time of trouble? ²While the ungodly hath the over hand, the poor must suffer persecution: O that they were taken in the imagination which they go about. ³For

the ungodly maketh boast^m of his own heart's desire, the covetous blesseth himself, and blasphemeth the LORD. ⁴The ungodly is so proud and full of indignation, that he careth not: neither is God before his eyes. ⁵His ways are alway filthy, thy judgments are far out of his sight, he defyeth all his enemies. ⁶For he sayeth in his heart: Tush, I shall never be cast down, there shall no harm happen to me. ⁷His mouth is full of cursing, fraud and deceit: under his tongue is travail and sorrow. ⁸He sitteth lurking in the gardens, that he may privily murder the innocent, his eyes are set upon the poor. ⁹He lieth waiting secretly, as it were a lion in his den. He lurketh that he may ravish the poor, yea to ravish the poor when he hath gotten him into his net. ¹⁰Then smiteth he, then oppresseth he and casteth down the poor with his authority. ¹¹For he sayeth in his heart: Tush, God hath forgotten, he hath turned away his face, so that he will never see it. ¹²Arise O LORD God, lift up thine hand and forget not the poor. ¹³Wherefore should the wicked blaspheme God and say in his heart: tush, he careth not for it: ¹⁴This thou seest, for thou considerest the misery and sorrow. The poor giveth himself over in to thy hand, and committeth him unto thee, for thou art the helper of the friendless. ¹⁵Break thou the arm off the ungodly and malicious, search out the wickedness which he hath done, that he may perish. ¹⁶The LORD is King for ever, the Heathen shall perish out of his land. ¹⁷LORD, thou hearest the desirous longing of the poor: their heart is sure, that thine ear hearkeneth thereto. ¹⁸Help the fatherless and the poor unto their right, that the ungodly be no more exalted upon earth.

Th .xi. Psalm

To the Chanter, of David.

¹In the LORD put I my trust: how will ye then say to my soul: that she should flee as a bird upon your hill? ²For lo, the ungodly have bend their bow, and made ready their arrows in the quiver, that they may privily shoot at them, which are true of heart. ³The very foundations have they cast down, what can the righteous then do with all? ⁴But the LORD is in his holy temple, the LORD's seat is in heaven: he considereth with his eyes, his eyelids behold the children of men. ⁵The LORD seeth both the righteous and ungodly, but who so delighteth in wickedness, him his soul abhorreth. ⁶Upon the ungodly he shall rain snares, fire, brimstone, storm and tempest: this reward shall they have to drink. ⁷For the LORD is righteous, and he loveth righteousness: his countenance beholdeth the thing that is just.

The .xii. Psalm

To the Chanter upon Sheminith, a Psalm of David.

¹Help LORD, for there is not one saint more: very few faithful are there among the children of men. ²Every man telleth lies to his neighbour, they do but flatter with their lips and dissemble in their heart. ³O that the LORD would root out all deceitful lips, and the tongue that speaketh proud things. ⁴Which said: our tongue should prevail: we are they that ought to speak, who is lord over us? ⁵Now for the trouble's sake of the oppressed, and because of the complaint of the poor, I will up (sayeth the LORD) I will help them, and set them at rest. ⁶The words of the LORD are pure words: even as the silver, which from the earth is tried and purified seven times in the fire. ⁷Keep them therefore (O LORD) and preserve us from this generation for ever. ⁸And why? when vanity and idleness getteth the overhand among the children of men, all are full of the ungodly.

The .xiii. Psalm

To the chanter, a Psalm of David

¹How long wilt thou forget me, O LORD? for ever? how long wilt thou hide thy face from me? ²Oh how long shall I seek counsel in my soul? how long shall I be so vexed in my heart? how long shall mine enemy triumph over me? ³Consider, and hear me, O LORD my God: lighten mine eyes, that I sleep not in death. ⁴Lest mine enemy say: I have prevailed against him: for if I be cast down, they that trouble me will rejoice at it. ⁵But my trust is in thy mercy, and my heart is joyful in thy saving health. ⁶I will sing of the LORD, that dealeth so lovingly with me. (Yea I will praise the name of the LORD the most highest.)ⁿ

The .xiv. Psalm

To the chanter, a Psalm of David

¹The foolish bodies say in their hearts: Tush, there is no God. They are corrupt, and become abominable in their doings, there is not one that doth good. ²The LORD looked down from heaven upon the children of men, to see if there were any that would understand and seek after God. ³But they are all gone out of the way, they are all together become unprofitable: there is none that doth good, no not one. ⁴How can they have understanding, that work mischief, eating up my people, as it were bread, and call not upon the LORD? ⁵Therefore shall they be brought in great fear, for God standeth by the generation of the righteous. ⁶As for you, ye have made a mock at the counsel of the poor, because he putteth his trust in the LORD. ⁷Oh that the saving health were given unto Israel out of Sion. Oh that the LORD would deliver his people out of captivity.

Then should Jacob rejoice, and Israel should be right glad.

A Psalm of David.

¹LORD,^o who shall dwell in thy tabernacle? who shall rest upon thy holy hill? ²Even he that leadeth an uncorrupt life: that doth the thing which is right, and that speaketh the truth from his heart. ³He that useth no deceit in his tongue: he that doth no evil to his neighbour, and slandereth^p not his neighbours. ⁴He that sitteth not by the ungodly, but maketh much of them that fear the LORD: he that sweareth unto his neighbour, and disappointeth^q him not. ⁵He that giveth not his money upon usury, and taketh no reward against the innocent. Who so doth these things, shall never be removed.

The .xvi. Psalm

Michtam of David

¹Preserve me, (O God) for in thee do I trust. ²I have said unto the LORD: thou art my God, my goods are nothing unto thee. ³All my delight is upon the saints that are in the earth, and upon such like. ⁴But they that run after another, shall have great trouble. Their drink offerings of blood will not I offer, neither make mention of their name in my mouth. ⁵The LORD himself is my good and my portion, thou maintainest mine inheritance. ⁶The lot is fallen unto me in fair ground, yea I have a goodly heritage. ⁷I will thank the LORD for giving me warning: my reins also have chastened me in the night season. ⁸Afore hand saw I GOD alwayes before me, for he is on my right hand, that I should not be moved. ⁹Therefore did my heart rejoice, and my tongue was glad, my flesh also shall rest in hope. ¹⁰For why? thou shalt not leave my soul in hell, neither shalt thou suffer thy saint to see corruption. ¹¹Thou hast shewed me the ways of life: thou shalt make me full of joy with thy countenance. At thy right hand there is pleasure and joy for evermore.

The .xvii. Psalm

A prayer of David.

¹Hear the right (O LORD) consider my complaint: harken to my prayer, that goeth not out of a feigned mouth. ²Let my sentence come forth from thy presence: and look upon the thing that is equal. ³Thou hast proved and visited mine heart in the night season: thou hast tried me in the fire: and hast found no wickedness in me: for I utterly purposed that my mouth should not offend. ⁴Because the words of thy lips, I have kept me from the works of men: in the way of the murderer. ⁵Oh order thou my goings in thy paths: that my footsteps slip not. ⁶For unto thee I cry: hear me O God: incline thine ears unto me: and harken unto my words. ⁷Shew thy marvelous loving-kindness, thou that savest them which put their trust in thee, from such as resist thy right hand. ⁸Keep me as the apple of an eye, defend me under the shadow of thy wings. ⁹From the ungodly that trouble me, from my enemies which compass my soul round about. ¹⁰Which maintain their own wealthiness with oppression, and their mouth speaketh proud things. ¹¹They lie waiting in our way on every side, turning their eyes down to the ground. ¹²Like as a lion that is greedy of his prey, and as it were a lion's whelp lurking in his den. ¹³Up LORD, disappoint^r him and cast him down: deliver my soul with thy sword from the ungodly. ¹⁴From the men of thy hand (O LORD) from the men of the world, which have their portion in this life: whose bellies thou fillest with thy treasure. ¹⁵They have children at their desire, and leave the rest of their substance for their babes. But as for me, I will behold thy presence in righteousness: and when thy glory appeareth, I shall be satisfied.

The .xviii. Psalm

To the chanter of David, servaunt of the LORD, which saide unto the LORD the words of this song, on the day in which the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul, and said:

¹I will love thee, (O LORD) my strength.
²The LORD is my succor, my refuge, my Savior: my God, my helper, in whom I trust: my buckler, the horn of my health, and my protection. ³I will praise the LORD, and call upon him, so shall I be save from mine enemies.
⁴The sorrows of death compassed me, and the brooks of ungodliness made me afraid. ⁵The pains of hell came about me, the snares of death took hold upon me. ⁶Yet in my trouble I called upon the LORD, and complained unto my God. So he heard my voice out of his holy temple, and my complaint came before him, yea even into his ears. ⁷Then the earth trembled and quaked, the very foundations of the hills shook and were removed, because he was wroth. ⁸There went a smoke out of his nostrils, and a consuming fire out of his mouth, so that coals were kindled at it. ⁹He bowed the heavens, and came down, and it was dark under his feet. ¹⁰He rode upon the Cherub, and did fly: he came flying with the wings of the wind. ¹¹He made darkness his pavilion round about him, with dark waters and thick clouds to cover him. ¹²At the brightness of his presence the clouds removed, with hail stones and coals of fire. ¹³The LORD also thundered out of the heaven, and the height gave his thunder with hail stones and coals of fire. ¹⁴He sent out his arrows and scattered them, he cast sore lightnings, and destroyed them. ¹⁵The springs of waters were seen, and the foundations of the round world were discovered at thy chiding (O LORD) at the blasting and breath of thy displeasures. ¹⁶He sent down from the height^s to fetch me, and took me out of great waters. ¹⁷He delivered me from my strong enemies, and from my foes which were to mighty for me. ¹⁸They prevented me in the time of my trouble, but the LORD was my defense. ¹⁹He brought me forth also into liberty: and delivered me, because he had a favor unto me. ²⁰The LORD shall reward me after my righteous dealing, and according to the cleanness of my hands shall he recompense me. ²¹For I have kept the ways of the LORD: and have not behaved myself wickedly against my God. ²²I have an eye unto all his laws, and cast not out his commandments from me. ²³Uncorrupt will I be before him, and will eschew my own wickedness. ²⁴Therefore shall the LORD reward me after my righteous dealing, and according to the cleanness of my hands in his eyesight. ²⁵With the holy thou shalt be holy, and with the innocent thou shalt be innocent. ²⁶With the clean thou shalt be clean, and with the froward thou shalt be froward. ²⁷For thou shalt save the poor oppressed, and bring down the high looks of the proud. ²⁸Thou lightest my candle, O LORD my God: thou makest my darkness to be light. ²⁹For in thee I can discomfot an host of men: yea in my God I can leap over the wall. ³⁰The way of God is a perfect way: the words of the LORD are tried in the fire: he is a shield of defense, for all them that trust in him. ³¹For who is God, but the LORD? Or, who hath any strength, but our God? ³²It is God that hath girded me with strength, and made my way uncorrupt. ³³He hath made my feet like hart's feet, and set me up on high.^t ³⁴He teacheth my hands to fight, and maketh mine arms to break even a bow of steel. ³⁵Thou hast given me the defense of thy health, thy right hand upholdeth me, and thy loving correction maketh me great. ³⁶Thou hast made room enough under me for to go, that my foot steps should not slide. ³⁷I will follow upon mine enemies, and take them: I will not turn till they be discomfited. ³⁸I will smite them, they shall not be able to stand, but fall under my feet. ³⁹Thou hast girded me with strength unto the battle, thou hast thrown them all down under me, that rose up against me. ⁴⁰Thou hast made mine enemies to turn their backs upon me, thou hast destroyed them that hated me. ⁴¹They cried, but there was none to help them: yea even unto the LORD, but he heard them not. ⁴²I will beat them as small as the dust clay in^u the wind, I will cast them out as the clay in the streets. ⁴³Thou shalt deliver me from the strivings of the people, thou shalt make me the head of the Heathen. his anointed, yea and to his seed for evermore.

The .xix. Psalm

To the Chanter, a Psalm of David.

¹The very heavens declare the glory of God, and the very firmament sheweth his handiwork. ²One day telleth another, and one night certifieth another. ³There is neither speech nor language, but their voices are heard among them. ⁴Their sound is gone out into all lands, and their words in to the ends of the world. In them hath he set a tabernacle for the Sun,^v ⁵which cometh forth as a bridegroom out of his chamber, and rejoiceth as a giant to run his course. ⁶It goeth forth from the one end of the heaven, and runneth about unto the same end again, and there may no man hide himself from the heat thereof. ⁷The law of the LORD is a perfect law, it quickeneth the soul. The testimony of the LORD is true, and giveth wisdom even unto babes. ⁸The statutes of the LORD are right, and rejoice the heart: the commandment of the LORD is pure, and giveth light unto the eyes. ⁹The fear of the LORD is clean, and endureth for ever: the judgments of the LORD are true and righteous altogether. ¹⁰More pleasant are they than gold, yea than much fine gold: sweeter than honey and the honeycomb. ¹¹These thy servant keepeth, and for keeping of them there is great reward. ¹²Who can tell, how oft he offendeth? Oh cleanse thou me from my secret faults. ¹³Keep thy servant also from presumptuous sins, lest they get dominion over me: so shall I be undefiled and innocent from the great offense. ¹⁴Yea the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart shall be acceptable unto thee, O LORD, my helper and my redeemer.

To the Chanter, a Psalm of David.

¹The LORD hear thee in the time of trouble, the name of the God of Jacob defend thee. ²Send thee help from the Sanctuary, and strengthen thee out of Sion. ³Remember all thy offerings, and accept thy brent sacrifice. Selah. ⁴Grant thee thy heart's desire, and fulfil all thy mind. ⁵We will rejoice in thy health, and triumph in the name of the LORD our God: the LORD performe all thy petitions. ⁶Now know I, that the LORD helpeth his anointed, and will hear him from his holy heaven: mighty is the help of his right hand. ⁷Some put their trust in chariots, and some in horses: but we will remember the name of the LORD our God. ⁸They are brought down and fallen, but we are risen and stand^w up right. ⁹Save, LORD, and help us, O king, when we call upon thee.

To the Chanter, a Psalm of David

¹LORD,^x how joyful is the king in thy strength? O how exceedingly glad is he of thy saving health? ²Thou hast given him his heart's desire, and hast not put him from the request of his lips. Th .xxii. Psalm

To the Chanter upon Aieleth of the dawning, a Psalm of David.

¹My God, my God: why hast thou forsaken me? the words of my complaint are far from my health. ²O my God, I cry in the daytime, but thou hearest not: and in the night season also I take no rest. ³Yet dwellest thou in the sanctuary, O thou worship of Israel. ⁴Our fathers hoped in thee, they trusted in thee, and thou didst^z deliver them. ⁵They called upon thee, and were helped: they put their trust in thee, and were not confounded. ⁶But as for me, I am a worm and no man: a very scorn of men and the outcast of the people. ⁷All they that see me, laugh me to scorn: they shoot out their lips, and shake their heads. ⁸He trusted in God, let him deliver him: let him help him, if he will have him. ⁹But thou art he that took me out of my mother's womb: thou wast my hope, when I hanged yet upon my mother's breasts. ¹⁰I have been left unto thee ever since I was born, thou art my God, even from my mother's womb. ¹¹O go not far from me then, for trouble is hard at hand, and here is none to help me. ¹²Great bulls are come about me, fat oxen close me in on every side. ¹³They gape upon me with their mouths, as it were a rampaging and roaring lion. ¹⁴I am poured out like water, all my bones are out of joint: my heart in the midst of my body is even like melting wax. ¹⁵My strength is dried up like a potsherd, and my tongue cleaveth to my gums, and thou hast brought me into the dust of death. ¹⁶For dogs are come about me, the counsel of the wicked hath laid siege against me. ¹⁷They pierced my hands and my feet, I might have told all my bones: as for them, they stood staring and looking upon me. ¹⁸They have parted my garments among them, and cast lots upon my vesture. ¹⁹But be not thou far from me, O LORD: thou art my succour, haste thee to help me. ²⁰Deliver my soul from the sword, my dearling from the power of the dog. ²¹Save me from the lion's mouth, and hear me from among the horns of the unicorns. ²²So will I declare thy name unto my brethren, in the midst of the congregation will I praise thee. ²³O praise the LORD ye that fear him: Magnify him all ye seed of Jacob, and let all the seed of Israel fear him. ²⁴For he hath not despised nor abhorred the miserable estate of the poor: he hath not hid his face from me, but when I called unto him, he heard me. ²⁵I will praise thee in the great congregation, and perform my vows in the sight of all them that fear thee. ²⁶The poor shall eat and be satisfied: they that seek after the LORD shall praise him: our heart shall live for ever. ²⁷All the ends of the world shall remember themselves, and be turned unto the LORD: and all the generations of the Heathen shall worship before him. ²⁸For the kingdom is the LORD's, and he shall be the governour of the Heathen. ²⁹All such as be fat upon earth, shall eat also and worship. All they that lie in the dust, and live so hardly, shall fall down before him. ³⁰The seed shall serve him, and preach of the Lord^a forever. ³¹They shall come, and declare his righteousness: unto a people that shall be born, whom the Lord^b hath made.

The .xxiii. Psalm

A Psalm of David.

¹The LORD is my shepherd, I can want nothing. ²He feedeth me in a green pasture, and leadeth me to a fresh water. ³He quickeneth my soul, and bringeth me forth in the way of righteousness for his name's sake. ⁴Though I should walk now in the valley of the shadow of death, yet I fear no evil, for thou art with me: thy staff and thy sheepphook comfort me. ⁵Thou preparest a table before me against mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil, and fillest my cup full. ⁶Oh let thy loving-kindness and mercy follow me all the days of my life, that I may dwell in the house of the LORD for ever.

The .xxiv. Psalm

A Psalm of David.

¹The earth is the LORD's, and all that therein is: the compass of the world, and all that dwell therein. ²For he hath founded it upon the seas, and builded it upon the floods. ³Who shall go up in to the hill of the LORD? Or, who shall remain in his holy place? ⁴Even he that hath innocent hands, and a clean heart: which lifteth not up his mind unto vanity, and swear not to deceive. ⁵He shall receive the blessing from the LORD, and mercy from God his saviour. ⁶This is the generation of them that seek him, of them that seek thy face, O Jacob. The .xxv. Psalm

Of David

¹Unto thee, (O LORD) I lift up my soul. ²My God, I trust in thee: Oh let me not be confounded, lest mine enemies triumph over me. ³For all they that hope in thee shall not be ashamed: but such as be scornful dispisers without a cause, they shall be put to confusion. ⁴Shew me thy ways, O LORD, and teach me thy paths. ⁵Lead me in thy truth, and learn me, for thou art the God of my health, and in thee is my hope all the day long. ⁶Call to remembrance, O LORD, thy tender mercies and thy lovingkindnesses, which have been ever of old. ⁷Oh remember not the sins and offenses of my youth, but according unto thy mercy think upon me, O LORD, for thy goodness. ⁸O how friendly and righteous is the LORD, therefore will he teach sinners in the way. ⁹He leadeth the simple a right, and such as be meek them learneth he his ways. ¹⁰All the ways of the LORD are mercy and faithfulness, unto such as keep his testament and covenant. ¹¹For thy name's sake, O LORD, be merciful unto my sin, for it is great. ¹²Whatsoever he be that feareth the LORD, he shall shew him the way that he hath chosen. ¹³His soul shall dwell at ease, and his seed shall possess the land. ¹⁴The secret of the LORD is among them that fear him, and he sheweth them his covenant. ¹⁵Mine eyes are ever looking unto the LORD, for he shall pluck my feet out of the net. ¹⁶Turn thee unto me and have mercy upon me, for I am desolate and in misery. ¹⁷The sorrows of my heart, are great,

O bring me out of my troubles. ¹⁸Look upon mine adversity and misery, and forgive me all my sins. ¹⁹Consider how mine enemies are many, and bear a malicious hate against me. ²⁰O keep my soul, and deliver me: let me not be confounded, for I have put my trust in thee. ²¹Let innocency and righteous dealing wait upon me, for my hope is in thee. ²²Deliver Israel, O God, out of all his trouble.

Of David

¹Be thou my Judge, O LORD, for I walk innocently: my trust is in the LORD, therefore shall I not fall. ²Examine me, O LORD, and prove me: try out my reins and my heart. ³For thy loving-kindness is before mine eyes, and I walk in thy truth. ⁴I sit not among vain persons, and have no fellowship with the deceitful. ⁵I hate the congregation of the wicked, and will not sit among the ungodly. ⁶I wash my hands with innocency, O LORD, and so go I to thine altar. ⁷That I may shew the voice of thy praise and tell of all thy wonderous works. ⁸LORD, I love the habitation of thy house, and the place where thy honour dwelleth. ⁹O destroy not my soul with the sinners, nor my life with the bloodthirsty. ¹⁰In whose hands is wickedness, and their right hand is full of gifts. ¹¹But as for me, I will walk innocently: O deliver me, and be merciful unto me. ¹²My foot standeth right: I will praise thee (O LORD) in the congregations.

The .xxvii. Psalm

Of David

¹The LORD is my light and my health: whom then should I fear? the LORD is the strength of my life, for whom then should I be afraid? ²Therefore when the wicked, even mine enemies and my foes, came upon me, to eat up my flesh, they stumbled and fell. ³Though an host of men were laid against me, yet shall not my heart be afraid: and though there rose up war against me, yet will I put my trust in him. ⁴One thing have I desired of the LORD, which I will require: namely, that I may dwell in the house of the LORD all the days of my life, to behold the fair beauty of the LORD, and to visit his temple. ⁵For in the time of trouble he hath hid me in his tabernacle, yea in the secret place of his dwelling hath he kept and set me up upon a rock of stone. ⁶And now hath he lift up my head above mine enemies, that compassed me round about. Therefore will I offer in his dwelling, the oblation of thanksgiving: I will ^c sing and speak praises unto the LORD. ⁷Harken unto my voice, O LORD, when I cry unto thee: have mercy upon me, and hear me. ⁸My heart speaketh unto thee, my face seeketh thee, yea LORD, thy face will I seek. ⁹O hide not thou thy face from me, cast not thy servant off in displeasure. Thou art my succour, leave me not, neither forsake me, O God my Saviour. ¹⁰For my father and my mother have forsaken me, but the LORD hath taken me up. ¹¹Shew me thy way, O LORD, and lead me in the right path, because of mine enemies. ¹²Deliver me not into the wiles of mine adversaries, for there are false witnesses risen up against me, and they imagine mischief. ¹³Nevertheless I believe verily to see the goodness of the LORD in the land of the living. ¹⁴O tarry thou the LORD's leisure, be strong, let thine heart be of good comfort, and wait thou still for the LORD.

The .xxviii. Psalm

Of David

¹Unto thee will I cry, O my strong defense: think no scorn of me, lest, if thou make thee as though thou hearest not, I be come like them, that go down into the pit. ²Hear the voice of my humble petition, when I cry unto thee, and hold up my hands toward thy holy temple. ³O pluck me not away among the ungodly and wicked doers, which speak friendly to their neighbours, but imagine mischief in their hearts. ⁴Reward them according to their deeds and wickedness of their own inventions. Recompense them after the works of their hands, pay them that they have deserved. ⁵For they regard not the works of the LORD, nor the operation of his hands: therefore shall he break them down, and not build them up. ⁶Praised be the LORD, for he hath heard the voice of my humble petition. ⁷The LORD is my strength and my shield: my heart hoped in him, and I am helped: therefore my heart danceth for joy, and I will sing praises unto him. ⁸The LORD is the strength of his people, he is the defender and Saviour of his anointed. ⁹O help thy people, give thy blessing unto thine inheritance: feed them, and set them up for ever.

The .xxix. Psalm

A Psalm of David.

¹Ascribe unto the LORD, O ye mighty, ascribe unto the LORD worship and strength. ²Give the LORD the honour of his name, bow yourselves to the holy majesty of the LORD. ³It is the LORD that commandeth the waters: It is the glorious God that maketh the thunder: it is the LORD that ruleth the sea. ⁴The voice of the LORD is mighty in operation, the voice of the LORD is a glorious voice. ⁵The voice of the LORD breaketh the cedar trees: yea the LORD breaketh the Cedars of Lebanon. ⁶He maketh them to skip like a calf: Lebanon and Sirion like a young unicorn. ⁷The voice of the LORD divideth the flames of fire: ⁸the voice of the LORD shaketh the wilderness, yea the LORD shaketh the wilderness of Cades. ⁹The voice of the LORD moveth the hinds and discovereth the thick bushes: in his temple shall every man speak of his honour. ¹⁰The LORD stilleth the water flood, and the LORD remaineth a King for ever. ¹¹The LORD shall give power unto his people, the LORD shall give his people the blessing of peace.

The .xxx. Psalm

A Psalm and song of the dedication of the house, of David.

¹I will magnify thee, O LORD, for thou hast set me up, and not suffered my foes to triumph over me. ²O LORD my God, I cried unto thee, and thou hast healed me. ³Thou LORD hast brought my soul out of hell: thou hast kept my life, where as they go down to the pit. ⁴Sing praises unto the LORD, (O ye saints of his) give thanks unto him for a remembrance of his holiness. ⁵For his wrath endureth but the twinkling of an eye, and his pleasure is in life: heaviness may well endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning. ⁶As for me, when I was in prosperity I said: Tush, I shall never fall more. And why? thou LORD, of thy goodness hadst made my hill so strong. ⁷But as soon as thou turnedest thy face from me, I was brought in fear. ⁸Then cried I unto thee, O LORD, yea unto the LORD made I my prayer. ⁹What profit is there in my blood, if I go down to corruption? May the dust give thanks unto thee? Or shall it declare thy faithfulness? ¹⁰Hear, O LORD, and have mercy upon me: LORD, be thou my helper. ¹¹And so thou hast turned my heaviness into joy: thou hast put off my sackcloth, and girded me with gladness; ¹²That mine honor might sing praises unto thee without ceasing: O LORD my God, I will give thanks unto thee for ever.

The .xxxi. Psalm

¹In thee, O LORD, is my trust: let me never be put to confusion, but deliver me in thy righteousness. ²Bow down thine ear to me, make haste to deliver me: be thou my strong rock, and a house of defense, that thou mayest save me. ³For thou art my stronghold and my castle: O be thou my guide, and lead me for thy name's sake. ⁴Draw me out of the net that they have laid privily for me, for thou art my strength. ⁵In to thy hands I comend my spirit: thou hast delivered me O LORD thou God of truth. ⁶I hate them that hold of vanities, and my trust is in the LORD. ⁷I will be glad and rejoice in thy mercy: for thou hast considered my trouble, thou hast known my soul in adversity; ⁸Thou hast not delivered me over in to the hands of the enemy, but hast set my feet in a large room. ⁹Have mercy upon me, O LORD, for I am in trouble mine eye is consumed for very heaviness, yea my soul and my body. ¹⁰My life is waxen old with heaviness, and my years with mourning. My strength faileth me because of mine adversity, and my bones are corrupt. ¹¹I am become a very reproof among all mine enemies, my neighbours and they of mine own acquaintance are afraid of me: they that see me in the street, convey themselves from me. ¹²I am clean forgotten and out of mind, as a dead man: I am become like a broken vessel. ¹³For I have heard the blasphemy of the multitude: every man abhorreth me: they have gathered a counsel together against me: and are purposed to take away my life. ¹⁴But my hope is in the^d LORD, and I say: thou art my God. ¹⁵My time is in thy hand: deliver me from the hand of mine enemies, and from them that persecute me. ¹⁶Shew thy servant the light of thy countenance, help me for thy mercies' sake. ¹⁷Let me not be confounded, O LORD, for I call upon thee: let the ungodly rather be put to confusion, and brought unto the hell.

¹⁸Let the lying lips be put to silence, which cruelly, disdainfully^e and despitefully speak against the righteous. ¹⁹O how great and manifold is thy good, which thou haste hid for them that fear thee? O what things bringest thou to pass for them, that put their trust in thee, even before the sons of men? ²⁰Thou hidest them privily by thine own presence from the proud men, thou keepest them secretly in thy tabernacle, from the strife of tongues. ²¹Thanks be to the LORD, for he hath shewed me marvelous great kindness in a strong city. ²²For when the sudden fear came upon me, I said: I am cast out of thy sight. Nevertheless, thou heardest mine humble prayer, when I cried unto thee. ²³O love the LORD, (all ye his saints) for the LORD preserveth the faithful, and plenteously rewardeth he the proud doer. ²⁴Be strong therefore and take a good heart unto you, all ye that put your trust in the LORD.

The .xxxii. Psalm

An Instruction of David.

¹Blessed are they, whose unrighteousness is forgiven, and whose sins are covered. ²Blessed is the man, unto whom the LORD imputeth no sin, in whose spirit there is no guile. ³For while I held my tongue, my bones consumed away thorow my daily complainings. ⁴And because thy hand was so heavy on me both day and night, my moisture was like the drought in Summer. Selah. ⁵Therefore I confessed my sin unto thee, and hid not mine unrighteousness. I said: I will knowledge my offense, and accuse my self unto the LORD, and so thou forgavest me the wickedness of my sin. Selah. ⁶For this shall every saint make his prayer unto thee in due season, therefore shall not the great water floods come nigh him. ⁷Thou art my defense in the trouble that is come about me, O compass thou me about also with the joy of deliverance. Selah. ⁸I will enform thee, and shew thee the way wherein thou shalt go: I will fasten mine eyes upon thee. ⁹Be not ye now like horses and mules, which have no understanding. Whose mouths thou must hold with bit and bridle, if they will not obey thee. ¹⁰Great plagues shall the ungodly have, but who so putteth his trust in the LORD, mercy shall compass him on every side. ¹¹Be glad, O ye righteous, and rejoice in the LORD, be joyful all ye that are true of heart.

The .xxxiii. Psalm

¹Rejoice in the LORD, O ye righteous, for it becometh well the just to be thankful. ²Praise the LORD with harp: sing psalms unto him with the lute and instrument of ten strings. ³Sing him a new song, yea sing lustily unto him, and with a good courage. ⁴For the word of the LORD is true, and all his works are faithful. ⁵He loveth mercy and judgment, the earth is full of the goodness of the LORD. ⁶By the word of the LORD were the heavens made, and all the Hosts of them by the breath of his mouth. ⁷He gathereth the waters together as it were in a bottle, and layeth up the deep in secret. ⁸Let all the earth fear the LORD, and let all them that dwell in the world, stand^f in awe of him. ⁹For look what he sayeth, it is done: and look what he commandeth, it standeth fast. ¹⁰The LORD bringeth the counsel of the Heathen to naught, and turneth the devices of the people. ¹¹But the counsel of the LORD endureth, and the thoughts of his heart from generation to generation. ¹²Blessed are the people that hold the LORD for their God, and blessed are the folk whom he hath chosen to be his heritage. ¹³The LORD looketh down from heaven, and beholdeth all the children of men: ¹⁴from his strong seat he considereth all them that dwell in the world. ¹⁵He only hath fashioned all the hearts of them, and knoweth all their works. ¹⁶A king is not helped by his own great host, neither is a giant saved thorow the might of his own strength. ¹⁷A horse is but a vain thing to save a man, it is not the power of his strength that can deliver him. ¹⁸Behold, the eye of the LORD looketh unto them that fear him, and put their trust in his mercy. ¹⁹That he may deliver their souls from death, and to feed them in the deare time. ²⁰Let our soul patiently abide the LORD, for he is our help and shield. ²¹So shall our heart reioice in him, because we have hoped in his holy name. ²²Let thy merciful kindness, O LORD, be upon us, like as we put our trust in thee.

The .xxxv. Psalm

Of David, when he fained him self to be made before Abimelech: which drove him away, and he departed. ¹I will alway give thanks unto the LORD, his praise shall ever be in my mouth. ²My soul shall make her boast in the LORD: the humble^g shall hear thereof, and be glad. ³O praise the LORD with me, and let us magnify his name together. ⁴I sought the LORD, and he heard me, yea he delivered me out of all my fear. ⁵They that have a eye unto him, shall be lightened, and their faces shall not be ashamed. ⁶This poor man cried unto the LORD, and he heard him, yea and delivered him out of all his troubles. ⁷The Angel of the LORD pitcheth his tent round about him^h that fear him, and delivereth them. ⁸O taste and see how friendly the LORD is, blessed is the man that trusteth in him. ⁹O fear the LORD, ye that be his saints: for they that fear him, lack nothing. ¹⁰The rich shall want and suffer hunger, but they which seek the LORD, shall want no manner of thing,

Of David.

¹Strive thou with them, O LORD, that strive with me, fight thou against them that fight against me. ²Lay hand upon the shield and spear, and stand up to help me. ³Draw out thy sword, and stopⁱ the way against them that persecute me, say unto my soul: I am thy help. ⁴Let them be confounded and put to shame, that seek after my soul: let them be turned back and brought to confusion, that imagine mischief for me. ⁵Let them be as the dust before the wind, and the angel of the LORD scattering them. ⁶Let their way be dark and slippery, and the angel of the LORD to persecute them. ⁷For they have privily laid their net to destroy me without cause, yea, and made a pit for my soul, which I never deserved. ⁸Let a sudden destruction come upon him unawares, and the net that he hath laid privily, catch himself, that he may fall into his own mischief. ⁹But let my soul be joyful in the LORD, and rejoice in his help. ¹⁰All my bones shall say: LORD, who is like unto thee? which deliverest the poor from those that are too strong for him, yea, the poor and the needy from his robbers. ¹¹False witnesses are risen up, and lay to my charge things that I know not. ¹²They reward me evil for good, to the great discomforth of my soul. ¹³Nevertheless, when they were sick, I put on a sackcloth: I humbled my soul with fasting, and my prayer returned into mine own bosom. ¹⁴I behaved myself as though it had been my friend or my brother, I went heavily, as one that mourneth for his mother. ¹⁵But in mine adversity they rejoice, and gather them together: Yea, the very lame come together against me unawares, making mowes at me, and cease not. ¹⁶With the greedy and scornful hypocrites, they gnashed upon me with their teeth. ¹⁷Lord,^j when wilt thou look upon this? O restore my soul from the wicked rumour of them, my darling from the lions. ¹⁸So will I give thee thanks in the great congregation, and praise thee among much people. ¹⁹O let them not triumph over me, that are mine enemies for naught: O let them not wink with their eyes, that hate me without a cause. ²⁰And why? their communing^k is not for peace, but they imagine false words against the outcasts of the land. ²¹They gape upon me with their mouths, saying: there there: we see it with our eyes. ²²This thou seest, O LORD: hold not thy tongue then, go not far from me, O

Lord.^l ²³Awake Lord,^m and stand up: avenge thou my cause, my God, and my Lord.ⁿ ²⁴Judge me, O LORD my God, according to thy righteousness, that they triumph not over me. ²⁵O let them not say in their hearts: there there, so would we have it: O let them not say: we have overcome him. ²⁶Let them be put to confusion and shame, that rejoice at my trouble: let them be clothed with rebuke and dishonour, that boast themselves against me. ²⁷Let them also be glad and rejoice, that favour my righteous dealing: yea let them say alway: blessed be the LORD, which hath pleasure in the prosperity of his servant. ²⁸And as for my tongue, it shall be talking of thy righteousness and of thy praise, all the day long.

To the Chanter, of David the servant of the LORD

¹My heart sheweth me the wickedness of the ungodly, that there is no fear of God before his eyes. ²For he dissembleth before his face, so long till his abominable sin be found out. ³The words of his mouth are unrighteousness and deceit, he will not be learned to do good. ⁴He imagineth mischief upon his bed, he will come in no good way, nor refuse the thing that is evil. ⁵Thy mercy, O LORD, reacheth unto the heaven, and thy faithfulness unto the clouds. ⁶Thy righteousness standeth like the strong mountains, and thy judgment like the great deep. Thou LORD preservest both men and beasts. ⁷How precious is thy mercy, O God, that the children of men may put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. ⁸They shall be satisfied with the plenteousness of thy house, and thou shalt give them drink of the river

Th .xxviii. Psalm

A Psalm of David.

¹Fret not thyself at the ungodly, be not thou envious against the evil doers. ²For they shall soon be cut down like the grass, and be withered even as the green herb. ³Put thou thy trust in the LORD, and be doing good: so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily it shall feed thee. ⁴Delight thou in the LORD, and he shall give thee thy heart's desire. ⁵Commit thy way unto the LORD, set thy hope in him, and he shall bring it to pass. ⁶Yea He shall make thy righteousness as clear as the light, and thy just dealing as the noonday. ⁷Hold thee still in the LORD, and abide patiently upon him: but grieve not thyself at one that hath prosperity, and liveth in abomination. ⁸Leave off from wrath, let go displeasure, let not thy jealousy move thee also to do evil. ⁹For wicked doers shall be rooted out, but they that patiently abide the LORD, shall inherit^p the land. ¹⁰Suffer yet a little while, and the ungodly shall be clean gone: thou shalt look after his place, and he shall be away. ¹¹But the meek spirited shall possess the earth, and have pleasure in much rest. ¹²The ungodly layeth wait for the just, and gnasheth upon him with his teeth. ¹³But the Lord^q laugheth him to scorn, for he seeth that his day is coming. ¹⁴The ungodly draw out the sword and bend their bow, to cast down the simple and poor, and to slay such as go the right way. ¹⁵Nevertheless, their sword shall go thorow their own heart, and their bow shall be broken. ¹⁶A small thing that the righteous hath, is better than the great riches of the ungodly. ¹⁷For the arms of the ungodly shall be broken, but the LORD upholdeth the righteous. ¹⁸The LORD knoweth the days of the godly, and their inheritance endureth for ever. ¹⁹They shall not be confounded in the perilous time, and in the days of dearth they shall have enough. ²⁰As for the ungodly, they shall perish: and when the enemies of the LORD are in their flourish,^r they shall consume, yea even as the smoke shall they consume away. ²¹The ungodly borroweth, and payeth not again, but the righteous is merciful and liberal. ²²Such as be blessed of him, shall possess the land: and they whom he curseth, shall be rooted out. ²³The LORD ordereth a good man's going, and hath pleasure in his way. ²⁴Though he fall, he shall not be hurt, for the LORD upholdeth him with his hand. ²⁵I have been young, and now am old: yet saw I never the righteous forsaken, nor his seed to seek their bread. ²⁶The righteous is ever merciful, and lendeth gently, therefore shall his seed be blessed. ²⁷Flee from evil, and do the thing that is good, so shalt thou dwell forever. ²⁸For the LORD loveth the thing that is right, he forsaketh not his saints, but they shall be preserved for evermore: as for the seed of the ungodly, it shall be rooted out. ²⁹Yea, the righteous shall possess the land, and dwell therein for ever. ³⁰The mouth of the righteous is exercised in wisdom, and his tongue talketh of judgment. ³¹The law of his God is in his heart, therefore shall not his footsteps slide. ³²The ungodly seeth the righteous, and goeth about to slay him. ³³But the LORD will not leave him in his hands, nor condemn him when he is judged. ³⁴Hope thou in the LORD, and keep his way. And he shall so promote thee, that thou shalt have the land by inheritance, and see, when the ungodly shall perish. ³⁵I myself have seen the ungodly in great power, and flourishing like a green bay tree: ³⁶but when I went by, lo, he was gone: I sought him, but he could no where be found. ³⁷Keep innocency, and take heed unto the thing that is right, for that shall bring a man peace at the last. ³⁸As for the transgressors, they shall perish together, and the ungodly shall be rooted out at the last. ³⁹The help of the righteous cometh of the LORD, he is their strength in the time of trouble. ⁴⁰The LORD shall stand^s by them, and save them: he shall deliver them from the ungodly, and help them, because they put their trust in him.

Thy .xxviii. Psalm

To the Chanter, to bring to remembrance

¹Put me not to rebuke (Oh LORD) in thy anger: Oh chasten me not in thy heavy displeasure. ²For thine arrows stick fast in me, and thy hand presseth me sore. ³There is no whole part in my body, because of thy displeasure: there is no rest in my bones, by reason of my sins. ⁴For my wickednesses are gone over my head, and are like a sore burthen, too heavy for me to bear. ⁵My wounds stink and are corrupt, thorow my foolishness. ⁶I am brought into so great trouble and misery, that I go mourning all the day long. ⁷For my loins are clean dried up, and there is no whole part in my body. ⁸I am feeble and sore smitten, I roar for the very disquietness of my heart. ⁹Lord,^t thou knowest all my desire, and my groaning is not hid from thee. ¹⁰My heart panteth, my strength hath failed me, and the light of mine eyes is gone from me. ¹¹My lovers and friends stand looking upon my trouble, and my kinsmen are gone afar off. ¹²They that sought after my life, and to do me evil, spake of lies and imagined deceit^u all the day long. ¹³As for me, I was like a deaf man and heard not: as one that were dumb, not opening his mouth. ¹⁴I am become as a man that heareth not: and that can make no resistance with his mouth. ¹⁵For in thee, O LORD, is my trust, thou shalt hear me, O Lord^v my God. ¹⁶My desire is, that mine enemies triumph not over me: for if my foot slip, they rejoyce greatly against me. ¹⁷I am ready to suffer trouble, and my heaviness is ever in my sight. ¹⁸For I confess my wickedness, and my sin grieveth me. ¹⁹But mine enemies live, and are mighty: and they that hate me without a cause, are many in number. ²⁰They that reward me evil for good, speak evil of me, because I follow the thing that good is. ²¹Forsake me not (O LORD my God) O go not far from me. ²²Haste thee to help me, O Lord^w my succour.

Thy .xxix. Psalm

To the Chanter for Iduthun,^x a Psalm of David.

¹I said: I will keep my ways that I offended not in my tongue. And so I shut my mouth, while the ungodly laid wait for me. ²I held my tongue, I was dumb, I kept silence, yea even from good words, but it was pain and grief to me. ³My heart was hot within me, and while I was thus musing, the fire kindled: so that I spake with my tongue: ⁴LORD, let me know mine end, and the number of my days: that I may be certified what I want. ⁵Behold, thou hast made my days a span long, and my life as it were nothing before thee. O how vain are all men living? Selah ⁶Yea every man walketh as it were a shadow, and disquieteth himself in vain: he heapeth up riches, and can not tell to whom he gathereth them. ⁷And now Lord^y wherein shall I comfort me? my hope is in thee. ⁸Deliver me from all mine offenses, and make me not a scorn unto the foolish. ⁹I keep silence, and open not my mouth, for thou hast done it. ¹⁰Turn thy plagues away from me, for I am consumed thorow the fear of thy hand. ¹¹When thou punishest man for sin, thou chastenest him: so that his beauty consumeth away, like as it were a moth. O how vain are all men. Selah. ¹²Hear my prayer O LORD, and consider my calling: shew not thyself as though thou sawest not my tears. For I am a stranger and pilgrim with thee, as all my forefathers were. ¹³Oh spare me a little that I may refresh myself, before I go hence, and be no more seen.

Th .xl. Psalm

To the chanter, a Psalm of David.

¹I waited patiently for the LORD, which inclined^z himself unto me: and heard my calling. ²He brought me out of the horrible pit, out of the mire and clay: he set my feet upon the rock, and ordered my goings. ³He hath put a new song in my mouth, even a thanksgiving unto our God. Many men seeing this, shall fear the LORD, and put their trust in him. ⁴Blessed is the man that setteth his hope in the LORD, and turneth not unto the proud, and to such as go about with lies. ⁵O LORD my God, great are thy wonderful works which thou hast done: and in thy thoughts toward us there may none be likened unto thee. I would declare them, and speak of them: but they are so many, that they can not be told. ⁶Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not have, but a body hast thou ordained me: burnt offering and sacrifice for sin thou hast not allowed. ⁷Then said I: Lo, I come. In the beginning of the book it is written of me, ⁸that I should fulfill thy will O my God, and that am I content to do: yea thy law is within my heart. ⁹I will preach of thy righteousness in the great congregation: Lo, I will not refrained my lips, O LORD, and that thou knowest. ¹⁰I do not hide thy righteousness in my heart, my talking is of thy truth and saving health: I keep not thy loving mercy and faithfulness back from the great congregation. ¹¹Turn not thou thy mercy from me, O LORD, but let thy loving-kindness and truth always preserve me. ¹²For innumerable troubles are come about me: my sins have taken such hold upon me, that I am not able to look up: yea they are more in number than the hairs of my head, and my heart hath failed me. ¹³O LORD, let it be thy pleasure to deliver me, make haste (O LORD) to help me. ¹⁴Let them be ashamed and confounded, that seek after my soul, to destroy it: let them fall backward and be put to confusion, that wish me evil. ¹⁵Let them soon be brought to shame, that cry over me: there there. ¹⁶But let all those that seek thee, be joyful and be glad in thee: and let all such as delight in thy saving health, say alway: The LORD be praised. ¹⁷As for me, I am poor and in misery, but the Lord^a careth for me. Thou art my helper and redeemer, make no long tarrying, O my God.

¹Blessed is he, that considereth the poor: the LORD shall deliver him in the time of trouble. ²The LORD shall preserve him, and keep him alive: he shall make him to prosper upon earth, and shall not deliver him into the will of his enemies. ³The LORD shall refresh him, when he lieth sick upon his bed, yea thou makest his bed in all his sickness. ⁴I said: LORD be merciful unto me, heal my soul, for I have sinned against thee. ⁵Mine enemies speak evil upon me: when shall he die, and his name perish? ⁶Though he came in to see, yet meant he falsity^b in his heart, heaping mischief upon himself. ⁷All they that hate me, run together against me, and imagine evil against me. ⁸They have given a wicked sentence upon me: when he lieth, he shall rise up no more. ⁹Yea even mine own familiar friend, whom I trusted, which did eat my bread, hath lift up his heel against me. ¹⁰But be thou merciful unto me (O LORD) raise thou me up, and I shall reward them. ¹¹By this I know thou favourest me, that my enemy shall not triumph over me. ¹²Thou hast upholden me because of my innocency, and set me before thy face for ever. ¹³O blessed be the LORD God of Israel, from hence forth and for evermore. Amen. Amen.

The .xlii. Psalm

To the Chanter, a monition of the sons of Korah

¹Like as the hart desireth the water brooks, so longeth my soul after thee, O God. ²My soul is a thirst for God, yea even for the living God: when shall I come, and behold the face of God? ³My tears are my meat day and night, while it is daily said unto me: Where is now thy God? ⁴Now when I think there upon, I pour out my heart by myself: for I would fain go hence with the multitude, and pass over with them unto the house of God, in the voice of praise and thanksgiving, among such as keep holy day. ⁵Why art thou so full of heaviness (O my soul) and why art thou so unquiet within me? O put thy trust in God, for I will yet give him thanks, for the help of his countenance. ⁶My God, my soul is vexed within me: therefore I remember the land of Jordan, and the little hill of Hermonim. ⁷One deep calleth another with the voice of thy whistles, all thy waves^c and water floods are gone over me. ⁸The LORD hath promised his loving-kindness daily, therefore will I praise him in the night season, and make my prayer unto the God of my life. ⁹I will say unto God my stony rock; Why hast thou forgotten me? why go I thus heavily, while the enemy oppresseth me? ¹⁰While my bones are broken, and while mine enemies cast me in the teeth, daily saying unto me: Where is now thy God? ¹¹Why art thou so heavy (O my soul) and why art thou so disquieted within me? O put thy trust in God, for I will yet thank him for the help of his countenance, and because he is my God.

The .xliii. Psalm

¹Give sentence upon me (O God) and defend my cause against the unholy people: Oh deliver me from the deceitful, and wicked man. ²For thou (O God) art my strength: why hast thou shot me from thee? Why go I then so heavily, while the enemy oppresseth me? ³Oh send out thy light and thy truth, that they may lead me and bring me unto thy holy hill, and to thy dwelling. ⁴That I may go in to the altar of God, even unto the God which is my joy and pleasure, and upon the harp to give thanks unto thee, O God, my God. ⁵Why art thou so heavy (O my soul) and why art thou so disquieted within me? The .xlv. Psalm

To the Chanter, an instruction of the sons of Korah

¹We have heard with our ears, (O God) our fathers have told us, what thou hast done in their time of old. ²How thou hast driven out the Heathen with thy hand, and planted them in: how thou hast destroyed the nations and cast them out. ³For they gat not the land in possession thorow their own sword, neither was it their own arm that helped them. But thy right hand, thine arm and the light of thy countenance, because thou hadst a favour unto them. ⁴Thou art the King and my God, thou sendest help unto Jacob. ⁵Thorow thee, will we overthrow our enemies: and in thy name will we tread them under, that rise up against us. ⁶For I will not trust in my bow, it is not my sword that shall help me. ⁷But it is thou that savest us from our enemies, and putttest them to confusion that hate us. ⁸We will alway make our boast of God, and praise thy name for ever. Selah. ⁹But now thou forsakest us, and putttest us to confusion, and goest not forth with our Hosts. ¹⁰Thou makest us to turn our backs upon our enemies, so that they which hate us, spoil our goods. ¹¹Thou letttest us be eaten up like sheep, and scatterest us among the Heathen. ¹²Thou sellest thy people for naught, and takest no money for them. ¹³Thou makest us to be rebuked of our neighbours, to be laughed to scorn and had in derision, of them that are round about us. ¹⁴Thou hast made^d us, a very byword among the Heathen, and that the people shake their heads at us. ¹⁵My confusion is daily before me, and the shame of my face covereth me. ¹⁶For the voice of the slanderer^e and blasphemer, for the enemy and avenger. ¹⁷All this is come upon us, and yet have we not forgotten thee, nor behaved our selves unfaithfully in thy covenant. ¹⁸Our heart is not turned back, neither our steps gone out of thy way. ¹⁹For thou hast smitten us in the place of dragons, and covered us with the shadow of death.^f ²⁰If we had forgotten the name of our God, and hold up our hands to any strange God. ²¹Should not God find it out? for he knoweth the very secrets of the heart. ²²But for thy sake we are killed all the day long, and are counted as sheep appointed to be slain. ²³Up Lord,^g why sleepest thou; Awake, and cast us not off for ever. ²⁴Wherefore hidest thou thy face? wilt thou clean forget our misery and oppression? ²⁵For our soul is brought low even unto the dust, and our belly cleaveth unto the ground. ²⁶Arise O Lord,^h help us, and deliver us for thy mercy sake.

¹My heart is inditing of a good matter, I speak of that, which I have made of the king: My tongue is the pen of a ready writer. ²Thou art the fairest among the children of men, full of grace are thy lips, therefore God blesseth thee for ever. ³Gird thee with thy sword upon thy thigh, (O thou mighty) with worship and renown. ⁴Good luck have thou with thine honour, ride on with the truth, meekness and righteousness: and thy right hand shall teach thee wonderful things. ⁵Thy arrows are sharp, the people shall be subdued unto thee, even in the midst among

¹In our troubles and adversity, we have found, that God is our refuge, our strength and help. ²Therefore will we not fear, though the earth fell, and though the hills were carried into the middest of the sea. ³Though the waters of the sea raged and were never so troublous, and though the mountains shook at the tempest of the same. Selah. ⁴For there is a flood, which with his rivers rejoiceth the city of God, the holy dwelling of the most highest. ⁵God is in the middest of her, therefore shall she not be removed: for God helpeth her, and that right early. ⁶The Heathen are mad, the kingdoms make much ado: but when he sheweth his voice, the earth melteth away. ⁷The LORD of Hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our defense. Selah. ⁸O come hither, and behold the works of the LORD, what destructions he hath brought upon the earth. ⁹He hath made wars to cease in all the world: he hath broken the bow, he hath knapped the spear in sunder, and brent the chariots in the fire. ¹⁰Be still then and confess that I am God: I will be exalted among the Heathen, I will be exalted upon earth. ¹¹The LORD of Hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our defense. Selah.

To the Chanter, a Psalm of the children of Korah

¹O clap your hands together (all ye people) O sing unto God with the voice of thanksgiving. ²For the LORD the most highest^j is to be feared, and he is the great King upon all the earth. ³He shall subdue the people under us, and the Heathen under our feet. ⁴He chooseth us for an heritage, the beauty of Jacob whom he loved. Selah. ⁵God is gone up with a merry noise, and the LORD with the sound of the trumpet. ⁶O Sing praises, sing praises unto God: O sing praises, sing praises unto our King. ⁷For God is King of all the earth, O sing praises unto him with understanding. ⁸God is king over the Heathen, God sitteth in his holy seat. ⁹The princes of the people are gathered together unto the God

The .xlviii. Psalm

A song of a Psalm of the children of Korah ¹Great is the LORD, and highly to be praised, in the city of our God, even upon his holy hill. ²The hill of Zion is like a fair plant, whereof all the land rejoiceth: upon the north side lieth the city of the great King. ³God is well known in her palaces, that he is the defense of the same. ⁴For lo, kings are gathered, and gone by together.

⁵They marveled, to see such things: they were astonished, and suddenly cast down. ⁶Fear came there upon them, and sorrow as upon a woman in her travail. ⁷Thou shalt break the ships of the sea, thorow the east wind. ⁸Like as we have heard, so see we in the city of the LORD of Hosts, in the city of our God. God upholdeth the same forever. Selah. ⁹We wait for thy loving-kindness (O God) in the middest of thy temple. ¹⁰O God, according to thy name, so is thy praise unto the world's end: thy right hand is full of righteousness. ¹¹Oh let the mount Zion rejoice, and the daughters of Judah be glad, because of thy judgments. ¹²Walk about Zion, go round about her, and tell her towers. ¹³Mark well her walls, set up her houses, that it may be told them that come after.
¹⁴For this God is our God for ever and ever, and he shall always be our guide.

The .lix. Psalm

To the Chanter, a Psalm of the children of Korah

¹O Hear this, all ye people: ponder it well, all ye that dwell upon the earth.
²High and low, rich and poor, one with another. ³My mouth shall speak of wisdom, and my heart shall muse of understanding. ⁴I will incline mine ear to the parable, and shew my dark speech upon the harp. ⁵Wherefore should I fear the evil days, when the wickedness of my heels compasseth me round about? ⁶They that put their trust in their good, and boast^l themselves in the multitude of their riches. ⁷No man may deliver his brother, nor make agreement unto him for God.^m ⁸For it costeth more to redeem their souls, so that he must let that alone for ever. ⁹Yea, though he live long, and see not the grave.

¹⁰For it shall be seen, that such wise men shall die and perish together, as well as the ignorant and foolish, and leave their goods for other. ¹¹Look what is in their houses, it continueth still: their dwelling places endure from one generation to another, and are called after their own names upon the earth. ¹²Nevertheless man abideth not in such honor, but is compared unto the brute beasts, and becometh like unto them. ¹³This way of theirs is very foolishness, and yet their posterity praise it with their mouth. Selah.
¹⁴They lie in the hell like sheep, death shall gnaw upon them, and the righteous shall have domination of them in the morning by times, their strength shall consume, and hell shall be their dwelling. ¹⁵But God shall deliver my soul from the power of hell, when he receiveth me. Selah. ¹⁶O be not thou afraid, when one is made rich, and the glory of his house increased. ¹⁷For he shall carry nothing away with him when he dieth, neither shall his pomp follow him. ¹⁸While he liveth, he is counted an happy man: and so long as he is in prosperity, men speak good of him. ¹⁹But when he followeth his fathers' generation, he shall never see light any more. ²⁰When a man is in honour and hath no understanding, he is compared unto the brute beasts, and becometh like unto them.

The Psalm of Asaph

¹The LORD even the mighty God hath spoken, and called the world from the rising up of the son unto the going down of the same. ²Out of Zion appeareth the glorious beauty of God. ³Our God shall come, and not keep silence: there goeth before him a consuming fire, and a mighty tempest round about him. ⁴He shall call the heavens from above, and the earth, that he may judge his people. ⁵Gather my saints together unto me, those that set more by the covenant than by any offering. ⁶And the heavens shall declare his righteousness, for God is judge himself. Selah. ⁷Hear, O my people: let me speak, let me testify among you, O Israel: I am God, even thy God. ⁸I reprove thee not because of thy sacrifice, thy burntofferings are always before me. ⁹I will take no bullocks out of thy house, nor goats out of thy folds. ¹⁰For all the beasts of the field are mine, and thousands of cattle upon the hills. ¹¹I know all the fowls upon the mountains, and the wild beasts of the field are in my sight. ¹²If I be hungry, I will not tell thee: for the whole world is mine, and all that therein is. ¹³Thinkest thou, that I will eat the flesh of oxen, or drink the blood of goats? ¹⁴Offer unto God praise and thanksgiving, and pay thy vows unto the most highest. ¹⁵And call upon me in the time of trouble, so will I hear thee, that thou shalt thank me. ¹⁶But unto the ungodly sayeth God: Why doest thou preach my laws, and takest my covenant in thy mouth? ¹⁷Where as thou hatest to be reformed, and castest my words behind thee? ¹⁸If thou seest a thief, thou runnest with him, and art partaker with the advouterers. ¹⁹Thou lettest thy mouth speak wickedness, and thy tongue painteth deceit. ²⁰Thou sittest and speakest against thy brother, yea and slanderestⁿ thine own mother's son. ²¹This thou doest, while I hold my tongue: and thinkest me to be even such one as thyself: but I will reprove thee, and set myself against thee. ²²O consider this, ye that forget God: lest I pluck you away, and there be none to deliver you. ²³Whoso offereth me thanks and praise, he honoureth me: and this is the way, whereby I will shew him the saving health of God.

To the chanter, a Psalm of David, when the Prophet Nathan came unto him, after he was gone in to Bethsabe. ¹Have mercy upon me (O God) after thy goodness, and according unto thy great mercies, do away mine offenses. ²Wash me well from my wickedness, and cleanse me from my sin. ³For I knowledg my faults, and my sin is ever before me. ⁴Against thee only, against thee have I sinned, and done evil in thy sight: that thou mightest be justified in thy sayings, and shouldest overcome when thou art judged. ⁵Behold, I was born in wickedness, and in sin hath my mother conceived me. ⁶But lo, thou hast a pleasure in the truth, and hast shewed me secret wisdom. ⁷O purge^o me with Isope, and I shall be clean: wash thou me, and I shall be whiter than snow. ⁸Oh let me hear of joy and gladness, that the bones which thou hast broken, may rejoice. ⁹Turn thy face from my sins, and put out all my misdeeds. ¹⁰Make me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me. ¹¹Cast me not away from thy presence, and take not thy holy spirit from me. ¹²O give me the comfort of thy help again, and establish me with thy free spirit. ¹³Then shall I teach thy ways unto the wicked, that sinners may be converted unto thee. ¹⁴Deliver me from bloodguiltiness O God, thou that art the God of my health, that my

To the chanter, an exhortation of David when Doeg the Edomite came to Saul, and shewed him, saying: David is come to the house of Abimelech. ¹Why boastest thou thyself, thou Tyrant, that thou canst do mischief? Where as the goodness of God endureth yet daily. ²Thy tongue imagineth wickedness, and with lies it cutteth like a sharp razor.^q ³Thou lovest ungraciousness more than good, to talk of lies more than righteousness. Selah. ⁴Thou lovest to speak all words that may do hurt, O thou false tongue. ⁵Therefore shall God clean destroy thee, smite thee in pieces, pluck thee out of thy dwelling, and root thee out of the land of the living. Selah. ⁶The righteous shall see this, and fear, and laugh him to scorn. ⁷Lo, this is the man, that took not God for his strength, but trusted unto the multitude of his riches, and was mighty in his wickedness. ⁸As for me, I am like a green olive tree in the house of God, my trust is in the tender mercy of God for ever and ever. ⁹I will alway give thanks unto thee, for that thou hast done: and will hope in thy name, for thy saints like it well.

To the chanter in Neginoth, an instruction of David when the Zephites came and said unto Saul: David is hid among us. ¹Help me (O God) for thy name's sake, and deliver me in thy strength. ²Hear my prayer, (O God) consider the words of my mouth. ³For strangers are risen up against me, and the mighty (which have not God before their eyes) seek after my soul. Selah. ⁴But lo, God is my helper: it is he that upholdeth my soul. ⁵He shall reward evil unto mine enemies: and in thy truth shalt thou destroy them. ⁶A free will offering will I give thee, and praise thy name, O LORD, because it is so comfortable. ⁷For thou hast delivered me out of all my trouble, so that mine eye seeth his desire upon mine enemies.

To the chanter in Neginoth, an instruction of David.

¹Hear my prayer, O God, and hide not thyself from my petition. ²Take heed unto me, and hear me, how piteously I mourn and complain. ³The enemy crieth so, and the ungodly cometh on so fast: for they are minded to do me some mischief, so maliciously are they set against me. ⁴My heart is heavy within me, and the fear of death is fallen upon me. ⁵Fearfulness and trembling are come upon me, and an horrible dread hath overwhelmed me. ⁶And I said: O that I had wings like a dove, that I might flee somewhere, and be at rest. ⁷Lo, then would I get me away far off, and remain in the wilderness. Selah. ⁸I would make haste to escape, from the stormy wind and tempest. ⁹Destroy their tongues (O Lord)^s and divide them, for I see unrighteousness and strife in the city. ¹⁰This goeth day and night about the walls, mischief and vice are in the midst of it. ¹¹Wickedness is therein, deceit and guile go not out of her streets. ¹²If it were mine enemy that reviled me, I could bear it: or if one that ought me evil will did threaten me, I would hide myself from him. ¹³But it is thou my companion, my guide and mine own familiar friend. ¹⁴We had sweet and secret communication together ^t in the house of God. ¹⁵Let death come hastily upon them, and let them go down quick into hell, for wickedness is among them in their dwellings. ¹⁶As for me, I will call unto God, and the LORD shall help me. ¹⁷In the evening, morning and at noon day will I mourn and complain: and he shall hear my voice. ¹⁸It is he that delivereth my soul in peace, from them that lay wait for me: for they are many against me. ¹⁹Yea even God that endureth forever, shall hear me, and bring them down, Selah. For they will not turn: and why? they fear not God. ²⁰Yea they lay hands upon such as be at peace with him, and so they break his covenant. ²¹Their mouths are softer than butter, and yet have they battle in their mind: their words are smoother than oil, and yet be they very swords. ²²O cast thy burthen, or care, upon the LORD, he shall nourish thee, and not leave the righteous in unquietness. ²³But as for them, thou (O God) shalt cast ^u down into the pit of destruction. The bloodthirsty and deceitful shall not live out half their days. Nevertheless my trust is in thee.

The .Ivi. Psalm

To the chanter, upon the domme stock downe: which flyeth far off, Michtam of David, when the Philistines took him in Geth. ¹Be merciful unto me (O God) for men will tread me down: they are daily fighting and troubling me. ²Mine enemies tread me daily under their feet, for they be many, that proudly fight against me. ³Nevertheless, when I am afraid, I put my trust in thee. ⁴I will comfort myself in God's word, yea I will hope in God, and not fear: What can flesh then do unto me. ⁵They vex me daily in my words: all that they imagine, is to do me evil. ⁶They hold all together, and keep themselves close: they mark my steps, how they may catch my soul. ⁷But in vain, for it shall escape them: and why? thou (O God) in thy displeasure shall cast down such people. ⁸Thou tellest my flittings, thou puttest my tears in thy bottle, and numberst them. ⁹Whensoever I call upon thee, mine enemies are put to flight: whereby I know that thou art my God. ¹⁰In God's word will I rejoice, in the LORD's word will I comfort me. ¹¹Yea in God do I trust, and am not afraid: what can man then do unto

To the Chanter, destroy not Michtam of David, when he fled from Saul into the cave.

¹Be merciful unto me, O God, be merciful unto me, for my soul trusteth in thee: and under the shadow of thy wings shall be my refuge, until wickedness be overpast. ²I call unto God the most highest, even to the God that shall help me up again. ³He shall send from heaven, and save me from the reproof of him that would swallow me up. Selah. This shall God send, for his mercy and faithfulness' sake. ⁴I lie with my soul among the cruel lions: even among the children of men, whose teeth are spears and arrows, and their tongue a sharp sword. ⁵Set up thyself, O God, above the heavens, and thy glory above all the earth. ⁶They have laid a net for my feet, and pressed down my soul: they have digged a pit before me, and are fallen into it themselves. Selah. ⁷My heart is ready, O God, my heart is ready to sing and give praise. ⁸Awake, O my glory, awake lute and harp, I myself will awake right early. ⁹I will give thanks unto thee, O Lord,^v among the people, I will sing praises unto thee among the Heathen. ¹⁰For the greatness of thy mercy reacheth unto the heavens, and thy faithfulness unto the clouds. ¹¹Set up thyself, O God, above the heavens, and thy glory above all the earth.

To the Chanter Destroy not Michtam of David

¹If your minds be upon righteousness in deed, then judge the thing that is right, O ye sons of men. ²But ye imagine mischief in your hearts, and your hands deal with wickedness. ³The ungodly are froward, even from their mother's womb: as soon as they be born, they go astray and speak lies. ⁴They are as furious as the serpent, even like the deaf Adder that stoppeth her ears. ⁵That she should not hear the voice of the charmer, charm he never so wisely. ⁶Break their teeth (O God) in their mouths, smite the chaff bones of the lions' whelps in sonder, O LORD. ⁷That they may fall away, like water that runneth a pace: and that when they shoot their arrows, they may be broken. ⁸Let them consume away like a snail, and like the untimely fruit of a woman, and let them not see the sunne.^w ⁹Or ever your thorns be sharp, that wrath shall take them away quick, like a stormy wind. ¹⁰The righteous shall rejoice when he seeth the vengeance, and shall wash his feet in the blood of the ungodly. ¹¹So that men shall say, verily there is a reward for the righteous: doubtless, there is a God that judgeth the earth.

Thy .lix. Psalm

To the Chanter, destroy not Michtam of David, when Saul sent to watch the house, to the intent to kill him. ¹Deliver me from mine enemies (O my God) and defend me from them that rise up against me. ²O deliver me from the wicked doers, and save me from the bloodthirsty men. ³For lo, they lie in waiting for my soul: the mighty men are gathered together against me, without any offense or fault of me, O LORD. ⁴They run, and prepare themselves, without my fault: Arise, come thou help me, and behold. ⁵Stand^x up O LORD God of Hosts, thou God of Israel to visit all

The .lxii. Psalm

To the chanter, for by Iduthun a Psalm of David.

¹My soul waiteth only upon God, for of him cometh my help. ²He only is my strength, my salvation, my defense, so that I shall not greatly fall. ³How long will ye imagine mischief against every man? ye shall be slain all of the sort of you: yea as a tottering wall shall ye be, and like a broken hedge. ⁴Their device is only how to put him out, their delight is in lies: they give good words with their mouth, but curse with their heart. Selah. ⁵Nevertheless, my soul abideth only upon God, for he is my God. ⁶He only is my strength, my salvation, my defense: so that I shall not fall. ⁷In God is my health, my glory, my might and in God is my trust. ⁸O put your trust in him alway, (ye people) pour out your hearts before him, for God is our hope. Selah. ⁹As for men they are but vain, men are deceitful: upon the weights they are altogether lighter than vanity it self. ¹⁰O trust not in wrong or robbery, give not yourselves unto vanity: if riches increase, set not your heart upon them. ¹¹God spake once a word, twice have I heard the same, that power belongeth unto God. ¹²That thou Lord^d art merciful, and that thou rewardest every man according to his works.

The .lxiii. Psalm

A Psalm of David, when he was in the wilderness of Juda.

¹O God, thou art my God, early will I seek thee, my soul thirsteth for thee, my flesh longeth after thee in a barren and dry land, where no water is. ²Thus do

I look for thee in thy Sanctuary, that I might behold thy power and glory. ³For thy loving-kindness is better than life, my lips shall praise thee. ⁴As long as I live will I magnify thee and lift up my hands in thy name. ⁵My soul is satisfied even as it were with marry and fatness, when my mouth praiseth thee with joyful lips. ⁶In my bed will I remember thee, and when I wake my talking shall be of thee. ⁷For thou hast been my helper, and under the shadow of thy wings will I rejoice. ⁸My soul hangeth upon thee, thy right hand upholdeth me. ⁹They seek after my soul, but in vain, for they shall go under the earth. ¹⁰They shall fall into the sword, and be a portion for foxes. ¹¹But the king shall rejoice in God: all they that swear by him, shall be commended, for the mouth of liars shall be stopped.

¹Hear my voice, O God, in my complaint, preserve my life from fear of the enemy. ²Hide me from the gathering together of the froward, from the heap of wicked doers. ³Which whet their tongues like a sword, and shoot with venomous words like as with arrows. ⁴That they may privy hurt the innocent, and suddenly hit him without any fear. ⁵They have devised mischief, and communed among themselves, how they may lay snares: tush (say they) Who shall see them? ⁶They imagine wickedness, and keep it secret among themselves, every man in the deep of his heart. ⁷But God shall suddenly shoot with an arrow, that they shall be wounded. ⁸Yea their own tongues shall make them fall, in so much that who so seeth them, shall laugh them to scorn. ⁹And all men that see it, shall say: this hath God done, for they shall perceive that it is his work. ¹⁰The righteous shall rejoice in the LORD, and put his trust in him:

¹Thou, O God, art praised in Sion, and unto thee is the vow performed. ²Thou hearest the prayer, therefore cometh all flesh unto thee. ³Our misdeeds prevail against us, oh be thou merciful unto our sins. ⁴Blessed is the man whom thou choosest and receivest unto thee, that he may dwell in thy court: he shall be satisfied with the pleasures of thy house, even of thy holy temple. ⁵Hear us, according unto thy wonderful righteousness, O God our salvation: thou that art the hope of all the ends of the earth, and of the broad sea. ⁶Which in his strength setteth fast the mountains, and is girded about with power: ⁷Which stilleth the raging of the sea, the roaring of his waves, and the woodness of the people. ⁸They that dwell in the uttermost^e parts are afraid at thy tokens, thou makest both the morning and evening stars to praise thee. ⁹Thou visitest the earth, thou waterest it, and makest it very plenteous. ¹⁰The river of God is full of waters, thou preparest man his corn, and thus thou providest for the earth. ¹¹Thou waterest her furrows, thou breakest the hard clots thereof, thou makest it soft with the drops of rain, and blessest the increase of it. ¹²Thou crownest the year with thy good, and thy footsteps drop fatness. ¹³The dwellings of the wilderness are fat also, that they drop down withal: and the little hills are pleasant on every side. The folds are full of sheep, the valleys stand so thick with corn that they laugh and sing.

The .Irb. Psalm

To the chanter, a Psalm of David.

Selah. ⁵O come hither and behold the works of God, which is so wonderful in his doings among the children of men. ⁶He turned the sea into dry land, so that they went thorow the water on foot: therefore will we rejoice in him. ⁷He ruleth with his power for ever, his eyes behold the people: the runagates shall not be able to exalt themselves. Selah. ⁸O magnify our God, ye people, make the voice of his praise to be heard. ⁹Which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to slip. ¹⁰For thou, O God, hast proved us, thou hast tried us like as silver is tried. ¹¹Thou hast brought us into captivity, and laid trouble upon our loins. ¹²Thou hast suffered men to ride over our heads, we went thorow fire and water, but thou hast brought us out, and refreshed us. ¹³Therefore will I go into thy house with brent offerings, to pay thee my vows, ¹⁴which I promised with my lips, and spake with my mouth, when I was in trouble. ¹⁵I will offer unto thee fat brent sacrifices with the smoke of rams, I will offer bullocks with goats. Selah. ¹⁶O come hither and harken, all ye that fear God, I will tell you, what he hath done for my soul. ¹⁷I called unto him with my mouth, and gave him praises with my tongue. ¹⁸If I incline unto wickedness with my heart, the Lord^f will not hear me. ¹⁹Therefore God hath heard me, and considered the voice of my prayer. ²⁰Praised be God, which hath not cast out my prayer, nor turned his mercy from me.

¹O How loving is God unto Israel, to such as are of a clean heart? ²Nevertheless my feet were almost gone, my treadings had well nigh slipped. ³And why? I was grieved at the wicked, to see the ungodly in such prosperity. ⁴For they are in no peril of death, but stand fast like a palace. ⁵They come in no misfortune like other folk, neither are they plagued like other men. ⁶And this is the cause that they be so puffed^t up in pride, and overwhelmed with cruelty and unrighteousness. ⁷Their eyes swell for fatness, they do even what they list. ⁸Corrupt are they, and speak blasphemies maliciously, proud and presumptuous are their words. ⁹They stretch forth their mouth unto the heaven, and their tongue goeth thorow the world. ¹⁰Therefore fall the people unto them, and there out suck they no small advantage. ¹¹Tush (say they) How should God perceive it? is there knowledge in the most highest? ¹²Lo, these are the ungodly, these prosper in the world, these have riches in possession. ¹³Should I then cleanse my heart in vain, (thought I) and wash my hands in innocency? ¹⁴Wherefore should I be then punished daily, and be chastened every morning? ¹⁵Yea I had almost also said even as they do: but lo, then should I have condemned the generation of thy children. ¹⁶Then thought I to understand this, but it was too hard for me. ¹⁷Until I went into the Sanctuary of God, and considered the end of these men. ¹⁸Namely how thou hast set them in a slippery place, that thou mayest cast them down headlong^u and destroy them. ¹⁹O how suddenly do they consume, perish and come to a fearful end. ²⁰Yea even like as a dream when one awaketh, so makest thou their image to vanish out of the city. ²¹Thus my heart was grieved, and it went even thorow my reins. ²²So foolish was I and ignorant, and as it were a beast before thee. ²³Nevertheless I am always by thee, thou holdest me by my right hand. ²⁴Thou ledest me with thy counsel, and afterward receivest me unto glory. ²⁵O what is there prepared for me in heaven? there is no thing upon earth, that I desire in comparison of thee. ²⁶My flesh and my heart faileth, but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion for ever. ²⁷For lo, they that forsake thee shall perish: thou destroyest all them that commit fornication against thee. ²⁸But it is good for me, to hold me fast by God, to put my trust in the Lord GOD,^v and to speak of all thy works.

An instruction of Asaph

¹O God, wherefore doest thou cast us so clean away? Why is thy wrath so hot against the sheep of thy pasture? ²O think upon thy congregation, whom thou hast purchased from the beginning: the staff of thine inheritance, whom thou hast redeemed, even this hill of Sion wherein thou dwellest. ³Tread upon them with thy feet, and cast them down to the ground, for the enemy hath destroyed alltogether in the Sanctuary. ⁴Thine adversaries roar in thy houses, and set up their banners for tokens. ⁵Men may see the axes glister above, like as those that hewn in the wood. ⁶They cut down all the ceiling work of the Sanctuary with bills and axes. ⁷They have set fire upon the^w Sanctuary, they have defiled the dwelling place of thy name, even to the ground. ⁸Yea they say in their hearts: Let us spoil them all together, thus have they brent up all the houses of God in the land. ⁹We see our tokens no more, there is not one Prophet more, no not one that understandeth anymore. ¹⁰Oh God, how long shall the adversary do this dishonour? How long shall the enemy blaspheme thy name? for ever? ¹¹Why withdrawest thou thy hand? Why pluckest thou not thy right hand out of thy bosom, to consume thy enemies? ¹²But God is my King of old, the help that is done upon earth, he doth it himself. ¹³Thou dividest^x the sea thorow thy power, thou breakest the heads of the dragons in the waters. ¹⁴Thou smitest the heads of Leviathan in pieces, and givest him to be meat for the people in the wilderness. ¹⁵Thou diggest up wells and brooks, thou driest up mighty rivers. ¹⁶The day is thine, the night is thine: thou hast prepared the lights and the sun.^y ¹⁷Thou hast set all the borders of the earth, thou hast made both summer and winter. ¹⁸Remember this, O LORD, how the enemy rebuketh, and how the foolish people blaspheme thy name. ¹⁹O deliver not the soul of thy turtle dove unto the beasts, and forget not the congregation of the poor for ever. ²⁰Look upon the covenant, for the dark houses of the earth are full of wickedness. ²¹O let not the simple go away ashamed: for the poor and needy give praises unto thy name. ²²Arise, O God, and maintain thine own cause, remember how the foolish man blasphemeth thee daily. ²³Forget not the voice of thine enemies, for the presumption of them that hate thee, increaseth ever more and more.

The .Ixxv. Psalm

To the chanter destroy not, a Psalm and song of Asaph.

¹Unto thee, O God, will we give thanks, yea unto thee will we give thanks, and seeing thy name is so nigh, we will tell of thy wonderous works. ²When I may get a convenient time, I shall judge according unto right. ³The earth is weak and all that is therein, but I bear up her pillars. Selah. ⁴I said unto the mad people, deal not so madly and to the ungodly set not up your horns. ⁵Set not up your horns on high,^z and speak not with a stiff neck. ⁶For promotion cometh neither from the East, nor from the West, nor yet from the wilderness. ⁷And why? God is the judge: he putteth down one, and setteth up another. ⁸For in the hand of the LORD there is a cup full of strong wine, and he poureth out of the same. As for the dregs thereof, all the ungodly of the earth shall drink them, and suck them out. ⁹But I will talk of the God of Jacob, and praise him forever. ¹⁰All the horns of the ungodly will I break, and the horns of the righteous shall be exalted.

The .Ixxvi. Psalm

To the chanter, in Neginoth, a Psalm and song of Asaph.

and he heard me. ²In the time of my trouble I sought the Lord,^b I held up mine hands to him in the night season, for my soul refused all other comfort. ³When I was in heaviness, I thought upon God: when my heart was vexed, then did I speak. Selah. ⁴Thou heldest mine eyes waking, I was so feeble, that I could not speak. ⁵Then remember I the times of old, and the years that were past. ⁶I called to remembrance my song in the night, I communed with mine own heart, and sought out my spirit. ⁷Will the Lord^c cast out forever? Will he be no more intreated? ⁸Is his mercy clean gone? Is his promise come utterly to an end for evermore? ⁹Hath the Lord^d forgotten to be gracious? Or, hath he shut up his loving-kindness in displeasure? Selah. ¹⁰At the last, I came to this point, that I thought: O why art thou so foolish? the right hand of the most highest^e can change all. ¹¹Therefore will I remember the works of the LORD, and call to mind thy wonders of old time. ¹²I will speak of all thy works, and my talking shall be of thy doings. ¹³Thy way, O God, is holy: who is so great and mighty as God? ¹⁴Thou art the God that doth wonders, thou hast declared thy power among the people. ¹⁵Thou with thine arm hast delivered thy people, even the sons of Jacob and Joseph. Selah. ¹⁶The waters saw thee, O God, the waters saw thee, and were afraid, the depths were moved. ¹⁷The thick clouds poured out water, the clouds thundered, and thine arrows went abroad. ¹⁸Thy thunder was heard round about, the lightnings shone upon the ground, the earth was moved and shook withall. ¹⁹Thy way is in the sea, and thy paths in the great waters, yet could no man know thy footsteps. ²⁰Thou leadest thy people like a flock of sheep, by the hand of

The .lxxviii. Psalm

¹Hear my law, O my people, incline your ears to the words of my mouth. ²I will open my mouth in parables, and speak of things of old. ³Which we have heard and known, and such as our fathers have told us. ⁴That we should not hide them from the children of the generations to come: but to shew the honour of the LORD, his might and wonderful works that he hath done. ⁵He made a covenant with Jacob, and gave Israel a law, which he commanded our forefathers to teach their children. ⁶That their posterity might know it, and the children which were yet unborn. To the intent that when they came up, they might shew their children the same. ⁷That they also might put their trust in God, and not to forget what he had done, but to keep his commandments. ⁸And not to be as their forefathers, a froward and overthwart generation, a generation that set not their heart a right, and whose spirit was not true toward God. ⁹Like as the children of Ephraim, which being harnessed and carrying bows, turned themselves back in the time of battle. ¹⁰They kept not the covenant of God, and would not walk in his law. ¹¹They forgot what he had done, and the wonderful works that he had shewed for them. ¹²Marvelous things did he in the sight of our^f fathers in the land of Egypt, even in the field of Zoan. ¹³He divided the sea, and let them go thorow it, and made the waters to stand like a wall. ¹⁴In the daytime he led them with a cloud, and all the night thorow with a light of fire. ¹⁵He clave the hard rocks in the wilderness, and gave them drink thereof, as it had been out of the great depth. ¹⁶He brought waters out of the stony rock, so that they gushed out like the rivers. ¹⁷Yet for all this they sinned against him, and provoked the most highest^g in the wilderness. ¹⁸They tempted God in their hearts, and required meat for their lust. ¹⁹For they spake against God, and said: Yea yea, God shall prepare a table in the wilderness, shall he? ²⁰Lo, he smote the stony rock, that the watery streams gushed out, and the streams flowed withal: but how can he give bread and provide flesh for his people? ²¹When the LORD heard this, he was wroth: so the fire was kindled in Jacob, and heavy displeasure against Israel. ²²Because they believed not in God, and put not their trust in his help. ²³So he commanded the clouds above, and opened the doors of heaven. ²⁴He rained down manna upon them for to eat, and give them bread from heaven. ²⁵Then ate they angels' food, for he sent them meat enough. ²⁶He caused the East wind to blow under the heaven, and thorow his power he brought in the south wind. ²⁷He made flesh to rain upon them as thick as dust, and feathered fowls like as the sand of the sea: ²⁸He let it fall among their tents round about their habitations. ²⁹So they ate, and were filled, for he gave them their own desire. ³⁰And they were not disappointed^h of their lust. But while their meat was yet in their mouths: ³¹the heavy wrath of God came upon them, slew the wealthiest of them, and smote down the chosen men of Israel. ³²But for all this they sinned yet more, and believed not his wonderous works. ³³Therefore their days were consumed in vanity, and suddenly their years were gone. ³⁴When he slew them, they sought him, and turned them early unto God. ³⁵They thought then that God was their succour, and that the high God was their redeemer. ³⁶Nevertheless they did but flatter him with their mouths, and dissembled with him in their tongues. ³⁷For their heart was not whole with him, neither continued they in his covenant. ³⁸But he was so merciful, that he forgave their misdeeds, and destroyed them not. Yea, many a time turned he his wrath away, and would not suffer his whole displeasure to arise. ³⁹For he considered that they were but flesh: even a wind that passeth away, and cometh not again. ⁴⁰O how oft have they grieved him in the wilderness? How many a time have they provoked him in the desert? ⁴¹They turned back, and tempted God, and moved the holy one in Israel. ⁴²They thought not of his hand, in the day when he delivered them from the hand of the enemy. ⁴³How he had wrought his miracles in Egypt, and his wonders in the land of Zoan. ⁴⁴How he turned their waters into blood, so that they might not drink of the rivers. ⁴⁵How he sent lice among them, to eat them up, and frogs to destroy them. ⁴⁶How he gave their fruits unto the caterpillar, and their labour unto the grasshopper. ⁴⁷How he beatⁱ down their vineyards with hail stones, and their mulberry trees with the frost. ⁴⁸How he smote their cattle with hail stones, and their flocks with hot thunderbolts. ⁴⁹How he sent upon them the furiousness of his wrath, anger and displeasure: with trouble and falling in of evil angels. ⁵⁰When he made a way to his fearful indignation, and spared not their souls from death, yea and gave their cattle over to the pestilence. ⁵¹When he smote all the firstborn in Egypt, the most principal and mightiest in the dwellings of Ham. ⁵²But as for his own people, he led them forth like sheep, and carried them in the wilderness like a flock. ⁵³He brought them out safely, that they should not fear, and overwhelmed their enemies with the sea. ⁵⁴He carried them unto the borders of his Sanctuary: even in to this hill, which he purchased with his right hand. ⁵⁵He did cast out the Heathen before them, caused their land to be divided among them for an heritage, and made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tents. ⁵⁶For all this they tempted and displeased the most high God, and kept not his covenant. ⁵⁷But turned their backs, and fell away like their forefathers, starting aside like a broken bow. ⁵⁸And so they grieved him with their high places, and provoked him with their images. ⁵⁹When God heard this, he was wroth, and took sore displeasure at Israel. ⁶⁰So that he forsook the Tabernacle in Silo, even his habitation wherein he dwelt among men. ⁶¹He delivered their power into captivity, and their glory into the enemy's hand. ⁶²He gave his people over into the sword, for he was wroth with his heritage. ⁶³The fire consumed their young men, and their maidens were not given to marriage. ⁶⁴Their priests were slain with the sword, and there were no widows to made lamentation. ⁶⁵So the Lord^j awakened as one out of sleep, and like a giant refreshed with wine. ⁶⁶He smote his enemies in the hinder parts, and put them to a perpetual shame. ⁶⁷He refused the Tabernacle of Joseph, and chose not the tribe of Ephraim. ⁶⁸Nevertheless, he chose the tribe of Judah, even the hill of Zion which he loved. ⁶⁹And there he builded his temple on high,^k and laid the foundation of it like the ground, that it might perpetually endure. ⁷⁰He chose David also his servant, and took him away from the sheepfolds. ⁷¹As he was following the ewes great with young, he took him, that he might feed Jacob his people, and Israel his inheritance. ⁷²So he fed them with a faithful and true heart, and ruled them with all the diligence of his power.

A Psalm of Asaph.

¹O God, the Heathen are fallen into thine heritage: the holy temple have they defiled, and made Jerusalem an heap of stones. ²The dead bodies of thy servants have they given unto the fowls of the air to be devoured, and the flesh of thy saints unto the beasts of the land. ³Their blood have they shed like water on every side of Jerusalem, and there was no man to bury them. ⁴We are become an open shame unto our enemies, a very scorn and derision unto them that are round about us. ⁵LORD, how long wilt thou be angry? shall thy jealousy burn like fire for ever? ⁶Pour out thy indignation upon the Heathen that know thee not, and upon the kingdoms that call not upon thy name. ⁷For they have devoured Jacob, and laid waste his dwelling place. ⁸O remember not our old sins, but have mercy upon us, and that soon, for we are come to great misery. ⁹Help us, O God our saviour, for the glory of thy name: O deliver us, and forgive us our sins for thy name's sake. ¹⁰Wherefore shall the Heathen say: Where is now their God? O let the vengeance of thy servant's blood that is shed, be openly shewed upon the Heathen in our sight. ¹¹O let the sorrowful sighing of the prisoners come before thee, and according unto the power of thy arm, preserve those that are appointed to die. ¹²And for the blasphemy wherewith our neighbours have blasphemed thee, reward them, O Lord,^l seven fold into their bosom. ¹³So we that be the people and sheep of thy pasture, shall give thee thanks forever, and will always be shewing forth thy praise more and more.

¹Hear O thou shepherd of Israel, thou that leadest Jacob like a flock of sheep: shew thyself, thou that sittest upon the Cherubins. ²Before Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasses: stir up thy power, and come help us. ³Turn us again, O God, shew the light of thy countenance, and we shall be whole. ⁴O LORD God of Hosts, how long wilt thou be angry over the prayer of thy people? ⁵Thou hast fed them with the bread of tears, yea thou hast given them plenteousness of tears to drink. ⁶Thou hast made us a very strife unto our neighbours, and our enemies laugh us to scorn. ⁷Turn us again, thou God of Hosts, shew the light of thy countenance, and we shall be whole. ⁸Thou hast brought a vineyard out of Egypt, thou didst cast out the Heathen, and plant it. ⁹Thou madest room for it, and caused it to take root, so that it filled the land. ¹⁰The hills were covered with the shadow of it, and so were the strong Cedar trees with the bows thereof. ¹¹She stretched out her branches unto the sea, and her bows unto the water. ¹²Why hast thou then broken down her hedge, that all they which go by, pluck off her grapes? ¹³The wild boar out of the wood hath rooted it up, and the beasts of the field have devoured it. ¹⁴Turn thee again, thou God of Hosts, look down from heaven, behold and visit this vine yard. ¹⁵Maintain it, that thy right hand hath planted, and the son whom thou madest so much of for thyself. ¹⁶For why? it is brent with fire, and lyeth waste: O let them perish at the rebuke of thy wrath. ¹⁷Let thy hand be upon the man of thy right hand, and upon the man whom thou madest so much of for thine own self. ¹⁸And so will not we go back from thee: oh let us live, and we shall call upon thy name. ¹⁹Turn us again, O LORD

To the chanter upon Githith, of Asaph.

¹Sing merrily unto God which is our strength, make a cheerful noise unto the God of Jacob. ²Take the Psalm, bring hither the taboret, the merry harp and lute. ³Blow up the trumpets in the new moon, upon our solempne feast day. ⁴For this is the use in Israel, and a law of the God of Jacob. ⁵This he ordained in Joseph for a testimony, when he came out of Egypt, and had heard a strange language. ⁶When he eased his shoulder from the burthen, and when his hands were delivered from the pots. ⁷When thou calledst upon me in trouble, I helped thee, and heard thee, what time as the storm fell upon thee, I proved thee also at the water of strife. Selah. ⁸Hear, O my people, for I assure thee, O Israel, if thou wilt hearken unto me: ⁹There shall no strange God be in thee, neither shalt thou worship any other God. ¹⁰I am the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, open thy mouth wide, and I shall fill it. ¹¹But my people would not hear my voice, and Israel would not obey me. ¹²So I gave them up unto their own hearts' lust, and let them follow their own imaginations. ¹³O that my people would obey me, for if Israel would walk in my ways: ¹⁴I should soon put down their enemies, and turn my hand against their adversaries. ¹⁵The haters of the LORD should miss Israel, but their time should endure for ever. ¹⁶He should feed them with the finest wheat flour, and satisfy them with honey out of the stony rock.

¹God standeth in the congregation of the Gods,^m and is a Judge among the Judges. ²How long will ye give wrong judgement, and accept the persons of the ungodly? Selah. ³Defend the poor and fatherless, see that such as be in need and necessity have right. ⁴Deliver the outcast and poor, and save him from the hand of the ungodly. ⁵Nevertheless, they will not be learned and understand, but walk on still in darkness: therefore must all the foundations of the land be moved. ⁶I have said: ye are gods, ye all are the children of the most highest.ⁿ ⁷But ye shall die like men, and fall like one of the tyrants. ⁸Arise, O God, and judge thou the earth, for all the Heathen are thine by inheritance.

A song and Psalm of Asaph.

¹Hold not thy tongue, O God, keep not still silence, refrain not thyself O God. ²For lo, thine enemies make a murmuring, and they that hate thee, lift up their head. ³They imagine craftily against thy people, and take counsel^o against thy secret ones. ⁴Come (say they) let us root them out from among the people, that the name of Israel may be put out of remembrance. ⁵For they have cast their heads together with one consent, and are confederate against thee. ⁶The tabernacles of the Edomites, and Ishmaelites, the Moabites, and the Hagarenes. ⁷Gebal, Ammon, and Amalech: the Philistines with them that dwell at Tyre. ⁸Assur also is joined unto them, and help the children of Loth. unto the LORD? ⁷God is greatly to be feared in the council of the saints, and to be had in reverence of all them that are about him. ⁸O LORD God of Hosts, who is like unto thee in power? thy truth is round about thee. ⁹Thou rulest the pride of the sea, thou fillest the waves thereof, when they arise. ¹⁰Thou breakest the proud, like one that is wounded, thou scatterest thine enemies abroad with thy mighty arm. ¹¹The heavens are thine, the earth is thine: thou hast laid the foundation of the round world and all that therein is. ¹²Thou hast made the north and the south, Tabor and Hermon shall rejoice in thy name. ¹³Thou hast a mighty arm, strong is thy hand, and high is thy right hand. ¹⁴Righteousness and equity is the habitation of thy seat, mercy and truth go before thy face. ¹⁵Blessed is the people, O LORD, that can rejoice in thee, and walketh in the light of thy countenance. ¹⁶Their delight is in thy name all the day long, and thorow thy righteousness they shall be exalted. ¹⁷For thou art the glory of their strength, and thorow thy favour shalt thou lift up our horns. ¹⁸The LORD is our defence, and the holy one of Israel is our king. ¹⁹Thou spakest sometime in visions unto thy saints, and saidst: I have laid help upon one that is mighty, I have exalted one chosen out of the people. ²⁰I have found David my servant, with my holy oil have I anointed him. ²¹My hand shall hold him fast, and mine arm shall strengthen him. ²²The enemy shall not overcome him, and the son of wickedness shall not hurt him. ²³I shall smite down his foes before his face, and plague them that hate him. ²⁴My truth also my mercy shall be with him, and in my name shall his horn be exalted. ²⁵I will set his hand in the sea, and his right hand in the floods. ²⁶He shall call me: Thou art my father, my God, and the strength of my salvation. ²⁷And I will make him my firstborn, higher than the kings of the earth. ²⁸My mercy will I keep for him for evermore, and my covenant shall stand fast with him. ²⁹His seed will I make to endure for ever, yea and his throne as the days of heaven. ³⁰But if his children forsake my law, and walk not in my judgements. ³¹If they break mine ordinances, and keep not my commandments. ³²I will visit their offenses with the rod, and their sins with scourges. ³³Nevertheless, my loving-kindness will I not utterly take from him, nor suffer my truth to fail. ³⁴My covenant will I not break, nor disannull the thing that is gone out of my lips. ³⁵I have sworn once by my holiness, that I will not fail David. ³⁶His seed shall endure forever, and his seat also like as the sun^e before me. ³⁷He shall stand fast for evermore as the moon, and as the faithful witness in heaven. Selah. ³⁸But now thou forsakest and abhorrest thine annointed, and art displeased at him. ³⁹Thou hast turned back the covenant of thy servant, and cast his crown to the ground. ⁴⁰Thou hast overthrown all his hedges, and broken down his strongholds. ⁴¹All they that go by, spoil him, he is become a rebuke to his neighbours. ⁴²Thou settest up the right hand of his enemies, and makest all his adversaries to rejoice. ⁴³Thou hast taken away the strength of his sword, and givest him not victory in the battle. ⁴⁴Thou hast put out his glory, and cast his Throne down to the ground. ⁴⁵The days of his youth hast thou shortened, and covered him with dishonour. Selah. ⁴⁶LORD, how long wilt thou hide thyself? for ever? shall thy wrath burn like fire? ⁴⁷O remember how short my time is, hast thou made all men for naught? ⁴⁸What man is he that liveth, and shall not see death? The .xc. Psalm

A prayer of Moses the man of God

 eration to another. ²Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever the earth and the world were made, thou art God from everlasting and world without end. ³Thou turnest man to destruction; Again, thou sayest: come again ye children of men. ⁴For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday that is past, and like as it were a night watch. ⁵As soon as thou scatterest them, they are even as asleep, and fade away suddenly like the grass. ⁶In the morning it is green and groweth up, but in the evening it is cut down and withered. ⁷For we consume away in thy displeasure, and are afraid at thy wrathful indignation. ⁸Thou settest our misdeeds before thee, and our secret sins in the light of thy countenance. ⁹For when thou art angry, all our days are gone, we bring our years to an end, as it were a tale that is told. ¹⁰The days of our age are threescore years and ten: and though men be so strong that they come to fourscore years, yet is their strength then but labour and sorrow: so soon passeth it away, and we are gone. ¹¹But who regardeth the power of thy wrath, thy fearful and terrible displeasure. ¹²O teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom. ¹³Turn thee again (O LORD) at the last, and be gracious unto thy servants. ¹⁴O satisfy us with thy mercy, and that soon: so shall we rejoice and be glad all the days of our life. ¹⁵Comfort us again, now after the time that thou hast plagued us, and for the years wherein we have suffered adversity.

¹⁶Shew thy servants thy work, and their children thy glory. ¹⁷And the glorious majesty of the LORD our God be upon us: O prosper thou the work of our hands upon us. O prosper thou our handy work.

¹Who so dwelleth under the defense of the most highest, and abideth under the shadow of the Almighty. ²He shall say unto the LORD: O my hope, and my stronghold, my God, in whom I will trust. ³For he shall deliver thee from the snare of the hunter, and from the noisome pestilence. ⁴He shall cover thee under his wings, that thou mayest be safe under his feathers: his faithfulness and truth shall be thy shield and buckler. ⁵So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night, nor for arrow that flieth by day. ⁶For the pestilence that creepeth in the darkness, nor for the sickness that destroyeth in the noonday. ⁷A thousand shall fall beside thee, and ten thousand at thy right hand, but it shall not come nigh thee. ⁸Yea with thine eyes shalt thou behold, and see the reward of the ungodly. ⁹For thou LORD art my hope, thou hast set thine house of defense very high.¹ ¹⁰There shall no evil happen unto thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. ¹¹For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. ¹²They shall bear thee in The .xcii. Psalm

A Psalm of the song for the Sabbath day.

¹It is a good thing to give thanks unto the LORD, and to sing praises unto thy name, O most highest. ²To tell of thy loving-kindness early in the morning, and of thy truth in the night season. ³Upon an instrument of ten strings, upon the lute and with a song upon the harp. ⁴For thou LORD hast made me glad thorow thy works, and I will rejoice over the operation of thy hands. ⁵O LORD, how glorious are thy works, thy thoughts are very deep. ⁶An unwise man will not know this, and a fool will not understand it. ⁷That the ungodly are green as grass, and that all the works of wickedness do flourish to be destroyed for ever. ⁸But thou LORD O most highest,^m abidest world without end. ⁹For, lo, thine enemies, O LORD, lo, thine enemies shall perish, and all the workers of wickedness shall be scattered abroad. ¹⁰But my horn shall be exalted like the horn of an Unicorn, and shall be anointed with fresh oil. ¹¹Mine eye also shall see his lust of mine enemies, and mine ear shall hear his desire of the wicked that rise up against me. ¹²The righteous shall flourish like a palm tree, and grow like a Cedar of Lebanon. ¹³Such as be planted in the house of the LORD, be fruitful, plenteous and green. ¹⁴(They shall also bring forth more fruit in their age, and shall be fat and well liking.) ¹⁵That they may shew, how true the LORD my strength is, and that there is no unrighteousness in him.

The .xciii. Psalm

¹The LORD is king, and hath put on glorious apparel, the LORD hath put on his apparel, and girded himself with strength: he hath made the round world so sure, that it can not be moved. ²From the time forth hath thy seat been prepared, thou art from everlasting. ³The floods arise (O LORD) the floods lift up their noise, the floods lift up their waves. ⁴The waves of the sea are mighty, and rage horribly: but yet the LORD that dwelleth on high,ⁿ is mightier. ⁵Thy testimonies, O LORD, are very sure, holiness becometh thine house for ever.

The .xciv. Psalm

¹O LORD God, to whom vengeance belongeth: thou God to whom vengeance belongeth, shew thyself. ²Arise thou judge of the world, and reward to the proud after their deserving. ³LORD, how long shall the ungodly, how long shall the ungodly triumph? ⁴How long shall all wicked doers speak so disdainfully,^o and make such proud boasting? ⁵They smite down thy people, O LORD, and trouble thine heritage. ⁶They murder^p the widow and the stranger, and put the fatherless to death. ⁷And yet they say: Tush, the LORD seeth not, the God of Jacob regardeth it not. ⁸Take heed, ye unwise among the people: O ye fools, when will ye understand? ⁹He that planted the ear, shall he not hear? he that made the eye, shall he not see? ¹⁰He that nurtureth the Heathen, and teacheth a man knowledge, shall not he punish?

¹¹The LORD knoweth the thoughts of men, that they are but vain. ¹²Blessed is the man, whom thou learnest, (O LORD) and teachest him in thy law. ¹³That thou mayest give him patience in time of adversity, until the pit be digged up for the ungodly. ¹⁴For the LORD will not fail his people, neither will he forsake his inheritance. ¹⁵And why? judgment shall be turned again unto righteousness, and all such as be true of heart shall follow it. ¹⁶Who riseth up with me against the wicked? who taketh my part against the evil doers? ¹⁷If the LORD had not helped me, my soul had almost been put to silence. ¹⁸When I said: My foot hath slipped, thy mercy (O LORD) held me up. ¹⁹In the multitude of the sorrows that I had in my heart, thy comforts have refreshed my soul. ²⁰Wilt thou have anything to do with the stool of wickedness, which imagineth mischief in the law? ²¹They gather them together against the soul of the righteous, and condemn the innocent blood. ²²But the LORD is my refuge, my God is the strength of my confidence. ²³He shall recompense them their wickedness, and destroy them in their own malice: yea the LORD our God shall destroy them.

The .xcv. Psalm

An exhortation to the earnest praising of God.

¹O COME let us praise the LORD, let us heartily rejoice in the strength of our salvation. ²Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving, and shew ourself glad in him with Psalms. ³For the LORD is a great God, and a great King above all gods.⁴ ⁴In his hand are all the corners of the earth, and the strength of the hills is his also. ⁵The sea is his, for he made it, and his hands prepared the dry land. ⁶O come, let us worship and bow down ourselves: Let us kneel before the LORD our maker. ⁷For he is our God: and ^r we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hands. ⁸Today if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as when ye provoked in the time of temptation in the wilderness. ⁹Where your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my works. ¹⁰Forty years long was I grieved with that generation, and said: they ever err in their hearts, they verily have not known my ways. ¹¹Therefore I said^s unto them in my wrath, that they should not enter into my rest.

The .xcvi. Psalm

¹O sing unto the LORD a new song, sing unto the LORD all the whole earth. ²Sing unto the LORD, and praise his name, be telling of his salvation from day to day. ³Declare his honour among the Heathen, and his wonders among all people. ⁴For the LORD is great, and can not worthily be praised: he is more to be feared than all gods. ⁵As for all the gods of the Heathen, they be but Idols, but it is the LORD that made the heavens. ⁶Thanksgiving and worship are before him, power and honour are in his Sanctuary. ⁷Ascribe unto the LORD (O ye kindreds of the Heathen) ascribe unto the LORD worship and strength. ⁸Ascribe unto the LORD the honour of his name, bring presents, and come into his court. ⁹O worship the LORD in the beauty of holiness, let the whole earth stand in awe of him. ¹⁰Tell it out among the Heathen, that the LORD is king: and that it is he, which hath made the round world so fast, that it can not be moved, and how that he shall judge the people righteously. ¹¹Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad: let the sea make a noise, yea and all that therein is. ¹²Let the field be joyful, and all that is in it,

The .xcvii. Psalm

¹The LORD is king, the earth may be glad thereof: yea the multitude of the Isles may be glad thereof. ²Clouds and darkness are round about him, righteousness and judgment are the habitation of his seat. ³There goeth a fire before him, to burn up his enemies on every side. ⁴His lightnings give shine unto the world, the earth seeth it and is afraid. ⁵The hills melt like wax at the presence of the LORD, at the presence of the Lord^t of the whole earth. ⁶The very heavens declare his righteousness, and all people see his glory. ⁷Confounded be all they that worship images, and delight in their Idols: worship him all ye gods. ⁸Sion heareth of it and rejoiceth: yea and the daughters of Judah are glad because of thy judgments, O LORD. ⁹For thou LORD art the most highest^u over all the earth, thou art exalted far above all gods. ¹⁰O ye that love the LORD, see that ye hate the thing which is evil: the LORD preserveth the souls of his saints, he shall deliver them from the hand of the ungodly. ¹¹There is sprung up a light for the righteous, and a joyful gladness for such as be true hearted. ¹²Rejoice therefore in the LORD, ye righteous: and give thanks for a remembrance of his holiness.

The .xcviii. Psalm

¹O sing unto the LORD a new song, for he hath done marvelous things. With his own right hand and with his holy arm hath he gotten the victory. ²The LORD hath declared his saving health, and his righteousness hath he openly shewed in the sight of the Heathen. ³He hath remembered his mercy and truth toward the house of Israel: so that all the ends of the world see the saving health of our God. ⁴Shew your self joyful unto the LORD all ye lands, sing, rejoice, and give thanks. ⁵Praise the LORD upon the harp, sing to the harp with a psalm of thanksgiving. ⁶With trumpets also and shawmes: O shew yourselves joyful before the LORD the King. ⁷Let the sea make a noise and all that therein is, yea the whole world, and all that dwell therein. ⁸Let the floods clap their hands, and let all the hills be joyful together: ⁹Before the LORD, for he is come to judge the earth. Yea with righteousness shall he judge the world, and the people with equity.

The .xcix. Psalm

¹The LORD is king, be the people never so impatient: he sitteth upon the Cherubins, be the earth never so unquiet. ²The LORD is great in Sion, and high above all people. ³O let men give thanks unto thy great and wonderful name, for it is holy. ⁴The king's power loveth judgment, thou preparest equity, thou executest judgment and righteousness in Jacob. ⁵O magnify the LORD our God, fall down before his footstool, for he is holy. ⁶Moses and Aaron among his priests, and Samuel among such as call upon his name: these called upon the LORD, and he heard them. ⁷He spake unto them out of the cloudy pillar, for they kept his testimonies, and the law that he gave them. ⁸Thou heardest them (O LORD our God) thou forgavest them O God, and punishedst their own inventions. ⁹O magnify the LORD our God, and worship him upon his holy hill, for the LORD our God is holy.

¹O be joyful in GOD (all ye lands). ²And serve the LORD with gladness, come before his presence with joy. ³Be ye sure, that the LORD he is God: It is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves: we are but his people, and the sheep of his pasture. ⁴O go your way into his gates then with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise, be thankful unto him, and speak good of his name. ⁵For the LORD is gracious, his mercy is everlasting, and his truth endureth from generation to generation.

Thy .ci. Psalm

¹My song shall be of mercy and judgment, yea unto thee (O LORD) will I sing. ²Oh let me have understanding in the ways of Godliness, until the time that thou come unto me: and so shall I walk in my house with an innocent heart. ³I will take no wicked thing in hand, I hate the sin of unfaithfulness, it shall not cleave unto me. ⁴A froward heart shall depart from me I will not know a wicked person. ⁵Who so privily slandereth^v his neighbour, him will I destroy: who so hath a proud look and an high^w stomach, I may not away with him. ⁶Mine eyes shall look for such as be faithful in the land, that they may dwell with me: and who so leadeth a godly life, shall be my servant. ⁷There shall no deceitful person dwell in my house, he that telleth lies shall not tarry in my sight. ⁸I shall soon destroy all the ungodly of the land, that all wicked doers may be rooted out of the city of the LORD.

Thy .cii. Psalm

A prayer of the afflicted, when he was in woe, and poured out his complaint before the LORD.

¹Hear my prayer, O LORD, and let my crying come unto thee. ²Hide not thy face from me in the time of my trouble incline thine ears unto me when I call, O hear me and that right soon. ³For my days are consumed away like smoke, and my bones are brent up as it were a fire brand. ⁴My heart is smitten down and withered like grass, so that I forget to eat my bread. ⁵For the voice of my groaning, my bone will scarce cleave to my flesh. ⁶I am become like a pelican in the wilderness, and like an owl in a broken wall. ⁷I wake, and am even as it were a sparrow sitting alone upon the house top. ⁸Mine enemies revile me all the day long, they laugh me to scorn, and are sworn together against me. ⁹I eat ashes with my bread, and mingle my drink with weeping; ¹⁰And that because of thine indignation and wrath, for thou hast taken me up, and cast me away. ¹¹My days are gone like a shadow, and I am withered like grass. ¹²But thou, O LORD, endurest for ever, and thy remembrance thorowout all generations. ¹³Arise therefore and have mercy upon Sion, for it is time to have mercy upon her, yea, the time is come. ¹⁴And why? thy servants have a love to her stones, and it pitieth them to see her in the dust. ¹⁵The Heathen shall fear thy name, O LORD, and all the kings of the earth thy majesty. ¹⁶For the LORD shall build up Sion, and shall appear in his glory. ¹⁷He turneth him to the prayer of the poor destitute, and despiseth not their desire. ¹⁸This shall be written for those that come after, that the people which shall be born, may praise the LORD. ¹⁹For he looketh down from his Sanctuary, out of the heaven doth the LORD behold the earth. ²⁰That he may hear the mournings of such as be in captivity, and deliver the children of death. ²¹That they may preach the name of the LORD in Sion, and his worship at Jerusalem. ²²When the people are gathered together, and

²³He hath brought down my strength in my journey, and shortened my days.
²⁴Yet will I say: O my God, take me not away in the midst of my age: as for thy years, they endure throwout all generations. ²⁵Thou LORD in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth, and the heavens are the works of thy hands. ²⁶They shall perish, but thou shalt endure: they all shall wax old as doth a garment, and as a vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall be changed. ²⁷But thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail. ²⁸The children of thy servants shall continue, and their seed shall prosper in thy sight.

Of David.

¹Praise the LORD, O my soul, and all that is within me praise his holy name.
²Praise the LORD, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits. ³Which forgiveth all thy sins, and healeth all thy infirmities. ⁴Which saveth thy life from destruction, and crowneth thee with mercy, and loving-kindness.
⁵Which satisfieth thy desire with good things, making thee young and lusty as an Aegle. ⁶The LORD executeth righteousness and judgment, for all them that suffer wrong. ⁷He shewed his ways unto Moses, and his works unto the children of Israel. ⁸The LORD is full of compassion and mercy, longsuffering, and of great goodness.
⁹He will not alway be chiding, neither will he keep his anger forever.
¹⁰He hath not dealt with us after our sins, nor rewarded us according to our wickedness. ¹¹For look how high^x the heaven is in comparison of the earth, so great is his mercy also toward them that fear him. ¹²Look how wide the east is from the west, so far hath he set our sins from us. ¹³Yea like as a father pitieth his own children, even so is the LORD merciful unto them that fear him. ¹⁴For he knoweth whereof we be made, he remembereth that we are but dust. ¹⁵That a man in his time is but as grass, and flourisheth as a flower of the field. ¹⁶For as soon as the wind goeth over it, it is gone, and the place thereof knoweth it no more. ¹⁷But the merciful goodness of the LORD endureth for ever and ever, upon them that fear him, and his righteousness upon their children's children. ¹⁸Such as keep his covenant, and think upon his commandments to do them. ¹⁹The LORD hath prepared his seat in heaven, and his kingdom ruleth over all. ²⁰O praise the LORD ye angels of his, ye that be mighty in strength, fulfilling his commandment that men may hear the voice of his words. ²¹O praise the LORD all ye his Hosts, ye servants of his, that do his pleasure. ²²O speak good of the LORD all ye works of his, in every place of his dominion: praise thou the LORD,

The .civ. Psalm

thine hand, they are filled with good. ²⁹But when thou hidest thy face, they are sorrowful: if thou takest away their breath, they die, and are turned again to their dust. ³⁰Again, when thou lettest thy breath go forth, they are made, and so thou renewest the face of the earth. ³¹The glorious majesty of the LORD endureth for ever, and the LORD rejoiceth in his works. ³²The earth trembleth at the look of him, he doth but touch the hills and they smoke. ³³I will sing unto the LORD as long as I live, I will praise my God while I have my being. ³⁴O that my words might please him, for my joy is in the LORD. ³⁵As for the sinners, they shall be consumed out of the earth, and the ungodly shall come to an end: but praise thou the LORD, O my soul. innumerable. ³⁵These ate up all the grass in their land, and devoured the fruits of their ground. ³⁶He smote all the firstborn in their land, even the chief of all their substance. ³⁷He brought them forth with silver and gold, there was not one feeble person among their tribes. ³⁸Egypt was glad of their departing: for they were afraid of them. ³⁹He spread out a cloud to be a covering, and fire to give light in the night season. ⁴⁰At their desire, there came quails, and he filled them with the bread of heaven. ⁴¹He opened the rock of stone, and the waters flowed out: so that rivers ran in the wilderness: ⁴²For why? The .cvi. Psalm

Praise the everlasting.^f

¹O give thanks unto the LORD, for he is gracious, and his mercy endureth for ever. ²Who can express the noble acts of the LORD, or shew forth all his praise? ³Blessed are they that alway keep judgment, and do righteousness. ⁴Remember us, O LORD, according to the favour that thou bearest unto thy people: O visit us with thy saving health. ⁵That we might see the pleasure of thy chosen, that we might rejoice in the gladness of thy people, and give thanks with thine inheritance. ⁶We have sinned with our fathers, we have done amiss, we have dealt wickedly. ⁷Our fathers regarded not thy wonders in Egypt, they kept not thy great goodness in remembrance: but were disobedient at the sea,^g even at the reed sea.^h ⁸Nevertheless, he helped them for his name's sake, that he might make his power to be known. ⁹He rebuked the reed sea,ⁱ and it was dried up: so he led them thorow the deep as in a wilderness. ¹⁰Thus he saved them from the hand of the hater, and delivered them from the hand of the enemy. ¹¹As for those that troubled them, the waters overwhelmed them, there was not one of them left. ¹²Then believed they in his word, and sang praise unto him. ¹³But within a while they forgot his works, and would not abide his counsel. ¹⁴A lust came upon them in the wilderness, so that they tempted God in the desert. ¹⁵Yet he gave them their desire, and sent them enough at their wiles. ¹⁶They angered Moses in the tents, and Aaron the saint of the LORD. ¹⁷So the earth opened and swallowed up Dathan, and covered the congregation of Abiram. ¹⁸The fire was kindled in their company, the flame brent up the ungodly. ¹⁹They made a calf in Horeb, and worshipped the molten image. ²⁰Thus they turned their^j glory into the similitude of a calf, that eateth hay. ²¹They forgot God their Savior, which had done so great things in Egypt. ²²wonderous works in the land of Ham, and fearful things in the reed sea. ²³So he said he would have destroyed them, had not Moses his chosen stood before him in that gap: to turn away his wrathful indignation, lest he should destroy them. ²⁴Yea they thought scorn of that pleasant land, and gave no credence unto his word. ²⁵But murmured in their tents, and hearkened not unto the voice of the LORD. ²⁶Then lift he up his hand against them, to overthrow them in the wilderness. ²⁷To cast out their seed among the nations, and to scatter them in the lands. ²⁸They joined themselves unto Baal Peor, and ate the offering of the dead. ²⁹Thus they provoked him unto anger with their own inventions, and the plague was great among them. ³⁰Then stood up Phinehas, and executed justice, and so the plague ceased. ³¹And that was counted unto him for righteousness, among all posterities for evermore. ³²They angered him also at the waters of strife, so that Moses was punished for their sakes. ³³Because they provoked his spirit, and he told them plainly with his lips. ³⁴Neither destroyed they the Heathen, as the LORD commanded them. ³⁵But were mingled among the Heathen, and learned their works. ³⁶In so much that they worshipped their images, which turned to their own decay. ³⁷Yea they offered their sons and their daughters unto devils. ³⁸And shed the innocent blood of their sons and of their daughters, whom they offered unto the images of Canaan, so that the land was defiled with blood. ³⁹Thus were they stained with their own works, and went awhoring with their own inventions. ⁴⁰Therefore was the wrath of the LORD kindled against his people, insomuch that he abhorred his own inheritance. ⁴¹And gave them over into the hand of the Heathen, and they that hated them, were lords over them. ⁴²Their enemies oppressed them, and had them in subjection. ⁴³Many a time did he deliver them, but they provoked him with their own inventions, and were brought down for their wickedness. ⁴⁴Nevertheless when he saw their adversity, he heard their complaint. ⁴⁵He thought upon his covenant, and pitied them, according unto the multitude of his mercies. ⁴⁶Yea he made all those that had led them away captive, to pity them. ⁴⁷Deliver us, O LORD our God, and gather us from among the Heathen: that we may give thanks unto thy holy name, and make our boast of thy

¹O give thanks unto the LORD, for he is gracious and his mercy endureth for ever. ²Let them give thanks whom the LORD hath redeemed, and delivered from the hand of the enemy. ³And gathered them out of the lands, from the East, from the West, from the North and from the South. ⁴They went astray in the wilderness in an untrodden way, and found no city to dwell in. ⁵Hungry and thirsty, their soul fainted in them. ⁶So they cried unto the LORD in their trouble, and he delivered them from their distress. ⁷He led them forth by the right way, that they might go to the city where they dwelt. ⁸O that men would praise the goodness of the LORD, and the wonders that he doth for the children of men. ⁹For he satisfied the empty soul, and filled the hungry soul with good. ¹⁰Such as sat in darkness and in the shadow of death, being fast bound in misery and iron. ¹¹Because they were not obedient to the commandments of God, but lightly regarded the counsel of the most highest. ¹²Their heart was vexed with labor, they fell down, and there was none to help them. ¹³So they cried unto the LORD in their trouble, and he delivered them out of their distress. ¹⁴He brought them out of darkness and out of the shadow of death, and brake their bonds in sunder. ¹⁵O that men would praise the goodness of the LORD, and the wonders that he doth for the children of men. ¹⁶For he hath broken the gates of brass, and smitten the bars of Iron in sunder. ¹⁷Foolish men were plagued for their offense, and because of their wickedness. ¹⁸Their soul abhorred all manner of meat, they were even hard at death's door. ¹⁹So they cried unto the LORD in their trouble, and he delivered them out of their distress. ²⁰He sent his word and healed them, and saved them from destruction. ²¹O that men would praise the goodness of the LORD, and the wonders that he doth for the children of men. ²²That they would offer unto him the sacrifice of thanksgiving, and tell out his works with gladness. ²³They that go down to the sea in ships, and occupy their business in great waters. ²⁴These men see the works of the LORD, and his wonders in the deep. ²⁵For at his word, the stormy wind ariseth, and lifeth up the waves thereof. ²⁶They are carried up to the heaven, and down again to the deep, their soul melteth away in the trouble. ²⁷They reel to and fro, they stagger like a drunken man, and are at their wits' end. ²⁸So they cry unto the LORD in their trouble, and he delivereth them out of their distress. ²⁹He maketh the storm to cease, so that the waves are still. ³⁰Then are they glad because they be at rest, and so he bringeth them unto the haven where they would be. ³¹O that men would praise the goodness of the LORD, and the wonders that he doth for the children of men. ³²That they would exalt him in the congregation of the people, and love him in the seat of the elders. ³³Which turneth floods into dry land, and dryeth up the water springs. ³⁴A fruitful land maketh he barren, for the wickedness of them that dwell therein. ³⁵Again, he maketh the wilderness a standing water, and water springs of a dry ground. ³⁶There he setteth the hungry, that they may build them a city to dwell in. ³⁷That they may sow their ground, plant vineyards, to yield the fruits of increase. ³⁸He blesseth them, so that they multiply exceedingly, and suffereth not their cattle to decrease. ³⁹When they are minished and brought low thorow oppression, thorow any plague or trouble. ⁴⁰Though he suffer them to be evil intreated thorow tyrants, or let them wander out of the way in the wilderness. ⁴¹Yet helpeth he the poor out of misery, (at the last) and maketh him an household like a flock of sheep. ⁴²The righteous will consider this and rejoice, the mouth of all wickedness shall be stopped. ⁴³Who so is wise, and pondereth these things well, shall understand the loving-kindness of the LORD.

Th .cviij. Psalm

A song of Psalm of David.

¹O God, my heart is ready to sing, and to give praise. ²Awake, O my glory, awake lute and harp, I myself will awake right early. ³I will give thanks unto thee, O LORD, among the people, I will sing praises unto thee among the Heathen. ⁴For the greatness of thy mercy is higher than the heavens, and thy faithfulness reacheth unto the clouds. ⁵Set up thyself, O God, above the heavens, and thy glory above all the earth. ⁶That thy beloved may be delivered: help then with thy right hand, and hear me. ⁷God hath spoken in his Sanctuary, which thing rejoiceth me. I will divide Shechem, and mete out the valley of Succoth. ⁸Gilead is mine, Manasses is mine, Ephraim is the strength of mine head, ⁹Judah is my captain. Moab is my washpot; over Edom will I stretch out my shoe, Philistia shall be glad of me. ¹⁰Who will lead me into the strong city? Who will bring me into Edom? ¹¹Shalt not thou do it (O God) which hast cast us out: thou God, that wentest not forth with our Hosts? ¹²O be thou our help in trouble, for vain is the help of man. ¹³Thorow God we shall do great acts, for it is he that shall tread down our enemies.

Th .cix. Psalm

¹Hold not thy tongue, O God of my praise. ²For the mouth of the ungodly, yea and the mouth of the deceitful is opened upon me, and speak against me with false tongues. ³They compass me about with words of hatred, and fight against me without a cause. ⁴For the love that I had unto thee, they take now my contrary part, but I give myself unto prayer. ⁵Thus they reward me evil for good, and hatred for my good will. ⁶Set an ungodly man to be ruler over him, and let Satan stand at his right hand. ⁷When sentence is given upon him, let him be condemned, and let his prayer be turned into sin. ⁸Let his days be few, and his bishopric let another take. ⁹Let his children be fatherless, and his wife a widow. ¹⁰Let his children be vagabonds, and beg their bread: let them seek it, as they that be destroyed. ¹¹Let the extortioner consume all that he hath, and let strangers spoil his labour. ¹²Let there be no man to pity, nor to have compassion on his fatherless children. ¹³Let his end be destruction, and in the next generation let his name be clean put out. ¹⁴Let the wickedness of his fathers be had in remembrance in the sight of LORD, and let not the sin of his mother be done away. ¹⁵Let them be always before the LORD, but as for the memorial of them selves, let it perish from out of the earth. ¹⁶And that because his mind was not to do good, but persecuted the poor helpless, and him that was vexed at the heart, to slay him. ¹⁷His delight was in cursing, and therefore shall it happen unto him: he loved not blessing, and that shall be far from him. ¹⁸He clothed himself with cursing like as with a raiment: yea it went into his bowels like water, and like oil into his bones. ¹⁹Let it be unto him as the cloak that he hath on him, and as the girdle that he is girded withal. ²⁰Let it thus happen from the LORD unto mine enemies, and to those that speak evil against my soul. ²¹But deal thou with me, O Lord GOD,¹ according unto thy name, for sweet is thy mercy. ²²O deliver me, for I am helpless and poor, and my heart is wounded within me. ²³I go hence like the shadow that departeth, and am driven away as the grasshoppers. ²⁴My knees are weak thorow fasting, my flesh is dried up for want of fatness. ²⁵I am become a rebuke unto them, they look upon me and shake their heads. ²⁶Help me, O LORD my God, oh save me for thy mercies' sake. ²⁷That they may know, how that this is thy hand, and that thou hast done it. ²⁸Though they curse, yet bless thou: and let them be confounded, that rise up against me, but let thy servant rejoice. ²⁹Let mine adversaries be clothed with their own shame, as with a cloak. ³⁰As for me, I will give thanks unto the LORD with my mouth, and praise him among the multitude. ³¹For he standeth at the right hand of the poor, to save him from such as condemn his soul.

Th .cx. Psalm

A Psalm of David.

¹The LORD said unto my Lord:^m Sit thou on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool. ²The LORD shall send the rod of thy power out of Sion, be thou ruler even in the midst among thine enemies. ³In the day of thy power shall thy people offer the freewill offerings with an holy worship, the dew of thy birth is of the womb of the morning. ⁴The LORD sware, and will not repent: Thou art a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek. ⁵The Lord upon thy right hand, shall smite even kings in the day of his wrath. ⁶He shall be judge among the Heathen, he shall fill them with dead bodies, and smite in sunder the heads over divers countries. ⁷He shall drink of the brook in the way, therefore shall he lift up his head.

Th .cxii. Psalm

Praise the everlasting.

¹I will give thanks unto the LORD with my whole heart: secretlyⁿ among the faithful, and in the congregation. ²The works of the LORD are great, sought out of all them that have pleasure therein. ³His work is worthy to be praised and had in honour, and his righteousness endureth for ever. ⁴The merciful and gracious LORD hath so done his marvelous works, that they ought to be had in remembrance. ⁵He giveth meat unto them, that fear him, he is ever mindful of his covenant. ⁶He sheweth his people the power of his works, that he may give them the heritage of the Heathen. ⁷The works of his hands are verity and judgment, all his commandments are true. ⁸They stand fast for ever and ever, and are done in truth and equity. ⁹He sent redemption unto his people, he hath commanded his covenant for ever, holy and reverent is his name. ¹⁰The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom; a good understanding have all they that do thereafter: the praise of it endureth for ever.

Th .cxiii. Psalm

Praise the everlasting.

¹Blessed is the man that feareth the LORD, and hath great delight in his commandments. ²His seed shall be mighty upon earth, the generation of the faithful shall be blessed. ³Riches and plentiousness shall be in his house, and his righteousness endureth for ever. ⁴Unto the godly there ariseth up light in the darkness: he is merciful, loving and righteous. ⁵Well is he^o that is merciful, and lendeth gladly, and pondereth his words with discretion.

The .cxiii. Psalm

Praise the everlasting.

¹Praise the LORD (O ye servants) O praise the name of the LORD.^P ²Blessed be the name of the LORD from this time forth for evermore.
³The LORD's name is worthy to be praised, from the rising up of the sun^q unto the going down of the same. ⁴The LORD is high above all Heathen, and his glory above the heavens. ⁵Who is like unto the LORD our God, that hath his dwelling so high,^r ⁶which humbleth himself, to behold that is in heaven and earth. ⁷Which taketh up the simple out of the dust, and lifteth the poor out of the mire. ⁸That he may set him among the princes, even among the princes of his people. ⁹Which maketh the barren woman to keep house, and to be a joyful mother of children.

The .cxiv. Psalm

¹When Israel came out of Egypt, and the house of Jacob from among that strange people. ²Judah was his sanctuary, Israel his dominion. ³The sea saw that, and fled, Jordan turned back. ⁴The mountains skipped like rams, and the little hills like young sheep. ⁵What ailed thee, O thou sea, that thou fleddest? and thou Jordan, that thou turnest back? ⁶Ye mountains, that ye skipped like rams: and ye little hills, like young sheep? ⁷The earth trembled at the presence of the Lord,^t at the presence of the God of Jacob. ⁸Which turned the hard rock into a standing water, and the flint stone into a springing well.

The .cxv. Psalm

¹Not unto us, O LORD, not unto us, but unto thy name give the praise, for thy loving mercy and faithfulness. ²Wherefore shall the Heathen say: Where is now their God? ³As for our God, he is in heaven, he doth whatsoever it pleaseth him. ⁴Their images are but silver and gold, even the work of men's hands. ⁵They have mouths, and speak not: eyes have they, but they see not. ⁶They have ears, and hear not: noses have they, but they smell not. ⁷They have hands and handle not, feet have they, but they can not go, neither can they speak thorow their throat. ⁸They that make them, are like unto them, and so are all such as put their trust in them. ⁹But let Israel trust in the LORD, for he is their succour and defense. ¹⁰Let the house of Aaron put their trust in the LORD, for he is their succour and defense. ¹¹They that fear the LORD, let them put their trust in the LORD, for he is their succour and defense. ¹²The LORD is mindful of us, and blesseth us: he blesseth the house of Israel, he blesseth the house of Aaron. ¹³Yea he blesseth all them that fear the LORD, both small and great. ¹⁴The LORD increase you more and more: you and your children. ¹⁵For ye are the blessed

The .cxvi. Psalm

¹I am well pleased, that the LORD hath heard the voice of my prayer. ²That he hath inclined^v his ear unto me, therefore will I call upon him as long as I live. ³The snares of death compassed me round about, the pains of hell gat hold upon me, ⁴I found trouble and heaviness. Then called I upon the name of the LORD: O LORD deliver my soul. ⁵Gracious is the LORD, and righteous, yea our God is merciful. ⁶The LORD preserveth the simple, I was brought down and he helped me. ⁷Turn again then unto thy rest, O my soul, for the LORD hath given thee thy desire. ⁸And why thou hast delivered my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling. ⁹I will walk before the LORD, in the land of the living. ¹⁰I believed, and therefore have I spoken, but I was sore troubled. ¹¹I said in my haste: All men are liars. ¹²What reward shall I give unto the LORD, for all the benefits that he hath done unto me? ¹³I will receive the cup of salvation, and call upon the name of the LORD. ¹⁴I will pay my vows in the presence of all his people, ¹⁵right dear in the sight of the LORD is the death of his saints. ¹⁶O LORD, I am thy servant, I am thy servant, and the son of thy handmaid, thou hast broken my bonds in sonder. ¹⁷I will offer to thee, the sacrifice of thanksgiving, and will call upon the name of the LORD. ¹⁸I will pay my vows unto the LORD

The .cxviii. Psalm

¹O give thanks unto the LORD, for he is gracious, and his mercy endureth for ever. ²Let Israel now confess, that his mercy endureth for ever. ³Let the house of Aaron now confess, that his mercy endureth forever. ⁴Yea let them now that fear the LORD confess, that his mercy endureth forever. ⁵I called upon the LORD in trouble, and the LORD heard me at large. ⁶The LORD is my helper, I will not fear what man doeth unto me. ⁷The LORD is my helper, and I shall see my desire upon mine enemies. ⁸It is better to trust in the LORD, than to put any confidence in man. ⁹It is better to trust in the LORD, than to put any confidence in princes. ¹⁰All Heathen compassed me round about, but in the name of the LORD will I destroy them. ¹¹They keep^y me in on every side, but in the name of the LORD I will destroy them. ¹²They came about me like bees, and were as hot as the fire in the thorns, but in the name of the LORD I will destroy them. ¹³They thrust at me, that I might fall, but the LORD was my help. ¹⁴The LORD is my strength, and my song, and is become my salvation. ¹⁵The voice of joy and mirth is in the dwellings of the righteous, for the right hand of the LORD hath gotten the victory. ¹⁶The right hand of the LORD hath the pre-eminence, the right hand of the LORD hath gotten the victory. ¹⁷I will not die, but live, and declare the works of the LORD. ¹⁸The LORD hath chastened and correct me, but he hath not given me over unto death. ¹⁹Open me the gates of righteousness, that I may go in there thorow, and give thanks unto the LORD. ²⁰This is the door of the LORD, the righteous shall enter in thorow it. ²¹I thank thee, that thou hast heard me, and art become my salvation. ²²The same stone which the builders refused, is become the head stone in the corner. ²³This was the LORD's doing, and it is marvelous in our eyes. ²⁴This is the day which the LORD hath made, let us rejoice and be glad in it. ²⁵Help now O LORD, O LORD, send us now prosperity. ²⁶Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the LORD, we wish you good luck, ye that be of the house of the LORD. ²⁷God is the LORD, and hath shewed us light: O garnish the solempne feast with green branches, even unto the horns of the altar. ²⁸Thou art my God, and I will thank thee: thou art my God, and I will praise thee. ²⁹O give thanks unto the LORD, for he is gracious, and his mercy endureth for ever.

Blessed are those that be undefiled in the way, which walk in the law of the LORD. ²Blessed are they that keep his testimonies, and that seek him with their whole heart. ³Which walk in his ways, and do no wickedness. ⁴Thou hast given straight charge to keep thy commandments. ⁵O that my ways were stablished to keep thy statutes. ⁶So should I not be confounded, while I have respect unto all thy commandments. ⁷I will thank thee with an unfained heart, because I am learned in the judgements of thy righteousness. ⁸I will keep thy statutes, O forsake me not utterly.

Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way? Even by ruling himself after thy word. ¹⁰With my whole heart do I seek thee, O let me not go wrong out of thy commandments. ¹¹Thy words have I hid within my heart, that I should not sin against thee. ¹²Praised be thou O LORD, O teach me thy statutes. ¹³With my lips will I be telling out all the judgments of thy mouth. ¹⁴I have as great delight in the way of thy testimonies, as in all manner of riches. ¹⁵I will exercise myself in thy commandments, and have respect unto thy footpaths. ¹⁶My delight shall be in thy statutes, I will not forget thy words.

O do well unto thy servant, that I may live, and keep thy words. ¹⁸Open thou mine eyes, and so shall I spy out wonderous things in thy law. ¹⁹I am a stranger upon earth, O hide not thy commandments from me. ²⁰My soul breaketh out, for the very fervent desire that I have alway unto thy judgments. ²¹Thou rebukest the proud, cursed are they that depart from thy commandments. ²²O turn from me shame and rebuke, for I keep thy testimonies. ²³Princes also sit and speak against me, but thy servant is occupied in thy statutes. ²⁴In thy testimonies is my delight, they are my counsellors.

My soul cleaveth unto the dust, O quicken thou me according to thy word. ²⁶I knowledged my ways, and thou heardest me, O teach me then thy statutes. ²⁷Make me to understand the way of thy commandments, and so shall I talk of thy wonderous works. ²⁸My soul melteth away for very heaviness, O set me up according unto thy word. ²⁹Take from me the way of lying, and grant me thy law. ³⁰I have chosen the way of truth, thy judgments have I laid before me. ³¹I stick unto thy testimonies, O LORD, confound me not. ³²I will run the way of thy commandments, when thou hast comforted my heart.

Teach me O LORD the way of thy statutes, and I shall keep it unto the end. ³⁴O give me understanding, and I shall keep thy law, yea I shall keep it with my whole heart. ³⁵Lead me in the path of thy commandments, for that is my desire. ³⁶Incline mine heart unto thy testimonies, and not to covetousness. ³⁷O turn away mine eyes, lest they behold vanity, and quicken me in thy way. ³⁸O stablish thy word in thy servant, that I may fear thee. ³⁹Take away the rebuke that I am afraid of, for thy judgments are amiable. ⁴⁰Behold, my delight is in thy commandments, O quicken me in thy righteousness.

Let thy loving mercies come unto me, O LORD, and thy saving health according to thy word. ⁴²That I may give answer unto my blasphemers, for my trust is in thy word. ⁴³O take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth, for my hope is in thy judgments. ⁴⁴So shall I always keep thy law, yea for ever and ever. ⁴⁵And I will walk at liberty, for I seek thy commandments. ⁴⁶I will speak of thy testimonies even before kings, and will not be ashamed. ⁴⁷My delight shall be in thy commandments, which I love. ⁴⁸My hands also will I lift up unto thy commandments which I love, and my talking shall be of thy statutes.

⁴⁹Zain.

O think upon thy servant as concerning thy word, wherein thou hast caused me to put my trust. ⁵⁰For it is my comfort in my trouble, yea thy word quickeneth me. ⁵¹The proud have me greatly in derision, yet shrink not I from thy law. ⁵²I remember thine everlasting judgments, O LORD, and am comforted. ⁵³I am horribly afraid for the ungodly, that forsake thy law. ⁵⁴Thy statutes are my songs in the house of my pilgrimage. ⁵⁵I think upon thy name, O LORD, in the night season, and keep thy law. ⁵⁶It is mine own, for I keep thy commandments.

Thou art my portion, O LORD, I am purposed to keep thy law. ⁵⁸I make mine humble petition in thy presence with my whole heart, O be merciful unto me according unto thy word. ⁵⁹I call mine own ways to remembrance, and turn my feet into thy testimonies. ⁶⁰I make haste, and prolong not the time, to keep thy commandments. ⁶¹The congregations of the ungodly have robbed me, but I forget not thy law. ⁶²At midnight stand I up, to give thanks unto thee, for the judgements of thy righteous. ⁶³I am a companion of all them that fear thee, and keep thy commandments. ⁶⁴The earth, O LORD, is full of thy mercy. O teach me thy statutes.

O LORD, thou hast dealt friendly with thy servant, according unto thy word. ⁶⁶O learn me thy kindness, nurture and knowledge, for I believe thy commandments. ⁶⁷Before I was troubled, I went wrong, but now I keep thy word. ⁶⁸Thou art good and friendly, O teach me thy statutes. ⁶⁹The proud imagine lies upon me, but I keep thy commandments with my whole heart. ⁷⁰Their heart is as fat as brawne, but my delight is in thy law. ⁷¹It is good for me that I have been in trouble, that I may learn thy statutes. ⁷²The law of thy mouth is dearer unto me, than thousands of gold and silver.

Thy hands have made me and fashioned me, O give me understanding, that I may learn thy commandments. ⁷⁴They that fear thee, will be glad when they see me, because I put my trust in thy word. ⁷⁵I know, O LORD, that thy judgments are right, and that thou of very faithfulness hast caused me to be troubled. ⁷⁶O let thy merciful kindness be my comfort, according to the promise that thou hast made unto thy servant. ⁷⁷O let thy loving mercies come unto me, that I may live, for thy law is my delight. ⁷⁸Let the proud be confounded, which handle me so falsely.^z ⁷⁹But let such as fear thee, and know thy testimonies, be turned unto me. ⁸⁰O let my heart be undefiled in thy statutes that I be not ashamed.

My soul longeth for thy saving health, for my trust is in thy word. ⁸²Mine eyes long sore for thy word, saying: oh when wilt thou comfort me? ⁸³For I am become like a bottle in the smoke, yet do not I forget thy statutes. ⁸⁴How many are the days of thy servant? When wilt thou be avenged of mine adversaries? ⁸⁵The proud have digged pits for me, which are not after thy law. ⁸⁶All thy commandments are true, they persecute me falsely, O be thou my help. ⁸⁷They have almost made an end of me upon earth, but I forsake not thy commandments. ⁸⁸O quicken me after thy loving-kindness, and so shall I keep the testimonies of thy mouth.

O LORD, thy word endureth forever in heaven. ⁹⁰Thy truth also remaineth from one generation to another: thou hast laid the foundation of the earth, and it abideth. ⁹¹They continue this day according to thine ordinance, for all things serve thee. ⁹²If my delight were not in thy law, I should perish in my trouble. ⁹³I will never forget thy commandments, for with them thou quickenest me. ⁹⁴I am thine, oh help me, for I seek thy commandments. ⁹⁵The ungodly lay wait for me to destroy me, but I consider thy testimonies. ⁹⁶I see that all things come to an end, but thy commandment is exceeding broad.

O what ^a love have I unto thy law? all the day long is my talking of it. ⁹⁸Thou thorow thy commandment hast made me wiser than mine enemies, for it is ever by me. ⁹⁹I have more understanding than all my teachers, for thy testimonies are my study. ¹⁰⁰Yea I am wiser than the aged, for I keep thy commandments. ¹⁰¹I refrain my feet from every evil way, that I may keep thy words. ¹⁰²I shrink not from thy judgments, for thou teachest me. ¹⁰³O how sweet are thy words unto my throat? Yea, more than honey unto my mouth. ¹⁰⁴Thorow thy commandments I get understanding, therefore I hate all false ways.

Thy word is a lantern unto my feet and a light unto my paths. ¹⁰⁶I have sworn and am steadfastly purposed, to keep the judgements of thy righteousness. ¹⁰⁷I am troubled above measure, quicken me, O LORD, according unto thy word. ¹⁰⁸Let the freewill offerings of my mouth please thee, O LORD, and teach me thy judgments. ¹⁰⁹My soul is always in my hand, yet do not I forget thy law. ¹¹⁰The ungodly have laid a snare for me, but yet swerve not I from thy commandments. ¹¹¹Thy testimonies have I claimed as my heritage for ever: and why? they are the very joy of my heart. ¹¹²I apply mine heart to fulfill thy statutes always, even unto the end.

I hate the ungodly, but thy law do I love. ¹¹⁴Thou art my defense and shield, my trust is in thy word. ¹¹⁵Away from me ye wicked, I will keep the commandments of my God. ¹¹⁶O stablish me according unto thy word, that I may live, and let me not be disappointed of my hope. ¹¹⁷Hold thou me up, and I shall be safe: yea I shall ever be talking of thy statutes. ¹¹⁸Thou treadest down all them that depart from thy statutes, for they imagine but deceit. ¹¹⁹Thou putttest away all the ungodly of the earth like dross, therefore I love thy testimonies. ¹²⁰My flesh trembleth for fear of thee, and I am afraid of thy judgments.

I deal with the thing that is lawful and right, O give me not over unto mine oppressors. ¹²²Be thou surety for thy servant to do him good, that the proud do me no wrong. ¹²³Mine eyes are wasted away with looking for thy health, and for the word of thy righteousness. ¹²⁴O deal with thy servant according unto thy loving mercy, and teach me thy statutes. ¹²⁵I am thy servant, O grant me understanding, that I may know thy testimonies. ¹²⁶It is time for thee (O LORD) to lay to thine hand, for they have destroyed thy law. ¹²⁷For I love thy commandments above gold and precious stone. ¹²⁸Therefore hold I straight all thy commandments, and all false ways I utterly abhor.

Thy testimonies are wonderful, therefore doth my soul keep them. ¹³⁰When thy word goeth forth, it giveth light and understanding, even unto babes. ¹³¹I open my mouth and draw in my breath, for I desire thy commandments. ¹³²O look thou upon me, and be merciful, as thou usest to do unto those that love thy name. ¹³³Order my goings after thy word that no wickedness reign in me. ¹³⁴O deliver me from the wrongeous dealings of men, and so shall I keep thy commandments. ¹³⁵Shew the light of thy countenance unto thy servant, and learn me thy statutes. ¹³⁶Mine eyes gush out with water, because men keep not thy law.

Righteous art thou, O LORD, and true is thy judgment. ¹³⁸The testimonies that thou hast commanded are exceeding, righteous and true. ¹³⁹My zeal hath even consumed me, because mine enemies have forgotten thy words. ¹⁴⁰Thy word is tried to the uttermost, and thy servant loveth it. ¹⁴¹I am small and of no reputation, yet do not I forget thy commandments. ¹⁴²Thy righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, and thy law is true. ¹⁴³Trouble and heaviness have taken hold upon me, yet is my delight in thy commandments. ¹⁴⁴The righteousness of thy testimonies is everlasting, O grant me understanding, and I shall live.

I call with my whole heart, hear me, O LORD, I will keep thy statutes. ¹⁴⁶Yea even upon thee do I call, help me, and I shall keep thy testimonies. ¹⁴⁷Early in the morning do I cry unto thee, for in thy word is my trust. ¹⁴⁸Mine eyes prevent the night watches, that I might be occupied in thy words. ¹⁴⁹Hear my voice, O LORD, according unto thy loving-kindness, quicken me according as thou art wont.^b ¹⁵⁰They draw nigh that of malice persecute me, and are far from thy law. ¹⁵¹Be thou nigh at hand also, O LORD, for thy promises are faithful. ¹⁵²As concerning thy testimonies, I have known ever since the beginning, that thou hast grounded them for ever.

O consider mine adversity, and deliver me, for I do not forget thy law. ¹⁵⁴Maintain thou my cause and defend me, quicken me according unto thy word. ¹⁵⁵Health is far from the ungodly, for they regard not thy statutes. ¹⁵⁶Great is thy mercies, O LORD, quicken me as thou art wont. ¹⁵⁷Many there are that trouble me, and persecute me, yet do not I swerve from thy testimonies. ¹⁵⁸It grieveth me, when I see, that the transgressors keep not thy law. ¹⁵⁹Consider, O LORD, how I love thy commandments, O quicken me with thy loving-kindness. ¹⁶⁰Thy word is true from everlasting, all the judgments of thy righteousness endure for evermore.

¹⁶¹Sin.

The princes persecute me without cause, but my heart standeth in awe of thy words. ¹⁶²I am as glad of thy word, as one that findeth great spoils. ¹⁶³As for lies, I hate and abhor them, but thy law do I love. ¹⁶⁴Seven times a day do I praise thee, because of thy righteous judgments. ¹⁶⁵Great is the peace that they have which love thy law, and they are not offended at it. ¹⁶⁶LORD, I look for thy saving health, and do after thy commandments. ¹⁶⁷My soul keepeth thy testimonies, and loveth them exceedingly. ¹⁶⁸I keep thy commandments and testimonies, for all my ways are before thee.

Let my complaint come before thee, O LORD, give me understanding, according unto thy word. ¹⁷⁰Oh let my supplication come before thee, deliver me according to thy promise.

¹⁷¹My lips shall speak of thy praise, seeing thou hast taught me thy statutes. ¹⁷²Yea my tongue shall sing of thy word, for all thy commandments are right. ¹⁷³Let thine hand help me, for I have chosen thy commandments. ¹⁷⁴I long for thy saving health, o LORD, and in thy law is my delight. ¹⁷⁵Oh let my soul live and praise thee, that thy judgments may help me. ¹⁷⁶I go astray, like a sheep that is lost: Oh seek thy servant, for I do not forget thy commandments.

Th .ccc. Psalm

The song of the stairs

¹When I am in trouble, I call upon the LORD, and he answereth me. ²Deliver my soul, O LORD, from lying lips, and from a deceitful tongue. ³What reward shall be given or done unto thee, thou false tongue? ⁴Even mighty and sharp arrows, with hot burning coals. ⁵Who is me that my banishment endureth so long: I dwell in the tabernacles of the sorrowful. ⁶My soul hath long dwelt among them, that be enemies unto peace. ⁷I laboured for peace, but when I spake thereof, they made them to battle.

Th .ccxi. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹I lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. ²My help cometh even from the LORD which hath made heaven and earth. ³He will not suffer thy foot to be moved, and he that keepeth thee, sleepeth not. ⁴Behold, he that keepeth Israel, doth neither slumber nor sleep. ⁵The LORD himself is thy keeper, the LORD is thy defense upon thy right hand. ⁶So that the sun^c shall not burn thee by day, neither the moon by night. ⁷The LORD preserveth thee from all evil, yea it is the LORD that keepeth thy soul. ⁸The LORD preserveth thy going out and thy coming in, from this time forth for evermore.

Th .cxcii. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹I was glad when they said unto me: We will go in to the house of the LORD. ²Our feet shall stand in thy gates, O Jerusalem. ³Jerusalem is builded as a city, that is at unity in itself. ⁴For there the tribes go up, even the tribes of the LORD: to testify unto Israel, to give thanks unto the name of the LORD. ⁵For there is the seat of judgment, even the seat of the house of David. ⁶O pray for the peace of Jerusalem, they shall prosper that love thee. ⁷Peace be within thy walls, and plenteousness within thy palaces. ⁸For my brethren and companions' sakes, I will wish thee prosperity. ⁹Yea because of the house of the LORD our God, I will seek to do thee good.

Th .cxciii. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹Unto thee lift I up mine eyes, thou that dwellest in the heavens. ²Behold, even as the eyes of servants look unto the hands of their masters: and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hands of her mistress, even so our eyes wait upon the LORD our God, until he have mercy upon us. ³Have mercy upon us, O LORD, have mercy upon us, for we are utterly despised. ⁴Our soul is filled with the scornful reproof of the wealthy, and with the despitefulness of the proud.

Th .cxciv. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹If it the LORD had not been of our side (now may Israel say) ²If the LORD had not been of our side, when men rose up against us. ³They had swallowed us up quick, when they were so wrathfully displeased at us. ⁴Yea the waters had drowned us, the stream had gone over our soul. ⁵The deep waters of the proud had gone even unto our soul.

⁶But praised be the LORD, which hath not given us over for a prey unto their teeth. ⁷Our soul is escaped, even as a bird out of the snare of the fowler: the snare is broken and we are delivered. ⁸Our help standeth in the name of the LORD, which hath made heaven and earth.

Th .cxcv. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹They that put their trust in the LORD, are even as the mount Sion, which may not be removed, but standeth fast for ever. ²The hills stand about Jerusalem, even so standeth the LORD round about his people, from this time forth for evermore. ³That the rod of the ungodly come not into the lot of the righteous, lest the righteous put their hand unto wickedness. ⁴Do well, O LORD, unto those that be good and true of heart. ⁵As for such as turn back unto their own wickedness, the LORD shall lead them forth with the evil doers: but peace be upon Israel.

Th .cxcvi. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹When the LORD turneth again the captivity of Sion, then shall we be like unto them that dream. ²Then shall our mouth be filled with laughter, and our tongue with joy. Then shall it be said among the Heathen: The LORD hath done great things for them. ³Yea the LORD hath done great things for us already, whereof we rejoice. ⁴Turn our captivity, O LORD, as the rivers in the south. ⁵They that sow in tears, shall reap in joy. ⁶He that now goeth in his way weeping and beareth forth good seed, shall come again with joy, and bring his sheaves with him.

Th .cxcvii. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹Except the LORD build the house, the labour is but lost that build it. Except the LORD keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain. ²It is but lost labour that ye rise up early, and take no rest, but eat the bread of carefulness: for look to whom it pleaseth him, he giveth it in sleep. ³Lo, children and the fruit of the womb are an heritage and gift, that cometh of the LORD: ⁴Like as the arrows in the hand of the giant, even so are the young children. ⁵Happy is the man, that hath his quiver full of them: they shall not be ashamed, when they speak with their enemies in the gate.

The .cxcviii. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹Blessed are all they that fear the LORD, and walk in his ways. ²For thou shalt eat the labours of thine own hands: O well is thee, happy art thou. ³Thy wife shall be as the^d fruitful vine upon the walls of thy house. Thy children like the Olive branches, round about thy table. ⁴Lo, thus shall the man be blessed, that feareth the LORD. ⁵The LORD shall so bless thee out of Sion, that thou shalt see Jerusalem in prosperity all thy life long. ⁶Yea that thou shalt see thy children's children, and peace upon Israel.

The .cxcix. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹Many a time have they fought against me from my youth up, (may Israel now say.) ²Yea many a time have they fought against me from my youth up, but they have not overcome me. ³The plowers plowed upon my back, and made long furrows. ⁴But the righteous LORD hath hewn the yoke of the ungodly in pieces. ⁵Let them be confounded and turned backward, as many as have evil will at Sion. ⁶Let them be even as the hay upon the house tops, which withereth afore it be plucked^e up. ⁷Whereof the mower filleth not his hand, neither he that bindeth up the sheaves, his bosom. ⁸So that they which go by, say not so much as: the LORD prosper you, we wish you good luck in the name of the LORD.

The .ccc. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹Out of the deep call I unto thee O LORD, Lord^f hear my voice. ²Oh let thine ears consider well the voice of my complaint. ³If thou, LORD wilt be extreme to mark what is done amiss, Oh Lord^g who may abide it? ⁴But there is mercy with thee, that thou mayest be feared. ⁵I look for the LORD, my soul doth wait for him, and in his word is my trust. ⁶My soul doth patiently abide the Lord,^h from the one morning to the other. ⁷Let Israel trust in the LORD, for with the LORD there is mercy and plenteous redemption. ⁸And he shall redeem Israel from all his sins.

The .cccxi. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹LORD, I am not high minded, I have no proud looks. I do not exercise myself in great matters, which are too high for me. ²But I refrain my soul and keep it low, like as a child that is weanedⁱ from his mother: Yea my soul is even as a weaned^j child. ³Let Israel trust in the LORD, from this time forth for evermore.

The .cccii. Psalm

The song of the stairs.

¹LORD,^k remember David and all his trouble. ²How he swore unto the LORD, and vowed a vow unto the almighty one of Jacob: ³I will not come within the tabernacle of my house, nor climb up in^l my bed. ⁴I will not suffer mine eyes to sleep, nor mine eyelids to slumber. ⁵Until I find out a place for the LORD, an habitation for the mighty one of Jacob. ⁶Lo, we heard of the same at Ephrata, and found it in the wood. ⁷We will go into his tabernacle, and fall down before his footstool. ⁸Arise, O LORD, into thy resting place, thou and the ark of thy strength. ⁹Let thy Priests be clothed with righteousness, and let thy saints rejoice. ¹⁰For thy servant David's sake turn not away the presence of thine anointed. ¹¹The LORD hath made a faithful oath unto David, and he shall not shrink from it: Of the fruit of the body shall I set upon thy seat. ¹²If thy children will keep my covenant, and my testimony that I shall learn them: their children also shall sit upon thy seat for evermore. ¹³For the LORD hath chosen Sion, to be an habitation for himself hath he chosen her. ¹⁴This shall be my rest, here will I dwell, for I have a delight therein. ¹⁵I will bless her vitailles with increase, and will satisfy her poor with bread. ¹⁶I will deck her Priests with health, and her saints shall rejoice and be glad. ¹⁷There shall I make the horn of David to flourish, I have ordained a lantern for mine anointed. ¹⁸As for his enemies, I shall clothe them with shame, but upon himself shall his crown flourish.

The .cccviii. Psalm

Of David

¹I will give thanks unto thee, O Lord,^v with my whole heart, even before the gods, will I sing praises unto thee. ²I will worship toward thy holy temple, and praise thy name, because of thy loving-kindness and truth, for thou hast magnified thy word, according unto thy great name. ³When I call upon thee, thou hearest me, and endowest my soul with much strength. ⁴All the kings of the earth shall praise thee, O LORD, when they hear the words of thy mouth. ⁵Yea, they shall sing in the ways of the LORD, that great is the glory of the LORD. ⁶For though the LORD be high, yet hath he respect unto the lowly, as for the proud, he beholdeth them^w afar off. ⁷Though I walk in the midst of trouble, yet shalt thou refresh me: thou shalt stretch forth thine hand upon the furiousness of mine enemies, and thy right hand shall save me. ⁸The LORD shall make good for me, yea thy mercy, O LORD, endureth forever: despise not then the works of thine own hands.

The .cccix. Psalm

To the chanter, a Psalm of David.

¹O LORD, thou searchest me out, and knowest me. ²Thou knowest my down sitting and mine uprising, thou understandest my thoughts afar off. ³Thou art about my path and about my bed, and spiest out all my ways. ⁴For lo, there is not a word in^x my tongue, but thou, O LORD, knowest it altogether. ⁵Thou hast fashioned me behind and before, and laid thine hand upon me. ⁶Such knowledge is too wonderful and excellent for me, I can not attain unto it. ⁷Whither shall I go then from thy spirit? or, whither shall I go then^y from thy presence? ⁸If I climb up into heaven, thou art there: if I go down to hell, thou art there also. ⁹If I take the wings of the morning, and remain in the uttermost^z part of the sea: ¹⁰Even there also shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me. ¹¹If I say: peradventure the darkness shall cover me, then shall my night be turned to day. ¹²Yea the darkness is no darkness with thee, but the night is as clear as the day, the darkness and light are both alike. ¹³For my reins are thine, thou hast covered me in my mother's womb. ¹⁴I will give thanks unto thee, for I am wonderfully made: marvelous are thy works, and that my soul knoweth right well. ¹⁵My bones are not hid from thee, though I be made secretly, and fashioned beneath in the earth. ¹⁶Thine eyes see mine unperfectness, they stand all written in thy book: my days were fashioned, when as yet there was not one of them. ¹⁷How dear are thy counsels unto me, O God? A Psalm of David.

¹LORD,^c I call upon thee: haste thee unto me, and consider my voice, when I cry unto thee. ²Let my prayer be set forth in thy sight as the incense, and let the lifting up of my hands be an evening sacrifice. ³Set a watch, O LORD, before my mouth, yea a watch at the door of my lips. ⁴O let not mine heart be inclined^d to any evil thing, to be minded as the ungodly or wicked men, lest I eat of such things as please them. ⁵Let the righteous rather smite me friendly, and reprove me: so will I take it as though he had poured oil on my head: it shall not hurt my head, yea I will pray yet for their wickedness. ⁶Their judges stumble at the stone, yet hear they my words, that they be joyful. ⁷Our bones lie scattered before the pit, like as when one graveth and diggeth up the ground. ⁸But mine eyes look unto thee, O Lord GOD:^e in thee is my trust, oh cast not out my soul. ⁹Keep me from the snare which they have laid for me, and from the traps of the wicked doers. ¹⁰Let the ungodly fall into their own nets together, until I be gone by them.

The Instruction of David, a prayer when he was in the cave.

¹I cry unto the LORD with my voice, yea even unto the LORD do I make my supplication. ²I pour out my complaint before him, and shew him of my trouble. ³When my spirit is in heaviness, for thou knowest my path: in the way wherein I walk have they privily laid a snare for me. ⁴I look upon my right hand, and see, there is no man that will know me. I have no place to flee unto, no man careth for my soul. ⁵Therefore do I cry unto thee, O LORD, and say: Thou art my hope and my portion in the land of the living. ⁶Consider my complaint, for I am brought very low. Oh deliver me from my persecutors, for they are too strong for me. ⁷Bring my soul out of prison, that I may give thanks unto thy name: which thing if thou wilt grant me, then shall the righteous resort unto my company.

The .cxi. Psalm

A Psalm of David.

¹Hear my prayer, O LORD, consider my desire: answer me for thy truth and righteousness' sake. ²And enter not into judgment with thy servant, for in thy sight shall no man living be justified. ³For the enemy persecuteth my soul, he smiteth my life down to the ground, he layeth me in the darkness, as the dead men of the world. ⁴Therefore is my spirit vexed within me, and my heart within me is desolate. ⁵Yet do I remember the times past, I muse upon all thy works; Yea I exercise myself in the works of thy hands. ⁶I stretch forth my hands unto thee, my soul cryeth unto thee out of the thirsty land. Selah. ⁷Hear me, O LORD, and that soon, for my spirit waxeth faint: hide not thy face from me, lest I be like unto them that go down into the grave. ⁸Oh let me hear thy loving-kindness by times in the morning, for in thee is my trust: shew thou me the way that I should walk in, for I lift up my soul unto thee. ⁹Deliver me, O LORD, from mine enemies, for I resort unto thee. ¹⁰Teach me to do the thing that pleaseth thee, for thou art my God: let thy loving spirit lead me forth unto the land of righteousness. ¹¹Quicken me, O LORD, for thy name's sake, and for thy righteousness' sake bring my soul out of trouble. ¹²And of thy goodness scatter mine enemies abroad, and destroy all them that vex my soul, for I am thy servant.

The .cxii. Psalm

Of David.

¹Blessed be the LORD my refuge, which teacheth my hands to war, and my fingers to fight. ²My hope and my castle, my defense and my deliverer, my shield in whom I trust, which governeth the people that is under me. ³LORD, what is man, that thou hast such respect unto him? Or the son of man, that thou so regardest him? ⁴Man is like a thing of naught, his time passeth away like a shadow. ⁵Bow thy heavens, O LORD, and come down, touch the mountains, that they may smoke withal. ⁶Send forth the lightning, and scatter them, shoot out thine arrows, and consume them. ⁷Send down thine hand from above, deliver me, and take me out of the greatwaters, from the hand of strange children. ⁸Whose mouth talketh of vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falsity.^f ⁹That I may sing a new song unto thee, O God, and sing praises unto thee upon a ten stringed lute. ¹⁰Thou that givest victory unto kings, and hast delivered David thy servant from the peril of the sword. ¹¹Save me, and deliver me from the hand of strange children, whose mouth talketh of vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falsity. ¹²That our sons may grow up as the young plants, and that our daughters may be as the polished corners of the temple. ¹³That our garners may be full and plenteous with all manner of store: that our sheep may bring forth thousands and hundredth thousands in our villages. ¹⁴That our oxen may be strong to labour, that there be no mischance, no decay, and no complaining in our streets. ¹⁵Happy are the people that

¹I will magnify thee, O God my king, I will praise thy name forever and ever. ²Every day will I give thanks unto thee, and praise thy name forever and ever. ³Great is the LORD, and marvelous worthy to be praised, there is no end to his greatness. ⁴One generation shall praise thy works unto another, and declare thy power. ⁵As for me I will be talking of thy worship, thy glory, thy praise, and wonderous works. ⁶So that men shall speak of the might of thy marvelous acts, and tell of thy greatness. ⁷The memorial of thy abundant kindness shall be shewed, and men shall sing of thy righteousness. ⁸The LORD is gracious and merciful, long suffering and of great goodness. ⁹The LORD is loving unto every man, and his mercy is over all his works. ¹⁰All thy works praise thee, O LORD, and thy saints give thanks unto thee. ¹¹They shew the glory of thy kingdom, and talk of thy power. ¹²That thy power, thy glory and mightiness of thy kingdom might be known unto men. ¹³Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth thorowout all ages. ¹⁴The LORD upholdeth all such as should fall, and lifteth up all those that be down. ¹⁵The eyes of all wait upon thee, and thou givest them their meat in due season. ¹⁶Thou openest thine hand, and fillest all things living with plenteousness. ¹⁷The LORD is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works. ¹⁸The LORD is nigh unto ^g them that call upon him, yea all such as call upon him faithfully. ¹⁹He fulfilleth the desire of them that fear him, he heareth their cry, and helpeth them. ²⁰The LORD preserveth all them that love him, but scattereth abroad all the ungodly. ²¹My mouth shall speak the praise of the LORD, and let all flesh give thanks unto his holy name for ever and ever.

Praise the everlasting.

¹Praise the LORD, O my soul: ²while I live will I praise the LORD: yea as long as I have any being, I will sing praises unto my God. ³O put not your trust in princes, nor in any child of man, for there is no help in them. ⁴For when the breath of man goeth forth, he shall turn again to his earth, and so all his thoughts perish. ⁵Blessed is he that hath the God of Jacob for his help, and whose hope is in the LORD his God. ⁶Which made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that therein is, which keepeth his promise forever. ⁷Which helpeth them to right that suffer wrong, which feedeth the hungry. The LORD lowseth men out of prison, ⁸the LORD giveth sight to the blind. The LORD helpeth them up that are fallen, the LORD loveth the righteous. ⁹The LORD careth for the strangers, he defendeth the fatherless and widow: as for the way of the ungodly, he turneth it upside down. ¹⁰The LORD thy God, O Sion, is king for evermore, and thorowout all generations.

The proverb of Salomon

^{1:1}The^a proverbs of Solomon the son of David king of Israel: ^{1:2}To learn wisdom, instruction,^b understanding, prudence, ^{1:3}righteousness, judgment and equity. ^{1:4}That the very babes might have wit, and that young men might have knowledge and understanding. ^{1:5}By hearing, the wise man shall come by more wisdom: ^{1:6}and by experience he shall be more apt to understand a parable, and the interpretation thereof, the words of the wise, and the dark speeches of the same. ^{1:7}The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom. But fools despise wisdom and instruction.^c ^{1:8}My son, hear thy father's doctrine, and forsake not the law of thy mother: ^{1:9}for that shall bring grace unto thy head, and shall be a chain about thy neck. ^{1:10}My son, consent not unto sinners, ^{1:11}if they entice thee, and say: Come with us, let us lay wait for blood, and lurk privily for the innocent without a cause: ^{1:12}Let us swallow them up like the hell, let us devour them quick and whole, as those that go down into the pit. ^{1:13}So shall we find all manner of costly riches, and fill our houses with spoils. ^{1:14}Cast in thy lot among us, we shall have all one purse. ^{1:15}My son, walk not thou with them, refrain thy foot from their ways. ^{1:16}For their feet run to evil, and are hasty to shed blood. ^{1:17}But in vain is the net laid forth before the bird's eyes. ^{1:18}Yea they themselves lay wait one for another's blood, and one of them would slay another. ^{1:19}These are the ways of all such as be covetous, that one would ravish another's life. ^{1:20}Wisdom crieth without and putteth forth her^d voice in the streets. ^{1:21}She calleth before the congregation in the open gates, and sheweth her words throw the city, saying: ^{1:22}O ye children, how long will ye love childishness? how long will the scornors delight in scorning, and the unwise be enemies unto knowledge? ^{1:23}O turn you unto my correction: lo, I will express my mind unto you, and make you understand my words. ^{1:24}Seeing then that I have called, and ye refused it: I have stretched out my hand, and no man regarded it, ^{1:25}but all my counsels have ye despised and set my corrections to naught. ^{1:26}Therefore shall I also laugh in your destruction, and mock you, when the thing that ye fear cometh upon you: ^{1:27}even when the thing that ye be afraid of, falleth in suddenly like a storm, and your misery like a tempest: yea when trouble and heaviness cometh upon you. ^{1:28}Then shall they call upon me, but I will not hear: they shall seek me early, but they shall not find me: ^{1:29}And that because they hated knowledge, and received not the fear of the LORD, ^{1:30}but abhorred my counsel, and despised my correction. ^{1:31}Therefore shall they eat the fruits of their own way, and be filled with their own counsels: ^{1:32}for the turning away of the unwise shall slay them, and the prosperity of fools shall be their own destruction. ^{1:33}But who so hearkeneth unto me shall dwell safely, and have enough without any fear of evil. ^{2:1}My son, if thou wilt receive my words, and keep my commandments by thee, ^{2:2}that thine ear may hearken unto wisdom, apply thine heart then to understanding. ^{2:3}For if thou criest after wisdom, and callest after knowledge: ^{2:4}If thou seekest after her as after money, and diggest for her as for treasures: ^{2:5}then shalt thou understand the fear of the LORD, and find the knowledge of God. ^{2:6}For it is the LORD that giveth wisdom, out of his mouth cometh knowledge and understanding. ^{2:7}He preserveth the welfare of the righteous, and defendeth them that walk innocently: ^{2:8}He keepeth them in the right path, and preserveth the way of his saints. ^{2:9}Then shalt thou understand righteousness, judgment and equity, yea and every good path. ^{2:10}If wisdom enter into thine heart, and thy soul delight in knowledge: ^{2:11}then shall counsel preserve thee, and understanding shall keep thee. ^{2:12}That thou mayest be delivered from the evil way, and from the man that speaketh froward things. ^{2:13}From such as leave the high street, and walk in the ways of darkness: ^{2:14}Which rejoice in doing evil, and delight in wicked things: ^{2:15}Whose ways are crooked, and their paths slanderous.^e ^{2:16}That thou mayest be delivered also from the strange woman, and from her that is not thine own: which giveth sweet words, ^{2:17}forsaketh the husband of her youth, and forgeteth the covenant of her God. ^{2:18}For her house is inclined unto death, and her paths into hell. ^{2:19}All they that go in unto her, come not again, neither take they hold of the way of life. ^{2:20}That thou mayest walk in the good way, and keep the paths of the righteous. ^{2:21}For the just shall dwell in the land, and the innocent shall remain in it. ^{2:22}But the ungodly shall be rooted out of the land, and the wicked doers shall be taken out of it. ^{3:1}My son, forget not my law, but see that thine heart keep my commandments. ^{3:2}For they shall prolong the days and years of thy life, and bring thee peace. ^{3:3}Let mercy and faithfulness never go from thee: bind them about thy neck, and write them in the tables of thine heart. ^{3:4}So shalt thou find favor and good understanding in the sight of God and men. ^{3:5}Put thy trust in the LORD with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own understanding. ^{3:6}In all thy ways have respect unto him, and he shall order thy goings. ^{3:7}Be not wise in thine own conceit, but fear the LORD, and depart from evil: ^{3:8}so shall thy navel be whole, and thy bones strong. ^{3:9}Honour the LORD with thy substance, and with the firstlings of all thine increase: ^{3:10}So shall thy barns be filled with plenteousness, and thy presses shall flow over with sweet wine. ^{3:11}My son, despise not the chastening of the LORD, neither faint when thou are rebuked of him. ^{3:12}For whom the LORD loveth, him he chasteneth: and yet delighteth in him even as a father in his own son. ^{3:13}Well is him that findeth wisdom, and obtaineth understanding, ^{3:14}for the getting of it is better than any merchandise of silver, and the profit of it is better than gold. ^{3:15}Wisdom is more worth than precious stones, and all the things that thou canst desire, are not to be compared unto her. ^{3:16}Upon her right hand is long life, and upon her left hand is riches and honour. ^{3:17}Her ways are pleasant ways, and all her paths are peaceable. ^{3:18}She is a tree of life to them that lay hold upon her, and blessed are they that keep her fast. ^{3:19}With wisdom hath the LORD laid the foundation of the earth, and thorow understanding hath he stablished the heavens. ^{3:20}Thorow his wisdom the depths break up, and the clouds drop down of the dew. ^{3:21}My son, let not these things depart from thine eyes, but keep my law and my counsel: ^{3:22}So shall it be life unto thy soul, and grace unto thy mouth. ^{3:23}Then shalt thou walk safely in thy way, and thy foot shall not stumble. ^{3:24}If thou sleepest thou shalt not be afraid, but shall take thy rest and sleep sweetly. ^{3:25}Thou needest not to be afraid of any sudden fear, neither for the violent rushing of the ungodly, when it cometh. ^{3:26}For the LORD shall be beside thee, and keep thy foot that thou be not taken. ^{3:27}Refuse not to do good unto him that should have it, so long as thine hand is able to do it. ^{3:28}Say not unto thy neighbour: Go thy way and come again, tomorrow will I give thee: ^{3:29}where as thou hast now to give him. Intend no hurt unto thy neighbour, seeing he hopeth to dwell in rest by thee. ^{3:30}Strive not lightly with any man, where as he hath done thee no harm. ^{3:31}Follow not a wicked man, and choose none of his ways: ^{3:32}for the LORD abhorreth the froward, but his secret is among the righteous. ^{3:33}The curse of the LORD is in the house of the ungodly, but he blesseth the dwellings of the righteous. ^{3:34}As for the scornful, he shall laugh them to scorn, but he shall give grace unto the lowly. ^{3:35}The wise shall have honour in possession, but shame is the promotion that fools shall have. ^{4:1}Hear, O ye children, the fatherly exhortation, and take good heed, that ye may learn wisdom. ^{4:2}Yea I shall give you a good reward, if ye will not forsake my law. ^{4:3}For when I my self was my father's dear son, and tenderly beloved of my mother, ^{4:4}he taught me also, saying: Let thine heart receive my words, keep my commandments, and thou shalt live. ^{4:5}Get thee wisdom, get thee understanding, forget not the words of my mouth, and shrink not from them. ^{4:6}Forsake her not, and she shall preserve thee: love her, and she shall keep thee. ^{4:7}The chief point of wisdom is, that thou be willing to obtain wisdom, and before all thy goods to get the understanding. ^{4:8}Make much of her and she shall promote thee: Yea if thou embracest her, she shall bring thee unto honour. ^{4:9}She shall make thee a gracious head, and garnish thee with a^f crown of glory. ^{4:10}Hear, my son, and receive my words, that the years of thy life may be many. ^{4:11}I will shew thee, the way of wisdom, and lead thee in the right paths. ^{4:12}So that if thou goest therein, there shall no straitness hinder thee: and when thou runnest, thou shalt not fall. ^{4:13}Take fast hold of doctrine, let her not go: keep her, for she is thy life. ^{4:14}Come not in the path of the ungodly, and walk not in the way of the wicked. ^{4:15}Eschew it, and go not therein: depart aside, and pass over by it. ^{4:16}For they can not sleep, except they have first done some mischief: neither take they any rest, except they have first done some harm. ^{4:17}For they eat the bread of wickedness, and drink the wine of robbery. ^{4:18}The path of the righteous shineth as the light, and is ever brighter and brighter unto the perfect day. ^{4:19}But the way of the ungodly is as the darkness, wherein men fall, or they be aware.⁸ ^{4:20}My son, mark my words, and incline thine ear unto my sayings. ^{4:21}Let them not depart from thine eyes, keep them even in the midst of thine heart. ^{4:22}For they are life unto all those that find them, and health unto all their bodies. ^{4:23}Keep thine heart with all diligence, for there upon hangeth life. ^{4:24}Put away from thee a froward mouth, and let the lips of slander^h be far from thee. ^{4:25}Let thine eyes behold the thing that is right, and let thine eyelids look straight before thee. ^{4:26}Ponder the path of thy feet, so shall all thy ways be sure. ^{4:27}Turn not aside, neither to the right hand nor to the left, but withhold thy foot from evil. ^{5:1}My son, give heed unto my wisdom, and bow thine ear to my prudence: ^{5:2}that thou mayest regard good counsel, and that thy lips may keep nurture. ^{5:3}For the lips of an harlot are a dropping honeycomb, and her throat is softer than oil. ^{5:4}But at the last she is as bitter as wormwood, and as sharp as a two edged sword. ^{5:5}Her feet go down unto death, and her steps pierce thorow unto hell. ^{5:6}She regardeth not the path of life, so unsteadfast are her ways, that thou canst not know them. ^{5:7}Hear me therefore, (O my son) and depart not from the words of my mouth. ^{5:8}Keep thy way far from her, and come not nigh the doors of her house. ^{5:9}That thou give not thine honour unto another, and thy years to the cruel. ^{5:10}That other men be not filled with thy goods, and that thy labours come not in a strange house. ^{5:11}Yea that thou mourn not at the last, (when thou hast spent thy body and goods) ^{5:12}and then say: Alas, why hated I nurture? why did my heart despise correction? ^{5:13}Wherefore was not I obedient unto the voice of my teachers, and hearken not unto them that informed me? ^{5:14}I am come almost into all misfortune, in the midst of the multitude and congregation. ^{5:15}Drink of the water of thine own well, and of the rivers that run out of thine own springs. ^{5:16}Let thy wells flow out abroad, that there may be rivers of water in the streets: ^{5:17}but let them be only thine own, and not strangers' with thee. ^{5:18}Let thy well be blessed, and be glad with the wife of thy youth. ^{5:19}Loving is the hind, and friendly is the Roo: let her breasts alway satisfy thee, and hold thee ever content with her love. ^{5:20}My son, why wilt thou have pleasure in an harlot, and embrace the bosom of another woman? ^{5:21}For every man's ways are open in the sight of the LORD, and he pondereth all their goings. ^{5:22}The wickedness of the ungodly shall catch himself, and with the snares of his own sins shall he be trapped. ^{5:23}Because he would not be reformed, he shall die: and for his great foolishness he shall be destroyed. ^{6:1}My son, if thou be surety for thy neighbour, thou hast fastened thine hand with another man: ^{6:2}yea thou art bound with thine own words, and taken with thine own speach. ^{6:3}Therefore my son, do this: discharge thyself, for thou art come into thy neighbour's danger. Go thy way then soon, and entreat thy neighbour: ^{6:4}let not thine eyes sleep, nor thine eyelids slumber. ^{6:5}Save thyself as a doe from the hand, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler. ^{6:6}Go to the Emmet (thou sluggard) consider her ways, and learn to be wise. ^{6:7}She hath no guide, no teacher, no leader: ^{6:8}yet in the Summer she provideth her meat, and gathereth her food together in the harvest. ^{6:9}How long wilt thou sleep, thou sluggish man? When wilt thou arise out of thy sleep? ^{6:10}Yea sleep on still a little, slumber a little, fold thy hands together yet a little, that thou mayest sleep: ^{6:11}so shall poverty come unto thee as one that travaileth by the way, and necessity like a weaponed man. ^{6:12}A dissembling person,

a wicked man goeth with a froward mouth, ^{6:13}he winketh with his eyes, he tokeneth with his feet, he pointeth with his fingers, ^{6:14}he is ever imagining mischief and frowardness in his heart, and causeth discord. ^{6:15}Therefore shall his destruction come hastily upon him, suddenly shall he be all broken, and not healed. ^{6:16}There be six things which the LORD hateth, and the seventh he utterly abhorreth: ^{6:17}A proud look, a dissembling tongue, hands that shed innocent blood, ^{6:18}an heart that goeth about with wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in renning to do mischief, ^{6:19}a false witness that bringeth up lies, and such one as soweth discord among brethren. ^{6:20}My son, keep thy father's commandments, and forsake not the law of thy mother. ^{6:21}Put them up together in thine heart, and bind them about thy neck. ^{6:22}That they may lead thee where thou goest, preserve thee when thou art asleep, and that when thou awakest, thou mayest talk of them. ^{6:23}For the commandment is a lantern, and the law a light: yea chastening and nurture is the way of life: ^{6:24}that they may keep thee from the evil woman, and from the flattering tongue of the harlot: ^{6:25}that thou lust not after her beauty in thine heart, and lest thou be taken with her fair looks. ^{6:26}An Harlot will make a man to beg his bread, but a married woman will hunt for the precious life. ^{6:27}May a man take fire in his bosom, and his clothes not be brent? ^{6:28}Or can one go upon hot coals, and his feet not be hurt? ^{6:29}Even so, whosoever goeth in to his neighbour's wife, and toucheth her, can not be unguilty. ^{6:30}Men do not utterly despise a thief, that stealeth to satisfy his soul, when he is hungry: ^{6:31}But if he may be gotten, he restoreth again seven times as much, or else he maketh recompense with all the goods of his house. ^{6:32}But whoso committeth advoutry with a woman, he is a fool, and bringeth his life to destruction. ^{6:33}He getteth himself also shame and dishonour, such as shall never be put out. ^{6:34}For the jealousy and wrath of the man will not be intreated, ^{6:35}no though thou wouldest offer him great gifts to make amends, he will not receive them. ^{7:1}My son, keep my words, and lay up my commandments by thee. ^{7:2}Keep my commandments and my law, even as the apple of thine eye, and thou shalt live. ^{7:3}Bind them upon thy fingers, write them in the table of thine heart. ^{7:4}Say unto wisdom: Thou art my sister, and call understanding thy kinswoman: ^{7:5}That she may keep thee from the strange woman, and from the harlot which giveth sweet words. ^{7:6}For out of the window of my house I looked thorow the trellis, ^{7:7}and beheld the simple people: and among other young folks I spied one young fool ^{7:8}going over the streets, by the corner in the way toward the harlots house ^{7:9}in the twilight of the evening, when it began now to be night and dark. ^{7:10}And behold, there met him a woman in an harlot's apparel ^{7:11}(a deceitful, wanton and an unsteadfast woman: whose feet could not abide in the house, ^{7:12}now is she without, now in the streets, and lurketh in every corner.) ^{7:13}She caught the young man, kissed him, and was not ashamed, saying: ^{7:14}I had a vow to pay, and this day I perform it. ^{7:15}Therefore came I forth to meet thee, that I might seek thy face, and so I have found thee. ^{7:16}I have decked my bed with coverings and clothes of Egypt. ^{7:17}My bed have I made to smell of Myrrh, Aloes, and Cinnamon. ^{7:18}Come, let us lie together, and take our pleasure till it be day light. ^{7:19}For the goodman is not at home, he is gone far off. ^{7:20}He hath taken the bag of money with him: who can tell when he cometh home? ^{7:21}Thus with many sweet words she overcome him, and with her flattering lips she wanne him. ^{7:22}Immediately he followeth her, as it were an ox to the slaughter (and like as it were to the stocks, where fools are punished) ^{7:23}so long till she hath wounded his liver with her dart: like as if a bird hasted to the snare, not knowing that the peril of his life lieth thereupon. ^{7:24}Hear me now therefore, O my son, and mark the words of my mouth. ^{7:25}Let not thine heart wander in her ways, and be not thou deceived in her paths. ^{7:26}For many one hath she wounded and cast down, yea many a strong man hath she slain. ^{7:27}Her houses is the way to hell, where men go down into the chambers of death. ^{8:1}Doth not wisdom cry? doth not understanding put forth her voice? ^{8:2}Standeth she not in the highⁱ places in the streets and ways? ^{8:3}Doth she not cry before the whole city, and in the gates where men go out and in? ^{8:4}It is you, O ye men, (sayeth she) whom I call? Unto you (O ye children of men) lift I up my voice. ^{8:5}Take heed unto knowledge

O ye ignorant, be wise in heart O ye fools.
^{8:6}Give ear, for I will speak of great matters, and open my lips to tell things that be right. ^{8:7}For my throat shall be talking of the truth, and my lips abhor ungodliness. ^{8:8}All the words of my mouth are righteous, there is no frowardness nor falsity therein. ^{8:9}They are all plain to such as will understand, and right to them that find knowledge. ^{8:10}Receive my doctrine therefore, and not silver: and my knowledge, more than fine gold. ^{8:11}For wisdom is more worth than precious stones, yea all the things that thou canst desire, are not to be compared unto it. ^{8:12}I wisdom have my dwelling with knowledge, and prudent counsel is mine own. ^{8:13}With me is the fear of the LORD, and the eschewing of evil. As for pride, disdain, and evil way, and a mouth that speaketh wicked things, I utterly abhor them. ^{8:14}I can give counsel, and be a guide: I have understanding, I have strength. ^{8:15}Thorow me, kings reign: thorow me, princes make just laws. ^{8:16}Thorow me, lords bear rule, and all judges of the earth execute judgement. ^{8:17}I am loving unto those that love me, and they that seek me early, shall find me. ^{8:18}Riches and honour are with me, yea excellent goods and righteousness. ^{8:19}My fruit is better than gold, and precious stone, and mine increase more worth than fine silver. ^{8:20}I walk in the way of righteousness, and in the street of judgment. ^{8:21}That I may send prosperity to those that love me, and to increase their treasure. ^{8:22}The LORD himself had me in possession in the beginning of his ways, or ever he began his works afore time. ^{8:23}I have been ordained from everlasting, and from the beginning or ever the earth was made. ^{8:24}When I was born, there were neither depths nor springs of water. ^{8:25}Before the foundations of the mountains were laid, yea before all hills was I born. ^{8:26}The earth and all that is upon the earth was not yet made, no not the ground itself. ^{8:27}For when he made the heavens, I was present: when he set up the depths in order: ^{8:28}when he hanged the clouds above: when he fastened the springs of the deep: ^{8:29}When he shut the sea within certain bounds, that the waters should not go over their marks. When he laid the foundations of the earth ^{8:30}I was with him, ordering all things, delighting daily, and rejoicing all way before him. ^{8:31}As for the round compass of his world, I make it joyful: for my delight is to be among the children of men. ^{8:32}Therefore harken unto me, O ye children, for blessed are they that keep my ways. ^{8:33}O give ear unto nurture, be wise, and refuse it not. ^{8:34}Blessed is the man that heareth me, watching daily at my gates, and giving attendance at the posts of my doors. ^{8:35}For whoso findeth me, findeth life, and shall obtain favour of the LORD. ^{8:36}But whoso offendeth against me, hurteth his own soul. All they that hate me, are the lovers of death. ^{9:1}Wisdom hath builded herself an house, and hewn out seven pillars: ^{9:2}She hath killed her vitailles,^j poured out her wine, and prepared her table. ^{9:3}She hath sent forth her maidens to cry upon the highest^k place of the city: ^{9:4}Who so is ignorant, let him come hither. as for the words of the spiteful, he bringeth them to naught. ^{22:13}The slothful body sayeth: There is a lion^a without, I might be slain in the street. ^{22:14}The mouth of an harlot is a deep pit, wherein he falleth that the LORD is angry withal. ^{22:15}Foolishness sticketh in the heart of the lad, but the rod of correction driveth it away. ^{22:16}Who so doth a poor man wrong to increase his own riches, giveth (commonly) unto the rich, and at the last cometh to poverty himself. ^{22:17}My son, bow down thine ear, and harken unto the words of wisdom, apply thy mind unto my doctrine: ^{22:18}for it is a pleasant thing if thou keep it in thine heart, and practice it in thy mouth: ^{22:19}that thou mayest alway put thy trust in the LORD. ^{22:20}Have not I warned thee very oft with counsel and learning? ^{22:21}That I might shew thee the truth and that thou with the verity mightest answer them that lay anything against thee? ^{22:22}See that thou rob not the poor because he is weak, and oppress not the simple in judgement: ^{22:23}for the LORD himself will defend their cause, and do violence unto them that have used violence. ^{22:24}Make no friendship with an angry willful man, and keep no company with the furious: ^{22:25}lest thou learn his ways, and receive hurt unto thy soul. ^{22:26}Be not thou one of them that bind their hand upon promise, and are surety for debt: ^{22:27}for if thou hast nothing to pay, they shall take away thy bed from under thee. ^{22:28}Thou shalt not remove the landmark, which thy fore elders have set. ^{22:29}Seest thou not, that they which be diligent in their business stand before kings, and not among the simple people? ^{23:1}When thou sittest at the table to eat with a lord, order thyself mannerly with the things that are set before thee. ^{23:2}Measure thine appetite: ^{23:3}and if thou wilt rule thy own self, be not over greedy of his meat, for meat beguileth and deceiveth. ^{23:4}Take not over great travail and labour to be rich, beware of such a purpose. ^{23:5}Why wilt thou set thine eye upon the thing, which suddenly vanisheth away? For riches make themselves wings, and take their flight like an Aegle into the air. ^{23:6}Eat not thou with the envious, and desire not his meat, ^{23:7}for he hath a marvelous heart. He sayeth unto thee:

eat and drink, whereas his heart is not with thee. ^{23:8}Yea the morsels that thou hast eaten shalt thou perbreak and loose^b those sweet words. ^{23:9}Tell nothing into the ears of a fool, for he will despise the wisdom of thy words. ^{23:10}Remove not the old landmark, and come not within the field of the fatherless. ^{23:11}For he that delivereth them is mighty, even he shall defend their cause against thee. ^{23:12}Apply thine heart unto learning, and thine ear to the words of knowledge. ^{23:13}Withhold not correction from the child, for if thou beatest him with the rod, he shall not die thereof. ^{23:14}Thou smitest him with the rod, but thou deliverest his soul from hell. ^{23:15}My son, if thy heart receive wisdom, my heart also shall rejoice: ^{23:16}yea my reins shall be very glad, if thy lips speak the thing that is right. ^{23:17}Let not thine heart be jealous to follow sinners, but keep thee still in the fear of the LORD all the day long: ^{23:18}For the end is not yet come and thy patient abiding shall not be in vain. ^{23:19}My son, give ear and be wise, so shall thine heart prosper in the way. ^{23:20}Keep no company with winebibbers and riotous eaters of flesh: ^{23:21}for such as be drunkards and riotous shall come to poverty, and he that is given to much sleep, shall go with a ragged coat. ^{23:22}Give ear unto thy father that begat thee, and despise not thy mother when she is old. ^{23:23}Labour for to get the truth: sell not away wisdom, nurture and understanding, ^{23:24}for a righteous father is marvelous glad of a wise son, and delighteth in him, ^{23:25}so shall thy father be glad, and thy mother that bare thee, shall rejoice. ^{23:26}My son, give me thine heart, and let thine eyes have pleasure in my ways. ^{23:27}For an whore is a deep grave, and an harlot is a narrow pit. ^{23:28}She lurketh like a thief, and those that be not aware^c she bringeth unto her. ^{23:29}Where is woe? where is sorrow? where is strife? where is brawling? where are wounds without cause? where be reed eyes? ^{23:30}Even among those that be ever at the wine, and seek out where the best is. ^{23:31}Look not thou upon the wine, how red it is, and what a color it giveth in the glass. ^{23:32}It goeth down softly, but at the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth as an adder. ^{23:33}So shall thine eyes look unto strange women, and thine heart shall muse upon froward things. ^{23:34}Yea thou shalt be as though thou slept in the midst of the sea, or on the top of the mast. ^{23:35}They wounded me (shalt thou say) but it hath not hurt me, they smote me, but I felt it not. When I am well awakened, I will go to the drink again. ^{24:1}Be not thou jealous over wicked men, and desire not thou to be among them. ^{24:2}For their heart imagineth to do hurt, and their lips talk of mischief. ^{24:3}Thorow wisdom an house shall be builded, and with understanding it shall be set up. ^{24:4}Thorow discretion shall the chambers be filled with all costly and pleasant riches. ^{24:5}A wise man is strong, yea a man of understanding is better than he that is mighty of strength. ^{24:6}For with discretion must wars be taken in hand, and where as are many that can give counsel, there is the victory. ^{24:7}Wisdom is an high thing, yea even to the fool, for he dare not open his mouth in the gate. ^{24:8}He that imagineth mischief, may well be called an ungracious person. ^{24:9}The thought of the foolish is sin, and the scornful is an abomination unto men. ^{24:10}If thou be oversene and negligent in time of need, then is thy strength but small. ^{24:11}Deliver them that go unto death, and are led away to be slain, and be not negligent therein. ^{24:12}If thou wilt say: I knew not of it; Thinkest thou that he which made the hearts, doth not consider it? And that he which regardeth thy soul, seeth it not? Shall not he recompense every man according to his works? ^{24:13}My son, thou eatest honey and the sweet honeycomb, because it is good and sweet in thy mouth. ^{24:14}Even so shall the knowledge of wisdom be unto thy soul, as soon as thou hast gotten it. And there is good hope, yea thy hope shall not be in vain. ^{24:15}Lay no privy wait wickedly upon the house of the righteous, and disquiet not his resting place. ^{24:16}For a just man falleth seven times, and riseth up again, but the ungodly fall into wickedness. ^{24:17}Rejoice not thou at the fall of thine enemy, and let not thine heart be glad when he stumbleth. ^{24:18}Lest the LORD when he seeth it, be angry, and turn his wrath from him unto thee. ^{24:19}Let not thy wrath and jealousy move thee, to follow the wicked and ungodly. ^{24:20}And why? the wicked hath nothing to hope for, and the candle of the ungodly shall be put out. ^{24:21}My son, fear thou the LORD and the king, and keep no company with the slanderous:^d ^{24:22}For their destruction shall come suddenly, and who knoweth the fall of them both? ^{24:23}These are also the sayings of the wise. It is not good to have respect of any person in judgment. ^{24:24}He that sayeth unto the ungodly: Thou art righteous, him shall the people curse, yea the comity shall abhor him. ^{24:25}But they that rebuke the ungodly shall be commended, and a rich blessing shall come upon them. ^{24:26}He maketh himself to be well loved, that giveth a good answer. ^{24:27}First make up thy work that is without, and look well unto that which thou hast in the field, and then build thine house. ^{24:28}Be no false witness against thy neighbour, and hurt him not with thy lips. ^{24:29}Say not: I will handle him, even as he hath dealt with me, and will reward every man according to his deeds. ^{24:30}I went by the field of the slothful, and by the vineyards of the foolish man. ^{24:31}And lo, it was all covered with nettles, and stood full of thistles, and the stone wall was broken down. ^{24:32}This I saw, and considered it well: I looked upon it, and took it for a warning. ^{24:33}Yea sleep on still a little, slumber a little, fold thine hands together yet a little: ^{24:34}so shall poverty come unto thee as one that travaileth by the way, and necessity like a weaponed man. ^{25:1}These also are the sayings^e of Solomon, which the men of Hezekiah king of Judah gathered together. ^{25:2}It is the honour of God to keep a thing secret, but the king's honour is to search out a thing. ^{25:3}The heaven is high, the earth is deep, and the kings' heart is unsearchable. ^{25:4}Take the dross from the silver, and there shall be a clean vessel thereof. ^{25:5}Take away ungodliness from the king, and his seat shall be stablished with righteousness. ^{25:6}Put not forth thyself in the presence of the king, and prease not into the place of great men. ^{25:7}Better it is that it be said unto thee: Come up hither, than thou to be set down in the presence of the prince whom thou seest with thine eyes. ^{25:8}Be not hasty to go to the law, lest happily thou order thyself so that at the last, that thy neighbour put thee to shame. ^{25:9}Handle thy matter with thy neighbour himself, and discover not another man's secret: ^{25:10}lest when men hear thereof, it turn to thy dishonour, and lest thine evil name do not cease. ^{25:11}A word spoken in due season, is like apples of gold in a silver dish. ^{25:12}The correction of the wise is to an obedient ear, a golden chain and a Jewel of gold. ^{25:13}Like as the winter cool in the harvest, so is a faithful messenger to him that sent him, and refresheth his master's mind. ^{25:14}Whoso maketh great boasts and giveth nothing, is like clouds and wind without rain. ^{25:15}With patience may a prince be pacified, and with a soft tongue may rigorousness be broken. ^{25:16}If thou findest honey, eat so much as is sufficient for thee: lest thou be over full, and perbreak it out again. ^{25:17}Withdraw thy foot from thy neighbour's house, lest he be weary of thee, and so abhor thee. ^{25:18}Who so beareth false witness against his neighbour, he is a very spear, a sword, and a sharp arrow. ^{25:19}The hope of the ungodly in time of need, is like a rotten tooth and a slippery foot. ^{25:20}Who so singeth a song to a wicked heart, clotheth him with rags in the cold, and poureth vinegar upon chalk. ^{25:21}If thine enemy hunger, feed him: if he thirst, give him drink: ^{25:22}For so shalt thou heap coals of fire upon his head, and the LORD shall reward thee. ^{25:23}The north wind driveth away the rain, even so doth an earnest sober countenance a backbiter's tongue. ^{25:24}It is better to sit in a corner under the roof, than with a brawling woman in a wide house. ^{25:25}A good report out of a far country, is like cold water to a thirsty soul. ^{25:26}A righteous man falling down before the ungodly, is like a troubled well and a spring that is destroyed. ^{25:27}Like as it is not good to eat too much honey, even so he that will search out high things, it shall be too heavy for him. ^{25:28}He that can not rule himself, is like a city which is broken down, and hath no walls. ^{26:1}Like as snow is not mete in summer, nor rain in harvest: even so is worship unseemly for a fool. ^{26:2}Like as the bird, and the swallow take their flight and flee here and there, so the curse that is given in vain, shall not light upon a man. ^{26:3}Unto the horse belongeth a whip, to the Ass a bridle, and a rod to the fool's back. ^{26:4}Give not the fool an answer after his foolishness, lest thou become like unto him: ^{26:5}but make the fool an answer to his foolishness, lest he be wise in his own conceit. ^{26:6}He is lame of his feet, yea drunken is he in vanity, that committeth anything to a fool. ^{26:7}Like as it is an unseemly thing to have legs and yet to halt, even so is a parable in the fool's mouth. ^{26:8}He that setteth a fool in high dignity, that is even as if a man did cast a precious stone upon the galous. ^{26:9}A parable in a fools mouth is like a thorn that pricketh a drunken man in the hand. ^{26:10}A man of experience discerneth all things well, but whoso hireth a fool, hireth such one as will take no heed. ^{26:11}Like as the dog turneth again to his vomit, even so a fool beginneth his foolishness again afresh. ^{26:12}If thou seest a man that is wise in his own conceit, there is more hope in a fool than in him. ^{26:13}The slothful sayeth: There is a leopard in the way, and a lion in the midst of the streets. ^{26:14}Like as the door turneth about upon the threshold, even so doth the slothful welter himself in his bed. ^{26:15}The slothful body thrusteth his hand into his bosom, and it grieveth him to put it again to his mouth. ^{26:16}The sluggard thinketh himself wiser, than seven men that sit and teach. ^{26:17}Who so goeth by and meddleth with other men's strife, he is like one that taketh a dog by the ears. ^{26:18}Like as one shooteth deadly arrows and darts out of a privy place, even so doth a dissembler with his neighbour. ^{26:19}And then sayeth he: I did it but in sport. ^{26:20}Where no wood is, there the fire goeth out: and where the backbiter is taken away, there the strife ceaseth. ^{26:21}Coals kindle heat, and wood the fire: even so doth a brawling fellow stir up variance. ^{26:22}A slanderer's words are like flattery, but they pierce the inward parts of the body. ^{26:23}Venomous lips and a wicked heart are like a potsherd covered with silver dross. ^{26:24}An enemy dissembleth with his lips, and in the mean season he imagineth mischief: ^{26:25}but when he speaketh fair, believe him not, for there are seven abominations in his heart. ^{26:26}Who so keepeth evil will, secretly to do hurt, his malice shall be shewed before the whole congregation. ^{26:27}Who so diggeth up a pit, shall fall therein: and he that weltereth a stone, shall stumble upon it himself. ^{26:28}A dissembling tongue hateth one that rebuketh him, and a flattering mouth worketh mischief. ^{27:1}Make not thy boast^f of to morrow, for thou knowest not what may happen to day. ^{27:2}Let another man praise thee, and not thine own mouth: yea other folk's lips and not thine. ^{27:3}The stone is heavy, and the sand weighty: but a fool's wrath is heavier than they both. ^{27:4}Wrath is a cruel thing, and furiusness is a very tempest: yea who is able to abide envy? ^{27:5}An open rebuke is better than secret love. ^{27:6}Faithful are the wounds of a lover, but the kisses of an enemy are deceitful. ^{27:7}He that is full, abhorreth an honeycomb: but unto him that is hungry, every sour thing is sweet. ^{27:8}He that oft times flitteth, is like a bird that forsaketh her nest. ^{27:9}The heart is glad of a sweet ointment and savour, but a stomach that can give good counsel, rejoiceth a man's neighbour. ^{27:10}Thine own friend, and thy father's friend, see thou forsake not, but go not into thy brother's house in time of thy trouble. Better is a friend at hand than a brother far off. ^{27:11}My son, be wise, and thou shalt make me a glad heart: so that I shall make answer unto my rebukers. ^{27:12}A wise man seeing the plague will hide himself, as for fools they go on still, and suffer harm. ^{27:13}Take his garment that is surety for a stranger, and take a pledge of him for the unknown man's sake. ^{27:14}He that is too hasty to praise his neighbour above measure, shall be taken as one that giveth him an evil report. ^{27:15}A brawling woman and the roof of the house dropping in a rainy day, may well be compared together. ^{27:16}He that refraineth her, refraineth the wind, and holdeth oil fast in his hand. ^{27:17}Like as one iron wheteth another, so doth one man comfort another. ^{27:18}Who so keepeth his fig tree, shall enjoy the fruits thereof: he that waiteth upon his master, shall come to honour. ^{27:19}Like as in one water there appear divers faces, even so divers men have divers hearts. ^{27:20}Like as hell and destruction are never full, even so the eyes of men can never be satisfied. ^{27:21}Silver is tried in the mould, and gold in the furnace, and so is a man, when he is openly praised to his face. ^{27:22}Though thou shouldst bray a fool with a pedestal in a mortar like oatmeal, yet will not his foolishness go from him. ^{27:23}See that thou know the number of thy cattle thy self, and look well to thy flocks. ^{27:24}For riches abide not away, and the crown endureth not for ever. ^{27:25}The hay groweth, the grass cometh up, and herbs are gathered in the mountains. ^{27:26}The lambs shall clothe thee, and for the goats thou shalt have money to thy husbandry. ^{27:27}Thou shalt have goats' milk enough to feed thee, to uphold thy household, and to sustain thy maidens. ^{28:1}The ungodly fleeth^g no man chasing him, but the righteous standeth stiff as a lion. ^{28:2}Because of sin the land doth oft change her prince: but thorough men of understanding and wisdom a realm endureth long. ^{28:3}One poor man oppressing another by violence, is like a continual rain that destroyeth the fruit. ^{28:4}They that forsake the law, praise the ungodly: but such as keep the law, abhor them. ^{28:5}Wicked men discern not the thing that is right, but they that seek after the LORD, discuss all things. ^{28:6}A poor man leading a godly life, is better than the rich that goeth in froward ways. ^{28:7}Whoso keepeth the law, is a child of understanding: but he that feedeth riotous men, shameth his father. ^{28:8}Who so increaseth his riches by vantage and winning, let him gather them to help the poor withal. ^{28:9}He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, his prayer shall be abhorred. ^{28:10}Who so leadeth the righteous in to an evil way, shall fall into his own pit, but the just shall have the good in possession. ^{28:11}The rich man thinketh himself to be wise, but the poor that hath understanding, can perceive him well enough. ^{28:12}When righteous men are in prosperity, then doth honour flourish: but when the ungodly come up, the state of men changeth. ^{28:13}He that hideth his sins, shall not prosper: but who so knowledgeth them and forsaketh them, shall have mercy. ^{28:14}Well is him that standeth always in awe: as for him that hardeneth his heart, he shall fall into mischief. ^{28:15}Like as a roaring lion and an hungry bear, even so is an ungodly prince over the poor people. ^{28:16}Where the prince is without understanding, there is great oppression and wrong: but if he be such one as hateth covetousness, he shall long reign. ^{28:17}He that by violence sheddeth any man's blood, shall be a runagate unto his grave, and no man shall be able to succor him. ^{28:18}Who so leadeth a godly and an innocent life, shall be safe: but he that goeth froward ways, shall once have a fall. ^{28:19}He that tilleth his land, shall have plenteousness of bread: but he that followeth idleness, shall have poverty enough.

^{28:20}A faithful man is greatly to be commended, but he that maketh too much haste for to be rich, shall not be unguilty. ^{28:21}To have respect of persons in judgement is not good: And why? he will do wrong, yea even for a piece of bread. ^{28:22}He that will be rich all too soon, hath an evil eye, and considereth not that poverty shall come upon him. ^{28:23}He that rebuketh a man, shall find more favour at the last, than he that flattereth him. ^{28:24}Who so robbeth his father and mother, and sayeth it is no sin: the same is like unto a murderer. ^{28:25}He that is of a proud stomach, stirreth up strife: but he that putteth his trust in the LORD, shall be well fed. ^{28:26}He that trusteth in his own heart, is a fool: but he that dealeth wisely, shall be safe. ^{28:27}He that giveth unto the poor, shall not want: but he that turneth away his eyes from such as be in necessity, shall suffer great poverty himself. ^{28:28}When the ungodly are come up, men are fain to hide themselves: but when they perish, the righteous increase. ^{29:1}He that is stiff necked and will not be reformed, shall suddenly be destroyed without any help. ^{29:2}Where the righteous have the over hand, the people are in prosperity: but where the ungodly beareth rule, there the people mourn. ^{29:3}Who so loveth wisdom, maketh his father a glad man: but he that keepeth harlots, spendeth away that he hath. ^{29:4}With true judgment the king setteth up the land, but he be a man that taketh gifts, he turneth it upside down. ^{29:5}Who so flattereth his neighbour, layeth a net for his feet. ^{29:6}The sin of the wicked is his own snare, but the righteous shall be glad and rejoice. ^{29:7}The righteous considereth the cause of the poor, but the ungodly regardeth no understanding. ^{29:8}Wicked people bring a city in decay, but wise men set it up again. ^{29:9}If a wise man go to law with a fool (whether he deal with him friendly or roughly) he getteth no rest. ^{29:10}The bloodthirsty hate the righteous, but the just seek his soul. ^{29:11}A fool poureth out his spirit altogether, but a wise man keepeth it in till afterward. ^{29:12}If a prince delight in lies, all his servants are ungodly. ^{29:13}The poor and the lender meet^h together, the LORD lighteneth both their eyes. ^{29:14}The seat of the king that faithfully judgeth the poor, shall continue sure for ever more. ^{29:15}The rod and correction minister wisdom, but if a child be not looked unto, he bringeth his mother to shame. ^{29:16}When the ungodly come up, wickedness increaseth: but the righteous shall see their fall. ^{29:17}Nurture thy son with correction, and he shall comfort thee, yea he shall do the good at thine heart. ^{29:18}Where no Prophet is, there the people perish: but well is him that keepeth the law. ^{29:19}A servant will not be the better for words, for though he understand, yet will he not regard them. ^{29:20}If thou seest a man that is hasty to speak unadvised, thou mayest trust a fool more than him. ^{29:21}He that delicately bringeth up his servant from a child, shall make him his master at length. ^{29:22}An angry man stirreth up strife, and he that beareth evil will in his mind, doth much evil. ^{29:23}After pride cometh a fall, but a lowly spirit bringeth great worship. ^{29:24}Who so keepeth company with a thief, hateth his own soul: he heareth blasphemies, and telleth it not forth. ^{29:25}He that feareth men, shall have a fall: but whoso putteth his trust in the LORD shall come to honour. ^{29:26}Many there be that seek the prince's favour, but every man's judgement cometh from the LORD. ^{29:27}The righteous abhorreth the ungodly: but as for those that be in the right way, the wicked hate them. ^{30:1}The words of Agur the son of Jakeh. The prophecy of a true faithful man, whom God hath helped, whom God had^d comforted and nourished. ^{30:2}For though I am the least of all, and have no man's understanding ^{30:3}(for I never learned wisdom) yet have I understanding, and am well informed in godly things. ^{30:4}Who hath climbed up into heaven? Who hath come down from thence? Who hath holden the wind fast in his hand? Who hath comprehended the waters in a garment? Who hath set all the ends of the world? What is his name, or his son's name? Canst thou tell? ^{30:5}All the words of God are pure and clean, for he is a shield unto all them that put their trust in him. ^{30:6}Put thou nothing therefore unto his words, lest he reprove thee, and thou be found as a liar. ^{30:7}Two things I require of thee, that thou will not deny me before I die. ^{30:8}Remove from me vanity and

lies: give me neither poverty nor riches, only grant me a necessary living. ^{30:9}Lest I be so full, I deny thee, and say: What fellow is the LORD? And lest I being constrained thorow poverty, fall unto stealing, and foreswear the name of my God. ^{30:10}Accuse not a servant unto his master, lest he speak evil of thee also, and thou be hurt. ^{30:11}He that bringeth up an evil report upon the generation of his father and mother, is not worthy to be commended. ^{30:12}The generation that think themselves clean, shall not be cleansed from their filthiness. ^{30:13}There are people that have a proud look, and cast up their eyelids. ^{30:14}This peoples teeth are swords, and with their chaff bones they consume and devour the simple of the earth, and the poor from among men. ^{30:15}This generation which is like an horseleach, hath two daughters: the one is called fetch hither, and the other bring hither. ^{30:16}There be three things that are never satisfied, and the fourth sayeth never hoo. The hell, a woman's womb, and the earth hath never water enough. As for fire, it sayeth never, hoo. ^{30:17}Who so laugheth his father to scorn, and setteth his mother's commandment at naught: the ravens pick out his eyes in the valley, and devoured be he of the young Aegles. ^{30:18}There be three things too high for me, and as for the fourth, it passeth my knowledge. ^{30:19}The way of an Aegle in the air, the way of a serpent over a^j stone, the way of a ship in the sea, and the way of a man with a young woman. ^{30:20}Such is the way also of a wife that breaketh wedlock, which wipeth her mouth like as when she hath eaten, and sayeth: As for me, I have done no harm. ^{30:21}Thorow three things the earth is disquieted, and the fourth may it not bear: ^{30:22}thorow a servant that beareth rule, thorow a fool that hath great riches, ^{30:23}thorow an idle housewife, and thorow an handmaiden that is heir to her mistress. ^{30:24}There be four things in the earth, the which are very little: but in wisdom they exceed the wise. ^{30:25}The Emmettes are but a weak people, yet gather they their meat together in the harvest. ^{30:26}The conies are but a feeble folk, yet make they their couches among the rocks. ^{30:27}The grasshoppers have not a guide, yet go they forth together by heaps. ^{30:28}The spider laboureth with her hands, and that in the kings' palace. ^{30:29}There be three things that go stiffly, but the going of the fourth is the goodliest of all. ^{30:30}A Lion which is king of beasts, and giveth place to no man: ^{30:31}A cock ready to fight: A ram: and a king that goeth forth with his people. ^{30:32}If thou be so foolish to magnify thyself, or meddlest with any such thing, then lay thine hand upon thy mouth. ^{30:33}Who so churneth milk, maketh butter: he that rubbeth his nose, maketh it bleed: and he that causeth wrath, bringeth forth strife. ^{31:1}The^k words of king Lemuel, and the Prophecy^l that his mother taught him. ^{31:2}My son, thou son of my body: O my dear beloved son, ^{31:3}give not over thy substance and mind unto women, which are the destruction even of kings. ^{31:4}O Lamuel, give kings no wine, give kings and princes no strong drink: ^{31:5}Lest they being drunken forget the law, and regard not the cause of the poor, and of all such as be in adversity. ^{31:6}Give strong drink unto such as are condemned to death, and wine unto those that mourne: ^{31:7}that they may drink it, and forget their misery and adversity. ^{31:8}Be thou an advocate and stand in judgement thyself, to speak for all such as be dumb and scourless. ^{31:9}With thy mouth defend the thing that is lawful and right, and the cause of the poor and helpless. ^{31:10}Aleph Who so findeth an honest faithful woman, she is much more worth than pearls.^m ^{31:11}Beth The heart of her husband may safely trust in her, so that he shall have no need of spoils.ⁿ ^{31:12}Gimel She will do him good and not evil all the days of her life.^o ^{31:13}Daleth She occupieth wool and flax, and laboureth gladly with her hands.^p ^{31:14}He She is like the merchants' ship, that bringeth her vitailles from afar.^q ^{31:15}Vav She is up in the night season, to provide meat for her household, and food for

^bStrength and glory were her raiment, and she laughed in the latter days.

^cShe opened her mouth with wisdom, and the law of righteousness was on her tongue.

^fMany daughters have done excellently but thou hast passed them all.

^gFavour is a deceivable thing, and beauty is vanity. But a woman that feareth GOD, she shall be praised.

The book of the preacher, otherwise called Ecclesiastes

^{1:1}These are the words of the Preacher, the son of David, king of Jerusalem. ^{1:2}All is but vanity (sayeth the Preacher) all is but plain vanity. ^{1:3}For what else hath a man, of all the labor that he taketh under the Sun? ^{1:4}One generation passeth away, another cometh, but the earth abideth still. ^{1:5}The Son ariseth, the son goeth down, and returneth to his place, that he may there rise up again. ^{1:6}The wind goeth toward the South, and fetcheth his compass about unto the North, and so turneth in to himself again. ^{1:7}All floods run into the sea, and yet the sea is not filled: for look unto what place the waters run, thence they come again. ^{1:8}All things are so hard, that no man can express them. The eye is not satisfied with sight, the ear is not filled with hearing. ^{1:9}The thing that hath been, cometh to pass again: and the thing that hath been done, is done again, there is no new thing under the Sun. ^{1:10}Is there any thing, whereof it may be said: Lo, this is new? For it was long ago in the times that have been before us. ^{1:11}The thing that is past, is out of remembrance: Even so the things that are for to come, shall no more be thought upon among them that come after. ^{1:12}I myself the Preacher, being king of Israel and Jerusalem, ^{1:13}applied my mind to seek out and search for the knowledge of all things that are done under heaven. Such travail and labor hath God given to the children of men, to exercise themselves therein. ^{1:14}Thus I have considered all the things that come to pass under the Sun, and lo, they are all but vanity and vexation of mind. ^{1:15}The crooked can not be made straight, and the faults can not be numbered. ^{1:16}I communed^a with mine own heart, saying: Lo, I am come to a great estate, and have gotten more wisdom, than all they that have been before me in Jerusalem. Yea, my heart had great experience of wisdom and knowledge, ^{1:17}for there unto I applied my mind: that I might know what were wisdom and understanding, what were error and foolishness. And I perceived that this also was but a vexation of mind: ^{1:18}For where much wisdom is, there is also great travail and disquietness: and the more knowledge a man hath, the more is his care. ^{2:1}Then said I thus in my heart: Now go to, I will take mine ease and have good days. But lo, that was vanity also: ^{2:2}in so much that I said unto laughter: thou art mad, and to mirth: What doest thou? ^{2:3}So I thought in my heart, to withdraw my flesh from wine, to apply my mind unto wisdom, and to comprehend foolishness until the time that among all the things which are under the Sun, I might see what were best for men to do, so long as they live under heaven. ^{2:4}I made gorgeous fair works. I builded me houses, and planted vineyards. ^{2:5}I made me orchards and gardens of pleasure, and planted trees in them of all manner fruits. ^{2:6}I made pools of water, to water the green and fruitful trees withal. ^{2:7}I bought servants and maidens, and had a great household. As for cattle and sheep, I had more substance of them, than all they that were before me in Jerusalem. ^{2:8}I gathered silver and gold together, even a treasure of kings and lands. I provided me singers and women which could play of instruments, to make man mirth and pastime. I gat me drinking cups also and glasses. ^{2:9}Shortly, I was greater and in more worship, than all my predecessors in Jerusalem. For wisdom remained with me: ^{2:10}And look whatsoever mine eyes desired, I let them have it: and wherein soever my heart delighted, or had any pleasure, I withheld it not from it. Thus my heart rejoiced in all that I did, and this I took for the portion of all my travail. ^{2:11}But when I considered all the works that my hands had wrought, and all the labours that I had taken therein: Lo, all was vanity and vexation of mind, and nothing of any value under the Sun. ^{2:12}Then turned I me to consider wisdom, error and foolishness, for what is he among men, that might be compared to me the king in such work? ^{2:13}And I saw that wisdom excelleth foolishness, as far as light doth darkness. ^{2:14}For a wise man beareth his eyes about in his head, but the fool goeth in the darkness. I perceived also that they both had one end. ^{2:15}Then thought I in my mind: If it happeneth unto the fool as it doth unto me, what needeth me then to labour any more for wisdom? So I confessed within my heart, that this also was but vanity. ^{2:16}For the wise are ever as little in remembrance as the foolish, and all the days for to come shall be forgotten, yea the wise man dieth as well as the fool. ^{2:17}Thus began I to be weary of my life, in so much that I could away with nothing that is done under the Sun, for all was but vanity and vexation of mind: ^{2:18}Yea I was weary of all my labour, which I had taken under the Sun, because I should be fain to leave them unto another man, that cometh after me ^{2:19}for who knoweth, whether he shall be a wise man or a fool? And yet shall he be lord of all my labours, which I with such wisdom have taken under the Sun. Is not this a vain thing? ^{2:20}So I turned me to refrain my mind from all such travail, as I took under the Sun: ^{2:21}For so much as a man should weary himself with wisdom, with understanding and opportunity, and yet be fain to leave his labours unto another, that never sweat for them. This is also a vain thing and a great misery. ^{2:22}For what getteth a man of all the labor and travail of his mind, that he taketh under the Sun, ^{2:23}but heaviness, sorrow and disquietness all the days of his life? In so much that his heart can not rest in the night. Is not this also a vain thing? ^{2:24}Is it not better then for a man to eat and drink, and his soul to be merry in his labour? Yea I saw that this also was a gift of God: ^{2:25}For who may eat, drink, or bring anything to pass without him? And why? ^{2:26}He giveth unto man, what it pleaseth him: whether it be wisdom, understanding, or gladness. But unto the sinner he giveth weariness and sorrow, that he may gather and heap together the thing, that afterward shall be given unto him whom it pleaseth God. This is now a vain thing, yea a very disquietness and vexation of mind. ^{3:1}Every thing hath a time, yea all that is under the heaven, hath his convenient season. ^{3:2}There is a time to be born, and a time to die; there is a time to plant, and a time to pluck up the thing, that is planted: ^{3:3}A time to slay, and a time to make whole: A time to break down, and a time to build up: ^{3:4}A time to weep, and a time to laugh: A time to mourn, and a time to dance: ^{3:5}A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together: A time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing: ^{3:6}A time to win, and a time to lese: A time to spare, and a time to spend: ^{3:7}A time to cut in pieces, and a time to sew together: A time to keep silence, and a time to speak: ^{3:8}A time to love, and a time to hate: A time of war, and a time of peace. ^{3:9}What hath a man else (that doth anything) but weariness and labour? ^{3:10}For as touching the travail and carefulness which God hath given unto men, I see that he hath given it them, to be exercised in it. ^{3:11}All this hath he ordained marvelous goodly, to every thing his due time. He hath planted^b ignorance also in the hearts of men, that they should not find out the ground of his works, which he doth from the beginning to the end. ^{3:12}So I perceived, that in these things there is nothing better for a man, then to be merry and to do well so long as he liveth. ^{3:13}For all that a man eateth and drinketh, yea what soever a man enjoyeth of all his labor, the same is a gift of God. ^{3:14}I considered also that whatsoever God doth, it continueth for ever, and that nothing can be put unto it, nor taken from it: And that God doth it to the intent, that men should fear him. ^{3:15}The thing that hath been, is now: and the thing that is for to come, hath been afore time, for God restoreth again the thing that was past. ^{3:16}Moreover, I saw under the sun ungodliness in the stead of judgment, and iniquity in stead of righteousness. ^{3:17}Then thought I in my mind: God shall separate the righteous from the ungodly, and then shall be the time and judgement of all counsels and works. ^{3:18}I communed^c with mine own heart also concerning the children of men: how God hath chosen them, and yet letteth them appear as though they were beasts: ^{3:19}For it happeneth unto men as it doth unto beasts, and as the one dieth, so dieth the other: yea they have both one manner of breath, so that (in this) a man hath no preeminence above a beast, but all are subdued unto vanity. ^{3:20}They go all unto one place, for as they be all of dust, so shall they all turn unto dust again. ^{3:21}Who knoweth the spirit of man that goeth upward, and the breath of the beast that goeth down into the earth? ^{3:22}Wherefore I perceive, that there is nothing better for a man, than to be joyful in his labour, for that is his portion. But who will bring him to see the thing that shall come after him? ^{4:1}So I turned me, and considered all the violent wrong that is done under the Sun: and behold the tears of such as were oppressed, and there was no man to comfort them or that would deliver and defend them from the violence of their oppressors. ^{4:2}Wherefore I judged those that are dead, to be more happy than such as be alive: ^{4:3}Yea him that is yet unborn to be better at ease than they both, because he seeth not the miserable works that are done under the Sun. ^{4:4}Again, I saw that all travail and diligence of labour was hated of every man. This is also a vain thing, and a vexation of mind. ^{4:5}The fool foldeth his hands together, and eateth up his own flesh. ^{4:6}One handful (sayeth he) is better with rest, than both the hands full with labor and travail. ^{4:7}Moreover, I turned me, and behold yet another vanity under the Son. ^{4:8}There is one man, no more but himself alone, having neither child nor brother: yet is there no end of his careful travail, his eyes can not be satisfied with riches, (yet doth he not remember himself, and say:) For whom do I take such travail? For whose pleasure do I thus consume away my life? This is also a vain and miserable thing. ^{4:9}Therefore two are better than one, for they may well enjoy the profit of their labour. ^{4:10}If one of them fall, his companion helpeth him up again: But woe is him that is alone, for if he fall, he hath not another to help him up. ^{4:11}Again, when two sleep together, they are warm: but how can a body be warm alone? ^{4:12}One may be overcome, but two may make resistance: A threefold cable is not lightly broken. ^{4:13}A poor child being wise, is better than an old king, that doteth, and can not beware in time to come. ^{4:14}Someone cometh out of prison, and is made a king: and another which is born in the kingdom, cometh unto poverty. ^{4:15}And I perceived, that all men living under the Son, go with the second child, that cometh up in the stead of the other. ^{4:16}As for the people that have been before him, and that come after him, they are innumerable: yet is not their joy the greater thorow him. This is also a vain thing and a vexation of mind. ^{5:1}When thou comest into the house of God, keep thy foot^d and draw nigh,^e that thou mayest hear: that is better than the offerings of fools, for they know not what evil they do. ^{5:2}Be not hasty with thy mouth, and let not thine heart speak anything rashly before God. For God is in heaven, and thou upon earth, therefore let thy words be few. ^{5:3}For where much carefulness is, there are many dreams: and where many words are, there men may hear fools. ^{5:4}If thou make a vow unto God, be not slack to perform it. As for foolish vows, he hath no pleasure in them. ^{5:5}If thou promise anything, pay it: for better it is that thou make no vow than that thou shouldest promise, and not pay. ^{5:6}Use not thy mouth to cause thy flesh for to sin, that thou sayest not before the angel: my foolishness is in the fault. For then God will be angry at thy voice, and destroy all the works of thine hands. ^{5:7}And why? Where as are many dreams and many words, there are also divers vanities: but look that thou fear God. ^{5:8}If thou seest the poor to be oppressed and wrongously dealt withal, so that equity and the right of the law is wrasted in the land: marvel not thou at such judgement, for one great man keepeth touch with another, and the mighty help themselves together. ^{5:9}The whole land also with the fields and all that is therein, is in subjection and bondage unto the king. ^{5:10}He that loveth money, will never be satisfied with money: and whoso delighteth in riches, shall have no profit thereof. Is not this also a vain thing? ^{5:11}Where as many riches are, there are many also that spend them away. And what pleasure more hath he that possesseth them, saving that he may look upon them with his eyes? ^{5:12}A labouring man sleepeth sweetly, whether it be little or much that he eateth: but the abundance of the rich will not suffer him to sleep. ^{5:13}Yet is there a sore plague, which I have seen under the sun, (namely) riches kept to the hurt of him that hath them in possession. ^{5:14}For oft times they perish with his great misery and trouble: and if he have a child it getteth nothing. ^{5:15}Like as he came naked out of his mother's womb, so goeth he thither again, and carryeth nothing away with him of all his labour. ^{5:16}This is a miserable plague, that he shall go away even as he came. What helpeth him then, that he hath labored in the wind? ^{5:17}All the days of his life also must he eat in the dark, with great carefulness, sickness and sorrow. ^{5:18}Therefore me think it a better and fairer thing, a man to eat and drink, and to be refreshed of all his labour, that he taketh

^d{Some read. For he is readier to hear (understand thy word) than to receive the sacrifices that fools give.}

under the Sun all the days of his life, which God giveth him, for this is his portion. ^{5:19}For unto whom soever God giveth riches, goods and power, he giveth it him to enjoy it, to take it for his portion, and to be refreshed of his labour: this is now the gift of God. ^{5:20}For he thinketh not much how long he shall live, for so much as God filleth his heart with gladness. ^{6:1}There is yet a plague under the Sun, and it is a general thing among men: ^{6:2}When God giveth a man riches, goods and honour, so that he wanteth nothing of all that his heart can desire: and yet God giveth him not leave to enjoy the same, but another man spendeth them. This is a vain thing and a miserable plague. ^{6:3}If a man beget an hundredth children, and live many years, so that his days are many in number, and yet can not enjoy his good, neither be buried: as for him I say, that an untimely birth is better than he. ^{6:4}For he cometh to naught, and goeth his way into darkness, and his name is forgotten. ^{6:5}Moreover, he seeth not the Son, and knoweth of no rest neither here nor there: ^{6:6}Yea though he lived two thousand years, yet hath he no good life. Come not all to one place? ^{6:7}All the labour that man taketh, is for himself, and yet his desire is never filled after his mind. ^{6:8}For what hath the wise more than the fool? What helpeth it the poor, that he knoweth to walk before the living? ^{6:9}The sight of the eyes is better, then that the soul should so depart away. Howbeit this is also a vain thing and a disquietness of mind. ^{6:10}What is more excellent than man? Yet can he not in the law get the victory of him that is mightier than he: ^{6:11}A vain thing is it to cast out many words, but what hath a man else? ^{6:12}For who knoweth what is good for man living, in the days of his vain life, which is but a shadow? Or, who will tell a man, what shall happen after him under the Son? ^{7:1}A good name is more worth than a precious ointment, and the day of death is better than the day of birth. ^{7:2}It is better to go into an house of mourning, than into a banquet^f house. For there is the end of all men, and he that is living, taketh it to heart. ^{7:3}It is better to be sorry than to laugh, for when the countenance is heavy, the heart is joyful. ^{7:4}The heart of the wise is in the mourning house, but the heart of the foolish is in the house of mirth. ^{7:5}It is better to give ear to the chastening of a wise man, than to hear the song of fools. ^{7:6}For the laughing of fools is like the crackling of thorns under a pot. And that is but a vain thing. ^{7:7}Who so doeth wrong, maketh a wise man to go out of his wit, and destroyeth a gentle heart. ^{7:8}The end of a thing is better than the beginning. The patient of spirit is better than the high minded. ^{7:9}Be not hastily angry in thy mind, for wrath resteth in the bosom of a fool. ^{7:10}Say not thou: What is the cause that the days of the old time were better, than they that be now? For that were no wise question. ^{7:11}Wisdom is better than riches, yea much more worth than the eyesight. ^{7:12}For wisdom defendeth as well as money, and the excellent knowledge and wisdom giveth life to him that have it in possession. ^{7:13}Consider the work of God, how that no man can make the thing straight, which he maketh crooked. ^{7:14}Use well the time of prosperity and remember the time of misfortune: For God maketh one by the other, so that a man can find nothing else. ^{7:15}These two things also have I considered in the time of vanity: that the just man perisheth for his righteousness' sake, and the ungodly liveth in his wickedness. ^{7:16}Therefore be thou neither too righteous nor over wise, that thou perish not: ^{7:17}be neither too unrighteous also nor too foolish, lest thou die before thy time. ^{7:18}It is good for thee to take hold of this, and not to let that go out of thy hand. For he that feareth God shall escape them all. ^{7:19}Wisdom giveth more courage unto the wise, than ten mighty men of the city. ^{7:20}For there is not one just upon earth, that doth good, and sinneth not. ^{7:21}Take not heed unto every word that is spoken, lest thou hear thy servant curse thee: ^{7:22}For thine own heart knoweth, that thou thyself also hast oft times spoken evil by other men. ^{7:23}All these things have I proved because of wisdom: For I thought to be wise, but she went farther from me than she was before, ^{7:24}yea and so deep that I might not reach unto her. ^{7:25}I applied my mind also to knowledge, and to seek out science, wisdom and understanding: to know the foolishness of the ungodly, and the error of doting fools. ^{7:26}And I found, that a woman is bitterer than death: for she is a very angle, her heart is a net, and her hands are chains. Who so pleaseth God shall escape from her, but the sinner will be taken with her. ^{7:27}Behold (sayeth the preacher) this have I diligently searched out and proved, that I might come by knowledge: which as yet I seek, and find it not. ^{7:28}Among a thousand men I have found one, but not one woman among all. ^{7:29}Lo, this onely have I found, that God made man just and right, but they seek divers sotylties,^g ^{8:1}where as no man hath wisdom and understanding, to give answer there unto. Wisdom maketh a man's face to shine, but malice putteth it out of favour. ^{8:2}Keep the king's commandment (I warn thee) and the oath that thou hast made unto God. ^{8:3}Be not hasty to go out of his sight, and see thou continue in no evil thing: for whatsoever it pleaseth him, that doeth he. ^{8:4}Like as when a king giveth a charge, his commandment is mighty: Even so whom may say unto him: What doest thou? ^{8:5}Whoso keepeth the commandment, shall feel no harm: but a wise man's heart discerneth time and manner: ^{8:6}For everything will have opportunity and judgment, and this the thing that maketh men full of carefulness and sorrow. ^{8:7}And why? A man knoweth not what is for to come, for who will tell him? ^{8:8}Neither is there any man that hath power over the spirit, to keep still the spirit, nor to have any power in the time of death: it is not he also that can make an end of the battle, neither may ungodliness deliver him that meddleth withall. ^{8:9}All these things have I considered, and applied my mind unto every work that is under the Son: how one man hath lordship upon another to his own harm. ^{8:10}For I have oft seen the ungodly brought to their graves, and fallen down from the high and glorious place: insomuch that they were forgotten in the city, where they were had in so high and great reputation. This is also a vain thing. ^{8:11}Because now that evil works are not hastily punished, the heart of man giveth himself over unto wickedness. ^{8:12}But though an evil person offend an hundredth times, and have a long life: yet am I sure, that it shall go well with them that fear God, because they have him before their eyes. ^{8:13}Again, as for the ungodly, it shall not be well with him, neither shall he prolong his days: but even as a shadow, so shall he be that feareth not God. ^{8:14}Yet is there a vanity upon earth: there be just men, unto whom it happeneth, as though they had the works of the ungodly: Again, there be ungodly, with whom it goeth as though they had the works of the righteous. This me think also a vain thing. ^{8:15}Therefore I commend gladness, because a man hath no better thing under the Son, than to eat and to drink, and to be merry: for that shall he have of his labour all the days of his life, which God giveth him under the Son. ^{8:16}When I applied my mind to learn wisdom, and to know the travail that is in the world (and that of such a fashion, that I suffered not my eyes to sleep neither day nor night) ^{8:17}I understood of all the works of God, that it is not possible for a man, to attain unto works that are done under the Son: and though he bestow his labour to seek them out, yet can he not reach unto them: yea though a wise man would undertake to know them, yet might he not find them. ^{9:1}For all these things purposed I in my mind to seek out. The righteous and wise, yea and their works^h also are in the hand of God: and there is no man that knoweth either the love or hate of the thing that he hath before him.ⁱ ^{9:2}It happeneth unto one as unto another: It goeth with the righteous as with the ungodly: with the good and clean as with the unclean: with him that offereth as with him that offereth not: like as it goeth with the virtuous, so goeth it also with the sinner: As it happeneth unto the perjured, so happeneth it also unto him that is afraid to be foresworn.^j ^{9:3}Among all things that come to pass under the Son, this is a mystery, that it happeneth unto all alike. This is the cause also that the hearts of men are full of wickedness, and mad foolishness is in their hearts, as long as they live, until they die. ^{9:4}And why? As long as a man liveth, he is careless: for a quick dog (say they) is better than a dead lion: ^{9:5}for they that be living, know that they shall die: but they that be dead, know nothing, neither deserve they anymore. For their memorial is forgotten, ^{9:6}so that they be neither loved, hated nor envied: neither have they anymore part in the world, in all that is done under the Son. ^{9:7}Go thou thy way then, eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with gladness, for thy works please God. ^{9:8}Let thy garments be always white, and let thy head want none ointment. ^{9:9}Use thy self to live joyfully with thy wife whom thou lovest, all the days of thy life, which is but vanity, that God hath given thee under the Son, all the days of thy vanity: for that is thy portion in this life, of all thy labor and travail that thou takest under the Son. ^{9:10}Whatsoever thou takest in hand to do, that do with all thy power: for among the dead, where thou goest unto, there is neither work, counsel, knowledge nor wisdom. ^{9:11}So I turned me unto other things under the Son, and I saw, that in running, it helpeth not to be swift: in battle, it helpeth not to be strong: to feeding, it helpeth not to be wise: to riches, it helpeth not to be cunning: but that all lieth in time and fortune. ^{9:12}For man knoweth not his time, but like as the fish are taken with the angle and as the birds are caught with the snare: Even so are men taken in the perilous time, when it cometh suddenly upon them. ^{9:13}This wisdom have I seen also under the Son, and me thought it a great thing. ^{9:14}There was a little city, and a few men within it: so there came a great king and besieged it, and made great bulwarks against it. ^{9:15}And in the city there was found a poor man, (but he was wise) which with his wisdom delivered the city: yet was there no body, that had any respect for such a simple man. ^{9:16}Then said I: Wisdom is better than strength. Nevertheless, a simple man's wisdom is despised, and his words are not heard. ^{9:17}A wise man's counsel that is followed in silence, is far above the crying of a captain among fools. ^{9:18}For wisdom is better than harness: but one unthrifty alone destroyeth much good. ^{10:1}Dead flies that corrupt sweet ointment and make it to stink, are something more worth than the wisdom and honor of a fool. ^{10:2}A wise man's heart is upon the right hand, but a fool's heart is upon the left. ^{10:3}A dotting fool thinketh, that every man doth as foolishly as himself. ^{10:4}If a principal spirit be given thee to bear rule, be not negligent then in thine office: for so shall great wickedness be put down, as it were with a medicine. ^{10:5}Another plague is there, which I have seen under the son: namely, the ignorance that is commonly among princes:

^{10:6}in that a fool setteth in great dignity, and the rich are sit down beneath: ^{10:7}I see servants ride upon horses, and princes going upon their feet as it were servants. ^{10:8}But he that diggeth up a pit, shall fall therein himself: and whoso breaketh down the hedge, a serpent shall bite him. ^{10:9}Whoso removeth stones shall have travail withal: and he that heweth wood, shall be hurt therewith. ^{10:10}When an iron is blunt, and the point not sharpened, it must be whet again, and that with might: Even so doth wisdom follow diligence. ^{10:11}A babbler of his tongue is no better than a serpent that stingeth without hissing. ^{10:12}The words out of a wise man's mouth are gracious, but the lips of a fool will destroy himself. ^{10:13}The beginning of his talking is foolishness, and the last word of his mouth is great madness. ^{10:14}A fool is so full of words, that a man can not tell what end he shall make: who will then warn him to make a conclusion? ^{10:15}The labour of the foolish is grievous unto them, while they know not how to go in to the city. ^{10:16}Woe be unto thee (O thou realm and land) whose king is but a child, and whose princes are early at their banquettes. ^{10:17}But well is thee (O thou realm and land) whose king is come of nobles, and whose princes eat in due season, for strength and not for lust. ^{10:18}Thorow slothfulness the balks fall down, and thorow idle hands it raineth in at the house. ^{10:19}Meat maketh men to laugh, and wine maketh them merry: but unto money are all things obedient. ^{10:20}Wish the king no evil in thy thought, and speak no hurt of the rich in thy privy chamber: for a bird of the air shall betray thy voice, and with her feathers shall she betray thy words. ^{11:1}Send thy vitailles^k over the waters, and so shalt thou find them after many years. ^{11:2}Give it away among seven or eight, for thou knowest not what misery shall come upon earth. ^{11:3}When the clouds are full, they pour out rain upon the earth. And when the tree falleth (whether it be toward the South or North) in what place soever it fall, there it lieth. ^{11:4}He that regardeth the wind, shall not sow: and he that hath respect unto the clouds, shall not reap. ^{11:5}Now like as thou knowest not the way of the wind, nor how the bones are filled in a mother's womb: Even so thou knowest not the works of God, which is the workmaster of all. ^{11:6}Cease not thou therefore with thy hands to sow thy seed, whether it be in the morning or in the evening: for then knowest not whether this or that shall prosper, and if they both take, it is the better. ^{11:7}The light is sweet, and a pleasant thing is it for the eyes to look upon the Sun. ^{11:8}If a man live many years, and be glad in them all, let him remember the days of darkness, which shall be many: And when they come, all things shall be but vanity. ^{11:9}Be glad then (O thou young man) in thy youth, and let thine heart be merry in thy young days: follow the ways of thine own heart, and the lust of thine eyes: but be thou sure, that God shall bring thee into judgment for all these things. ^{11:10}Put away displeasure out of thine heart, and remove evil from thy body: for childhood and youth is but vanity. ^{12:1}Remember thy maker in thy youth, or ever the days of adversity come, and or the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say: I have no pleasure in them ^{12:2}before the sun, the light, the moon and stars be darkened, and or the clouds turn again after the rain: ^{12:3}when the keepers of the house shall tremble, and when the strong men shall bow themselves: when the millers stand still, because they be so few, and when the sight of the windows shall wax dim: ^{12:4}when the doors in the streets shall be shut, and when the voice of the miller shall be laid down: when men shall rise up at the voice of the bird, and when all the daughters of music shall be brought low: ^{12:5}When men shall fear in high places, and be afraid in the streets: when the Almond tree shall be despised, the grasshopper born out, and when great poverty shall break in: when man goeth to his long home, and the mourners go about the streets. ^{12:6}Or ever the silver lace be taken away, and or the golden band be broken: or the pot be broken at the well, and the wheel upon the cistern: ^{12:7}Or dust be turned again unto earth from whence it came, and or the spirit return unto God, which gave it. ^{12:8}All is but vanity (sayeth the preacher) all is but plain vanity. ^{12:9}The same preacher was not wise alone, but taught the people knowledge also: he gave good heed, sought out the ground and set forth many parables. ^{12:10}His diligence was to find out acceptable words, right scripture, and the words of truth. ^{12:11}For the words of the wise are like pricks and nails that go thorow, where-with men are kept together: for they are given of one shepherd onely. ^{12:12}Therefore beware (my son) that above these thou make them not many and innumerable books, nor take divers doctrines in hand, to weary thy body withal. ^{12:13}Let us hear the conclusion of all things: Fear God, and keep his commandments, for that toucheth all men: ^{12:14}For God shall judge all works and secret things, whether they be good or evil.

^{1:1}The Ballet of Ballets of Salomon: ^{1:2}O that thy mouth would give me a kiss, for thy breasts are more pleasant than wine, ^{1:3}and that because of the good and pleasant savour. Thy name is sweet smelling ointment, therefore do the maidens love thee: ^{1:4}Yea that same moveth me also to run^a after thee. The king hath brought me in to his private chamber. We will be glad and rejoice in thee, we think more of thy breasts than of wine: well is them that love thee. ^{1:5}I am black (O ye daughters of Jerusalem) like as the tents of the Cedarenes, and as the hangings of Solomon: ^{1:6}but yet am I fair and well favoured withal. Marvel not at me that I am so black: And why? the sun hath shined upon me. For when my mother's children had evil will at me, they made me the keeper of the vineyard. Thus was I fain to keep a vineyard, which was not mine own. ^{1:7}Tell me, (O thou whom my soul loveth) where thou feedest, where thou restest at the noon day: lest I go wrong, and come into the flocks of thy companions. ^{1:8}If thou know not thyself (O thou fairest among women) then go thy way forth after the footsteps of the sheep, as though thou wouldest feed thy goats beside the shepherds' tents. ^{1:9}There will I tarry for thee (my love) with mine host and with my chariots, which shall be no fewer than Pharaoh's. ^{1:10}Then shall thy cheeks and thy neck be made fair, and hanged with spangles and goodly jewels: ^{1:11}a neck band of gold will we make thee with silver buttons. ^{1:12}When the king sitteth at the table, he shall smell my Nardus: ^{1:13}for a bundle of Myrrer (O my beloved) lieth betwixt my breasts. ^{1:14}A cluster of grapes of Cypers, or of the vineyards of Engaddi art thou unto me, O my beloved. ^{1:15}O how fair art thou (my love) how fair art thou? thou hast doves' eyes. ^{1:16}O how fair art thou (my beloved) how well favored art thou? Our bed is decked with flowers, ^{1:17}the ceilings of our house are of Cedar tree, and our balks of

Behold, he standeth behind our wall, he looketh in at the window, and peepeth thorow the grate. ^{2:10}My beloved answered and said unto me: O Stand^d up my love, my dove, my beautiful, and come: ^{2:11}For lo, the winter is now past, and the rain is away and gone. ^{2:12}The flowers are come up in the field, the twisting time is come, and the voice of the turtle dove is heard in our land. ^{2:13}The fig tree bringeth forth her figs, the vines bear blossoms, and have a good smell.^e ^{2:14}O Stand^f up my love, my beautiful, and come (O my dove) out of the caves of the rocks, out of the holes of the wall: O let me see thy countenance and hear thy voice, for sweet is thy voice, and fair is thy face.^g ^{2:15}Get us the foxes, yea the little foxes, that hurt the vines, for our vines bear blossoms. ^{2:16}My love is mine, and I am his, which feedeth among the lilies, ^{2:17}until the day break, and till the shadows be gone. Come again privily (O my beloved) like as a Roe or a young hart unto the mountains. ^{3:1}By night in my bed I sought him, whom my soul loveth: yea diligently sought I him, but I found him not. ^{3:2}I will get up (thought I) and go about the city, upon the market and in all the streets will I seek him whom my soul loveth: but when I

sought him, I found him not. ^{3:3}The watchmen that go about the city found me. Saw ye not him whom my soul loveth? ^{3:4}So when I was a little past them, I found him whom my soul loveth. I have gotten hold upon him, and will not let him go, until I bring him into my mother's house, and in to her chamber that bare me. ^{3:5}I charge you, O ye daughters of Jerusalem, by the Roes, and Hinds of the field, that ye wake not up my love nor touche her, till she be content herself. ^{3:6}Who is this, that cometh out of the wilderness like pillars of smoke, as it were a smell of Myrre, frankincense and all manner spices of the Apothecary? ^{3:7}Behold, about Solomon's bedstead there stand sixty valiant men of the mighty in Israel. ^{3:8}They hold swords every one, and are expert in war. Every man hath his sword upon his thigh, because of fear in the night. ^{3:9}King Solomon hath made himself a bedstead of the wood of Libanus, ^{3:10}the pillars are of silver, the covering of gold, the seat of purple, the ground pleasantly paved for the daughters of Jerusalem. ^{3:11}Go forth (O ye daughters of Sion) and behold king Solomon in the crown, wherewith his mother crowned him in the day of his marriage, and in the day of the gladness of his heart. ^{4:1}O how fair art thou (my love) how fair art thou? thou hast doves' eyes, beside that which lieth hid within. ^{4:2}Thy hairy locks are like a flock of sheep that be clipped, which go first up from the washing place: where every one beareth two twins, and not one unfruitful among them. ^{4:3}Thy lips are like a rose coloured ribbon, thy words are lovely: thy cheeks are like a piece of a pomegranate, besides that which lyeth hid within. ^{4:4}Thy neck is like the tower of David builded with bulwarks, where upon there hang a thousand shields, yea all the weapons of the giants. ^{4:5}Thy two breasts are like two twins of young roes, which feed among the lilies. ^{4:6}O that I might go to the mountain of Myrre, and to the hill of frankincense: till the day break, and till the shadows be past away. ^{4:7}Thou art all fair, O my love, and no sport is there in thee. ^{4:8}Come to me from Libanus, O my spouse, and come to me from Liban: come soon the next way from the top of Amana, from the top of Sanir and Hermon, from the lions' dens, and from the mountains of the leopards. ^{4:9}Thou hast wounded my heart, O my sister, my spouse, thou hast wounded my heart, with one of thine eyes, and with one chain of thy neck. ^{4:10}O how fair and lovely are thy breasts, my sister, my spouse? Thy breasts are more pleasant than wine, and the smell of thine ointments passeth all spices. ^{4:11}Thy lips, O my spouse, drop as the honeycomb, yea milk and honey is under thy tongue, and the smell of thy garments is like the smell of frankincense. ^{4:12}Thou art a well kept garden, O my sister, my spouse, thou art a well kept watering spring, a sealed well. ^{4:13}The fruits that sprout in thee, are like a very Paradise of pomegranates with sweet fruits: ^{4:14}as Cypress, Nardus, Saffron, Calmus, and all the trees of Libanus: Myrre, Aloes, and all the best spices. ^{4:15}Thou art a well of gardens, a well of living waters, which run^h down from Libanus. ^{4:16}Up thou northwind, come thou southwind, and blow upon my garden, that the smell thereof may be carried on every side: yea that my beloved may come into my garden, and eat of the fruits and apples that grow therein. ^{5:1}Come into my garden O my sister, my Spouse: I have gathered my Myrre with my spice. I will eat my honey and my honeycomb, I will drink my wine and my milk. Eat, O ye friends, drink and be merry, O ye beloved. ^{5:2}As I was asleep, and my heart waking, I heard the voice of my beloved, when he knocked. Open to me (said he) O my sister, my love, my dove, my darling: for my head is full of dew, and my locks of my hair are full of the night drops. ^{5:3}I have put off my coat: how can I do it on again? I have washed my feet, how shall I file them again? ^{5:4}But when my love put in his hand at the hole, my heart was moved toward him: ^{5:5}so that I stood up to open unto my beloved. My hands dropped with Myrre, and the Myrre ran down my fingers upon the lock. ^{5:6}Nevertheless when I had opened unto my beloved, he was departed and gone his way. Now like as afore time when he spake, my heart could not longer refrain: Even so now I sought him, but I could not find him: I cried upon him, nevertheless he gave me no answer. ^{5:7}So the watchmen that went about the city found me, smote me, and wounded me: Yea they that kept the walls, took away my garment from me. ^{5:8}I charge you therefore, O ye daughters of Jerusalem, if ye find my beloved, that ye tell him how that I am sick for love. ^{5:9}Who is thy love above other lovers, O thou fairest among women? Or what can thy love do, more than other lovers, that thou chargest us so straightly? ^{5:10}As for my loved, he is white and red colored, a singular person among many thousands: ^{5:11}His head is the most fine gold, the locks of his hair are bushed, brown as the evening: ^{5:12}His eyes are as the eyes of doves by the water brooks, washed with milk, and remaining in a plenteous place: ^{5:13}His cheeks are like a garden bed, wherein the Apothecaries plant all manner of sweet things: His lips drop as the flowers of the most principal Myrrre, ^{5:14}his hands are full of gold rings and precious stones. His body is as the pure ivory, decked over with Sapphires: ^{5:15}His legs are as the pillars of Marble, set upon sockets of gold: His face is as Libanus, and as the beauty of the Cedar trees: ^{5:16}His throat is sweet, yea he is altogether lovely. Such one is my love, O ye daughters of Jerusalem, such one is my love. ^{6:1}Whither is thy love gone then (O thou fayrest among women) whither is thy love departed, that we may seek him with thee? ^{6:2}My love is gone down into his garden, unto the sweet smelling beds, that he may refresh himself in the garden, and gather flowers. ^{6:3}My love is mine, and I am his, which feedeth among the lilies. ^{6:4}Thou art pleasant (O my love) even as loveliness it self, thou art fair as Jerusalem, glorious as an army of men, with their banners. ^{6:5}(Turn away thine eyes from me, for they make me proud) Thy hairy locks are like a flock of goats upon the mount of Galead. ^{6:6}Thy teeth are like a flock of sheep that be clipped, which go out of the washing place: where every one beareth two twins, and not one unfruitful among them. ^{6:7}Thy cheeks are like a piece of a pomegranate, besides that which lieth hidden within. ^{6:8}There are threescore Queens, and fourscore concubines, and young women without number. ^{6:9}But one is my dove, my dearling. She is the onely beloved of her mother, and dear unto her that bare her. When the daughters saw her, they said, she was blessed: Yea the Queens and concubines praised her. ^{6:10}What is she this, that peepeth out as the morning? fair as the moon, excellent as the sun, glorious as an army of men with their banners. ^{6:11}I went down into the nut garden, to see what grew by the brooks, to look if the vineyard flourished, and if the pomegranates were shot forth. ^{6:12}Then the chariots of the prince of my people made me suddenly afraid. ^{6:13}Turn again, turn again, O thou Sulamite, turn again, turn again, that we may look upon thee. What pleasure have ye more in the Sulamite, than when she danceth among the men of war? ^{7:1}O how pleasant are thy treadings, with thy shoes, thou prince's daughter? Thy thighs are like a fair jewel, which is wrought by a cunning work master: ^{7:2}Thy navel is like a round goblet, which is never without drink: thy womb is like an heap of wheat, set about with lilies: ^{7:3}Thy two breasts are like two twins of young roes: ^{7:4}Thy neck is as it were a tower of ivory: thine eyes are like the water pools in Hesebon, by the port of Bathrabbim: thy nose is like the tower of Libanus, which looketh toward Damascus: ^{7:5}That head that standeth upon thee is like Carmel: the hair of thy head is like the kings purple folden up in plates. ^{7:6}O how fair and lovely art thou, my dearling, in pleasures? ^{7:7}Thy stature is like a date tree, and thy breasts like the grapes. I said: ^{7:8}I will climb up the date tree, and take hold of his branches. Thy breasts also shall be as the vine grapes, the smell of thy nostrils like the smell of apples, ^{7:9}and thy throat like the best wine. This shall be pure and clear for my love, his lips and teeth shall have their pleasure. ^{7:10}There will I turn me unto my love, and he shall turn him unto me. ^{7:11}O come on my love, let us go forth into the field, and take our lodging in the villages. ^{7:12}In the morning will we rise by times, and go see the vineyard: if it be sprung forth, if the grapes be grown, and if the pomegranates be shot out. There will I give thee my breasts: ^{7:13}there shall the mandragoras give their smell beside our doors: there O my love, have I kept unto thee all manner of fruits, both new and old. ^{8:1}O that I might find thee without, and kiss thee, whom I love as my brother which suckedⁱ my mother's breasts: and that thou wouldest not be offended, ^{8:2}if I took thee, and brought thee in to my mother's house: that thou mightest teach me, and that I might give thee drink of spiced wine and of the sweet sap of my pomegranates. ^{8:3}His left hand lieth under my head, and his right hand

embraceth me. ^{8:4}I charge you, O ye daughters of Jerusalem, that ye wake not up my love, nor touch her, till she be content herself. ^{8:5}What is she this, that cometh up from the wilderness, and leaneth upon her love? I am the same that waked thee up among the apple trees, where thy mother bear thee, where thy mother brought thee in to the world. ^{8:6}O set me as a seal upon thine heart, and as a seal upon thine arm: for love is mighty as the death, and jealousy as the hell. Her coals are of fire, and a very flame of the LORD: ^{8:7}so that many waters are not able to quench love, neither may the streams drown it. Yea if a man would give all the good of his house for love, he should count it nothing. ^{8:8}When our love is told our young sister, whose breasts are not yet grown, what shall we do unto her? ^{8:9}If she be a wall, we shall build a silver bulwark there upon: if she be a tower, we shall fasten her with borders of Cedar tree. ^{8:10}If I be a wall, and my breasts like towers, then am I as one that hath found favour in his sight. ^{8:11}Solomon had a vineyard at Baal Hamon, this vineyard delivered he unto the keepers: that every one for the fruit thereof should give him a thousand pieces of silver. ^{8:12}But my vineyard, O Solomon, giveth thee a thousand, and two hundredth to the keepers of the fruit. ^{8:13}Thou that dwellest in the gardens, O let me hear thy voice, that my companions may harken to the same. ^{8:14}O get thee away, my love, as a roe or a young hart unto the sweet smelling mountains.

The book of the prophet Clay

^{1:1}The^a prophesy of Esay the son of Amos, which he shewed upon Juda and Jerusalem in the time of Oziah, Joatham, Ahaz, and Jehezekiah, kings of Juda. ^{1:2}Hear O heaven hearken O earth, for the LORD speaketh: I have nourished and brought up children, and they are fallen away from me. ^{1:3}An ox knoweth his lord,^b and an Ass his master's stall, but Israel knoweth nothing, my people hath no understanding. ^{1:4}Alas for this sinful people, which are expert in blasphemies, a froward generation, unnatural children. They have forsaken the LORD, they have provoked the holy one of Israel unto anger, and are gone backward. ^{1:5}Wherefore should ye be plagued any more? For ye are ever falling away. The whole head is sick, and the heart is very heavy. ^{1:6}From the sole of the foot unto the head, there is no whole part in all your body: but all are wounds, botches, sores and stripes, which can neither be helped, bound up, molified, nor eased with any ointment. ^{1:7}Your land lieth waste, your cities are brent up, your enemies devour your land, and ye must be fain to stand, and look upon it: and it is desolate, as it were with enemies in a battle. ^{1:8}Moreover the daughter of Sion is left alone like a cottage in a vineyard, like a watch house in time of war, like a besieged city. ^{1:9}And except the LORD of Hosts had left us a few alive: we should have been as Sodoma, and like unto Gomorra. ^{1:10}Hear the word of the LORD ye tyrants of Sodoma: and hearken unto the law of our God, thou people of Gomorra. ^{1:11}Why offer ye so many sacrifices unto me? I am discontent for the brentofferings of wethers, and with the fatness of fed beasts. I have no pleasure in the blood of bullocks, lambs, and goats. ^{1:12}When ye appear before me, who requireth you to tread within my porches? ^{1:13}Offer me no more oblations, for it is but lost labour. I abhor your incense. I may not away with your new moons, your Sabbaths and solempne days. Your fastings are also in vain. ^{1:14}I hate your new holy days and fastings, even from my very heart. They make me weary, I can not abide them. ^{1:15}Though ye hold out your hands, yet turn I my eyes from you. And though ye make many prayers, yet hear I nothing at all, for your hands are full of blood. ^{1:16}Wash you, make you clean, put away your evil thoughts out of my sight, cease from doing of evil and violence.^c ^{1:17}Learn to do right, apply yourselves to equity, deliver the oppressed, help the fatherless to his right, let the widows complaint come before you.^d ^{1:18}Now go to (sayeth the LORD) we will walk together. Is it not so? Though your sins be as red as scarlet, shall they not be whiter than snow? And though they were like purple, shall they not be like white wool?^e ^{1:19}Is it not so? If ye be loving and obedient, ye shall enjoy the best thing that groweth in the land.^f ^{1:20}But if ye be obstinate and rebellious, ye shall be devoured with the sword: for thus the LORD hath promised with his own mouth. ^{1:21}How happeneth it then that the righteous city (which was full of equity) is become unfaithful as an whore? righteousness dwelt in it, but now murder. ^{1:22}Thy silver is turned to dross, and thy wine mixt with water. ^{1:23}Thy princes are traitors and companions of thieves. They love gifts altogether, and follow rewards. As for the fatherless, they help him not to his right, neither will they let the widows causes come before them. ^{1:24}Therefore speaketh the Lord GOD^g of Hosts the mighty one of Israel: Ah, I must ease me of mine enemies, and avenge me upon them. ^{1:25}And therefore shall I lay my hand upon thee, and burn out thy dross from the finest and purest, and put out all thy lead, ^{1:26}and set thy judges again as they were sometime, and thy Senators as they were from the beginning. Then shalt thou ^cWash and be clean: put away the wickedness of your imaginations out of my sight. Cease to do evil and learn to do well.

^dStudy to do righteously and help the oppressed. Avenge the fatherless and defend the cause of widows.

^eCome let us shew each his grief to other and make an atonement saith the LORD. And so though your sins be like to purple, they shall be made as white as snow, and though they be as red as scarlet, they shall be made like white wool.

be called the righteous city, the faithful city.
^{1:27}But Sion shall be redeemed with equity, and her captivity with righteousness. ^{1:28}For the transgressors and ungodly, and such as are become unfaithful unto the LORD, must altogether be utterly destroyed. ^{1:29}And except ye be ashamed of the oak trees wherein ye have so delighted, and of the gardens that ye have chosen: ^{1:30}Ye shall be as an oak whose leaves are fallen away, and as a garden that hath no moistness. ^{1:31}And as for the glory of these things, it shall be turned to dry straw, and he that made them to a spark. And they shall both burn together, so that no man shall be able to quench them. ^{2:1}Moreover this was the word that was opened unto Esay the son of Amos, upon Juda and Jerusalem.^h ^{2:2}It will be also in process of time: That the hill where the house of the LORD is builded, shall be the chief among the hills, and exalted above all little hills. And all the Heathen shall praise unto him. And the multitude of people shall go unto him,ⁱ ^{2:3}speaking thus one unto another: up, let us go to the hill of the LORD, and to the house of the God of Jacob: that he may shew us his way, and that we may walk in his paths. For the law shall come out of Sion, and the word of God from Jerusalem,^j ^{2:4}and shall give sentence among the Heathen, and shall reform the multitude of people: So that they shall break their swords and spears, to make scythes, sicles and saws thereof. From that time forth shall not one people lift up weapon against another, neither shall they learn to fight from thenceforth.^k ^{2:5}It is to thee that I cry (O house of Jacob) up, let us walk in the light of the LORD.^l ^{2:6}But thou art scattered abroad with thy people (O house of Jacob) for ye go far beyond your fathers, whether it be in Sorcerers (who ye had as the Philistines had) or in calkers of men's births, whereof ye have too many. ^{2:7}As soon as your land was full of silver and gold, and no end of your treasure: so soon as your land was full of strong horses and no end of your chariots: ^{2:8}Immediately was it full of Idols also, even works of your own hands, which ye yourselves have fashioned, and your fingers have made.

^{2:9}There kneeleth the man, there falleth the man down before thee, so that thou canst not bring him away from thence. ^{2:10}And therefore get thee soon in to some rock, and hide thee in the ground from the sight of the fearful judge, and from the glory of his Majesty: ^{2:11}Which casteth down the high looks of presumptuous persons, and bringeth low the pride of man, and he only shall be exalted in the day. ^{2:12}For the day of the LORD of Hosts shall go over all pride and presumption, upon all them that exalt themselves, and shall bring them all down: ^{2:13}upon all high stout Cedar trees of Libanus, and upon all the oaks of Basan, ^{2:14}upon all high hills, and upon all stout mountains, ^{2:15}upon all costly towers, and upon all strong walls, ^{2:16}upon all ships of the sea, and upon everything that is glorious and pleasant to look upon. ^{2:17}And it shall bring down the pride of man, and lay man's presumptuousness full low, and the LORD shall only have the victory in that day.
^{2:18}But the Idols shall utterly be rooted out.
^{2:19}Men shall creep into holes of stone, and into caves of the earth, from the sight of the fearful judge, and from the glory of his majesty: what time as he shall make him up to shake the earth. ^{2:20}Then, then shall man cast away his gods of silver and gold, (which he nevertheless had made to honour them) unto Moles and Backes,^m ^{2:21}that he may the better creep into the caves and rocks, and into the cliffs of hard stones, from the sight of the fearful judge and from the glory of his Majesty. ^{2:22}Every man can eschew a person moved in anger, for what doth he wisely? ^{3:1}Even so shall the LORD of Hosts take away from Jerusalem and Juda, all possessions and power, all meat and drink,

ⁱIt shall come to pass in the last days that the mount of the house of the LORD, shall be set in the top of the mountains, and shall be lifted up above the hills: and all nations shall resort thereto.

^jAnd much people shall go and say: come and let us go up to the hill of the LORD and unto the house of the God of Jacob: that he may teach us his ways, and that we may walk in his paths. For out of Sion shall come the law, and the word of God out of Jerusalem.

^kAnd he shall be judge among the heathen and tell many nations their faults. And they shall turn their swords into mattocks and their spears into scythes. One nation shall not lift up a sword against another, neither shall they teach to war any more.

^{3:2}the captain and the soldier, the judge and the prophet, the wise and the aged man, ^{3:3}the worshipful of fifty year old, and the honorable: the Senators, and men of understanding: the masters of crafts and orators. ^{3:4}And I shall give you children to be your princes, (sayeth the LORD) and babes shall have the rule of you. ^{3:5}One shall ever be doing violence and wrong to another. The boy shall presume against the elder, and the vile person against the honorable. ^{3:6}Yea one shall take a friend of his own kindred by the bosom, and say: Thou hast clothing, thou shalt be our head, for thou mayest keep us from this fall and peril. ^{3:7}Then shall he swear and say: I can not help you. Moreover, there is neither meat nor clothing in my house, make me no ruler of the people. ^{3:8}For Jerusalem and Juda must decay, because that both their words and counsels are against the LORD, they provoke the presence of his Majesty unto anger. ^{3:9}The changing of their countenance betrayeth them, yea they declare their own sins themselves, as the Sodomites, and hide them not. Woe be unto their souls, for they shall be heavily rewarded. ^{3:10}Then shall they say: O happy are the godly, for they may enjoy the fruits of their studies. ^{3:11}But woe be unto the ungodly and unrighteous for they shall be rewarded after their works. ^{3:12}O my people, ribaudes oppress thee, and women have rule of thee. O my people, thy leaders deceive thee, and tread out the way of thy footsteps. ^{3:13}The LORD is here to communeⁿ of the matter, and standeth to give judgement with the people. ^{3:14}The LORD shall come forth to reason with the Senators and princes of his people, and shall say thus unto them: It is ye that have burnt up my vineyard, the robbery of the poor is in your house. ^{3:15}Wherefore do ye oppress my people, and marred the faces of the innocents? thus shall the Lord GOD^o of Hosts revile them. ^{3:16}Moreover thus sayeth the LORD: Seeing the daughters of Sion are become so proud, and come in with stretched out necks, and with vain wanton eyes: seeing they come in tripping so nicely with their feet: ^{3:17}Therefore shall the Lord shave the heads of the daughters of Sion, and make their beauty bare in that day. ^{3:18}In that day shall the Lord take away the gorgeousness of their apparel, and spangles, chains, partlets, ^{3:19}and collars, bracelets and hooves, ^{3:20}the goodly flowered wide and broidered raiment, brushes and headbands, ^{3:21}rings and garlands, ^{3:22}holy day clothes and vails, kerchiefs and pins, ^{3:23}glasses and smocks, bonnets and taches. ^{3:24}And instead of good smell there shall be stink among them. And for their girdles there shall be loose bands.^P And for well set hair there shall be baldness. Instead of a stomacher, a sackcloth, and for their beauty witherdness and sunburning. ^{3:25}Their husbands and their mighty men shall perish with the sword in battle. ^{3:26}At that time shall their gates mourn and complain, and they shall sit as desolate folk upon the earth. ^{4:1}Then shall seven wives take hold of one man, and say: We will lay all our meat and clothing together in common, only that we may be called thy wives, and that this shameful reproof may be taken from us. ^{4:2}After that time shall the branch of the LORD be beautiful and mighty, and the fruit of the earth shall be fair and pleasant for those Israelites that shall spring thereof. ^{4:3}Then shall the remnant in Sion and the remnant at Jerusalem be called holy: namely all such as are written among the living at Jerusalem: ^{4:4}What time as the Lord^q shall wash away the desolation of the daughters of Sion, and purge the blood out from Jerusalem with the wind of his smoke and fire. ^{4:5}Moreover upon all the dwellings of the hill of Sion and upon their whole congregation, shall the LORD provide a cloud and smoke by day, and the shining of a flaming fire by night: for all their glory shall be preserved. ^{4:6}And Jerusalem shall be a tabernacle for a shadow because of heat in the day time, and place and refuge where a man may keep him for weather and rain. ^{5:1}Now well then, I will sing my beloved friend a song of his vineyard. My beloved friend hath a vineyard in a very fruitful plenteous ground. ^{5:2}This he hedged, this he walled round about, and planted it with goodly grapes. In the midst of it builded he a tower, and made a wine press therein. And afterward when he looked that it should bring him grapes, it brought forth thorns. ^{5:3}I shew you now my cause (O ye Citizens of Jerusalem and whole Juda:) Judge, I pray you, betwixt me: and my vineyard. ^{5:4}What more could have been done for it, that I have not done? Wherefore than hath it given thorns, where I looked to have had grapes of it? ^{5:5}Well, I shall tell you how I will do with my vineyard: I will take the hedge from it, that it may perish, and break down the wall, that it may be trodden under foot. ^{5:6}I will lay it waste, that it shall neither be twisted nor cut, but bear thorns and briers. I will also forbid the clouds, that they shall not rain upon it. ^{5:7}As for the vineyard of the LORD of Hosts it is the house of Israel, and whole Juda his fair planting. Of these he looked for equity, but see there is wrong: for righteousness; Lo; It is but misery. ^{5:8}Woe be unto you that join one house to another, and bring one land so nigh unto another, till ye can get no more ground. Will ye dwell upon the earth alone? ^{5:9}The LORD of Hosts roundeth me thus in mine ear: shall not many greater and more gorgeous houses be so waste, that no man shall dwell in them? ^{5:10}And ten acres of vines shall give but a Quart, and thirty bushels of seed shall give but three. ^{5:11}Woe unto them that rise up early to use themselves in drunkenness, and yet at night are more superfluous with wine. ^{5:12}In those companies are harps and lutes, tabrets and pipes, and wine. But they regard not the work of the LORD, and consider not the operation of his hands. ^{5:13}Therefore cometh my folk also in captivity, because they have no understanding. Their glory shall be mixt with hunger, and their pride shall be marred for thirst. ^{5:14}Therefore gapeth hell, and openeth her mouth marvelous wide: that pride boasting^r and wisdom, with such as rejoice therein, may descend into it. ^{5:15}Thus shall man have a fall, he shall be brought low, and the high looks of the proud laid down. ^{5:16}But the LORD of Hosts, that holy God: shall be exalted and untouched, when he shall declare his equity and righteousness after this manner: ^{5:17}Then shall the lambs eat their appointed fodder, and shall feed plentifully in the mountains. ^{5:18}Woe be unto vain persons, that draw wickedness unto them, as it were with a cord: and sin, as it were with a cart rope. ^{5:19}Which use to speak on this manner: Let him make haste now, and go forth with his work, that we may see it. Let that counsel of the holy one of Israel come, and draw nigh, that we may know it. ^{5:20}Woe be unto them that call evil good, and good evil: which make darkness light, and light darkness, that make sour sweet, and sweet sour. ^{5:21}Woe be unto them that are wise in their own sight, and think themselves to have understanding. ^{5:22}Woe be unto them that are cunning men to sup out wine and expert to set up drunkenness. ^{5:23}These give sentence with the ungodly for rewards, but condemn the just cause of the righteous. ^{5:24}Therefore like as fire licketh up the straw, and as the flame consumeth the stubble: Even so (when their root is full) their blossom shall vanish away like dust or smoke: for they despise the law of the LORD of Hosts, and blaspheme the word of the holy maker of Israel. ^{5:25}Therefore is the wrath of the LORD kindled also against his people, and he shaketh his hand at them: yea he shall smite so, that the hills shall tremble. And their carcasses shall lie in the open streets, like mire. After all this, the wrath of God shall not cease, but he shall stretch his hand wider. ^{5:26}And he shall give a token unto a strange people, and call unto them in a far country: and behold, they shall come hastily with speed. ^{5:27}There is not one faint or feeble among them, no not a sluggish nor slippery person. There shall not one of them put off the girdle from his loins, nor loose^s the latchet of his shoe. ^{5:28}Their arrows are sharp, and their bows bent. Their horses' hoofs are like flint, and their cart wheels like a stormy wind. ^{5:29}Their cry is as it were of a lion, and the roaring of them like lion's whelps. They shall roar, and haunch up the prey, and no man shall recover it or get it from them. ^{5:30}In that day they shall be so fierce upon them, as the sea. And if we look unto the land, behold, it shall be all darkness and sorrow. If we look to heaven: behold, it shall be dark with careful desperation. ^{6:1}In the same year that king Uzziah died, I saw the Lord^t sitting upon an high and glorious seat, and his train filled the palace. ^{6:2}From above flaked the Seraphins, where of every one had six wings.

With twain each covered his face, with twain his feet, and with twain did he fly. ^{6:3}They cried also each one to other on this manner: holy, holy, holy, is the LORD of Hosts. The whole world is full of his glory. ^{6:4}Yea the joists^u and doorcheecks^v moved at their crying, and the house was full of smoke. ^{6:5}Then I said: O woe is me. For I am astonied: that I (which am a man of unclean lips, and dwell among people that hath unclean lips also) should see the King and LORD of Hosts with mine eyes. ^{6:6}Then flew one of the Seraphins unto me, having a hot coal in his hand, which he had taken from the altar with the tongs, ^{6:7}and touched my mouth, and said: Lo, this hath touched thy mouth, and thine unrighteousness is taken away, and thy sin is forgiven. ^{6:8}After this I heard the voice of the Lord^w taking advisement on this manner: Whom shall I send, and who will be our messenger? Then I said: Here am I, send me. ^{6:9}And so he said: Go, and tell this people: Ye shall hear indeed, but ye shall not understand, ye shall plainly see, and not perceive. ^{6:10}Harden the heart of this people, stop^x their ears, and shut their eyes, that they see not with their eyes, hear not with their ears, and understand not with their heart, and convert and be healed. ^{6:11}Then spake I: Lord,^y how long? And he answered: Until the cities be utterly without inhabitants, and the houses without men, till the land be also desolate, and lie unbuilded. ^{6:12}For the LORD shall take the men far away, so that the land shall lie waste. ^{6:13}Nevertheless, the tenth part shall remain therein, for it shall convert and be fruitful. And likewise as the Terebintes and Oak trees bring forth their fruits, so shall the holy seed have fruit. ^{7:1}It happened in the time of Ahaz the son of Joatham, which was the son of Oziah, king of Juda: that Razin the king of Syria, and Phakeh the son of Romeliah, king of Israel: went up toward Jerusalem to besiege it, but wanne it not. ^{7:2}Now when the house of David (that is Ahaz) heard word thereof, that Syria and Ephraim were confederate together: His heart quaked (yea and the hearts also of his people) like as a tree in the field, that is moved with the wind. ^{7:3}Then said GOD unto Esay: Go meet Ahaz, (thou, thy son Sear Jasub) at the head of the over pole, in the foot path by the fuller's ground, ^{7:4}and say unto him, take heed to thyself and be still, but fear not, neither be fainthearted, for these two tails: that is: for these two smoking firebrands, the wrath and furiousness of Rezin the Sirian and Romelies' son: ^{7:5}because that the king of Siria, Ephraim, and Romelies' son have wickedly conspired against thee, ^{7:6}saying: We will go down into Juda, vex them, and bring them under us, and set a king there, even the son of Tabeel. ^{7:7}For thus sayeth the Lord GOD^z there to; It shall not so go forth, neither come so to pass: ^{7:8}For the head city of the Sirians is Damascus, but the head of Damascus is Razin. And after five and threscore year, shall Ephraim be no more a people. ^{7:9}And the chief city of Ephraim is Samaria, but the head of Samaria is Remaliah's son. And if ye believe not, there shall no promise be kept with you. ^{7:10}Moreover, GOD spake unto Ahaz, saying: ^{7:11}require a token of the LORD thy God, whether it be toward the depth beneath or toward the height above.^a ^{7:12}Then said Ahaz: I will require none, neither will I tempt the LORD.^b ^{7:13}The Lord^c answered: Then hear to, ye of the house of David: Is it not enough for you, that ye be grievous unto men, but ye must grieve my God also?^d ^{7:14}And therefore the Lord shall give you a token of himself: Behold, a virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name Emmanuel.^e ^dWherefore the LORD said: Hearken ye of the house of David: Is it so small a thing for you, to be grievous to men, but that ye should also be painful unto God?

^{7:15}Butter and honey shall he eat, that he may know the evil, and choose the good.^f ^{7:16}But or ever the child come to knowledge, to eschew the evil and chose the good: The land (that thou art so afraid for) shall be desolate of both her kings. ^{7:17}The LORD also shall send a time upon thee, upon thy people, and upon thy father's house, (such as never came since the time that Ephraim departed from Juda) thorow the king of the Assyrians. ^{7:18}For at the same time shall the LORD whistle for the flies that are about the water of Egypt, and for the Bees in the Assirian land. ^{7:19}These shall come, and shall light all in the valleys, and in the vaults^g of stone, upon all green things, and in all corners. ^{7:20}At the same time shall the Lord^h shave the hair of the head and the feet and the beard clean off, with the razor that he shall pay them withal beyond the water: namely, with the king of the Assirians. ^{7:21}At the same time shall a man live with a cow, and two sheep. ^{7:22}Then because of the abundance of milk, he shall make butter and eat it. So that every one which remaineth in the land, shall eat butter and honey. ^{7:23}At the same time all vineyards (though there be a thousand vines in one, and were sold for a thousand silverlings) shall be turned to briers and thorns. ^{7:24}Like as they shall come into the land with arrows and bows, so shall all the land become briers and thorns. ^{7:25}And as for all hills that now are hewn down, thou shalt not come upon them, for fear of briers and thorns. But the cattle shall be driven thither, and the sheep shall feed there. ^{8:1}Moreover the LORD said unto me: Take thee a great leaf, and write in it, as men do with a pen, that he speed him to rob, and haste him to spoil. ^{8:2}And immediately I called unto me faithful witnesses, Uriah the priest, and Zachariah the son of Barachiah. ^{8:3}After that went I unto the Prophetess, that now had conceived and born a son. Then said the LORD to me: give him this name: Maherschalal hashbas, that is: (a speedy robber: an hasty spoiler). ^{8:4}For why, or ever the child shall have knowledge to say: Abi and Im, (that is father, and mother): shall the riches of Damascus and the substance of

Samaria be taken away, thorow the king of the Assirians. ^{8:5}The LORD spake also unto me, saying: ^{8:6}For so much as the people refuseth the still running water of Silo, and put their delight in Razin and Romelie's son: ^{8:7}Behold the Lord shall bring mighty and great floods of water upon them: namely, the king of the Assirians with all his power. Which shall pour out his furriusness upon every man, and runⁱ over all their banks. ^{8:8}And shall break in upon Juda, increasing in power, till he get him by the throat. He shall fill also the wideness of thy land with his broad wings, O Emmanuel. ^{8:9}Go together ye people, and gather you, hearken to all ye of far countries. Muster you, and gather you: muster you and gather you, ^{8:10}take your counsel together, yet must your counsel come to nought: go in hand withal, yet shall it not prosper. Except Emmanuel: (that is God) be with us. ^{8:11}For the LORD chastised me, and took me by the hand, and warned me, saying unto me: that I should not walk in the ways of this people. He said moreover: ^{8:12}round with none of them, whosoever say: yonder people are bound together. Nevertheless fear them not, neither be afraid of them, ^{8:13}but sanctify the LORD of Hosts, let him be your fear and dread. ^{8:14}For he is the sanctifying, and stone to stumble at, the rock to fall upon, a snare and net to both the houses: to Israel, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ^{8:15}And many shall stumble, fall, and be broken upon him: yea they shall be snared and taken. ^{8:16}Now lay the witness together (said the Lord)^j and seal the law with my disciples. ^{8:17}Thus I wait upon the LORD that hath turned his face from the house of Jacob, and I look unto him. ^{8:18}But lo, as for me, and the children which the LORD hath given me: we are a token and a wonder in Israel, for the LORD of Hosts' sake, which dwelleth upon the hill of Sion. ^{8:19}And therefore if they say unto you: ask counsel at the soothsayers, witches, charmers and conjurers, then make them this answer: Is there a people any where, that asketh not counsel at his God: whether it be concerning the dead, or the living? ^{8:20}If any man want light, let him look upon the law and the testimony whether they speak not after this meaning. ^{8:21}If he do not this he stumbleth and suffereth hunger. And if he suffer hunger, he is out of patience, and blasphemeth his king and his God. Then looketh he upward, and downward to the earth, ^{8:22}and behold, there is trouble and darkness vexation is round about him, and the cloud of error. And out of such adversity, shall he not escape. ^{9:1}Even like as in time past it hath been well seen, that the land of Zabulon and the land of Nephtali (where thorow the sea way goeth over Jordan in to the land of Galilee) was at the first in little trouble, but afterward sore vexed. ^{9:2}Nevertheless the people that have dwelt in darkness, shall see a great light. As for them that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them shall the light shine. ^{9:3}Shalt thou multiply the people, and not increase the joy also? They shall rejoice before thee even as men make merry in harvest, and as men that have gotten the victory, when they deal the spoil. ^{9:4}For thou shalt break the yoke of the people's burthen: the staff of his shoulder and the rod of his oppressor, as in the day of ^kMadian. ^{9:5}Moreover all temerarious and seditious power (yea where there is but a coat filled with blood) shall be burnt, and fed the fire. ^{9:6}For unto us a child shall be born, and unto us a son shall be given. Upon his shoulders shall the kingdom lie, and he shall be called with his own name: the wonderous giver of counsel, the mighty God, the everlasting father, the Prince of peace, ^{9:7}he shall make no end to increase the kingdom and peace, and shall sit upon the seat of David and in his kingdom, to set up the same, to stablish it with equity and righteousness, from thence forth for evermore. This shall the jealousy of the LORD of hosts bring to pass. ^{9:8}The Lord sent a word in to Jacob, the same is come in to Israel. ^{9:9}And the people also of Ephraim, and they that dwell in Samaria, can say with pride and high stomachs, on this manner: ^{9:10}The tile work is fallen down, but we will build it with harder stones. The Mulberry timber is broken, but we shall set it up again with Cedar.

^{9:11}Nevertheless, the LORD shall prepare Razin the enemy against them, and so order their adversaries, ^{9:12}that the Sirians shall lay hold upon them before, and the Philistines behind, and so devour Israel with open mouth. After all this, the wrath of the Lord shall not cease, but yet his hand shall be stretched out still. ^{9:13}For the people turneth not unto him, that chastiseth them, neither do they seek the LORD of Hosts. ^{9:14}Therefore the LORD shall root out of Israel both head and tail, branch and twig in one day. ^{9:15}By the head, is understand^l the Senator and honorable man, and by the tail, the Prophet that preacheth lies. ^{9:16}For all they which enforme the people that they be in a right cause, such be deceivers. Such as men think also to be perfect among these, are but cast away. ^{9:17}Therefore shall the Lord^m have no pleasure in their young men, neither favour their fatherless and widows. For they are all together hypocrites and wicked, and all their mouths speak folly. After all this shall not the Lord'sⁿ wrath cease, but yet his hand shall be stretched out still. ^{9:18}For the ungodly burn, as a fire in the briers and thorns: And as it were out of a fire in a wood or a red^o bush, so ascendeth the smoke of their pride. ^{9:19}For this cause shall the wrath of the LORD of Hosts fall upon the land, and the people shall be consumed, as it were with fire, no man shall spare his brother. ^{9:20}If a man do turn him to the right hand, he shall famish, or to the left hand to eat, he shall not have enough. Every man shall eat the flesh of his own arm: ^{9:21}Manasses shall eat Ephraim and Ephraim Manasses, and they both shall eat Juda. After all this shall not the Lord's^p wrath cease, but yet shall his hand be stretched out still. ^{10:1}Woe be unto you that make unrighteous laws, and devise things, which be too hard for to keep: ^{10:2}wherethorow the poor are oppressed, on every side, and the innocents of my people are therewith robbed of judgement: that widows may be your prey, and that ye may rob the fatherless. ^{10:3}What will ye do in time of the visitation and destruction, that shall come from far? To whom will ye run^q for help? Or to whom will ye give your honour, that he may keep it? ^{10:4}That ye come not among the prisoners, or lie among the dead? After all this shall not the wrath of the Lord^r cease, but yet shall his hand be stretched out still. ^{10:5}Woe be also unto Assur, which is a staff of my wrath, in whose hand is the rod of my punishment. ^{10:6}For I shall send him among those hypocritical^s people, among the people that have deserved my disfavour shall I send him: that he may utterly rob them, spoil them, and tread them down like the mire in the street. ^{10:7}Howbeit, his meaning is not so, neither thinketh his heart of this fashion. But he imagineth only, how he may overthrow and destroy much people, ^{10:8}for he sayeth: Are not my princes all kings? ^{10:9}Is not Calno as easy to win, as Charchamis? Is it harder to conquer Antiochia than Arphad? or is it lighter to overcome Damascus than Samaria? ^{10:10}As who say: I were able to win the kingdom of the Idolaters and their gods, but not Jerusalem and Samaria. ^{10:11}Shall I not do unto Jerusalem and their Images, as I did unto Samaria and their Images? ^{10:12}Wherefore the Lord^t sayeth: As soon as I have performed my whole work upon the hill of Sion and Jerusalem, then will I also visit the noble and stout king of Assiria, with his wisdom and pride. ^{10:13}For he standeth thus in his own conceit: This do I, thorow the power of my own hand, and thorow my wisdom: For I am wise, I am he that remove the lands of the people, I rob their princes: and (like one of the worthies) I drive them from their high seats. ^{10:14}My hand hath found out the Hosts of the people, as it were a nest. And like as eggs, that were laid here and there, are gathered together: So do I gather all countries. And there is no man, that dare be so bold, as to touch a feather, that dare open his mouth, or once whisper. ^{10:15}But doth the axe boost itself, against him that heweth therewith? or doth the saw make any cracking, against him that ruleth it? That were even like, as if the rod did exalt itself against him that beareth it: or as though the staff should magnify itself, as who say: it were not wood. ^{10:16}Therefore shall the LORD of Hosts send him poverty in his riches, and burn up his power, as it were with a fire. ^{10:17}But the light of Israel shall be that fire, and his Sanctuary shall be the flame, and it shall kindle, and burn up his thorns and briers in one day. ^{10:18}Yea all the glory of his woods and fields shall be consumed with body and soul. As for himself, he shall be as one chased away. ^{10:19}The trees also of his field shall be of such a number that a child may tell them. ^{10:20}After that day shall the remnant of Israel, and such as are escaped out of the house of Jacob, seek no more comfort at him that smote them, but shall comfort themselves with faithfulness and truth in the LORD, the holy one of Israel. ^{10:21}The remnant, yea and the Posterity of Jacob, shall convert unto God the mighty one. ^{10:22}For though thy people (O Israel) be as the sand of the sea, yet shall but the remnant of them only convert unto him. Perfect is the judgement of him that floweth in righteousness, ^{10:23}and therefore the LORD of Hosts shall perfectly fulfil the thing, that he hath determined in the midst of the whole world. ^{10:24}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD^u of Hosts: Thou my people, that dwellest in Sion, be not afraid for the king of the Assirians: He shall wag his staff at thee, yea and beat thee with the rod, as the Egyptians did some time: ^{10:25}But soon after, shall my wrath and mine indignation be fulfilled against their blasphemies. ^{10:26}Moreover the LORD of Hosts shall prepare a scourge for him, like as was the punishment of Madian upon the mount of Oreb. And he shall lift up his rod over the sea, as he did sometime over the Egyptians. ^{10:27}Then shall his burthen be taken from thy shoulders, and his yoke from thy neck, yea the same yoke shall be corrupt for very fatness. ^{10:28}He shall come to Aiath, and go thorow toward Migron. But at Machmas shall he muster his Host, ^{10:29}and go over the fiord. Gabaah shall be their resting place, Rhamah shall be afraid, Gabaah Saul shall flee away. ^{10:30}The voice of the noise of thy horses, (O daughter of Gallim) shall be heard unto Laish and to Anathoth, which also shall be in trouble. ^{10:31}Madmena shall tremble for fear, but the citizens of Gabin are manly, ^{10:32}yet shall he remain at Nob that day. After that, shall he lift up his hand against the mount Sion, against the hill of Jerusalem. ^{10:33}But see, the Lord GOD^v of Hosts shall take away the proud from thence, with fear. He shall hew down the proud, and fell the high minded. ^{10:34}The thorns of the wood shall be rooted out with iron, and Libanus shall have a mighty fall. ^{11:1}After this there shall come a rod forth of the Kindred of Jesse, and a blossom out of his root.^w ^{11:2}The spirit of the LORD shall light it: the spirit of wisdom, and understanding: the spirit of counsel, and strength: the spirit of knowledge, and of the fear of God.^x ^{11:3}and shall make him fervent in the fear of GOD. For he shall not give sentence, after the thing that shall be brought before his eyes, neither reprove a matter at the first hearing.^y ^{11:4}but with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and with holiness shall he reform the simple of the world. He shall smite the world with the staff of his mouth, and with the breath of his mouth shall he slay the wicked.^z ^{11:5}Righteousness shall be the girdle of his loins, truth and faithfulness, the girding up of his reins.^a ^{11:6}Then shall the wolf dwell with the lamb, and the Leopard shall lie down by the goat. Bullocks, Lions and cattle shall keep company together, so that a little child shall drive them forth. ^{11:7}The cow and the Bear shall feed together, and their young ones shall lie together. The Lion shall eat straw like the ox, or the cow. ^{11:8}The child while he sucketh, shall have a desire to the serpents nest, and when he is weaned, he shall put his hand in to the Cockatrice' den. ^{11:9}No man shall do evil to another, no man shall destroy another, in all the hill of my Sanctuary. For the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the LORD, even as though the water of the sea flowed over the earth. ^{11:10}Then shall the Gentiles enquire after the root of Jesse, (which shall be set up for a token unto the Gentiles) for his dwelling shall be glorious. ^{11:11}At the same time shall the Lord^b take in hand again, to conquer the remnant of his people, (which are left alive) From the Assirians, Egyptians, Arabians, Morians, Elamites, Caldeies, Antiochians and Islands of the sea. ^{11:12}And he shall set up a token among the Gentiles, and gather together the dispersed of Israel, yea and the outcasts of Juda from the four corners of the world. ^{11:13}The hatred of Ephraim and the enmity of Judah shall be clean rooted out. Ephraim shall bear no evil will to Judah, and Judah shall not hate Ephraim: ^{11:14}but they both together shall fly upon the shoulders of the Philistines toward the West: and spoil them together that dwell toward the East. The Idumites and the Moabites shall let their hands fall, and the Ammonites shall be obedient unto them. ^{11:15}The LORD also shall cleave the tongues of the Egyptian's sea, and with a mighty wind shall he lift up his hand over Nilus, and shall smite his seven streams and make men go over dry shod. ^{11:16}And thus shall he make a way for his people, that remaineth from the Assirians, like as it happened to the Israelites, what time they departed out of the land of Egypt. ^{12:1}So that then thou shalt say: O LORD, I thank thee, for thou wast displeased at me, but thou hast refrained thy wrath, and hast mercy upon me.^c ^{12:2}Behold, God is my health, in whom I trust, and am not afraid. ^eBehold God is my salvation: I will be bold therefore and not fear. For the LORD GOD is my strength and water out of the wells of the Savioure,^f 12:4 and then shall ye say: Lets us give thanks unto the LORD,^g and call upon his name, and declare his counsels among the people, and keep them in remembrance, for his name is excellent.^h 12:5 O sing praises unto the LORD, for he doth great things, as it is known in all the world.ⁱ 12:6 Cry out, and be glad, thou that dwellest in Sion, for great is thy prince: the holy one of Israel.^j 13:1 This is the heavy burthen of Babylon, which Esay the son of Amos did see. 13:2 Make some tokens to the high hills, call unto them, hold up your hand, that the princes may go in at the door. 13:3 For I will send for my deputies and my giants (sayeth the LORD) and in my wrath I will call for such, as triumph in my glory. 13:4 With that, me thought I heard in the mountains, a noise, like as it had been of a great people: and a rushing, as though the kingdoms of all nations had come together. (And the LORD of Hosts was the Captain of the whole army) 13:5 As they had come not only out of far countries, but also from the ends of the heavens: Even the LORD himself with the ministers of his wrath, to destroy the whole land. 13:6 Mourn therefore, for the day of the LORD is at hand, and cometh as a destroyer from the Almighty. 13:7 Then shall all hands be letten down, and all men's hearts shall melt away, 13:8 they shall stand in fear, carefulness and sorrow shall come upon them, and they shall have pain, as a woman that travaileth with child. One shall ever be abashed of another, and their faces shall burn like the flame. 13:9 For lo, the day of the LORD shall come, terrible, full of indignation and wrath: to make the land waste, and to root out the sin thereof. 13:10 For the stars and planets of heaven shall not give their light, the sun shall be quenched in the rising, and the moon will not shine with his light. 13:11 And I will punish the wickedness of the world, and the sins of the ungodly, sayeth the LORD. The high stomachs of the proud will I take away, and will lay down the boasting^k of tyrants. 13:12 I will make a man dearer than fine gold, and a man to be more worth, than a golden wedge of Ophir. 13:13 Moreover I will so shake the heaven, that the earth shall remove out of her place. Thus shall it go with Babylon in the wrath of the LORD of Hosts in the day of his fearful indignation. 13:14 And Babylon shall be as an hunted or chased doe, and as a flock without a shepherd. Every man shall turn to his own people, and flee each one into his own land. 13:15 Who so is found alone, shall be shot thorow: And who so gather together, shall be destroyed with the sword. 13:16 Their children shall be slain before their eyes, their houses spoiled, and their wives ravished. 13:17 For lo, I shall bring up the Medes against them, which shall not regard silver, nor be desirous of gold. 13:18 Then shall young men's bows be knapped asunder. The Medes shall have no pity upon women with child, and their faces shall not spare the children. 13:19 And Babylon (that glory of kingdoms and beauty of the Caldees' honor) shall be destroyed, even as God destroyed Sodom and Gomorra. 13:20 It shall never be more inhabited, neither shall there be any more dwelling there, from generation to generation. The Arabians shall make no more tents there, neither shall the shepherds make their folds there any more: 13:21 but wild beasts shall lie there, and the houses shall be full of great Owls. Ostriches shall dwell there, and apes shall dance there: 13:22 the little owls shall cry in the palaces, one after another, and Dragons shall be in their pleasant parlors. And as for Babylon's time, it is at hand, and her days may not be long absent: 14:1 But the LORD will be merciful unto Jacob, and will take up Israel again, and set them in their own land. Strangers shall cleave unto them, and get them to the house of Jacob. 14:2 They shall take the people, and carry them home with them. And the house of Israel shall have them in possession for servants and maidens in the land of the LORD. They shall take those prisoners, whose captives they had been afore: and rule those that had oppressed them. ^{14:3}When the LORD now shall bring thee to rest, from the travail, fear, and hard bondage that thou wast laden with all: ^{14:4}Then shalt thou use this mockage upon the king of Babylon, and say: How happeneth that the oppressor leaveth off? Is the gold tribute come to an end? ^{14:5}Doubtless the LORD hath broken the staff of the ungodly, and the scepter of the lordly. ^{14:6}Which when he is wroth, smiteth the people with durable strokes, and in his wonders he persecuteth them, and tameth them continually. ^{14:7}And therefore the whole world is at rest and quietness, and men sing for joy. ^{14:8}Yea even the fir trees and Cedars of Libanus rejoice at thy fall, saying: Now that thou art laid down, there come no more up to destroy us. ^{14:9}Hell also trembleth at thy coming, all mighty men and princes of the earth, step forth before thee. All kings of the earth stand up from their seats, ^{14:10}that they may all (one after another) sing and speak unto thee. Art thou wounded also as we? art thou become like unto us? ^{14:11}Thy pomp and thy pride is gone down to hell: Moths shall be laid under thee, and worms shall be thy covering. ^{14:12}How art thou fallen from heaven, (O Lucifer) thou fair morning child? hast thou gotten a fall even to the ground, thou that (notwithstanding) didst subdue the people? ^{14:13}And yet thou thoughtest in thine heart: I will climb up into heaven, and make my seat above the stars of God, I will sit upon the glorious mount toward the North, ^{14:14}I will climb up above the clouds, and will be like the highest of all. ^{14:15}Yet dare I lay, that thou shalt be brought down to the deep of hell. ^{14:16}They that see thee, shall narrowly look upon thee, and think in themselves, saying: Is this the man, that brought all lands in fear, and made the kingdoms afraid: ^{14:17}Is this he that made the world in a manner waste, and laid the cities to the ground, which let not his prisoners go home? ^{14:18}How happeneth it, that the kings of all people lie, every one at home in his own palace, with worship, ^{14:19}and thou art cast out of thy grave like a wild branch: like as dead men's raiment that are shot thorow with the sword: as they that go down to the stones of the deep: as a dead corpse^l that is trodden under feet: ^{14:20}and art not buried with them? Even because that thou hast wasted thy land, and destroyed thy people. For the generation of the wicked shall be without honour, forever. ^{14:21}There shall a way be sought to destroy their children, for their fathers' wickedness: They shall not rise up again to possess the land, and fill the world full of castles and towns. ^{14:22}I will stand up against them, (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) and root out the name and generation of Babylon (sayeth the LORD) ^{14:23}and will give it to the Otters, and will make water puddles of it; and I will sweep them out with the besom of destruction, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{14:24}The LORD of Hosts hath sworn an oath, saying: It shall come to pass as I have determined: and shall be fulfilled as I have devised. ^{14:25}The Assyrians shall be destroyed in my land, and upon my mountains^m will I tread them under foot. Where thorow his yoke shall come from you, and his burthen shall be taken from your shoulders. ^{14:26}This device hath God taken thorow the whole world, and thus is his hand stretched out over all people. ^{14:27}For if the LORD of Hosts determine a thing, who will disannul it? And if he stretch forth his hand, who will hold it in again? ^{14:28}The same year that king Ahaz died, God threatened by Esay on this manner: ^{14:29}Rejoice not (thou whole Palestina) as though the rod of him that beateth thee were broken: For out of the serpent's root, there shall wax a cockatrice, and the fruit shall be a fiery worm. ^{14:30}But the poor shall feed of the best things, and the simple shall dwell in safety. Thy roots will I destroy with hunger, and it shall slay thy remnant. ^{14:31}Mourn ye ports, weep ye cities, and fear thou (O whole Palestina) for there shall come from the North a smoke, whose power no man may abide. ^{14:32}Who shall then maintain the messages of the Gentiles? But the LORD stablisheth Sion, and the poor of my people shall put their trust in him. ^{15:1}This is the heavy burthen upon Moab: Ar of Moab was destroyed (as me thought) in the night season: The walls of Moab perished in the night, and vanished away: ^{15:2}They went to Bajth, and Dibon in the high places, for to weep: Moab did mourn from Nebo to Medba: All their heads were polled, and all their beards shaven.

^{15:3}In their streets were they girded about with sackcloth. In all the tops of their houses and streets was there nothing, but mourning and weeping. ^{15:4}Hesebon and Eleale cried, that their voice was heard unto Jahaz. The worthies also of Moab bleared and cried for very sorrow of their minds: ^{15:5}Woe is my heart for Moab's sake. They fled unto the city of Zoar, which is like a fair fruitful bullock, they went up to Luhith, weeping. The way toward Horonaim was full of lamentation for the hurt. ^{15:6}The waters of Nimrim were dried up, the grass was withered, and the herbs destroyed, and what necessary green thing there was beside. ^{15:7}In like manner the thing that was left them of their substance, they carried it by water to Araby. ^{15:8}The cry went over the whole land of Moab: from Eglaim unto Beer, was there nothing but mourning. ^{15:9}The waters of Dimon were full of blood, for the enemy had sent thither a bond of men, which as a lion lay await for the remnant of the land, and for them that were escaped. ^{16:1}Then sent the lords of the land a man of war, from the rock that lieth toward the desert, unto the hill of the daughter Sion. ^{16:2}(For as for the daughters of Moab, they were as it had been a trembling bird, that is put out of her nest, by the fury of Arnon.) which messenger said: ^{16:3}gather your counsel, come together, cover us with your shadow in the midday, as the night doth: hide the chased, and bewray not them that are fled, ^{16:4}let the persecuted Moabites dwell among you, be our open refuge against the destroyer: for the adversary oppresseth us, the robber undoeth us, and the tyrant driveth us out of our land. ^{16:5}But the throne of your kingdom is full of grace, therefore he that sitteth upon it with faithfulness and truth in the house of David, know the thing, and do his diligence to help shortly, according to equity and righteousness. ^{16:6}As for Moab's pride (shall they answer) it is well known. And all thought they be excellent proud, arrogant and high minded: yet is their strength nothing like. ^{16:7}And therefore Moab complaineth unto Moab, where thorow they come all to mourn: and now that they be smitten, they take their device beneath by the brick wall, and make their complaint. ^{16:8}The suburbs also of Hesebon were made waste, and the princes of the Gentiles hewed down the vineyards of Sibma, which were planted with noble grapes, and spread unto Jazer, and went unto the end of the desert, whose branches stretched their fellows forth beyond the sea. ^{16:9}Therefore I mourned for Jazer, and for the vineyards of Sibma with great sorrow. I poured my tears upon Hesebon and Eleale, for all their songs were laid down, in their harvest and gathering of their grapes: ^{16:10}Mirth and cheer was gone out of the field and vineyards, in so much, that no man was glad nor sung. There went no treader into the winepress, their merry cheer was laid down. ^{16:11}Wherefore my belly rumbled (as it had been a lute) for Moab's sake, and mine inward members, for the brick wall's sake. ^{16:12}For it happened thus also: when Moab saw that she was turned upside down: she went up an highⁿ in to her Sanctuary, to make her prayer there, but she might not be helped. ^{16:13}This is the device, which the LORD took in hand at the time against Moab. ^{16:14}But now the LORD sayeth thus: In three years shall the power of Moab with their pomp^o (which is great) be minished, like as the burthen of a hired servant. And as for the remnant of them, they shall be less than a few, and not reckoned much worth. ^{17:1}This is the heavy burthen upon Damascus: Behold, Damascus shall be no more a city, but a heap of broken stones. ^{17:2}The cities of Aroer shall be waste: the cattle shall lie there, and no man shall fraye them away. ^{17:3}Ephraim shall no more be strong, and Damascus shall no more be a kingdom. And as for the glory of the remnant of the Syrians, it shall be as the glory of the children of Israel, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{17:4}At that time also shall the glory of Jacob be very poor, and his fatness lean. ^{17:5}It shall happen to them, as when one sheareth in the harvest, which cutteth his handfull with the sickle, and when one gathereth the sheaves together in the valley, of Raphaim, ^{17:6}there remaineth yet some ears over: Or as when one shaketh an olive tree, which sendeth but two or three olive berries above in the top, and four or five in the branches. Thus the LORD God of Israel hath spoken. ^{17:7}Then shall man convert again unto his maker, and turn his eyes to the holy one of Israel. ^{17:8}And shall not turn to the altars that are the work of his own hands, neither shall he look upon groves and images, which his fingers have wrought. ^{17:9}At the same time shall their strong cities be desolate, like as were once the forsaken plows and corn, which they forsook, for fear of the children of Israel. ^{17:10}So shalt thou (O Damascus) be desolate, because thou hast forgotten God thy Saviour, and hast not called to remembrance the rock of thy strength. Wherefore thou hast also set a fair plant, and grafted a strange branch. ^{17:11}In the day when thou didst plant it, it was great, and gave soon the fruit of thy seed: But in the day of harvest, thou shalt reap an heap of sorrows and miseries. ^{17:12}Woe be to the multitude of much people, that rush in like the sea, and to the heap of folk, that run^P over all like great waters. ^{17:13}For though so many people increase as the flowing waters and though they be armed, yet they flee far off, and vanish away like the dust with the wind upon an hill, and as the whirlwind thorow a storm. ^{17:14}Though they be fearful at night, yet in the morning it is gone with them. This is their portion, that do us harm, and heritage of them, that rob us. ^{18:1}Woe be unto the land of flying ships, which is of this side the flood of Ethiopia: ^{18:2}which sendeth her message over the sea in ships of reeds upon the water: and sayeth: go soon, and do your message unto a strange and hard folk: to a fearful people, and to a people that is further than this: to a desperate and pilled folk, whose land is divided from us with rivers of water. ^{18:3}Yea all ye that sit in the compass of the world, and dwell upon the earth: when the token shall be given upon the mountains, then look up: and when the horn bloweth, then harken to, ^{18:4}for thus hath the LORD said unto me. I laid me down, and pondered the matter in my house, at the Noon day when it was hot: And there fell a misling shower, like a dew, as it happeneth in Harvest. ^{18:5}But the fruits were not yet ripe cut off, and the grapes were but young and green. Then one smote off, the grapes with an hook, yea he hewed down also the boughs and the branches, and did cast them away. ^{18:6}And thus they were laid waste, for the fowls of the mountains, and for the beasts of the earth together. So that the fowls sat there upon, and the beasts of the earth wintered there. ^{18:7}Then shall there be a present brought to the LORD of Hosts: even that hard folk, that fearful folk, and that further is than this: that desperate and pilled folk (whose land is divided from us with floods of water) unto the place of the name of the LORD of Hosts: even unto the hill of Sion. ^{19:1}This is the heavy burthen upon Egypt: Behold, the LORD will ride upon a swift cloud, and come into Egypt. And the gods of Egypt shall tremble at his coming, and the heart of Egypt shall quake within her. ^{19:2}For thus sayeth the LORD: I will stir up the Egyptians one against another among themselves, so that one shall be ever against his brother and neighbour, yea one city against another, and one kingdom against another. ^{19:3}And Egypt shall be choked in herself. When they ask counsel at their gods, at their prophets, at their soothsayers and witches: then will I bring their counsel to naught. ^{19:4}I will deliver Egypt also into the hands of grievous rulers, and a cruel king shall have the rule of them.^q ^{19:5}The water of the sea shall be drawn out, Nilus shall sink away, and be drunk up. ^{19:6}The rivers also shall be drawn out, the wells shall decrease and dry away. ^{19:7}Reed and rush shall fail, the grass by the waters side or upon the river bank, yea and whatsoever is sown by the waters, shall be withered, destroyed, and brought to naught. ^{19:8}The fishers shall mourn, all such as cast angles in the water, shall complain, and they that spread their nets in the water, shall be faint hearted. ^{19:9}Such as labour upon flax and silk, shall come to poverty, and they also that weave fine works. ^{19:10}All the pounds of Egypt, all the policy of their Moats and ditches shall come to naught. ^{19:11}Yea the indiscreet princes of Zoan, the counsel of the wise Senators of Pharaoh, shall turn to foolishness: Those that dare boast and say of Pharaohs behalf: I am come of wise people, ^{19:12}I am come of the old regal Progeny. But where are now thy wise men? Let them tell thee and shew thee, what the LORD of Hosts hath taken in hand against Egypt. ^{19:13}Fools are those princes of Zoan, and proud are the princes of Noph: yea they deceive Egypt with their nobility of their stock. ^{19:14}For the LORD hath made Egypt drunken with the spirit of error, and they shall use it in all matters: even like as a drunken man goeth spewing about. ^{19:15}For Egypt shall lack good counsel, so that they shall know not what to do, neither beginning nor end, neither upon the land nor water. ^{19:16}Then shall the Egyptians be like unto women, afraid and astounded, at the lifting up of the head, which the LORD of Hosts shall lift up over them. ^{19:17}The land of Juda also shall make the Egyptians afraid, who so doth but speak upon it, shall put them in fear: And that because of the counsel, which the LORD of Hosts hath devised against them. ^{19:18}Then shall the five cities of Egypt speak with the Canaanites tongue, and swear by the LORD of Hosts, and Heliopolis shall be one of them. ^{19:19}At the same time shall the LORD of Hosts have an altar in the midst of the land of Egypt, with this title thereby: Unto the LORD. ^{19:20}This shall be a token or testimony unto the LORD of Hosts in the land of Egypt, when they shall cry unto him, because of those that oppress them: that he shall send them a Captain and a Saviour to deliver them. ^{19:21}Moreover, Egypt shall be brought unto the LORD, and the Egyptians also shall know the LORD at the same time: they shall do him reverence with peace offerings, and with meat offerings: they shall promise him offerings: yea and pay him also. ^{19:22}Thus the LORD shall smite Egypt, and heal it again: and so shall they turn to the LORD, and he also shall have mercy upon them, and save them. ^{19:23}Then shall there be a common way out of Egypt into Assyria. The Assyrians shall come into Egypt, and the Egyptians into Assyria. The Egyptians also and the Assyrians shall both have one God's service. ^{19:24}Then shall Israel with honour be the third to Egypt and Assur. ^{19:25}And the LORD of Hosts shall bless them, saying: Blessed is my people of the Egyptians, Assur is the work of my hands, but Israel is mine inheritance. ^{20:1}In the same year that Tharthan came unto Asdod, where Sargon the king of the Assyrians sent him, what time as he also besieged Asdod, and wan it the same season: ^{20:2}Then spake the LORD unto Esay the son of Amoz, saying: Go and loose^r off that sackcloth from thy loins, and put off thy shoes from thy feet. And so he did, going naked and barefoot. ^{20:3}Then said the LORD: where as my servant Esay goeth naked and barefoot, it is a token and signifying of the thing, that after three years shall come upon Egypt and Ethiopia. ^{20:4}For even thus shall the king of the Assyrians drive both young and old, as prisoners naked and barefoot, out of Egypt and Ethiopia. And shall discover the shame of Egypt. ^{20:5}They shall be also at their wits end, and ashamed one of another: the Egyptians of the Morians, and the Morians of the Egyptians, at the sight of their glory. ^{20:6}Moreover they that dwell in the Isles shall see even the same day: behold, this is our hope, to whom we fled to seek help, that we might be delivered from the king of the Assyrians. How will we escape? ^{21:1}This is the heavy burthen of the waste sea: A grievous vision was shewed unto me, like as when a storm of wind and rain rusheth in from the wilderness, that terrible land. ^{21:2}Who so may deceive (said the voice) let him deceive: Who so may destroy, let him destroy. Up Elam, besiege it O Madai, for I well still all their groanings. ^{21:3}With this, the reines of my back were full of pain: Pangs came upon me, as upon a woman in her travail. When I heard it, I was abashed: and when I looked up, I was afraid. ^{21:4}Mine heart panted, I trembled for fear. The darkness made me fearful in my mind. ^{21:5}Yea soon make ready the table, (said this voice) keep the watch, eat and drink: Up ye Captains, take you to your shield, ^{21:6}for thus the Lord hath charged me: Go thy way, and set a watchman, that he may tell what he seeth. ^{21:7}And when he had waited diligently, he saw two horsemen: the one riding upon an Ass, the other upon a camel. ^{21:8}And the lion cried: lord,^s I have stand waiting all the whole day, and have kept my watch all the night. ^{21:9}With that came there one riding upon a chariot, which answered, and said: Babylon is fallen, she is turned upside down, and all the images of her gods are smitten to the ground. ^{21:10}This (O my fellow threshers and fanners) have I heard of the LORD of Hosts, the God of Israel, to shew it unto you. ^{21:11}The heavy burthen of Dumah. One of Seir, cried unto me: watchman what hast thou espied by night? Watchman, what hast thou espied by night? ^{21:12}The watchman answered: The day breaketh on, and the night is coming: If your request be earnest, then ask and come again. ^{21:13}The heavy burthen upon Arabia. At even ye shall abide in the wood, in the way toward Dedanim. ^{21:14}Meet the thirsty with water (o ye citizens of Hema) meet^t those with bread that are fled. ^{21:15}For they shall run away from the weapon, from the drawn sword, from the bent bow, and from the great battle. ^{21:16}For thus hath the Lord^u spoken unto me, over a year shall all the power of Cedar be gone, like as when the office of an hired servant goeth out: ^{21:17}And the remnant of the good Archers of Cedar, shall be very few: For the LORD God of Israel hath spoken it. ^{22:1}The heavy burthen upon the valley of visions. What hast thou there to do, that thou climbest up in to the house top, ^{22:2}O thou city of miracles, seditious and willful: seeing, thy slain men are neither killed with sword, nor dead in battle? ^{22:3}For all thy Captains gat them to their horses from the ordinance, yea they are all together ridden away, and fled far off. ^{22:4}When I perceived that, I said: away from me, that I may weep bitterly. Take no labour for to comfort me, as touching the destruction of my people. ^{22:5}For this is the day of the LORD of Hosts, where in he will plague, tread down, and weed out the valley of visions, and break down the walls, with such a crack, that it shall give a sound in the mountains. ^{22:6}I saw the Elamites take the quivers to cart and to horse, and that the walls were bare from harness. ^{22:7}Thy goodly valleys were full of chariots, and the horse men made them soon to besiege the gates. ^{22:8}Then was the covering of Judah put from thence, and then was seen the siege of the timber house. ^{22:9}There shall ye see the rifts in the walls of the city of David, whereof there shall be many. Ye shall gather together the waters of the lower pool, ^{22:10}and tell the houses of Jerusalem, and break of some of them to keep the walls. ^{22:11}And ye shall make a pit betwixt the twain walls of the water of the old pool, and nothing regard him, that took it in hand, and made it. ^{22:12}And at the same time shall the LORD of Hosts call men to weeping, mourning, to baldness and a putting on of sackcloth. ^{22:13}But they to fulfill their lust and willfulness, slaughter oxen: they kill sheep, they eat costly meat, and drink wine, let us eat and drink, to morrow we shall die. ^{22:14}Nevertheless, when the LORD of Hosts heard of it, he said: yea, if this wickedness of yours shall be remitted, ye must die for it. This hath the Lord GOD^v of Hosts spoken. ^{22:15}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD^w of Hosts: Go in to the treasury unto Sobna the governor, and say to him: ^{22:16}What hast thou here to do? and from whence comest thou? that thou hast made thee a grave here? For he had caused a costly tomb of stone to be made for himself, and a place to lie in to be hewn out of a rock. ^{22:17}Behold, the LORD shall cast thee out by violence, he will deck thee of another fashion, and put upon thee a strange cloth. ^{22:18}He shall carry thee into a far country, like a ball with his hands. There shalt thou die, there shall the pomp of thy chariots have an end: thou villain of the house of thy lord: ^{22:19}I will shoot^x thee out of thine office, and put thee from thine estate. ^{22:20}After this will I call my servant Eliakim the son of Helkiah, ^{22:21}and array him with thy coat, and gird him with thy girdle, and I will give thy power in to his hand. He shall be a father of the citizens of Jerusalem, and of the kindred of Judah. ^{22:22}I will also lay the key of David's house upon his shoulders, and if he open, no man shall shut: and if he do shut, no man shall open. ^{22:23}I will fasten him to a nail in the place of the most high^y faithfulness, and he shall be upon the glorious throne of his father's house. ^{22:24}They shall hang upon him all the glory of his father's house, of the children and children's children, all apparel small and great, all instruments of measure and music. ^{22:25}This shall come to pass (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) when the nail that is fastened to the place of the highest faithfulness, shall be plucked^z off. And when the weight that hangeth upon it, shall fall, be broken, and hewn in pieces. For the LORD himself hath said it. ^{23:1}An heavy burthen upon Tyrus. Mourn ye ships of Tharsis, for she is thrown down to the ground, and conquered of them that are come from Cethim. ^{23:2}The indwellers of the Islands, the merchants of Sidon, and they that occupied the sea, (of whom thou wast full sometime) are at a point. ^{23:3}For by sea were there fruits brought unto thee, and all manner of corn by water. Thou wast the common market of all people. ^{23:4}Sidon is sorry for it, yea and all the power of the sea complaineth, and sayeth: O that I had never traveled with child, that I had never born any, that I had neither nourished boy, nor brought up daughter. ^{23:5}As soon as Egypt perceiveth it, she will be as sorry as Tyrus it self. ^{23:6}Go over the sea, mourn ye that dwell in the Isles. ^{23:7}Is not that the glorious city, which hath been of long antiquity? Whose natives dwelling far off, commend her so greatly? ^{23:8}Who hath devised such things upon Tyrus the crown of all cities, whose merchants and Captains were the highest and principal of the world? ^{23:9}Even the LORD of Hosts hath devised it, that he may put down all pomp, and minish all the Glory of the world. ^{23:10}Go thorow thy land (O thou daughter of the sea) as men go over the water, and there is not a girdle more. ^{23:11}Thus the LORD that removeth the kingdoms, hath taken in hand against that mighty Canaan to root^a it out: hath stretched out his hand over the sea, ^{23:12}and said: From hence forth shalt thou make no more mirth, O thou daughter of Sidon: for thou shalt be put down of the Cethens. Stand up therefore, and go where the enemy will carry thee, where thou shalt also have no rest. ^{23:13}Behold, (for thine example) The Chaldees were such a people, that no man was like them, Assur builded them: he set up his castles and palaces, and broke them down again. ^{23:14}And therefore mourn (ye ships of the sea) for your power shall be thrown down. ^{23:15}After that, shall the seventy years of Tyrus (even as long as their kings life was) be forgotten. And after seventy years, it shall happen to Tyrus as with an harlot that playeth upon a lute. ^{23:16}Take thy lute (say men to her) and go about the city, thou art yet an unknown wench, make pastime with divers ballads,^b whereby thou mayest come into acquaintance.

^{23:17}Thus shall it happen after seventy years. The LORD shall visit the city of Tyrus, and it shall come again to her merchandise, and shall occupy with all the kingdoms that be in the world. ^{23:18}But all her occupying and wining shall be hallowed unto the LORD. For then shall they lay up nothing behind them nor upon heaps: but the merchandise of Tirus shall belong to the citizens of the LORD, to the feeding and sustaining of the hungry, and to the clothing of the aged. ^{24:1}Behold, the LORD shall waste and plague the world, he shall make the face of the earth desolate, and scatter abroad the inhabters thereof. ^{24:2}Then shall the priest be as the people, the master as the servant, the dame like the maid, the seller like the buyer, he that lendeth upon usury, like him that borroweth upon usury, the creditor, as the debtor. ^{24:3}Yea miserably shall the world be wasted and clean destroyed. For the LORD hath so determined in himself. ^{24:4}The earth shall be heavy and decay: The face of the earth shall perish and fall away, the proud people of the world shall come to naught. ^{24:5}For the earth is corrupt of her indwellers. For why they have offended the law, changed the ordinances, and made the everlasting testament of none effect. ^{24:6}And therefore shall the curse devour the earth: for they that dwell thereon, have sinned, wherefore they shall be brent also, and those that remain, shall be very few. ^{24:7}The sweet wine shall mourn, the grapes shall be weak, and all that have been merry in heart, shall sigh. ^{24:8}The mirth of tabrets shall be laid down, the cheer of the joyful shall cease, and the pleasure of lutes shall have an end: ^{24:9}there shall no more wine be drunk with mirth, the beer shall be bitter to them that drink it, ^{24:10}the wicked cities shall be broken down, all houses shall be shut, that no man may come in. ^{24:11}In the streets shall there be lift up a cry because of wine, all men's cheer shall vanish away, and all joy of the earth shall pass. ^{24:12}Desolation shall remain in the cities, and the gates shall be smitten with wasteness. ^{24:13}For it shall happen unto all lands and to all people, like as when a man smiteth down the olives, that are left upon the tree: or seeketh after grapes, when the wine gathering is out. ^{24:14}And those same (that remain) shall lift up their voice, and be glad, and shall magnify the glory of the LORD, even from the sea ^{24:15}and praise the name of the LORD God of Israel in the valleys and Islands. ^{24:16}We heard songs sung to the praise of the righteous, from all the ends of the world. Therefore I must speak: O mine unfruitfulness, O my poverty. Woe is me, all is full of sinners, which offend of purpose and malice. ^{24:17}And therefore (O thou that dwellest upon the earth) there is at hand for thee, fear, pit and snare. ^{24:18}Who so escapeth the terrible cry, shall fall in to the pit. And if he come out of the pit, he shall be taken with the snare. For the windows above shall be opened, and the foundation of the earth shall move. ^{24:19}The earth shall give a great crack, it shall have a sore ruin, and take an horrible fall. ^{24:20}The earth shall stagger^c like a drunken man, and be taken away like a tent. Her^d misdeeds shall lie so heavy upon her, that she must fall, and never rise up again. ^{24:21}At the same time shall the LORD muster together the high^e host above, and the kings of the world upon the earth. ^{24:22}These shall be coupled together as prisoners be, and shall be shut in one ward and punished innumerable days. ^{24:23}The Moon and the Sun shall be ashamed, when the LORD of Hosts shall rule them at Jerusalem upon the mount Sion, before and with his excellent counsel. ^{25:1}O LORD, thou art my God, I will praise thee, and magnify thy name: For thou bringest marvelous things to pass, according to thine old counsels, truly and steadfastly. ^{25:2}Thou makest of towns, heap of stone: and of head cities, broken walls: The palaces of the wicked destroyest thou out of the city, that they shall never be builded again. ^{25:3}Therefore the very rude people must magnify thee, and the cities of the cruel Heathen must fear thee. ^{25:4}For thou art the poor man's help, and strength for the needful in his necessity. Thou art a defense against evil weather, a shadow against the heat. But unto the presumptuous, thou art like a strong whirl wind, that casteth down the boasting^f of the ungodly: ^{25:5}thou keepest men from heat, with the shadow of thy clouds, thou cuttest off the branches of tyrants. ^{25:6}Moreover, the LORD of Hosts shall once prepare a feast for all people upon the hill: A plenteous, costly, pleasant feast, of fat and well fed beasts, of sweet and most pure things. ^{25:7}Upon the hill shall he take away the side vale that hangeth before the face of all people, and the covering wherewith all Gentiles are covered. ^{25:8}As for death he shall utterly consume it. The Lord GOD^g shall wipe away the tears from all faces, and take away the confusion of his people thorow the whole world. For the LORD himself hath said it. ^{25:9}At the same time shall it be said: Lo, this is our God in whom we put our trust, and he hath healed us. This is the LORD that we have waited for: Let us rejoice and delight in his health. ^{25:10}For the hand of the LORD ceaseth upon this hill. But Moab shall be threshed down under him, like as the straw is trodden under feet in a dung hill. ^{25:11}For he shall stretch out his hands upon him, like as a swimmer doth to swim. And with the power of his hands shall he cast down his high pomp. ^{25:12}As for his strongholds and high walls: he shall bow them, cast them down, and sell them to the ground in to dust. ^{26:1}Then shall this song be sung in the land of Judah. We have a strong city, the walls and the ordinance shall keep us. ^{26:2}Open the gates, that the good people may go in, which laboureth for the truth. ^{26:3}And thou, which art the doer and hast the matter in hand: shall provide for peace, even the peace that men hope for in thee. ^{26:4}Hope still in the LORD, for in the LORD GOD is everlasting strength. ^{26:5}For why? It is he, that bringeth low the high minded citizens, and casteth down the proud cities. He casteth them to the ground, yea even in to the mire, ^{26:6}that they may be trodden under the feet of the simple, and with the steps of the poor. ^{26:7}Thou (LORD) considerest the path of the righteous, whether it be right, whether the way of the righteous be right. ^{26:8}Therefore (LORD) we have a respect unto the way of thy judgements, thy name and thy remembrance rejoice the soul. ^{26:9}My soul lusteth after thee all the night long, and my mind hasteth freely to thee. For as soon as thy judgment is known to the world, then the inhabitants of the earth learn righteousness. ^{26:10}But the ungodly (though he have received grace) yet learneth he not righteousness, but in that place where he is punished, he offendeth, and feareth not the glory of the LORD. ^{26:11}LORD, they will not see thine high hand, but they shall see it, and be confounded: when thou shalt devour them with the wrath of the people, and with the fire of thine enemies. ^{26:12}But unto us, O LORD, provide for peace: for thou workest in us all our works. ^{26:13}O LORD our God, though such lords have domination upon us as know not thee: yet grant that we may only hope in thee, and keep thy name in remembrance. ^{26:14}The malicious tyrants when they die, are neither in life nor in the resurrection, for thou visitest them and rootest them out, and destroyest all the memorial of them. ^{26:15}Again, thou increasest the people, O LORD, thou increasest the people thou shalt be praised and magnified in all the ends of the world. ^{26:16}The people that seek unto thee in trouble, that same adversity which they complain of is unto them a chastening before thee. ^{26:17}Like as a wife with child (when her travail cometh upon her) is ashamed, cryeth and suffereth the pain: Even so are we, O LORD, in thy sight. ^{26:18}We are with child, we travail, and bear, and with the spirit we bring forth health, where thorow the earth is undestroyed, and the inhabitants of the world perish not. ^{26:19}But as for thy dead men and ours, that be departed, they are in life and resurrection. They lie in the earth, they wake, and have joy: for thy dew is a dew of life and light. But the place of the malicious Tyrants is fallen away. ^{26:20}So go now my people into thy chamber, and shut the door to thee, and suffer now the twinkling of an eye, till the wrath be overpast. ^{26:21}For behold, the LORD will go out of his habitation, and visit the wickedness of them that dwell upon earth. He will discover the blood that she hath devoured, she shall never hide them, that she hath murdered. ^{27:1}Then the LORD with his heavy, great, and long sword shall visit Leviathan that invincible serpent: even Leviathan that crooked serpent, and shall slay the whalfish in the sea. ^{27:2}At the same time shall men sing of the vineyard of Muscatel. ^{27:3}I the LORD keep it, and water it in due season. I watch day and night, that no man break into it. I hear no evil will in my mind. ^{27:4}Who will compel me, that I greatly forgetting all faithfulness, should burn it up at once with thorns and bushes? ^{27:5}Or who will enforce me to keep or make peace? ^{27:6}It will come to this point, that Jacob shall be rooted again, and Israel shall be green, and bear flowers, and they shall fill the whole world with their fruit. ^{27:7}Smiteth he not his smiter, as even as he is smitten himself: Destroyeth he not the murderers, as he is murdered? ^{27:8}Every man recompenseth with the measure that he receiveth: He museth upon his sore wind, as upon the days of extreme heat. ^{27:9}And therefore shall the iniquity of Jacob be thus reconciled. And so shall he take away all the fruit of his sins. As for altar stones, he shall make them all as stones beaten to powder: the groves and Idols shall not stand. ^{27:10}The strong cities shall be desolate, and the fair cities shall be left like a wilderness. The cattle shall feed and lie there, and the sheep shall eat it up. ^{27:11}Their harvest shall be brent, their wives which were their beauty, when they came forth: shall be defiled. For it is a people without understanding, and therefore he that created them, shall not favour them and he that made them shall not be merciful to them. ^{27:12}In that time shall the LORD shoot from the swift water of Euphrates, unto the river of Egypt. And there shall the children be chosen out one by one. ^{27:13}Then shall the great trumpet be blown, so that those which have been destroyed in the Assirians land, and those that be scattered abroad in Egypt: shall come and worship the LORD at Jerusalem, upon the holy mount. ^{28:1}Woe be to the crown of pride, to the drunken Ephraimites, and to the fading flower, to the glory of his pomp,^h that is upon the top of the plentious valley: which men be overladen with wine. ^{28:2}Behold, the strength and power of the Lordⁱ shall break into the land on every side, like a tempest of hail,^j that beareth down strongholds, and like an horrible, mighty and overflowing water. ^{28:3}And the proud crown of the drunken Ephraimites, shall be trodden under foot. ^{28:4}And as for the fading flower, the glory of his pomp, which is upon the top of the plentiful valley: it shall happen unto him, as to an untimely fruit before the harvest come. Which as soon as it is seen, is by and by devoured, or ever it come well in a man's hand. ^{28:5}And then shall the LORD of Hosts be a joyful crown, and a glorious garland unto the remnant of his people. ^{28:6}Unto the lowly, he shall be a spirit of judgement, and unto them that drive away the enemies from the gates, he shall be a spirit of strength. ^{28:7}But they go wrong by the reason of wine, they fall and stagger because of strong drink. Yea even the priests and prophets themselves go amiss, they are drunken with wine, and weak brained thorough strong drink. They err in seeing, and in judgement they fail. ^{28:8}For all tables are so full of vomit and filthiness, that no place is clean. ^{28:9}What is he among them, that can teach, instruct or inform the children, which are weeded from suck or taken from the breasts: of any other fashion than: ^{28:10}Command that may be commanded, bid that may be bidden, forbid that may be forbidden, keep back that may be kept back, here a little, there a little. ^{28:11}And therefore the LORD also shall speak with lisping lips and with a strange language unto this people, to whom he spake afore of this manner: ^{28:12}This shall bring rest, if one refresh the weary, yea this shall bring rest. But they had no will to hear. ^{28:13}And therefore the LORD shall answer their stubbornness.^k (Command that may be commanded, bid that may be bidden, forbid that may be forbidden, keep back that may be kept back, here a little, there a little.) That they may go forth, fall backward, be bruised, snared, and taken. ^{28:14}Wherefore hear the word of the LORD, ye mockers that rule the Lord's^l people, which is at Jerusalem. ^{28:15}For ye comfort yourselves thus: Tush, death and we are at point, and as for hell, we have made a condition with it, that though there break out any sore plague, it shall not come upon us. For with deceit will we escape, and with nimbleness will we defend ourselves. ^{28:16}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^m

Behold, I will lay a stone in Sion, a great stone, a costly corner stone, for a sure foundation: that who so putteth his trust in him, shall not be confounded. ^{28:17}Righteousness will I set up again in the balance, and judgement in the weights. The tempest of hail shall take away your refuge, that ye have to deceive withal: and the overflowing waters shall break down your strongholds of dissimulation. ^{28:18}Thus the appointment that ye have made with death, shall be done away: and the condition that ye made with hell, shall not stand.ⁿ When the great destruction goeth thorough, it shall all to tread you. It shall take you quite away before it. ^{28:19}For it shall go forth early in the morning, and continue only that day and that night. And the very fear only shall teach you, when ye hear it. ^{28:20}For the bed shall be so narrow that a man can not lie upon it: And the covering too small, that a man may not wind himself therein. ^{28:21}For the LORD shall step forth as he did upon the mount Perazim, and shall take on as he did upon the dale of Gabaon: that he may bring forth his device, his strange device: and fulfill his work, his wonderful work. ^{28:22}And therefore make no mocks at it, that your captivity increase not: for I have heard the Lord GOD^o of Hosts say, that there shall come a sudden destruction and plague upon the whole earth. ^{28:23}Take heed, and hear my voice, ponder and mark my words well. ^{28:24}Goeth not the husbandman ever in due season earnestly to his land? He moweth and ploweth his ground to sow. ^{28:25}And when he hath made it plain, he soweth it with fetches or comin. He soweth the wheat and Barley in their place, Milium and Rye also in their place. ^{28:26}And that he may do it right, his God teacheth him and sheweth him. ^{28:27}For he treadeth not the fitches out with a waine, neither bringeth he the cart here and there over the comin, but he thresheth the fitches out with a flayle, and the comin with a rod. ^{28:28}As for the wheat, he grindeth it to make bread thereof; In as much as he can not bring it to pass with treading out. For neither the bruising that the cart wheels make, nor his beasts can grind it. ^{28:29}This and such like things come of the LORD of Hosts which is marvelous in counsel, and great in righteousness. ^{29:1}Woe be unto thee O Ariel, thou city that David wan. Take ye yet some years, and let some feasts yet pass over: ^{29:2}then shall Ariel be besieged, so that she shall be heavy and sorrowful, and shall be unto me even as a lion. ^{29:3}For I will lay siege to thee round about, and keep thee in with towers, and grave up dikes against thee. ^{29:4}And thou shalt be brought low, and speak out of the earth, and thy words shall go humbly out of the ground. ^{29:5}Thy voice shall come out of the earth, like the voice of a witch, and thy talking shall groan out of the mire. For the multitude of thine enemies shall be like meal dust. And the number of Tyrants shall be as the dust that the wind taketh away suddenly. ^{29:6}Thou shalt be visited of the LORD of Hosts with thunder, earthquake, and with a great crack, with the whirl wind, tempest, and with the flame of a consuming fire. ^{29:7}But now the multitude of all the people, that went out against Ariel: the whole host, the strongholds, and siege: is like a dream which appeareth in the night. ^{29:8}It is like as when an hungry man dreameth that he is eating, and when he awaketh, he hath nothing: like as when a thirsty man dreameth that he is drinking, and when he awaketh he is faint, and his soul impatient. So is the multitude of all people that muster themselves against the hill of Sion. ^{29:9}But ye shall be at your wits end, ye shall be abashed: ye shall stagger, and reel to and fro. Ye shall be drunken, but not of wine. Ye shall fall, but not thorow drunkenness: ^{29:10}For the LORD shall give you an hard sleeping spirit, and hold down your eyes: namely your Prophets and heads which should see, them shall he cover. ^{29:11}And all visions shall be unto you, as the words that stand in a sealed letter, when one offereth it to a man that is learned, and sayeth: read us this letter. Then he answereth: I can not read it, for it is shut. ^{29:12}But if it be given to one that is not learned, or say unto him: read this letter: Then sayeth he I can not read. ^{29:13}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord:^P For so much as this people draweth nigh me with their mouth, and praiseth me highly with their lips, where as their heart nevertheless is far from me, and the fear which they owe unto me, that turn they to men's laws and doctrines, ^{29:14}therefore will I also shew unto this people a marvelous, terrible, and great thing (Namely this:) I will destroy the wisdom of their wise, and the understanding of their learned men shall perish. ^{29:15}Woe be unto them that seek so deep, to hide their imagination before the LORD, which rehearse their counsels in the darkness, and say: who seeth us, or who knoweth us? ^{29:16}Which imagination of yours is even as when the potter's clay taketh advisement, as though the work might say to the workmaster: make me not, or as when an earthen vessel sayeth of the potter: he understandeth not. ^{29:17}See ye not that it is hard by, that Libanus shall be turned in to Charmel, and that Charmel shall be taken as a wood? ^{29:18}Then shall deaf men understand the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind shall see without any cloud or darkness. ^{29:19}The oppressed shall hold a merry feast in the LORD, and the poor people shall rejoice in the holy one of Israel. ^{29:20}Then shall the furious people cease, and the mockers shall be put away, and all they that do wrong shall be plucked^q out, ^{29:21}such as labour to draw men unto sin: and that deceive him, which reproveth them in the gate, and such as turn good persons to vanity. ^{29:22}And therefore the LORD (even the defender of Abraham) sayeth thus unto the house of Jacob: Now shall not Jacob be ashamed, nor his face confounded, ^{29:23}when he seeth among his children (whom my hands have made) such as hallow my name among them: that they may sanctify the holy one of Jacob, and fear the God of Israel. ^{29:24}And that they which afore time were of an erroneous spirit, have now understanding, and that such as before could not speak, are now learned in my law. ^{30:1}Woe be unto those shrinking children (sayeth the LORD) which seek counsel, but not at me: which take a web in hand, but not after my will: that they may heap one sin upon another. ^{30:2}They go down into Egypt, (and ask me no counsel) to seek help at he power of Pharaoh, and comfort in the shadow of the Egyptians. ^{30:3}But Pharaoh's help shall be your confusion, and the comfort in the Egyptian's shadow shall be your own shame. ^{30:4}Your rulers have been at Zoan, and your messengers came unto Hanes. ^{30:5}But ye shall all be ashamed of the people that may not help you, which shall not bring you strength or comfort, but shame and confusion. ^{30:6}Your beasts have born burthens upon their backs toward the South, thorow the way that is full of peril and trouble, because of the lion and lioness,^r of the Cockatrice and shooting^s dragon. Yea the Mules bare your substance, and the Camels brought your treasure upon their crooked backs, unto a people that can not help you. ^{30:7}For the Egyptian's help shall be but vain and lost. Therefore I told you also that your pride should have an end. ^{30:8}Wherefore go hence and write them this in their tables, and note it in a book: that it may remain by their posterity, and be still kept. ^{30:9}For it is an obstinate people, unfaithful children, children that will not hear the law of the LORD. ^{30:10}They dare say to the Prophets: Intromit yourselves with nothing, and unto the Soothsayers: tell us of nothing for to come, but speak friendly words unto us, and preach us false things. ^{30:11}Tread out of the way, go out of the path, turn the holy one of Israel from us. ^{30:12}Therefore thus sayeth the holy one of Israel: In so much as ye have cast off your beauty, and comforted yourselves with power and nimbleness, and put your confidence therein: ^{30:13}therefore shall ye have this mischief again for your destruction and fall, like as an high wall, that falleth because of some rift (or blast) whose breaking cometh suddenly. ^{30:14}And your destruction shall be like as an earthen pot, which breaketh no man touching it, yea and breaketh so sore, that a man shall not find a shever of it to fetch fire in, or to take water withal out of the pit. ^{30:15}For the Lord GOD,^t even the holy one of Israel hath promised this: With still sitting and rest shall ye be healed, in quietness and hope shall your strength lie. ^{30:16}Notwithstanding ye regard it not, but ye will say: No, for thus are we constrained to flee upon horses. And therefore shall ye flee, we must ride upon swift beasts, and therefore your persecutors shall yet be swifter. ^{30:17}A thousand of you shall flee for one, or at the most for five, which do but only give you evil words: until ye be desolate, as a ship mast upon an high mountain, and as a beacon upon an hill. ^{30:18}Yet standeth the LORD waiting, that he may have mercy upon you, and lifteth himself up, that he may receive you to grace. For the LORD God is righteous. Happy are all they that wait for him. ^{30:19}For thus (O thou people of Sion and ye citizens of Jerusalem) shall ye never be in heaviness, for doubtless he will have mercy upon thee. As soon as he heareth the voice of thy cry, he will help thee. ^{30:20}The Lord^u giveth you the bread of adversity, and the water of trouble. But thine instructor flyeth not far from thee, if thine eyes look unto thine instructor, ^{30:21}and thine ears harken to his word, that cryeth after thee and sayeth: this is the way, go this, and turn neither to the right hand nor to the left. ^{30:22}Moreover, if ye destroy the silver works of your Idols, and cast away the golden coapes that ye deck them withal (as filthiness) and say get you hence: ^{30:23}Then will he give rain to the seed, that ye shall sow in the earth, and give you bread of the increase of the earth, so that all shall be plenteous and abundant. Thy cattle also shall he feed in the broad meadows, ^{30:24}yea thine oxen and Mules that till the ground, shall eat good fodder, which is purged with the fan. ^{30:25}Goodly rivers shall flow out of all his mountains and hills. In the day of the great slaughter when the towers shall fall, ^{30:26}the moon shall shine as the sun, and the sunshine shall be seven fold, and have as much shine, as in seven days beside. In that day shall the LORD bind up the bruised sores of his people, and heal their wounds. ^{30:27}Behold, the glory of the LORD shall come from far, his face shall burn, that no man shall be able to abide it, his lips shall wag for very indignation, and his tongue shall be as a consuming fire. ^{30:28}His breath like a vehement flood of water, which goeth up to the throat. That he may take away the people, which have turned themselves unto vanity, and the bridle of error, that lieth in other folks chaws. ^{30:29}But ye shall sing, as the use is in the night of the holy solempnite. Ye shall rejoice from your heart, as they that come with the pipe, when they go up to the mount of the LORD, unto the rock of Israel. ^{30:30}The LORD also shall set up the power of his voice, and declare his terrible arm, with his angry countenance, yea and the flame of the consuming fire, with earthquake, tempest of wind, and hailstones. ^{30:31}Then shall the Assyrians^v fear also because of the voice of the LORD, which shall smite him with the rod. ^{30:32}And the same rod which the LORD will send upon him, shall move the whole foundation: with trumpet, with noise of war and battle to destroy. ^{30:33}For he hath prepared the fire of pain from the beginning, yea even for kings also. This hath he made deep and wide, the nourishing thereof is fire and wood innumerable which the breath of the^w LORD kindleth, as it were a match of brimstone. ^{31:1}Woe be unto them that go down in to Egypt for help, and trust in horses, and comfort themselves in chariots, because they be many, and in horsemen because they be lusty and strong. But they regard not the holy one of Israel, and they ask no question at the LORD. ^{31:2}Whereas he nevertheless plagueth the wicked, and yet goeth not from his word, when he steppeth forth, and taketh the victory against the household of the forward, and against the help of evil doers. ^{31:3}Now the Egyptians are men, and not God, and their horses flesh, and not spirit. And as soon as the LORD stretcheth out his hand, then shall the helper fall, and he that should have been helped, and shall all together be destroyed. ^{31:4}For thus hath the LORD spoken unto me: Like as the lion or lion's whelps roareth upon the prey that he hath gotten, and is not afraid, though the multitude of shepherds cry out upon him, neither abashed for all the heap of them: So shall the LORD of Hosts come down from the mount Sion, and defend his hill. ^{31:5}Like as birds flutter about their nests, so shall the LORD of Hosts keep, save, defend and deliver Jerusalem. ^{31:6}Therefore, O ye children of Israel, turn again, like as ye have exceeded in your going back. ^{31:7}For in that day every man shall cast out his Idols of silver and gold, which ye have made with your sinful hands. ^{31:8}Assur also shall be slain with the sword, not with a man's sword. A sword shall devour him, but not a man's sword. And he shall flee from the slaughter, and his servants shall be taken prisoners. ^{31:9}He shall go for fear to his strongholds, and his princes shall flee from his badge. This hath the LORD spoken, whose light burneth in Sion, and his fire in Jerusalem. ^{32:1}Behold, the king shall govern after the rule of righteousness, and the princes shall rule according to the balance of equity. ^{32:2}He shall be unto men, as a defense for the wind, and as a refuge for the tempest, like as a river of water in a thirsty place, and the shadow of a great rock in a dry land. ^{32:3}The eyes of the seeing shall not be dim, and the ears of them that hear, shall take diligent heed. ^{32:4}The heart of the unwise, shall attain to knowledge, and the unperfect tongue shall speak plainly and distinctly. ^{32:5}Then shall the nigarde be no more called gentle, nor the churle liberal. ^{32:6}But the churle will be churlishly minded, and his heart will work evil and play the hypocrite, and imagine abominations against GOD, to make the hungry lean, and withhold drink from the thirsty: ^{32:7}These are the perilous weapons of the covetous, these be his shameful counsels: that he may beguile the poor with deceitful works, yea even there as he should give sentence with the poor. ^{32:8}But the liberal person imagineth honest things, and cometh up with honesty. ^{32:9}Up (ye rich and idle cities) harken unto my voice. Ye careless cities, mark my words. ^{32:10}After years and days shall ye be brought in fear, O ye careless cities. For Harvest shall be out, and the grape gathering shall not come. ^{32:11}O ye rich idle cities ye that fear no peril, ye shall be abashed and removed: when ye see the bareness, the nakedness and preparing to war. ^{32:12}Ye shall knock upon your breasts, because of the pleasant field, and because of the fruitful vineyard. ^{32:13}My people's field shall bring thorns and thistles, for in every house is voluptuousness, and in the cities, wilfulness. ^{32:14}The palaces also shall be broken, and the greatly occupied cities desolate. The towers and bulwarks shall be become dens for evermore, the pleasure of Mules shall be turned to pasture for sheep: ^{32:15}unto the time that the spirit be poured upon us from above. Then shall the wilderness be a fruitful field, and the plenteous field shall be reckoned for a wood.

^{32:16}Then shall equity dwell in the desert, and righteousness in a fruitful land. ^{32:17}And the reward of righteousness shall be peace, and her fruit rest and quietness for ever. ^{32:18}And my people shall dwell in the inns of peace, in my tabernacle and pleasure where there is enough in them all. ^{32:19}And when the hail falleth, it shall fall in the wood and in the city. ^{32:20}O how happy shall ye be, when ye shall safely sow your seed beside all waters, and drive thither the feet of your oxen and asses. ^{33:1}Therefore woe be unto thee (O robber) shalt not thou be robbed also? and unto thee that layest wait, as who say there should no wait be laid for thee: Woe unto thee which doest hurt, even so shalt thou be hurt also. And as thou layest wait, so shall wait be laid for thee also. ^{33:2}LORD be merciful unto us, we wait for thee. Thine arm is at a point to visit us, but be thou our health in the time of trouble. ^{33:3}Grant that the people may flee at the anger of thy voice, and that at thine upstanding the Gentiles may be scattered abroad, ^{33:4}and that their spoil may be gathered, as the grasshoppers are commonly gathered together in to the pit. ^{33:5}Stand up LORD, thou that dwellest on high:^x Let Sion be filled with equity and righteousness. ^{33:6}Let truth and faithfulness be in her time: power, health, wisdom, knowledge and the fear of GOD are her treasure. ^{33:7}Behold, their angels cry without, the messengers of peace weep bitterly. ^{33:8}The streets are waste, there walketh no man therein, the appointment is broken, the cities are dispised, they are not regarded, ^{33:9}the desolate earth is in heaviness. Libanus taketh it but for a sport, that it is hewn down: Saron is like a wilderness: Basan and Carmel are turned upside down. ^{33:10}And therefore sayeth the LORD. I will up, now will I get up, now will I arise. ^{33:11}Ye shall conceive stubble, and bear straw, and your spirit shall be the fire, that it may consume you: ^{33:12}and the people shall be burnt like lime, and as thorns burn that are hewn off, and cast in the fire. ^{33:13}Now hearken to, ye that are far off, how I do with them, and consider my glory, ye that be at hand. ^{33:14}The sinners at Sion are afraid, and^y sudden fearfulness is come upon the hypocrites. What is he among us (say they)

that will dwell by that consuming fire? Which of us may abide that everlasting heat? ^{33:15}He that leadeth a godly life (say I) and speaketh the truth: He that abhorreth to do violence and deceit: he that keepeth his hand that he touch no reward: which stoppeth his ears, that he hear no counsel against the innocent: which holdeth down his eyes, that he see none evil. ^{33:16}He it is, that shall dwell on high^z whose safeguard shall be in the true rock, to him shall be given the right true meat and drink. ^{33:17}His eyes shall see the king in his glory: and in the wide world, ^{33:18}and his heart shall delight in the fear of God. What shall then become of the scribe? of the Senator? what of him that teacheth children? ^{33:19}There shalt thou not see a people of a strange tongue to have so diffused a language, that it may not be understood: neither so strange a speach but it shall be perceived. ^{33:20}There shall Sion be seen, the head city of our solempne feasts. There shall thine eyes see Jerusalem that glorious habitation: the tabernacle that never shall remove, whose nails shall never be taken out world without end, whose coardest everychone shall never corrupt: ^{33:21}for the glorious Majesty of the LORD shall there be present among us. In that place, where fair broad rivers and streams are, shall neither Galley row, nor great ship sail. ^{33:22}For the LORD shall be our captain, the LORD shall be our law giver. The LORD shall be our king, and he himself shall be our Saviour. ^{33:23}There are the coards so laid abroad, that they can not be better: The mast set up of such a fashion, that no banner nor sail hangeth thereon: but there is dealed great spoil, yea lame men run after the prey; ^{33:24}There lieth no man that sayeth: I am sick, but all evil is taken away from the people, that dwell there. ^{34:1}Come ye heathen and hear, take heed ye people. Harken thou earth and all that is therein: thou round compass and all that groweth there upon, ^{34:2}for the LORD is angry with all people, and his displeasure is kindled against all the multitude of them, to curse them, and to slay them. ^{34:3}So that their slain shall be cast out, and their bodies stink: that even the very hills shall be wet with the blood of them. ^{34:4}All the stars of heaven shall be consumed, and the heaven shall fold together like a roll, and all the stars thereof shall fall, like as the leaves fall from the vines and fig trees. ^{34:5}For my sword (sayeth he) shall be bathed in heaven, and shall immediately come down upon Idumea, and upon the people which I have cursed for my vengeance. ^{34:6}And the LORD's sword shall be full of blood, and be rusty with the fatness and blood of lambs and goats, with the fatness of the kidneys of wethers. For the LORD shall kill a great offering in Bosra; and in the land of Idumea. ^{34:7}There shall the Unicorns fall with the Bulls, (that is with the giants) and their land shall be washed with blood, and their ground corrupt with fatness. ^{34:8}Unto thee also (O Sion) shall come the day of the vengeance of GOD, and the year when ^a thine own judgements shall be recompensed. ^{34:9}Thy floods shall be turned to pitch, and thine earth to brimstone, and therewith shall the land be kindled, ^{34:10}so that it shall not be quenched day nor night: But smoke evermore, and so forth to lie waste. And no man shall go thorow thy land forever: ^{34:11}But Pelicans, Storks, great Owls, and Ravens shall have it in possession, and dwell therein. For God shall spread out the line of desolation upon it, and weight it with the stones of emptiness. ^{34:12}When kings are called upon, there shall be none, and all princes shall be away. ^{34:13}Thorns shall grow in their palaces, nettles and thistles in their strongholds, that the dragons may have their pleasure therein, and that they may be a court for Ostriches. ^{34:14}There shall strange visures and monstrous beasts meet one another, and the wild keep company together. There shall the lamya lie, and have her lodging. ^{34:15}There shall the hedgehog build, dig, be there at home, and bring forth his young ones. There shall the kites come together, each one to his like. ^{34:16}Seek thorow the scripture of the LORD and read it. There shall none of these things be left out, there shall not one (nor such like) fail. For what his mouth commandeth, that same doth his spirit gather together (or fulfilleth). ^{34:17}Upon whomsoever the lot falleth, or to whom he dealeth it with the line: those shall possess the inheritance from generation to generation, and dwell therein. ^{35:1}But the desert and wilderness shall rejoice, the waste ground shall be glad, and flourish as the lily. ^{35:2}She shall flourish pleasantly, and be joyful, and ever be giving thanks more and more. For the glory of Libanus, the beauty of Carmel and Saron shall be given her. These shall know the honour of the LORD, and the majesty of our God. ^{35:3}And therefore strengthen the weak hands, and comfort the feeble knees. ^{35:4}Say unto them that are of a fearful heart: Be of good cheer, and fear not. Behold, your God cometh, to take vengeance, and to reward, God cometh his own self, and will deliver you. ^{35:5}Then shall the eyes of the blind be lightened, and the ears of the deaf opened. ^{35:6}Then shall the lame man leap as an hart and the dumb man's tongue shall give thanks. In the wilderness also there shall wells spring, and floods of water in the desert. ^{35:7}The dry ground shall turn to rivers, and the thirsty to springs of water. Where as dragons dwelt afore, there shall grow sweet flowers and green rushes. ^{35:8}There shall be foot paths and common streets, this shall be called the holy way. No unclean person shall go thorow it, for the Lord^b himself shall go with them that way, and the ignorant shall not err; ^{35:9}There shall be no lion, and no ravishing beast shall come therein, nor be there, but men shall go there free and safe. ^{35:10}And the redeemed of the LORD shall convert, and come to Sion with thanksgiving. Everlasting joy shall they have, pleasure and gladness shall be among them. And as for all sorrow and heaviness, it shall vanish away. ^{36:1}In the fourteenth year of king Hezekiah, came Sennaherib king of the Assyrians down, to lay siege unto all the strong cities of Judah. ^{36:2}And the king of the Assyrians sent Rabsakeh from Lachis toward Jerusalem, against king Hezekiah, with a grievous Host, which set him by the conduit of the over pool, in the way that goeth thorow the fuller's land. ^{36:3}And so there came forth unto him Eliakim, Helkiah's son, the President, Sobna the scribe, and Joah, Asaph's son the Secretary. ^{36:4}And Rabsakeh said unto them: Tell Hezekiah, that the great king of Assyria sayeth thus unto him: What presumption is this, that thou trustest unto? ^{36:5}Thou thinkest (peradventure) that thou hast counsel and power enough to maintain this war: or else where to trustest thou, that thou castest thy self off from me? ^{36:6}Lo, thou puttest thy trust in a broken staff of reed (I mean Egypt) which he that leaneth upon, it goeth into his hand and shooteth him thorow. Even so is Pharaoh the king of Egypt, unto all them that trust in him. ^{36:7}But if thou wouldest say unto me: We trust in the LORD our God: A goodly God in deed: whose High places and altars Hezekiah took down, and commanded Judah and Jerusalem, to worship only before the altar. ^{36:8}Abide thee, thou hast made a condition with my lord the king of the Assyrians, that he should give thee two thousand horses: art thou able to set men there up? ^{36:9}Seeing now that thou canst not resist the power of the smallest prince that my Lord^c hath, how darest thou trust in the chariots and horsemen of Egypt? ^{36:10}Moreover, thinkest thou that I am come down hither, to destroy this land without the LORD's will? The LORD said unto me, go down into the land, that thou mayest destroy it. ^{36:11}Then said Eliakim, Sobna and Joah unto Rabsakeh: Speak to us thy servants (we pray thee) in the Syrians language, for we understand it well: And speak not to us in the Jews' Tongue, lest the folk hear, which lieth upon the wall. ^{36:12}Then answered Rabsakeh: Think ye, that the king sent me to speak this only unto you? Hath he not sent me to them also, that lie upon the wall? that they be not compelled to eat their own dung, and drink their own stale with you? ^{36:13}And Rabsakeh stood stiff, and cried with a loud voice in the Jews' tongue, and said: Now take heed, how the great king of the Assyrians giveth you warning. ^{36:14}Thus sayeth the king: Let not Hezekiah deceive you, for he shall not be able to deliver you. ^{36:15}Moreover, let not Hezekiah comfort you in the LORD, when he sayeth: The LORD with out doubt shall defend us, and shall not give over this city into the hands of the king of the Assyrians, believe him not. ^{36:16}But thus sayeth the king of Assyria: obtain my favour, incline to me: so may every man enjoy his vineyards and fig trees, and drink the water of his cistern: ^{36:17}Unto the time that I come myself, and bring you into a land, that is like your own: wherein is wheat and wine, which is both sown with seed, and planted with vineyards. ^{36:18}Let not Hezekiah deceive you, when he sayeth unto you: The LORD shall deliver us. Might the gods of the Gentiles keep every man's land, from the power of the king of the Assyrians? ^{36:19}Where is the God of hemath and Arphad? Where is the God of Sepharuaim? And who was able to defend Samaria out of my hand? ^{36:20}Or which of all the Gods of the lands, hath delivered their country out of my power, so that the LORD should deliver Jerusalem from my hand? ^{36:21}Unto this Hezekiah's messengers held their tongues, and answered not one word: for the king had charged them, that they should give him none answer. ^{36:22}So came Eliakim, Helkiah's son the President, Sobna the Scribe, and Joah Asaph's son the Secretary, unto Hezekiah with rent clothes, and told him the words of Rabsakeh. ^{37:1}When Hezekiah heard that, he rent his clothes, put on sackcloth, and went in to the temple of the LORD. ^{37:2}But he sent Eliakim the President, Sobna the Scribe, with the eldest priests clothed in sackcloth, unto the Prophet Esay the son of Amoz, ^{37:3}and they said unto him: Thus sayeth Hezekiah: This is the day of trouble, of plague, and of wrath: like as when a child cometh to the birth, but the woman hath no power to bring it forth. ^{37:4}The LORD thy God (no doubt) hath well considered the words of Rabsakeh, whom his lord the king of the Assyrians hath sent, to defy and blaspheme the living God: with such words as the LORD thy God hath heard right well. And therefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant, that yet are left. ^{37:5}So the servants of king Hezekiah came to Esay. ^{37:6}And Esay gave them this answer: say thus unto your lord: Thus sayeth the LORD: Be not afraid of the words that thou hast heard, wherewith the king of the Assyrians' servants have blasphemed me. ^{37:7}Behold, I will cause a wind go over him, as soon as he heareth it, he shall go again into his country, there will I destroy him with the sword. ^{37:8}Now when Rabsakeh returned, he found the king of Assyria laying siege to Lobnah, for he had understand, that he was departed from Lachis. ^{37:9}For there came a rumour, that Tharhakah king of Ethiopia was come forth to war against him. And when the king of Assyria heard that, he sent other messengers to king Hezekiah with this commandment: ^{37:10}Say thus to Hezekiah king of Judah: Let not thy God deceive thee, in whom thou hopest, and sayest: Jerusalem shall not be given into the hands of the king of Assyria. ^{37:11}For thou knowest well how the kings of Assyria have handled all the lands that they have subverted, and hopest^d thou to escape? ^{37:12}Were the people of the Gentiles (whom my progenitors conquered) delivered at any time thorow their gods? As namely, Gozan, Haran, Rezep, and the children of Eden, which dwell at Thalassar. ^{37:13}Where is the king of Hemah, and the king of Arphad, and the king of the city Separvaim, Ena, and Ava? ^{37:14}Now when Hezekiah had received the letter off the messengers, and read it, he went up into the house of the LORD, and opened the letter before the LORD. ^{37:15}And Hezekiah prayed before the LORD on this manner: ^{37:16}O LORD of Hosts, thou God of Israel, which dwellest upon Cherubin; Thou art the God, that only is God of all the kingdoms of the world, for thou only hast created heaven and earth. ^{37:17}Incline thine ear LORD, and consider, open thine eyes, O LORD, and see, and ponder all the words of Sennacherib, which hath sent his embassage to blaspheme the living God. ^{37:18}It is true, O LORD, that the kings of Assyria have conquered all kingdoms and lands, ^{37:19}and cast their gods in the fire. Notwithstanding, those were no gods^e but the works of men's hands, of wood or stone, therefore have they destroyed them. ^{37:20}Deliver us then, O LORD our God, from the hands of Sennacherib, that all kingdoms of the earth may know, that thou only art the LORD. ^{37:21}Then Esay the son of Amoz sent unto Hezekiah, saying: Thus sayeth the LORD God of Israel: Whereas thou hast made thy prayer unto me, as touching Sennacherib, ^{37:22}this is the answer, that the LORD hath given concerning him: Despised art thou, and mocked, O daughter of Sion, he hath shaken his head at thee, O daughter of Jerusalem. ^{37:23}But thou Sennacherib, whom hast thou defied and^f blasphemed? And against whom hast thou lifted up thy voice, and exalted thy proud looks? even against the holy one of Israel. ^{37:24}Thou with thy servants hast blasphemed the Lord,^g and thus holdest thou of thyself: I cover the high mountains, and sides of Libanus with my horsemen. And there will I cut down the high Cedar trees and the fairest Fir trees. I will up into the height of it, and into the chiefest of his timber woods. ^{37:25}If there be no water, I will grave and drink. And as for waters of defense, I shall dry them up with the feet of mine Host. ^{37:26}Yea (sayest thou) hast thou not heard, what I have taken in hand, and brought to pass of old time? That same will I do now also: waste, destroy, and bring the strong cities into heaps of stones. ^{37:27}For their inhabitants shall be like lame men, brought in fear and confounded. They shall be like the grass and green herbs in the field, like the hay upon housetops, that withereth afore it be grown up. ^{37:28}I know thy ways, thy going forth and thy coming home, yea and thy madness against me. ^{37:29}Therefore thy furriousness against me, and thy pride is come before me. I will put a ring in thy nose, and a bridle bit in the chaws of thee, and turn thee about, even the same way thou camest. ^{37:30}I will give thee also this token, (O Hezekiah) this year shalt thou eat that is kept in store, and the next year such as groweth of himself, and in the third year ye shall sow and reap, yea ye shall plant vineyards, and enjoy the fruits thereof. ^{37:31}And such of the house of Judah as are escaped, shall come together, and the remnant shall take root beneath, and bring forth fruit above. ^{37:32}For the escaped shall go out of Jerusalem, and the remnant from the mount Sion. And this shall the jealousy of the LORD of Hosts bring to pass. ^{37:33}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD, concerning the king of the Assyrians: He shall not come into the city, and shall shoot no arrow into it, there shall no shride hurt it, neither shall they grave about it. ^{37:34}The same way that he came, shall he return, and not come at this city, sayeth the LORD. ^{37:35}And I will keep and save the city, sayeth he, for mine own, and for my servant David's sake. ^{37:36}Thus the angel went forth, and slew of the Assyrians host, an hundredth and eighty five thousand. And when men arose up early (at Jerusalem:) Behold, all lay full of dead bodies. ^{37:37}So Sennacherib the king of the Assyrians brake up, and dwelt at Nineve. ^{37:38}Afterward it chanced, as he prayed in the temple of Nesrah his god, that Adramalech and Sarazer his own sons slew him with the sword, and fled into the land of Ararat. And Asarhadon his son reigned after him. ^{38:1}Not long afore this, was Hezekiah sick unto death: And the Prophet Esay the son of Amoz came unto him, and said: Thus commandeth the LORD: Set thine house in order: for thou must die, and shall not escape. ^{38:2}Then Hezekiah turned his face toward the wall, and prayed unto the LORD, ^{38:3}and said: Remember (O LORD) that I have walked before thee in truth and a steadfast heart, and have done the thing that is pleasant to thee. And Hezekiah wept sore. ^{38:4}Then said GOD unto Esay: ^{38:5}Go and speak unto Hezekiah: The LORD God of David thy father sendeth thee this word: I have heard thy prayer, and considered thy tears: behold, I will put fifteen years more unto thy life, ^{38:6}and deliver thee and the city also, from the hand of the king of Assyria, for I will defend the city. ^{38:7}And take thee this token of the LORD, that he will do it, as he hath spoken: ^{38:8}Behold, I will return the shadow of Ahaz dial, that now is laid out with the Sun and bring it ten degrees backward. So the Sun turned ten degrees backward, the which he was desended afore. ^{38:9}A thanksgiving, which Hezekiah king of Juda wrote, when he had been sick, and was recovered. ^{38:10}I thought I should have gone to the gates of hell in my best age, and have wanted the residue of my years. ^{38:11}I spake within myself: I shall never visit the LORD GOD in this life: I shall never see man among the dwellers of the world. ^{38:12}Mine age is folden up together, and taken away from me, like a shepherd's cottage: my life is hewn off, like as a weaver cutteth off his web. While I was yet taking my rest, he hewed me off, and made an end of me in one day. ^{38:13}I thought I would have lived unto the morrow, but he bruised my bones like a lion, and made an end of me in one day. ^{38:14}Then chattered I like a swallow, and like a crane, and mourned as a dove. I lift up mine eyes to the height: O LORD (say I) violence is done unto me, be thou surety for me. ^{38:15}What shall I speak or say, that he may this do? that I may live out all my years, yea in the bitterness of my life? ^{38:16}Verily (Lord)^h men must live in bitterness, and all my life must I pass over therein: For thou raisest me up, and wakest me. But lo, I will be well content with this bitterness. ^{38:17}Nevertheless my conversation hath so pleased thee, that thou wouldest not make an end of my life: so that thou hast cast all my sins behind thy back. ^{38:18}For hell praiseth not thee, death doth not magnify thee. They that go down into the grave, praise not thy truth: ^{38:19}but the living, yea the living acknowledge thee, like as I do this day. The father telleth his children of thy faithfulness. ^{38:20}Deliver us (O LORD) and we will sing praises in thy house, all the days of our life. ^{38:21}And Esay said: take a plaster of figs, and lay it upon the sore, so shall it be whole. ^{38:22}Then said Hezekiah: O what a great thing is this, that I shall go up in to the house of the LORD. ^{39:1}At that same time Merodach Baladam, Baladam's son king of Babylon, sent letters and presents to Hezekiah. For he understood how that he had been sick, and was recovered again. ^{39:2}And Hezekiah was glad thereof, and shewed them the commodities of his treasure, of silver, of gold, of spices and roots, of precious oils, and all that was in his cupboards and treasure houses. There was not one thing in Hezekiah's house, and so thorowout all his kingdom, but he let them see it. ^{39:3}Then came Esay the Prophet to king Hezekiah, and said unto him: What have the men said, and from whence came they unto thee? Hezekiah answered: They came out of a far country unto me, out of Babylon. ^{39:4}Esay said: What have they looked upon in thine house? Hezekiah answered: All that is in mine house have they seen: and there is nothing in my treasure, but I shewed it them. ^{39:5}Then said Esay unto Hezekiah: Understand the word of the LORD of Hosts: ^{39:6}Behold, the time will come, that everything which is in thine house, and all that thy progenitors have laid up in store unto this day, shall be carried to Babylon, and nothing left behind. Thus sayeth the LORD. ^{39:7}Yea and part of thy sons, that shall come of thee, and whom thou shalt get, shall be carried hence, and become gelded chamberlains in the king of Babylon's court. ^{39:8}Then said Hezekiah to Esay: Now GOD prosper his own counsel, which thou hast told me. He said moreover: So that there be peace and faithfulness in my time. ^{40:1}Be of good cheer my people, be of good cheer, (sayeth your God) ^{40:2}Comfort Jerusalem, and tell her, that her travail is at an end, that her offense is pardoned, that she hath received of the LORD's hand sufficient correction for all her sins. ^{40:3}A voice crieth: Prepare the way for the LORD in the wilderness, make straight the path for our God in the desert. ^{40:4}Let all valleys be exalted, and every mountain and hill be laid low. What so is crooked, let it be made straight, and let the rough places be made plain fields. ^{40:5}For the glory of the LORD shall appear, and all flesh shall see it. For why? The mouth of the LORD hath spoken it. ^{40:6}The same voice spake: Now cry. And I said: What shall I cry? Then spake it: That all flesh is grass, and that all the beauty thereof, is as the flower of the field. ^{40:7}When the grass is withered, the flower falleth away. Even so is the people as grass, when the breath of the LORD bloweth upon them. ^{40:8}Nevertheless whether the grass wither, or the flower fade away: Yet the word of our God endureth forever. ^{40:9}Moreover the voice cried thus: Go up unto the hill (O Sion) thou that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with power, O thou preacher Jerusalem. Lift it up without fear, and say unto the cities of Judah: Behold, your God, ^{40:10}behold the LORD, even the Almighty shall come with power, and bear rule with his arm. Behold, he bringeth his treasure with him, and his works go before him. ^{40:11}He shall feed his flock like an herdman. He shall gather the lambs together with his arm, and carry them in his bosom, and shall kindly intreat those that bear young. ^{40:12}Who hath holden the waters in his fist? Who hath measured heaven with his span, and hath comprehended all the earth of the world in three fingers? Who hath weighed the mountains and hills? ^{40:13}Who hath reformed the mind of the LORD? Or who is of his counsel to teach him? ^{40:14}At whom hath he asked counsel, to make him understand, and to learn him the way of judgement: to teach him science: and to instruct him in the way of understanding. ^{40:15}Behold, all people are in comparison of him, as a drop to a bucket full, and are counted as the least thing that the balance weigheth. Behold, the Isles are in comparison of him, as the shadow of the son beam. ^{40:16}Libanus is not sufficient to minister fire for his offering, and all the beasts thereof are not enough to one sacrifice. ^{40:17}All people in comparison of him are reckoned as nothing, yea vain vanity and emptiness. ^{40:18}To whom then will ye liken God? or what similitude will ye set up unto him? ^{40:19}Shall the carver make him a carved image? and shall the goldsmith cover him with gold, or cast him into a form of silver plates? ^{40:20}Moreover shall the image maker, that the poor man which is disposed, may have something to set up also, seek out and choose a tree, that is not rotten, and carve thereout an image, that moveth not? ^{40:21}Know ye not this? Heard ye never of it? Hath it not been preached unto you since the beginning? Have ye not been enformed of this since the foundation of the earth was laid: ^{40:22}That he sitteth upon the Circle of the world, and that all the inhabitors of the world are in comparison of him, but as grasshoppers: That he spreadeth out the heavens as a covering, that he stretcheth them out, as a tent to dwell in: ^{40:23}That he bringeth princes to nothing, and the judges of the earth to dust: ^{40:24}so that they be not planted, nor sown again, neither their stock rooted again in the earth? For as soon as he bloweth upon them, they wither and fade away, like the straw in a whirlwind. ^{40:25}To whom now will ye liken me, and whom shall I be like, sayeth the holy one? ^{40:26}Lift up your eyes on high,ⁱ and consider. Who hath made those things, which come out by so great heaps? and he can call them all by their names. For there is nothing hid unto the greatness of his power, strength, and might. ^{40:27}How may then Jacob think, or how may Israel say: My ways are hid from the LORD, and my God knoweth not of my judgments. ^{40:28}Knowest thou not, or hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the LORD, which made all the corners of the earth, is neither weary nor faint: and that his wisdom can not be comprehended? ^{40:29}but that he giveth strength unto the weary, and power unto the faint? ^{40:30}Children are weary and faint, and the strongest men fall: ^{40:31}But unto them that have the LORD before their eyes, shall strength be increased, Aegles wings shall grow upon them: When they run, they shall not fall: and when they go, they shall not be weary. ^{41:1}Be still (ye Islands) and harken unto me. Be strong ye people; Come hither, and shew your cause,

we will go to the law together. ^{41:2}Who raiseth up the just from the rising of the Sun,^j and calleth him to go forth? Who casteth down the people, and subdueth the kings before him: that he may throw them all to the ground with his sword, and scatter them like stubble with his bow. ^{41:3}He followeth upon them, and goeth safely himself, and cometh in no foot path with his feet. ^{41:4}Who hath made, created, and called the generations from the beginning? Even I the LORD, which am the first, and with the last. ^{41:5}Behold ye Isles? that ye may fear, and ye ends of the earth, that ye may be abashed, draw nigh, and come hither. ^{41:6}Every man hath exhorted his neighbour, and brother, and bidden him be strong. ^{41:7}The Smith comforted the molder, and the Ironsmith the hammer man, saying: It shall be good, that we fasten this cast work: and then they fastened it with nails, that it should not be moved. ^{41:8}And thou Israel, my servant: Jacob my elect seed of Abraham my beloved, ^{41:9}whom I led from the ends of the earth by the hand: For I called thee from far, and said unto thee: Thou shalt be my servant: I have chosen thee, and will not cast thee away: ^{41:10}be not afraid, for I will be with thee. Look not behind thee, for I will be thy God, to strengthen thee, help thee, and to keep thee with this right hand of mine. ^{41:11}Behold, all they that resist thee, shall come to confusion and shame: and thine adversaries shall be destroyed and brought to naught. ^{41:12}So that who so seeketh after them, shall not find them. Thy destroyers shall perish, and so shall they that undertake to make battle against thee. ^{41:13}For I thy LORD and God, will strengthen thy right hand. Even I that say unto thee: Fear not. I will help thee. ^{41:14}Be not afraid thou little worm Jacob, and thou despised Israel for I will help thee, sayeth the LORD, and the holy one of Israel thine avenger. ^{41:15}Behold, I will make thee a treading cart and a new flayle, that thou mayest thresh^k and grind the mountains, and bring the hills to powder. ^{41:16}Thou shalt fan them, and the wind shall carry them away, and the whirlwind shall scatter them. But thou shalt rejoice in the LORD, and shall delight in praising the holy one of Israel. ^{41:17}When the thirsty and poor seek water, and find none, and when their tongue is dry of thirst: I give it them sayeth the LORD. I the God of Israel forsake them not. ^{41:18}I bring forth floods in the hills, and wells in the plain fields. I turn the wilderness to rivers, and the dry land to conduites^l of water. ^{41:19}I plant in the waste ground trees of Cedar, Box, Mire and Olives. And in the dry I set Fir trees, Elms, and Hawthorns together. ^{41:20}All this do I, that they altogether may see a mark, perceive with their hearts and consider, that the hand of the LORD maketh these things, and that the holy one of Israel bringeth them to pass. ^{41:21}Stand at your cause (sayeth the LORD) and bring forth your strongest ground, counseleth the King of Jacob. ^{41:22}Let the gods come forth themselves, and shew us the things that are past, what they be: let them declare them unto us, that we may take them to heart, and know them hereafter. ^{41:23}Either, let them shew us things for to come, and tell us what shall be done hereafter: so shall we know, that they be gods. Shew something, either good or bad: so will we both knowledge the same, and tell it out. ^{41:24}Behold, ye gods are of naught, and your making is of naught, but abomination hath chosen you. ^{41:25}Nevertheless, I have waked up one from the North, and he shall come. And another from the East, which shall call upon my name, and shall come to the princes, as the Potter to his clay, and as the Potter treadeth down the mire. ^{41:26}Who told that afore? So will we confess and say, that he is righteous. But there is none that sheweth or declareth anything, there is none also that heareth your words. ^{41:27}Behold, I will first grant them of Sion and Jerusalem to be Evangelists. ^{41:28}But when I consider: there is not one among them that prophesieth, neither (when I ask him) that answereth one word; ^{41:29}Lo, wicked are they and vain, with the things also that they take in hand: yea wind are they, and emptiness, with their images together. ^{42:1}Behold now therefore, this is my servant whom I will keep to myself: mine elect; In whom my soul shall be pacified. I will give him my spirit, that he may shew forth judgement and equity among the Gentiles. ^{42:2}He shall not be an outcrier, nor an high minded person. His voice shall not be heard in the streets. ^{42:3}A bruised reed shall he not break, and the smoking flax shall he not quench: but faithfully and truly shall he give judgement. ^{42:4}He shall neither be overseen nor hasty, that he may restore righteousness unto the earth: and the Gentiles also shall keep his laws. ^{42:5}For thus sayeth God the LORD unto him (even he that made the heavens, and spread them abroad, and set forth the earth with her increase: which giveth breath unto the people that is in it, and to them that dwell therein) ^{42:6}I the LORD have called thee in righteousness, and led thee by the hand. Therefore will I also defend thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, and to be the light of the Gentiles. ^{42:7}That thou mayest open the eyes of the blind, let out the prisoners, and them that sit in darkness, out of the dungeon house. ^{42:8}I my self, whose name is the LORD, which give my power to none other, neither mine honour to the gods: ^{42:9}Shew you these new tidings, and tell you them or they come, for old things also are come to pass. ^{42:10}Sing therefore unto the LORD, a new song of thanks giving, blow out his praise unto the end of the world. They that be upon the sea, and all that is therein, praise him, the Isles and they that dwell in them. ^{42:11}Let the wilderness with her cities lift up her voice, the towns also that be in Cedar. Let them be glad that sit upon rocks of stone, and let them cry down from the high mountains: ^{42:12}ascribing almightiness unto the LORD, and magnifying him among the Gentiles. ^{42:13}The LORD shall come forth as a giant, and take a stomach to himself like a fresh man of war. He shall roar and cry, and overcome his enemies. ^{42:14}I have long time holden my peace, (sayeth the LORD) should I therefore be still, and keep silence for ever? I will cry like a travailing woman, and once will I destroy, and devour. ^{42:15}I will make waste both mountain and hill, and dry up every green thing that groweth thereon. I will dry up the floods of water, and drink up the rivers. ^{42:16}I will bring the blind into the street, that they know not: and lead them in to a foot path, that they are ignorant in. I shall make darkness light before them, and the thing that is crooked to be straight. These things will I do, and not forget them. ^{42:17}And therefore let them convert, and be ashamed earnestly, that hope in Idols, and say to fashioned images: ye are our gods. ^{42:18}Hear, O ye deaf men, and sharpen your sights to see (O ye blind) ^{42:19}But who is blinder, than my servant? Or so deaf, as my messengers, whom I send unto thee? For who is so blind as my people, and they that have the rule of them?^m ^{42:20}They are like, as if thou understoodest much, and keptest nothing: or if one heard well, but were not obedient. ^{42:21}The LORD be merciful unto them for his righteousness' sake, that his word might be magnified and praised. ^{42:22}But it is a mischevious and wicked people. Their young men belong all to the snare, and shall be shut into prison houses. They shall be carried away captive, and no man shall loosenⁿ them. They shall be trodden under foot, and no man shall labour to bring them again. ^{42:23}But who is he among you, that pondereth this in his mind, that considereth it, and taketh it for a warning in time to come? ^{42:24}Who suffered Jacob to be trodden under foot, and Israel to be spoiled? Did not the LORD? Now have we sinned against him, and have had no delight to walk in his ways, neither been obedient unto his law. ^{42:25}Therefore hath he poured upon us his wrathful displeasure, and strong battle, which maketh us have to do on every side, yet will we not understand: He burneth us up, yet sinketh it not in to our hearts. ^{43:1}But now, the LORD that made thee O Jacob, and he that fashioned thee O Israel, sayeth thus: Fear not, for I will defend thee. I have called thee by thy name, thou art mine own. ^{43:2}When thou wentest in the water, I was by thee, that the strong floods should not pluck thee away. When thou walkest in the fire, it shall not burn thee, and the flame shall not kindle upon thee. ^{43:3}For I am the LORD thy God, the holy one of Israel, thy Saviour. I gave Egypt for thy deliverance, the Morians and the Sabees for thee: ^{43:4}because thou wast dear in my sight, and because I set by thee, and loved thee. I pilled all men for thee, and delivered up all people for thy sake, ^{43:5}that thou shouldest not fear, for I was with thee. I will bring thy seed from the East, and gather thee together from the West. ^{43:6}I will say to the North, let go. And to the South, keep not back: but bring me my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the world: ^{43:7}Namely, all those that be called after my name: For them have I created, fashioned, and made for mine honour. ^{43:8}Bring forth that people, whether they have eyes, or be blind, deaf or have ears. ^{43:9}All nations shall come in one, and be gathered in one people. But which among yonder gods shall declare such things, and tell us what is to come? Let them bring their witnesses, so shall they be free: for then men shall hear it, and say, it is truth. ^{43:10}But I bring you witnesses (sayeth the LORD) even those that are my servants, whom I have chosen: to the intent that ye might be certified and give me faithful credence: yea and to consider, that I am he, before whom there was never any God, and that there shall be none after me. ^{43:11}I am only the LORD, and without me is there no Saviour. ^{43:12}I give warning, I make whole, I teach you that there should be no strange God among you. And this record must ye bear me yourselves, (sayeth the LORD) that I am God. ^{43:13}And even he am I from the beginning, and there is none that can take any thing out of my hand. And what I do, can no man change. ^{43:14}Thus sayeth the LORD the holy one of Israel your redeemer: For your sake I will send to Babylon, and bring all the strongest of them from hence: Namely, the Chaldees that boost them of their ships: ^{43:15}Even I the LORD your holy one, which have made Israel, and am your King. ^{43:16}Moreover, thus sayeth the LORD, (even he) that maketh a way in the sea, and a footpath in the mighty waters: ^{43:17}Which bringeth forth the chariots and horses, the host and the power, that they may fall asleep and never rise, and be extinct, like as towe is quenched. ^{43:18}Ye remember not things of old, and regard nothing that is past. ^{43:19}Therefore behold, I shall make a new thing, and shortly shall it appear: ye shall well know it, I told it you afore, but I will tell it you again. I will make streets in the desert, and rivers of water in the wilderness. ^{43:20}The wild beasts shall worship me: the dragon, and the Ostrich. For I shall give water in the wilderness, and streams in the desert: that I may give drink to my people, whom I choose. ^{43:21}This people have I made for myself, and they shall shew forth my praise. ^{43:22}For thou (Jacob) wouldest not call upon me, but thou hadst an unlust toward me, O Israel. ^{43:23}Thou gavest me not thy young beasts for burnt offerings, neither didst honour me with thy sacrifices. Though boughtest me no dear spice with thy money, neither pourest the fat of thy sacrifices upon me. Howbeit I have not been chargeable unto thee in offerings, neither grievous in incense. ^{43:24}But thou hast laden me with thy sins, and wearied me with thine ungodliness. ^{43:25}Where as I yet am even he only, that for mine own self's sake do away thine offenses, and forget thy sins: so that I will never think upon them. ^{43:26}Put me now in remembrance, for we will reason together, and shew what thou hast for thee, to make thee quite. ^{43:27}Thy first father offended sore, and thy rulers have sinned against me. ^{43:28}Therefore I either suspended, or slew the chiefest princes: I did curse Jacob, and gave Israel into reproof. ^{44:1}So hear now, O Jacob my servant, and Israel whom I have chosen. ^{44:2}For thus sayeth the LORD, that made thee, fashioned thee, and helped thee, even from thy mother's womb: Be not afraid, O Jacob my servant, thou righteous, whom I have chosen. ^{44:3}For I shall pour water upon the dry ground, and rivers upon the thirsty. I shall pour my spirit upon thy seed, and mine increase upon thy stock. ^{44:4}They shall grow together, like as the grass, and as the Willies by the water's side. ^{44:5}One will say: I am the LORD's. Another will call under the name of Jacob. The third shall describe^o with his hand unto the LORD, and give himself under the name of Israel. ^{44:6}Moreover, thus hath the LORD spoken: even the King of Israel, and his avenger, the LORD of Hosts: I am the first and the last, and without me is there no God. ^{44:7}For what is he, that ever was like me, which am from everlasting? Let him shew his name, and do where thorow he may be likened unto me. Let him tell you forth plainly things, that are past, and for to come: ^{44:8}yea and that without any fear or stop.^P For have not I ever told you hitherto, and warned you? Ye can bear me record yourselves. Is there any God except me? or any maker, that I should not know him? ^{44:9}Wherefore all carvers of Idols are but vain, and their labour lost. They must bear record themselves, that (seeing they can neither see nor understand) they shall be confounded. ^{44:10}Who should now make a God, or fashion an Idol, that is profitable for nothing? ^{44:11}Behold, all the fellowship of them must be brought to confusion. Let all the workmasters of them come and stand together from among men: they must be abashed and confounded one with another. ^{44:12}The smith taketh iron, and tempereth it with hot coals, and fashioneth it with hammers, and maketh it with all the strength of his arms: yea sometime he is faint for very hunger, and so thirsty, that he hath no more power. ^{44:13}The carpenter (or image carver) taketh meat of the timber: and spreadeth forth his line: he marketh it with some colour: he planeth it, he ruleth it, and squareth it, and maketh it after the image of a man, and according to the beauty of a man: that it may stand in the temple. ^{44:14}Moreover, he goeth out to hew down Cedar trees: He bringeth home Elms and Oaks, and other timber of the wood. Or else the Fir trees which he planted himself, and such as the rain hath swelled, ^{44:15}which wood serveth for men to burn. Of this he taketh and warmeth himself withal: he maketh a fire of it to bake bread. And afterward maketh a God thereof, to honour it: and an Idol to kneel before it. ^{44:16}One piece he burneth in the fire, with another he roasteth flesh, that he may eat roast his belly full: with the third he warmeth himself, and sayeth: Aha, I am well warmed, I have been at the fire. ^{44:17}And of the residue he maketh him a God, and an Idol for himself. He kneeleth before it, he worshippeth it, he prayeth unto it, and sayeth: deliver me, for thou art my God. ^{44:18}Yet men neither consider nor understand, because their eyes are stopped, that they can not see: and their hearts, that they can not perceive. ^{44:19}They ponder not in their minds, for they have neither knowledge nor understanding, to think thus: I have brent one piece in the fire: I have baked bread with the coals thereof, I have roasted flesh withal, and eaten it: shall I now of the residue make an abomination, and fall down before a rotten piece of wood? ^{44:20}The keeping of dust, and foolishness of heart hath turned them aside: so that none of them can have a free conscience to think: may not I err? ^{44:21}Consider this (O Jacob and Israel) for thou art my servant. I have made thee, that thou mightest serve me. O Israel, forget me not. ^{44:22}As for thine offenses, I drive them away like the clouds, and thy sins as the mist. Turn ye again unto me, and I will deliver thee. ^{44:23}Be glad ye heavens, whom the LORD hath made, let all that is here beneath upon the earth, be joyful. Rejoice ye mountains and woods, with all the trees that are in you: for the LORD shall redeem Jacob, and shew his glory upon Israel. ^{44:24}For thus sayeth the LORD thy redeemer, even he that fashioned thee from thy mother's womb: I am the LORD, which do all things myself alone. I only have spread out the heavens, and I only have laid the foundation of the earth. ^{44:25}I destroy the tokens of witches, and make the Soothsayers go wrong. As for the wise, I turn them backward, and make their cunning foolishness. ^{44:26}But I set up the purpose of my servants, and fulfill the counsel of my messengers. I say unto Jerusalem: turn again: And to the cities of Juda, be ye builded again: and I repair their decayed places. ^{44:27}I say to the ground: be dry. And I dry up thy water floods. ^{44:28}I say to Cyrus: thou art mine herd man: so that he shall fulfill all things after my will. I say unto Jerusalem: be thou builded, and to the temple: be thou fast grounded. ^{45:1}Thus sayeth the LORD unto Cyrus his anointed, whom he leadeh by the right hand: that the people may fall down before him: I will loose^q the girdles of kings: that they shall open the gates before thy face, and not to shut their doors. ^{45:2}I will go before thee, and make the crooked straight. I shall break the brazen doors, and burst the iron bars. ^{45:3}I shall give thee the hid treasure and the thing which is secretly kept: that thou mayest know, that I the God of Israel have called thee by thy name: ^{45:4}and that for Jacob my servant's sake, and for Israel my chosen. For I called thee by name, and ordained^r thee, or ever thou knewest me: ^{45:5}Even I the LORD, before whom there is none other: for without me there is no God. I have prepared the or ever thou knewest me: ^{45:6}that it might be known from the rising of the sun to the going down of the same, that all is nothing without me. For I am the LORD, and there is else none. ^{45:7}It is I that created the light, and darkness, I make peace, and trouble: yea even I the LORD do all these things. ^{45:8}The heavens above shall drop down, and the clouds shall rain righteousness. The earth shall open itself, and bring forth health, and thereby shall righteousness flourish. Even I the LORD shall bring it to pass. ^{45:9}Woe be unto him that chideth with his maker, the potsherd with the potter: Sayeth the clay to the potter: What makest thou? or thy work serveth for nothing? ^{45:10}Woe be unto him, that sayeth to his father: Why begetteth thou? And to his mother: Why bearest thou? ^{45:11}Thus sayeth the LORD, even the holy one and maker of Israel: Ask me of things for to come, concerning my sons: and put me in remembrance, as touching the works of my hands: ^{45:12}I have made the earth, and created man upon it. With my hands have I spread forth heaven, and given a commandment for all the Host thereof. ^{45:13}I shall wake him up with righteousness, and order all his ways. He shall build my city, and let out my prisoners: and that neither for gifts or rewards, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{45:14}The LORD hath said moreover: The occupiers of Egypt, the merchants of the Morians and Sabees, shall come unto thee with tribute, they shall be thine, they shall follow thee, and go with chains upon their feet. They shall fall down before thee, and make supplication unto thee. For God (without whom there is none other God) shall be with thee. ^{45:15}O how profound art thou O God, thou God and Saviour of Israel? ^{45:16}Confounded be ye, and put to dishonour: go hence together with shame, all ye that be workmasters of error: (that is worshipers of Idols) ^{45:17}But Israel shall be saved in the LORD, which is the everlasting salvation: They shall not come to shame nor confusion, world without end. ^{45:18}For thus sayeth the LORD: even he that created heaven, the God that made the earth, that fashioned it, and set it forth: I have not made it for naught, but I made it to be inhabited. Even I the LORD, without whom there is none other. ^{45:19}I have not spoken secretly, neither in dark places of the earth. It is not for naught, that I said unto the seed of Jacob: Seek me. I am the LORD, which when I speak, declareth the thing that is righteous and true. ^{45:20}Let them be gathered and come together, let them draw nigh hither, that are escaped of the people: Have they any understanding, that set up the stocks of their Idols, and praise unto a God, that can not help them? ^{45:21}Let men draw nigh, let them come hither, and ask counsel one at another, and shew forth: What is he, that told this before? or, who spake of it, ever since the beginning? Have not I the LORD done it: without whom there is none other God? the true God and Saviour, and there is else none but I: ^{45:22}And therefore turn you unto me (all ye ends of the earth) so shall ye be saved, for I am God, and there is else none. ^{45:23}I swear by myself: out of my mouth cometh the word of righteousness, and that may no man turn: but all knees shall bow unto me, and all tongues shall swear by me, ^{45:24}saying: Verily in the LORD is my righteousness and strength. To him shall men come: but all they that think scorn of him, shall be confounded. ^{45:25}And the whole seed of Israel shall be justified, and praised in the LORD. ^{46:1}Nevertheless, Bel shall fall, and Nebo shall be broken: whose images are a burthen for the beasts and cattle, to overladen them, and to make them weary. ^{46:2}They shall sink down, and fall together: for they may not ease them of their burthen, therefore must they go into captivity. ^{46:3}Hearken unto me, O house of Jacob, and all ye that remain yet of the household of Israel: whom I have borne from your mother's womb, and brought you up from your birth, till ye were grown: ^{46:4}I, I which shall bear you unto your last age: I have made you, I will also nourish you, bear you and save you. ^{46:5}Whom will ye make me like, in fashion or image, that I may be like him? ^{46:6}Ye fools (no doubt) will take out silver and gold out of your purses, and weigh it, and hire a goldsmith to make a God of it, that men may kneel down and worship it. ^{46:7}Yet must he be taken on men's shoulders and borne, and set in his place, that he may stand and not move. Alas that men should cry unto him, which giveth no answer: and delivereth not the man that calleth upon him, from his trouble. ^{46:8}Consider this well, and be ashamed. Go into your own selves (O ye runagates) ^{46:9}Remember the things which are past, since the beginning of the world: that I am God, and that there is else no God, yea and that there is nothing like unto me. ^{46:10}In the beginning of a thing, I shew the end thereof: and I tell before, things that are not yet come to pass. With one word is my device accomplished, and fulfilleth all my pleasure. ^{46:11}I call a bird out of the East, and all that I take in hand, out of far countries, as soon as I command, I bring it hither: as soon as I think to devise a thing, I do it. ^{46:12}Hear me, O ye that are of an high stomach, but far from righteousness, ^{46:13}I shall bring forth my righteousness. It is not far, and my health shall not tarry long away. I will lay health in Sion, and give Israel my glory. ^{47:1}But as for thee (O daughter, thou virgin Babylon) thou shalt sit in the dust. Thou shalt sit upon the ground, and not in a throne, (O thou maiden of Chaldea) Thou shalt no more be called tender and pleasant. ^{47:2}Thou shalt bring forth the quern and grind meal, put down thy stomacher make bare thy knees, and shalt wade thorow the water rivers. ^{47:3}Thy shame shall be discovered, and thy previties shall be seen. For I will avenge me of thee, and no man shall let me: ^{47:4}sayeth our redeemer, which is called the LORD of Hosts, the holy one of Israel. ^{47:5}Sit still, hold thy tongue, and get thee into some dark corner, O daughter Chaldea, for thou shalt no more be called lady of kingdoms. ^{47:6}I was so wroth with my people, that I punished mine inheritance, and gave them into thy power. Nevertheless, thou shewdest them no mercy, but even the very aged men of them, didst thou oppress right sore with thy yoke, ^{47:7}and thou thoughtest thus. I shall be lady for ever. And beside all that, thou hast not regarded these things, neither cast, what should come after. ^{47:8}Hear now therefore, thou willful, that sittest so careless, and speakest thus in thine heart: I am alone, and without me is there none: I shall never be widow, nor desolate again. ^{47:9}And yet both these things shall come to thee upon one day in the twinkling of an eye: Namely widowhood, and desolation. They shall mightily fall upon thee, for the multitude of thy witches, and for the great heap of thy conjurers. ^{47:10}For thou hast comforted thyself in thy deceitfulness, and hast said: No man seeth me. Thine own wisdom and cunning hath deceived thee. In that thou hast said: I am alone, and without me there is none. ^{47:11}Therefore shall trouble come upon thee, and thou shalt not know, from whence it shall arise. Mischief shalt fall upon thee, which thou shalt not be able to put off. A sudden^s misery shall come upon thee, or ever thou be aware.^t ^{47:12}Now go to thy conjurers, and to the multitude of thy witches (whom thou hast been acquainted withal from thy youth) if they may help thee, or strengthen thee. ^{47:13}Thou hast hither to had many counsels of them, so let the heaven gazers and the beholders of stars come on now and deliver thee: yea and let them shew, when these new things shall come upon thee. ^{47:14}Behold, they shall be like straw, which if it be kindled with fire, no man may rid it for the vehemence of the flame: And yet it giveth no cinders to warm a man by, nor clear fire to sit by. ^{47:15}Even so shall they be unto thee whom thou hast used and occupied from thy youth. Every one shall shew thee his erroneous way, yet shall none of them defend thee. ^{48:1}Hear this, O thou house of Jacob: ye that are called by the name of Israel, and are come out of one stock with Judah: which swear by the name of the LORD, and bear witness by the God of Israel (but not with truth and right) ^{48:2}which are called free men of the holy city, as they that look for comfort in the God of Israel, whose name is the LORD of Hosts. ^{48:3}The things that I shewed you ever since the beginning: Have I not brought them to pass, immediately as they came out of my mouth, and declared them? And they are come? ^{48:4}Howbeit I knew that thou art obstinate, and that thy neck hath an iron vein, and thy brow is of brass. ^{48:5}Nevertheless, I have ever since the beginning shewed thee of things for to come, and declared them unto thee, or ever they came to pass: that thou shouldest not say: mine Idol hath done it, my carved or cast image hath shewed it: ^{48:6}Hear and consider all these things whether it was ye that prophesied them: But as for me, I told thee before at the beginning, new and secret things that thou knewest not of: ^{48:7}And some done now not of old time, whereof thou never heardest, before they were brought to pass: that thou can not say: I knew of them. ^{48:8}Moreover there be some whereof thou hast neither heard nor know, neither have they been open unto thine ears afore time. For I know that thou wouldest maliciously offend, therefore have I called thee a transgressor, even from thy mother's womb. ^{48:9}Nevertheless for my name's sake, I have withdrawn my wrath, and for mine honour's sake I have overseen thee, so that I have not rooted thee out. ^{48:10}Behold, I have purged thee, and not for money. I have chosen thee in the fire of poverty; ^{48:11}And that only for mine own sake, for I give mine honour to none other, that thou shouldst not despise me. ^{48:12}Hearken unto me O Jacob, and Israel whom I have called. I am even he that is, I am the first and the last. ^{48:13}My hand is the foundation of the earth, and my right hand spanneth over the heavens. As soon as I called them they were there. ^{48:14}Gather you all together, and hearken: Which of yonder gods hath declared this, that the LORD will do by the king of Babylon (whom he loveth and favoureth) and by the Chaldees his arm? ^{48:15}I myself alone have told you this before. Yea I shall call him and bring him forth, and give him a prosperous journey. ^{48:16}Come nigh and hear this: have I spoken anything darkly since the beginning? when a thing beginneth, I am there. Wherefore the Lord GOD^u with his spirit hath sent me; ^{48:17}And thus sayeth the LORD God thine avenger, the holy one of Israel: I am the LORD thy God, which teach thee profitable things, and lead thee the way, that thou shouldst go. ^{48:18}If thou wilt now regard my commandment, thy wealthiness shall be as the water stream: and thy righteousnessness as the waves flowing in the sea. ^{48:19}Thy seed shall be like as the sand in the sea, and the fruit of thy body, like the gravel stones thereof: Thy name shall not be rooted out, nor destroyed before me. ^{48:20}Ye shall go away from Babylon, and escape the Chaldees with a merry voice. This shall be spoken of, declared abroad, and go forth unto the end of the world: so that it shall be said: The LORD hath defended his servant Jacob, ^{48:21}that they suffered no thirst, when they travailed in the wilderness. He clave the rocks a sunder, and the water gushed out. ^{48:22}As for the ungodly, they have no peace, sayeth the LORD. ^{49:1}Ye Isles, hearken unto me, and take heed ye people from far: The LORD hath called me from my birth, and made mention of my name from my mother's womb:^v ^{49:2}he hath made my mouth like a sharp sword, under the shadow of his hand hath he defended me, and hid me in his quiver, as a good arrow,^w ^{49:3}and said unto me: Thou art my servant Israel, I will be honoured in thee.^x ^{49:4}Then answered I: I shall loose^y my labour, I shall spend my strength in vain. Nevertheless, I will commit my cause and my work unto the LORD my God.^z ^{49:5}And now sayeth the LORD, even he that fashioned me from my mother's womb to be his servant, that I may bring Jacob again unto him: Howbeit, Israel will not be gathered unto him again. In whose sight I am great, which also is my LORD, my God and my strength.^a ^{49:6}Let it be but a small thing, that thou art my servant, to set up the kindreds of Jacob, and to restore the destruction of Israel: If I make thee not also the light of the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my health unto the end of the world.^b ^{49:7}Moreover, thus sayeth the LORD the avenger and holy one of Israel, because of the abhorring and despising among the Gentiles, concerning the servant of all them that bear rule: Kings and Princes shall see, and arise and worship, because of the LORD that he is faithful: and because of the holy one of Israel, which hath chosen thee. ^{49:8}And thus sayeth the LORD: In the time appointed will I be present with thee. And in the hour of health will I help thee, and deliver thee. I will make ^vHearken ye isles unto me, and give heed ye people that are afar. The LORD called me out of the womb and made mention of my name, when I was in my mother's bowels.

^wAnd he made my mouth like a sharp sword. In the shadow he led me with his hand. And he made me as an excellent arrow, and hid in his quiver.

^xAnd he said to me: thou art my servant O Israel, in whom I will be glorified.

^zAnd I said: I labour in vain and spend my strength for nought, and unprofitably. Howbeit my cause I commit to the LORD and my travail unto my God.

^bBehold I have made thee a light, that thou shouldst be salvation, even unto the end of the world. Kings shall see, and rulers shall stand up and shall worship, because of the LORD which is faithful, and the holy of Israel hath chosen thee.

thee a pledge for the people, so that thou shalt help up the earth again, and challenge again the scattered heritages: ^{49:9}That thou mayest say to the prisoners: Go forth, and to them that are in darkness: come into the light, that they may feed in the high ways, and get their living in all places. ^{49:10}There shall neither hunger nor thirst, heat nor Sun hurt them. For he that favoureth them shall lead them, and give them drink of the spring wells. ^{49:11}I will make ways upon all my mountains, and my foot paths shall be exalted. ^{49:12}And behold, they shall come from far: lo, some from the north and west, some from the south. ^{49:13}Rejoice ye heavens, and sing praises thou earth: Talk of joy ye hills, for GOD will comfort his people, and have mercy upon his, that be in trouble. ^{49:14}Then shall Sion say: GOD hath forsaken me, and the Lord^c hath forgotten me. ^{49:15}Doth a wife forget the child of her womb, and the son who she hath born? And though she do forget, yet will not I forget thee. ^{49:16}Behold, I have written thee up upon my hands, thy walls are ever in my sight. ^{49:17}They that have broken thee down, shall make haste to build thee up again: and they that made thee waste, shall dwell in thee. ^{49:18}Lift up thine eyes, and look about thee: all these shall gather them together, and come to thee. As truly as I live (sayeth the LORD) thou shalt put them all upon thee, as an apparel, and gird them to thee, as an bride doth her jewels. ^{49:19}As for thy land that lieth desolate, wasted and destroyed: it shall be too narrow for them, that shall dwell in it. And they that would devour thee, shall be far away. ^{49:20}Then the child whom the barren shall bring forth unto thee, shall say in thine ear: This place is too narrow, sit nigh together, that I may have room. ^{49:21}Then shalt thou think by thyself: Who hath begotten me these? seeing I am barren and alone, a captive and an outcast? And who hath nourished them up for me? I am desolate and alone, but from whence come these? ^{49:22}And therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^d Behold, I will stretch out mine hand to the Gentiles, and set up my token to the people. They shall bring thy sons in their laps, and carry thy daughters unto thee upon their shoulders. ^{49:23}For kings shall be thy nursing fathers, and Queens shall be thy nursing mothers. They shall fall before thee with their faces flat upon the earth, and lick up the dust of thy feet: that thou mayest know, how that I am the LORD. And who so putteth his trust in me, shall not be confounded. ^{49:24}Who spoileth the giant of his praye? or who taketh the prisoners from the mighty? ^{49:25}And therefore thus sayeth the LORD: The prisoners shall be taken from the giant, and the spoil delivered from the violent: for I will maintain thy cause against thine adversaries, and save thy sons. ^{49:26}And will feed thine enemies with their own flesh, and make them drink of their own blood, as of sweet wine. And all flesh shall know (O Jacob) that I am the LORD thy Saviour, and strong avenger. ^{50:1}Thus sayeth the LORD; Where is the bill of your mother's divorcement, that I sent unto her or who is the usurer, to whom I sold you? Behold, for your own offenses are ye sold: and because of your transgression, is your mother forsaken. ^{50:2}For why would no man receive me, when I came? and when I called, no man gave me answer. Was my hand clean smitten off, that it might not help? or had I not power to deliver? Lo, at a word I drink up the sea, and of water floods I make dry land: so that for want of water, the fish corrupt and die of thirst. ^{50:3}As for heaven, I clothe it with darkness, and put a sack upon it. ^{50:4}The Lord GOD^e hath given me a well learned tongue, so that I can comfort them which are troubled, yea and that in due season. He waked mine ear up by times in the morning (as schoolmasters do) that I might hark. ^{50:5}The Lord GOD^f hath opened mine ear, therefore can I not say nay, nor withdraw myself, ^{50:6}but I offer my back unto the smiters, and my cheeks to the nippers. I turn not my face from shame and spitting, ^{50:7}for the Lord GOD^g helpeth me, therefore shall I not be confounded. Lo, they shall be all like as an old cloth, which the moths shall eat up. ^{50:10}Therefore who so feareth the LORD among you, let him hear the voice of his servant. Who so walketh in darkness, and no light shineth upon him, let him hope in the LORD and hold him by his God. ^{50:11}But take heed, ye have all kindled a fire, and girded yourselves with the flame: Ye walk in the glistening of your own fire, and in the flame that ye have kindled. This cometh unto you from my hand, namely that ye shall sleep in sorrow. ^{51:1}Hearken to me, ye that hold of righteousness, ye that seek the LORD: Take heed unto the stone, whereout ye are hewn, and to the grave whereout ye are digged.^j ^{51:2}Consider Abraham your father, and Sara that bare you: how that I called him alone, and prospered him well, and increased him.^k ^{51:3}how the LORD comforted Sion, and repaired all her decay: making her desert as a Paradise, and her wilderness as the garden of the LORD. ^jHearken unto me, ye that follow righteousness and seek the LORD. Look unto the rock ye were cut out, and to the cave and pit ye were digged out.

^kLook unto Abraham your father and unto Sarah that bare you: how I called him only, and blessed him and multiplied him.

^lFor the LORD hath compassion on Sion and hath compassion on all that is decayed therein, and will make her wilderness as paradise, and her desert as the garden of the LORD. Joy and gladness shall be found therein, with thanksgiving and the voice of praise.

^mHearken unto me my people, and turn your ears to me my folk. There shall a law go out from me, and my judgement will I stablish to be a light unto nations.

ⁿMy righteousness is nigh, and my salvation shall go out, and mine arms shall judge nations, and islands shall look for me and shall tarry after mine arm.

^oLift up your eyes to heaven and behold the earth beneath. For heaven shall vanish away as smoke, and the earth shall wear away as a vesture, and the inhabitants thereof shall perish away after the same manner, but my salvation shall endure ever, and my righteousness shall not perish.

^pHearken unto me ye that know righteousness and so let the people that have my law in their hearts. Fear not the rebukes of man neither faint for their blasphemies.

oppressor, which is ready to do harm: Where is the wrath of the oppressor? ^{51:14}It cometh on fast, it maketh haste to appear: It shall not perish, that it should not be able to destroy, neither shall it fail for fault of nourishing. ^{51:15}I am the LORD thy God, that make the sea to be still, and to rage: whose name is the LORD of Hosts. ^{51:16}I shall put my word also in thy mouth, and defend thee with the turning of my hand: that thou mayest plant the heavens, and lay the foundations of the earth, and say unto Sion: Thou art my people. ^{51:17}Awake, awake, and stand up, O Jerusalem, thou that from the hand of the LORD, hast drunken out the cup of his wrath: thou that hast supped of, and sucked out the slumbering cup to the bottom. ^{51:18}For among all the sons whom thou hast begotten, there is not one that may hold thee up: and not one to lead thee by the hand, of all the sons that thou hast nourished. ^{51:19}Both these things are happened unto thee, but who is sorry for it. Yea, destruction, wasting, hunger and sword: but who hath comforted thee? ^{51:20}Thy sons lie comfortless at the head of every street like a taken venison, and are full of the terrible wrath of the LORD, and punishment of thy God. ^{51:21}And therefore thou miserable and drunken (howbeit not with wine) Hear this: ^{51:22}Thus sayeth thy Lord:^r thy LORD and God, the defender of his people: Behold, I will take the slumbering cup out of thy hand, even the cup with the dregs of my wrath: that from hence forth thou shalt never drink it more, ^{51:23}and will put it in their hand that trouble thee: which have spoken to thy soul: stoop down, that we may go over thee: make thy body even with the ground, and as the street to go upon. ^{52:1}Up Sion up, take thy strength unto thee: put on thy honest raiment O Jerusalem, thou city of the holy one. For from this time forth, there shall no uncircumcised nor unclean person come in thee. ^{52:2}Shake thee from the dust, arise and stand up, O Jerusalem. My people went down aforetime into Egypt, there to be strangers. Afterward did the king of the Assyrians oppress them, for naught. ^{52:5}And now what profit is it to me (sayeth the LORD) that my people is freely carried away, and brought into heaviness by their rulers, and my name ever still blasphemed? Sayeth the LORD. ^{52:6}But that my people may know my name, I myself will speak in that day. Behold, here am I. ^{52:7}O how beautiful are the feet of the Ambassador, that bringeth the message from the mountain, and proclaimeth peace: That bringeth the good tidings, and preacheth health, and sayeth unto Sion: Thy God is the king. ^{52:8}Thy watchmen shall lift up their voice, with loud voice shall they preach of him: for they shall see him present, when the LORD shall come again to Sion. ^{52:9}Be glad, O thou desolate Jerusalem, and rejoice together: for the LORD will comfort his people, he will deliver Jerusalem. ^{52:10}The LORD will make bare his holy arm, and shew it forth in the sight of all the Gentiles, and all the ends of the earth shall see the saving health of our God. ^{52:11}Away, away, get you out from thence and touch no unclean thing. And be clean ye that bear the vessel of the LORD. ^{52:12}But ye shall not go out with sedition nor make haste as they that flee away: for the LORD shall go before you, and the God of Israel shall keep the watch. ^{52:13}Behold, my servant shall deal wisely, therefore shall he be magnified, exalted and greatly honoured. ^{52:14}Like as the multitude shall wonder upon him, because his face shall be so deformed and not as a man's face, and his beauty like no man: ^{52:15}Even so shall the multitude of the Gentiles look unto him, and the kings shall shut their mouths before him. unto him.^u 53:3 He shall be the most simple, and despised of all, which yet hath good experience of sorrows and infirmities. We shall reckon him so simple and so vile, that we shall hide our faces from him.^v 53:4 How be it (of a truth) he only taketh away our infirmity, and beareth our pain: Yet we shall judge him, as though he were plagued and cast down of God:^w 53:5 where as he (notwithstanding) shall be wounded for our offenses, and smitten for our wickedness. For the pain of our punishment shall be laid upon him, and with his stripes shall we be healed.^x 53:6 As for us, we go all astray (like sheep) everyone turneth his own way. But thorow him, the LORD pardoneth all our sins.^y 53:7 He shall be pained and troubled, and shall not open his mouth. He shall be led as a sheep to be slain, yet shall he be as still as a lamb before the shearer, and not open his mouth.^z 53:8 He shall be had away, his cause not heard, and with out any judgement: Whose generation yet no man may number, when he shall be cut off from the ground of the living: Which punishment shall go upon him, for the transgression of my people.^a 53:9 His grave shall be given him with the condemned, and his crucifying with the thieves. Where as he did never violence nor unright, neither hath there been any deceitfulness in his mouth.^b 53:10 Yet hath it pleased the LORD to smite him with infirmity, that when he had made his soul an offering for sin, he might see^c long lasting seed.

And this device of the LORD shall prosper in his hand.^d 53:11 With travail and labour of his soul, shall he obtain great riches. My righteous servant shall with his wisdom justify and deliver the multitude, for he shall bear away their sins.^e 53:12 Therefore will I give him the multitude for his part, and he shall divide the strong spoil because he shall give over his soul to death, and shall be reckoned among the transgressors, which nevertheless shall take away the sins of the multitude, and make intercession for the misdoers.^f 54:1 Therefore be glad now, thou barren that bearest not. Rejoice, sing and be merry, thou that art not with child: For the desolate hath more children, than the married wife, sayeth the LORD. 54:2 Make thy tent wider, and spread out the hangings of thine habitation: spare not, lay forth thy coards, and make fast thy stakes:^g 54:3 for thou shalt break out on the right side and on the left, and thy seed shall have the Gentiles in possession, and dwell in the desolate cities. 54:4 Fear not, for thou shalt not be confounded: Be not ashamed, for thou shalt not come to confusion. Yea thou shalt forget the shame of thy youth, and shalt not remember the dishonour of thy widowhood.^h 54:5 For he that made thee, shall be thy LORD and husband (whose name is the LORD of Hosts) and thine avenger shall be even the holy one of Israel, the LORD of the whole world. 54:6 For the LORD shall call thee, being as a desolate sorrowful woman, and as ^uHe was despised and cast out of men's company, and one that had suffered sorrow, and had experience of infirmity: and we were as one that had hid his face from him.

^vHe was so despicable, that we esteemed him not. Truly he took upon him our diseases, and bare our sorrows. And yet we counted him plagued, and beaten and humbled of God.

^wHe was wounded for our transgression, and bruised for our iniquities. The correction that brought us peace was on him, and with his stripes we were healed.

^yAnd we went astray as sheep, and turned every man his way: and the LORD put on him the wickedness of us all.

^zHe suffered wrong and was evil entreated, and yet opened not his mouth: he was as a sheep led to be slain: and as a lamb before his shearer, he was dumb and opened not his mouth.

^aBy the reason of the affliction, he was not esteemed: and yet his generation who can number? When he is taken from the earth of living men: for my people's transgression he was plagued.

^bHe put his sepulchre with the wicked, and with the rich in his death: because he did none iniquity, neither was guile found in his mouth.

^dAnd yet the LORD determined to bruise him with infirmities. His soul giving herself for transgression, he shall see seed of long continuance, and the will of the LORD shall prosper in his hand.

^eBecause of the labour of his soul, he shall see and be satisfied. With his knowledge, he being just, shall justify my servants and that a great number: and he shall bear their iniquities.

^fTherefore I will give him his part in many and the spoil of the rich he shall divide: because he gave his soul to death, and was numbered with the trespassers, and he bare the sin of many, and made intercession for transgressors.

a young wife that hath broken her wedlock: sayeth thy God. ^{54:7}A little while have I forsaken thee, but with great mercifulness shall I take thee up unto me. ^{54:8}When I was angry, I hid my face from thee for a little season, but thorow everlasting goodness shall I pardon thee, sayeth the LORD thine avenger. ^{54:9}And this must be unto me as the water of Noe: for like as I have sworn that I will not bring the water of Noe any more upon the world: so have I sworn, that I will never be angry with thee, nor reprove thee: ^{54:10}The mountains shall remove, and the hills shall fall down: but my loving-kindness shall not move, and the bond of my peace shall not fall down from thee, sayeth the LORD thy merciful lover. ^{54:11}Behold thou poor, vexed, and despised: I will make thy walls of precious stones, and thy foundation of Sapphires, ^{54:12}thy windows of Crystal, thy gates of fine clear stone, and thy borders of pleasant stones. ^{54:13}Thy children shall all be taught of GOD, and I will give them plenteousness of peace. ^{54:14}In righteousness shalt thou be grounded, and be far from oppression: for the which thou needest not be afraid, neither for hinderance, for it shall not come nigh thee. ^{54:15}Behold, the alien^h that was far from thee, shall dwell with thee: and he that was sometime a stranger unto thee, shall be joined with thee: ^{54:16}Behold, I make the smith that bloweth the coals in the fire, and he maketh a weapon after his handy work. I make also the waster to destroy: ^{54:17}but all the weapons that are made against thee, shall not prosper. And as for all tongues, that shall resist thee in judgment, thou shalt overcome them, and condemn them. This is the heritage of the LORD's servants, and the righteousness that they shall have of me, sayeth the LORD. ^{55:1}Come to the waters all ye, that be thirsty, and ye that have no money. Come, buy, that ye may have to eat. Come, buy wine and milk, without any money, or money worth. ^{55:2}Wherefore do ye lay out your money, for the thing that feedeth not, and spend your labour about the thing that satisfieth you not. But hearken rather unto me, and ye shall eat of the best, and your soul shall have her pleasure in plenteousness. ^{55:3}Incline your ears, and come unto me, take heed, and your soul shall live. For I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David. ^{55:4}Behold, I shall give him for a witness among the folk, for a Prince and Captain unto the people. ^{55:5}Lo, thou shalt call an unknown people: and a people that had no knowledge of thee, shall run unto thee: because of the LORD thy God, the holy one of Israel, which glorifieth thee. ^{55:6}Seek the LORD, while he may be found, and call upon him while he is nigh. ^{55:7}Let the ungodly man forsake his ways and the unrighteous his imaginations, and turn again unto the LORD: so shall he be merciful unto him: and to our God, for he is ready to forgive. ^{55:8}For thus sayeth the LORD: my thoughts are not your thoughts, and your ways are not my ways, ^{55:9}but as far as the heavens are higher than the earth, so far do my ways exceed yours, and my thoughts yours. ^{55:10}And like as the rain and snow cometh down from heaven, and returneth not thither again, but watereth the earth, maketh it fruitful and green, that it may give corn and bread unto the sower: ^{55:11}So the word also that cometh out of my mouth shall not turn again void unto me, but shall accomplish my will and prosper in the thing, whereto I sent it. ^{55:12}And so shall ye go forth with joy, and be lead with peace. The mountains and hills shall sing with you for joy, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands. ^{55:13}For thorns, there shall grow Fir trees, and the Myrtle tree in the stead of briers. And this shall be done to the praise of the LORD, and for an everlasting token, that shall not be taken away. ^{56:1}Thus sayeth the LORD: Keep equity, and do right, for my saving health shall come shortly, and my righteousness shall be opened. ^{56:2}Blissed is the man that doth this, and the man's child which keepeth the same. He that taketh heed, that he unhallow not the Sabbath (that is) he that keepeth himself that he do no evil. ^{56:3}Then shall not the stranger, which cleaveth to the LORD, say: Alas the LORD hath shut me clean out from his people. Neither shall the gelded man say: Lo, I am a dried tree. ^{56:4}For thus sayeth the LORD, first unto the gelded that keepeth my Sabbath: Namely: that holdeth greatly of the thing that pleaseth me, and keepeth my covenant: ^{56:5}Unto them will I give in my household and within my walls, a better heritage and name than if they had been called sons and daughters. I will give them an everlasting name, that shall not perish. ^{56:6}Again, he sayeth unto the strangers that are disposed to stick to the LORD, to serve him, and to Love his name: That they shall be no bondman. And all they, which keep themselves, that they unhallow not the Sabbath, namely, that they fulfil my covenant: ^{56:7}Them will I bring to my holy mountain, and make them joyful in my house of prayer. Their burnt offerings and sacrifices shall be accepted upon mine altar. For my house shall be an house of prayer for all people. ^{56:8}Thus sayeth the Lord GODⁱ which gathereth together the scattered of Israel: I will bring yet another congregation to him. ^{56:9}All the beasts of the field, and all the beasts of the wood, shall come to devour him. ^{56:10}For his watchmen are all blind, they have altogether no understanding, they are all dumb dogs, no being able to bark, they are sleepery: sluggish are they, and lie snorting: ^{56:11}they are shameless dogs, that be never satisfied. The shepherds also in like manner have no understanding, but every man turneth his own way, everyone after his own covetousness, with all his power. ^{56:12}Come (say they) I will fetch wine, so shall we fill ourselves, that we may be drunken. And do tomorrow, like as today, yea and much more. ^{57:1}But in the mean season the righteous perisheth, and no man regardeth it in his heart; Good godly people are taken away, and no man considereth it. Namely: that the righteous is conveyed away thorow the wicked: ^{57:2}that he himself might be in rest, lie quietly upon his bed, and live after his own pleasure. ^{57:3}Come hither therefore ye charmer's children, ye sons of the advouter, and the whore: ^{57:4}Wherein take ye your pleasure? Upon whom gape ye with your mouth, and blear out your tongue? Are ye not children of advoutry, and a seed of dissimulation? ^{57:5}Ye take your pleasure under the oaks, and under all green trees, the child being slain in the valleys, and dens of stone. ^{57:6}Thy part shall be with the stony rocks by the river: Yea even these shall be thy part. For there thou hast poured meat and drink offerings unto them. Should I oversee that? ^{57:7}Thou hast made thy bed upon high mountains, thou wentest up thither, and there hast thou slain sacrifices. ^{57:8}Behind the doors and posts, hast thou set up thy remembrance. When thou hast discovered thyself to another than me, when thou wentest down and made thy bed wider (that is) when thou didst carve the certain of yonder Idols, and lovedest their couches, where thou sawest them. ^{57:9}Thou wentest straight to kings with oil and divers ointments (that is) thou hast sent thy messengers far off, and yet art thou fallen into the pit thereby. ^{57:10}Thou hast had trouble for the multitude of thine own ways, yet saidest thou never: I will leave off. Thou thinkest to have life (or health) of thy self, and therefore thou believest not that thou art sick. ^{57:11}For when wilt thou be abashed or fear, seeing thou hast broken thy promise, and rememberest not me, neither hast me in thine heart? Thinkest thou, that I also will hold my peace (as afore time) that thou fearest me not? ^{57:12}Yea verily I will declare thy goodness and thy works, but they shall not profit thee ^{57:13}when thou cryest, let thy chosen heap deliver thee. But the wind shall take them all away, and carry them in to the air. Nevertheless, they that put their trust in me, shall inherit the land, and have my holy hill in possession. ^{57:14}And therefore thus he sayeth: Make ready, make ready, and clean the street, take up what ye can out of the way that leadeth to my people. ^{57:15}For thus sayeth the high^j and excellent, even he that dwelleth in everlastingness, whose name is the holy one: I dwell high above and in the sanctuary, and with him also, that is of a contrite and humble spirit: that I may heal a troubled mind, and a contrite heart. ^{57:16}For I chide not ever, and am not wroth without end. But the blasting goeth from me, though I make the breath. ^{57:17}I am wroth with him for his covetousness and lust, I smite him, I hide me, and am angry, when he turneth himself, and followeth the byway of his own heart. ^{57:18}But if I may see his right way again, I make him whole, I lead him and restore him unto them whom he maketh joyful, and that were sorry for him. ^{57:19}I make the fruits of thanksgiving. I give peace unto them that are far off, and to them that are nigh, say I the LORD, that make him whole. ^{57:20}But the wicked are like the raging see, that can not rest, whose water foameth with the mire and gravel. ^{57:21}Even so the wicked have no peace, sayeth my God. ^{58:1}And therefore cry now, as loud as thou canst. Leave not off, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and shew my people their offenses, and the house of Jacob their sins.^k ^{58:2}For they seek me daily, and will know my ways, even as it were a people that did right, and had not forsaken the statutes of their God. They argue with me concerning right judgement, and will pleate at the law with their God.^l ^{58:3}Wherefore fast we (say they) and thou seest it not? we put our lives to straightness, and thou regardest it not?^m ^{58:4}Behold, when ye fast, your lust remaineth still: for ye do no less violence to your debtors: Lo, ye fast for strife and debate, and to smite him with your fist that speaketh unto you. Ye fast not (as some time) that your voice might be heard above.ⁿ ^{58:5}Think ye this fast pleaseth me, that a man should chasten himself for a day, and to wring his head about like an hook in an hairy cloth, and to lie upon the earth? Should that be called fasting, or a day that pleaseth the LORD?^o ^{58:6}But this fasting pleaseth not me, till the time be thou lowse him out of bondage, that is in thy danger: that thou break the oath of wicked bargains, that thou let the oppressed go free, and take from them all manner of burthens.^p ^{58:7}It pleaseth not me, till thou deal thy bread to the hungry, and bring the poor fatherless home into thy house, when thou seest the naked that thou cover him, and hide not thy face from thine own flesh.^q ^{58:8}Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thy health flourish right shortly: thy righteousness shall go before thee, and the glory of the LORD shall embrace thee.^r ^{58:9}Then if thou callest, the LORD shall answer thee: if thou cryest, he shall say: Here I am.^s Yea If thou layest away thy burthens, and holdest thy fingers, and ceasest from blasphemous talking,^{58:10}if thou hast compassion upon the hungry, and refreshest the troubled soul: Then shall thy light spring out in the darkness, and thy darkness shall be as the noon day. ^{58:11}The LORD shall ever be thy guide, and satisfy the desire of thine heart, and fill thy bones with marry. Thou shalt be like a fresh watered garden, and like the fountain of water, that never leaveth running.^{58:12}Then the places that have ever been waste, shall be builded of thee: there shalt thou lay a foundation for many kindreds. Thou shalt be called the maker up of hedges, and the builder again of the way of the Sabbath. ^{58:13}Yea if thou turn thy feet from the Sabbath, so that thou do not the thing which pleaseth thy self in my holy day: then shalt thou be called unto the pleasant, holy, and glorious Sabbath of the LORD, where thou shalt be in honor: so that thou do not after thine own imagination, neither seek thine own will, nor speak thine own words. ^{58:14}Then shalt thou have thy pleasure in the LORD, which shall carry thee high above the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father: for the LORD's own mouth hath so promised. ^{59:1}Behold, the LORD's hand is not so shortened that it can not help, neither is his ear so stopped that it ^kCry with the throat and spare not. Lift up thy voice as a trumpet, and tell my people their offences and the house of Jacob their sins.

^lFor me they seek day by day, and will know my ways, as a people that doth righteousness, and hath not forsaken the equity of their God.

^mThey seek of me righteous judgements, and will draw nigh unto God. Why have we fasted and thou hast not looked upon it, have humbled our souls, and thou wouldest not wit it.

ⁿBehold when ye fast, ye can find your own lusts, and can call cruelly on all your debtors. Ye fast to law and strive and to smite with fist wickedly. Fast not as ye now do, to make your voice to be heard upon high.

^oShould it be such a manner of fast that I should chose, a day that a man should hurt his soul in? Or to bow down his head like a bulrush? Or to spread sack cloth and ashes under him? Shouldest thou call this a fast, and a day acceptable unto the LORD?

^pOr is not this rather the fast that I have chosen? To loose wicked bonds and to unbind bundles of oppression? And to let the bruised go free? And that ye should break all manner yokes?

^qyea and to break the bread to the hungry, and to bring the poor that are harbourless unto house, and when thou seest a naked, that thou clothe him and that thou shouldest withdraw thyself from helping thine own flesh?

^rThen should the light break out as doth the dayspring, and then health should shortly bud out. And thy righteousness shall go before thee, and the glory of the LORD would come upon thee.

may not hear. ^{59:2}But your misdeeds have separated you from your God, and your sins hide his face from you, that he heareth you not. ^{59:3}For your hands are defiled with blood, and your fingers with unrighteousness: Your lips speak leasings, and your tongue setteth out wickedness. ^{59:4}No man regardeth righteousness, and no man judgeth truly. Every man hopeth in vain things, and imagineth deceit, conceiveth weariness, and bringeth forth evil. ^{59:5}They breed cockatrice' eggs, and weave the spider's web. Whoso eateth of their eggs dieth. But if one treadeth upon them, there cometh up a serpent. ^{59:6}Their web maketh no cloth and they may not cover themselves with their labours. Their deeds are the deeds of wickedness, and the work of robbery is in their hands. ^{59:7}Their feet run to evil, and they make haste to shed innocent blood. Their counsels are wicked counsels, harm and destruction are in their ways. ^{59:8}But the way of peace they know not. In their goings is no equity, their ways are so crooked that whosoever goeth therein, knoweth nothing of peace. ^{59:9}And this is the cause that equity is so far from us, and that righteousness cometh not nigh us. We look for light, lo, it is darkness: for the morning shine, see, we walk in the dark. ^{59:10}We grope like the blind upon the wall, we grope even as one that hath none eyes. We stumble at the noon day, as though it were toward night: in the falling places, like men that are half dead. ^{59:11}We roar all like Bears, and mourn still like doves. We look for equity, but there is none: for health, but it is far from us. ^{59:12}For our offenses are many before thee, and our sins testify against us. Yea we must confess that we offend and knowledge, that we do amiss: ^{59:13}Namely transgress and dissemble against the LORD, and fall away from our God: using presumptuous and traitorous imaginations, and casting false matters in our hearts. ^{59:14}And therefore is equity gone aside, and righteousness standeth far off: truth is fallen down in the street, and the thing that is plain and open, may not be shewed. ^{59:15}Yea the truth is laid in prison, and he that refraineth him self from evil, must be spoiled. When the LORD saw this, it displeased him sore, that there was no where any equity. ^{59:16}He saw also, that there was no man, which had pity thereof, or was grieved at it. And he held him by his own power, and cleaved to his own righteousness. ^{59:17}He put righteousness upon him for a breast plate, and set the helmet of health upon his head. He put on wrath in stead of clothing, and took jealousy about him for a cloak: ^{59:18}(like as when a man goeth forth wrothfully to recompense his enemies, and to be avenged of his adversaries.) Namely, that he might recompense and reward the Islands, ^{59:19}where thorow the name of the LORD might be feared, from the rising of the Sun:^t and his majesty, unto the going down of the same. For he shall come as a violent water stream, which the wind of the LORD hath moved. ^{59:20}But unto Sion there shall come a redeemer, and unto them in Jacob that turn from wickedness, sayeth the LORD. ^{59:21}I will make this covenant with them, (sayeth the LORD): My spirit that is come upon thee, and the words which I have put in thy mouth, shall never go out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy children, nor out of the mouth of thy children's children, from this time forth for evermore. ^{60:1}And therefore get thee up by times, for thy light cometh, and the glory of the LORD shall rise up upon thee.^u ^{60:2}For lo, while the darkness and cloud covereth the earth and the people, the LORD shall shew the light, and his glory shall be seen in thee.^v ^{60:3}The Gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness that springeth forth upon thee.^w ^{60:4}Lift up thine eyes, and look round about thee: All these gather themselves, and come to thee. Sons shall come unto thee from far, and daughters shall gather themselves to thee on every side.^x ^{60:5}When thou seest this thou shalt marvel exceedingly, and thine heart shall be opened: when the power of the sea shall be converted unto thee (that is) when the strength of the Gentiles shall come unto

Thou shalt be called the city of the LORD, the holy Sion of Israel. ^{60:15}Because thou hast been forsaken and hated, so that no man went thorow thee: I will make thee glorious for ever and ever, and joyful thorowout all posterities. ^{60:16}Thou shalt suck the milk of the Gentiles, and kings' breasts shall feed thee. And thou shalt know that I the LORD am thy Saviour and defender, the mighty one of Jacob. ^{60:17}For brass will I give thee gold, and for iron silver: for wood brass, and for stones iron. I will make peace thy ruler, and righteousness thine officer. ^{60:18}Violence and robbery shall never be heard of in thy land, neither harm and destruction within thy

Thy walls shall be called health, and thy gates the praise of God. ^{60:19}The Sun shall never be thy day light, and the light of the Moon shall never shine unto thee: but the LORD himself shall be thine everlasting light, and thy God shall be thy glory. ^{60:20}Thy Sun shall never go down, and thy Moon shall not be taken away, for the LORD himself shall be thine everlasting light, and thy sorrowful days shall be rewarded thee. ^{60:21}Thy people shall be all godly and possess the land for ever: the flower of my planting, the work of my hands whereof I will rejoice. ^{60:22}The youngest and least shall grow into a thousand, and the simplest into a strong people. I the LORD shall shortly bring this thing to pass in his time. ^{61:1}The spirit of the Lord GOD^a is with me, for the LORD hath anointed me, and sent me to preach good tidings unto the poor, that I might bind up the wounded hearts, and open the prison to them that are bound: ^{61:2}That I might declare the acceptable year of the LORD, and the day of the vengeance of our God: that I might comfort all them that are in heaviness. ^{61:3}That I might give unto them that mourn in Sion, beauty in the stead of ashes, joyful ointment for sighing, pleasant raiment for an heavy mind: That they might be called excellent in righteousness, a planting of the LORD for him to rejoice in. ^{61:4}They shall build the long rough wildernesses, and set up the old desert. They shall repair the waste places, and such as have been void thorowout many generations; ^{61:5}Strangers shall stand^b and feed your cattle, and the Aliens shall be your plowmen and reapers. ^{61:6}But ye shall be named the priests of the LORD, and men shall call you the servants of our God. Ye shall enjoy the goods of the Gentiles and triumph in their substance. ^{61:7}For your great reproof and shame, shall they have joy, that ye may have part with them. For they shall have double possession in their land and everlasting joy shall be with them. ^{61:8}For I the LORD, which love right and hate robbery (though it were offered

Thou shalt be named with a new name, which the mouth of the LORD shall shew. ^{62:3}Thou shalt be a crown in the hand of the LORD, and a glorious garland in the hand of thy God. ^{62:4}From this time forth thou shalt never be called the forsaken, and thy land shall no more be called the wilderness. But thou shalt be called Hephzibah,^d and thy land Beula:^e for the LORD loveth thee, and thy land shall be inhabited. ^{62:5}And like as a young man taketh a daughter to marriage, so shall God marry himself unto thy sons. Thus have I trodden down mine enemies in my wrath, and set my feet upon them in my indignation: And their blood sprang upon my clothes, and so have I stained all my raiment. ^{63:4}For that day of vengeance that I have taken in hand, and the year of my deliverance is

Then I held me by mine own arm, and my ferventness sustained me: ^{63:6}and thus have I trodden down the people in my wrath, and bathed them in my displeasure: In so much that I have shed their blood upon the earth. ^{63:7}I will declare the goodness of the LORD, yea and the praise of the LORD for all that he hath given us, for the great good that he hath done for Israel: which he hath given them of his own favour, and according to the multitude of his loving kindnesses. ^{63:8}For he said: These no doubt will be my people, and no shrinking children, and so he was their Saviour. ^{63:9}In their troubles he forsook them not, but the angel that went forth from his presence delivered them: Of very love and kindness that he had unto them, redeemed he them: He hath born them, and carried them up even, since the world began. ^{63:10}But after they provoked him to wrath and vexed his holy mind, he was their enemy, and fought against them himself. ^{63:11}Yet remembered he the old time of Moses and his people: How he brought them from the water of the sea, as a shepherd doth with his sheep: how he had given his holy spirit among them: ^{63:12}how he had led Moses by the right hand with his glorious arm: how he had divided the water before them (whereby he gat himself an everlasting name) ^{63:13}how he led them in the deep, as an horse is led in the plain, that they should not stumble. ^{63:14}The spirit of the LORD led them as a tame beast goeth in the field. Thus (O God) hast thou led thy people, to make thyself a glorious name withal. ^{63:15}Look down then from heaven, and behold the dwelling place of thy Sanctuary and thy glory. How is it, that thy jealousy, thy strength, the multitude of thy mercies and thy loving-kindness, will not be entreated of us.ⁿ ^{63:16}Yet art thou our father: For Abraham knoweth us not, neither is Israel acquainted with us. But thou LORD art our father and redeemer, and thy name is everlasting. ^{63:17}O LORD wherefore hast thou led us out of thy way? Wherefore hast thou hardened our hearts, that we fear thee not? I shall reward it them into their bosom: ^{65:7}I mean your misdeeds, and the misdeeds of your fathers together (sayeth the LORD) which have made their smokes upon the mountains, and blasphemed me upon the hills: therefore will I measure their old deeds into their bosom again. ^{65:8}Moreover thus sayeth the LORD: like as when one would gather holy grapes, men say unto him: break it not off, for it is holy: even so will I do also for my servants' sakes, that I will not destroy them all. ^{65:9}But I will take a seed out of Jacob, and out of Judah one, to take possession of my hill. My chosen shall possess these things, and my servants shall dwell there. ^{65:10}Saron shall be a sheepfold, and the valley of Achor shall give the stalling for the cattle of my people, that fear me. ^{65:11}But as for you, ye are they, that have forsake the LORD, and forgotten my holy hill. For when I called, no man gave me answer: when I spake, ye hearkened not unto me, but did wickedness before mine eyes, and chose the thing that pleased me not. ^{65:13}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^P Behold, my servants shall eat, but ye shall have hunger. Behold, my servants shall drink, but ye shall suffer thirst. Behold, my servants shall be merry, but ye shall be confounded. ^{65:14}Behold, my servants shall rejoice for very quietness of heart: But ye shall cry for sorrow of heart, and complain for vexation of mind. ^{65:15}Your name shall not be sworn by among my chosen, for GOD the Lord^q shall slay you, and call his servants by another name. ^{65:16}Whoso rejoiceth

For the old enmity shall be forgotten, and taken away out of my sight. ^{65:17}For lo, I shall make a new heaven, and a new earth. And as for the old, they shall never be thought upon, nor kept in mind: ^{65:18}but men shall be glad and evermore rejoice, for the things, that I shall do. For why: Behold, I shall make a joyful Jerusalem, ^{65:19}yea I myself will rejoice with Jerusalem, and be glad with my people: And the voice of weeping and wailing shall not be heard in her from thence forth. ^{65:20}There shall never be child nor old man, that have not their full days. But when the child cometh to an hundredth year old, it shall die. And if he that is an hundredth year of age do wrong, he shall be cursed. ^{65:21}They shall build houses, and dwell in them: they shall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them. ^{65:22}They shall not build, and another possess: they shall not plant, and another eat: But the life of my people shall be like a tree, and so shall the work of their hands. ^{65:23}My chosen shall live long, they shall not labour in vain, nor beget with trouble: for they are the high^r blessed seed of the LORD, and their fruits with them. ^{65:24}And it shall be, that or ever they call, I shall answer them. While they are yet but thinking how to speak, I shall hear them. ^{65:25}The wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat hay like the bullock. But earth shall be the serpent's meat. There shall no man hurt nor slay another, in all my holy hill, sayeth the LORD. ^{66:1}Thus sayeth the LORD: Heaven is my seat, and the earth is my footstool. Where shall now the house stand, that ye build unto me? And where shall be the place, that I will dwell in? ^{66:2}As for these things, my hand hath made them all, and they are all created, sayeth the LORD. Which of them shall I then regard? Even him that is of a lowly troubled spirit, and standeth in awe of my works. ^{66:3}For who so slayeth an ox for me, doth me so great dishonour, as he that killeth a man. He that killeth a sheep for me, choketh a dog. He that bringeth me meat offerings, offereth swine's blood: Who so maketh me a memorial of incense, praiseth the thing that is unright. hand, and their soul delighteth in these abominations. ^{66:4}Therefore will I also have pleasure in laughing them to scorn, and the thing that they fear, will I bring upon them. For when I called no man gave answer: when I spake, they would not hear: But did wickedness before mine eyes, and chose the things that displease me. ^{66:5}Hear the word of God all ye, that fear the thing which he speaketh. Your brethren that hate you, and cast you out for my name's sake, say: Let the LORD magnify himself, that we may see your gladness: and yet they shall be confounded. ^{66:6}For as touching the city and the temple, I hear the voice of the LORD, that will reward, and recompense his enemies: ^{66:7}like as when a wife bringeth forth a man child, or ever she suffer the pain of the birth and anguish of the travail. ^{66:8}Who ever heard or saw such things? doth the ground bear in one day? or are the people born all at once, as Sion beareth her^s sons? ^{66:9}For thus sayeth the LORD: Am I he that maketh other to bear, and bear not myself? Am not I he that beareth, and maketh barren? sayeth thy God. ^{66:10}Rejoice with Jerusalem, and be glad with her, all ye that love her. Be joyful with her, all ye that mourned for her. ^{66:11}For ye shall suck comfort out of her breasts, and be satisfied. Ye shall taste, and have delight in the plenteousness of her power. ^{66:12}For thus sayeth the LORD: behold, I will let peace into her, like a water flood, and the might of the Heathen like a flowing stream. Then shall ye suck, ye shall be born upon her sides, and be joyful upon her knees. ^{66:13}For like as a child is comforted of his mother, so shall I comfort you, and ye shall be comforted in Jerusalem. ^{66:14}And when ye see this, your heart shall rejoice, and your bones shall flourish like an herb. Thus shall the hand of the LORD be known among his servants, and his indignation among his enemies. ^{66:15}For behold, the LORD shall come with fire, and his chariot shall be like a whirlwind, that he may recompense his vengeance in his wrath, and his indignation with the flame of fire. ^{66:16}For the LORD shall judge all flesh with the fire and with his sword, and there shall be a great number slain of the LORD. ^{66:17}Such as have made themselves holy and clean in the gardens, and those that have eaten swine's flesh, mice, and other abominations, shall be taken away together, sayeth the LORD. ^{66:18}For I will come to gather all people and tongues with their works and imaginations: these shall come, and see my glory. ^{66:19}Unto them shall I give a token, and send certain of them (that be delivered) among the Gentiles: into Celia, Africa and Lidia (where men can handle bows) into Italy also and Greekland. The isles far off, that have not heard speak of me, and have not seen my glory, shall preach my praise among the Gentiles ^{66:20}and shall bring all your brethren for an offering unto the LORD, out of all people, upon horses, chariots and horse litters, upon Mules and carts to Jerusalem my holy hill (sayeth the LORD) like as the children of Israel bring the offering in clean vessels, to the house of the LORD. ^{66:21}And I shall take out certain of them for to be priests and levites, sayeth the LORD. ^{66:22}For like as the new heaven and the new earth which I will make, shall be fast established by me: (sayeth the LORD) So shall your seed and your name continue, ^{66:23}and there shall be a new Moon for the other, and a new Sabbath for the other, and all flesh shall come to worship before me (sayeth the LORD.) ^{66:24}And they shall go forth and look upon the carrions of them that have transgressed against me. For their worms shall not die, neither shall their fire be quenched, and all flesh shall abhor them.

^{1:1}These are the Sermons of Jeremy the son of Helkiah the Priest, one of them that dwelt at Anathoth in the land of Ben Jamin: ^{1:2}when the LORD had first spoken with him, in the time of Josiah the son of Amon king of Judah, in the thirteenth year of his kingdom: ^{1:3}and so during unto the time of Jehoakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, and unto the eleven years of Zedekiah the son of Josiah king of Judah were ended: when Jerusalem was taken, even in the fifth Month. ^{1:4}The word of the LORD spake thus unto me: ^{1:5}Before I fashioned thee in thy mother's womb, I did know thee: And or ever thou wast born, I sanctified thee, and ordained thee, to be a Prophet unto the people. ^{1:6}Then said I: Oh Lord GOD,^a I am unmete, for I am yet but young. ^{1:7}And the LORD answered me thus: Say not so, I am too young: For thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee unto, and whatsoever I command thee, that shalt thou speak. ^{1:8}Be not afraid of their faces, for I will be with thee, to deliver thee, sayeth the LORD. ^{1:9}And with that, the LORD stretched out his hand, and touched my mouth, and said moreover unto me. Behold I put my words in thy mouth, ^{1:10}and this day do I set thee over the people and kingdoms: that thou mayest root out, break off, destroy, and make waste: and that thou mayest build up and plant. ^{1:11}After this, the LORD spake unto me saying: Jeremy, what seest thou? And I said: I see a waking rod. ^{1:12}Then said the LORD: thou hast seen right, for I will watch diligently upon my word, to perform it. ^{1:13}It happened afterward, that the LORD spake to me again, and said: What seest thou? And I said: I do see a seething pot, looking out of the north hitherward. ^{1:14}Then said the LORD unto me: Out of the north shall come a plague upon all the dwellers of the land. ^{1:15}For lo, I will call all the officers of the kingdoms of the north (sayeth the LORD) And they shall come, and every one shall set his seat in the gates of Jerusalem, and in all their walls round about and throw all the cities of Judah. ^{1:16}And throw them shall I declare my judgment, upon all the wickedness of those men that have forsaken me: that have offered unto strange gods, and worshipped the works of their own hands. ^{1:17}And therefore gird up thy loins, arise, and tell them all, that I give thee in commandment. Fear them not, I will not have thee to be afraid of them. ^{1:18}For behold, this day do I make thee a strong fenced town, an iron pillar, and a wall of steel against the whole land, against the kings and mighty men of Judah, against the priests and people of the land. ^{1:19}They shall fight against thee, but they shall not be able to overcome thee: for I am with thee, to deliver thee, sayeth the LORD. ^{2:1}Moreover, the word of the LORD commanded me thus: ^{2:2}Go thy way, cry in the ears of Jerusalem, and say: Thus sayeth the LORD: I remember thee for the kindness of thy youth, and because of thy steadfast love: in that thou followedst me thorow the wilderness, in an untilled land. ^{2:3}Thou Israel wast hallowed unto the LORD, and so was his firstfruits. All they that devoured Israel, offended: misfortune fell upon them, sayeth the LORD. ^{2:4}Hear therefore the word of the LORD, O thou house of Jacob, and all the generation of the house of Israel. ^{2:5}Thus sayeth the LORD unto you. What unfaithfulness found your fathers in me, that they went so far away from me, falling to lightness, and being so vain? ^{2:6}They thought not in their hearts: Where have we left the LORD, that brought us out of the land of Egypt, that led us thorow the wilderness, thorow a desert and rough land, thorow a dry and deadly land, yea a land that no man had gone thorow, and wherein no man had dwelt. ^{2:7}And when I had brought you into a pleasant well builded land, that ye might enjoy the fruits and all the commodities of the same: ye went forth and defiled my land, and brought mine heritage to abomination. ^{2:8}The priests themselves said not once: Where is the LORD? They that have the law in their hands, know me not: The shepherds offend against me. The Prophets do service unto Baal, and follow such things as shall bring them no profit. ^{2:9}Wherefore I am constrained (sayeth the LORD) to make my complaint upon you, and upon your children. ^{2:10}Go into the Isles of Cethim, and look well: and send unto Cedar, take diligent heed: and see, whether such things be done there, ^{2:11}whether the Gentiles themselves deal so falsely and untruly with their gods, (which yet are no gods in deed) But my people hath given over their high honour, for a thing that may not help them. ^{2:12}Be astonished (O ye heavens) be afraid, and abashed at such a thing, sayeth the LORD. ^{2:13}For my people hath done two evils. They have forsaken me the well of the water of life, and digged them pits, yea vile and broken pits, that hold no water. ^{2:14}Is Israel a bond servant, or one of the household? Why is he then so spoiled? ^{2:15}Why do they roar and cry then upon him, as a lion? They have made his land waste, his cities are so brent up, that there is no man dwelling in them. ^{2:16}Yea the children of Noph and Taphnes have defiled thy neck. ^{2:17}Cometh not this unto thee, because thou hast forsaken the LORD thy God, ever since he led thee by the way? ^{2:18}And what hast thou now to do in the street of Egypt? to drink foul water? Either, what makest thou in the way to Assiria? To drink water of the flood? ^{2:19}Thine own wickedness shall reprove thee, and thy turning away shall condemn thee: that thou mayest know and understand, how evil and hurtful a thing it is, that thou hast forsaken the LORD thy God, and not feared him, sayeth the Lord GOD^b of Hosts. ^{2:20}I have ever broken thy yoke of old, and bursten thy bonds: yet sayest thou, I will no more serve, but (like an harlot) thou runnest about upon all high hills, ^{2:21}and among all green trees where as I planted thee out of noble grapes and good roots. How art thou turned then into a bitter, unfruitful, and strange grape? ^{2:22}Yea and that so sore: that though thou washest thee with Nitrus and makest thyself to savour with that sweet smelling herb of Borith: yet in my sight thou art stained with thy wickedness, sayeth the Lord^c thy GOD. ^{2:23}Say not now: I am not unclean, and I have not followed the gods. Look upon thy own ways in the woods, valleys and dens: so shalt thou know, what thou hast done. Thou art like a swift Dromedary, that goeth easily his way: ^{2:24}and thy wantonness is like a wild Ass, that useth the wilderness, and that snuffeth and bloweth at his will. Who can tame thee? All they that seek thee, shall not fail, but find thee in thy own uncleanness. ^{2:25}Thou keepest thy foot from nakedness, and thy throat from thirst, and thinkest thus in thyself: tush: I will take no sorrow, I will love the strange gods, and hang upon them. ^{2:26}Like as a thief that is taken with the deed cometh to shame, even so is the house of Israel come to confusion: the common people, their kings and rulers, their priests and prophets. ^{2:27}For they say to a stock, thou art my father, and to a stone: thou hast begotten me, yea they have turned their back upon me, and not their face. But in the time of their trouble, when they say: stand up, and help us, ^{2:28}I shall answer them: Where are now thy gods, that thou hast made thee? bid them stand up, and help thee in the time of need? For look how many cities thou hast (O Judah) so many gods hast thou also. ^{2:29}Wherefore then will ye go to law with me, seeing ye all are sinners against me? sayeth the LORD. ^{2:30}It is but lost labour, that I smite your children, for they receive not my correction. Your own sword destroyeth your prophets, like a devouring lion. ^{2:31}If ye be the people of the LORD, then hearken unto his word: Am I then become a wilderness unto the people of Israel? or a land that hath no light? Wherefore sayeth my people then: we are fallen off, and we will come no more unto thee? ^{2:32}Doth a maiden forget her raiment, or a bride her stomacher? And doth my people forget me so long? ^{2:33}Why boastest^d thou thy ways so highly (to obtain favour there thorow) when thou hast yet stained them with blasphemies? ^{2:34}Upon thy wings is found the blood of poor and innocent people, and that not in corners and holes only, but openly in all these places. ^{2:35}Yet darest thou say: I am guiltless: Tush, his wrath can not come upon me. Behold, I will reason with thee because thou darest say: I have not offended. ^{2:36}O how evil will it be for thee, to abide it: when it shall be known, how oft thou hast gone backward? For thou shalt be confounded, as well of Egypt, as of the Assirians: ^{2:37}Yea thou shalt go thy way from them, and smite thine hands together upon thy head. Because the LORD shall bring that confidence and hope of thine to naught, and thou shalt not prosper with all. ^{3:1}Commonly, when a man putteth away his wife, and she goeth from him, and marrieth with another, then the question is: should he resort unto her any more after that? Is not this field then defiled and unclean? But as for thee, thou hast played the harlot with many lovers, yet turn again to me, sayeth the LORD. ^{3:2}Lift up thine eyes on every side, and look, if thou be not defiled. Thou hast waited for them in the streets, and as a murderer in the wilderness; thorow thy whoredoms and shameful blasphemies, is the land defiled. ^{3:3}This is the cause, that the rain and evening dew hath ceased. Thou hast gotten thee an whore's forehead, and canst not be ashamed. ^{3:4}Else wouldest thou say unto me: O my father, thou art he that hast brought me up, and led me from my youth: ^{3:5}Wilt thou then put me away and cast me off for ever? Or wilt thou withdraw thyself clean from me? Nevertheless, thou speakest such words, but thou art ever doing worse and worse. ^{3:6}The LORD said also unto me: in the time of Josiah the king: Hast thou seen what that shrinking Israel hath done? how she hath run up upon all high hills, and among all thick trees, and there played the harlot: ^{3:7}hast thou seen also (when she had done all this) how I said unto her: that she should turn again unto me, and yet she is not returned? Judah that unfaithful sister of hers also saw this: ^{3:8}Namely, that after I had well seen the advoury of the shrinking harlot Israel, I put her away, and gave her a bill of divorcement. For all this, her unfaithful sister Judah was not ashamed, but went back and played the whore also. ^{3:9}Yea and the noise of her whoredom hath defiled the whole land. For she hath committed her advoury with stones and stocks. ^{3:10}Nevertheless, her unfaithful sister Judah is not turned unto me again with her whole heart, but feignedly, sayeth the LORD. ^{3:11}And the LORD said unto me. The backslider Israel is more righteous, than the unfaithful Judah: ^{3:12}and therefore go preach these words toward the north, and say: Thou shrinking Israel, turn again (sayeth the LORD) and I will not turn my face from you, for I am merciful, sayeth the LORD, and I will not alway bear displeasure against thee: ^{3:13}but on this condition, that thou know thy great blasphemy: Namely, that thou hast unfaithfully forsaken the LORD thy God, and hast made thyself partaker of strange gods under all green trees, but hast had no will to hear my voice, sayeth the LORD. ^{3:14}O ye shrinking children, turn again, sayeth the LORD: and I will be married with you. For I will take one out of the city, and two out of one generation from among you, and bring you out of Sion: ^{3:15}and I will give you herdmen after mine own mind, which shall feed you with learning and wisdom. ^{3:16}Moreover, when ye be increased and multiplied in the land, then (sayeth the LORD) there shall no more boost be made of the ark of the LORD's Testament: No man shall think upon it, neither shall any man make mention of it: for from thence forth it shall neither be visited, nor honoured with gifts. ^{3:17}Then shall Jerusalem be called the LORD's seat, and all Heathen shall be gathered unto it, for the name of the LORD's sake, which shall be set up at Jerusalem. And from that time forth, they shall follow no more the imagination of their own froward heart. ^{3:18}Then those that be of the house of Judah shall go into the house of Israel: and they shall come together out of the North, into the same land that I have given your fathers. ^{3:19}I have shewed also, how I took thee up being but a child, and gave thee a pleasant land for thine heritage, yea and a goodly Hosts of the Heathen: and how I commanded thee, that thou shouldest call me father only, and not to shrink from me. ^{3:20}But like as a woman faileth her lover, so are ye unfaithful unto me (O ye house of Israel) sayeth the LORD. ^{3:21}And therefore the voice of the children of Israel was heard on every side, weeping and wailing: for they have defiled their way, and forgotten God their LORD. ^{3:22}O ye shrinking children, turn again (saying: lo, we are thine, for thou art the LORD our God:) And so shall I heal your backturnings. ^{3:23}The hills fall, and all the high pride of the mountains, but the health of Israel standeth only upon God our LORD. ^{3:24}Confusion hath devoured our fathers' labour from our youth up: yea their sheep and bullocks, their sons and daughters. ^{3:25}So do we also sleep in our confusion, and shame covereth us: for we and our fathers from our youth up unto this day have sinned against the LORD our God, and have not obeyed the voice of the LORD our God. ^{4:1}O Israel, if thou wilt turn thee, then turn unto me, sayeth the LORD. And if thou wilt put away thine abominations out of my sight, thou shalt not be moved: ^{4:2}And shalt swear: The LORD liveth: in truth, in equity and righteousness: and all people shall be fortunate and joyful in him. ^{4:3}For thus sayeth the LORD, to all Judah and Jerusalem: plow your land, and sow not among the thorns. ^{4:4}Be circumcised in the LORD, and cut away the foreskins of your heart, all ye of Judah, and all the indwellers of Jerusalem: that my indignation break not out like fire and kindle, so that no man may quench it, because of the wickedness of your imaginations. ^{4:5}Preach in Judah and Jerusalem, cry out and speak: Blow the trumpets in the land, cry that every man may hear, and say: Gather you together, and we will go into strong cities. ^{4:6}Set up the token in Sion, speed you, and make no tarrying: for I will bring a great plague, and a great destruction from the north. ^{4:7}For the spoiler of the Gentiles is broken up from his place, as a lion out of his den, that he may make the land waste, and destroy the cities, so that no man may dwell therein. ^{4:8}Wherefore gird yourselves about with sackcloth, mourn, and weep, for the fearful wrath of the LORD shall not be withdrawn from you. ^{4:9}At the same time (sayeth the LORD) the heart of the kings and of the princes shall be gone, the priests shall be astonied, and the prophets shall be sore afraid. ^{4:10}Then said I, O Lord GOD,^e hast thou then deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying: Ye shall have peace, and now the sword goeth thorow their lives? ^{4:11}Then shall it be said to the people and to Jerusalem: there cometh a warm wind from the north thorow the way of my people, but neither to fan, nor to cleanse. ^{4:12}After that shall there come unto me a strong wind, and then will I also give sentence upon them. ^{4:13}For lo, he cometh down like as a cloud, and his chariots are like a stormy wind: his horsemen are swifter than the Aegle. Woe unto us, for we are destroyed. ^{4:14}O Jerusalem, wash thine heart from wickedness, that thou mayest be helped. How long shall thy noisesome thoughts remain with thee? ^{4:15}For a voice from Dan and from the hill of Ephraim speaketh out, and telleth of a destruction. ^{4:16}Behold the Heathen give Jerusalem warning, and preach unto her, that her destroyers are coming from far countries. They tell the cities of Juda the same also, ^{4:17}they shall give them warning in every place, like as the watchmen in the field. For they have provoked me to wrath, sayeth the LORD.

^{4:18}Thy ways and thy thoughts, have brought thee unto this, this is thy own wickedness and disobedience, that hath possessed thine heart: ^{4:19}Ah my belly; Ah my belly (shalt thou cry) how is my heart so sore? my heart panteth within me, I can not be still, for I have heard the crying of the trumpets, and peals of war. ^{4:20}They cry murder upon murder, the whole land shall perish. Immediately my tents were destroyed, and my hangings, in the twinkling of an eye. ^{4:21}How long shall I see the tokens of war, and hear the noise of the trumpets. ^{4:22}Nevertheless this shall come upon them because my people is become foolish, and hath utterly no understanding. They are the children of foolishness, and without any discretion. To do evil, they have wit enough: but to do well, they have no wisdom. ^{4:23}I have looked upon the earth, and see, it is waste and void. I looked toward heaven, and it had no shine. ^{4:24}I beheld the mountains, and they tremble, and all the hills were in a fear. ^{4:25}I looked about me, and there was nobody, and all the birds of the air were away. ^{4:26}I marked well, and the plowed field was become waste: yea all their cities were broken down at the presence of the LORD, and indignation of his wrath. ^{4:27}For thus hath the LORD said: The whole land shall be desolate, yet will I not then have done. ^{4:28}And therefore let the earth mourn, and let the heaven be sorry above: for the things that I have purposed and taken upon me to do, shall not repent me, and I will not go from it. ^{4:29}The whole land shall flee, for the noise of the horsemen and bowmen: they shall run into dens in to woods, and climb up the stony rocks. All the cities shall be void, and no man dwelling therein. ^{4:30}What wilt thou now do, thou being destroyed? For though thou clothest thyself with scarlet, and deckest thee with gold: though thou paintest thy face with colors, yet shalt thou trim thyself in vain. For those that hitherto have been thy great favourers, shall abhor thee, and go about to slay thee. ^{4:31}For (me think) I hear a noise, like as it were of a woman travailing, or one labouring of her first child: Even the voice of the daughter Sion, that casteth out her arms, and sorroweth,^f saying: Ah woe is me, how sore vexed and faint is my heart, for them that are slain? ^{5:1}Look thorow Jerusalem, behold and see: Seek thorow her streets also within, if ye can find one man, that doth equal and right, or that laboureth to be faithful: and I shall spare him (sayeth the LORD) ^{5:2}For though they can say: the LORD liveth, yet do they swear to deceive: ^{5:3}Where as thou (O LORD) lookest only upon faith and truth. Thou hast scourged them, but they took no repentance: thou hast corrected them for amendment, but they refused thy correction. They made their faces harder than stone, and would not amend. ^{5:4}Therefore thought I in myself: peradventure they are so simple and foolish, that they understand nothing of the LORD's way, and judgments of our God. ^{5:5}Therefore will I go unto their heads and rulers, and talk with them: if they know the way of the LORD, and the judgments of our God. But these (in like manner) have broken the yoke, and burst the bonds in sunder. ^{5:6}Wherefore a lion out of the wood shall hurt them, and a wolf in the evening shall destroy them. The cat of the mountain shall lie lurking by their cities, to tare in pieces all them, that come thereout. For their offenses are many, and their departing away is great. ^{5:7}Should I then for all this have mercy upon thee? Thy children have forsaken me, and sworn by them that are no gods. And albeit they were bound to me in marriage, yet they fell to advoutry, and hunted harlots' houses. ^{5:8}In the desire of uncleanly lust they are become like the stoned horse, every man neigheth at his neighbour's wife: ^{5:9}Should I not correct this? sayeth the LORD. Should I not be avenged of every people, that is like unto this? ^{5:10}Climb up upon their walls, beat them down, but destroy them not utterly: cut off their branches because they are not the LORD's. ^{5:11}For unfaithfully hath the house of Israel and Judah forsaken me, sayeth the LORD. ^{5:12}They have denied the LORD, and said: It is not he. Tush, there shall no misfortune come upon us, we shall see neither sword nor hunger. ^{5:13}As for the warning of the Prophets, they take it but for wind, yea there is none of these, which will tell them, that such things shall happen unto them. ^{5:14}Wherefore thus sayeth the LORD God of Hosts: Because ye speak such words, behold: The words that are in thy mouth will I turn to fire, and make the people to be wood, that it may consume them. ^{5:15}Lo, I will bring a people upon you from far, O house of Israel, (sayeth the LORD) a mighty people, an old people, a people whose speech thou knowest not, neither understandest what they say. ^{5:16}Their arrows are sudden death, yea they themselves be very giants. ^{5:17}This people shall eat up thy fruit and thy meat, yea they shall devour thy sons and thy daughters, thy sheep and thy bullocks. They shall eat up thy grapes and figs. As for thy strong and well fenced cities, wherein thou didst trust, they shall destroy them with the sword. ^{5:18}Nevertheless I will not then have done with you, sayeth the LORD. ^{5:19}But if they say: wherefore doth the LORD our God all this unto us? Then answer them: because, that like as ye have forsaken me, and served strange gods in your own land, even so shall ye serve other gods also in a strange land. ^{5:20}Preach this unto the house of Jacob, and cry it out in Judah, and say thus: ^{5:21}Hear this (thou foolish and undiscrete people) ye have eyes, but ye see not: ears have ye, but ye hear not. ^{5:22}Fear ye not me? sayeth the LORD: Are ye not ashamed, to look me in the face? which bind the sea with the sand, so that it can not pass his bounds: for thou it rage, yet can it do nothing, and though the waves thereof do swell, yet may they not go over. ^{5:23}But this people hath a false and an obstinate heart, they are departed and gone away from me. ^{5:24}They think not in their hearts: O let us fear the LORD our God, that giveth us rain, early and late, when need is: which keepeth ever still the harvest for us yearly. ^{5:25}Nevertheless your misdeeds have turned these from you, and your sins have robbed you hereof. ^{5:26}For among my people are found wicked persons, that privily lay snares and wait for me, to take them and destroy them. ^{5:27}And like as a net is full of birds, so are their houses full of that which they have gotten with falsity and deceit. Hereof cometh their great substance and riches, ^{5:28}hereof are they fat and wealthy, and are run away from me with shameful blasphemies. They minister not the law, they make no end of the fatherless cause, they judge not the poor according to equity. ^{5:29}Should I not punish these things? sayeth the LORD: should I not be avenged of all such people, as these be? ^{5:30}Horrible and grievous things are done in the land. ^{5:31}The Prophets teach falsely, and the priests follow them, and my people hath pleasure therein. What will come thereof at the last. ^{6:1}Come out of Jerusalem, ye strong children of Ben Jamin: blow up the trumpets ye Tecuites, set up a token unto Bethcarem, for a plague and a great misery peepeth out from the North. ^{6:2}I will liken the daughter of Sion to a fair and tender woman, and to her shall come the shepherds with their flocks. ^{6:3}Their tents shall they pitch round about her, and every one shall feed them that are under his hand.^g ^{6:4}Make battle against her (shall they say:) Arise, let us go up, while it is yet day. Alas the day goeth away, and the night shadows fall down: ^{6:5}Arise, let us go up by night, and destroy her strongholds, ^{6:6}for thus hath the LORD of Hosts commanded. Hew down her trees, and set up bulwarks against Jerusalem. This is the city that must be punished, for in her is all maliciousness. ^{6:7}Like as a conduit aboundeth in water, even so this city aboundeth in wickedness. Robbery and unrighteousness is heard in her, sorrow and wounds are ever there in my sight. ^{6:8}Amend thee (O Jerusalem) lest I withdraw my heart from thee, and make thee desolate: and thy land also, that no man dwell in it. ^{6:9}For thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: The residue of Israel shall be gathered, as the remanent of grapes. And therefore turn thine hand again into the basket, like the grape gatherer. ^{6:10}But unto whom shall I speak, whom shall I warn, that he may take heed? Their ears are so uncircumcised, that they may not hear. Behold, they take the word of GOD but for a scorn, and have no lust thereto. ^{6:11}And therefore I am so full of thine indignation (o LORD) that I may suffer no longer. Shed out thy wrath upon the children that are without, and upon all young men. Yea the man must be taken prisoner with the wife, and the aged with the cripple. ^{6:12}Their houses with their lands and wives shall be turned unto strangers, when I stretch out mine hand upon the inhabitants of this land, sayeth the LORD. ^{6:13}For from the least unto the most, they hang all upon covetousness: and from the prophet unto the priest, they go all about with falsity and lies. ^{6:14}And beside that, they heal the hurt of my people with sweet words, saying: peace, peace, when there is no peace at all. ^{6:15}Therefore they must be ashamed, for they have committed abomination. But how should they be ashamed, when they know nothing, neither of shame nor good nurture? And therefore they shall fall among the slain, and in the hour when I shall visit them, they shall be brought down, sayeth the LORD. ^{6:16}Thus sayeth the LORD: go into the streets, consider and make inquisition for the old way: and if it be the good and right way: then go therein, that ye may find rest for your souls. But they say: we will not walk therein, ^{6:17}and I will set watchmen over you, and therefore take heed unto the voice of the trumpet. But they say: we will not take heed. ^{6:18}Hear therefore ye Gentiles, and thou congregation shalt know, what I have devised for them. ^{6:19}Hear thou earth also: behold, I will cause a plague come upon this people, even the fruit of their own imaginations. For they have not been obedient unto my words and to my law, but abhorred them. ^{6:20}Wherefore bring ye me incense from Saba, and sweet smelling Calamus from far countries? Your burnt offerings displease me, and I rejoyce not in your sacrifices. ^{6:21}And therefore thus sayeth the LORD: Behold, I will make this people fall, and there shall fall from among them the father with the children, one neighbour shall perish with another. ^{6:22}Moreover thus sayeth the LORD: Behold, there shall come a people from the North, and a great people shall arise from the ends of the earth, ^{6:23}with bows and with darts shall they be weaponed: It is a rough and fierce people, an unmerciful people: their voice roareth like the sea, they ride upon horses well appointed to the battle against thee, O daughter Sion. ^{6:24}Then shall this cry be heard: Our arms are feeble, heaviness and sorrow is come upon us, as upon a woman travailing with child. ^{6:25}No man go forth in to the field, no man come upon the high street: for the sword and fear of the enemy shall be on every side. ^{6:26}Wherefore, gird a sackcloth about thee (O daughter of my people) sprinkle thyself with ashes, mourn and weep bitterly, as upon the only beloved son: for the destroyer shall suddenly fall upon us. ^{6:27}Thee have I set for a prover of my hard people, to seek out and to try their ways. ^{6:28}For they are all unfaithful and fallen away, they hang upon filthy^h lucre,

they are clean brass and iron, for they hurt and destroyed every man. ^{6:29}The bellows are brent in the fire, the lead is consumed, the melter melteth in vain, for the evil is not taken away from them. ^{6:30}Therefore shall they be called naughty silver, because the LORD hath cast them out. ^{7:1}These are the words that GOD spake unto Jeremy: ^{7:2}Stand under the gates of the LORD's house, and cry out these words there, with a loud voice, and say: Hear the word of the LORD all ye of Judah, that go in at this door, to honour the LORD. ^{7:3}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel. Amend your ways and your counsels, and I will let you dwell in this place. ^{7:4}Trust not in false lying words, saying: here is the temple of the LORD, here is the temple of the LORD, here is the temple of the LORD. ^{7:5}For if ye will amend your ways and counsels, if ye will judge right betwixt a man and his neighbour: ^{7:6}If ye will not oppress the stranger, the fatherless and the widow: if ye will not shed innocent blood in this place: if ye will not cleave to strange gods to your own destruction: ^{7:7}then will I let you dwell in this place, yea in the land that I gave afore time unto your fathers for ever. ^{7:8}But take heed, yeⁱ trust in counsels, that beguile you and do you no good. ^{7:9}For when ye have stolen, murdered, committed advoutry, and penury: When ye have offered unto Baal, following strange and unknown gods: ^{7:10}Then come ye, and stand before me in this house, which hath my name given unto it, and say: Tush, we are absolved quite, though we have done all these abominations. ^{7:11}What? Think you this house that beareth my name, is a den of thieves? And these things are not done privily, but before mine eyes, sayeth the LORD. ^{7:12}Go to my place in Siloh, where unto I gave my name afore time, and look well what I did to the same place for the wickedness of my people of Israel. ^{7:13}And now, though ye have done all these deeds (sayeth the LORD) and I myself rose up ever by times to warn you and to commune^j with you, yet would ye not hear me: I called, ye would not answer. ^{7:14}And therefore even as I have done to Siloh, so will I do to this house, that my name is given unto (and that ye put your trust in) yea unto the place that I have given to you and your fathers. ^{7:15}And I shall thrust you out of my sight, as I have cast out all your brethren the whole seed of Ephraim. ^{7:16}Therefore thou shalt not pray for this people, thou shalt neither give thanks, nor bid prayer for them: thou shalt make no intercession to me for them for in no wise will I hear thee. ^{7:17}Seest thou not what they do in the cities of Juda, and without Jerusalem? ^{7:18}The children gather sticks, the fathers kindle the fire, the mothers knead the dough, to make cakes for the queen of heaven. They pour out drink offerings unto strange gods, to provoke me unto wrath: ^{7:19}How be it they hurt not me (sayeth the LORD) but rather confound, and shame themselves. ^{7:20}And therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^k Behold, my wrath and my indignation shall be poured out upon this place, upon men and cattle, upon the trees in the field and all fruit of the land, and it shall burn so, that no man may quench it. ^{7:21}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts, the God of Israel: Yea heap up your burntofferings with your sacrifices, and eat the flesh. ^{7:22}But when I brought your fathers out of Egypt, I spake no word unto them of burntofferings and sacrifices: ^{7:23}but this I commanded them, saying: hearken and obey my voice, and I shall be your God, and ye shall be my people: so that ye walk in all the ways, which I have commanded you, that ye may prosper. ^{7:24}But they were not obedient, they inclined not their ears there unto, but went after their own imaginations and after the motions of their own wicked heart, and so turned themselves away, and converted not unto me. ^{7:25}And this have they done, from the time that your fathers came out of Egypt, unto this day. Nevertheless, I sent unto them my servants all the prophets: I rose up early and sent them word, ^{7:26}yet would they not hearken, nor offer me their ears, but were obstinate and worse than their fathers. ^{7:27}And thou shalt now speak all these words unto them, but they shall not hear thee: thou shalt cry upon them, but they shall not answer thee. ^{7:28}Therefore shalt thou say unto them: this is the people, that neither heareth the voice of the LORD their God, nor receiveth his correction. Faithfulness and truth is clean rooted out of their mouth. ^{7:29}Wherefore cut off thine hair, and cast it away, take up a complaint in the whole land: for the LORD shall cast away, and scatter the people, that he is displeased withal. ^{7:30}For the children of Judah have done evil in my sight, sayeth the LORD. They have set up their abominations, in the house that hath my name, and have defiled it. ^{7:31}They have also builded an altar at Topheth, which is in the valley of the children of Hennom: that they might burn their sons and daughters, which I never commanded them, neither came it ever in my thought. ^{7:32}And therefore behold, the days shall come (sayeth the LORD) that it shall no more be called Topheth, or the valley of the children of Hennom, but the valley of the slain, for in Topheth, they shall be buried, because they shall else have no room. ^{7:33}Yea the dead bodies of this people shall be eaten up of the fowls of the air and the wild beasts of the earth, and no man shall fraie them away. ^{7:34}And as for the voice of mirth and gladness of the cities of Judah, and Jerusalem the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride: I will make them cease, for the land shall be desolate. ^{8:1}At the same time, sayeth the LORD: the bones of the kings of Judah, the bones of his princes, the bones of the priests, and prophets, yea and the bones of the citizens of Jerusalem, shall be brought out of their graves ^{8:2}and laid against the Sun, the Moon and all the heavenly host: whom they loved, whom they served, whom they ran after, whom they sought and worshipped. They shall neither be gathered together nor buried, but shall lie upon the earth, to their shame and despising. ^{8:3}And all they that remain of this wicked generation, shall desire rather to die than to live: wheresoever they remain, and where as I scatter them, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{8:4}This shalt thou say unto them also: Thus sayeth the LORD: Do men fall also, that they arise not up again? And turn they so far away, that they never convert? ^{8:5}Wherefore then is this people and Jerusalem gone so far back, that they turn not again. They are ever the longer the more obstinate, and will not be converted. ^{8:6}For I have looked, and considered: but there is no man that speaketh a good word: there is no man that taketh repentance for his sin, that will so much as say: wherefore have I done this? But every man (as soon as he is turned back) runneth forth still, like a wild horse in a battle. ^{8:7}The Stork knoweth his appointed time, the Turtledove, the Swallow and the Crane consider the time of their travail: but my people will not know the time of the punishment of the LORD. ^{8:8}How dare ye say then: we are wise, we have the law of the LORD among us? Behold, the deceitful pen of the scribes, setteth forth lies: ^{8:9}therefore shall the wise be confounded, they shall be afraid and taken: for lo, they have cast out the word of the LORD: what wisdom can then be among them? ^{8:10}Wherefore, I will give their wives unto aliens, and their fields to destroyers. For from the lowest to the highest,¹ they follow all filthy^m lucre: and from the Prophet unto the priest, they deal all with lies. ^{8:11}Nevertheless, they heal the hurt of my people with sweet words, saying: peace, peace, where there is no peace at all. ^{8:12}Fie for shame, how abominable things do they? and yet they be not ashamed, yea they know of no shame. Wherefore in the time of their visitation, they shall fall among the dead bodies, sayeth the LORD. ^{8:13}Moreover I will gather them in (sayeth the LORD) so that there shall not be one grape upon the vine, neither one fig upon the fig tree, and the leaves shall be plucked off. Then will I cause them to depart, and say: ^{8:14}why prolong we the time? Let us gather ourselves together, and go into the strong city, there shall we be in rest: for the LORD our God hath put us to silence, and given us water mixt with gall, to drink: because we have sinned against him. ^{8:15}We looked for peace, and we fair not the better, we waited for the time of health, and lo, here is nothing but trouble. ^{8:16}Then shall the noise of his horses be heard from Dan, the whole land shall be afraid at the neigh of his strong horses: for they shall go in, and devour the land, with all that is in it: the cities, and those that dwell therein. ^{8:17}Moreover, I will send Cockatrices and serpents among you (which will not be charmed) and they shall bite you, sayeth the LORD. ^{8:18}Sorrow is come upon me, and heaviness vexeth my heart: ^{8:19}for lo, the voice of the crying of my people is heard from a far country: Is not the LORD in Sion? Is not theⁿ king in her? Wherefore then have they grieved me (shall the LORD say) with their images and foolish strange fashions? ^{8:20}The harvest is gone, the Summer hath an end, and we are not helped. ^{8:21}I am sore vexed, because of the hurt of my people: I am heavy and abashed, ^{8:22}for there is no more Tryacle at Galaad, and there is no Physician, that can heal the hurt of my people. ^{9:1}O Who will give my head water enough, and a well of tears for mine eyes: that I may weep night and day, for the slaughter of my people? ^{9:2}Would God that I had a cottage some where far from folk, that I might leave my people, and go from them: for they be all advouters and a shrinking sort. ^{9:3}They bend their tongues like bows, to shoot out lies: As for the truth, they may nothing away with all in the world. For they go from one wickedness to another, and hold nothing of me, sayeth the LORD. ^{9:4}Yea one must keep himself from another, no man may safely trust his own brother: for one brother undermineth another, and one neighbour begileth another. ^{9:5}Yea one dissesembleth with another, and they deal with no truth. They have practiced their tongues to lie, and taken great pains to do mischief. ^{9:6}They have set their stole in the midst of deceit, and for very dissembling falsity they will not know me, sayeth the LORD. ^{9:7}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: behold, I will melt them, and try them, for what should I else do to my people? ^{9:8}Their tongues are like sharp arrows, to speak deceit. With their mouth they speak peaceably to their neighbour, but privily they lay wait for him. ^{9:9}Should I not punish them for these things? sayeth the LORD: Or should I not be avenged of any such people as this? ^{9:10}Upon the mountains will I take up a lamentation and sorrowful cry, and a mourning upon the fair plains of the wilderness: Namely, how they are so brent up, that no man goeth there any more: Yea a man shall not hear one beast cry there. Birds and cattle are all gone from thence. ^{9:11}I will make Jerusalem also an heap of stones, and a den of venomous worms. And I will make the cities of Judah so waste, that no man shall dwell therein. ^{9:12}What man is so wise, as to understand this? Or to whom hath the LORD spoken by mouth, that he may shew this, and say: O thou land, why perishest thou so? Wherefore art thou so brent up, and like a wilderness, that no man goeth thorow? ^{9:13}Yea the LORD himself told the same unto them, that forsook his law, and kept not the thing that he gave them in commandment, neither lived thereafter: ^{9:14}but followed the wickedness of their own hearts, and served strange gods, as their fathers taught them. ^{9:15}Therefore, thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I will feed this people with wormwood, and give them gall to drink. ^{9:16}I will scatter them also among the heathen, whom neither they nor their fathers have known: and I will send a sword among them, to persecute them, until I bring them to naught. ^{9:17}Moreover, thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: look that ye call for mourning wives, and send for wise women: that they come shortly, ^{9:18}and sing a mourning song of you: that the tears may fall out of our eyes, and that our eye lids may gush out of water. ^{9:19}For there is a lamentable noise heard of Sion: O how are we so sore destroyed? O how are we so piteously confounded? We must forsake our own natural country, and we are shot out of our own lodgings. ^{9:20}Yet hear the word of the LORD (O ye women) and let your ears regard the words of his mouth: that ye may learn your daughters to mourn, and that every one may teach her neighbour, to make lamentation. ^{9:21}Namely thus: Death is climbing up in at our windows, he is come into our houses, to destroy the child before the door, and the young man in the street. ^{9:22}But tell thou plainly, thus sayeth the LORD: The dead bodies of men shall lie upon the ground, as the dung upon the field, and as the hay after the mower, and there shall be no man to take them up. ^{9:23}Moreover, thus sayeth the LORD: Let not the wise man rejoice in his wisdom, nor the strong man in his strength, neither the rich man in his riches: ^{9:24}But who so will rejoice, let him rejoice in this, that he understandeth, and knoweth me: for I am the LORD, which do mercy, equity and righteousness upon the earth. Therefore have I pleasure in such things, sayeth the LORD. ^{9:25}Behold, the time cometh, (sayeth the LORD) that I will visit all them, whose foreskin is uncircumcised. ^{9:26}The Egyptians, the Jews, the Edomites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, and the shaven Madianites, that dwell in the wilderness. For all the Gentiles are uncircumcised in the flesh, but all the house of Israel are uncircumcised in the heart. ^{10:1}Hear the word of the LORD, that he speaketh unto thee, O thou house of Israel: ^{10:2}Thus sayeth the LORD: Ye shall not learn after the manner of the Heathen, and ye shall not be afraid for the tokens of heaven: for the Heathen are afraid of such: ^{10:3}Yea all the customs and laws of the Gentiles are nothing, but vanity. They hew down a tree in the wood with the hands of the workman, and fashion it with the axe: ^{10:4}they cover it over with gold or silver, they fasten it with nails^o and hammers, that it move not. ^{10:5}It standeth as still as the palm tree, it can neither speak nor go, but must be borne. Be not ye afraid of such, for they can do neither good nor evil. ^{10:6}But there is none like unto thee, O LORD, thou art great, and great is the name of thy power. ^{10:7}Who would not fear thee? Or what King of the Gentiles would not obey thee? For among all the wise men of the Gentiles, and in all their kingdoms, there is none that may be likened unto thee. ^{10:8}They are all together unlearned and unwise. All their cunning is but vanity: ^{10:9}namely, wood, silver, which is brought out of Tharsis, and beaten to plates: and gold from Ophir, a work that is made with the hand of the craftsman and the caster, clothed with yellow silk and scarlet: even so is the work of their wise men altogether. ^{10:10}But the LORD is a true God, a living God, and an everlasting king. If he be wroth, the earth shaketh: all the Gentiles may not abide his indignation. ^{10:11}As for their gods, it may well be said of them: they are gods, that made neither heaven nor earth: therefore shall they perish from the earth, and from all things under heaven. ^{10:12}But (as for our God) he made the earth with his power, and with his wisdom hath he finished the whole compass of the world, with his discretion hath he spread out the heavens. ^{10:13}At his voice the waters gather together in the air, he draweth up the clouds from the utmost parts of the earth: he turneth lightning to rain, and bringeth forth the winds out of their treasures: ^{10:14}His wisdom maketh all men fools. And confounded be all casters of images, for that they cast, is but a vain thing, and hath no life. ^{10:15}The vain craftsmen with their works, that they in their vanity hath made, shall perish one with another in the time of visitation. ^{10:16}Nevertheless, Jacobs portion is not such: but it is he, that hath made all things, and Israel is the rod of his inheritance: The LORD of Hosts is his name. ^{10:17}Put away thine uncleanness out of the land, thou that art in the strong cities. ^{10:18}For thus sayeth the LORD: Behold, I will now thrust out the inhabitants of this land a great way off, and trouble them of such a fashion, that they shall no more be found. ^{10:19}Alas how am I hurt? Alas, how painful are my scourges unto me? For I consider this sorrow by myself, and I must suffer it. ^{10:20}My tabernacle is destroyed, and all my coards are broken. My children are gone from me, and can no where be found. Now have I none to spread out my tent, or to set up my hangings. ^{10:21}For the herdmen have done foolishly, that they have not sought the LORD. Therefore have they dealt unwisely with their cattle, and all are scattered abroad. ^{10:22}Behold, the noise is hard at hand, and great sedition out of the north: to make the cities of Juda a wilderness, and a dwelling place for dragons. ^{10:23}Now I know (O LORD) that it is not in man's power to order his own ways, or to rule his own steps and goings. ^{10:24}Therefore chasten thou us, O LORD, but with favour and not in thy wrath, bring us not utterly to naught. ^{10:25}Pour out thine indignation rather upon the Gentiles, that know thee not, and upon the people that call not on thy name: And that because they have consumed, devoured and destroyed Jacob, and have rooted out his glory. ^{11:1}This is another Sermon, which the LORD commanded Jeremy for to preach, saying: ^{11:2}Hear the words of the covenant, and speak unto all Judah, and to all them that dwell at Jerusalem. ^{11:3}And say thou unto them: Thus sayeth the LORD God of Israel: Cursed be every one that is not obedient unto the words of this covenant: ^{11:4}which I commanded unto your fathers, what time as I brought them out of Egypt, from the iron furnace, saying: Be obedient unto my voice, and do according to all that I commanded you: so shall ye be my people, and I will be your God, ^{11:5}and will keep my promise, that I have sworn unto your fathers: Namely, that I would give them a land which floweth with milk and honey, as ye see, it is come to pass unto this day. Then answered I, and said: Amen. It is even so O LORD, as thou sayest. ^{11:6}Then the LORD said unto me again: preach this in the cities of Juda and round about Jerusalem, and say: Hear the words of this covenant, that ye may keep them. ^{11:7}For I have diligently exhorted your fathers, ever since the time that I brought them out of the Land of Egypt unto this day. I gave them warning by times, saying: hearken unto my voice: ^{11:8}Nevertheless, they would not obey me, nor inclined their ears unto me, but followed the wicked imaginations of their own hearts. And therefore have I accused them as transgressors of all the words of this covenant, that I gave them to keep, which they (not with understanding) have not kept. ^{11:9}And the LORD said unto me: It is found out, that whole Israel and all these citizens of Jerusalem are gone back. ^{11:10}They have turned themselves to the blasphemies of their forefathers, which had no lust to hear my word. Even likewise have these also followed strange gods, and worshiped them. The house of Israel and Juda have broken my covenant, which I made with their fathers. ^{11:11}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD: Behold, I will send a plague among you, which ye shall not be able to escape: and though ye cry unto me, I will not hear you. ^{11:12}Then shall the towns of Judah and the citizens of Jerusalem go, and call upon their gods, unto whom they made their oblations: but they are not able to help them in time of their trouble. ^{11:13}For as many cities as thou hast, O Judah, so many gods hast thou also: And look how many streets there be in thee (O Jerusalem) so many shameful altars have ye set up, to offer upon them unto Baal. ^{11:14}But pray not thou for this people, bid neither praise nor prayer for them, for though they cry unto me in their trouble, yet will I not hear them. ^{11:15}O thou beloved, why doest thou so shameful great blasphemies in my house? even as though that holy flesh might absolve thee, specially when thou hast made thy boast^p of thy wickedness. ^{11:16}The LORD called thee a green olive tree, a fair one, a fruitful one, a goodly one: but now that there is a contrary report of thee abroad, he will burn thee up, and destroy thy branches. ^{11:17}For the LORD of Hosts that planted thee hath devised a plague for thee (O thou house of Israel and Judah) for the evil that ye have done to provoke him to wrath, in that ye did service unto Baal. ^{11:18}This (O LORD) have I learned of thee, and understand it, for thou hast shewed me their imaginations. ^{11:19}But I (as a meek lamb) was carried away to be slain: not knowing, that they had devised such a counsel against me saying: We will destroy his meat with wood, and drive him out of the land of the living: that his name shall never be thought upon. ^{11:20}Therefore I will beseech thee now (O LORD of Hosts) thou righteous judge, thou that tryest the reins and the hearts: let me see the avenged of them, for unto thee have I committed my cause. ^{11:21}The LORD therefore spake thus of the citizens of Anathoth, that sought to slay me, saying: Preach not unto us in the name of the LORD, or else thou shalt die of our hands. ^{11:22}Thus (I say) spake the LORD of Hosts: Behold, I will visit you. Your young men shall perish with the sword, your sons and your daughters shall utterly die of hunger, ^{11:23}so that none shall remain. For upon the citizens of Anathoth will I bring a plague, and the year of their visitation. ^{12:1}O LORD,^q thou art more righteous, than that I should dispute with thee: Nevertheless, let me talk with thee in things reasonable. How happeneth it, that the way of the ungodly is so prosperous? and that it goeth so well with them, which (without any shame) offend and live in wickedness? ^{12:2}Thou plantest them, they take root, they grow, and bring forth fruit. They boast much of thee, yet doest thou not punish them. ^{12:3}But thou LORD (to whom I am well known) thou that hast seen, and proved my heart, take them away, like as a flock is carried to the slaughter house, and appoint them for the day of slaughter. ^{12:4}How long shall the land mourn, and all the herbs of the field perish, for the wickedness of them that dwell therein? The cattle and the birds are gone, yet say they: tush, God will not destroy us utterly. ^{12:5}Seeing thou art weary in running with the footmen, how wilt thou then run with the horses? In a peaceable sure land thou mayest be safe, but how wilt thou do in the furious pride of Jordan? ^{12:6}For thy brethren and thy kindred have all together despised thee, and cried out upon thee in thine absence. Believe them not, though they speak fair words to thee. ^{12:7}As for me (say I) I have forsaken mine own dwelling place, and left mine heritage. My life also that I love so well, have I given into the hands of mine enemies. ^{12:8}Mine heritage is become unto me, as a Lion in the wood. It cried out upon me, therefore have I forsaken it. ^{12:9}Mine heritage is unto me, as a speckled bird, a bird of divers colors is upon it. Go hence, and gather all the beasts of the field together, that they may eat it up. ^{12:10}Divers herdmen have broken down my vineyard, and trodden upon my portion. Of my pleasant portion, they have made a wilderness and desert. ^{12:11}They have laid it waste: and now that it is waste, it sigheth unto me. Yea the whole land lieth waste, and no man regardeth it. ^{12:12}The destroyers come over the heeth every way, for the sword of the LORD shall consume from the one end of the land to the other, and no flesh shall have rest. ^{12:13}They shall sow wheat, and reap thorns. They shall take heritage in possession, but it shall do them no good. And ye shall be confounded of your own winnings, because of the great wrath of the LORD. ^{12:14}Thus sayeth the LORD upon all mine evil neighbours, that lay hand on mine heritage, which I have given my people of Israel: Behold, I will pluck them (namely Israel) out of their land, and put out the house of Juda from among them. ^{12:15}And when I have rooted them out, I will be at one with them again, and will have mercy upon them: and bring them again, every man to his own heritage, and in to his land. ^{12:16}And if they (namely that trouble my people) will learn the ways of them, to swear by my name: The LORD liveth (like as they learned my people to swear by Baal) then shall they be reckoned among my people. ^{12:17}But if they will not obey, then will I root out the same folk, and destroy them, sayeth the LORD. ^{13:1}Moreover, thus said the LORD unto me: go thy way, and get thee a linen breech, and gird it about thy loins, and let it not be wet. ^{13:2}Then I got me a breech, according to the commandment of the LORD, and put it about my loins. ^{13:3}After this, the LORD spake unto me again: ^{13:4}Take the breech that thou hast prepared and put it about thee, and get thee up, and go unto Euphrates, and hide it in a hole of the rock.

^{13:5}So went I, and hid it, as the LORD commanded me. ^{13:6}And it happened long after this, that the LORD spake unto me: Up, and get thee to Euphrates, and fet the breech from thence, which I commanded thee to hide there. ^{13:7}Then went I to Euphrates, and digged up, and took the breech from the place where I had hid it: and, behold, the breech was corrupt, so that it was profitable for nothing. ^{13:8}Then said the LORD unto me: ^{13:9}Thus sayeth the LORD: Even so will I corrupt the pride of Judah, and the high mind of Jerusalem. ^{13:10}This people is a wicked people, they will not hear my word, they follow the wicked imaginations of their own heart, and hang upon strange gods, them have they served and worshiped: and therefore they shall be as this breech, that serveth for nothing. ^{13:11}For as straightly as a breech lieth upon a man's loins, so straightly did I bind the whole house of Israel, and the whole house of Juda unto me, sayeth the LORD: that they might be my people: that they might have a glorious name: that they might be in honour: but they would not obey me. ^{13:12}Therefore lay this riddle before them, and say: Thus sayeth the LORD God of Israel: Every pot shall be filled with wine. And they shall say: thinkest thou we know not, that every pot shall be filled with wine? ^{13:13}Then shalt thou say unto them: Thus sayeth the LORD: Behold, I shall fill all the inhabitants of this land with drunkenness, the kings that sit upon David's stool, the Priests and Prophets, with all that dwell at Jerusalem. ^{13:14}And I will shoot^r them one against another, yea the fathers against the sons, sayeth the LORD. I will not pardon them, I will not spare them, nor have pity upon them: but destroy them. ^{13:15}Be obedient, give ear, take no disdain at it, for it is the LORD himself that speaketh. ^{13:16}Honour the LORD your God herein, or he take his light from you, and or ever your feet stumble in darkness at the hill: lest when ye look for the light, he turn it into the shadow and darkness of death. ^{13:17}But if ye will not hear me, that give you secret warning, I will mourn from my whole heart for your stubbornness. Piteously will I weep, and the tears shall gush out of mine eyes. For the LORD's flock shall be carried away captive. ^{13:18}Tell the king and the rulers: Humble yourselves, set you down low, for the crown of your glory shall fall from your head. ^{13:19}The cities toward the south shall be shut up, and no man shall open them. All Juda shall be carried away captive, so that none shall remain. ^{13:20}Lift up your eyes, and behold them, that come from the North: Like a fat flock shall they fall upon thee. ^{13:21}To whom wilt thou make thy moan, when they come upon thee? for thou hast taught them thy self, and made them masters over thee. Shall not sorrow come upon thee, as on a woman travailing with child? ^{13:22}And if thou wouldest say then in thine heart: Wherefore come these things upon me? Even for the multitude of thy blasphemies, shall thy hinder parts and thy feet be discovered. ^{13:23}For like as the man of Inde may change his skin, and the cat of the mountains her spots: so may ye that be exercised in evil, do good. ^{13:24}Therefore will I scatter you, like as the stubble that is taken away with the south wind. ^{13:25}This shall be your portion, and the portion of your measure, where with ye shall be rewarded of me, sayeth the LORD: because ye have forgotten me, and put your trust in deceitful things. ^{13:26}Therefore shall I turn thy clothes over thy head, and discover thy thighs, that thy privates^s may be seen, ^{13:27}thy advoutry, thy deadly malice, thy beastliness, and thy shameful whoredom. For upon the fields and hills I have seen thy abominations. Woe be unto thee (O Jerusalem) when wilt thou ever be cleansed any more? ^{14:1}The word of the LORD shewed unto Jeremy, concerning the dearth of the fruits. ^{14:2}Judah shall mourn, men shall not go much more throw his gates: the land shall be no more had in reputation, and the cry of Jerusalem shall break out. ^{14:3}The lords shall send their servants to fetch water, and when they come to the wells, they shall find no water, but shall carry their vessels home empty. They shall be ashamed and confounded, and shall cover their heads. ^{14:4}For the ground shall be dried up, because there cometh no rain upon it. The plowmen also shall be ashamed, and shall cover their heads. ^{14:5}The Hind shall forsake the young fawn, that he bringeth forth in the field because there shall be no grass. ^{14:6}The wild Asses shall stand in the Moss, and draw in their wind like the Dragons, their eyes shall fail for want of grass. ^{14:7}Doubtless our own wickedness reward us: But LORD do thou according to thy name, though our transgressions and sins be many. ^{14:8}For thou art the comfort and help of Israel in the time of trouble. Why wilt thou be as a stranger in the Land, and as one that goeth over the field, and cometh in only to remain for a night? ^{14:9}Why wilt thou make thyself a coward, and as it were a giant that yet may not help? For thou art ours (O LORD) and we bear thy name, therefore forsake us not. ^{14:10}Then spake the LORD, concerning this people that have pleasure to go so nimbly with their feet, and leave not off, and therefore displease the LORD: in so much, that he will now bring again to remembrance all their misdeeds, and punish all their sins. ^{14:11}Yea even thus said the LORD unto me: Thou shalt not pray to do this people good. ^{14:12}For though they fast, I will not hear their prayers. And though they offer burnt offerings and sacrifices, yet will not I accept them. For I will destroy them with the sword, hunger, and pestilence. ^{14:13}Then answered I: O Lord GOD,^t the prophets say unto them: Tush, ye shall see no sword, and no hunger shall come upon you, but the Lord^u shall give you continual rest in this place. ^{14:14}And the LORD said unto me: The prophets preach lies unto them in my name. I have not spoken with them, neither gave I them any charge, neither did I send them: yet they preach unto you false visions, charming vanity, and deceitfulness of their own heart. ^{14:15}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD: As for those prophets that preach in my name, (whom I nevertheless have not sent) and that say: Tush, there shall neither battle, nor hunger be in this land: With sword and with hunger shall those prophets perish, ^{14:16}and the people to whom they have preached shall be cast out of Jerusalem, die of hunger, and be slain with the sword (and there shall be no man to bury them) both they and their wives, their sons and their daughters. For thus will I pour their wickedness upon them. ^{14:17}This shalt thou say also unto them: Mine eyes shall weep without ceasing day and night. For my people shall be destroyed with great harm, and shall perish with a great plague.

^{14:18}For if I go into the field, lo, it lieth all full of slain men: If I come into the city, lo, they be all famished of hunger. Yea their prophets also and priests shall be lead in to an unknown land. ^{14:19}Hast thou then utterly forsaken Juda? (said I) Doest thou so abhor Sion? Or hast thou so plagued us, that we can be healed no more? We looked for peace, and there cometh no good: for the time of health, and lo, here is nothing but trouble. ^{14:20}We knowledge (O LORD) all our misdeeds, and the sins of our fathers, that we have offended thee. ^{14:21}Be not displeased, O LORD, for thy name's sake, forget not thy loving-kindness: Remember the throne of thine honour, break not the covenant, that thou hast made with us. ^{14:22}Are there any among the gods of the Gentiles, that send rain or give the showers of heaven? Dost not thou it O LORD our God, in whom we trust? Yea LORD, thou dost all these things. ^{15:1}Then spake the LORD unto me, and said: Though Moses and Samuel stood before me, yet have I no heart to this people. Drive them away, that they may go out of my sight. ^{15:2}And if they say unto thee: Whither shall we go? Then tell them: The LORD giveth you this answer: Some unto death, some to the sword, some to hunger, some into captivity. ^{15:3}For I will bring four plagues upon them sayeth the LORD. The sword shall strangle them, the dogs shall devour them, the fowls of the air, and beasts of the earth shall eat them up, and destroy them. ^{15:4}I will scatter them about also in all kingdoms and lands to be plagued, because of Manasseh the son of Hezekiah king of Juda, for the things that he did in Jerusalem. ^{15:5}Who shall then have pity upon thee, O Jerusalem? Who shall be sorry for thee? Or who shall make intercession, to obtain peace for thee? ^{15:6}seeing thou goest from me, and turnest backward? sayeth the LORD: Therefore I will stretch out mine hand against thee, to destroy thee, and I will not be intreated. ^{15:7}I will scatter thee abroad with the fan on every side of the land: I will waste my people and destroy them, for they have had no lust to turn from their own ways. ^{15:8}I will make their widows more in number, than the sands of the sea. Upon the mothers of their children, I shall bring a destroyer in the noon day. Suddenly and unawares, shall I send a fear upon their cities. ^{15:9}She that hath born seven children, shall have none, her heart shall be full of sorrow. The Sun shall fail her in the clear day, when she shall be confounded and faint for very heaviness. As for those that remain, I will deliver them unto the sword of their enemies, sayeth the LORD. ^{15:10}O mother, alas that ever thou didst bear me, an enemy and hated of the whole land: Though I never lent nor received upon usury, yet all^v men speak evil upon me. ^{15:11}And the LORD answered me: Lead not I thee then unto good? Come not I to thee, when thou art in trouble: and help thee, when thine enemy oppresseth thee? ^{15:12}Doth one iron hurt another, or one metal that cometh from the North, another? ^{15:13}As for your riches and treasure, I will give them out in to a pray, not for any money, but because of all your sins, that ye have done in all your coasts. ^{15:14}And I will bring you with your enemies in to a land, that ye know not: for the fire that is kindled in my indignation, shall burn you up. ^{15:15}O LORD (said I then) thou knowest all things, therefore remember me, and visit me, deliver me from my persecutors: Receive not my cause in thy long wrath, yet thou knowest, that for thy sake I suffer rebuke. ^{15:16}When I had found thy words, I ate them up greedily: they have made my heart joyful and glad for I call upon thy name, O LORD God of Hosts. ^{15:17}I dwell not among the^w scorners, neither is my delight therein: but I dwell only in the fear of thy hand, for thou hast filled me with bitterness. ^{15:18}Shall my heaviness endure forever? Are my plagues then so great, that they may never be healed? Wilt thou be as a water, that falleth, and can not continue? ^{15:19}Upon these words, thus said the LORD unto me: If thou wilt turn again, I shall set thee in my service: and if thou wilt take out the thing that is precious from the vile, thou shalt be even as mine own mouth. They shall convert unto thee, but turn not thou unto them: ^{15:20}and so shall I make thee a strong wall of steel against this people. They shall fight against thee, but they shall not prevail. For I myself will be with thee, to help thee, and deliver thee, sayeth the LORD. ^{15:21}And I will rid thee out of the hands of the wicked, and deliver thee out of the hand of

Tyrants. ^{16:1}Moreover, thus sayeth the LORD unto me: ^{16:2}Thou shalt take thee no wife, nor beget children in this place. ^{16:3}For of the children that are born in this place, of their mothers that have borne them, and of their fathers that have begotten them in this land; Thus sayeth the LORD: ^{16:4}They shall die an horrible death: and no man shall mourn for them, nor bury them, but they shall lie as dung upon the earth: They shall perish thorow the sword, and hunger, and their bodies shall be meat for the fowls of the air, and beasts of the earth. ^{16:5}Again, thus sayeth the LORD: Go not unto them that come together for to mourn and weep: for I have taken my peace from this people (sayeth the LORD) yea my favour and my mercy. ^{16:6}And in this land shall they die, old and young, and shall not be buried: no man shall bewep them, no man shall clip or shave himself for them. ^{16:7}There shall not one visit another, to mourn with them for their dead, or to comfort them. One shall not offer another the cup of consolation, to forget their heaviness for father and mother. ^{16:8}Thou shalt not go into their feast house, to sit down, much less to eat or drink with them. ^{16:9}For thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Behold, I shall take away out of this place, the voice of mirth and gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride: yea and that in your days, that ye may see it. ^{16:10}Now when thou shewest this people all these words, and they say unto thee: Wherefore hath the LORD devised all this great plague for us? Or what is the offense and sin, that we have done against the LORD our God? ^{16:11}Then make thou them this answer: Because your fathers have forsaken me, (sayeth the LORD) and have cleaved unto strange gods, whom they have honoured and worshiped: but me have they forsaken, and have not kept my law. ^{16:12}And ye with your shameful blasphemies, have exceeded the wickedness of your fathers. For every one of you followeth the froward and evil imagination of his own heart, and is not obedient unto me. ^{16:13}Therefore will I cast you out of this land in to a land that ye and your fathers know not: and there shall ye sever strange gods day and night, there will I shew you no favour. ^{16:14}Behold therefore (sayeth the LORD) the days are come, that it shall no more be said: The LORD liveth, which brought the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt: ^{16:15}but it shall be said, the LORD liveth, that brought the children of Israel from the North, and from all lands where I had scattered them. For I will bring them again in to the land, that I gave unto their fathers. ^{16:16}Behold, (sayeth the LORD) I will send out many fishers to take them, and after that will I send out many hunters to hunt them out, from all mountains and hills and out of the caves of stones. ^{16:17}For mine eyes behold all their ways, and they can not be hid from my face, neither can their wicked deeds be kept close out of my sight. ^{16:18}But first will I sufficiently reward their shameful blasphemies and sins, wherewith they have defiled my land: Namely, with their stinking Idols and abominations, wherewith they have filled mine heritage. ^{16:19}O LORD, my strength, my power, and refuge in time of trouble. The Gentiles shall come unto thee from the ends of the world, and say: Verily our fathers have cleaved unto lies, their Idols are but vain and unprofitable. ^{16:20}How can a man make those his gods, which are not able to be gods. ^{16:21}And therefore I will once teach them, sayeth the LORD, I will shew them my hand and my power, that they may know, that my name is the LORD. ^{17:1}Your sin (O ye of the tribe of Judah) is written in the table of your hearts, and graven so upon the edges of your altars with a pen of iron and with an adamant claw: ^{17:2}that your children also may think upon your altars, woods, thick trees, high hills, mountains and fields. ^{17:3}Wherefore, I will make all your substance and treasure be spoiled, for the great sin that ye have done upon your high places thorowout all the coasts of your land. ^{17:4}Ye shall be cast out also from the heritage, that I gave you. And I will subdue you under the heavy bondage of your enemies, in a land that ye know not. For ye have ministered fire to my indignation, which shall burn evermore. ^{17:5}Thus sayeth the LORD: Cursed be the man that putteth his trust in man, and that taketh flesh for his arm: and he, whose heart departeth from the LORD. ^{17:6}He shall be like the heeth that groweth in the wilderness. As for the good thing that is for to come, he shall not see it: but dwell in a dry place of the wilderness, in a salt and unoccupied land. ^{17:7}O Blessed is the man, that putteth his trust in the LORD, and whose hope the LORD is himself. ^{17:8}For he shall be as a tree, that is planted by the water side: which spreadeth out the root unto moistness, whom the heat can not harm, when it cometh, but his leaves are green. And though there grow but little fruit because of drought, yet is he not careful, but he never leaveth off to bring forth fruit. ^{17:9}Among all things living, man hath the most deceitful and unsearchable heart. Who shall then know it? ^{17:10}Even I the LORD search^x out the ground of the heart, and try^y the reins, and reward every man according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his counsels. ^{17:11}The deceitful maketh a nest, but bringeth forth no young: He cometh by riches, but not righteously. In the midst of his life must he leave them behind him, and at the last be found a very fool. ^{17:12}But thou (O LORD) whose throne is most glorious, excellent and of most antiquity, which dwellest in the place of our holy rest: ^{17:13}Thou art the comfort of Israel. All they that forsake thee, shall be confounded: all they that depart from thee, shall be written in earth, for they have forsaken the LORD the very conduit^z of the waters of life.^a ^{17:14}Heal me, O LORD, and I shall be whole: save thou me, and I shall be saved, for thou art my praise.^b ^{17:15}Behold, these men say unto me: Where is the word of the LORD? Let it come.^c ^{17:16}Where as I nevertheless leading the flock in thy ways, have compelled none by violence. For I never desired any man's death, this knowest thou well. My words also are right before thee.^d ^{17:17}Be not now terrible unto me, O LORD, for thou art he in whom I hope, when I am in peril.^e ^{17:18}Let my persecutors be confounded, but not me: let them be afraid, and not me. Thou shalt bring upon them the time of their plague, and shall destroy them right sore.^f ^{17:19}Again, thus hath the LORD said unto me: Go stand under the gate, where thorow the people and the kings of Juda go out and in, yea under all the gates of Jerusalem, ^{17:20}and say unto them: Hear the word of the LORD, ye kings of Juda, and all thou people of Juda, and all ye citizens of Jerusalem, that go thorow this gate: ^{17:21}Thus the LORD commandeth: Take heed for your lives, that ye carry no burthen upon you in the Sabbath, to bring it thorow the gates of Jerusalem: ^{17:22}ye shall bear no burthen also out of your houses in the Sabbath: Ye shall do no labour therein, but hallow the Sabbath, as I commanded your fathers. ^{17:23}How be it they obeyed me not, neither hearkened they unto me: but were obstinate and stubborn, and neither obeyed me, nor received my correction. ^{17:24}Nevertheless, if ye will hear me (sayeth the LORD) and bear no burthen in to the city thorow this gate upon the Sabbath: If ye will hallow the Sabbath, so that ye do no work therein: ^{17:25}then shall there go thorow the gates of this city, kings and princes, that shall sit upon the stool of David: They shall be carried upon chariots, and ride upon horses, both they and their princes. Yea whole Juda and all the citizens of Jerusalem shall go here thorow, and this city shall ever be the more and more inhabited. ^{17:26}There shall come men also from the cities of Judah, from about Jerusalem, and from the land of Ben Jamin, from the plain fields, from the mountains and from the wilderness: which shall bring burntofferings, sacrifices, oblations, and incense, and offer up thanksgiving in the house of the LORD. ^{17:27}But if ye will not be obedient unto me, to hallow the Sabbath: so that ye will bear your burthens thorow the gates of Jerusalem upon the Sabbath: Then shall I set fire upon the gates of Jerusalem, and it shall burn up the houses of Jerusalem, and no man shall be able to quench it. ^{18:1}This is another communication, that GOD had with Jeremy, saying: ^{18:2}Arise, and go down in to the Potter's house, and there shall I tell thee more of my mind: ^{18:3}Now when I came to the Potter's house, I found him making his work upon a wheel. ^{18:4}The vessel that the Potter made of clay, brake among his hands: So he began anew, and made another vessel, according to his mind. ^{18:5}Then said the LORD thus unto me: ^{18:6}May not I do with you, as this Potter doth, O ye house of Israel? sayeth the LORD. Behold, ye house of Israel: ye are in my hand, even as the clay in the Potter's hand. ^{18:7}When I take in hand to root out, to destroy, or to waste away any people or kingdom: ^{18:8}if that people (against whom I have thus devised) convert from their wickedness: Immediately, I repent of the plague, that I devised to bring upon them. ^{18:9}Again. When I take in hand, to build, or to plant a people or a kingdom: ^{18:10}if the same people do evil before me, and hear not my voice: Immediately, I repent of the good, that I devised to do for them. ^{18:11}Speak now therefore unto whole Juda, and to them that dwell at Jerusalem: Thus sayeth the LORD: Behold, I am devising a plague for you, and am taking a thing in hand against you. Therefore let every man turn from his evil way, take upon you the thing that is good, and do right. ^{18:12}But they say: No more of this, we will follow our own imaginations, and do every man according to the wilfulness of his own mind. ^{18:13}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD: Ask among the Heathen, if any man hath heard such horrible things, as the Daughter of Sion hath done. ^{18:14}Shall not the snow (that melteth upon the stony rocks of Libanus) moisten^g the fields? Or may the springs of waters be so graven away, that they run no more, give moistness, nor make fruitful? ^{18:15}But my people hath so forgotten me, that they have made sacrifice unto vain gods. And while they followed their own ways they are come out of the high street, and gone in to a foot way not used to be trodden. ^{18:16}Where thorow they have brought their land into an everlasting wilderness and scorn: So that whosoever travelth thereby, shall be abashed, and wag their heads. ^{18:17}With an East wind will I scatter them, before their enemies. And when their destruction cometh, I will turn my back upon them, but not my face. ^{18:18}Then said they: come, let us imagine something against this

Jeremy. Yea this did even the priests, to whom the law was committed: the Senators, that were the wisest: and the prophets, which wanted not the word of God. Come (say they) let us cut out his tongue, and let us not regard his words. ^{18:19}Consider me, O LORD, and hear the voice of mine enemies. ^{18:20}Do they not recompense evil for good, when they dig a pit for my soul? Remember, how that I stood before thee, to speak for them, and to turn away thy wrath from them. ^{18:21}Therefore let their children die of hunger, and let them be oppressed with the sword. Let their wives be robbed of their children, and become widows: let their husbands be slain, let their young men be killed with the sword in the field. ^{18:22}Let the noise be heard out of their houses, when the murderer cometh suddenly upon them: For they have digged a pit to take me, and laid snares for my feet. ^{18:23}Yet LORD, thou knowest all their counsel, that they have devised, to slay me. And therefore forgive them not their wickedness, and let not their sin be put out of thy sight: but let them be judged before thee as the guilty: This shalt thou do unto them in the time of thy indignation. ^{19:1}Moreover, thus said the LORD unto Jeremy. Go thy way, and buy thee an earthen pitcher, and bring forth the Senators, and the chief priests ^{19:2}in to the valley of the children of Hennom, which lieth before the port that is made of brick, and shew them there the words, that I shall tell thee, ^{19:3}and say thus unto them: Hear the word of the LORD, ye kings of Judah, and ye citizens of Jerusalem: Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Behold, I will bring such a plague upon this place, that the ears of all that hear it, shall glow. ^{19:4}And that because they have forsaken me, and unhallowed this place, and have offered in it unto strange gods: whom neither they, their fathers, nor the kings of Judah have known. They have filled this place also with the blood of innocents, ^{19:5}for they have set up an altar unto Baal, to burn their children for a burnt offering unto Baal, which I neither commanded, nor charged them, neither thought once thereupon. ^{19:6}Behold therefore, the time cometh (sayeth the LORD) that this place shall no more be called Topheth, nor the valley of the children of Hennom, but the valley of slaughter. ^{19:7}For in this place will I slay the Senators of Juda and Jerusalem, and kill them down with the sword in the sight of their enemies, and of them that seek their lives. And their dead carcasses will I give to be meat for the fowls of the air, and beasts of the field. ^{19:8}And I will make this city so desolate, and despised: that whoso goeth thereby, shall be abashed and jest upon her, because of all her plagues. ^{19:9}I will feed them also with the flesh of their sons and their daughters. Yea every one shall eat up another in the besieging and straightness, wherewith their enemies (that seek their lives) shall keep them in. ^{19:10}And the pitcher shalt thou break in the sight of the men, that shall be with thee, and say unto them: ^{19:11}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: Even so will I destroy this people and city: as a Potter breaketh a vessel, that can not be made whole again. In Topheth shall they be buried, for they shall have none other place. ^{19:12}Thus will I do unto this place also, sayeth the LORD, and to them that dwell therein: yea I will do to this city as unto Topheth. ^{19:13}For the houses of Jerusalem, and the houses of the kings of Judah are defiled, like as Topheth, because of all the houses, in whose parlors they did sacrifice unto all the host of heaven, and poured out drink offerings unto strange gods. ^{19:14}And so Jeremy came from Topheth, where the LORD had sent him to prophesy, and stood in the court of the house of the LORD, and spake to all the people: ^{19:15}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Behold, I will bring upon this city and upon every town about it, all the plagues that I have devised against them: for they have been obstinate, and would not obey my warnings. ^{20:1}When Phashur the priest, the son of Emer, chief in the house of the LORD, heard Jeremy preach so steadfastly: ^{20:2}he smote Jeremy, and put him in the stocks, that are by the high gate of Ben Jamin, in the house of the LORD. ^{20:3}The next day following, Phashur brought Jeremy out of the stocks again. Then said Jeremy unto him: The LORD shall call thee no more Phashur (that is excellent and increasing) but Magor (that is fearful and afraid) everywhere. ^{20:4}For thus sayeth the LORD: behold, I will make thee afraid, thee thy self and all that favour thee: which shall perish with the sword of their enemies, even before thy face. And I will give whole Judah under the power of the king of Babylon, which shall carry some unto Babylon prisoners, and slay some with the sword. ^{20:5}Moreover, all the substance of this land, all their precious and gorgeous works, all costliness, and all the treasure of the kings of Judah: will I give in to the hands of their enemies, which shall spoil them, and carry them unto Babylon. ^{20:6}But as for thee (O Phashur) thou shalt be carried unto Babylon with all thine household, and to Babylon shalt thou come, where thou shalt die, and be buried: thou and all thy favourers, to whom thou hast preached lies. ^{20:7}O LORD, thou makest me weak, but thou refreshest me, and makest me strong again. All the day long am I despised, and laughed to scorn of every man: ^{20:8}because I have now preached long against malicious Tyranny, and shewed them of destruction. For the which cause they cast the word of the LORD in my teeth, and take me ever to the worst. ^{20:9}Wherefore, I thought from hence forth, not to speak of him, nor to preach any more in his name. But the word of the LORD was a very burning fire in my heart and in my bones, which when I would have stopped, I might not. ^{20:10}For why, I heard so many derisions and blasphemies, yea even of my own companions, and such as were conversant with me: which went about, to make me afraid, saying: upon him, let us go upon him, to fear him, and make him hold his tongue: that we may overcome him, and be avenged of him. ^{20:11}But the LORD stood by me, like a mighty giant: therefore my persecutors fell, and could do nothing. They shall be sore confounded, for they have done unwisely, they shall have an everlasting shame. ^{20:12}And now, O LORD of Hosts, thou righteous searcher (which knowest the reins and the very hearts:) let me see them punished, for unto thee I commit my cause. ^{20:13}Sing unto the LORD, and praise him, for he hath delivered the soul of the oppressed, from the hand of the violent. ^{20:14}Cursed be the day, wherein I was born: unhappy be the day, wherein my mother brought me forth. ^{20:15}Cursed be the man, that brought my father the tidings, to make him glad, saying: thou hast gotten a son. ^{20:16}Let it happen unto that man, as to the cities which the LORD turned upside down (when he had long heard the wicked rumour of them) ^{20:17}because he slew me not, as soon as I came out of my mother's womb, and because my mother was not my grave herself, that the birth might not have come out, but remained still in her. ^{20:18}Wherefore came I forth of my mother's womb? To have experience of labour and sorrow? and to lead my life with shame? ^{21:1}These are the words that the LORD spake unto Jeremy, what time as king Zedekiah sent unto him Pashur the son of Melchiah, and Sophaniah the son of Maasiah priest, saying: ^{21:2}Ask counsel at the LORD (we Pray thee) of our behalf, for Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon beseigeth us, if the LORD (peradventure) will deal with us, according to his marvelous power, and take him from us. ^{21:3}Then spake Jeremy. Give Zedekiah this answer. ^{21:4}Thus sayeth the LORD God of Israel: behold, I will turn back the weapons, that ye have in your hands, wherewith ye fight against the king of Babylon and the Caldees, which besiege you round about the walls, and I will bring them together into the midst of this city, ^{21:5}and I myself will fight against you, with an outstretched hand, and with a mighty arm, in great displeasure and terrible wrath: ^{21:6}and will smite them, that dwell in this city, yea both man and cattle shall die of the pestilence. ^{21:7}And after this (sayeth the LORD) I shall deliver Zedekiah the king of Judah, and his servants, his people, (and such as are escaped in the city, from the pestilence, sword, and hunger) into the power of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon: yea into the hands of their enemies, into the hands of those that follow upon their lives, which shall smite them with the sword: they shall not pity them, they shall not spare them, they shall have no mercy upon them. ^{21:8}And unto this people thou shalt say: Thus sayeth the LORD: behold, I lay before you the way of life and death. ^{21:9}Whoso abideth in this city, shall perish: either with the sword, with hunger, or with pestilence. But whoso goeth out to hold on the Caldees part, that besiege it, he shall save his life, and shall win his soul for a prey. ^{21:10}For I have set my face against this city (sayeth the LORD) to plague it, and to do it no good. It must be given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and be brent with fire. ^{21:11}And unto the house of the king of Judah, say thus: Hear ye the word of the LORD: ^{21:12}(O house of David) for thus sayeth the LORD: Minister righteousness, and that soon, deliver the oppressed from violent power: or ever my terrible wrath break out like a fire, and burn so, that no man may quench it, because of the wickedness of your imaginations. ^{21:13}Behold, (sayeth the LORD) I will come upon you that dwell in the valleys, rocks and fields, and say: Tush, who will make us afraid? or who will come into our houses? ^{21:14}For I will visit you (sayeth the LORD) because of the wickedness of your inventions, and will kindle such a fire in your wood, as shall consume all, that is about you. ^{22:1}Thus said the LORD also: Go down in to the house of the king of Judah, and speak there these words, ^{22:2}and say: Hear the word of the LORD, thou king of Judah that sittest in the kingly seat of David: thou, and thy servants, and thy^h people, that go in and out at this gate. ^{22:3}Thus the LORD commandeth: Keep equity and righteousness, deliver the oppressed from the power of the violent: do not grieve nor oppress the stranger, the fatherless, nor the widow, and shed no innocent blood in this place. ^{22:4}And if ye keep these things faithfully, then shall there come in at the door of this house kings, to sit upon David's seat: they shall be carried in Chariots and ride upon horses, both they and their servants, and their people. ^{22:5}But if ye will not be obedient unto these commandments, I swear by mine own self (sayeth the LORD) this house shall be waste. ^{22:6}For thus hath the LORD spoken upon the king's house of Judah: Thou art the head, as Gilead is in Libanus: What wilt thou lay of it, if I make thee not so waste (and thy cities also) that no man shall dwell therein? ^{22:7}I will prepare a destroyer with his weapons for thee, to hew down thy special Cedar trees, and to cast them in the fire. ^{22:8}And all the people that go by this city, shall speak one to another: Wherefore hath the LORD done thus unto this noble city? ^{22:9}Then shall it be answered: because they have broken the covenant of the LORD their God, and have worshipped and served strange gods. ^{22:10}Mourn not over the dead, and be not woe for them, but be sorry for him that departeth away: for he cometh not again, and seeth his native country no more. ^{22:11}For thus sayeth the LORD, as touching Selum the son of Josiah king of Judah, which reigned after his father, and is carried out of this place: He shall never come hither again, ^{22:12}for he shall die in the place, where unto he is led captive, and shall see this land no more. ^{22:13}Woe worth him, that buildeth his house with unrighteousness, and his parlors with the good that he hath gotten by violence: which never recompenceth his neighbour's labour, nor payeth him his hire. ^{22:14}He thinketh in himself: I will build me a wide house, and gorgeous parlors: He causeth windows to be hewn therein, and the ceilings and joistsⁱ maketh he of Cedar, and painteth them with Zenober. ^{22:15}Thinkest thou to reign, now that thou provokedst me to wrath with the^j Cedar trees? Did not thy father eat and drink, and prosper well, as long as he dealt with equity and righteousness? ^{22:16}Yea when he helped the oppressed and poor to their right, then prospered he well. From whence came this, but only because he had me before his eyes, sayeth the LORD. ^{22:17}Nevertheless, as for thine eyes and thine heart, they look upon covetousness, to shed innocent blood, and to do wrong and violence. ^{22:18}And therefore, thus sayeth the LORD against Jehoakim, the son of Josiah king of Judah: They shall not mourn for him (as they use to do) alas brother, alas sister: Neither shall they say unto him: Alas sir, alas for that noble prince. ^{22:19}But as an Ass shall he be buried, corrupt and be cast without the gates of Jerusalem. ^{22:20}Climb up the hill of Libanus (O thou daughter Zion) lift up thy voice upon Basan, cry from all parts: for all thy lovers are destroyed. ^{22:21}I gave thee warning, while thou wast yet in prosperity. But thou saidst: I will not hear. And this manner hast thou used from thy youth, that thou wouldest never hear my voice. ^{22:22}All thy herdmen shall be driven with the wind, and thy dearlings shall be carried away into captivity: Then shalt thou be brought to shame and confusion, because of all thy wickedness: ^{22:23}thou that dwellest upon Libanus, and makest thy nest in the Cedars trees. O how great shall thy mourning be, when thy sorrows come upon thee, as a woman travailing with child? ^{22:24}As truly as I live (sayeth the LORD) Though Jechoniah the son of Jehoakim king of Judah were the signet of my right hand, yet will I pluck him off: ^{22:25}And I will give thee into the power of them that seek to slay thee, and into the power of them that thou fearest: into the power of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, and into the power of the Caldees. ^{22:26}Moreover, I will send thee, and thy mother that bare thee, into a strange land, where ye were not born, and there shall ye die. ^{22:27}But as for the land that ye will desire to return unto, ye shall never come at it again. ^{22:28}This man Jechoniah shall be like an image robbed and torn in pieces, which pleaseth no man, for all his apparel. Wherefore both he and his seed shall be sent away, and cast out into a land, that they know not. ^{22:29}O thou earth, earth, earth: hear the word of the LORD. ^{22:30}Write this man among the outlaws, for no prosperity shall this man have all his life long. Neither shall any of his seed be so happy, as to sit upon the seat of David, and to bear rule in Juda. ^{23:1}Woe be unto the shepherds, that destroy, and scatter my flock, sayeth the LORD. ^{23:2}Wherefore, this is the commandment of the LORD God of Israel, unto the shepherds that feed my people: Ye scatter and thrust out my flock, and look not upon them. Therefore now will I visit the wickedness of your imaginations, sayeth the LORD: ^{23:3}And will gather together the remnant of my flock, from all lands that I had driven them unto, and will bring them again to their pastures, that they may grow and increase. ^{23:4}I will set shepherds also over them, which shall feed them. They shall no more fear and dread, for there shall none of them be lost, sayeth the LORD. ^{23:5}Behold, the time cometh, sayeth the LORD, that I will raise up the righteous Branch of David, which shall bear rule, and discuss matters with wisdom, and shall set up equity and righteousness again in the earth. ^{23:6}In his time shall Judah be saved and Israel shall dwell without fear. And this is the name that they shall call him: even the LORD our righteous maker. ^{23:7}And therefore behold, the time cometh, sayeth the LORD, that it shall no more be said: the LORD liveth, which brought the children of Israell out of the land of Egypt: ^{23:8}But the LORD liveth, which brought forth, and led the seed of the house of Israel, out of the North land, and from all countries where I had scattered them, and they shall dwell in their own land again. ^{23:9}My heart breaketh in my body because of the false prophets, all my bones shake: I am become like a drunken man (that by the reason of wine can take no rest) for very fear of the LORD, and of his holy words: ^{23:10}Because the land is full of advouters, where thorow it is destroyed and mourneth, and the pleasant pastures of the desert are dried up. Yea the way that men take, is wicked, and their governance is nothing like the holy word of the LORD. ^{23:11}For the prophets and the priests themselves are polluted hypocrites, and their wickedness have I found in my house, sayeth the LORD. ^{23:12}Wherefore, their way shall be slippery in the darkness, wherein they may stagger and fall. For I will bring a plague upon them, even the year of their visitation, sayeth the LORD. ^{23:13}I have seen folly among the Prophets of Samaria, that they preached for Baal, and deceived my people of Israel. ^{23:14}I have seen also among the Prophets of Jerusalem foul advoutry, and presumptuous lies. They take the most shameful men by the hand, flattering them, so that they can not return from their wickedness. All these with their citizens are unto me, as Sodom, and as the inhabitors of Gomorre. ^{23:15}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts concerning the prophets: Behold, I will feed them with wormwood, and make them drink the water of gall. For from the prophets of Jerusalem is the sickness of hypocrisy come in to all the land. ^{23:16}And therefore the LORD of Hosts giveth you this warning: Hear not the words of the prophets, that preach unto you, and deceive you: for they speak the meaning of their own heart, and not out of the mouth of the LORD. ^{23:17}They say unto them, that despise me: The LORD hath spoken it: Tush, ye shall prosper right well. And unto all them, that walk after the lusts of their own heart, they say: Tush, there shall no misfortune happen you. ^{23:18}For who hath sitten in the council^k of the LORD, that he hath heard and understand, what he is about to do? Who hath marked his device, and heard it? ^{23:19}Behold, the stormy weather of the LORD, that is, his indignation, shall go forth, and shall fall down upon the head of the ungodly. ^{23:20}And the wrath of the LORD shall not turn away again, until he perform and fulfil the thought of his heart. And in the latter days ye shall know his meaning. ^{23:21}I have not sent these Prophets (sayeth the LORD) and yet they ran. I have not spoken to them, and yet they preached. ^{23:22}But if they had continued in my counsel^l and heard my words: they had turned my people from their evil ways and wicked imaginations. ^{23:23}Am I then God that seeth but the thing, which is nigh at hand, and not that is afar off? sayeth the LORD. ^{23:24}May any man hide himself so, that I shall not see him? sayeth the LORD. Do not I fulfill heaven and earth? sayeth the LORD. ^{23:25}I have heard well enough, what the prophets say, that preach lies in my name, saying: I have dreamed, I have dreamed. ^{23:26}How long will this continue in the prophets hearts, to tell lies, and to preach the crafty subtlety of their own heart? ^{23:27}Whose purpose is (with the dreams that everyone tell) to make my people forget my name, as their forefathers did, when Baal came up. ^{23:28}The prophet that hath a dream, let him tell it: and he that understandeth my word, let him shew it faithfully. For what hath chaff and wheat to do together? sayeth the LORD. ^{23:29}Is not my word like a fire? sayeth the LORD, and like an hammer, that breaketh the hard stone? ^{23:30}Therefore, thus sayeth the LORD: behold, I will upon the prophets, that steal my word privily from every man. ^{23:31}Behold, here am I (sayeth the LORD) against the prophets, that take upon their tongues to speak: The LORD hath said it. ^{23:32}Behold here am I (sayeth the LORD) against those prophets, that dare prophesy lies, and deceive my people with their vanities, and miracles, whom I never sent, nor commanded them. They shall do this people great harm, sayeth the LORD. ^{23:33}If this people, either any prophet or priest ask thee, and say: What is the burthen of the LORD? Thou shalt say unto them: What burthen? Therefore will I cast you from me (sayeth the LORD) because ye yourselves are a burthen. ^{23:34}And the prophet, priest, or people, that useth this term (the burthen of the LORD) him will I visit, and his house also. ^{23:35}But thus shall ye say, every one to another: What answer hath the LORD given? or what is the LORD's commandment? ^{23:36}And as for the burthen of the LORD, ye shall speak no more of it: for every man's own word is his burthen, because

ye have altered the words of the living God the LORD of Hosts our God. ^{23:37} Thus shall every man say to the Prophets: what answer hath the LORD given thee? Or, what sayeth the LORD? ^{23:38} And not once to name the burthen of the LORD. Therefore thus sayeth the LORD: For so much as ye have used this term (the burthen of the LORD) where as I notwithstanding sent unto you, and forbade you to speak of the LORD's burthen. ^{23:39} Behold therefore, I will repute you as a burthen, and will cast you out of my presence: yea and the city also, that I gave you and your fathers: ^{23:40} and will bring you to an everlasting confusion, and in to such a shame, as shall never be forgotten. ^{24:1} The LORD shewed me a vision; Behold, there stood two maundes of figs before the Temple of the LORD, after that Nebuchodonosor king of Babylon had led away captive Jechoniah the son of Jehoakim king of Judah, the mighty men also of Judah, with the workmasters, and cunning men of Jerusalem, unto Babylon. ^{24:2} In the one maunde were very good figs, even like as those that be first ripe. In the other maunde were very naughty figs, which might not be eaten, they were so evil. ^{24:3} Then said the LORD unto me: What seest thou Jeremy? I said: figs, whereof some be very good, and some so evil, that no man may eat them. ^{24:4} Then came the word of the LORD unto me, after this manner: ^{24:5} Thus sayeth the LORD the God of Israel: like as thou knowest the good figs, so shall I know the men led away, whom I have sent out of this place into the land of the Caldees, for their profit: ^{24:6} and I will set mine eyes upon them for the best, for I will bring them again in to this land: I will build them up, and not break them down: I will plant them, and not root them out. ^{24:7} And I will give them an heart, to know, how that I am the LORD. They shall be my people, and I will be their God, for they shall return unto me with their whole heart. ^{24:8} And like as thou knowest the naughty figs, which may not be eaten, they are so evil: Even so will I (sayeth the LORD) let Zedekiah the king of Judah, (yea and all his princes, and the residue of Jerusalem that remain over in this land, and them also that dwell in Egypt) to be vexed and plagued in all kingdoms and lands. ^{24:9} And will make them to be a reproof, a common byword, a laughing stock and shame, in all the places, where I shall scatter them. ^{24:10} I will send the sword, hunger and pestilence among them, until I have clean consumed them out of the land, that I gave unto them and their fathers. ^{25:1} A Sermon that was given unto Jeremy, upon all the people of Judah: In the fourth year of Jehoakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, that was, in the first year of Nebuchodonosor king of Babylon. ^{25:2} Which sermon, Jeremy the prophet made unto all the people of Judah, and to all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, on this manner. ^{25:3} From the thirteenth year of Josiah the son of Amon king of Judah, unto this present day, (that is even twenty third year) the word of the LORD hath been committed unto me. And so I have spoken to you, I have risen up early, I have given you warning in season, but ye would not hear me. ^{25:4} Though the LORD hath sent his servants, all the prophets unto you in season: Yet would ye not obey, ye would not incline your ears to hear. ^{25:5} He said: turn again every man from his evil way, and from your wicked imaginations, and so shall ye dwell for ever in the land, that the LORD promised you and your forefathers: ^{25:6} And go not after strange gods, serve them not, worship them not, and anger me not with the works of your hands: then will not I punish you. ^{25:7} Nevertheless, ye would not hear me (sayeth the LORD) but have defiled me with the works of your hands, to your own great harm. ^{25:8} Wherefore thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: Because, ye have not hearkened unto my word; ^{25:9} Lo, I will send out, and call for all the people, that dwell in the North, sayeth the LORD, and will prepare^m Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon my servant, and will bring them upon this land, and upon all that dwell therein, and upon all the people that are about them, and will utterly root them out. I will make of them a wilderness, a mockage, and a continual desert. ^{25:10} Moreover, I will take from them the voice of gladness and solace, the voice of the bridegroom, and the bride, the voice of the anointed, with the cressets: ^{25:11} and this whole land shall become a wilderness, and they shall serve the said people and the king of Babylon, three score years and ten. ^{25:12} When the seventy years are expired, I will visit also the wickedness of the king of Babylon and his people sayeth the LORD: yea and the land of the Caldees, and will make it a perpetual wilderness, ^{25:13}and will fulfil all my words upon that land which I have devised against it: yea all that is written in this book, which Jeremy hath prophesied of all people: ^{25:14}so that they also shall be subdued unto divers nations and great kings, for I will recompense them, according to their deeds and works of their own hands. ^{25:15}For thus hath the LORD God of Israel spoken unto me: Take this wine cup of indignation from my hand, that thou mayest cause all the people, to whom I send thee, for to drink of it: ^{25:16}that when they have drunken thereof, they may be mad, and out of their wits, when the sword cometh, that I will send among them. ^{25:17}Then took I the cup from the LORD's hand, and made all the people drink thereof, unto whom the LORD had sent me. ^{25:18}But first the city of Jerusalem, and all the cities of Judah, their kings and princes: to make them desolate, waste, despised and cursed according as it is come to pass this day. ^{25:19}Yea and Pharaoh the king of Egypt, his servants, his princes and his people altogether one with another ^{25:20}and all kings of the land of Huz, all the kings of the Philistine's land, Ascalon, Azah,ⁿ Accaron and the remnant of Asood, ^{25:21}the Edomites, the Moabites, and the Ammonites: ^{25:22}all the kings of Tirus, and Sidon: the kings of the Isles, that are beyond the sea, ^{25:23}Dedan, Thema, Buz and the shaven Ismaelites: ^{25:24}all the kings of Araby, and (generally) all the kings that dwell in the desert: ^{25:25}all the kings of Zamri, all the kings of Elam, all the kings of the Meedes, ^{25:26}all kings toward the north, whether they be far or nigh, everyone with his neighbours: Yea and all the kingdoms that are upon the whole earth. The king of Sezach, said he, shall drink with them also. ^{25:27}And say thou unto them: This is the commandment of the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Drink and be drunken, spew and fall, that ye never rise: and that thorow the sword, which I will send among you. ^{25:28}But if they will no receive the cup of thy hand, and drink it, then tell them: Thus doth the LORD of Hosts threaten you: drink it ye shall, and that shortly. ^{25:29}For lo, I begin to plague the city, that my name is given unto: think ye then, that I will leave you unpunished? Ye shall not go quite. For why, I call for a sword upon all the inhabitants of the earth, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{25:30}Therefore tell them all these words, and say unto them: The LORD shall cry from above, and let his voice be heard from his holy habitation. With a great noise shall he cry from his court regal. He shall give a great voice (like the grape gatherers) and the sound thereof shall be heard unto the ends of the world. ^{25:31}For the LORD hath a judgement to give upon all people, and will hold his court of justice with all flesh and punish the ungodly, sayeth the LORD. ^{25:32}For thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: Behold, a miserable plague shall go from one people to another, and a great stormy water shall arise from all the ends of the earth. ^{25:33}And the same day shall the LORD himself slay them, from one end of the earth to another. There shall no moan be made for any of them, none gathered up, none buried: but shall lie as dung upon the ground. ^{25:34}Mourn (O ye shepherds) and cry: sprinkle yourselves with ashes, O ye rams of the flock: for the time of your slaughter is fulfilled, and ye shall fall like vessels cunningly made for pleasure. ^{25:35}The shepherds shall have no way to flee, and the rams of the flock shall not escape. ^{25:36}Then shall the shepherds cry horribly, and the rams of the flock shall mourn: for the LORD shall consume their pasture, ^{25:37}and their best fields shall lie dead because of the horrible wrath of the LORD. ^{25:38}They shall forsake their folds like as a lion: for their lands shall be waste, because of the wrath of the destroyer, and because of his fearful indignation. ^{26:1}In the beginning of the reign of Jehoakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, came this word from the LORD, saying: ^{26:2}Thus sayeth the LORD: Stand in the court of the LORD's house, and speak unto all them which (out of the cities of Juda) come to do worship in the LORD's house, all the words that I command thee to say. Look that thou keep not one word back, ^{26:3}if (peradventure) they will hearken, and turn every man from his wicked way: that I may also repent of the plague, which I have determined to bring upon them, because of their wicked inventions. ^{26:4}And after this manner shalt thou speak unto them: Thus sayeth the LORD: If ye will not obey me, to walk in my laws, which I have given you,

^{26:5}and to hear the words of my servants the prophets, whom I sent unto you, rising up timely, and still sending: If ye will not follow them (I say) ^{26:6}then will I do to this house, as I did unto Siloh, and will make this city to be abhorred of all the people of the earth. ^{26:7}And the priests, the prophets and all the people heard Jeremy preach these words, in the house of the LORD. ^{26:8}Now when he had spoken out all the words, that the LORD commanded him to preach unto all the people, then the priests, the prophets and all the people took hold upon him, and said: Thou shalt die. ^{26:9}How darest thou be so bold, as to say in the name of the LORD: it shall happen to this house as it did unto Siloh? And this city shall be so waste, that no man shall dwell therein? ^{26:10}And when all the people were gathered about Jeremy in the house of the LORD, the princes of Judah heard of this rumour, and they came soon out of the king's Palace in to the house of the LORD, and sat them down before the new door of the LORD. ^{26:11}Then spake the priests and the prophets unto the rulers and to all the people, these words: This man is worthy to die, for he hath preached against this city, as ye yourselves have heard with your ears. ^{26:12}Then said Jeremy unto the rulers and to all the people: The LORD hath sent me to preach against this house and against this city all the words that ye have heard. ^{26:13}Therefore amend your ways, and your advisements, and be obedient unto the voice of the LORD your God: so shall the LORD repent of the plague, that he had devised against you. ^{26:14}Now as for me: I am in your hands, do with me, as ye think expedient and good. ^{26:15}But this shall ye know: if ye put me to death, ye shall make yourselves, this city and all the inhabitants thereof, guilty of innocent blood. For this is of a truth: that the LORD hath sent me unto you, to speak all these words in your ears. ^{26:16}Then said the rules and the people unto the priests and prophets: This man may not be condemned to death, for he hath preached unto us in the name of the LORD our God. ^{26:17}The Elders also of the land stood up, and said thus unto all the people: ^{26:18}Micheah the Morasthite, which was a prophet under Ezekiah king of Judah, spake to all the people of Judah; Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts:

Sion shall be plowed like a field, Jerusalem shall be an heap of stones, and the hill of the Lord's^o house shall be turned to an high^p wood. ^{26:19}Did Ezekiah king of Judah and the people of Judah put him to death for this? No verily, but rather feared the LORD, and made their prayer unto him. For the which cause also the LORD repented of the plague, that he had devised against them. Should we then do such a shameful deed against our souls? ^{26:20}There was a prophet also, that preached stiffly in the name of the LORD, called Urijah the son of Semeiah of Cariathiarim: this man preached also against this city and against this land, according to all as Jeremy sayeth. ^{26:21}Now when Jehoakim the king with all the estate and princes had heard his words, the king went about to slay him. When Uriah perceived that, he was afraid, and fled, and departed into Egypt. ^{26:22}Then Jehoakim the king sent servants in to the land of Egypt; Namely, Elnathan the son of Achabor, and certain men with him into Egypt. ^{26:23}Which fetched Uriah out of Egypt, and brought him unto king Jehoakim that slew him with the sword, and cast his dead body into the common people's grave. ^{26:24}But Ahikam the son of Saphan helped Jeremy, that he came not into the hands of the people to be slain. ^{27:1}In the beginning of the reign of Jehoakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, came this word unto Jeremy from the LORD, which spake thus unto me: ^{27:2}Make thee bonds and chains, and put them about thy neck, ^{27:3}and send them to the king of Edom, the king of Moab, the king of Ammon, the king of Tyrus, and to the king of Sidon: and that by the messengers, which shall come to Jerusalem unto Zedekiah the king of Judah, ^{27:4}and bid them say unto their masters: Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel, speak thus unto your masters: ^{27:5}I am he that made the earth, the men, and the cattle that are upon the ground, with my great power and outstretched arm, and have given it unto whom it pleased me. ^{27:6}And now will I deliver all these lands into the power of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, my servant. The beasts also of the field shall I give him to do him service. ^{27:7}And all people shall serve him, and his son, and his child's children, until the time of the same land be come also: Yea many people and great kings shall serve him. ^{27:8}Moreover, that people and kingdom which will not serve Nabuchodonosor, and that will not put their necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, the same people will I visit⁹ with the sword, with hunger, with pestilence, until I have consumed them in his hands, sayeth the LORD. ^{27:9}And therefore follow not your Prophets, soothsayers, expounders of dreams, charmers and witches, which say unto you: Ye shall not serve the king of Babylon. ^{27:10}For they preach you lies: to bring you far from your land, and that I might cast you out, and destroy you. ^{27:11}But the people that put their necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him, those I will let remain still in their own land (sayeth the LORD) and they shall occupy it, and dwell therein. ^{27:12}All these things told I Zedekiah the king of Judah, and said: Put your necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him and his people, that ye may live. ^{27:13}Why wilt thou and thy people perish with the sword, with hunger, with pestilence: like as the LORD hath devised for all people, that will not serve the king of Babylon? ^{27:14}Therefore give no ear unto those Prophets (that tell you: Ye shall not serve the king of Babylon?) for they preach you lies, ^{27:15}neither have I sent them, sayeth the LORD: how be it they are bold, falsely for to prophesy in my name: that I might the sooner drive you out, and that ye might perish with your preachers. ^{27:16}I spake to the Priests also, and to all the people: Thus sayeth the LORD: Hear not the words of those Prophets, that preach unto you, and say: Behold, the vessels of the LORD's house shall shortly be brought hither again from Babylon: For they prophesy lies unto you. ^{27:17}Hear them not, but serve the king of Babylon, that ye may live. Wherefore will ye make this city to be destroyed? ^{27:18}But if they be true Prophets in very deed, and if the word of the LORD be committed unto them, then let them pray the LORD of Hosts, that the remnant of the ornaments (which are in the house of the LORD, and remain yet in the house of the king of Judah and at Jerusalem) be not carried to Babylon also. ^{27:19}For thus hath the LORD of Hosts spoken concerning the pillars, the laver, the seat and the residue of the ornaments that yet remain in this city, ^{27:20}which Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon took not, when he carried away Jechoniah the son of Jehoakim king of Judah, with all the power of Juda and Jerusalem, from Jerusalem unto Babylon, captive. ^{27:21}Yea thus hath the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel spoken, as touching the residue of the ornaments of the LORD's house of the king of Judah's house, and of Jerusalem: ^{27:22}They shall be carried unto Babylon, and there they shall remain, until I visit them, sayeth the LORD. Then will I bring them hither again. ^{28:1}And this was done in the same year: even in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Juda. But in the fourth year of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fifth Month; It happened, that Hananiah the son of Assur the prophet of Gabaon, spake to me in the house of the LORD, in the presence of the priests and of all the people, and said: ^{28:2}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon, ^{28:3}and after two year will I bring again into this place, all the ornaments of the LORD's house, that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon carried away from this place unto Babylon. ^{28:4}Yea I will bring again Jechoniah the son of Jehoiakim the king of Judah himself, with all the prisoners of Judah (that are carried unto Babylon) even into this place, sayeth the LORD, for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon. ^{28:5}Then the prophet Jeremy gave answer unto the prophet Hananiah, before the priests and before all the people that were present in the house of the LORD. ^{28:6}And the prophet Jeremy said: Amen, the LORD do that, and grant the thing, which thou hast prophesied: that he may bring again all the ornaments of the LORD's house, and restore all the prisoners from Babylon in to this place. ^{28:7}Nevertheless, hearken thou also, what I will say, that thou and all the people may hear: ^{28:8}The prophets that were before us in times past, which prophesied of war, or trouble, or pestilence ^{28:9}either of peace, upon many nations and great kingdoms, were proved by this (if GOD had sent them in very deed) when the thing came to pass, which that prophet told before. ^{28:10}And Hananiah the prophet took the chain from the prophet Jeremias' neck, and brake it ^{28:11}and with that said Hananiah, that all the people might hear: Thus hath the LORD spoken: Even so will I break the yoke of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, from the neck of all nations, yea and that within this two year. And so the prophet Jeremy went his way. ^{28:12}Now after that Hananiah the prophet had taken the chain from the prophet Jeremias' neck, and broken it: The word of the LORD came unto the prophet Jeremy saying: ^{28:13}Go, and tell Hananiah these words: Thus sayeth the LORD: Thou hast broken the chain of wood, but in stead of wood thou shalt make chains of iron. ^{28:14}For thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: I will put a yoke of iron upon the neck of all this people, that they may serve Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, yea and so shall they do. And I will give him the beasts in the field. ^{28:15}Then said the prophet Jeremy unto the prophet Hananiah: Hear me (I pray thee) Hananiah: The LORD hath not sent thee, but thou bringest this people into a false belief. ^{28:16}And therefore thus sayeth the LORD: behold, I will send thee out of the land, and within a year thou shalt die because thou hast falsely spoken against the LORD. ^{28:17}So Hananiah the prophet died the same year in the seventh Month. ^{29:1}This is the Copy of the letter, that Jeremy the prophet sent from Jerusalem unto the prisoners: the Senators, priests, prophets, and all the people, whom Nabuchodonosor had led unto Babylon: ^{29:2}after the time that king Jechoniah, and his Queen, his chamberlains the princes of Judah and Jerusalem the workmasters of Jerusalem were departed thither. ^{29:3}Which letter Elasah the son of Saphan and Gamariah the son of Helkiah did bear, whom Zedekiah the king of Judah sent unto Babylon to Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon: These were the words of Jeremias' letter: ^{29:4}Thus hath the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel spoken unto all the prisoners, that were led from Jerusalem unto Babylon: ^{29:5}Build you houses to dwell therein: plant you gardens, that ye may enjoy the fruits thereof: ^{29:6}take you wives, to bear you sons and daughters: provide wives for your sons, and husbands for your daughters, that they may get sons and daughters, and that ye may multiply there. Labour not to be few, ^{29:7}but seek after peace and prosperity of the city, wherein ye be prisoners, and pray unto GOD for it. For in the peace thereof, shall your peace be. ^{29:8}For thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Let not those prophets and soothsayers that be among you deceive you: and believe not your own dreams. ^{29:9}For why, they preach you lies in my name, and I have not sent them, sayeth the LORD. ^{29:10}But thus sayeth the LORD: When ye have fulfilled seventy years at Babylon, I will bring you home, and of mine own goodness I will carry you hither again to this place. ^{29:11}For I know what I have devised for you sayeth the LORD. My thoughts are to give you peace, and not trouble (which I give you all ready) and that ye might have hope again. ^{29:12}Ye shall cry unto me, ye shall go and call upon me, and I shall hear you. ^{29:13}Ye shall seek me, and find me: Yea, if so be that ye seek me with your whole heart, ^{29:14}I will be found of you, (sayeth the LORD) and will deliver you out of prison, and gather you together again out of all places, wherein I have scattered you, sayeth the LORD: and will bring you again to the same place, from whence I caused you to be carried away captive. ^{29:15}But where as ye say, that GOD hath raised you up prophets at Babylon: ^{29:16}Thus hath the LORD spoken (concerning the king that sitteth in the stool of David, and all the people that dwell in this city, your brethren that are not gone with you into captivity) ^{29:17}Thus (I say) speaketh the LORD of Hosts: Behold, I will send a sword, hunger and pestilence upon them, and will make them like untimely figs, that may not be eaten for bitterness. ^{29:18}And I will persecute them with the sword, with hunger and death. I will deliver them up to be vexed of all kingdoms, to be cursed, abhorred, laughed to scorn, and put to confusion of all the people, among whom I have scattered them: ^{29:19}and that because they have not been obedient unto my commandments. (sayeth the LORD) which I sent unto them by my servants the prophets. I stood up early, and sent unto them, but they would not hear, sayeth the LORD. ^{29:20}Hear therefore the word of the LORD, all ye prisoners, whom I sent from Jerusalem unto Babylon: ^{29:21}Thus hath the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel spoken, of Ahab the son of Colaiah, and of Zedekiah the son of Maasiah, which prophesy lies unto you in my name: Behold, I will deliver them into the hand of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, that he may slay them before your eyes. ^{29:22} And all the prisoners of Judah that are in Babylon, shall take upon them this term of cursing, and say: Now GOD do unto thee, as he did unto Zedekiah and Ahab, whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire; ^{29:23} Because they sinned shamefully in Israel. For they have not onely defiled their neighbours' wives, but also preached lying words in my name, which I have not commanded them. This I testify, and assure, sayeth the LORD. ^{29:24} But as for Semaiah the Nehelamite thou shalt speak unto him: ^{29:25} Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Because thou hast sealed letters under thy name unto all the people that is at Jerusalem, and to Sophoniah the son of Maasaih the priest, yea and sent them to all the priests: wherein thou writest thus unto him: ^{29:26} The LORD hath ordained^r thee to be priest instead of Jehoiada the priest, that thou shouldst be the chief in the house of the LORD above all prophets, and preachers, and that thou mightest put them in prison, or in the stocks. ^{29:27} How happeneth it then, that thou hast not reprov'd Jeremy of Anathoth, which never leaveth of his prophesying.^s ^{29:28} And beside all this, he hath sent us word unto Babylon, and told us plainly, that our captivity shall long endure: that we should build us houses to dwell therein, and to plant us gardens, that we might enjoy the fruit thereof. ^{29:29} Which letter Sophoniah the priest did read, and let Jeremy the prophet hear it. ^{29:30} Then came the word of the LORD unto Jeremy, saying: ^{29:31} Send word to all them that be in captivity, on this manner: Thus hath the LORD spoken concerning Semeiah the Nehelamite: Because that Semeiah hath prophesied unto you without my commission, and brought you into a false hope, ^{29:32} therefore thus the LORD doth certify you: Behold, I will visit Semeiah the Nehelamite, and his seed: so that none of his shall remain among this people, and none of them shall see the good, that I will do for this people, sayeth the LORD. For he hath preached falsely of the LORD. ^{30:1} These are the words that the LORD shewed unto Jeremy, saying: ^{30:2} Thus sayeth the LORD God of Israel: Write up diligently all the words, that I have spoken unto thee, in a book. ^{30:3} For lo, the time cometh (sayeth the LORD) that I will bring again the prisoners of my people of Israel and Judah, sayeth the LORD: For I will restore them unto the land, that I gave to their fathers, and they shall have it in possession. ^{30:4} Again, these words spake the LORD, concerning Israel and Judah: ^{30:5} Thus sayeth the LORD: We hear a terrible cry, fear and disquietness. ^{30:6} For what else doth this signify, that I see? Namely, that all strong men smite, every man his hand upon his loins, as a woman in the pain of her travail. Who ever saw a man travail with child? Enquire thereafter, and see. Yea all their faces are marvelous pale. ^{30:7} Alas for this day, which is so dreadful, that none may be likened unto it: and alas for the time of Jacob's trouble, from the which he shall yet be delivered. ^{30:8} For in that day, sayeth the LORD, I will take his yoke from off thy neck, and break thy bonds. They shall no more serve strange gods under him, ^{30:9} but they shall do service unto God their LORD, and to David their king, whom I will raise up unto them. ^{30:10} And as for thee, O my servant Jacob, fear not (sayeth the LORD) and be not afraid, O Israel. For lo, I will help thee also from far, and thy seed from the land of their captivity. And Jacob shall turn again, he shall be in rest, and have a prosperous life, and no man shall make him afraid. ^{30:11} For I am with thee, to help thee, sayeth the LORD. And though I shall destroy all the people, among whom I have scattered thee, yet will I not destroy thee, but correct thee, and that with discretion. For I know, that thou art in no wise without fault.^t ^{30:12} Therefore thus sayeth the LORD: I am sorry for thy hurt and wounds. ^{30:13} There is no man to meddle with thy cause: or to bind up thy wounds: there may no man help thee. ^{30:14} All thy lovers have forgotten thee, and care nothing for thee. For I have given thee a cruel stroke, and chastened thee roughly: and that for the multitude of thy misdeeds, for thy sins have had the over hand. ^{30:15} Why makest thou moan for thy harm? I myself have pity of thy sorrow, but for the multitude of thy misdeeds and sins, I have done this unto thee. ^{30:16} And therefore all they that devour thee, shall be devoured, and all thine enemies shall be led in to captivity. All they that make thee waste, shall be wasted themselves: and all those that rob thee, will I make also to be robbed. ^{30:17}For I will give thee thy health again and make thy wounds whole, sayeth the LORD: because they reviled thee, as one cast away and despised, O Sion. ^{30:18}For thus sayeth the LORD: Behold, I will set up Jacob's tents again, and defend his dwelling place. The city shall be builded in her old estate, and their houses shall have their right foundation. ^{30:19}And out of them shall go thanksgiving, and the voice of joy. I will multiply them, and they shall not diminish: I shall endue them with honour, and no man shall subdue them. ^{30:20}Their children shall be as aforetime, and their congregation shall continue in my sight. And all those that vex them, will I visit. ^{30:21}A captain also shall come of them, and a prince shall spring out from the midst of them: him will I challenge to myself, and he shall come unto me. For what is he, that giveth over his heart to come unto me? sayeth the LORD. ^{30:22}Ye shall be my people also, and I will be your God. ^{30:23}Behold, on the other side shall the wrath of the LORD break out as a stormy water, as a mighty whirl wind: and shall fall upon the heads of the ungodly. ^{30:24}The terrible displeasure of the LORD shall not leave off, until he have done, and performed the intent of his heart, which in the latter days ye shall understand. ^{31:1}At the same time (sayeth the LORD) shall I be the God of all the generations of Israel, and they shall be my people. ^{31:2}Thus sayeth the LORD: The people of Israel which escaped in the wilderness from the sword, found grace to come in to their rest. ^{31:3}Even so shall the LORD now also appear unto me from far, and say: I love thee with an everlasting love, therefore do I spread my mercy before thee. ^{31:4}I will repair thee again (O thou daughter of Israel) that thou mayest be fast and sure. Thou shalt take thy tabrets again, and go forth with them, that lead the dance. ^{31:5}Thou shalt plant vines again upon the hills of Samaria, and the grape gathers shall plant and sing. ^{31:6}And when it is time, the watchmen upon the mount of Ephraim shall cry: Arise, let us go up unto Sion to our LORD God, ^{31:7}for thus sayeth the LORD: Rejoice with gladness because of Jacob, cry unto the head of the Gentiles: speak out, sing, and say: the LORD shall deliver his people, the remnant of Israel, and make them whole. ^{31:8}Behold, I will bring them again from out of the north land, and gather them from the ends of the world, with the blind and lame that are among them, with the women that be great with child, and such as be also delivered: and the company of them that come again, shall be great. ^{31:9}They departed from hence in heaviness, but with joy will I bring them hither again. I will lead them by the rivers of water in a straight way, where they shall not stumble: For I will be Israel's father, and Ephraim shall be my firstborn. ^{31:10}Hear the word of the LORD, O ye Gentiles, preach in the Isles, that lie far off, and say: He that hath scattered Israel, shall gather him together again, and shall keep him as a shepherd doth his flock. ^{31:11}For the LORD shall redeem Jacob, and rid him from the hand of the violent. ^{31:12}And they shall come, and rejoice upon the hill of Sion, and shall have plenteousness of goods, which the LORD shall give them: Namely, wheat, wine, oil, young sheep and calves. And their conscience shall be as a well watered garden, for they shall no more be hungry. ^{31:13}Then shall the maid rejoice in the dance, yea both young and old folks. For I will turn their sorrow into gladness, and will comfort them and make them joyful, even from their hearts. ^{31:14}I will pour plenteousness upon the hearts of the priests, and my people shall be satisfied with good things, sayeth the LORD. ^{31:15}Thus sayeth the LORD: The voice of heaviness, weeping and lamentation came up in to heaven: even of Rachel mourning for her children, and would not be comforted, because they were away. ^{31:16}But now sayeth the LORD: Leave off from weeping, and crying, withhold thine eyes from tears, for thy labour shall be rewarded, sayeth the LORD. And they shall come again out of the land of their enemies: ^{31:17}Yea even thy posterity shall have consolation in this (sayeth the LORD) that thy children shall come again into their own land. ^{31:18}Moreover I heard Ephraim, that was led away captive, complain on this manner: O LORD, thou hast corrected me, and thy chastening have I received, as an untamed calf. Convert thou me, and I shall be converted, for thou art my LORD God. ^{31:19}Yea as soon as thou turnest me, I shall reform myself: and when I understand, I shall smite upon my thigh. For verily I have committed shameful things: O let my youth bear this reproof and confusion. ^{31:20}Upon this complaint, I thought thus by my self: Is not Ephraim my dear son? Is he not the child, with whom I have had all mirth and pastime? for since the time that I first communed^u with him, I have him ever in remembrance: therefore my very heart driveth me unto him, gladly and lovingly will I have mercy upon him, sayeth the LORD. ^{31:21}Get the watchman, provide teachers for thee: set thine heart upon the right way, that thou shouldest walk, and turn again (O thou daughter of Israel) turn again to these cities of thine. ^{31:22}How long wilt thou go astray, O thou shrinking daughter? For the LORD will work a new thing upon earth: A woman shall compass a man. ^{31:23}For thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: It will come thereto, that when I have brought Juda out of captivity, these words shall be heard in the land and in his cities: The LORD, which is the fair bridegroom of righteousness, make thee fruitful O thou holy hill: ^{31:24}And there shall dwell Juda, and all her cities, the shepherds and husbandmen: ^{31:25}For I shall feed the hungry soul, and refresh all faint hearts. ^{31:26}When I hear this I came again to myself, and mused, like as I had been waked out of a sweet sleep. ^{31:27}Behold (sayeth the LORD) the days come, that I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Juda with men and with cattle. ^{31:28}Yea it shall come thereto, that like as I have gone about in times past to root them out, to scatter them, to break them down, to destroy them and chasten them: Even so will I also go diligently about, to build them up again, and to plant them, sayeth the LORD. ^{31:29}Then shall it no more be said: the fathers have eaten a sour grape, and the children's teeth are set on edge: ^{31:30}for every one shall die for his own misdeed, so that who so eateth a sower grape, his teeth shall be set on edge. ^{31:31}Behold, the days come (sayeth the LORD) that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah: ^{31:32}not after the covenant that I made with their fathers, when I took them by the hand, and led them out of the land of Egypt: which covenant they brake, wherefore I punished them sore, sayeth the LORD: ^{31:33}But this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, sayeth the LORD: I will plant my law in the inward parts of them, and write it in their hearts, and will be their God, and they shall be my people. ^{31:34}And from thence forth shall no man teach his neighbour or his brother, and say: Know the LORD: But they shall all know me, from the lowest unto the highest, sayeth the LORD. For I will forgive their misdeeds, and will never remember their sins any more. ^{31:35}Thus sayeth the LORD which gave the sun to be a light for the day, and the moon and stars to shine in the night: which moveth the sea, so that the floods thereof wax fierce: his name is the LORD of Hosts. ^{31:36}Like as this ordinance shall never be taken out of my sight, sayeth the LORD: So shall the seed of Israel never cease, but all way be a people before me. ^{31:37}Moreover, thus sayeth the LORD: like as the heaven above can not be measured, and as the foundations of the earth beneath may not be sought out: So will I also not cast out the whole seed of Israel, for that they have committed, sayeth the LORD. ^{31:38}Behold, the days come sayeth the LORD, that the city of the LORD shall be enlarged from the tower of Hananeel, unto the gate of the corner wall. ^{31:39}From thence shall the right measure be taken before her unto the hill top of Gareb, and shall come about Gaath, ^{31:40}and the whole valley of the dead carcasses, and of the ashes, and all Ceremoth unto the brook of Cedron: and from thence unto the corner of the horse gate toward the East, whereas the Sanctuary of the LORD also shall be set. And when it is now builded, and set up of this fashion it shall never be broken, nor cast down any more. ^{32:1}These words spake the LORD unto Jeremy, in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nabuchodonosor, ^{32:2}what time as the king of Babylon's Host laid siege unto Jerusalem. But Jeremy the prophet lay bound in the court of the prison, which was in the king of Judah's house: ^{32:3}where Zedekiah the king of Judah caused him to be laid, because he had prophesied of this manner: Thus sayeth the LORD: Behold, I will deliver this city into the hands of the king of Babylon, which shall take it. ^{32:4}As for Zedekiah the king of Judah, he shall not be able to escape the Caldees, but surely he shall come into the hands of the king of Babylon: which shall speak with him mouth to mouth, and one of them shall look another in the face. ^{32:5}And Zedekiah shall be carried unto Babylon, and there shall he be, until the time that I visit him, sayeth the LORD. But if thou takest in hand to fight against the Caldees, thou shalt not prosper. ^{32:6}And Jeremy said: Thus hath the LORD spoken unto me: ^{32:7}Behold, Hananeel the son of Selum thine Uncle's son shall come unto thee, and require thee to redeem the land, that lieth in Anathoth unto thyself: for by reason of kindred it is thy part to redeem it, and to buy it out. ^{32:8}And so Hananeel mine uncle's son came to me in the court of the prison (according to the word of the LORD) and said unto me: Buy my land (I pray thee) that lieth in Anathoth in the country of Ben Jamin: for by heritage thou hast right to loose^v it out for thyself, therefore redeem it. Then I perceived, that this was the commandment of the LORD, ^{32:9}and so I loosed^w the land from Hananeel of Anathoth, mine Uncle's son, and weighed him there the money: even seven sicles, and ten silver pens. ^{32:10}I cause him also to make me a writing, and to seal it, and called record thereby, and weighed him there the money upon the weights. ^{32:11}So I took the evidence with the copy (when it was orderly sealed and read over) ^{32:12}and I gave the evidence unto Baruch the son of Neriah, the son of Maaseiah, in the sight of Hananeel my cousin, and in the presence of the witnesses, that be named in the evidence, and before all the Jews that were thereby in the court of the prison. ^{32:13}I charged Baruch also before them, saying: ^{32:14}The LORD of Hosts the God of Israel commandeth thee, to take this sealed evidence with the copy, and to lay it in an earthen vessel, that it may long continue. ^{32:15}For the LORD of Hosts of the God of Israel hath determined, that houses, fields and vineyards shall be possessed again in this land. ^{32:16}Now when I had delivered the evidence unto Baruch the son of Neriah, I besought the LORD, saying: ^{32:17}O Lord GOD;^x It is thou that hast made heaven and earth with thy great power and high arm, and there is nothing too hard for thee. ^{32:18}Thou shewest mercy upon thousands, thou recompenseth the wickedness of the fathers, into the bosom of the children that come after them. Thou art the great and mighty God, whose name is the LORD of Hosts: ^{32:19}great in counsel, and infinite in thought: Thine eyes look upon all the ways of men's children, to reward every one after his way, and according to the fruits of his inventions: ^{32:20}Thou hast done great tokens and wonders in the land of Egypt, (as we see this day) upon the people of Israel and upon those men: to make thy name great, as it is come to pass this day: ^{32:21}Thou hast brought thy people of Israel out of the land of Egypt, with tokens, with wonders, with a mighty hand, with a stretched out arm and with great terribleness: ^{32:22}and hast given them this land, like as thou hadst promised unto their fathers: Namely, that thou wouldest give them a land, that floweth with milk and honey. ^{32:23}Now when they came therein, and possessed it, they followed not thy voice, and walked not in thy law: but all that thou commandedst them to do, that have they not done, and therefore come all these plagues upon them. ^{32:24}Behold, there are bulwarks made now against the city, to take it: and it shall be won of the Caldees that besiege it, with sword, with hunger and death, and look what thou hast spoken, that same shall come upon them. For lo, all things are present unto thee: ^{32:25}Yet sayest thou unto me (O Lord GOD)^y and commandest me, that I shall loose a piece of land unto myself, and take witness thereto: and yet in the mean season the city is delivered in to the power of the Caldees. ^{32:26}Then came the word of the LORD unto me, saying: ^{32:27}Behold, I am the LORD God of all flesh, is there any thing then too hard for me? ^{32:28}Therefore thus said the LORD: behold, I shall deliver this city into the power of the Caldees, and into the power of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, they shall take it in: ^{32:29}For the Caldees shall come, and win this city, and set fire upon it, and burn it: with the gorgeous houses, in whose parlors they have made sacrifice unto Baal, and poured drink offerings unto strange gods, to provoke me unto wrath. ^{32:30}For seeing the children of Israel, and the children of Judah have wrought wickedness before me ever from their youth up, what have they else done, but provoked me with the works of their own hands? sayeth the LORD. ^{32:31}Or, what hath this city been else, but a provoking of my wrath, ever since the day that I builded it, unto this hour? Wherein I cast it out of my sight, ^{32:32}because of the great blasphemies of the children of Israel and Judah, which they have done to provoke me: yea they, their kings, their princes, their Priests, their Prophets, whole Judah, and all the citizens of Jerusalem. ^{32:33}When I stood up early, and taught them and instruct them, they turned their backs to me, and not their faces. ^{32:34}They would not hear, to be reformed and correct. They have set their gods in the house, that is hallowed unto my name, to defile it. ^{32:35}They have builded high places for Baal in the valley of the children of Hennom, to vow their sons and daughters unto Molech: which I never commanded them, neither came it ever in my thought, to make Judah sin with such abomination. ^{32:36}Moreover thus hath the LORD God of Israel spoken, concerning this city, which (as ye yourselves confess) shall be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon, when it is won with the sword, with hunger and with pestilence. ^{32:37}Behold, I will gather them together from all lands, wherein I have scattered them in my wrath, in my fearful and great displeasure: and will bring them again unto this place, where they shall dwell safely. ^{32:38}And they shall be my people, and I will be their God. ^{32:39}And I will give them one heart, and one way, that they may fear me all the days of their life, that they and their children after them may prosper. ^{32:40}And I will set up an everlasting covenant with them; Namely: that I will never cease to do them good, and that I will put my fear in their hearts, so that they shall not run away from me. ^{32:41}Yea I will have a lust and pleasure to do them good, and faithfully to plant them in this land, with my whole heart, and with all my soul. ^{32:42}For thus sayeth the LORD: Like as I have brought all this great plague upon this people: so will I also bring upon them all the good, that I have promised them. ^{32:43}And men shall have their possessions in this land, whereof ye say now, that it shall neither be inhabited of people nor of cattle, but be delivered into the hands of the Caldees. ^{32:44}Yea land shall be bought for money, and evidences made there upon and sealed before witnesses in the country of Ben Jamin, and round about Jerusalem: in the cities of Judah, in the cities that are upon the mountains, and in them that lie beneath, yea and in the cities that are in the desert. For I will bring their prisoners hither again, sayeth the LORD. ^{33:1}Moreover the word of the LORD came unto Jeremy on this manner, when he was yet bound in the court of the prison: ^{33:2}Thus sayeth the LORD, which fullfilleth the thing that he speaketh, the LORD which performeth the thing that he taketh in hand: even he, whose name is the LORD: ^{33:3}thou hast cried unto me, and I have heard thee: I have shewed great and high things, which were unknown unto you. ^{33:4}Thus (I say) spake the LORD God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city, and the houses of the kings of Judah: that they shall be broken thorow the ordinance and weapons, ^{33:5}when the Caldees come to besiege them: and they shall be filled with the dead carcasses of men, whom I will slay in my wrath and displeasure: when I turn my face from this city, because of all her wickedness. ^{33:6}Behold, (sayeth the LORD) I will heal their wounds and make them whole: I will open them the treasure of peace and truth. ^{33:7}And I will return the captivity of Judah and Israel: and will set them up again as they were afore. ^{33:8}From all misdeeds (wherein they have offended against me) I will cleanse them: And all their blasphemies which they have done against me, when they regarded me not, I will forgive them. ^{33:9}And this shall get me a name, and praise and honour, among all people of the earth, which shall hear all the good, that I will shew unto them: Yea they shall be afraid and astonied at all the good deeds and benefits, that I will do for them. ^{33:10}Moreover thus sayeth the LORD: In this place, whereof ye say that it shall be a wilderness, wherein neither people nor cattle shall dwell: in like manner in the cities of Judah and without Jerusalem (which also shall be so void, that neither people nor cattle shall dwell there) ^{33:11}Shall the voice of gladness be heard again, the voice of the Bridegroom and of the bride, the voice of them that shall sing: Praise the LORD of Hosts, for he is loving and his mercy endureth for ever, and the voice of them that shall offer up gifts in the house of the LORD. For I will restore the captivity of this land, as it was afore, sayeth the LORD. ^{33:12}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: It shall come yet thereto, that in this land, which is void from men and cattle, and in all the cities of the land, there shall be set up shepherds cottages: ^{33:13}in the cities upon the mountains: and in the cities that lie upon the plain, and in the desert. In the land of Ben Jamin, in the fields of Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah shall the sheep be numbered again, under the hand of him, that telleth them, sayeth the LORD. ^{33:14}Behold, the time cometh, sayeth the LORD, that I will perform the good thing, which I have promised unto the house of Israel and to the house of Judah. ^{33:15}In those days, and at the same time, I will bring forth unto David the branch of righteousness, and he shall do equity and righteousness in the land.^z ^{33:16}In those days shall Judah be helped, and Jerusalem shall dwell safe, and he that shall call her is even GOD our righteous maker.^a ^{33:17}For thus the LORD promiseth: David shall never want one, to sit upon the stool of the house of Israel: ^{33:18}neither shall the priests and Levites want one to offer alway before me burnt offerings, to kindle the meat offerings, and to prepare the sacrifices. ^{33:19}And the word of the LORD came unto Jeremy after this manner: ^{33:20}Thus sayeth the LORD: May the covenant which I have made with day and night be broken, that there should not be day and night in due season? ^{33:21}Then may my covenant also be broken, which I made with David my servant, and so he not to have a son to reign in his Throne. So shall also the priests and Levites never fail, but serve me. ^{33:22}For like as the stars of heaven may not be numbered, neither the sand of the sea measured: so will I multiply the seed of David my servant, and of the Levites my ministers. ^{33:23}Moreover, the word of the LORD came to Jeremy, saying: ^{33:24}Considerest thou not what this people speaketh? Two kindreds (say they) had the LORD chosen, and those same two hath he cast away. For so far is my people come, that they have no hope to come together any more, and to be one people again. ^{33:25}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD: If I have made no covenant with day and night, and given no statute unto heaven and earth: ^{33:26}then will I also cast away the seed of David my servant: so that I will take no prince out of his seed, to rule the posterity of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. But yet I will turn again their captivity, and be merciful unto them. ^{34:1}These are the words which the LORD spake unto Jeremy, what time as Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, and all his Hosts (out of all the kingdoms that were under his power) and all his people, fought against Jerusalem, and all the cities thereof. ^{34:2}Thus sayeth the LORD God of Israel: Go, and speak to Zedekiah the king of Judah, and tell him: The LORD sendeth thee this word: Behold, I will deliver this city in to the hand of the king of Babylon, he shall burn it, ^{34:3}and thou shalt not escape his hands, but shalt be led away prisoner, and delivered into his power. Thou shalt look the king of Babylon in the face and he shall speak with thee mouth to mouth, and then shalt thou go to Babylon. ^{34:4}Yet hear the word of the LORD, O Zedekiah thou king of Judah: Thus sayeth the LORD unto thee: Thou shalt not be slain with the sword, ^{34:5}but shalt die in peace. Like as thy forefathers the kings, thy progenitors, were brent: so shalt thou be brent also, and in the mourning they shall say: Oh lord. For thus have I determined, sayeth the LORD. ^{34:6}Then spake Jeremy the prophet all these words unto Sedekiah king of Judah in Jerusalem: ^{34:7}what time as the king of Babylon's host besieged Jerusalem, and the remnant of the cities: Namely, Lachis and Azecah, which yet remained of the strong defended cities of Judah. ^{34:8}These are the words that the LORD spake unto Jeremy the prophet, when Sedekiah was agreed with all the people at Jerusalem, that there should be proclaimed a liberty: ^{34:9}so that every man should let his servant and handmaid go free, Hebrue and Hebruess, and no Jew to hold his brother as a bond man. ^{34:10}Now as they had consented, even so they were obedient, and let them go ^zBehold, the days will come saith the LORD, that I will stir up unto David a righteous branch, and he shall reign a king, and shall be wise, and shall do equity and justice in the earth.

^aAnd in his days Judah shall be safe, and Israel shall dwell without fear. And this is the name that they shall call him: the LORD our righteousness. Wherefore the days will come saith the LORD, that they shall say no more, the Lord liveth that brought the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt. But the LORD liveth which delivered and brought the seed of the house of Israel, out of the land of the north and from all lands whether I thrust them. And they shall dwell in their own land saith the LORD God almighty.

free. ^{34:11}But afterward they repented, and took again the servants and the hand maidens, whom they had let go free, and so made them bond again. ^{34:12}For the which cause the word of the LORD came unto Jeremy from the LORD himself, saying: ^{34:13}Thus sayeth the LORD God of Israel: I made a covenant with your fathers, when I brought them out of Egypt, (that they should no more be bondmen) saying: ^{34:14}When seven years are out, every man shall let his bought servant an Hebrue go free, if he have served him six years. But your fathers obeyed me not and hearkened not unto me. ^{34:15}As for you, ye were now turned, and did right before me, in that ye proclaimed, every man to let his neighbour go free, and in that ye made a covenant before me, in the temple that beareth my name: ^{34:16}But yet ye have turned yourselves again, and blasphemed my name: In this, that every man hath required his servant and handmaid again, whom ye had letten go quite and free, and compelled them to serve you again, and to be your bond men. ^{34:17}And therefore thus sayeth the LORD: Ye have not obeyed me, every man to proclaim freedom unto his brother and neighbour: wherefore, I will call you unto a freedom, sayeth the LORD: even unto the sword, to the pestilence, and to hunger, and will make you to be plagued in all the kingdoms of the earth. ^{34:18}Yea those men that have broken my covenant, and not kept the words of the appointment, which they made before me: when they hewed the calf in two, and when there went thorow the two halves thereof: ^{34:19}The princes of Judah, the princes of Jerusalem, the gelded men, the Priests and all the people of the land, which went thorow the two sides of the calf. ^{34:20}Those men will I give into the power of their enemies, and in to the hands of them that follow upon their lives. And their dead bodies shall be meat for the fowls of the air, and beasts of the field. ^{34:21}As for Zedekiah the king of Judah and his princes, I will deliver them into the power of their enemies, and of them that desire to slay them, and into the hand of the king of Babylon's host, which now is departed from you. ^{34:22}But thorow my commandment (sayeth the LORD) they shall come again before this city, they shall fight against it, win it, and burn it. Moreover I will lay the cities of Judah so waste, that no man shall dwell therein. ^{35:1}The words which the LORD spake unto Jeremy, in the reign of Jehoakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, are these: ^{35:2}Go unto the house of the Rechabites, and call them out, and bring them to the house of the LORD in to some commodious place, and give them wine to drink. ^{35:3}Then took I Jazaniah the son of Jeremy the son of Habaziniah, and his brethren and all his sons, and the whole household of the Rechabites: ^{35:4}and brought them to the house of the LORD, in to the closet of the children of Hanan the son of Igedaliah the man of God: which was by the closet of the princes, that is above the closet of Maasiah the son of Selum, which is the chief of the treasury. ^{35:5}And before the sons of the kindred of the Rechabites, I set pots full of wine, and cups, and said unto them: Drink wine. ^{35:6}But they said: We drink no wine, for Jonadab the son of Rechab our father commanded us, saying: Ye and your sons shall never drink wine, build no houses, sow not seed, plant no vines, ^{35:7}yea ye shall have no vineyards: but for all your time ye shall dwell in tents, that ye may live long in the land, wherein ye be strangers. ^{35:8}Thus have we obeyed the commandment of Jonadab the son of Rechab our father, in all that he hath charged us, and so we drink no wine all our life long: we, nor our wives, our sons, and our daughters. ^{35:9}Neither build we any house to dwell therein, we have also among us neither vineyards, nor corn land to sow: ^{35:10}but we dwell in tents, we obey, and do according unto all, that Jonadab our father commanded us. ^{35:11}But now that Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon came up into the land, we said come, let us go to Jerusalem, that we may escape the host of the Caldees and the Assyrians: and so we dwell now at Jerusalem. ^{35:12}Then came the word of the LORD unto Jeremy saying: ^{35:13}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Go and tell whole Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem: Will ye not be reformed, to obey my words? sayeth the LORD. ^{35:14}The words which Jonadab the son of Rechab commanded his sons, that they should drink no wine, are fast and surely kept: for unto this day they drink no wine but obey their father's commandment. But as for me, I have stand^b up early, I have spoken unto you, and given you earnest warning: and yet have ye not been obedient unto me. ^{35:15}Yea I have sent my servants, all the prophets unto you, I rose up early, and sent you word, saying: O turn you, every man from his wicked way: amend your lives, and go not after strange gods, to worship them: that ye may continue in the land, which I have given unto you and your fathers, but ye would neither hear me, nor follow me. ^{35:16}The children of Jonadab Rachab's son have steadfastly kept their father's commandment, that he gave them, but this people is not obedient unto me. ^{35:17}And therefore thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Behold, I will bring upon Judah and upon everyone that dwelleth in Jerusalem, all the trouble that I have devised against them. For I have spoken unto them, but they would not follow: I have called unto them, nevertheless they would give me no answer. ^{35:18}Jeremy also spake unto the household of the Rechabites: Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: For so much as ye have obeyed the commandment of Jonadab your father, and kept all his precepts, and done according unto all that he hath bidden you: ^{35:19}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts, the God of Israel: Jonadab the son of Rechab shall not fail, but have one out of his stock, to stand^c alway before me. ^{36:1}In the fourth year of Jehoakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, came the word of the LORD unto Jeremy, saying: ^{36:2}Take a book, and write therein all the words, that I have spoken to thee, to Israel, to Judah, and to all the people, from the time that I began for to speak unto thee (in the reign of Josiah) unto this day. ^{36:3}That when the house of Judah heareth of the plague, which I have devised for them, they may peradventure turn, every man from his wicked way, that I may forgive their offenses and sins. ^{36:4}Then did Jeremy call Baruch the son of Neriah, and Baruch wrote in the book at the mouth of Jeremy, all the words of the LORD, which he had spoken unto him. ^{36:5}And Jeremy commanded Baruch, saying: I am in prison, so that I may not come into the house of the LORD: ^{36:6}therefore go thou thither, and read the book, that thou hast written at my mouth: Namely, the words of the LORD, and read them in the LORD's house upon the fasting day: that the people, whole Judah, and all they that come out of the cities, may hear. ^{36:7}Peradventure they will pray meekly before the face of LORD, and turn, every one from his wicked way. For great is the wrath and displeasure, that the LORD hath taken against this people. ^{36:8}So Baruch the son of Neriah did, according unto all that Jeremy the Prophet commanded him, reading the words of the LORD out of the book in the LORD's house. ^{36:9}And this was done in the fifth year of Jehoakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, in the ninth month when it was commanded, that all the people of Jerusalem should fast before the LORD, and they also that were come from the cities of Judah unto Jerusalem. ^{36:10}Then read Baruch the words of Jeremy out of the book within the house of the LORD, out of the treasury of Gamariah the son of Saphan the Scribe, which is beside the higher loft of the new door of the LORD's house: that all the people might hear. ^{36:11}Now when Micheah the son of Gamariah the son of Saphan had heard all the words of the LORD out of the book, ^{36:12}he went down to the king's palace into the Scribe's chamber, for there all the princes were set: Elisama the Scribe, Dalaiah the son of Semei, Elnathan the son of Acabor, Gamariah the son of Saphan, Zedekiah the son of Hananiah, with all the princes. ^{36:13}And Micheah told them all the words, that he heard Baruch read out of the book before the people. ^{36:14}Then all the princes sent Jehudi the son of Nathaniah, the son of Selamiah, the son of Chusi, unto Baruch, saying: Take in thine hand the book, whereout thou hast read before all the people, and come. So Baruch the son of Neriah took the book in his hand, and came unto them. ^{36:15}And they said unto him: Sit down, and read the book that we may hear also. So Baruch read, that they might hear. ^{36:16}Now when they had heard all the words, they were abashed one upon another, and said unto Baruch: We will certify the king of all these words. ^{36:17}And they examined Baruch, saying: Tell us, how didst thou write all these words out of his mouth? ^{36:18}Then Baruch answered them: He spake all these words unto me with his mouth, and I alone was with him, and wrote them in the book. ^{36:19}Then said the princes unto Baruch: Go thy way, and hide thee with Jeremy, so that no man know where ye be. ^{36:20}And they went in to the king to the court; but they kept the book in the chamber of Elisama the Scribe, and told the king all the words that he might hear. ^{36:21}So the king sent Jehudi to fetch him the book, which he brought out of Elisama the Scribe's chamber. And Jehudi read it, that the king and all the princes, which were about him might hear. ^{36:22}Now the king sat in the winter house, for it was in the ninth Month, and there was a good fire before him. ^{36:23}And when Jehudi had read three or four leaves thereof, he cut the book in pieces with a pen knife, and cast it into the fire upon the hearth, until the book was all brent in the fire upon the hearth. ^{36:24}Yet no man was abashed thereof, or rent his clothes: neither the king himself, nor his servants, though they heard all these words. ^{36:25}Nevertheless Elnathan, Dalaiah, and Gamariah besought the king, that he would not burn the book: notwithstanding the king would not hear them, ^{36:26}but commanded Jerahmeel the son of Amalech, and Saraiah the son of Ezriel and Selamiah the son of Abdiel, to lay hands on Baruch the Scribe, and upon Jeremy the Prophet: but the LORD kept them out of sight. ^{36:27}After now that the king had brent the book, and the sermons which Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremy: The word of the LORD came unto Jeremy, saying: ^{36:28}Take another book, and write in it all the foresaid sermons: that were written in the first book, which Jehoakim the king of Judah hath brent. ^{36:29}And tell Jehoakim king of Judah: Thus sayeth the LORD: Thou hast brent the book, and thou thoughtest within thyself: Why hast thou written therein, that the king of Babylon shall come, and make this land waste, so that he shall make both people and cattle to be out of it? ^{36:30}Therefore thus the LORD sayeth, of Jehoakim the king of Judah: There shall none of his generation sit upon the throne of David. His dead corse shall be cast out, that the heat of the day, and the frost of the night may come upon him. ^{36:31}And I will visit the wickedness of him, of his seed, and of his servants. Moreover all the evil that I have promised them (though they heard me not) will I bring upon them, upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and upon all Judah. ^{36:32}Then took Jeremy another book, and gave it Baruch the Scribe, the son of Neriah, which wrote therein out of the mouth of Jeremy: all the sermons that were in the first book, which Jehoakim the king of Judah did burn. And there were added unto them many more sermons, than before. ^{37:1}Zedekiah the son of Josiah, which was made king thorow Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, reigned in the land of Juda, in the stead of Cononiah the son of Jehoakim. ^{37:2}But neither he, nor his servants, nor the people in the land would obey the words of the LORD, which he spake by the Prophet Jeremy. ^{37:3}Nevertheless Zedekiah the king sent Jehucal the son of Selamiah and Sophoniah the son of Maasiah the Priest to the Prophet Jeremy, saying: O pray thou unto the LORD our God for us. ^{37:4}Now Jeremy walked free among the people at that time, and was not put in prison as yet. ^{37:5}Pharaoh's host also was come out of Egypt: which when the Caldees that besieged Jerusalem perceived, they departed from thence. ^{37:6}Then came the word of the LORD unto Jeremy the Prophet, saying: ^{37:7}Thus sayeth the LORD God of Israel; This answer shall ye give to the king of Judah, that sent you unto me for counsel: Behold, Pharaoh's host which is come forth to help you, shall return to Egypt in to his own land: ^{37:8}but the Caldees shall come again, and fight against this city, win it, and set fire upon it. ^{37:9}For thus sayeth the LORD: Deceive not your own minds, thinking on this manner: Tush, the Caldees go now their way from us: No, they shall not go their way. ^{37:10}For though ye had slain the whole host of the Caldees, that besiege you, and every one of the slain lay in his tent, yet should they stand up, and set fire upon this city. ^{37:11}Now when the Host of the Caldees was broken up from Jerusalem for fear of the Egyptian's army, ^{37:12}Jeremy went out of Jerusalem toward the land of Ben Jamin, to do certain business there among the people. ^{37:13}And when he came under Ben Jamin's port, there was a porter, called Jeriah, the son of Selemiah, the son of Hananiah, which fell upon him, and took him, saying: Thy mind is to run to the Caldees. ^{37:14}Then said Jeremy: It is not so, I go not to the Caldees. Nevertheless Jeriah would not believe him, but brought Jeremy bound before the princes. ^{37:15}Wherefore the princes were angry with Jeremy, causing him to be beaten, and to be laid in prison in the house of Jonathas the scribe. For he was the ruler of the prison. ^{37:16}Thus was Jeremy put into the dungeon and prison, and so lay there a long time. ^{37:17}Then Zedekiah the king sent for him and called him, and asked him quietly in his own house, saying: thinkest thou this business (that now is in hand) cometh of the LORD? Jeremy answered: yea that it doth: and thou (said he) shalt be delivered in to the king of Babylon's power. ^{37:18}Moreover, Jeremy said unto king Zedekiah: What have I offended against thee, against thy servants or against this people, that ye have caused me to be put in prison? ^{37:19}Where are your prophets which have prophesied unto you, and said, that the king of Babylon should not come against you and this land? ^{37:20}And therefore hear now, O my lord the king: let my prayer be accepted before thee, and send me no more into the house of Jonathas the Scribe, that I die not there. ^{37:21}Then Zedekiah the king commanded to put Jeremy in the fore entry of the prison, and daily to be given him a cake of bread, and else no dight meat, until all the bread in the city was eaten up. Thus Jeremy remained in the fore entry of the prison. ^{38:1}Saphatiah the son of Mathan, Godoliah the son of Phashur, and Jucal the son of Selemiah, and Phashur the son of Melchiah, perceived the words, that Jeremy had spoken unto all the people, namely on this manner: ^{38:2}Thus sayeth the LORD: Who so remaineth in this city, shall perish, either with the sword, with hunger or with pestilence: But who so falleth unto the Caldees, shall escape, winning his soul for a pray, and shall live. ^{38:3}For thus sayeth the LORD. This city (no doubt) must be delivered into the power of the king of Babylon, and he also shall win it. ^{38:4}Then said the princes unto the king: Sir, we beseech you let this man be put to death; For thus he discourageth the hands of the soldiers that be in this city, and the hands of all the people, when he speaketh such words unto them. This man verily laboureth not for peace of the people, but mischief. ^{38:5}Zedekiah the king answered and said: Lo, he is in your hands, for the king may deny you nothing. ^{38:6}Then took they Jeremy, and cast him into the dungeon of Melchiah the son of Hamelech, that dwelt in the fore entry of the prison. And they let down Jeremy with cords into a dungeon, where there was no water, but mire. ^{38:7}So Jeremy stack fast in the mire. Now when Abedmelech the Morian being a chamberlain in the king's court, understood, that they had cast Jeremy in to the dungeon: ^{38:8}he went out of the king's house, and spake to the king, (which then sat under the port of Ben Jamin) these words: ^{38:9}My lord the king, where as these men meddle with Jeremy the prophet, they do him wrong: Namely, in that they have put him in prison, there to die of hunger for there is no more bread in the city. ^{38:10}Then the king commanded Abedmelech the Morian and said: Take from hence thirty men whom thou wilt, and draw up Jeremy the prophet out of the dungeon, before he die. ^{38:11}So Abedmelech took the men with him, and went to the house of Amalech, and there under an almery he gat old rags and worn clothes, and let them down by a cord, into the dungeon to Jeremy. ^{38:12}And Abedmelech the Morian said unto the prophet Jeremy: O put these rags and clothes under thine arm holes, betwixt them and the cords: And Jeremy did so. ^{38:13}So they drew up Jeremy with cords and took him out of the dungeon, and he remained in the fore entry of the prison. ^{38:14}Then Zedekiah the king sent and caused Jeremy the prophet be called unto him, into the third entry, that was by the house of the LORD. And the king said unto Jeremy: I will ask thee somewhat but hide nothing from me. ^{38:15}Then Jeremy answered Zedekiah: If I be plain unto thee, thou wilt cause me suffer death: If I give thee counsel, thou wilt not follow me. ^{38:16}So the king swore an oath secretly unto Jeremy, saying: As truly as the LORD liveth, that made us these souls, I will not slay thee, nor give thee in to the hands of them that seek after thy life. ^{38:17}Then said Jeremy unto Zedekiah: Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: If cause be, that thou wilt go forth unto the king of Babylon's princes, thou shalt save thy life, and this city shall not be brent, yea both thou and thy household shall escape with your lives. ^{38:18}But if thou wilt not go forth to the king of Babylon's princes, then shall this city be delivered into the hands of the Caldees which shall set fire upon it, and thou shalt not be able to escape them. ^{38:19}And Zedekiah said unto Jeremy: I am afraid for the Jews, that are fled unto the Caldees, lest I come in their hands, and so they to have me in derision. ^{38:20}But Jeremy answered: No, they shall not betray thee: O hearken unto the voice of the LORD

(I beseech thee) which I speak unto thee, so shalt thou be well, and save thy life. ^{38:21} But if thou wilt not go forth, the LORD hath told me this plainly: ^{38:22} Behold, all the women that are left in the king of Judah's house, shall go out to the king of Babylon's princes. For they think, that thou art deceived: and that the men in whom thou didst put thy trust, have gotten thee under, and set thy feet fast in the mire, and gone their way from thee. ^{38:23} Therefore all thy wives with their children shall flee unto the Caldees, and thou shalt not escape their hands, but shalt be the king of Babylon's prisoner, and this city shall be brent. ^{38:24} Then said Zedekiah unto Jeremy: Look that no body know of these words, and thou shalt not die. ^{38:25} But if the princes perceive, that I have talked with thee, and come unto thee, saying: O speak, what said the king to thee? hide it not from us, and we will not put thee to death. Tell us (we pray thee) what said the king to thee? ^{38:26} See thou give them this answer: I have humbly besought the king, that he will let me lie no more in Jehonathan's house, that I die not there. ^{38:27} Then came all the princes unto Jeremy, and asked him. And he told them, after the manner as the king bade him. Then they held their peace, for they perceived nothing. ^{38:28} So Jeremy abode still in the fore entry of the prison, until the day that Jerusalem was won. ^{39:1} Now when the city of Jerusalem was taken (for in the ninth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the tenth Month, came Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon and all his Host, and besieged Jerusalem. ^{39:2} And in the eleventh year of Zedekiah in the fourth Month the ninth day of that Month, he brake in to the city) ^{39:3} Then all the princes of the king of Babylon, came in, and sat them down under the port: Nerergel, Sarezzer, Samegarnabo, Sarsechim, Rabsaris, Nergel, Sarezzer, Rabmag, with all the other princes of the king of Babylon. ^{39:4} And when Zedekiah the king of Judah with his soldiers saw them, they fled, and departed out of the city by night thorow the king's garden, and thorow the port that is between the two walls, and so they went toward the wilderness. ^{39:5} But the Caldees' Host followed fast after them, and took Zedekiah in the field of Jericho, and brought him prisoner to Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon unto Reblath, that lieth in the land of Hemath where he gave judgment upon him. ^{39:6} So the king of Babylon caused the children of Zedekiah and all the nobles of Judah be slain, before his face at Reblath. ^{39:7} And made Zedekiah's eyes to be put out, and bound him with chains, and sent him to Babylon. ^{39:8} Moreover, the Caldees brent up the king's palace, with the other houses of the people, and brake down the walls of Jerusalem. ^{39:9} As for the remnant of the people that were in the city, and such as were come to help them (whatsoever was left of the common sort) Nabuzaradan the chief captain carried them to Babylon. ^{39:10} But Nabuzaradan the chief captain let the rascall people (and those that had nothing) dwell still in the land of Judah, and gave them vineyards and corn fields at the same time. ^{39:11} Nabuchodonosor also the king of Babylon gave Nabuzaradan the chief captain a charge, concerning Jeremy, saying: ^{39:12} Take and cherish him, and make much of him: see thou do him no harm, but intreat him after his own desire. ^{39:13} So Nabuzaradan the chief captain, Nabusasban the chief chamberlain, Nergalsarezzer the treasurer and all the king of Babylon's lords, sent for Jeremy, ^{39:14} and caused him be fet out of the fore entry of the prison, and committed him unto Godoliah the son of Ahikam the son of Saphan: that he should carry him home, and so he dwelt among the people. ^{39:15} Now while Jeremy lay yet bound in the fore entry of the prison, the word of the LORD came unto him, saying: ^{39:16} Go and tell Abedmelech the Morian: Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Behold, the cruel and sharp plague that I have devised for this city, will I bring upon them, that thou shalt see it: ^{39:17} but I will deliver thee (sayeth the LORD) and thou shalt not come in the hands of those men, whom thou fearest. ^{39:18} For doubtless I will save thee, so that thou shalt not perish with the sword: but thy life shall be saved, and that because thou hast put thy trust in me, sayeth the LORD. ^{40:1} This is the manner how the LORD intreated Jeremy, when Nabuzaradan the chief Captain had let him go free from Raniah, whither he had led him bound among all the prisoners, that were carried from Jerusalem and Judah unto Babylon. ^{40:2} The chief Captain called for Jeremy, and said unto him: The LORD thy God spake mightily before of the misery upon this place: ^{40:3} Now the LORD hath sent it, and performed it as he had promised: For ye have sinned against the LORD, and have not been obedient to his voice, therefore cometh this plague upon you. ^{40:4}Behold, I loose^d the bounds from thy hands this day: if thou wilt now go with me unto Babylon, up then: for I will see to thee, and provide for thee: But if thou wilt not go with me to Babylon, then remain here. Behold, all the land is at thy will, look where thou thinkest convenient and good for thee to abide, there dwell. ^{40:5}If thou canst not be content to dwell alone, then remain with Godoliah the son of Ahicam, the son of Saphan: whom the king of Babylon hath made governor over the cities of Judah, and dwell with him among the people, or remain wheresoever it pleaseth thee. So the chief Captain of the guard gave him his expenses with a reward, and let him go. ^{40:6}Then went Jeremy unto Godoliah the son of Ahicam to Mazpah, and dwelt there with him among the people that were left in the land. ^{40:7}Now when the captains of the Host of Juda (which with their fellows were scattered abroad on every side in the land) understood that the king of Babylon had made Godoliah the son of Ahicam governor in the land, and that man, wife and child, yea and the poor men in the land (that were not led captive to Babylon) should be under his Jurisdiction: ^{40:8}They came to Godoliah unto Mazpah: Namely, Ishmael the son of Nathaniah, and Johanan and Jonathah the sons of Careah, and Saraiah the son of Thanhometh, and the sons of Ophai the Netophathite, and Jesaniah the son of Maachati, with their companions. ^{40:9}And Godoliah the son of Ahicam, the son of Saphan, swore unto them and their fellows on this manner: Be not afraid to serve the Caldees, dwell in the land, and do the king of Babylon service, so shall ye prosper. ^{40:10}Behold, I dwell at Mazpah to be an officer in the Caldees behalf, and to satisfy such as come to us. Therefore gather you wine, corn and oil, and keep them in your ware houses, and dwell in your cities that ye have in keeping. ^{40:11}Yea all the Jews also that dwelt in Moab, under the Ammonites, in Idumea and in all the countries, when they heard, that the king of Babylon had made Godoliah the son of Ahicam the son of Saphan, governor upon them that were left in

Juda: ^{40:12}All the Jews (I say) returned out of all places where they^e fled unto: and came in to the land of Judah, to Godoliah unto Mazpah, and gathered wine and other fruits, and that very much. ^{40:13}Moreover Johanan the son of Careah and all the captains of the Host, that were scattered on every side in the land, came to Godoliah to Mazpah, and said unto him: ^{40:14}knowest thou not that Baalis king of the Ammonites hath sent Ismael the son of Nathaniah, to slay thee? But Godoliah the son of Ahicam believed them not. ^{40:15}Then said Johanan the son of Careah unto Godoliah in Mazpah these words secretly: Let me go, I pray thee, and I will slay Ismael the son of Nathaniah, so that no body shall know it. Wherefore will he kill thee, that all the Jews which resort unto thee, might be scattered, and the remnant in Judah perish? ^{40:16}Then said Godoliah the son of Ahicam to Johanan the son of Careah: Thou shalt not do it, for they are but lies, that men say of Ismael. ^{41:1}But in the seventh Month it happened, that Ismael the son of Nathaniah the son of Elisama (one of the king's blood) came with them that were greatest about the king, and ten men that were sworn with him: unto Godoliah the son of Ahicam to Mazpah, and ate there together. ^{41:2}And Ismael the son of Nathaniah, with those ten men that were sworn to him, start up, and smote Godoliah the son of Ahicam the son of Saphan with the sword, and slew him, whom the king of Babylon had made governor of the land. ^{41:3}Ismael also slew all the Jews that were with Godoliah at Mazpah, and all the Caldees that he found there waiting upon him. ^{41:4}The next day after that he had slain Godoliah (the matter was yet unknown) ^{41:5}there came certain men from Sichem, from Siloh and Samaria, to the number of eighty, which had shaven their beards, rent their clothes, and were all heavy, bringing meat offerings, and incense in their hands, to offer it in the house of the LORD. ^{41:6}And Ismael the son of Nathaniah went forth of Mazpah weeping, to meet them. Now when he met them, he said: Go your way to Godoliah the son of Ahicam. ^{41:7}And when they came in the midst of the city, Ismael the son of Nathaniah (with them that were sworn unto him) slew them, even at the middest of the pit. ^{41:8}Among these eighty men there were ten, that said unto Ismael: Oh slay us not, for we have yet a great treasure in the field, of wheat, barley, oil and honey. So he spared them, and slew them not with their brethren. ^{41:9}Now the pit wherein Ismael did cast the dead bodies of the men (whom he slew because of Godoliah) had king Asa caused to be made, for fear of Baasa the king of Israel, and the same pit did Ismael fill with slain men. ^{41:10}As for the remnant of the people, the king's daughters and all the people that were yet left at Mazpah, upon whom Nabusaradan the chief Captain had made Godoliah the son of Ahicam governor: Ismael the son of Nathaniah carried them away prisoners toward the Ammonites. ^{41:11}But when Johanan the son of Careah, and all they which had been captains over the king's Host with him, heard of all the wickedness that Ismael the son of Nathaniah had done: ^{41:12}they took their companions, and went out for to fight with Ismael the son of Nathaniah, and found him by the waters of Rabim in Gabaon. ^{41:13}Now when all the people, whom Ismael led captive, saw Johanan the son of Careah and all the other Captains of the Host, they were glad. ^{41:14}So all the people that Ismael had carried away from Mazpah, were brought again. And when they returned, they came to Johanan the son of Careah. ^{41:15}But Ismael the son of Nathaniah fled from Johanan with eight of his sworn companions, and went to the Ammonites. ^{41:16}Then Johanan the son of Careah, and all the captains of the Host that were with him, took the remnant of the people, whom Ismael the son of Nathaniah had led away (when he had slain Godoliah the son of Ahicam) whom they also had rescued from him: fighting men, women and children, and gelded men, whom they brought again from Gabaon: ^{41:17}and went from thence, and sat them down at Geruth Camaam, which lieth beside Bethlehem, that they might go into Egypt for fear of the Caldees: ^{41:18}of whom they were afraid, because that Ismael the son of Nathaniah had slain Godoliah Ahikam's son, whom the king of Babylon had made governor in the land. ^{42:1}So all the rulers, and Johanan the son of Kareah, Jezaniah the son of Osaiah came with all the people from the least unto the most, ^{42:2}and said unto Jeremy the prophet: O hear our petition, that thou mayest pray for us unto the LORD thy God, and for the remnant, whereof there be very few left of many, as thou seest us: ^{42:3}that the LORD thy God may shew us a way to go in, and tell us, what we should do. ^{42:4}Then Jeremy the Prophet said unto them: I have heard you. Behold, I will pray unto God your LORD, as ye have required me: and look what answer the LORD giveth you, I shall certify you thereof, and keep nothing back from you. ^{42:5}And they said to Jeremy: The LORD of truth and faithfulness be our record, that we will do all, that the LORD thy God commandeth us, ^{42:6}whether it be good or evil. We will hearken unto the voice of our LORD God to whom we send thee that we may prosper, when we have followed the voice of the LORD our God. ^{42:7}And after ten days, came the word of the LORD unto Jeremy. ^{42:8}Then called he Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the people that were with him: Yea and all the people from the least to the most, ^{42:9}and said unto them: Thus sayeth the LORD God of Israel unto whom ye sent me, to lay forth your prayers before him: ^{42:10}If ye will dwell in this land, I shall build you up, and not break you down: I shall plant you, and not root you out: for I am pacified, as concerning the trouble that I have done to you. ^{42:11}Fear not the king of Babylon, of whom ye stand in awe: O be not afraid of him, sayeth the LORD: for I will be with you, to help you, and deliver you from his hand. ^{42:12}I will pardon you, I will have mercy upon you, and bring you again into your own land. ^{42:13}Nevertheless, if ye purpose not to dwell in this land, nor to follow the voice of the LORD your God: ^{42:14}but will say thus, we will not dwell here, but go into Egypt: where we shall neither see war, hear the noise of battle, nor suffer hunger, there will we dwell. ^{42:15}Wherefore hear now the word of the LORD, O ye remnant of Judah. Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: If ye be wholly purposed to go into Egypt, and to be there as strangers: ^{42:16}the sword that ye fear, shall overtake you in Egypt: and the hunger whereof ye be here afraid, shall hang upon you into Egypt and there ye shall die. ^{42:17}For all they, that of set purpose undertake to go into Egypt, there to ease themselves of their misery, shall perish with the sword, with hunger and pestilence: not one of them shall remain, there shall none escape the plague, that

I will bring upon them. ^{42:18}For thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Like as my wrath and indignation is come upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so shall my displeasure go forth upon you also, if ye go into Egypt: For there ye shall be reviled, abhorred, brought to shame and confusion: and as for this place, ye shall never see it more. ^{42:19}The LORD forbideth you (O ye remnant of Juda) that ye shall not go in to Egypt. And forget not that I have warned you earnestly this day else shall ye beguile yourselves. ^{42:20}For ye sent me unto the LORD your God and said: O pray thou the LORD our God for us: and look what answer the LORD our God giveth thee, that bring us again, and we shall do thereafter. ^{42:21}Now have I shewed, and declared unto you the voice of the LORD your God, for the which cause he hath sent me to you. ^{42:22}If ye will not follow it be sure that ye shall perish with the sword, with hunger and pestilence: even in the same place, where your lust was to go, and dwell. ^{43:1}Now when Jeremy had ended all the words of the LORD God unto the people (for their sakes to whom God had sent him) ^{43:2}Azariah the son of Osaiah, and Johanan the son of Kareah with all the proud persons, said unto Jeremy: Thou liest, the LORD our God hath not sent thee to speak unto us, that we should not go into Egypt, and dwell there: ^{43:3}But Baruch the son of Neriah provoketh thee against us, that he might bring us into the captivity of the Caldees: that they might slay us, and carry us away prisoners unto Babylon. ^{43:4}So Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host, and all the people followed not the commandment of the LORD: Namely, to dwell in the land of Judah: ^{43:5}But Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host, carried away all the remnant in Judah, that were come together again from the Heathen (among whom they had been scattered) to dwell in the land of Judah: ^{43:6}Men, women, children, the king's daughters: all those that Nabuzaradan the chief captain had left with Godoliah the son of Ahikam: They carried away also the prophet Jeremy, Baruch the son of Neriah, ^{43:7}and so came in to Egypt: for they were not obedient, unto the commandment of GOD. Thus came they to Thaphnis. ^{43:8}And in Thaphnis the word of the LORD happened unto Jeremy, saying: ^{43:9}Take great stones in thine hand, and hide them in the brick wall, under the door of Pharaoh's house in Thaphnis, that all the men of Judah may see, ^{43:10}and say unto them: Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Behold, I will send and call for Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon my servant, and will set his seat upon these stones that I have hid, and he shall spread his tent over them. ^{43:11}And when he cometh, he shall smite the land of Egypt with slaughter, with prisonment, and with the sword. ^{43:12}He shall set fire upon the temples of the Egyptian gods, and burn them up, and take themselves prisoners. Moreover he shall array himself with the land of Egypt, like as a shepherd putteth on his coat, and shall depart his way from thence in peace. ^{43:13}The pillars also of the temple of the Sunne that is in Egypt: shall he break in pieces, and burn the temples of the Egyptian's gods. ^{44:1}This is the word that was shewed to Jeremy concerning all the Jews, which dwelt in Egypt: at Magdal, at Thaphnis, at Memphis, and in the land of Patures. ^{44:2}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Ye have seen all the misery that I have brought upon Jerusalem, and upon all the cities of Judah: so that this day they are desolate, and no man dwelling therein: ^{44:3}and that because of the great blasphemies, which they committed, to provoke me unto anger: In that they went back to do sacrifice, and worship unto strange gods: whom neither they, nor ye, nor your fathers have known. ^{44:4}How be it, I sent unto them my servants all the prophets: I rose up early, I sent unto them, and gave them warning: O do no such abominable things, and things that I hate. ^{44:5}But they would not follow nor hearken, to turn from their wickedness, and to do no more sacrifice unto strange gods. ^{44:6}Wherefore mine indignation and wrath was kindled, and it brent up the cities of Judah, the fields with the streets of Jerusalem, so that they were made waste and desolate, as it is come to pass this day. ^{44:7}Now therefore thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: How happeneth it, that ye do so great evil unto your own souls, thus to destroy the men and women, children and babes of Judah? so that none of you is left, ^{44:8}because ye provoke me unto wrath with the works of your own hands: when ye offer unto strange gods in the land of Egypt where as ye be gone to dwell: That ye might utterly perish, and that ye might be reviled and shamefully intreated of all nations. ^{44:9}Or have ye now forgotten the wickedness of your forefathers, the wickedness of the kings of Judah and their wives, the wickedness that ye yourselves and your wives have done in the land of Judah, in the city and in the land of Jerusalem? ^{44:10}Yet are ye not sorry this day, ye fear not, neither walk ye in my law and my commandments, that I have given unto you and your forefathers. ^{44:11}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: I am steadfastly advised and determined, to punish you, and to root out all Judah. ^{44:12}As for the remnant of Judah that purposely went into Egypt, there to ease them of their misery: I will take them and they shall all be destroyed. In the land of Egypt shall they perish, being consumed with the sword and with hunger. For from the least unto the most, they shall perish with the sword and with hunger. More over they shall be reviled, abhorred, shamed and confounded. ^{44:13}For I will visit^f them that dwell in Egypt, as I have visited Jerusalem: with the sword, with hunger and with pestilence: ^{44:14}So that none of the remnant of Judah, which are gone to dwell in Egypt shall be left to come again into the land of Judah all though they think to come thither again, and to dwell there. For none shall come again, but such as are fled away. ^{44:15}Then all the men which knew that their wives had offered unto strange gods, and a great sort of wives that stood there, yea and all the people that dwelt there in Egypt in the city of Patures, answered Jeremy, and said: ^{44:16}As for the words that thou hast spoken unto us in the name of the LORD, we will in no wise hear them: ^{44:17}But whatsoever goeth out of our own mouth, that will we do: We will do sacrifice, and offer oblations unto the Queen of heaven: like as we and our forefathers, our kings and our heads have done in the cities of Judah, and in the streets and fields of Jerusalem. For then had we plenteousness of vitailles, then were we in prosperity, and no misfortune came upon us. ^{44:18}But since we left,^g to offer, and to do sacrifice unto the Queen of heaven, we have had scarceness of all things, and perish with the sword and hunger. ^{44:19}Last of all, when we women did sacrifice and offered unto the Queen of heaven, did we make her cakes and pour unto her drink offerings, to do her service, without our husbands' wills? ^{44:20}Then said Jeremy unto all the people, to the men, to the women, and to all the folk, which had given him that answer: ^{44:21}Did not the LORD remember the sacrifices that ye, your forefathers, your kings and rulers (with all the people) have offered in the cities of Judah, in the streets and land of Jerusalem? and hath he not considered this in his mind? ^{44:22}In so much, that the LORD might no longer suffer the wickedness of your inventions, and the abominable things which ye did? Is not your land desolate and void, yea and abhorred, so that no man dwelleth therein any more, as it is come to pass this day? ^{44:23}Did not all this happen unto you, because ye made such sacrifice, and sinned against the LORD? Ye have not followed his voice, to walk in his law, in his ordinances and statutes. Yea this is the cause, that all misfortune happened unto you, as it is come to pass this day. ^{44:24}Moreover, Jeremy spake unto all the people and to all the women: Hear the word of the LORD all Judah, ye that be in the land of Egypt: ^{44:25}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Ye and your wives have spoken with your own mouth, the thing that ye have fulfilled in deed: Yea thus have ye said: We will not fail, but do the thing that pleaseth us: we will do sacrifice and pour out drink offerings to the Queen of heaven. Purposely have ye set up your own good meanings, and hastily have ye fulfilled your own intent. ^{44:26}And therefore, hear the word of the LORD all Judah, ye that dwell in the land of Egypt. Behold, I have sworn by my great name, sayeth the LORD, that my name shall not be rehearsed thorow any man's mouth of Juda, in all the land of Egypt: to say: The Lord GOD^h liveth, ^{44:27}for I will watch, to plague them, and not for their wealth. And all the men of Judah that be in the land of Egypt, shall perish with the sword and with hunger, until they be utterly destroyed. ^{44:28}Nevertheless, those that fled away for the sword, shall come again into the land of Judah, but there shall be very few of them. And all the remnant of Judah, that are gone into Egypt, there to dwell, shall know whose words shall be found true: theirs or mine. ^{44:29}Take this for a token, that I will visit you in this place, sayeth the LORD, and that ye may know, how that I (without doubt) will perform my purpose upon you to punish you. ^{44:30}Behold, sayeth the LORD, I will deliver Pharaoh Hophrea king of Egypt into the hands of his enemies, that seek after his life: even as I gave Zedekiah the king of Judah into the hands of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, which sought after his life. ^{45:1}These are the words that Jeremy the prophet spake unto Baruch the son of Neriah, after that he had written these Sermons into a book at the mouth of Jeremy; In the fourth year of Jehoakim the son of Josiah king of Judah. ^{45:2}Thus sayeth the LORD God of Israel unto thee, O Baruch: ^{45:3}In so much as thou thoughtest thus, when thou wast writing: Woe is me, the LORD hath given me pain for my travail: I have wearied myself with sighing, and shall I find no rest? ^{45:4}Therefore tell him, O Jeremy that the LORD sayeth thus: Behold; The thing that I have builded, will I break down again, and root out the thing, that I have planted, yea this whole land. ^{45:5}And seekest thou yet promotion? Look not for it, and desire it not. For I will bring a miserable plague upon all flesh sayeth the LORD. But thy life will I give thee for a prey, wheresoever thou goest. ^{46:1}Here follow the words of the LORD to the prophet Jeremy which he spake unto the Gentiles. ^{46:2}These words following preached he to the Egyptians concerning the Host of Pharaoh Necho king of Egypt, when he was in Carcamis beside the water of Euphrates: what time as Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon slew him; In the fourth year of Jehoakim the son of Josiah king of Judah. ^{46:3}Ye make ready buckler and shield, ye go forth to fight: ^{46:4}Yeⁱ harness your horses, and set yourselves upon them: Ye set your salettes fast on, ye bring forth your spears, ye scour your swords, and put on your breastplates. ^{46:5}But alas, how happeneth it, that I see you so afraid? why shrink ye back? Wherefore are your worthies slain: Yea they run so fast away, that none of them looketh behind him. Fearfulness is fallen upon every one of them, sayeth the LORD. ^{46:6}The lightest of foot shall not flee away, and the worthies shall not escape. Toward the north by the water of Euphrates, they shall stumble and fall. ^{46:7}But what is he this, that swelleth up, as it were a flood, roaring and raging like the streams of water? ^{46:8}It is Egypt that riseth up like a flood, and casteth out the waters with so great noise. For they say: We will go up, and will cover the earth: we will destroy the cities, with them that dwell therein. ^{46:9}Get you to horse back roll forth the Chariots, come forth ye worthies: ye Morians, ye Libeans with your bucklers, ye Libeans with your bows: ^{46:10}So shall this day be unto the Lord GOD^j of Hosts, a day of vengeance, that he may avenge him of his enemies. The sword shall devour, it shall be satisfied and bathed in their blood: For the Lord GOD^k of Hosts shall have a slain offering toward the North, by the water of Euphrates. ^{46:11}Go up, (O Gilead) and bring triacle unto the daughter of Egypt: But in vain shalt thou go to surgery, for thy wound shalt not be stopped. ^{46:12}The Heathen shall hear of thy shame, and the land shall be full of thy confusion: for one strong man shall stumble upon another, how then should they not fall both together? ^{46:13}These are the words that the LORD spake to the prophet Jeremy, concerning the host of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, which was sent to destroy the land of Egypt. ^{46:14}Preach out thorow the land of Egypt, and cause it be proclaimed at Magdal, Memphis, and Thaphnis, and say: Stand still, make thee ready, for the sword shall consume thee round about. ^{46:15}How happeneth it that thy mighty worthies are fallen? why stood they not fast? Even because the LORD thrust them down. ^{46:16}The slaughter was great, for one fell ever still upon another. One cried upon another: Up, let us go again to our own people, and to our own natural country, from the sword of our enemy. ^{46:17}Cry even there: O Pharaoh king of Egypt, the time will bring sedition. ^{46:18}As truly as I live (sayeth the King, whose name is the LORD of Hosts) it shall come as the mount of Thabor, and as Libanus if it stood in the sea. ^{46:19}O thou daughter of

Egypt make ready thy gear to flit. For Memphis shall be void desolate, so that no man shall dwell therein. ^{46:20}The land of Egypt is like a goodly fair calf, but one shall come out of the north to prick^l her forward. ^{46:21}Her waged soldiers that be with her, are like fat calves. They also shall flee away together, and not abide: for the day of their slaughter and the time of their visitation shall come upon them. ^{46:22}The cry of their enemies shall make a noise, as the blast of a trumpet. For they shall enter in with their host, and come with axes, as it were hewers down of wood. ^{46:23}And they shall cut down her wood, sayeth the LORD, without any discretion. For they shall be more in number than the grasshoppers, so that no man shall be able to tell them. ^{46:24}The daughter of Egypt shall be confounded when she shall be delivered into the hands of the people of the north. ^{46:25}Moreover sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Behold I will visit that restless people of Alexandria, Pharaoh and Egypt, yea both their gods and their kings: even Pharaoh, and all them that put their trust in^m him. ^{46:26}Yea I will deliver them into the hands of those, that seek after their lives: Namely, into the power of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, and in to the power of his servants. And after all these things, it shall be inhabited as afore time, sayeth the LORD. ^{46:27}But be not thou afraid (O my servant Jacob) fear not thou, O Israel. For lo, I will help thee from far, and thy seed from the land of thy captivity. Jacob also shall come again, and be in rest: he shall be rich, and no man shall do him harm. ^{46:28}Fear thou not, (O Jacob my servant) sayeth the LORD, for I am with thee: and will destroy all nations, among whom I have scattered thee. Nevertheless I will not consume thee, but chasten thee and correct thee: yea and that with discretion: neither will I spare thee as one that were faultless. ^{47:1}These are the words, that the LORD spake unto Jeremy the prophet against the Philistines, before that Pharaoh smote the city of Aza.ⁿ ^{47:2}Thus sayeth the LORD: Behold, there shall waters arise out of the North: And shall grow to a great flood, running over and covering the land, the cities, and them that dwell therein. And the men shall cry, and all they that dwell in the land, ^{47:3}shall mourn at the noise and stamping of their strong barbed horses, at the shaking of their chariots and at the rumbling of the wheels. The fathers shall not look to their children, so feeble and weary shall their hands be: ^{47:4}at the same time, when he shall be there, to destroy the whole land of the Philistines. He shall make waste both Tirus and Sidon and all other that are sworn unto them. For the LORD will destroy all Philistina,^o and the other Isles, that be divided from the country. ^{47:5}Baldness is come upon Azah,^p Ascalon with her other valleys shall keep her peace. How long wilt thou slay, ^{47:6}O thou sword of the LORD? Turn again unto thy^q sheath, rest, and leave off. ^{47:7}But how can it cease, when the LORD himself hath given him^r a charge against Ascalon, and raised it up against the cities of the sea coast? ^{48:1}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts, the God of Israel against Moab: Woe be to the city of Nabo, for it shall be laid waste, brought to confusion and taken. Yea the strong city of Kariathiarim shall be brought to shame, and afraid: ^{48:2}Moab shall no more be had in honour: Wicked counsel shall be taken upon Hesebon. Come, (shall they say) let us root them out, that they may be no more among the number of the Gentiles, yea that they may no more be thought upon: Thus the sword shall persecute thee: ^{48:3}A voice shall cry from Horonaim; With great wasting and destruction, ^{48:4}is Moab made desolate. And this cry shall be heard in all her cities. ^{48:5}At the going up unto Luith there shall arise a lamentation: and down toward Horonaim, there shall be heard a cruel and deadly cry: ^{48:6}Get you away, save your lives and be like unto the heeth in the wilderness. ^{48:7}For because thou hast trusted in thy strongholds and treasure, thou shalt be taken Chamos with his priests and princes shall go away into captivity. ^{48:8}The destroyer shall come upon all cities, none shall escape. The valleys shall be destroyed, and the fields shall be laid waste: like as the LORD hath determined. ^{48:9}Make a token unto Moab, that she get her away speedily: for her cities shall be made so desolate, that no man shall dwell therein. ^{48:10}Cursed be he that doth the work of the LORD negligently, and cured be he that keepeth back his sword from shedding of blood. ^{48:11}Moab hath ever been rich and careless from her youth up, she hath sitten and taken her ease with her treasure. She was never yet put out of one vessel into another, that is, she never went away in to captivity, therefore her taste remaineth, and her savour is not yet changed. ^{48:12}But lo, the time cometh, sayeth the LORD, that I shall send her trussers to truss her up, to prepare and season her vessels: yea her tankards rattle and shake to and fro. ^{48:13}And Moab shall be ashamed of Chamos, like as Israel was ashamed of Bethel, wherein she put her trust. ^{48:14}Wherefore do ye think thus: We are mighty, and strong men of war? ^{48:15}Moab shall be destroyed, her cities brent up: her chosen young men shall be slain, sayeth the King, whose name is the LORD of Hosts. ^{48:16}The destruction of Moab cometh on a pace, and her fall is at hand. ^{48:17}All her neighbours shall mourn for her, and all they that know her name, shall say: O how happeneth it, that the strong staff and the goodly rod is thus broken? ^{48:18}And thou daughter Dibon, come down from thy glory, and sit in poverty. For he that destroyeth Moab, shall come up to thee also, and break down thy strong holds. ^{48:19}And thou that dwellest in Aroer, get thee to the street, and look about thee: ask them that are fled and escaped, and say: What thing is happened? ^{48:20}O Moab is confounded and overcome. Mourn and cry, tell it out at Armon, that Moab is destroyed. ^{48:21}And misery shall come upon the plain land: Namely, upon Holon, upon Jahazah, upon Mephaath ^{48:22}and Dibon, upon Nabo, and the house of Deblathaim, ^{48:23}upon Cariathiarim and Bethgamul, upon Bethmaon ^{48:24}and Carioth, upon Bozrah and all the cities of the land of Moab, whether they lie far or near. ^{48:25}The horn of Moab shall be smitten down, and her arm broken, sayeth the LORD. ^{48:26}Make her drunken, for she magnified herself above the LORD, that men may clap their hands at her vomit, and that she also may be laughed into scorn. ^{48:27}O Israel, shalt thou not laugh him to scorn, when he is taken among thieves? Yea because of thy words that thou hast spoken against him, thou shalt be driven away. ^{48:28}Ye Moabites shall leave the cities, and dwell in rocks of stone, and become like doves, that make their nests in holes. ^{48:29}As for Moab's pride, we have heard of it, she is very high minded. I know her stoutness, her boasting,^s her arrogancy and the pride of her stomach, sayeth the LORD. ^{48:30}For her furriuousness may neither uphold her with strength nor deed. ^{48:31}Therefore shall their mourning be made for Moab, and every man shall cry for Moab's sake: a lamentation shall be made to the men that stand upon the wall. ^{48:32}So will I mourn for thee also O Jazer, and for thee, O thou vineyard of Sabamah. Thy wine branches shall come over the sea, and the branches of Jazer but unto the sea: the destroyer shall break into thy harvest and grape gathering: ^{48:33}Mirth and cheer shall be taken away from the timber field, and from the whole land of Moab. There shall be no sweet wine in the press, the treader shall have no stomach to cry, yea there shall be none to cry unto him: ^{48:34}which afore time were heard from Hesebon to Eleale, and Jahaz, which lifted up their voice from Zoar unto Horonaim, that bullock of three year old. The waters also of Nemrim shall be dried up. ^{48:35}Moreover I will make Moab cease (sayeth the LORD) from the offerings and censng that she hath made unto her gods in high places. ^{48:36}Wherefore my heart mourneth for Moab, like a crowd playing an heavy song: and for the men's sake of the brick wall my heart mourneth also, even as a pipe that pipeth a doleful song: for they shall be very few, and destroyed. ^{48:37}All heads shall be shaven, and all beards clipped off: all hands bound, and all loins girded about with sack cloth. ^{48:38}Upon all the housetops and streets of Moab, there shall be mourning: For I will break Moab like an unprofitable vessel sayeth the LORD. ^{48:39}O how fearful is she? O how mourneth she? O how doth Moab hang down her head, and is ashamed? Thus shall Moab be a laughing stock, and had in derision of all them, that be round about her. ^{48:40}For thus sayeth the

LORD: Behold, the enemy shall come flying as an Aegle, and spread his wings upon Moab. ^{48:41}They shall climb over the walls, and win the strongholds. Then the mighty men's hearts in Moab shall be like the heart of a woman travailing with child. ^{48:42}And Moab shall be made so desolate, that she shall no more be a people, because she hath set up herself against the LORD. ^{48:43}Fear, pit, and snare shall come upon thee (O Moab) sayeth the LORD. ^{48:44}Who so escapeth the fear, shall fall in the pit: and who so getteth out of the pit, shall be taken in the snare. For I will bring a year of visitation upon Moab, sayeth the LORD. ^{48:45}They that are able to flee, shall stand under the shadow of Hesebon. For there shall go a fire out of Heshbon, and a flame from Sion, and shall burn up that proud people of Moab, both before and behind. ^{48:46}Woe be unto thee, (O Moab) for thou people of Chamos shall perish: Yea thy sons and daughters shall be led away captive. ^{48:47}Yet at the last will I bring Moab out of captivity again, sayeth the LORD. Thus far of the plague of Moab. ^{49:1}As concerning the Ammonites, thus the LORD sayeth: Hath Israel no children, or is he without an heir? Why hath your king then taken Gad in? Wherefore doth his people dwell in his cities? ^{49:2}Behold therefore, the time cometh (sayeth the LORD) that I will bring a noise of war into Rabah of the Ammonites. Lahel shall be desolate, and her cities brent up: and the Israelites shall be lords over those that had them in possession afore, sayeth the LORD. ^{49:3}Hesebon shall mourn, for it shall be rooted^t out of the ground, sayeth the LORD. The cities of Rabah shall cry out, and gird themselves with sackcloth: they shall mourn, and run about the walls: for their king shall be led away prisoner: yea his priests and princes with him. ^{49:4}Wherefore trustest thou in the water streams, that flow to and fro, O thou fierce daughter: and thinkest thou art so safe (by reason of thy treasure) that no man shall come to thee? ^{49:5}Behold, I will bring a fear upon thee, sayeth the Lord GOD^u of Hosts, from all those that be about thee: so that ye shall be scattered every man from another, and no man shall gather them together again that be fled. ^{49:6}But after that, I will bring the Ammonites also out of captivity again. ^{49:7}Upon the Edomites hath the LORD of Hosts spoken on this manner: Is there no wisdom in Thema? Is there no more good counsel among his people? Is their wisdom then turned clean to naught? ^{49:8}Get you hence, turn your backs, creep down into the deep, O ye citizens of Dedan. For I will bring destruction upon Esau, yea and the day of his visitation. ^{49:9}If the grape gathers come upon thee, should they not leave some grapes? If the night robbers came upon thee, should they not take so much as they thought were enough? ^{49:10}But I will make Esau bare, and discover his secrets, so that he shall not be able to hide them. His seed shall be wasted away, yea his brethren and his neighbours, and he himself shall not be left behind. ^{49:11}Thou shalt leave thy fatherless children behind thee, and I will keep them and thy widows shall take their comforth in me. ^{49:12}For thus hath the LORD spoken: Behold, they that men thought were unmete to drink of the cup, have drunken with the first: and thinkest thou then to be free? No, no: thou shalt neither be quite nor free, but thou must drink also: ^{49:13}For why, I have sworn by myself (sayeth the LORD) that Bozrah shall become a wilderness, an open shame, a laughing stock and cursing: and her cities shall be a continual desert. ^{49:14}For I am perfectly informed of the LORD, that he hath sent a message all ready unto the Heathen. Gather you together, and go forth against them: make you ready to the battle, ^{49:15}for lo: I will make thee but small among the Heathen, and little regarded among men. ^{49:16}Thy high^v stomach and the pride of thy heart have deceived thee; Because thou wilt dwell in the holes of stony rocks, and have the high mountains in possession. Nevertheless though thy nest were as high as the Aegles, yet will I cast thee down, sayeth the LORD. ^{49:17}Moreover Idumea shall be a wilderness: who so goeth by it, shall be abashed, and wonder at all her miserable plagues. ^{49:18}Like as Sodom, Gomor, and the cities that lay there about, were turned up side down (sayeth the LORD) so shall no body dwell in Idumea, and no man shall have his habitation there. ^{49:19}Behold, like as the Lion cometh up from the pleasant meadows of Jordan unto the green pastures of Etham, so will I drive him, and make him run against her. But who is the young man that I will ordain thereto? Who is like unto me? What is he that will strive with me? What shepherd may stand in my hands? ^{49:20}Therefore hear the counsel of the LORD, that he hath taken upon Idumea: and his purpose, that he hath devised upon the citizens of Theman: The least of the flock shall tear them in pieces, and look what fair thing they have, they shall make it waste, and themselves also. ^{49:21}At the noise of their fall, the earth shall quake, the cry of their voice shall be heard to the red sea. ^{49:22}Behold, the enemy shall come and flee up hither, like as it were an Aegle and spread his wings upon Bozrah. Then shall the hearts of the worthies in Edom be as the heart of a woman travailing of child. ^{49:23}Upon Damascus, Hamath and Arphad shall come confusion, for they shall hear evil tidings: they shall be tossed to and fro like the sea that can not stand still. ^{49:24}Damascus shall be sore afraid, and shall flee, trembling shall come upon her. Sorrow and pain shall over take her as a woman travailing of child. ^{49:25}But how should so worshipful and glorious a city be forsaken? ^{49:26}Hear therefore: her young men shall fall in the streets, and all her men of war shall be taken away in that time, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{49:27}I will kindle a fire in the walls of Damascus, which shall consume the palace of Benhadad. ^{49:28}As for Cedar and the kingdom of Hazor, whom Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon smote down, the LORD hath spoken thus upon them: Arise, and get you up unto to Cedar, and destroy the people toward the east. ^{49:29}Their tents and their flocks shall they take away, yea their hangings and their vessel. Their Camels also shall they carry away with them. They shall come about them on every side with a fearful cry. ^{49:30}Flee, get you soon away, creep into caves, that ye may dwell there: O ye inhabitants of Hazor, sayeth the LORD. For Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon hath holden a counsel concerning you, and concluded his device against you. ^{49:31}Arise, and get you up against yonder rich and careless people (sayeth the LORD) which have neither gates nor door bars, and that dwell not together. ^{49:32}Their camels shall be stolen, and the droves of their cattle driven away. Moreover, these that be shaven will I scatter toward all the winds, and bring them to destruction: yea and that thorow their own familiars, sayeth the LORD. ^{49:33}Hazor also shall be a dwelling for Dragons, and an everlasting wilderness: so that no body shall dwell there, and no man shall have there his habitation. ^{49:34}These are the words, that the LORD spake to the prophet Jeremy concerning Elam, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah. ^{49:35}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: Behold, I will break the bow of Elam, and take away their strength: ^{49:36}and upon Elam I will bring the four winds from the four quarters of heaven, and will scatter them against the same four winds: And there shall be no people, but some of Elam shall flee unto them. ^{49:37}For I will cause Elam to be afraid of their enemies, and of them that seek their lives: and will bring upon them the indignation of my wrath, sayeth the LORD. And I will persecute them with the sword so long till I have brought them to naught. ^{49:38}I will set my stool in Elam, I will destroy both the king and the princes from thence, sayeth the LORD. ^{49:39}But in process of time, I will bring Elam out of captivity again, sayeth the LORD. ^{50:1}The words that the LORD spake unto the prophet Jeremy, concerning Babylon, and the land of the Caldees: ^{50:2}preach among the Gentiles, let your voice be heard, make a token: cry out, keep no silence, but say Babylon shall be won, Bel shall be confounded, and Merodach shall be overcome. Yea their gods shall be brought to shame and their images shall stand in fear. ^{50:3}For out of the north there shall come a people against her, which shall make her land so waste, that no body shall dwell therein: neither man nor beast, for they shall flee and depart from thence. ^{50:4}In those days, and at that time, sayeth the LORD, the children of Israel shall come, they and the children of Judah, weeping and making haste, and shall seek the LORD their God. ^{50:5}They shall ask the way to Sion, thither shall they turn their faces, and come and hang upon thee, in a covenant that never shall be broken. ^{50:6}My people hath been a lost flock, my shepherds have deceived them, and have made them go astray upon the hills. They have gone from the mountains to the little hill, and forgotten their fold. ^{50:7}All they that came upon them, have devoured them: and their enemies said: We have made no fault against them, for they have displeased the LORD, yea even the LORD which is the beauty of their righteousness, and that defended their fathers. ^{50:8}Yet shall ye flee from Babylon, and depart out of the land of the Caldees, and ye shall be as the rams that go before the flock. ^{50:9}For lo, I will make up an host of people from the northern land, and bring them upon Babylon: these shall lay siege to it, and win it: Their arrows shall not miss, like as a cunning archer shooteth^w not wrong. ^{50:10}And the Chaldees shall be spoiled, and all they that spoil them, shall be satisfied, sayeth the LORD. ^{50:11}Because ye were so cheerful and glad, to tread down mine heritage, and fulfill your pleasures, as the calves in the grass: And triumphed over them like the bulls, when ye had gotten the victory. ^{50:12}Your mothers shall be sore confounded, and they that bare you, shall come to shame. She shall be the least set by among the nations, void, waste, and dried up. ^{50:13}No man shall be able to dwell there, for the fear of the LORD, but she shall be whole desolate. All they that go by Babylon, shall stand still, and be abashed, and shall wonder at all her plagues. ^{50:14}Go forth in your array against Babylon round about, all ye that can handle bows: shoot at her, spare no arrows, for she hath sinned against the LORD. ^{50:15}Cry out: upon her, upon her, against her round about: she shall yield herself, her foundations shall fall, and her walls shall come down, for it shall be the vengeance of the LORD. Yea vengeance shall be taken of her, and as she hath done, so shall she be dealt withal. ^{50:16}They shall root out the sower from Babylon, and him that handleth the sickle in Harvest. For fear of the sword of the enemy, every man shall get him to his own people, and every man shall flee to his own land. ^{50:17}Israel is a scattered flock, the Lions have dispersed them. First the king of the Assyrians devoured them, last of all this Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon hath bruised all their bones. ^{50:18}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: Behold, I will visit the king of Babylon and his kingdom, as I have visited the king of the Assyrians. ^{50:19}And will bring Israel again to his pleasant pasture, that he may feed upon Carmel and Bashan, and be satisfied upon the mount of Ephraim and Gilead. ^{50:20}In those days and at the same time (sayeth the LORD) if the offense of Israel be sought for, there shall none be found: If men enquire for the sin of Judah, there shall be none: for I will be merciful unto them, whom I suffer to remain over. ^{50:21}Go down (O thou avenger) in to the enemies land, and visit them that dwell therein: down with them, and smite them upon the backs, sayeth the LORD: do according to all, that I have commanded thee. ^{50:22}There is gone about the land a cry of a slaughter and great murder, namely on this manner: ^{50:23}How happeneth it, that the hammer of the whole world is thus broken and bruised in sunder? How chanceth it, that Babylon is become a wilderness among the Heathen on this manner? ^{50:24}I myself have laid wait for thee, and thou art taken: unawares art thou trapped and snared: for why, thou hast provoked the LORD unto anger: ^{50:25}The LORD hath opened his house of ordinance, and brought forth the weapons of his wrath. For the thing that is done in the land of the Caldees, it is the LORD of Hosts' work. ^{50:26}These things shall come upon her at the last, they shall break into her privy chambers, they shall leave her as bare as stones, that be laid together upon heaps. They shall so destroy her, that nothing shall be left. ^{50:27}They shall slay all her mighty soldiers, and put them to death. Woe be unto them, for the day and the time of their visitation is at hand. ^{50:28}Me think I hear all ready a cry, of them that be fled and escaped out of the land of Babylon, which shew in Sion the vengeance of the LORD our God, the vengeance of his temple: Yea a voice of them, that cry against Babylon: ^{50:29}Call up all the archers against Babylon, pitch your tents round about her, that none escape. Recompense her, as she hath deserved: and according as she hath done, so deal with her again: for she hath set up herself against the LORD, against the holy one of Israel. ^{50:30}Therefore shall her young men fall down in the streets, and all her men of war shall be rooted out in that day, sayeth the LORD. ^{50:31}Behold, I speak unto thee (O thou proud) sayeth the Lord GOD^x of Hosts: for thy day shall come, even the time of thy visitation. ^{50:32}And the proud shall stumble and fall, and no man shall help him up. I will burn up his cities with fire, and it shall consume all that is round about him. ^{50:33}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: The children of Israel and Judah suffer violence together. All they that have them in captivity, keep them fast, and will not let them go: ^{50:34}but their avenger and redeemer is mighty, whose name is the LORD of Hosts: he shall maintain their cause, he shall make the land shake, and judge them that dwell therein, one with another. ^{50:35}The sword shall come upon the Caldees, sayeth the LORD, upon them that dwell in Babylon, upon their princes, and upon their wise men: ^{50:36}The sword upon their soothsayers, as for those (they shall become fools) The sword upon their worthies, so that they shall stand in fear: ^{50:37}The sword upon their horsemen and chariots, and upon all the common people that dwell under them: so that they all shall become like women: The sword upon their treasure, so that it shall be stolen away: ^{50:38}The sword upon their waters, so that they shall be dried up: For the land worshippeth images, and delighteth in strange wonderful things. ^{50:39}Therefore shall wild beasts, Apes, and Ostriches dwell therein: for there shall never man dwell there, neither shall any man have his habitation there for evermore. ^{50:40}Like as God destroyed Sodome and Gomorre, with the cities that lay there about, sayeth the LORD: So shall no man dwell there also, neither shall any man have there his habitation. ^{50:41}Behold, there shall come a people from the North, with a great bound of men, and many kings shall stand up from the ends of the earth: ^{50:42}They bear bows and bucklers, cruel are they and unmerciful. Their voice roareth like the raging sea, they ride upon horses, and come weaponed to fight against thee: O Babylon. ^{50:43}As soon as the king of Babylon heareth tell of them, his hands shall wax feeble: Sorrow and heaviness shall come upon him, as a woman travailing with child. ^{50:44}Behold, like as the Lion cometh up from the pleasant meadows of Jordan unto the green pastures of Ethan, so will I drive them forth, and make them run against her. But whom shall I choose out, and ordain to such a thing? For who is like me, or who will strive with me? or what shepherd may stand against me?

^{50:45}Therefore hear the counsel that the LORD hath given upon Babylon, and the device that he hath taken upon the land of the Caldees. The least among the people shall tear them in pieces, and look what pleasant thing they have: they shall lay it waste. ^{50:46}The noise at the winning of Babylon shall move the earth, and the cry shall be heard among the Gentiles. ^{51:1}Thus hath the LORD said: Behold, I will raise up a perilous wind against Babylon and her citizens, that bear evil will against me. ^{51:2}I will send also into Babylon fanners, to fan her out, and to destroy her land: for in the day of her trouble they shall be about her on every side: ^{51:3}Moreover, the Lord^y hath said unto the bow men, and to them that climb over the walls in breast plates: He shall not spare her young men, kill down all her host. ^{51:4}Thus the slain shall fall down in the land of the Caldees, and the wounded in the streets. ^{51:5}As for Israel and Juda, they shall not be forsaken of their God, of the LORD of Hosts, of the holy one of Israel: no, though they have filled all their land full of sin. ^{51:6}Fly^z away from Babylon, every man save his life. Let no man hold his tongue to her wickedness, for the time of the LORD's vengeance is come, yea he shall reward her again. ^{51:7}Babylon hath been in the LORD's hand a golden cup, that maketh all lands drunken. Of her wine have all people drunken, therefore are they out of their wits. ^{51:8}But suddenly is Babylon fallen and destroyed. Mourn for her, bring plasters for her wounds, if she may peradventure be healed again. ^{51:9}We would have made Babylon whole (say they) but she is not recovered. Therefore will we let her alone, and go every man into his own country. For her judgment is come in to heaven, and is gone up to the clouds. ^{51:10}And therefore come on, we will shew Sion the work of the LORD our God. ^{51:11}Make sharp the arrows, and fill the quivers: for the LORD shall raise up the spirit of the king of the Meedes, which hath already a desire to destroy Babylon. This shall be the vengeance of the LORD's, and the vengeance of his temple. ^{51:12}Set up tokens upon the walls of Babylon, make your watch strong, set your watchmen in array, yea hold privy watches: and yet for all that shall the LORD go forth with the

device, which he hath taken upon them that dwell in Babylon. ^{51:13}O thou that dwellest by the great waters, O thou that hast so great treasure and riches, thine end is come: and the reckoning of thy winnings. ^{51:14}The LORD of Hosts hath sworn by himself, that he will over-whelm thee with men like grasshoppers in number, which with courage shall cry Alarum, Alarum against thee. ^{51:15}Yea even the LORD of Hosts, that with his power made the earth, with his wisdom prepared^a the round world, and with his discretion spied out the heavens. ^{51:16}As soon as he letteth his voice be heard, the waters in the air wax fierce: He draweth up the clouds from the ends of the earth. He turneth the lightnings to rain, he bringeth the winds out of their secret places. ^{51:17}By the reason of wisdom, all men are become fools. Confounded be all the casters of images: for the thing that they make is but deceit, and hath no breath. ^{51:18}Vain is it and worthy to be laughed at: and in the time of visitation it shall perish. ^{51:19}Nevertheless, the portion of Jacob is none such: but he that made all things, whose name is the LORD of Hosts, he is the rod of his inheritance. ^{51:20}Thou breakest my weapons of war, and yet thorow thee I have scattered the nations and kingdoms: ^{51:21}thorow thee have I scattered horse and horse man, yea the chariots, and such as sat upon them: ^{51:22}thorow thee I have scattered man and woman, old and young, bachelor and maiden. ^{51:23}Thorow thee I have scattered the shepherd and his flock, the husband man and his cattle, the princes and the rulers. ^{51:24}Therefore will I reward the city of Babylon and all her^b citizens the Caldees, with all the evil which they have done unto Sion: Yea that ye yourselves shall see it, sayeth the LORD. ^{51:25}Behold, I come upon thee (thou noisesome hill) sayeth the LORD, thou that destroyest all lands. I will stretch out my hand over thee, and cast thee down from the stony rocks: and will make thee a brent hill, ^{51:26}so that neither corner stones, nor pinnacles, nor foundation stones shall be taken any more out of thee, but waste and desolate shalt thou lie for evermore, sayeth the LORD. ^{51:27}Set up a token in the land, blow the trumpets among the Heathen, provoke the nations against her, call the kingdoms of Ararat, Menni, and Ascanes against her: number out Taphsar against her, bring as great a sort of horses against her, as if they were grasshoppers. ^{51:28}Prepare against them the people of the Meedes with their kings, princes and all their chief rulers, yea and the whole land that is under them. ^{51:29}The land also shall shake and be afraid, when the device of the LORD shall come forth against Babylon: to make the land of Babylon so waste, that no man shall dwell any more therein. ^{51:30}The Worthies of Babylon shall leave the battle, and keep themselves in strongholds, their strength hath failed them, they shall be like women. Their dwelling places shall be brent up, their bars shall be broken. ^{51:31}One pursuant shall meet another, yea one post shall come by another, to bring the king of Babylon tidings: that his city is taken in on every side, ^{51:32}the fords^c occupied, the fens^d brent up, and the soldiers sore afraid. ^{51:33}For thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel: The daughter of Babylon hath been in her time like as a threshing floor, but shortly shall her harvest come. ^{51:34}Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon hath devoured and destroyed me, he hath made me an empty vessel. He swallowed me up like a dragon, and filled his belly with my delicates: he hath cast me out. ^{51:35}He hath taken my substance away and the thing that was left me hath he carried unto Babylon, sayeth the daughter that dwelleth in Sion: Yea and my blood also, unto the Caldees, sayeth Jerusalem. ^{51:36}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD: Behold, I will defend thy cause, and avenge thee: I will drink up her sea, and dry up her water springs. ^{51:37}Babylon shall become an heap of stones a dwelling place for dragons, a fearfulness and wondering, because no man dwelleth there. ^{51:38}They shall roar together like lions, and as the young lions when they be angry, so shall they bend them selves. ^{51:39}In their heat I shall set drink before them, and they shall be drunken for joy: Then shall they sleep an everlasting sleep, and never wake, sayeth the LORD. ^{51:40}I shall carry them down to be slain like sheep, like whethers and goats.

^{51:41}O how was Sesach won? O, how was the glory of the whole land taken? how happeneth it, that Babylon is so wondered at among the Heathen? ^{51:42}The sea is risen over Babylon, and hath covered her with his great waves. ^{51:43}Her cities are laid waste, the land lieth unbuilt and void: it is a land where no man dwelleth, and where no man travelth thorow. ^{51:44}Moreover, I will visit Bel at Babylon: and the thing that he hath swallowed up, that same shall I pluck out of his mouth. The Gentiles also shall run no more unto him, yea and the walls of Babylon shall fall. ^{51:45}O My people, come out of Babylon, that every man may save his life, from the fearful wrath of the LORD. ^{51:46}Be not faint hearted, and fear not at every rumour that shall be heard in the land: for every year bringeth new tidings, yea strange wickedness and lordship. ^{51:47}And lo, the time cometh that I will visit the images of Babylon, and the whole land shall be confounded, yea and her slain shall lie in the midst of her. ^{51:48}Heaven and earth with all that is therein, shall rejoice over Babylon, when the destroyers shall come upon her from the North, sayeth the LORD. ^{51:49}Like as Babylon hath beaten down and slain many out of Israel, so shall there fall many, and be slain in all her kingdom. ^{51:50}Ye that have escaped the sword, haste you, stand^e not still, remember the LORD afar off: and think upon Jerusalem, ^{51:51}for we were ashamed to hear the blasphemies: our faces were covered with shame, because the strange aliens came into the Sanctuary of the LORD. ^{51:52}Wherefore, behold, (sayeth the LORD) the time cometh, that I will visit the images of Babylon, and thorow the whole land they shall mourn and fall. ^{51:53}Though Babylon climbed up into heaven, and kept her power an high: yet shall I send her destroyers, sayeth the LORD. ^{51:54}A piteous cry shall be heard from Babylon, and a great misery from the land of the Caldees: ^{51:55}when the LORD destroyeth them, and when he driveth out the high^f stomach and proud boasting,^g wherewith they have been as furious as the waves of great water floods, and made great crakes with their words. ^{51:56}For the destroyers shall come upon her (even upon Babylon) which shall take her worthies, and brake their bows: for GOD is disposed to avenge himself upon them, and sufficiently to recompense them. ^{51:57}Yea (sayeth the LORD) I will make their princes, their wise men, their chief rulers and all their worthies, drunken: so that they shall sleep an everlasting sleep, and never wake: Thus sayeth the King, whose name is the LORD of Hosts. ^{51:58}Moreover, thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: The thick wall of Babylon shall be broken, and her proud gates shall be brent up. And the thing that the Gentiles and the people have wrought with great travail and labour, shall come to naught and be consumed in the fire. ^{51:59}This is the charge that Jeremy gave unto Saraiah the son of Neriah, the son of Maasiah, when he went toward Babylon with Zedekiah the king of Judah, in the fourth year of his reign. Now this Saraiah was a peaceable prince. ^{51:60}Jeremy wrote in a book all the misery that should come upon Babylon, yea and all these sermons that be written against Babylon, ^{51:61}and gave Saraiah this charge: When thou comest unto Babylon, see that thou read all these words, ^{51:62}and say: O LORD, thou art determined to root out this place, so that neither people nor cattle shall dwell there any more, but to lie waste for ever: ^{51:63}and when thou hast read out the book, bind a stone to it, and cast it in the midst of Euphrates, ^{51:64}and say: Even thus shall Babylon sink, and be thrust down with the burthen of trouble, that I will bring upon her: so that she shall never come up again. Thus far are the preachings of Jeremy. ^{52:1}Zedekiah was twenty one year old, when he was made king, and he reigned eleven year in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal, Jeremy's daughter of Lobnah. ^{52:2}He lived wickedly before the LORD even as Jehoakim did. ^{52:3}Wherefore the LORD was angry at Jerusalem and Judah, so long till he had cast them out of his presence. And Zedekiah fell from the king of Babylon. ^{52:4}But in the ninth year of his reign; In the tenth Month, the tenth day of the Month it happened, that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon with all his Host came before Jerusalem, and besieged it, and made them bulwarks round about it. ^{52:5}And this besieging of the city endured unto the eleventh year of king Zedekiah. ^{52:6}And in the fourth Month, the ninth day of the Month, there was so great hunger in the city: that there were no more vitailles for the people of the land. ^{52:7}So all the soldiers brake away, and fled out of the city by night thorow the way of the port between the two walls by the king's garden. Now the Caldees had compassed the city round about, yet went these men their way toward the wilderness. ^{52:8}And so the Caldees followed upon them, and took Zedekiah the king in the field of Jericho, when his host was run from him. ^{52:9}So they carried the king away prisoner to Riblah, unto the king of Babylon in the land of Hemath, where he gave judgment upon him. ^{52:10}The king of Babylon also caused Zedekiah's sons to be slain before his face, yea and put all the princes of Judah to death at Reblath. ^{52:11}Moreover he put out the eyes of Zedekiah, caused him to be bound with chains, to be carried unto Babylon: and let him live in prison, till he died. ^{52:12}Now the tenth day of the fifth Month, in the nineteenth year of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, Nabuzaradan the chief captain and the king of Babylon's servants came unto Jerusalem, ^{52:13}and brent up the house of the LORD. He brent up also the king's palace, all the houses and all the gorgeous buildings in Jerusalem. ^{52:14}And the whole Host of the Caldees that were with the chief Captain, brake down all the walls of Jerusalem round about. ^{52:15}As for the poor people and such folk as yet was left in the city, which also were fallen to the king of Babylon, yea and what people as yet remained: Nabuzaradan the chief Captain carried them away prisoners. ^{52:16}But the poor people of the country, did Nabuzaradan the chief Captain leave in the land, to occupy the vineyards and fields. ^{52:17}The Caldees also brake the brasen pillars that were in the house of the LORD, yea the seat and the brasen laver that was in the house of the LORD: and carried all the metal of them unto Babylon. ^{52:18}They took away also the Caldrons, shovels, flesh hooks, sprinklers, spoons, and all the brasen vessel that was occupied in the service: ^{52:19}with the basins, coal pans, sprinklers, pots, candlesticks, spoons and cups: whereof some were of gold, and some of silver. ^{52:20}The chief Captain took also the two pillars, the laver, and the twelve brasen bullocks that stood under the seat, which king Solomon made in the house of the LORD: and all the vessel contained so much metal, that it might not be weighed. ^{52:21}For every pillar was eighteen cubits high, and the rope that went about it, was twelve cubits, and four fingers thick and round: ^{52:22}Now upon the rope were brasen knoppes, and every knop was five cubits high: and upon the knops were whopes, and pomegranates round about of clean brass. ^{52:23}After this manner were both the pillars fashioned with the pomegranates, whereof there were an hundredth and ninety six, which hanged upon the hoops round about. ^{52:24}The chief Captain also took Sariah the high^h priest, and Sophoniah that was chief next him, and the three keepers of the treasury. ^{52:25}He took out of the city a chamberlain which was a captain of the soldiers, and seven men that were the king's servants, which were found in the city: and Sepher a captain that used to muster the men of war: with sixty men of the country that were taken in the city. ^{52:26}These Nabuzaradan the chief Captain took, and carried them to the king of Babylon unto Reblath: ^{52:27}and the king of Babylon caused them to be put to death at Reblath in the land of Hemath. And thus Judah was lead away captive, out of his own land. ^{52:28}This is the sum of the people, whom Nabuchodonosor lead away captive. In the seventh year of his reign, he carried away of the Jews, three thousand and three and twenty. ^{52:29}In the eighteenth year Nabuchodonosor carried away from Jerusalem eight hundredth thirty two persons. ^{52:30}In the twenty third year of Nabuchodonosor Nabuzaradan the chief Captain, took away seven hundredth forty five Jews prisoners. The whole sum of all the prisoners, is four thousand and six hundredth. ^{52:31}In the thirty seventh year after that Jehoacin the king of Judah was carried away in the twenty fifth day of the twelfth Month, Evilmerodach king of Babylon (the same year that he reigned) gave Jehoacin the king of Judah his pardon, and let him out of prison, ^{52:32}and spake lovingly to him. And set his throne above the thrones of the other kings that were with him in Babylon. ^{52:33}He changed also the clothes of his prison, yea and he ate with him all his life long. ^{52:34}And he had a continual living given him of the king of Babylon, every day a certain thing allowed him all the days of his life, until he died.

The Lamentation of Jeremyp

^{1:1}Aleph. Alas, how sitteth the city so desolate, that some time was full of people? How is she become like a widow, which was the lady of all nations? How is she brought under tribute, that ruled all lands. ^{1:2}Beth. She weepeth sore in the night, so that the tears run down her cheeks: for among all her lovers, there is none that giveth her any comfort: yea her next friends abhor her, and are become her enemies. ^{1:3}Gimel. Judah is taken prisoner, because she was defiled: and for serving so many strange gods, she dwelleth now among the heathen. She findeth no rest: all they that persecuted her, took her, and so she dwelleth among her enemies. ^{1:4}Daleth. The streets of Zion mourn, because no man cometh to the solempne feasts. All her gates are desolate, her priests make lamentation, her maidens are careful, and she herself is in great heaviness. ^{1:5}He. Her enemies are fallen upon her head, and have put her to shame: because the LORD hath chastened her for her great wickedness: her children are lead away captive before their enemy. ^{1:6}Vau. All the beauty of the daughter of Zion is away, her princes are become like wethers that find no pasture. They are driven away before their enemy, so that they have no more power. ^{1:7}Zain. Now doth Jerusalem remember the time of her misery and disobedience, yea the joy and pleasure that she hath had in times past: seeing her people is brought down thorow the power of their enemy, and there is no man for to help her: her enemies stand^a looking at her and laughing her Sabbath days to scorn. ^{1:8}CHeth. Jerusalem sinned ever more and more, therefore is she come in decay. All they that had her in honour, despise her: for they have seen her filthiness. Yea she sigheth, and is a shamed of herself. ^{1:9}Teth. Her skirts are defiled, she remembered not what would follow: therefore is her fall so great, and there is no man to comfort her. O LORD, consider my trouble, for my enemy hath the upper hand. ^{1:10}Iod. The enemy hath put his hand to all the precious things that she had, yea even before her eyes came the Heathen in and out of the Sanctuary: whom thou (nevertheless) hast forbidden to come within thy congregation. ^{1:11}Caph. All her people seek their bread with heaviness,^b and look what precious things every man hath, that giveth he for meat, to save his life. Consider, O LORD, and see, how vile I am become. ^{1:12}Lamed. O ye all that go fore by, behold and see, if there be any sorrow like unto mine; wherewith the LORD hath troubled me, in the day of his fearful wrath. ^{1:13}Mem. From above hath he sent down a fire into my bones and chastened me: he hath laid a net for my feet, and thrown me wide open: he hath made me desolate, so that I must ever be mourning. ^{1:14}Nun. The yoke of my transgression is come at the last, with his hand hath he taken it up, and put it about my neck. My strength is gone: the Lord^c hath delivered me into those hands, whereout I can not quite my self. ^{1:15}Samech. The Lord^d hath destroyed all the mighty men, that were in me. He hath proclaimed a feast, to slaughter all my best men. The Lord^e hath troden down the daughter of Juda, like as it were in a wine press. ^{1:16}Ain. Therefore do I weep, and mine eyes gush out of water: for the comforter that should quicken me, is far from me. My children are driven away, for why? the enemy hath gotten the over hand. ^{1:17}Phe. Zion casteth out her hands, and there is no man to comfort her. The LORD hath laid the enemies round about Jacob, and Jerusalem is as it were a menstruous woman, in the midst of them. ^{1:18}Zade. The LORD is righteous, for I provoked his countenance unto anger. O take heed all ye people, and consider my heaviness: My maidens and my young men are lead away in to captivity. ^{1:19}Koph. I called for my lovers (but they beguiled me) for my Priests and counselors, but they perished: even while they sought for meat, to save their lives. ^{1:20}Res. Consider (O LORD) how I am troubled, my womb is disquieted, my heart turneth about in me, and I am full of heaviness. The sword hurteth me without, and within I am like unto death. ^{1:21}Sin. They hear my mourning, but there is none that will comfort me. All my enemies have heard of my trouble, and are glad thereof, because thou hast done it. But thou shalt bring forth the time, when they also shall be like unto me. ^{1:22}Thau. From thee shall come all their adversity: thou shalt pluck them away, even as thou hast plucked me, because of all my wickedness. For my sorrow is very great, and my heart is heavy. ^{2:1}Aleph. Alas, how hath the Lord^f darkened the daughter of Sion so sore in his wrath? As for the honour of Israel, he hath casten it down from heaven: How happeneth it, that he remembered not his own foot stool when he was angry? ^{2:2}Beth. The Lord^g hath cast down all the glory of Jacob without any favour: all the strong places of the daughter Juda hath he broken in his wrath, and thrown them down to the ground: her kingdom and her princes hath he suspended. ^{2:3}Gimel. In the wrath of his indignation he hath broken all the horn of Israel: he hath withdrawn his right hand from the enemy: yea a flame of fire is kindled in Jacob, and hath consumed up all round about. ^{2:4}Daleth. He hath bent his bow like an enemy, he hath fastened his right hand as an adversary: and everything that was pleasant to see, he hath smitten it down. He hath poured out his wrath like a fire, into the tabernacle of the daughter of Sion. ^{2:5}He. The Lord^h is become, like as it were an enemy, he hath cast down Israel and all his places: yea all his strongholds hath he destroyed, and filled the daughter of Juda with much sorrow and heaviness. ^{2:6}Vau. Her tabernacle (which was like a garden of pleasure) hath he destroyed: her highⁱ solempne feasts hath he put down. The LORD hath brought it so to pass, that the high solempne feasts and Sabbaths in Sion, are clean forgotten. In his heavy displeasure hath he made the king and priests to be despised. ^{2:7}Zain. The Lord^j hath forsaken his own alter, and is wroth with his own sanctuary, and hath given the walls of their towers into the hands of the enemy. Their enemies made a noise in the house of the LORD, as it had been in a solempne feast day. ^{2:8}CHeth. The LORD thought to break down the walls of the daughter Sion, he spread out his line, and drew not in his hand, till he had destroyed them. Therefore mourn the turrets and the broken walls together. ^{2:9}Teth. Her ports are cast down to the ground, her bars are broken and smitten in sunder: her king and princes are carried away to the gentiles. They have neither law nor Prophets, nor yet any vision from the LORD. ^{2:10}Iod. The Senators of the daughter Sion sit upon the ground in silence: they have strowed ashes upon their heads, and girded themselves with sack cloth. The maidens of Jerusalem hang down their heads to the ground. ^{2:11}Caph. Mine eyes begin to fail me thorow weeping, my body is disquieted, my lever is poured upon the earth, for the great hurt of my people, seeing the children and babes did swoon in the streets of the city. ^{2:12}Lamed. Even when they spake to their mothers: where is meat and drink? for while they so said, they fell down in the streets of the city, like as they had been wounded, and some died in their mothers' bosom. ^{2:13}Mem. What shall I say of thee, O thou daughter Jerusalem, to whom shall I liken thee? To whom shall I compare thee, O thou daughter Sion, to comfort thee withal? Thy hurt is like a main sea, who may heal thee? ^{2:14}Nun. Thy prophets have looked out vain and foolish things for thee, they have not shewed thee of thy wickedness, to keep thee from captivity: but have overladen thee, and thorow falsity scattered thee abroad. ^{2:15}Samech. All they that go by thee, clap their hands at thee: hissing and wagging their heads upon the daughter Jerusalem, and say: is this the city that men call so fair, wherein the whole land rejoiceth? ^{2:16}Ain. All thine enemies gape upon thee, whispering and biting their teeth, saying: let us devour, for the time that we looked for, is come: we have found and seen it. ^{2:17}Phe. The LORD hath fulfilled the thing, that he was purposed to do: and performed that he had devised long ago: he hath destroyed, and not spared. He hath caused thine adversary to triumph over thee, and set up the horn of thine enemy. ^{2:18}Zade. Let thine heart cry unto the Lord,^k O thou city of the daughter Sion: let thy tears run down like a river day and night: rest not, and let not the apple of thine eye leave off. ^{2:19}Koph. Stand up and make thy prayer in the first watch of the night, pour out thine heart like water before the Lord:^l lift up thine hands for the lives of thy young children, that die of hunger in the streets. ^{2:20}Res. Behold, O LORD,^m and consider, why hast thou gathered me up so clean: Shall the women then eat their own fruit, even children of a spanne long: Shall the priests and prophets be slain thus in the Sanctuary of the Lord?ⁿ ^{2:21}Sin. Young and old lie behind the streets upon the ground, my maidens and young men are slain with the sword: whom thou in the day of thy wrothful indignation hast put to death: Yea even thou hast put them to death, and not spared them. ^{2:22}Thau. My neighbours that are round about me, hast thou called, as it were to a feast day: so that in the day of the LORD's wrath none escaped, neither was any left behind. Those that I had brought up and nourished, hath mine enemy destroyed. ^{3:1}Aleph. I am the man, that (thorow the rod of his wrath) have experience of misery. ^{3:2}He drove me forth, and led me: yea into darkness, but not in to light. ^{3:3}Against me only he turneth his hand, and layeth it ever upon me. ^{3:4}Beth. My flesh and my skin hath he made old, my bones hath he bruised. ^{3:5}He hath builded round about me, and closed me in with gall and travail. ^{3:6}He hath set me in darkness, as they that be dead for ever. ^{3:7}Gimel. He hath so hedged me in, that I can not get out, and hath laid heavy links upon me. ^{3:8}Though I cry and call piteously, yet heareth he not my prayer. ^{3:9}He hath stopped up my ways with four square stones, and made my paths crooked. ^{3:10}Daleth. He layeth wait for me like a Bear, and as a lion in a hole. ^{3:11}He hath marred my ways, and broken me in pieces: he hath laid me waste altogether. ^{3:12}He hath bent his bow, and made me as it were a mark to shoot at. ^{3:13}He. The arrows of his quiver hath he shot, even into my reins. ^{3:14}I am laughed to scorn of all my people, they make songs upon me all the day long. ^{3:15}He hath filled me with bitterness, and given me wormwood to drink. ^{3:16}Vau. He hath smitten my teeth in pieces, and rolled me in the dust. ^{3:17}He hath put my soul out of rest, I forget all good things. ^{3:18}I thought in myself: I am undone, there is no hope for me in the LORD. ^{3:19}Zain. O remember yet my misery and my trouble, the wormwood and the gall. ^{3:20}Yea thou shalt remember them, for my soul melteth away in me. ^{3:21}While I consider these things in my heart, I get a hope again. ^{3:22}CHeth. Namely, that the mercies of the LORD are not clean gone, and that his loving-kindness ceaseth not. ^{3:23}His faithfulness is great and reneweth it self as the morning. ^{3:24}The LORD is my portion, sayeth my soul, therefore will I hope in him. ^{3:25}Teth. O how good is the LORD unto them that put their trust in him, and to the soul that seeketh after him? ^{3:26}O how good is it with stillness to wait and tarry, for the health of the LORD. ^{3:27}O how good is it for a man, to take the yoke upon him from his youth up. ^{3:28}Iod. He sitteth alone, he holdeth him still, and dwelleth quietly by himself. ^{3:29}He layeth his face upon the earth, if (percase) there happen to be any hope. ^{3:30}He offereth his cheek to the smiter, he will be content with reproves. ^{3:31}Caph. For the Lord^o will not forsake for ever. ^{3:32}But though he do cast off, yet according to the multitude of his mercies, he receiveth to grace again. ^{3:33}For he doth not plague, and cast out the children of men from his heart. ^{3:34}Lamed. To tread all the prisoners of the earth under his feet. ^{3:35}To move the judgement of man before the most highest. ^{3:36}To condemn a man in his cause; The Lord^p hath no pleasure in such things. ^{3:37}Mem. What is he then that sayeth: there should something be done without the Lord's^q commandment: ^{3:38}Out of the mouth of the most Highest goeth not evil and good? ^{3:39}Wherefore then murmureth the living man: let him murmur at his own

sin. ^{3:40}Nun. Let us look well upon our own ways, and remember ourselves, and turn again to the LORD. ^{3:41}Let us lift up our heart with our hands unto the Lord^r that is in heaven. ^{3:42}We have been dissemblers, and have offended, will thou therefore not be intreated? ^{3:43}Samech. Thou hast covered us in thy wrath, and persecuted us, thou hast slain us, without any favour. ^{3:44}Thou hast hid thyself in a cloud, that our prayer should not go thorow. ^{3:45}Thou hast made us outcasts, and to be despised among the Heathen. ^{3:46}Ain. All our enemies gape upon us. ^{3:47}Fear and snare is come upon us, yea despite and destruction. ^{3:48}Whole rivers of water gush out of mine eyes, for the great hurt of my people. ^{3:49}Phe. Mine eyes run, and can not cease, for there is no rest. ^{3:50}O LORD, when will thou look down from heaven, and consider. ^{3:51}Mine eye breaketh my heart, because of all the daughters of my city. ^{3:52}Zade. Mine enemies hunted me out sharply, like a bird, yea and that without a cause. ^{3:53}They have put down my life into a pit, and laid a stone upon me. ^{3:54}They poured water upon my head, then thought I: now am I undone. ^{3:55}Koph. I called upon thy name, O LORD, out of the deep pit. ^{3:56}Thou hast heard my voice, and hast not turned away thine ears from my sighing and crying. ^{3:57}Thou hast inclined thy self unto me, when I called upon thee, and haste said: fear not. ^{3:58}Res. Thou (O Lord),^s hast maintained the cause of my soul, and hast redeemed my life. ^{3:59}O LORD, thou hast seen my blasphemers, take thou my cause upon thee. ^{3:60}Thou hast well considered how they go about to do me harm, and that all their counsels are against me. ^{3:61}Sin. Thou hast heard their despiteful words (O LORD), yea and all their imaginations against me. ^{3:62}The lips of mine enemies, and their devices that they take against me, all the day long. ^{3:63}Thou seest also their sitting down and their rising up, they make their songs of nothing but me. ^{3:64}Thau. Reward them, (O LORD), according to the work of their hands. ^{3:65}Give them the thing, that their own heart is afraid of: even thy curse. ^{3:66}Persecute them (O LORD) with thine indignation, and root them out from under the heaven. ^{4:1}Aleph. O how is the gold become so dim? How is the goodly colour of it so sore changed? and the stones of the sanctuary thus scattered in the corner of every street? ^{4:2}Beth. The children of Sion that were alway in honour, and clothed with the most precious gold: how are they now become like the earthen vessels which be made with the potters hand. ^{4:3}Gimel. The Lamies give their young ones suck with bare breasts: but the daughter of my people is cruel, and dwelleth in the wilderness: like the Ostriches. ^{4:4}Daleth. The tongues of the sucking children, cleave to the roof of their mouths for very thirst. The young children ask bread, but there is no man, that giveth it them. ^{4:5}He. They that were wont to fair delicately, perish in the streets: they that afore were brought up in purple, make now much of dung. ^{4:6}Vau. The sin of the daughter of my people is become greater than the wickedness of Sodom, that suddenly was destroyed, and not taken with hands. ^{4:7}Zain. Her abstainers (or Nazarees) were whiter than the snow or milk: their colour was fresh red as the Corall, their beauty like the Sapphire. ^{4:8}CHeth. But now their faces are very black: In so much, that thou shouldest not know them in the streets. Their skin cleaveth to their bones; It is withered, and become like a dry stock. ^{4:9}Teth. They that be slain with the sword, are happier than such as die of hunger, and perish away famishing for the fruits of the field. ^{4:10}Iod. The women (which of nature are pitiful) have sodden their own children with their hands that they might be their meat, in the miserable destruction of the daughter of my people. ^{4:11}Caph. The LORD hath performed his heavy wrath: he hath poured out the furiousness of his displeasure. He hath kindled a fire in Sion, which hath consumed the foundations thereof. ^{4:12}Lamed. Neither the kings of the earth, nor all the inhabitants of the world, would have believed that the enemy and adversary should have come in at the gates of the city of Hierusalem. ^{4:13}Mem. Which nevertheless is come to pass for the sins of her prophets, and for the wickedness of her priests that have shed innocents blood within her. ^{4:14}Nun. So that these blind men went stumbling in the streets, and stained themselves with blood, which else would touch no bloody cloth. ^{4:15}Samech. But they cried unto every man: flee the staining, away, get you hence, touch it not. Yea (say they) ye must be brent, ye must dwell among the Gentiles, and bide no longer here. ^{4:16}Ain. The countenance of the LORD hath banished them, and shall never look more upon them: For they themselves neither regarded the priests, nor pitied the elders. ^{4:17}Phe. Wherefore yet our eyes fail us, while we look for vain help: seeing we be ever waiting upon a people, that can do us no good. ^{4:18}Zade. They lay so sharp wait for us, that we can not go safe upon the streets: for our end is come, our days are fulfilled, our end is here. ^{4:19}Koph. Our persecutors are swifter than the Aegles^t of the air, they followed upon us over the mountains, and laid wait for us in the wilderness. ^{4:20}Res. The very breath of our mouth: even the anointed LORD himself shall be taken in our sins, of whom we say: Under his shadow we shall be preserved among the Heathen. ^{4:21}Sin. And thou (O daughter Edom) that dwellest in the land of Huz, be glad and rejoice: for the cup shall come unto thee also, which when thou suppest of thou shalt be drunk. ^{4:22}Thau. Thy sin is well punished (O thou daughter Sion) he shall not suffer thee to be carried away any more. But thy wickedness (O daughter Edom) shall he visit, and for thy sins' sake, he shall lead thee into captivity. ^{5:1u} Call to remembrance, (O LORD) what we have suffered, consider and see our confusion. ^{5:2}Our inheritance is turned to the strangers, and our houses to the aliens. ^{5:3}We are become careful and fatherless, and our mothers are as the widows. ^{5:4}We are fain to drink our own water for money, and our own wood must we buy with money. ^{5:5}Our necks are under persecution, we are weary, and have no rest. ^{5:6}Afore time we yielded our selves to the Egyptians, and now to the Assyrians, only that we might have bread enough. ^{5:7}Our fathers (which now are gone) have sinned, and we must bear their wickedness. ^{5:8}Servants have the rule of us, and no man delivereth us out of their hands. ^{5:9}We must get our living with the peril of our lives because of the drouth of the wilderness. ^{5:10}Our skin is as it had been brent in an oven, for very sore hunger. ^{5:11}The wives are ravished in Sion, and the maidens in the cities of Judah. ^{5:12}The princes are hanged up with the hand of the enemies, they have not spared the old sage men, ^{5:13}they have taken young men's lives from them, and the boys are hanged up upon trees. ^{5:14}The elders sit no more under the gates, and the young men use no more the playing of Music. ^{5:15}The joy of our heart is gone, our merry query is turned into mourning. ^{5:16}The garland of our head is fallen: alas, that ever we sinned so sore. ^{5:17}Therefore our heart is full of heaviness, and our eyes dim: ^{5:18}because of the hill of Sion that is destroyed. In so much, that the foxes run upon it. ^{5:19}But thou, O LORD, that remainest for evermore, and thy seat world without end: ^{5:20}Wherefore wilt thou still forget us, and forsake us so long? ^{5:21}O LORD, turn thou us unto thee, and so shall we be turned. Renew our days as in old time, ^{5:22}for thou hast now banished us long enough, and hast been sore displeased at us.

The Book of the Prophet Ezekiel

^{1:1}It chanced in the thirtieth year the fifth day of the fourth Month, that I was among the prisoners by the river of Cobar: where the heavens opened, and I saw a vision of God. ^{1:2}Now the fifth day of the Month, made out the fifth year of king Joachim's captivity. ^{1:3}At the same time came the word of the LORD unto Ezechiel the son of Buzi the priest, in the land of the Caldees by the water of Cobar, where the hand of the LORD came upon him. ^{1:4}And I looked, and behold, a stormy wind came out of the North with a great cloud full of fire, which with his glister lightened all round about. And in the midst of the fire it was all clear, ^{1:5}and as it were the likeness of four beasts, which were fashioned like a man:^a ^{1:6}saving, that every one had four faces and four wings. ^{1:7}Their legs were straight; But their feet were like bullock's feet, and they glistered, as it had been fair scoured metal. ^{1:8}Under their wings upon all the four corners they had men's hands. Their faces and their wings were toward the four corners: ^{1:9}yet were the wings so, that one ever touched another. When they went, they turned them not about: but each one went straight forward. ^{1:10}Upon the right side of these four, their faces were like the faces of a man, and the face of a Lion: But upon the left side, they had the face of an ox, and the face of an Aegle. ^{1:11}Their faces also and their wings were spread out above: so that two wings of one touched ever two wings of another, and with the other^b they covered their body. ^{1:12}Every one when it went, it went straight forward. Where as the spirit led them, thither they went, and turned not about in their going. ^{1:13}The fashion and countenance of the beasts was like hot coals of fire, even as though burning cressettes had been among the beasts: and the fire gave a glister, and out of the fire there went lightning.^c ^{1:14}When the beasts went forward and backward, one would have thought it had lightened. ^{1:15}Now when I had well considered the beasts, I saw a work of wheels upon the earth with four faces also like the beasts. ^{1:16}The fashion and the work of the wheels was like the sea. The four wheels were joined and made (to look upon) as it had been one wheel in another. ^{1:17}When one went forward, they went all four, and turned them not about in their going. ^{1:18}They were large, great and horrible to look upon. Their bodies were full of eyes round about them all four. When the beasts went, the wheels went also with them: ^{1:19}And when the beasts lift themselves up from the earth, the wheels were lift up also. ^{1:20}Whither soever the spirit went, thither went they also, and the wheels were lift up, and followed them: for the spirit of life was in the wheels. ^{1:21}When the beasts went forth, stood still, or lift themselves up from the earth: then the wheels also went, stood still, and were lift up, for the breath of life was in the wheels. ^{1:22}Above over the heads of the beasts there was a firmament, which was fashioned as it had been of the most pure Crystal, and that was spread out above upon their heads: ^{1:23}under the same firmament were their wings laid abroad, one toward another, and two wings covered the body of every beast. ^{1:24}And when they went forth I heard the noise of their wings, like the noise of great waters, as it had been the voice of the great God, and a rushing together as it were of a host of men. And when they stood still, they let down their wings. ^{1:25}Now when they stood still, and had let down their wings, it thundered in the firmament that was above their heads. ^{1:26}Above the firmament that was over their heads, there was the fashion of a seat, as it had been made of Sapphire. Upon the seat there sat one like a man. ^{1:27}I beheld him, and he was like a clear light, as it had been all of fire within from his loins upward. And beneath when I looked upon him under the loins, me thought he was like a shining fire, that giveth ^aThe similitude of the faces of the four beasts: the face of a man and the face of a lion on the right hand of the four of them. And the face of an eagle above them four. And their faces and their wings stretched out above on high. Each had two wings coupled together and two that covered their bodies. And they went all straight forward. And whither they had lust to go, thither they went, and turned not back again in their going.

^cAnd the similitude of the beasts and the fashion of them was as burning coals of fire and as fire brands, walking between the beasts. And the fire did shine, and out of the fire proceeded lightning. And the beasts ran and returned after the fashion of lightning.

light on every side. ^{1:28}Yea the shine and glister that lightened round about, was like a rainbow, which in a rainy day appeareth in the clouds. Even so was the similitude, wherein the glory of the LORD appeared. When I saw it, I fell upon my face, and hearkened unto the voice of him that spake. ^{2:1}And then said he unto me: Stand up upon thy feet (O thou son of man) and I will talk with thee. ^{2:2}And as he was communing with me, the spirit came in to me, and set me up upon my feet: so that I marked the thing, that he said unto me. ^{2:3}And he said: Behold, thou son of man: I will send thee to the children of Israel, to those runagates and obstinate people: for they have taken part against me, and are run away from me: both they and their forefathers unto this day. ^{2:4}Yea I will send thee unto a people that have rough visages an stiff stomachs: unto whom thou shalt say on this manner: This the Lord GOD^d himself hath spoken, ^{2:5}that whether they be obedient or no (for it is a froward household) they may know yet that there hath been a Prophet among them. ^{2:6}Therefore (thou son of man) fear them not, neither be afraid of their words: for they shall rebel against thee, and despise thee. Yea thou shalt dwell among scorpions: but fear not their words, be not abashed at their looks, for it is a froward household. ^{2:7}See that thou speak my words unto them, whether they be obedient or not, for they are obstinate. ^{2:8}Therefore, thou son of man, obey thou all things, that I say unto thee, and be not thou stiffnecked, like as they are a stiffnecked household. Open thy mouth, and eat that I give thee. ^{2:9}So as I was looking up, behold, there was sent unto me an hand, wherein was a closed book: ^{2:10}and the hand opened it before me, and it was written within and without, full of careful mournings: alas, and woe. ^{3:1}After this^e said he unto me: Thou son of man, eat that, whatsoever it be: Yea eat that closed book, and go thy way, and speak unto the children of Israel. ^{3:2}So I opened my mouth, and he gave me the book for to eat, ^{3:3}and said unto me: Thou son of man, thy belly shall eat, and thy bowels shall be filled with the book, that I give thee. Then did I eat the book, and it was in my mouth sweeter than honey. ^{3:4}And he said unto me: thou son of man, get thee soon unto the house of Israel, and shew them the words that I command thee: ^{3:5}For I send thee not to the^f people that hath a strange, unknown, or hard speech, but unto the house of Israel; ^{3:6}Not to many nations, which have divers speches and hard languages, whose words thou understandest^g not. Nevertheless, if I sent thee to those people, they would follow thee: ^{3:7}But the house of Israel will not follow thee, for they will not follow me: Yea all the house of Israel have stiff foreheads, and hard hearts. ^{3:8}Behold, therefore, I will make thy face prevail against their faces, and harden thy forehead against their foreheads: ^{3:9}so that thy forehead shall be harder than an Adamant or flint stone: that thou mayest fear them the less, and be less afraid of them, for they are a froward household. ^{3:10}He said moreover unto me: thou son of man, take diligent heed with thine ears, to the words that I speak unto thee, fasten them in thine heart: ^{3:11}and go to the prisoners of thy people, speak unto them, and say on this manner: Thus the Lord GOD^h hath spoken: whether ye hear, or hear not. ^{3:12}With that, the spirit took me up. And I heard the noise of a great rushing and removing of the most blisshed glory of the LORD out of his place. ^{3:13}I heard also the noise of the wings of the beasts, that rushed one against another, yea and the rattling of the wheels, that were by them, which rushing and noise was very great. ^{3:14}Now when the spirit took me up, and carried me away, I went with an heavy and sorrowful mind, but the hand of the LORD comforted me right soon. ^{3:15}And so in the beginning of the Month Abib, I came to the prisoners, that dwelt by the water of Cobar, and remained in that place, where they were: And so continued I among them seven days, being very sorry. ^{3:16}And when the seven days were expired, the LORD said unto me: ^{3:17}Thou son of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore take good heed to the words, and give them warning at my commandment. ^{3:18}If I say unto thee, concerning the ungodly man, that (without doubt) he must die, and thou givest him not warning, nor speakest unto him, that he may turn from his evil way, and so to live: Then shall the same ungodly man die in his own unrighteousness: but his blood will I require of thine hand. ^{3:19}Nevertheless, if thou give warning unto the wicked, and he yet forsake not his ungodliness: then shall he die in his own wickedness, but thou hast discharged thy soul. ^{3:20}Now if a righteous man go from his righteousness, and do the thing that is evil: I will lay a stumbling block before him, and he shall die, because thou hast not given him warning: Yea die shall he in his own sin, so that the virtue, which he did before, shall not be thought upon: but his blood will I require of thine hand. ^{3:21}Nevertheless, if thou exhortest the righteous, that he sin not, and so the righteous do not sin: then shall he live, because he hath received thy warning, and thou hast discharged thy soul. ^{3:22}And there came the hand of the LORD upon me, and he said unto me: Stand up, and go into the field, that I may there talk with thee. ^{3:23}So when I had risen up, and gone forth into the field: Behold, the glory of the LORD stood there, like as I saw it afore, by the waters of Cobar. Then fell I down upon my face, ^{3:24}and the spirit came in to me, which set me up upon my feet, and said thus unto me: Go thy way, and sparre thyself in thine house. ^{3:25}Behold, (O thou son of man) there shall changes be brought for thee, to bring thee withal, so that thou shalt not escape out of them. ^{3:26}And I will make thy tongue cleave so to the roof of thy mouth, that thou shalt be dumb, and not be as a chider with them: for it is an obstinate household. ^{3:27}But when I speak unto thee, then open thy mouth, and say: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:ⁱ who so heareth, let him hear: who so will not, let him leave: for it is an obstinate^j household. ^{4:1}Thou son of man, take a tile stone, and lay it before thee, and describe upon it the city of Jerusalem, ^{4:2}how it is besieged, how bulwarks and strong ditches are graven on every side of it: describe also the tents, and an host of men round about it. ^{4:3}Moreover, take an iron pan, and set it betwixt thee and the city, instead of an iron wall. Then set thy face toward it, besiege it, and lay ordinance against it, to win it. This shall be a token unto the house of Israel. ^{4:4}But thou shalt sleep upon thy left side, and lay the sin of the house of Israel upon thee. Certain days appointed, thou shalt sleep upon that side, and bear their sins. ^{4:5}Nevertheless, I will appoint thee a time (to put out their sins) and the number of the days: Three hundredth and ninety days must thou bear the wickedness of the house of Israel. ^{4:6}When thou hast fulfilled these days, lie down again, and sleep upon thy right side forty days, and bear the sins of the house of Judah. A day for a year, a day (I say) for a year will I ever lay upon thee. ^{4:7}Therefore set now thy face against that besieged Jerusalem, and discover thine arm, that thou mayest prophesy against it. ^{4:8}Behold, I will lay chains upon thee, that thou shalt not turn thee from one side to another, till thou hast ended the days of thy siege. ^{4:9}Wherefore, take unto thee wheat, barley, beans, growell seed, Millium and fitches: and put these together in a vessel, and make thee loaves of bread thereof, according to the number of the days that thou must lie upon thy side: that thou mayest have bread to eat, for three hundredth and ninety days. ^{4:10}And the meat that thou eatest, shall have a certain weight appointed: namely twenty shekels every day. This appointed meat shalt thou eat daily, from the beginning to the end. ^{4:11}Thou shalt drink also a certain measure of water: Namely, the sixth part of an Hin shalt thou drink daily from the beginning to the end. ^{4:12}Barley cakes shalt thou eat, yet shalt thou first strike them over with man's dung, that they may see it. ^{4:13}And with that said the LORD: Even thus shall the children of Israel eat their defiled bread in the midst of the Gentiles, among whom I will scatter them. ^{4:14}Then said I: Oh Lord GOD.^k Behold, my soul was yet never stained: for from my youth up to this hour. I did never eat of a dead carcass, or that which was slain of wild beasts, neither came there ever any unclean flesh in my mouth. ^{4:15}Where unto he answered me, and said: Well then, I will grant thee to take cow's dung, for the dung of a man, and to strike the bread over with all, before them. ^{4:16}And he said unto me: Behold thou son of man, I will minish all the provision of bread in Jerusalem, so that they shall weigh their bread, and eat it with scarceness. But as for water, they shall have a very little measure thereof, to drink. ^{4:17}And when they have no more bread nor water, one shall be destroyed with another, and famish away for their wickedness. ^{5:1}O Thou son of man, take thee then a sharp knife, namely, a razor. Take that, and shave the hair of thy head and beard: Then take the scales and weight, and divide the hair asunder. ^{5:2}And burn the third part thereof in the fire in the midst of the city, and cut the other third part in pieces with a knife. As for the third part that remaineth, cast it in the wind, and then shew the bare knife. ^{5:3}Yet afterward take a little of the same, and bind it in thy coat lap. ^{5:4}Then take a curtesy of it, and cast it in the midst of the fire: and burn it in the fire. Out of the same fire shall there go a flame, upon the whole house of Israel. ^{5:5}Moreover, thus said the Lord GOD:¹ This same is Jerusalem. I set her in the midst of the Heathen and nations: that are round about her, ^{5:6}but she hath despised my judgements more than the Gentiles themselves, and broken my commandments more than the nations, that lie round about her: For they have cast out mine ordinances, and not walked in my laws. ^{5:7}Therefore, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^m For so much as ye with your wickedness far exceed the Heathen, that dwell round about you: (For ye have not walked in my laws, neither have ye kept mine ordinances) ^{5:8}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD.ⁿ I will also come upon thee, for in the midst of thee will I sit in judgement, in the sight of the Heathen, ^{5:9}and will handle thee of such a fashion, as I never did before, and as I never will do from that time forth, and that because of all thine abominations. ^{5:10}For in thee the fathers shall be fain to eat their own sons, and the sons their own fathers. Such a court will I keep in thee, and the whole remnant will I scatter in to all the winds. ^{5:11}Wherefore as truly as I live (sayeth the Lord GOD)^o seeing thou hast defiled my Sanctuary, with all manner of abominations and with all thy shameful offenses: For this cause will I also destroy thee. Mine eye shall not oversee thee, neither will I spare thee. ^{5:12}One third part within thee, shall die of the pestilence and of hunger: Another third part shall be slain down round about thee, with the sword: The other third part that remaineth, will I scatter abroad toward all the winds, and draw out the sword after them. ^{5:13}Thus will I perform my indignation and set my wrath against them, and ease myself. So that when I have fulfilled mine anger against them, they shall know that I am the LORD, which with a fervent jealousy have spoken it. ^{5:14}Moreover I will make thee waste and abhorred, before all the Heathen that dwell about thee, and in the sight of all them, that go by thee: ^{5:15}so that when I punish thee in my wrath, in mine anger, and with the plague of my hot displeasure: thou shalt be a very abomination, shame, a gasing and wondering stock, among the Heathen, that lie about thee. Even I the LORD have spoken it, and it shall come to pass, ^{5:16}when I shoot among them the perilous darts of hunger, which shall be but death: Yea therefore shall I shoot them, because I will destroy you. I will increase hunger, and minish all the provision of bread among you. ^{5:17}Plagues and misery will I send you, yea and wild beasts also to destroy you. Pestilence and bloodshedding shall come upon you, and the sword will I bring over you. Even I, the LORD, have said it. ^{6:1}And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{6:2}thou son of man, turn thy face to the mountains of Israel, that thou mayest prophesy^p unto them, ^{6:3}and say: Hear the word of the Lord GOD,^q O ye mountains of Israel: Thus hath the Lord GOD^r spoken to the mountains, hills, rivers, valleys and dales. Behold, I will bring a sword over you, and destroy your high places. ^{6:4}I will cast down your alters, and break down your temples. Your slain men will I lay before your gods. ^{6:5}And the dead carcasses of the children of Israel will I cast before their images, your bones will I destroy^s round about your altars, ^{6:6}and dwelling places. The cities shall be desolate, the hill chapels laid waste: your alters destroyed, and broken: your gods cast down, and taken away, your temples laid even with the ground, your own works clean rooted out. ^{6:7}Your slain men shall lie among you, that ye may learn to know, how that I am the LORD. ^{6:8}Those that among you have escaped the sword, will I leave among the Gentiles, for I will scatter you among the nations. ^{6:9}And they that escape from you, shall think upon me among the Heathen, where they shall be in captivity. As for that whorish and unfaithful heart of theirs, wherewith they run away from me, I will break it: yea and put out those eyes of theirs, that committed fornication with their Idols. Then shall they be ashamed, and displeased with their selves, for the wickedness and abominations, which they have done: ^{6:10}and shall learn to know, how that it is not in vain, that I the LORD spake, to bring such misery upon them. ^{6:11}The LORD said moreover unto me: Smite thy hands together, and stamp with thy feet, and say: Woe worth all the abominations and wickednesses of the house of Israel, for because of them, they shall perish with the sword, with hunger and with pestilence. ^{6:12}Who so is far off, shall die of the pestilence: he that is nigh at hand, shall perish with the sword: and the other that are besieged, shall die of hunger. Thus will I satisfy my wrathful displeasure upon them. ^{6:13}And so shall ye learn to know, that I am the LORD, when your slain men lie among your gods, and about your alters: upon all high hills and tops of mountains, among all green trees, among all thick oaks: even in the places, where they did sacrifice to all their Idols. ^{6:14}I will stretch mine hand out upon them, and will make the land waste: So that it shall lie desolate and void, from the wilderness of Deblathah forth, thorow all their habitations: to learn them for to know, that I am the LORD. ^{7:1}The word of the LORD came unto me on this manner: ^{7:2}Thee I call, O thou son of man. Thus sayeth the Lord GOD^t unto the land of Israel: The end cometh, yea verily the end cometh upon all the four corners of the earth. ^{7:3}But now shall the end come upon thee: For I will send my wrath upon thee, and will punish thee: according to thy ways, and reward thee after all thy abominations. ^{7:4}Mine eye shall not oversee thee, neither will I spare thee: but reward thee according to thy ways, and declare thy abominations. Then shall ye know, that I am the LORD. ^{7:5}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^u Behold, one misery and plague shall come after another: ^{7:6}the end is here. The end (I say) that waiteth for thee, is come already, ^{7:7}the hour is come against thee, that dwellest in the land. The time is at hand, the day of sedition is hard by, and no glad tidings upon the mountains. ^{7:8}Therefore, I will shortly pour out my sore displeasure over thee, and fulfill my wrath upon thee, I will judge thee after thy ways, and recompense thee all thy abominations. ^{7:9}Mine eye shall not oversee thee, neither will I spare thee: but reward thee after thy ways, and shew thy abominations, to learn you for to know, how that I am the LORD that smiteth. ^{7:10}Behold, the day is here, the day is come, the hour is run out, the rod flourisheth, willfulness waxeth green, ^{7:11}malicious violence is grown up, and the ungodly waxen to a staff. Yet shall there no complaint be made for them, nor for the trouble that shall come of these things. ^{7:12}The time cometh, the day draweth nigh: Who so buyeth let him not rejoice: he that selleth, let him not be sorry: for why? Trouble shall come in the midst of all rest: ^{7:13}so that the seller shall not come again to the buyer, for neither of them both shall live. For the vision shall come so greatly over all, that it shall not be hindered: No man also with his wickedness shall be able to save his own life. ^{7:14}The trumpets shall ye blow, and make you all ready, but no man shall go to the battle, for I am wroth with all the whole multitude. ^{7:15}The sword shall be without, pestilence and hunger within: so that who so is in the field, shall be slain with the sword: and he that is in the city, shall perish with hunger and pestilence. ^{7:16}And such as escape and flee from among them, shall be upon the hills, like as the doves in the field: every one shall be afraid, because of his own wickedness. ^{7:17}All hands shall be let down, and all knees shall be weak as the water: ^{7:18}they shall gird themselves with sack cloth, fear shall fall upon them. Their faces shall be confounded, and their heads bald: ^{7:19}their silver shall lie in the streets, and their gold shall be despised. Yea their silver and gold may not deliver them, in the day of the fearful wrath of the LORD. They shall not satisfy their hungry souls, neither fill their empty bellies therewith: For it is become their own decay thorow their wickedness: ^{7:20}because they made thereof not only costly Jewels for their pomp and pride, but also abominable images and Idols. For this cause will I make them to be abhorred. ^{7:21}Moreover, I will give it into the hands of the strangers to be spoiled: and to the wicked for to be robbed, and they shall destroy it. ^{7:22}My face will I turn from them, my treasury shall be defiled: for the thieves shall go into it, and suspend it. ^{7:23}I will make clean riddance, for the land is whole defiled with unrighteous judgement of innocent blood, and the city is full of abominations. ^{7:24}Wherefore, I will bring the most cruel tyrants from among the Heathen, to take their houses in possession. I will make the pomp of the proud to cease, and they shall take in their Sanctuary. ^{7:25}When this trouble cometh, they shall seek peace, but they shall have none. ^{7:26}One mischief and sorrow shall follow another, and one rumour shall come after another: Then shall they seek visions in vain at their Prophets. The law shall be gone from the priests, and wisdom from the elders. ^{7:27}The king shall mourn, the princes shall be clothed with heaviness, and the hands of the people in the land shall tremble for fear. I will do unto them after their own ways, and according to their own judgements will I judge them: to learn them for to know, that I am the LORD. ^{8:1}It happened that in the sixth year, the fifth day of the sixth Month, I sat in my house, and the lords^v of the counsel of Judah with me: and the hand of the Lord GOD^w fell even there upon me. ^{8:2}And as I looked up, I saw as it were a likeness of fire from his loins downward, and from his loins upward it shined marvelous clear. ^{8:3}This similitude stretched out an hand, and took me by the hairy locks of my head, and the spirit lift me up betwixt heaven and earth: And God brought me in a vision to Jerusalem, into the entry^x of the inner^y port that lieth toward the north: there stood an image, with whom he that hath all things in his power, was very wroth. ^{8:4}And behold, the glory of the God of Israel was in the same place: even as I had seen it afore in the field. ^{8:5}And he said unto me: Thou son of man, O lift up thine eyes, and look toward the north. Then lift I up mine eyes toward the north, and behold: beside the port northward, there was an alter made unto the image of provocation in the very entering in. ^{8:6}And he said furthermore unto me: Thou son of man, seest thou what these do? Seest thou the great abominations that the house of Israel commit in this place? which ought not to be done in my sanctuary: But turn thee about, and thou shalt see yet greater abominations. ^{8:7}And with that brought he me to the court gate: and when I looked, behold, there was an hole in the wall. ^{8:8}Then said he unto me: Thou son of man, dig thorow the wall. And when I digged thorow the wall, behold there was a door. ^{8:9}And he said unto me: Go thy way in, and look what wicked abominations they do there. ^{8:10}So I went in, and saw: and behold, there were all manner of images of worms and beasts, all Idols and abominations of the house of Israel painted everychone round about the wall. ^{8:11}There stood also before the images. Seventy lords of the counsel^z of the house of Israel: and in the midst of them stood Jaazaniah the son of Saphan: And every one of them had a censor in his hand, and out of the incense, there went a smoke, as it had been a cloud. ^{8:12}Then said he unto me: Thou son of man, hast thou seen what the Senators of the house of Israel do secretly, everyone in his chamber: For they say; Tush, the LORD seeth us not, the LORD regardeth not the world. ^{8:13}And he said unto me: Turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see the great abominations that they do. ^{8:14} And with that he brought me to the door of the port of the LORD's house, toward the north. And behold, there sat women mourning for Thamus. ^{8:15} Then said he unto me: hast thou seen this, thou son of man? Turn ye about, and thou shalt see yet greater abominations. ^{8:16} And so he brought me into the inward court of the LORD's house: And behold at the port of the LORD's house, betwixt the fore entry and the altar, there were five and twenty men, that turned their backs on the temple of the LORD, and their faces toward the east, and these worshiped the son. ^{8:17} And he said unto me: hast thou seen this thou son of man? Thinketh the house of Israel, that it is but a trifle, to do these abominations here? Should they fill the land full of wickedness, and undertake to provoke me unto anger: Yea and purposely to cast up their noses upon me? ^{8:18} Therefore will I also do something in my wrathfull displeasure, so that mine eye shall not oversee them, neither will I spare them. Yea and though they cry in mine ears with loud voice, yet will I not hear them. ^{9:1} He cried also with a loud voice in mine ears, saying: Come her ye rulers of the city, every man with his weaponed hand to the slaughter. ^{9:2} Then came there six men out of the street of the upper port toward the north, and every man a weapon in his hand to the slaughter. There was one amongst them, that had on him a linen^a rayment, and a writer's inkhorn by his side. These went in, and stood beside the brazen altar: ^{9:3} for the glory of the Lord^b was gone away from the Cherub, and was come down to the threshold of the house, and he called the man that had the linen^c rayment upon him, and the writer's inkhorn by his side, ^{9:4} and the LORD said unto him: Go thy way thorow the city of Jerusalem, and set this mark^d Thau upon the foreheads of them, that mourn and are sorry for all the abominations, that be done therein. ^{9:5} And to the other, he said that I might hear: Go ye after him thorow the city, slay, oversee none, spare none: ^{9:6} kill and destroy both old man and young, maidens, children and wives. But as for those, that have this mark^e Thau upon them: see that ye touch them not, and begin at my Sanctuary. Then they began at the elders, which were in the temple, ^{9:7} for he had said unto them: When ye have defiled the temple, and filled the court with the slain, then go your way forth. So they went out, and slew down thorow the city. ^{9:8} Now when they had done the slaughter, and I yet escaped: I fell down upon my face, and cried saying: O LORD, wilt thou then destroy all the residue of Israel, in thy sore displeasure, that thou hast poured upon Jerusalem? ^{9:9} Then said he unto me: The wickedness of the house of Israel and Juda is very great: so that the land is full of blood, and the city full of unfaithfulness: For they say: Tush, the LORD regardeth not the earth, he seeth us not. ^{9:10} Therefore will I upon them, mine eye shall not oversee them, neither will I spare them, but will recompense their wickedness upon their heads. ^{9:11} And behold, the man that had the linen^f rayment upon him, and the writers inkhorn by his side: told all the matter how it happened, and said: Lord,^g as thou hast commanded me, so have I done. ^{10:1} And as I looked, behold, in the firmament that was above the cherubins there appeared the similitude of a stole of sapphire upon them: ^{10:2} Then said he that sat therein, to him that had the linen^h rayment upon him: Creep in between the wheels that are under the Cherubins, and take thine hand full of hot coals out from between the Cherubins, and cast them over the city. And he crept in, that I might see. ^{10:3} Now the Cherubins stood upon the right side of the house, when the man went in, and the cloud filled the innermer court. ^{10:4} But the glory of the LORD removed from the Cherubins, and came upon the threshold of the house: so that the temple was full of clouds, and the court was full of the shine of the LORD's glory. ^{10:5} Yea and the sound of the Cherubins' wings was heard into the fore court, like as it had been the voice of the almighty God, when he speaketh. ^{10:6}Now when he had bidden the man that was clothed in linen,ⁱ to go and take the hot coals from the midst of the wheels, which were under the Cherubins: he went and stood beside the wheels. ^{10:7}Then the one Cherub reached forth his hand from under the Cherubins, unto the fire that was between the Cherubins, and took thereof, and gave it unto him that had on the linen^j raiment in his hand: which took it, and went out. ^{10:8}And under the wings of the Cherubins, there appeared the likeness of a man's hand: ^{10:9}I saw also four wheels beside the Cherubins, so that by every Cherub there stood a wheel. And the wheels were (to look upon) after the fashion of the precious stone of Tharsis: ^{10:10}yet (unto the sight) were they fashioned and like, as if one wheel had been in another. ^{10:11}When they went forth, they went all four together, not turning about in their going: But where the first went, thither went they after also, so that they turned not about in their going. ^{10:12}Their whole bodies, their backs, their hands and wings, yea and the wheels also, were all full of eyes round about them all four. ^{10:13}And I heard him call the wheels, Gilgal (that is) a round boule. ^{10:14}Every one of them had four faces: so that the one face was the face of a Cherub, the second of a man, the third of a lion, the fourth of an Aegle, ^{10:15}and they were lifted up above. This is the beast, that I saw at the water of Cobar. ^{10:16}Now when the Cherubins went, the wheels went with them, and when the Cherubins shook their wings to lift themselves upward, the wheels remained not behind, but were with them also. ^{10:17}Shortly, when they stood, these stood also: And when they were lift up, the wheels were lift up also with them, for the spirit of life was in the wheels. ^{10:18}Then the glory of the LORD was lift up from the threshold of the temple, and remained upon the Cherubins: ^{10:19}And the Cherubins flattered with their wings, and lift themselves up from the earth: so that I saw when they went, and the wheels with them. And they stood at the east side of the port that is in the house of the LORD. So the glory of the LORD was upon them. ^{10:20}This is the beast that I saw under the God of Israel, by the water of Cobar. And I perceived, that it was the Cherubins. ^{10:21}Every one had four faces, and every one four wings, and under their wings, as it were men's hands. ^{10:22}Now the figure of their faces was, even as I had seen them, by the water of Cobar, and so was the countenance of them: Every one in his going went straight forward. ^{11:1}Moreover, the spirit of the LORD lift me up, and brought me unto the east port of the LORD's house. And behold, there were twenty five men under the door: among whom I saw Jaazaniah the son of Azur, and Pheltiah the son of Bananiah, the rulers of the people. ^{11:2}Then said the LORD unto me: Thou son of man: these men imagine mischief, and a wicked counsel take they in this city, ^{11:3}saying: Tush, there is no destruction at hand, let us build houses: this Jerusalem is the cauldron, and we be the flesh. ^{11:4}Therefore shalt thou prophesy unto them, yea prophesy shalt thou unto them, O son of man. ^{11:5}And with that fell the spirit of the LORD upon me, and said unto me: Speak, thus sayeth the LORD: On this manner have ye^k spoken (O ye house of Israel) and I know the imaginations of your hearts. ^{11:6}Many one have ye murdered in this city, and filled the streets full of the slain. ^{11:7}Therefore, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^l The slain men that ye have laid on the ground in this city, are the flesh, and this city is the cauldron: But I will bring you out of it: ^{11:8}ye have drawn out the sword, even so will I also bring a sword over you, sayeth the Lord GOD.^m ^{11:9}I will drive you out of this city and deliver you into your enemies hand, and will condemn you. ^{11:10}Ye shall be slain in all the coasts of Israel, I will be avenged of you: to learn you for to know, that I am the LORD. ^{11:11}This city shall not be your cauldron, neither shall ye be the flesh therein: but in the coasts of Israel will I punish you, ^{11:12}that ye may know, that I am the LORD, in whose commandments ye have not walked, nor kept his laws: but have done after the customs of the Heathen, that lie round about you. ^{11:13}Now when I preached, Pheltiah the son of Bananiah died. Then fell I down upon my face, and cried with a loud voice: O Lord GOD,ⁿ wilt thou then utterly destroy all the remnant in Israel? ^{11:14}And so the word of the LORD came to me on this manner: ^{11:15}thou son of man: thy brethren, thy kinsfolk, and the whole house of Juda, which dwell at Jerusalem, say: They be gone far from the LORD, but the land is given us in possession. ^{11:16}Therefore tell them thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^o I will send you far off among the Gentiles, and scatter you among the nations, and I will hallow you but a little, in the lands where ye shall come. ^{11:17}Tell them also, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^p I will gather you again out of the nations, and bring you from the countries were ye be scattered, and will give you the land of Israel again: ^{11:18}And thither shall ye come. And as for all impediments, and all your abominations: I will take them away. ^{11:19}And I will give you one heart, and will plant a new spirit within your bowels. That stoney heart will I take out of your body, and give you a fleshly heart: ^{11:20}that ye may walk in my commandments, and keep mine ordinances, and do them: that ye may be my people, and I your God. ^{11:21}But look whose hearts are disposed to follow their abominations and wicked livings: those men's deeds will I bring upon their own heads, sayeth the Lord GOD.^q ^{11:22}After this did the Cherubins lift up their wings, and the wheels went with them, and the glory of the Lord^r was upon them. ^{11:23}So the glory of the LORD went up from the midst of the city, and stood upon the mount of the city toward the east. ^{11:24}But the wind took me up, and in a vision (which came by the spirit of God) it brought me again into the Caldea among the prisoners. Then the vision that I had seen, vanished away from me. ^{11:25}So I spake unto the prisoners, all the words of the LORD, which he had shewed me. ^{12:1}The word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{12:2}Thou son of man, thou dwellest in the midst of a froward household: which have eyes to see, and yet see not: ears have they to hear, and yet hear they not, for they are an obstinate household. ^{12:3}Therefore, (O thou son of man), make thy gear ready to flit, and go forth by fair daylight, that they may see. Yea even in their sight shalt thou go from thy place to another place: if peradventure they will consider, that they be an unobedient household. ^{12:4}Thy gear that thou hast made ready to flit withal, shalt thou bear out by fair day light, that they may see: and thou thyself shalt go forth also at even in their sight, as a man doth when he fliteth. ^{12:5}Dig thorow the wall, that they may see: and bear thorow it the same thing, that thou tookest up in their sight. ^{12:6}As for thyself, thou shalt go forth in the dark. Hyde thy face that thou see not the earth, for I have made thee a shew token unto the house of Israel. ^{12:7}Now as the Lord commanded me, so I did: the gear that I had made ready, brought I out by day. At even I brake down an hole thorow the wall with my hand: and when it was dark, I took the gear upon my shoulders and bare them out in their sight. ^{12:8}And in the morning, came the word of the LORD unto me, saying: ^{12:9}Thou son of man, if Israel that froward household ask thee and say: What doest thou there? ^{12:10}Then tell them: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^s This punishment toucheth the chief rulers at Jerusalem, and all the house of Israel, that dwell among them. ^{12:11}Tell them I am your shew token: like as I have done, so shall it happen unto you: Flit shall ye also, and go into captivity. ^{12:12}The chiefest that is among you, shall lade his shoulders in the dark, and get him away. He shall break down the wall, to carry stuff there thorow: he shall cover his face, that he see not the ground, with his eyes. ^{12:13}My line will I spread out upon him, and catch him in my net, and carry him to Babylon, in the land of the Chaldees: which he shall not see, and yet shall he die there. ^{12:14}As for all his helpers, and all his Hosts, that be about him, I will scatter them toward all the winds, and draw out a sword after them. ^{12:15}So when I have scattered them among the Heathen, and strowed them in the lands, they shall know, that I am the LORD. ^{12:16}But, I will leave a little number of them from the sword, hunger and pestilence: to tell all their abominations among the Heathen, where they come: that they may know, how that I am the LORD. ^{12:17}Moreover, the word of the LORD came unto me saying: ^{12:18}Thou son of man: with a fearful trembling shalt thou eat thy bread, with carefulness and sorrow shalt thou drink thy water. ^{12:19}And unto the people of the land, speak thou on this manner: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD,^t to them that dwell in Jerusalem, and to the land of Israel: Ye shall eat your bread with sorrow, and drink your water with heaviness: Yea the land with the fulness thereof shall be laid waste, for the wickedness of them that dwell therein. ^{12:20}And the cities that now be well occupied, shall be void, and the land desolate: that ye may know, how that I am the LORD. ^{12:21}Yet came the word of the LORD unto me again, saying: ^{12:22}Thou son of man, what manner of byword is that, which ye use in the land of Israel, saying: Tush, seeing that the days are so slack in coming, all the visions are of none effect: ^{12:23}Tell them therefore, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^u I will make that byword to cease, so that it shall no more be commonly used in Israel. But say this unto them: The days are at hand, that everything which hath been prophesied, shall be fulfilled. ^{12:24}There shall no vision be in vain, neither any prophecy fail among the children of Israel: ^{12:25}For it is I the LORD that speak it: and whatsoever, I the LORD speak, it shall be performed, and not be slacken in coming. Yea even in your days (O ye froward household) will I devise something, and bring it to pass, sayeth the Lord GOD.^v ^{12:26}And the word of the LORD came unto me saying: ^{12:27}Behold, thou son of man: The house of Israel say in this manner: Tush, as for the vision that he hath seen, it will be many a day or it come to pass: Is it far off yet, the thing that he prophesieth. ^{12:28}Therefore say unto them: Thus sayeth the LORD: All my words shall no more be slack: Look what I speak, that same shall come to pass, sayeth the LORD. ^{13:1}The word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{13:2}Thou son of man, speak prophecy against those prophets, that preach in Israel: and say thou unto them that prophesy out of their own hearts: Hear ye the word of the LORD, ^{13:3}thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^w Woe be unto those foolish prophets, that follow their own spirit, and speak where they see nothing. ^{13:4}O Israel, thy prophets are like the foxes upon the dry field: ^{13:5}For they stand not in the gaps, neither made they an hedge for the house of Israel, that men might abide the peril in the day of the LORD. ^{13:6}Vain things they see, and tell lies, to maintain their preachings withal. The LORD (say they) hath spoke it, when in very deed the LORD hath not sent them. ^{13:7}Vain visions have ye seen, and spoken false prophesies, when ye say: the LORD hath spoken it where as I never said it. ^{13:8}Therefore, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^x Because your words be vain, and ye seek out lies: Behold, I will upon you, sayeth the LORD. ^{13:9}Mine hands shall come upon the prophets, that look out vain things, and preach lies: they shall not be in the council of my people, nor written in the book of the house of Israel, neither shall they come in the land of Israel: that ye may know, how that I am the Lord GOD.^y ^{13:10}And that for this cause: they have deceived my people, and told them of peace, where no peace was. One setteth up a wall, and they daub it with loose^z clay. ^{13:11}Therefore tell them which daub it with untempered mortar, that it shall fall. For there shall come a great shewer of rain, great stones shall fall upon it, and a sore storm of wind shall break it, ^{13:12}so shall the wall come down. Shall it not then be said unto you: where is now the mortar, that ye daubed it withal? ^{13:13}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^a I will break out in my wrothfull displeasure with a stormy wind, so that in mine anger there shall come a mighty shewer of rain, and hailstones in my wrath, to destroy withal. ^{13:14}As for the wall, that ye have daubed with untempered mortar, I will break it down, make it even with the ground: so the foundation thereof shall remove, and it shall fall, yea and ye yourselves shall perish in the midst thereof: to learn you for to know, that I am the LORD. ^{13:15}Thus will I perform my wrath upon this wall, and upon them that have daubed it with untempered mortar, and then will I say unto you: The wall is gone, and the daubers are away. ^{13:16}These are the prophets of Israel, which prophesy unto the city of Jerusalem, and look out visions of peace for them, where as no peace is, sayeth the Lord GOD.^b ^{13:17}Wherefore (O thou son of man) set thy face against the daughters of thy people, which prophesy out of their own hearts: and speak thou prophecy against them, ^{13:18}and say: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^c Woe be unto you, that sew^d pillows under all armholes, and bolsters under the heads both of young and old, to catch souls withal. For when ye have gotten the souls of my people in your captivity, ye promise them life, ^{13:19}and dishonour me to my people, for an handful of barley, and for a piece of bread: when ye kill the souls of them, that die not, and promise life to them, that live not: Thus ye dissemble with my people, that believeth your lies. ^{13:20}Wherefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^e Behold, I will also upon the pillows, wherewith ye catch the souls in flying: them will I take from your arms, and let the souls go, that ye catch in flying. ^{13:21}Your bolsters also will I tear in pieces, and deliver my people out of your hand: so that they shall come no more in your hands to be spoiled, and ye shall know, that I am the LORD. ^{13:22}Seeing that with your lies ye discomfort the heart of the righteous, whom I have not discomforted: Again: For so much as ye courage the hand of the wicked, so that he may not turn from his wicked way, and live: ^{13:23}therefore shall ye spy out no more vanity, nor prophesy your own guessings: for I will deliver my people out of your hand, that ye may know, how that I am the LORD. ^{14:1}There resorted unto me certain of the elders of Israel, and sat down by me. ^{14:2}Then came the word of the LORD unto me, saying: ^{14:3}Thou son of man, these men bear their idols in their hearts, and go purposely upon the stumbling block of their own wickedness: how dare they then ask counsel at me? ^{14:4}Therefore speak unto them, and say: thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^f Every man of the house of Israel that beareth his Idols in his heart, purposing to stumble in his own wickedness, and cometh to a prophet, to enquire anything at me by him: unto that man will I the LORD myself give answer, according to the multitude of his idols: ^{14:5}that the house of Israel may be snared in their own hearts, because they be clean gone from me, for their Idols' sakes. ^{14:6}Wherefore, tell the house of Israel: thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^g Be converted, forsake your idols, and turn your faces from all your abominations. ^{14:7}For every man, (whether he be of the house of Israel or a stranger, that sojourneth in Israel) which departeth from me, and carrieth idols in his heart, purposing to go still stumbling in his own wickedness, and cometh to a Prophet, for to ask counsel at me throw him: unto that man will I the LORD give answer, by mine own self. ^{14:8}I will set my face against that man. And will make him to be an example for other, yea and a common byword: and will root him out of my people, that he may know, how that I am the LORD. ^{14:9}And if that Prophet be deceived, when he telleth him a word: then I the LORD myself have deceived that Prophet, and will stretch forth mine hand upon him, to root him out of my people of Israel: ^{14:10}and they both shall be punished for their wickedness. According to the sin of him that asketh, shall the sin of the Prophet be: ^{14:11}that the house of Israel be led no more from me throw error, and be no more defiled in their wickedness: but that they may be my people, and I their God, sayeth the Lord GOD.^h ^{14:12}And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{14:13}Thou son of man, when the land sinneth against me, and goeth forth in wickedness: I will stretch out mine hand upon it, and destroy all the provision of their bread, and send dearth upon them, to destroy man and beast in the land. ^{14:14}And though Noe, Daniel and Job these three men were among them, yet shall they in their righteousness deliver but their own souls, sayeth the Lord GOD.ⁱ ^{14:15}If I bring noisome beasts into the land, to waste it up, and it be so desolate, that no man may go therein for beasts: ^{14:16}if these three men also were in the land, as truly as I live, (sayeth the Lord GOD)^j they shall save neither sons nor daughters, but be only delivered themselves: and as for the land, it shall be waste. ^{14:17}Or if I bring a sword into the land, and charge it to go thorow the land: so that, I slay down man and beast in it, ^{14:18}and if these three men were therein: As truly as I live, (sayeth the Lord GOD) they shall deliver neither sons nor daughters, but only be saved themselves. ^{14:19}If I send a pestilence into the land, and pour out my sore indignation upon it in blood, so that I root out of it both man and beast, ^{14:20}and if Noe, Daniel and Job, were therein: as truly as I live, (sayeth the Lord GOD)^k they shall deliver neither sons nor daughters, but save their own souls in their righteousness. ^{14:21}Moreover, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^l Though I send my four troublous plagues upon Jerusalem: the sword, hunger, perilous beasts, and pestilence, to destroy man and beast out of it: ^{14:22}yet shall there be a remnant saved therein, which shall bring forth their sons and daughters. Behold, they shall come forth unto you, and ye shall see their way, and what they take in hand, and ye shall be comforted, as touching all the plagues that I have brought upon Jerusalem, ^{14:23}they shall comfort you, when ye see their way and works: and ye shall know, how that it is not without a cause, that I have done so against Jerusalem, as I did, sayeth the Lord GOD.^m ^{15:1}The word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{15:2}Thou son of man: What cometh of the vine among all other trees? And of the vine stock among all other timber of the groove? ^{15:3}Do men take wood of it, to make any work withal? Or may there a nail be made of it, to hang anything upon? ^{15:4}Behold, it is cast into the fire to be brent, the fire consumeth both the ends of it, the middest is brent to ashes. Is it mete then for any work? No. ^{15:5}Seeing then, that it was mete for no work, being whole: much less may there anything be made of it, when the fire hath consumed and brent it. ^{15:6}And therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:ⁿ Like as I cast the vine into the fire for to be brent, as other trees of the wood: Even so will I do with them that dwell in Jerusalem, ^{15:7}and set my face against them: they shall go out from the fire, and yet the fire shall consume them. Then shall ye know, that I am the LORD, when I set my face against them, ^{15:8}and make the Land waste: because they have sore offended, sayeth the Lord GOD.^o ^{16:1}Again, the word of the LORD spake unto me, saying: ^{16:2}Thou son of man, shew the city of Jerusalem their abominations, ^{16:3}and say: thus sayeth the Lord GOD^p unto Jerusalem: Thy progeny and kindred came out of the land of Canaan, thy father was an Amorite, thy mother a Cethite. ^{16:4}In the day of thy birth when thou wast born, the string of thy navel was not cut off: thou wast not bathed in water to make thee clean: thou wast neither rubbed with salt, nor swaddled in clouts: ^{16:5}No man regarded that so much, as to do any of these things for thee, or to shew thee such favour, but thou wast utterly cast out upon the field, yea despised wast thou in the day of thy birth. ^{16:6}Then came I by thee, and saw thee trodden down in thine own blood, and said unto thee: thou shalt be purged from thine own blood, from thine own blood (I say) shalt thou be cleansed. ^{16:7}So I planted thee, as the blossom of the field: thou art grown up, and waxen great: thou hast gotten a marvelous pleasant beauty, thy breasts are come up, thy hair is goodly grown, where as thou wast naked and bare afore. ^{16:8}Now when I went by thee, and looked upon thee: behold, thy time was come, yea even the time to vow^q thee. Then spread I my clothes over thee, to cover thy dishonesty: Yea I made an oath unto thee, and married myself with thee (sayeth the Lord GOD)^r and so thou becamest mine own. ^{16:9}Then washed I thee with water, and purged thy blood from thee, I anointed thee with oil, ^{16:10}I gave thee change of rayments, I made thee shoes of Taxus^s leather: I girthed thee about with white silk, I clothed thee with kerchues, ^{16:11}I decked thee with costly apparel, I put rings upon thy fingers: ^{16:12}a chain about thy neck, spangles upon thy forehead, ear rings upon thine ears, and set a beautiful crown upon thine head. ^{16:13}Thus wast thou decked with silver and gold, and thy raiment was of fine white silk, of needle work and divers colors. Thou didst eat nothing but simnels, honey and oil: marvelous goodly wast thou and beautiful, yea even a very Queen wast thou. ^{16:14}In so much, that thy beauty was spoken of among the Heathen, for thou wast excellent in my beauty, which I put upon thee, sayeth the Lord GOD.^t ^{16:15}But thou hast put confidence in thine own beauty, and played the harlot, when thou hadst gotten thee a name. Thou hast committed whoredom, with all that went by thee, and hast fulfilled their desires: ^{16:16}Yea thou hast taken thy garments of divers colors, and decked thine alters therewith, where upon thou mightest fulfill thine whoredom, of such a fashion, as never was done, nor shall be. ^{16:17}The goodly ornaments and Jewels which I gave thee of mine own gold and silver, hast thou taken, and made thee men's images thereof, and committed whoredom withal. ^{16:18}Thy garments of divers colors hast thou taken, and decked them therewith: mine oil and incense hast thou set before them. ^{16:19}My meat which I gave thee, as simnels, oil and honey: (to feed thee withal) that hast thou set before them, for a sweet saviour. And this came also to pass, sayeth the Lord GOD:^u ^{16:20}Thou hast taken thine own sons and daughters, whom thou hast^v begotten unto me: and these hast thou offered up to them, to be their meat. Is this but a small whoredom of thine (thinkest thou) ^{16:21}that thou slayest my children, and givest them over, to be brent unto them? ^{16:22}And yet in all thy abominations and whoredom, thou hast not remembered the days of thy youth, how naked and bare thou wast at that time, and trodden down in thine own blood. ^{16:23}After all these thy wickednesses (woe, woe unto thee, sayeth the LORD) ^{16:24}thou hast builded thy stewes and brodel houses in every place: yea at the head of every street hast thou builded thee an alter. ^{16:25}Thou hast made thy beauty to be abhorred, thou hast laid out thy legs to every one that came by, and multiplied thine whoredom. ^{16:26}Thou hast committed fornication with the Egyptians thy neighbours, which had much flesh: and thus hast thou used thine whoredom, to anger me. ^{16:27}Behold, I will stretch out mine hand over thee, and will minish thy store of food, and deliver thee over into the wiles of the Philistines thine enemies, which are ashamed of thy abominable way. ^{16:28}Thou hast played the whore also with the Assirians, which might not satisfy thee: Yea thou hast played the harlot, and not had enough. ^{16:29}Thus hast thou still committed thy fornication from the land of Canaan unto the Caldees, and yet thy lust not satisfied. ^{16:30}How should I circumcise thine heart (sayeth the Lord GOD)^w seeing thou doest all these things, thou precious whore: ^{16:31}building thy stewes at the head of every street, and thy brodel houses in all places? Thou hast not been as another whore, that maketh boost of her winning ^{16:32}but as a wife that breaketh wedlock, and taketh other instead of her husband. ^{16:33}Gifts are given to all other whores, but thou givest rewards unto all thy lovers: and offerest them gifts, to come unto thee out of all places, and to commit fornication with thee. ^{16:34}It is come to pass with thee in thy whoredoms contrary to the use of other women: yea there hath no such fornication been committed after thee, seeing that thou profferest gifts unto other, and no regard is given thee: this is a contrary thing. ^{16:35}Therefore hear the word of the LORD, O thou harlot: ^{16:36}thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^x For so much as thou hast spent thy money, and discovered thy shame, thorow thy whoredom with all thy lovers, and with all the Idols of thy abominations in the blood of thy children, whom thou hast given them: ^{16:37}Behold therefore, I will gather together all thy lovers, unto whom thou hast made thy self common: yea and all them whom thou favourest, and eury one that thou hatest: and will discover thy shame before them, that they all maye see thy filthiness. ^{16:38}Moreover, I will judge thee as a breaker of wedlock and a murderer, and recompense thee thine own blood in wrath and jealousy. ^{16:39}I will give thee over in to their power, that shall break down thy stewes, and destroy thy brodel houses: they shall strip thee out of thy clothes, all thy fair and beautiful Jewels shall they take from thee, and so let thee sit naked and bare: ^{16:40}Yea they shall bring the common people upon thee, which shall stone thee, and slay thee down with their swords. ^{16:41}They shall burn up thy houses, and punish thee in the sight of many women. Thus will I make thy whoredom to cease, sop that thou shalt give out no more^y rewards. ^{16:42}Should I make my wrath to be still, take my jealousy from thee, be content, and no more to be displeased? ^{16:43}Seeing thou rememberest not the days of thy youth, but hast provoked me to wrath in all these things? Behold therefore, I will bring thine own ways upon thine head, sayeth the Lord GOD:^z how be it, I never did unto thee, according to thy wickedness and all thy abominations. ^{16:44}Behold, all they that use common proverbs, shall use this proverb also against thee: such a mother, such a daughter. ^{16:45}Thou art even thy mother's own daughter, that hath cast off her husband and her children: Yea thou art the sister of thy sisters, which forsook their husbands and their children. Your mother is a Cethite, and your father an Amorite. ^{16:46}Thine eldest sister is Samaria, she and her daughters that dwell upon thy left hand. But thy youngest sister that dwelleth on thy right hand, is Sodoma and her daughters. ^{16:47}Yet hast thou not walked after their ways, nor done after their abominations: but in all thy ways thou hast been more corrupt than they. ^{16:48}As truly as I live, sayeth the Lord GOD,^a Sodoma thy sister with her daughters hath not done so evil, as thou and thy daughters. ^{16:49}Behold, the sins of thy sister Sodoma, were these: Pride, fulness of meat, abundance and Idleness: these things had she and her daughters. Besides that they reached not their hand to the poor and needy, ^{16:50}but were proud, and did abominable things before me: therefore I took them away, when I had seen it. ^{16:51}Neither hath Samaria done half of thy sins, yea thou hast exceeded them in wickedness: In so much that in comparison of all the abominations which thou hast done, thou hast made thy sisters good women. ^{16:52}(Therefore bear thine own shame, thou that in sin hast ouercome thy sisters: seeing thou hast done so abominably, that they were better than thou. Be ashamed therefore (I say) and bear thine own confusion, thou that makest thy sisters good women.) ^{16:53}As for their captivity, namely the captivity of Sodoma and her daughters: the captivity of Samaria and her daughters: I will bring them again, so will I also bring again thy captivity among them: ^{16:54}that thou mayest take thine own confusion upon thee, and be ashamed of all that thou hast done, and to comfort them. ^{16:55}Thus thy sisters (namely) Sodoma and her daughters: Samaria and her daughters with thy self and thy daughters, shall be brought again to your old estate. ^{16:56}When thou wast in thy pride, ^{16:57}and before thy wickedness came to light: thou wouldest not hear speak of thy sister Sodoma, until the time that the Syrians with all their towns, and the Philistines, with all that lie round about them, brought thee to shame and confusion: ^{16:58}that thou mightest bear thine own filthiness and abomination, sayeth the LORD. ^{16:59}For thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^b I should (by right) deal with thee, as thou hast done. Thou hast despised the oath, and broken the covenant. ^{16:60}Nevertheless, I will remember the covenant that I made with thee in thy youth, in so much that it shall be an everlasting covenant: ^{16:61}So that thou also remember thy ways, and be ashamed of them: then shalt thou receive of me thy elder and younger sisters, whom I will make thy daughters, and that beside thy covenant. ^{16:62}And so I will renew my covenant with thee, that thou mayest know that I am the LORD: ^{16:63}That thou mayest think upon it, be ashamed, and excuse thine own confusion no more: when I have forgiven thee, all that thou hast done, sayeth the Lord GOD.^c ^{17:1}The word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{17:2}Thou son of man: put forth a dark speaking and a parable, unto the house of Israel; ^{17:3}And say: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^d There came a great Aegle with great wings, yea with mighty long wings, full of feathers, of divers colours, upon the mount of Libanus, and took a branch from a Cedar tree, ^{17:4}and brake off the top of his twig, and carried it into the land of Canaan, and set it in a city of merchants. ^{17:5}He took also a branch of the land, and planted it in a fruitful ground, he brought it unto great waters, and set it as a willow tree thereby. ^{17:6}Then did it grow, and was a great vine stock, but low by the ground: thus there came of it a vine, and it brought forth blossoms, and spread out branches. ^{17:7}But there was another Aegle, a great one, which had great wings and many feathers: and behold, the roots of this vine had an hunger after him, and spread out his branches toward him, to water his fruits: ^{17:8}Nevertheless it was planted upon a good ground beside great waters: so that (by reason) it should have brought out branches and fruit, and have been a goodly vine. ^{17:9}Speak thou therefore, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^e Shall this vine prosper? Shall not his roots be plucked out, his fruit be broken off, his green branches wither and fade away? Yea without either strong armies or many people, shall it be plucked up by the roots. ^{17:10}Behold, it was planted: shall it prosper therefore? Shall it not be dried up and withered, yea even in the shooting out of his blossoms, as soon as the east wind bloweth? ^{17:11}Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me saying: ^{17:12}Speak to that froward household: Know ye not, what these things do signify? Tell them: Behold, the king of Babylon came to Jerusalem, and took the king and his princes, and led them to Babylon. ^{17:13}He took of the king's seed, and made a covenant with him, and took an oath of him: The princes of the land toke he with him also, ^{17:14}that the land might be held in subjection, and not to rebel, but keep the covenant, and fulfill it. ^{17:15}But he fell from him, and sent his Embassadors into Egypt that he might have horses and much people. Should that prosper? Should he be kept safe, that doth such things? Or should he escape, that breaketh his covenant? ^{17:16}As truly as I live, sayeth the Lord GOD:^f He shall die at Babylon, in the place where the king dwelleth, that made him king: whose oath he hath despised, and whose covenant he hath broken. ^{17:17}Neither shall Pharaoh with his great host and multitude of people, maintain him in the war: when they cast up ditches, and set up bulwarks to destroy much people. ^{17:18}For seeing he hath despised the oath, and broken the covenant, (where as he yet gave his hand thereupon) and done all these things, he shall not escape. ^{17:19}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^g As truly as I live, I will bring mine oath that he hath despised, and my covenant that he hath broken, upon his own head. ^{17:20}I will cast my net about him, and catch him in my yarn. To Babylon will I carry him, there will I punish him, because of the great offense that he made me. ^{17:21}As for those that flee from him out of the host, they shall be slain with the sword. The residue shall be scattered toward all the winds: and ye shall know, that I the LORD have spoken it. ^{17:22}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^h I will also take a branch from an high Cedar tree, and will set it, and take the uppermost twig, that yet is but tender, and plant it upon an high hill: ^{17:23}Namely, upon the high hill of

Sion will I plant it: that it may bring forth twigs, and give fruit, and be a great Cedar tree: so that all manner of fowls may bide in it, and make their nests under the shadow of his branches. ^{17:24}And all the trees of the field shall know, that I the LORD have brought down the high tree, and set the low tree up: that I have dried up the green tree, and made the dry tree to flourish: Even I the LORD that spake it, have also brought it to pass. ^{18:1}The word of the LORD came unto me, on this manner: ^{18:2}what mean ye by this common proverb, that ye use in the land of Israel, saying: The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge? ^{18:3}As truly as I live, sayeth the Lord GOD,ⁱ ye shall use this byword no more in Israel. ^{18:4}Behold, all souls are mine. Like as the father is mine, so is the son mine also. nets, and brought him with chains unto the land of Egypt. 19:5 Now when the dame saw, that all her hope and comforth was away, she took another of her whelps, and made a lion of him: 19:6 which went among the lions, and became a fierce lion: learned to spoil, and to devour folk: 19:7 he destroyed their palaces, and made their cities waste. In so much that the whole land and every thing therein, were utterly desolate, thorow the very voice of his roaring. 19:8 Then came the heathen together on every side out of all countries against him, laid their nets for him, and took him in their pit. 19:9 So they bound him with chains, and brought him to the king of Babylon: which put him in prison, that his voice should no more be heard upon the mountains of Israel. 19:10 As for thy mother, she is like a vine in thy blood, planted by the water side: her fruits and branches are grown out of many waters, 19:11 her stalks were so strong, that men might have made staves thereof for officers: she grew so high in her stalks. So when men saw that she exceeded the height and multitude of her branches, 19:12 she was rooted out in displeasure, and cast down to the ground. The East wind dried up her fruit, her strong stalks were broken off, withered and brent in the fire. 19:13 But now she is planted in the wilderness, in a dry and thirsty ground. 19:14 And there is a fire gone out of her stalks, which hath brent up her branches and her fruit: so that she hath no more strong stalks, to be staves for officers. This is a piteous and miserable thing. 20:1 In the seventh year, the tenth day of the fifth Month, it happened, that certain of the elders of Israel came unto me, for to ask counsel at the LORD, and sat them down by me. 20:2 Then came the word of the LORD unto me on this manner: 20:3 Thou son of man: speak unto the elders of

Israel, and say unto them: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^y Are ye come hither to ask anything at me? As truly as I live, (sayeth the Lord GOD)^z ^{20:4}I will give you no answer. Wilt thou not reprove them (thou son of man) wilt thou not reprove them? Shew them the abominations of their forefathers: ^{20:5}and tell them: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^a In the day when I chose Israel, and lift up mine hand upon the seed of the house of Jacob, and shewed myself unto them in the land of Egypt; Yea when I lift up mine hand over them, and said: I am the LORD your God, ^{20:6}even in the day that I lift up mine hand over them, to bring them out of the land of Egypt, into a land that I have provided for them, which floweth with milk and honey, and it is a pleasant land among all other: ^{20:7}Then said I unto them: Cast away every man the abominations that he hath before him, and defile not yourselves with the Idols of Egypt, for I am the LORD your God. ^{20:8}But they rebelled against me, and would not follow me: to cast away every man the abominations of his eyes, and to forsake the Idols of Egypt. Then I made me to pour my indignation over them, and to satisfy my wrath upon them: Yea even in the midst of the land of Egypt. ^{20:9}But I would not do it, for my name's sake: that it should not be unhallowed before the Heathen, among whom they dwelt, and among whom I shewed my self unto them, that I would bring them out of the land of Egypt. ^{20:10}Now when I had carried them out of the land of Egypt, and brought them into the wilderness. ^{20:11}I gave them my comandments, and shewed them my laws: which who so keepeth shall live in them. ^{20:12}I gave them also my holy days, to be a token betwixt me and them, and thereby to know, that I am the LORD, which halloweth them. ^{20:13}And yet the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness, they would not walk in my comandments, they have cast away my laws (which whoso keepeth should live in them) and my Sabbath days have they greatly unhallowed. Then I made me to pour out my indignation upon them, and to consume them in the wilderness; ^{20:14}Yet I would not do it, for my name's sake: lest it should be dishonoured before the Heathen, from the which I had carried them away. ^{20:15}But I swore unto them in the wilderness, that I would not bring them into the land, which I gave them: a land that floweth with milk and honey, and is a pleasure of all lands: ^{20:16}and that because they refused my laws, and walked not in my comandments, but had unhallowed my Sabbaths, for their heart was gone after their Idols. ^{20:17}Nevertheless mine eye spared them, so that I would not utterly slay them, and consume them in the wilderness. ^{20:18}Moreover, I said unto their sons in the wilderness: walk not in the statutes of your forefathers, keep not their ordinances, and defile not yourselves with their idols, ^{20:19}for I am the LORD your God. But walk in my statutes, keep my laws and do them, ^{20:20}hallow my Sabbaths: for they are a token betwixt me and you, that ye may know, how that I am the LORD. ^{20:21}Notwithstanding, their sons rebelled against me also: they walked not in my statutes, they kept not my laws to fulfill them (which he that doth shall live in them) neither hallowed they my Sabbath days. Then I made me again to pour out my indignation over them, and to satisfy my wrath upon them in the wilderness. ^{20:22}Nevertheless, I withdrew my hand for my name's sake, lest it should be unhallowed among the Heathen, before whom I had brought them forth. ^{20:23}I lift up mine hand over them also in the wilderness, that I would scatter them among the Heathen, and strow them among the nations: ^{20:24}because they had not kept my laws, but cast aside my comandments, unhallowed my Sabbaths, and lift up their eyes to their fathers' Idols. ^{20:25}Wherefore I gave them also comandments not good, and laws thorow the which they should not live, ^{20:26}and I unhallowed them in their own gifts (when I appointed for my self all their firstborn) to make them desolate: that they might know, how that I am the LORD. ^{20:27}Therefore (O thou son of man) tell the house of Israel, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^b Beside all this, your forefathers have yet blasphemed me more, and greatly offended against me: ^{20:28}For after I had brought them into the land, that I promised to give them, when they saw every high hill, and all the thick trees: they made ^c their offerings, and provoked me with their oblations, making sweet saviours there, and poured out their drink offerings. ^{20:29}Then I ask them; What have ye to do with all, that ye go thither? And therefore is it called the high place unto this day. ^{20:30}Wherefore, speak unto the house of Israel: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^d Ye are even as unclean as your forefathers, and commit whoredom also with their abominations. ^{20:31}In all your idols, where unto ye bring your oblations, and to whose honour ye burn your children: ye defile your selves, even unto this day: how dare ye then come, and ask any question at me? O ye household of Israel? As truly as I live (sayeth the Lord GOD)^e ye get no answer of me: ^{20:32}and as for the thing that ye go about, it shall not come to pass, where as ye say: we will be as the Heathen, and do as other people in the land, wood and stone will we worship. ^{20:33}As truly as I live, sayeth the Lord GOD,^f I myself will rule you with a mighty hand, with a stretched out arm, and with indignation poured out over you: ^{20:34}and will bring you out of the nations and lands, wherein ye are scattered: and gather you together with a mighty hand, with a stretched out arm and with indignation poured out upon you: ^{20:35}and will bring you into the wilderness of the people, and there I will reason with you face to face. ^{20:36}Like as I punished your forefathers in the wilderness, so will I punish you also, sayeth the Lord GOD.^g ^{20:37}I will bring you under my jurisdiction, and under the bond of the covenant. ^{20:38}The forsakers also and the transgressors will I take from among you, and bring them out of the land of your habitations: As for the land of Israel, they shall not come in it: that they may know, how that I am the LORD. ^{20:39}Go now then (sayeth the Lord GOD)^h ye house of Israel, cast away, and destroy every man his Idols: then shall ye hear me, and no more blaspheme my holy name with your offerings and Idols. ^{20:40}But upon my holy hill, even upon the high hill of Israel shall all the house of Israel and all that is in the land, worship me: and in the same place will I favour them, and there will I require your heave offerings, and the firstlings of your oblations, with all your holy things. ^{20:41}I will accept your sweet savour, when I bring you from the nations, and gather you together out of the lands, wherein ye be scattered: that I may be hallowed in you before the Heathen. ^{20:42}And that ye may know, that I am the LORD, which have brought you into the land of Israel: Yea into the same land, that I swore to give unto your forefathers. ^{20:43}There shall ye call to remembrance your own ways and all your imaginations, wherein ye have been defiled: and ye shall be displeased with your own selves, for all your wickedness, that ye have done. ^{20:44}And ye shall know, that I am the LORD: when I entreat you after my name, not after your wicked ways, nor according to your corrupt works: O ye house of Israel, sayeth the LORD. ^{20:45}Moreover, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{20:46}Thou son of man, set thy face toward the south, and speak to the south wind, ^{20:47}and say to the wood toward the south: Hear the word of the LORD, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:ⁱ Behold, I will kindle a fire in thee, that shall consume thee green trees with the dry. No man shall be able to quench his flame, but all that looketh from the south to the north shall be brent therein. ^{20:48}And all flesh shall see, that I the LORD have kindled it, so that no man may quench it. ^{20:49}Then said I: O LORD, they will say of me: Tush, they are but fables that he telleth. ^{21:1}The word of the LORD came to me, saying: ^{21:2}Thou son of man, set thy face toward Jerusalem, speak against the Sanctuary, and prophesy against the land of Israel, say to the land of Israel: ^{21:3}Thus sayeth the LORD God: Behold, I will upon thee, and will draw my sword out of the sheath, and root out of thee both the righteous and the wicked; ^{21:4}Seeing then that I will root out of

There were their breasts bruised, and the pappes of their maidenhead destroyed. ^{23:4}The eldest of them was called Oholah and her youngest sister Oholibah. These two were mine, and bare sons and daughters. Their names were, Samaria, and that was Oholah: and Jerusalem, that was Oholibah: ^{23:5}As for Oholah she began to go a whoring, when I had taken her to me. She was set on fire upon her lovers the Assyrians, ^{23:6}which had to do with her: even the princes and lords, that were decked in costly array: fair young men, lusty riders of horses. ^{23:7}Thus thorow her whoredom, she cleaved unto all the young men of Assyria: Yea she was mad upon them, and defiled herself with all their Idols. ^{23:8}Neither ceased she from the fornication, that she used with the Egyptians: for in her youth they lay with her, they bruised the breasts of her maidenhead, and poured their whoredom upon her. ^{23:9}Wherefore, I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, even the Assyrians, whom she so loved. ^{23:10}These discovered her shame, took her sons and daughters, and slew her with the sword: An evil name gat she of all people, and they punished her. ^{23:11}Her sister Aholibah saw this, and destroyed herself with inordinate love, more than she, and exceeded her sister in whoredom: ^{23:12}she loved the Assyrians, (which also lay with her) namely, the princes and great lords, that were clothed with all manner of gorgeous apparel, all lusty horsemen and fair young persons. ^{23:13}Then I saw, that they both were defiled a like. ^{23:14}But she increased still in whoredom: for when she saw men painted upon the wall, the images of the Chaldees set forth with fresh colours, ^{23:15}with fair girdles about them, and goodly bonnets upon their heads, looking all like princes (after the manner of the Babylonians and Chaldees in their own land, where they be born) ^{23:16}immediatley, as soon as she saw them, she brent in love upon them, and sent messengers for them into the land of the Chaldees. ^{23:17}Now when the Babylonians came to her, they lay with her, and defiled her with their whoredom, and so was she polluted with them. And when her lust was abated from them, ^{23:18}her whoredom and shame was discovered and seen: then my heart forsook her, like as my heart was gone from her sister also. ^{23:19}Nevertheless, she used her whoredome ever the longer the more, and remembered the days of her youth, wherein she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt: ^{23:20}she brent in lust upon them, whose flesh was like the flesh of Asses, and their seed like the seed of horses. ^{23:21}Thus thou hast renewed the filthiness of thy youth, when thy lovers bruised thy paps, and marred thy breasts in Egypt. ^{23:22}Therefore (O Oholibah) thus sayeth the Lord GOD.^u I will raise up thy lovers (with whom thou hast satisfied thy lust) against thee, and gather them together round about thee: ^{23:23}Namely, the Babylonians, and all the Chaldees: Pecod, Schoa, and Coa, with all the Assyrians: all young and fair lovers: princes and lords, knights and gentlemen, which be all good horsemen: ^{23:24}These shall come upon thee with horses, chariots, and a great multitude of people: which shall be harnessed about thee on every side, with breastplates, shields and helmets. I will punish thee before them, yea they themselves shall punish thee, according to their own judgement. ^{23:25}I will put my jealousy upon thee, so that they shall deal cruelly with thee. They shall cut off thy nose and thine ears, and the remnant shall fall thorow the sword. They shall carry away thy sons and daughters, and the residue shall be brent in the fire. ^{23:26}They shall strip thee out of thy clothes, and carry thy costly jewels away with them. ^{23:27}Thus will I make an end of thy filthiness and whoredom, which thou hast brought out from the land of Egypt: so that thou shalt turn thine eyes no more after them, and cast thy mind no more upon Egypt. ^{23:28}For thus sayeth the LORD: behold, I will deliver thee into the hands of them, whom thou hatest: yea even into the hands of them, with whom thou hast fulfilled thy lust, ^{23:29}which shall deal cruelly with thee: All thy labour shall they take with them, and leave thee naked and bare, and thus the shame of thy filthy whoredom shall come to light. ^{23:30}All these things shall happen unto thee, because of thy whoredom, which thou hast used among the Gentiles, with whose Idols thou hast defiled thy self. ^{23:31}Thou hast walked in the way of thy sister, therefore will I give thee her cup in thy hand. ^{23:32}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^v Thou shalt drink of thy sister's cup, how deep and far^w soever it be to the bottom. Thou shalt be laughed to scorn, and had as greatly indersion, as is possible. ^{23:33}Thou shalt be full of drunkenness and sorrow, for the cup of thy sister Samaria is a cup of destruction and wasting: ^{23:34}The same shalt thou drink, and sup it out even to the dregs; Yea thou shalt eat up the broken pieces of it, and so tear thine own breasts: for even I have spoken it, sayeth the Lord GOD.^x ^{23:35}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^y For so much as thou hast forgotten me, and cast me aside, so bear now thy own filthiness and whoredom. ^{23:36}The LORD said moreover unto me: Thou son of man, wilt thou not reprove Oholah and Oholibah? Shew them their abominations: ^{23:37}namely, that they have broken their wedlock, and stained their hands with blood: yea even with their idols have they committed advoutry, and offered them their own children (to be devoured) whom they have born unto me. ^{23:38}Yea and this have they done unto me also: they have defiled my Sanctuary in that same day, and have unhallowed my Sabbath. ^{23:39}For when they had slain their children for their idols, they came the same day into my Sanctuary to defile it. Lo, this have they done in my house. ^{23:40}Beside all this, thou hast sent thy messengers for men out of far countries: and when they came, thou hast bathed, trimmed and set forth thy self of the best fashion: ^{23:41}thou satest upon a goodly bed, and a table spread before thee: whereupon thou hast set mine incense and mine oil. ^{23:42}Then was there great cheer with her: and the men that were sent from far countries over the desert, unto these they gave bracelets upon their hands, and set glorious crowns upon their heads: ^{23:43}Then thought I: no doubt, these will use their harlotry also with yonder old whore. ^{23:44}And they went into her, as unto a common harlot: Even so went they also to Oholah and Oholibah those filthy women. ^{23:45}O ye all that love virtue and righteousness, judge them, punish them: as advouters and murderers ought to be judged and punished. For they are breakers of wedlock, and the blood is in their hands. ^{23:46}Wherefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^z bring a great multitude of people upon them, and make them be scattered and spoiled: ^{23:47}these shall stone them and gore them with their swords. They shall slay their sons and daughters and burn up their houses with fire. ^{23:48}Thus will I destroy all such filthiness out of the land, that all women may learn, not to do after your uncleanness. ^{23:49}And so they shall lay your filthiness upon your own selves, and ye shall be punished for the sins, that ye have committed with your Idols: and ye shall know that I am the LORD. ^{24:1}In the ninth year, in the tenth Month, the tenth day of the Month, came the word of the LORD unto me, saying: ^{24:2}O thou son of man, write up the name of this day, yea even the hour of this present day: when the king of Babylon set himself against Jerusalem. ^{24:3}Shew that obstinate household a parable, and speak unto them: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^a Get thee a pot, set it on, and pour water into it: ^{24:4}put all the pieces together in it, all the good pieces: the loin and the shoulder, and fill it with the best bones. ^{24:5}Take one of the best sheep, and an heap of bones withal: let it boil well, and let the bones seethe well therein. ^{24:6}With that, said the Lord GOD^b on this manner: Woe be unto the bloody city of the pot, where upon the rustiness hangeth, and is not yet scoured away. Take out the pieces that are in it, one after another: there need no lots be cast therefore, ^{24:7}for the blood is yet in it. Upon a plain dry stone hath she poured it, and not upon the ground, that it might be covered with dust. ^{24:8}And therefore have I letten her pour her blood upon a plain dry stony rock, because it should not be hid, and that I might bring my wrothfull indignation and vengeance upon her. ^{24:9}Wherefore, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^c O woe be unto that bloodthirsty city; For whom I will prepare a heap of wood: ^{24:10}bear thou the bones together, kindle thou the fire, seeth the flesh, let all be well sodden, that the bones may be sucked^d out. ^{24:11}Moreover, set the pot empty upon the coals, that it may be warm and the metal hot: that the filth and rustiness may be consumed. ^{24:12}But it will not go off, there is so much of it: the rustiness must be brent out. ^{24:13}Thy filthiness is abominable, for I would have cleansed thee, but thou wouldest not be cleansed. Thou canst not be purged from thine uncleanness, till I have poured my wrothfull indignation upon thee. ^{24:14}Even I the LORD have so devised: Yea it is come thereto already, that I will do it. I will not go back, I will not spare, I will not be intreated: but according to thy ways and imaginations, thou shalt be punished, sayeth the Lord GOD.^e ^{24:15}And the word of the LORD came unto me saying: ^{24:16}Thou son of man, behold, I take away the pleasure of thine eyes with a plague: yet shalt thou neither mourn, nor weep, nor water thy cheeks therefore: ^{24:17}thou mayest mourn by thy self alone, but use no deadly lamentation. Hold on thy bonnet, and put on thy shoes upon thy feet, cover not thy face, and eat no mourners bread. ^{24:18}So I spake unto the people by times in the morning, and at even my wife died: then upon the next morrow, I did as I was commanded. ^{24:19}And the people said unto me: Wilt thou not tell us, what that signifieth, which thou doest? ^{24:20}I answered them, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{24:21}Tell the house of Israel, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^f behold, I will suspend my sanctuary: even the glory of your power, that pleasure of your eyes, and the thing that ye love: your sons and daughters whom ye have left, shall fall thorow the sword. ^{24:22}Like as I have done, so shall ye do also: Ye shall not hide your faces, ye shall eat no mourners bread: ^{24:23}your bonnets shall ye have upon your heads, and shoes upon your feet. Ye shall neither mourn nor weep, but in your sins ye shall be sorrowful, and one repent with another. ^{24:24}Thus Ezekiel is your shewtoken. For look as he hath done, so (when this cometh) ye shall do also: that ye may learn to know, that I am the Lord GOD.^g ^{24:25}But behold, O thou son of man: In the day when I take from them their power, their joy and honour, the lust of their eyes, the burthen of their bodies: namely, their sons and daughters: ^{24:26}Then shall there one escape, and come unto thee, for to shew thee. ^{24:27}In that day shall thy mouth be opened to him, which is escaped, that thou mayest speak, and be no more dumb: Yea and thou shalt be their shewtoken, that they may know, how that I am the LORD. ^{25:1}The word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{25:2}Thou son of man, set thy face against the Ammonites, prophesy upon them, ^{25:3}and say unto the Ammonites: hear the word of the Lord GOD:^h Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:ⁱ For so much as thou speakest over my Sanctuary. A ha, I trow it be now suspended: and over the land of Israel, I trow it be now desolate: yea and over the house of Judah, I trow they be now led away prisoners: ^{25:4}Behold, I will deliver thee to the people of the east, that they may have thee in possession: these shall set their castles and houses in thee. They shall eat thy fruit, and drink up thy milk. ^{25:5}As for Rabbah, I will make of it a stall for camels, and of Ammon a sheepfold: and ye shall know, that I am the LORD. ^{25:6}For thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^j In so much as thou hast clapped with thine hands, and stamped with thy feet, yea rejoiced in thine heart over the land of Israel with despite: ^{25:7}behold, I will stretch out mine hand over thee also, and deliver thee, to be spoiled of the Heathen, and root thee out from among the people, and cause thee to be destroyed out of all lands: yea I will make thee be laid waste, that thou mayest know, that I am the LORD. ^{25:8}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^k For so much as Moab and Seir do say: As for the house of Judah, it is but like as all other Gentiles be: ^{25:9}Therefore, behold, I will make the cities of Moab weaponless, and taken away their strength: their cities and chief coasts of their land, which are the pleasures of the country: As namely. Bethiesimoth, Baalmeon, and Cariathaim: ^{25:10}These will I open unto them of the east, that they may fall upon the Ammonites: and will give it them in possession: so that the Ammonites shall no more be had in remembrance among the Heathen. ^{25:11}Even thus will I punish Moab also, that they may know, how that I am the LORD. ^{25:12}Moreover, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^l Because that Edom hath avenged and eased himself upon the house of Judah, ^{25:13}therefore thus sayeth the LORD: I will reach out mine hand upon Edom, and take away man and beast out of it. From Theman unto Dedan will I make it desolate, they shall be slain with the sword. ^{25:14}Thorow my people of Israel will I avenge me again upon Edom: they shall handle him, according to my wrath and indignation, so that they shall know my vengeance, sayeth the Lord GOD.^m ^{25:15}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:ⁿ For so much as the Philistines have done this: namely taken vengeance with despiteful stomachs, and of an old evil will set themselves to destroy: ^{25:16}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^o Behold, I will stretch out mine hand over the Philistines, and destroy the destroyer, and cause all the remnant of the sea coast to perish. ^{25:17}A great vengeance will I take upon them, and punish them cruelly: that they may know, how that I am the LORD, which have avenged me of them. ^{26:1}It happened, that in the eleventh year, and the first day of the Month, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{26:2}Thou son of man, because that Tyre hath spoken upon Jerusalem: Aha, now I trow the ports of the people be broken, and she turned unto me, for I have destroyed my belly full. ^{26:3}Yea therefore sayeth the Lord GOD:^p Behold O Tyre, I will upon thee, I will bring a great multitude of people against thee, like as when the sea ariseth with his waves: ^{26:4}These shall break the walls of Tyre, and cast down her towers: I will scrape the ground from her, and make her a bare stone: ^{26:5}Yea as the drying place, where the fishers hang up their nets by the sea side. Even I have spoken it, sayeth the Lord GOD.^q The Gentiles shall spoil her: ^{26:6}her daughters upon the field shall perish with the sword, that they may know, how that I am the LORD. ^{26:7}For thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^r Behold, I will bring hither Nabuchodonosor (which is the king of Babylon and a king of kings) from the North upon Tyre, with horses, chariots, horsemen, and with a great multitude of people. ^{26:8}Thy daughters that are in the land, shall he slay with the sword: but against thee, he shall make bulwarks and grave up ditches about thee, and lift up his shield against thee. ^{26:9}His slings and battlerams shall he prepare for thy walls, and with his weapons break down thy towers. ^{26:10}The dust of his horses shall cover thee, they shall be so many: thy walls shall shake at the noise of the horsemen, chariots and wheels: when he cometh to thy ports, as men do into an open city. ^{26:11}With the hoofs of his horse's feet, shall he tread down all thy streets. He shall slay thy people with the sword, and break down the pillars of thy strength. ^{26:12}They shall waste away thy riches, and spoil thy merchandise. Thy walls shall they break down, and destroy thy houses of pleasure. Thy stones, thy timber and foundations shall they cast in the water. ^{26:13}Thus will I bring the melody of thy songs, and the voice of thy minstrelsy to an end, so that they shall no more be heard. ^{26:14}I will make a bare stone of thee, yea a drying place for nets, an shall never be builded again: For even I the LORD have spoken it, sayeth the Lord GOD:^s ^{26:15}Thus hath the Lord GOD^t spoken concerning Tyre; The isles shall be moved at the noise of thy fall, and at the cry of the slain, that shall be murdered in thee. ^{26:16}All kings of the sea shall come down from their seats regal: they shall lay away their robes, and put off their costly clothing: Yea with trembling shall they be clothed, they shall sit upon the ground: they shall be afraid at thy sudden fall, and be abashed at thee. ^{26:17}They shall mourn for thee, and say unto thee: O thou noble city, that hast been so greatly occupied of old, thou that hast been the strongest upon the sea with thine inhabitants of whom all men stood in fear: How art thou now so utterly destroyed? ^{26:18}Now at the time of thy fall the inhabitants of the Isles; Yea and the Iles themselves, shall stand in fear at thine end. ^{26:19}For thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^u when I make thee a desolate city, (as other cities be, that no man dwell in) and when I bring the deep upon thee, that great waters may cover thee: ^{26:20}Then will I cast thee down unto them, that descend into the pit, unto a people that hath been long dead, and set thee in a land that is beneath, like the old wilderness, with them which go down to their graves, so that no man shall dwell more in thee. And I will make thee to be no more in honor, in the land of the living. ^{26:21}I will make an end of thee, and thou shalt be gone. Though thou be sought for, yet shalt thou not be found for evermore, sayeth the Lord GOD.^v ^{27:1}The word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{27:2}O thou son of man, make a lamentable complaint upon Tyre, ^{27:3}and say unto Tyre, which is a port of the sea, that occupieth with much people, and many Isles: Thus speaketh the Lord GOD:^w O Tyre thou hast said: what, I am a noble city: ^{27:4}thy borders are in the midst of the sea, and thy builders have made thy marvelous goodly. ^{27:5}All thy tables have they made of Cypress trees of the mount Sanir. From Libanus have they taken Cedar trees, to make the masts: ^{27:6}and the Oaks of Basan to make the rowers. Thy boards have they made of ivory, and of costly wood out of the Isle of Cethim. ^{27:7}Thy sail was of white small needle work out of the land of Egypt, to hang upon thy mast: and thy hangings of yellow silk and purple, out of the Isles of Elisah. ^{27:8}They of Sidon and Arnad were thy mariners, and the wisest in Tyre were thy shipmasters. ^{27:9}The eldest and wisest at Gebal were they, that mended and stopped thy ships. All ships of the sea with their shipment occupied their merchandise in thee. ^{27:10}The Perses, Lidians and Libians were in thine host, and helped thee to fight: these hanged up their shields and helmets with thee, these set forth thy beauty. ^{27:11}They of Arnad were with thine host round about thy walls, and were thy watchmen upon thy towers, these hanged up their shields round about thy walls, and made thee marvelous goodly. ^{27:12}Tharsis occupied with thee in all manner of wares, in silver, iron, tin and lead, and made thy market great. ^{27:13}Javan, Tubal and Mesech were thy merchants, which brought the men, and ornaments of metal for thy occupying. ^{27:14}They of the house of Thogarma brought unto thee at the time of thy mart, horse, horsemen and mules. ^{27:15}They of Dedan were thy merchants: and many other Isles that occupied with thee, brought thee wethers, elephant bones and Paycockes for a present. ^{27:16}The Syrians occupied with thee, because of thy divers works, and increased thy merchandise, with Smaragdes, with scarlet, with needle work, with white linen^x cloth, with silk and with Crystal. ^{27:17}Judah and the land of Israel occupied with thee, and brought unto thy markets, wheat, balm, honey, oil and triacle. ^{27:18}Damascus also used merchandises with thee, in the best wine and white wool: because thy occupying was so great, and thy wares so many. ^{27:19}Dan, Javan, and

Mevsall have brought unto thy markets, iron ready made, with Casia, and Calamus, according to thine occupying. ^{27:20}Dedan occupied with thee, in fair tapestry work and quishins. ^{27:21}Arabia and all the princes of Cedar have occupied with thee, in sheep, wethers, and goats. ^{27:22}The merchants of Sheba and Rema have occupied also with thee, in all costly spices, in all precious stones and gold, which they brought unto thy markets. ^{27:23}Haran, Chenne, and Eden, the merchants of Saba, Assiria, and Chelmad, were all doers with thee ^{27:24}and occupied with thee: In costly raiment, of yellow silk and needle work (very precious, and therefore packed^y and bound together with ropes) Yea and in Cedar wood, at the time of thy markets. ^{27:25}The ships of Tharsis were the chief of thy occupying. Thus thou art full, and in great worship, even in the midst of the sea. ^{27:26}Thy mariners were ever bringing unto thee out of many waters. But the east wind shall over bear thee into the midst of the sea: ^{27:27}so that thy wares, thy merchandise, thy riches, thy mariners, thy shipmasters, thy helpers, thy occupiers (that brought the things necessary) the men of war that are in thee: Yea and all thy commons shall perish in the midst of the sea, in the day of thy fall. ^{27:28}The suburbs shall shake at the loud cry of thy shipmen. ^{27:29}All whirry men, and all mariners upon the sea, shall leap out of their boats, and set themselves upon the land. ^{27:30}They shall lift up their voice because of thee, and make a lamentable cry. They shall cast dust upon their heads, and lie down in the ashes. ^{27:31}They shall shave themselves, and put sackcloth upon them for thy sake. They shall mourn for thee with heartfull sorrow, ^{27:32}and heavy lamentation, yea their children also shall weep for thee. Alas, what city hath so been destroyed in the sea, as Tyre is? ^{27:33}When thy wares and merchandise came from the seas, thou gavest all people enough. The kings of the earth hast thou made rich, thorow the multitude of thy wares and occupying: ^{27:34}But now art thou cast down in to the deep of the sea, all thy resort of people is perished with thee. ^{27:35}All they that dwell in the Isles are abashed at thee, and all their kings are afraid, yea their faces have changed colour. ^{27:36}The merchants of the nations wonder at thee. In that thou art so clean brought to naught, and comest no more up. ^{28:1}The word of the LORD came unto me saying: ^{28:2}Thou son of man; Tell the prince of Tyre: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD,^z because thou hast a proud heart and hast said: I am a God, I have my seat in the midst of the sea like a God: where as thou art but a man, and not God, and yet standest in thine own conceit, that thou art God: ^{28:3}Behold, thou thinkest thyself wiser than Daniel, that there is no secrets hid from thee. ^{28:4}With thy wisdom and thy understanding, thou hast gotten thee great wealthiness, and gathered treasure of silver and gold. ^{28:5}With thy great wisdom and occupying, hast thou increased thy power, and because of thy great riches, thy heart is proud. ^{28:6}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^a For so much as thou hast lift up thine heart, as though thou were God: ^{28:7}behold, I will bring enemies upon thee, even the tyrants of the Heathen: These shall draw out their swords upon thy beauty and wisdom, and shall defile thy glory. ^{28:8}They shall cast thee down to the pit, so that thou shalt die in the midst of the sea, ^{28:9}as they that be slain. Let see, if thou wilt say then (before them that slay thee) I am God: where as thou art but a man and not God, in the hands of them that slayeth thee. ^{28:10}Die shalt thou, even as the uncircumcised in the hands of the enemies: for I myself have spoken it, sayeth the Lord GOD.^b ^{28:11}Moreover, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{28:12}Thou son of man, make a lamentable complaint over the king of Tyre, and tell him: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^c Thou art a seal of a likeness, full of wisdom and excellent beauty. ^{28:13}Thou hast been in the pleasure garden of God: thou art decked with all manner of precious stones: with Ruby, Topas, Crystal, Jacinth, Onyx, Jaspis, Sapphire, Smaragde, Carbuncle, and gold. Thy beauty and the holes that be in thee were set forth in the day of thy creation. ^{28:14}Thou art a fair Cherub, stretched wide out for to cover. I have set thee upon the holy mount of God, there hast thou been, and walked among the fair glistening stones. ^{28:15}From the time of thy creation thou hast been right excellent, till wickedness was found in thee. ^{28:16}Because of thy great merchandise, thy heart is full of wickedness, and thou hast offended. Therefore will I cast thee from the mount of God (O thou covering Cherub) and destroy thee among the glistening stones. ^{28:17}Thy heart was proud in thy fair beauty, and thorow thy beauty thou hast destroyed thy wisdom. I will cast thee down to the ground, and that in the sight of kings. ^{28:18}Thou hast defiled thy Sanctuary, with the great wickedness of thy unrighteous occupying. I will bring a fire from the midst of thee, to consume thee: and will make thee to ashes, in the sight of all them that look upon thee. ^{28:19}All they that have been acquainted with thee among the Heathen, shall be abashed at thee: seeing thou art so clean brought to naught, and comest no more up. ^{28:20}And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{28:21}Thou son of man, set thy face against Sidon. Prophesy upon it, ^{28:22}and speak: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^d Behold O Sidon, I will upon thee, and get me honour in thee: that it may be known, how that I am the LORD, when I punish her, and get me honour in her. ^{28:23}For I will send pestilence and blood shedding into her streets, so that those which be slain with the sword, shall lie round about in the midst of her: and they shall know, that I am the LORD. ^{28:24}She shall no more be a pricking thorn, and an hurting brier unto the house of Israel, nor unto them that lie round about her and hate her: and they shall know, that I am the LORD. ^{28:25}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^e When I gather the household of Israel together again from the nations among whom they be scattered: then shall I be sanctified in them, in the sight of the Gentiles, and they shall dwell in the land, that I gave to my servant Jacob. ^{28:26}They shall dwell safely therein, build houses, and plant vineyards: Yea safely shall they dwell therein, when I have punished all those, that despise them round about: and then shall they know, that I am the LORD their God. ^{29:1}In the tenth year, upon the twelfth day of the tenth Month, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{29:2}O thou son of man, set now face against Pharaoh the king of Egypt, Prophesy against him and against the whole land of Egypt: ^{29:3}Speak, and tell him, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^f behold, O Pharaoh thou king of Egypt, I will upon thee, thou great dragon,^g that liest in the^h waters: thou that sayest: the water is mine. I have made it myself. ^{29:4}I will put an hook in thy chaws, and hang all the fish in thy waters upon thy scales; after that I will draw thee out of thy waters, yea and all the fish of the waters that hang upon thy scales. ^{29:5}I will cast thee out upon the dry land with the fish of thy waters, so that thou shalt lie upon the field. Thou shalt not be gathered nor taken up: but shall be meat for the beasts of the field, and for the fowls of the air: ^{29:6}that all they which dwell in Egypt, may know, that I am the LORD: because thou hast been a staff of rede to the house of Israel. ^{29:7}When they took hold of thee with their hand thou breakest and prickest them on every side: and if they leaned upon thee, thou brakest and hurtest the reynes of their backs. ^{29:8}Therefore, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:ⁱ behold, I will bring a sword upon thee, and root out of thee both man and beast. ^{29:9}Yea the land of Egypt shall be desolate and waste, and they shall know, that I am the LORD: Because he said: The water is mine, I myself have made it. ^{29:10}Behold therefore, I will upon thee, and upon thy waters: I will make the land of Egypt waste and desolate, from the tower of Syenes unto the borders of the Morians land: ^{29:11}so that in forty years there shall no foot of man walk there, neither foot of cattle go there, neither shall it be inhabited. ^{29:12}I will make the land of Egypt to be desolate, among other waste countries, and her cities to lie void forty years, among other void cities: And I will scatter the Egyptians among the Heathen and nations.

^{29:13} Again, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^j When the forty years are expired I will gather the Egyptians together again, out of the nations, among whom they were scattered, ^{29:14} and will bring the prisoners of Egypt again into the land of Pathures their own native country, that they may be there a lowly small kingdom: ^{29:15} Yea they shall be the smallest among the other kingdoms, lest they exalt themselves above the Heathen, for I will so minish them, ^{29:16} that they shall no more rule the Heathen. They shall no more be an hope unto the house of Israel, neither provoke them any more to wickedness, to cause them turn back, and follow them: and they shall know, that I am the Lord GOD,^k ^{29:17} In the twenty seventh year, the first day of the first Month, came the word of the LORD unto me, saying: ^{29:18} O thou son of man, Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon hath made his host, with great travail and labour to come before Tyre: that every head may be bald, and every shoulder bare. Yet hath Tyre given neither him nor his host any reward, for the great travail that he hath taken there. ^{29:19} Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^l behold, I will give the land of Egypt unto Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, that he may take away all her substance, rob her robberies, and spoil her spoils, to pay his host their wages withal. ^{29:20} I will give him the land of Egypt for his labour, that he took for me before Tyre.^m ^{29:21} At the same time will I cause the horn of the house of Israel to grow forth, and open thy mouth again among them: that they may know, how that I am the LORD. ^{30:1} The word of the LORD came moreover unto me, saying: ^{30:2} thou son of man, prophesy and speak: thus sayeth the Lord GOD:ⁿ Mourn, woe worth this day, ^{30:3} for the day is here, the day of the LORD is come: the dark day of the Heathen, the hour is at hand, ^{30:4} the sword cometh upon Egypt. When the wounded men fall down in Egypt, when her people are taken away, and when her foundations are destroyed, ^{30:5} the Morians land shall be afraid, yea the Morians land, Libia and Lydia, all their common people, and Chub, and all that be confederate unto them, shall fall with them thorow the sword. ^{30:6} Thus sayeth the LORD: The maintainers of the land of Egypt shall fall, the pride of her power shall come down: even unto the tower of Syenes shall they be slain down with the sword, sayeth the Lord GOD:^o ^{30:7} among other desolate countries they shall be made desolate, and among other waste cities they shall be wasted. ^{30:8} And they shall know that I am the LORD, when I kindle a fire in Egypt, and when all her helpers are destroyed. ^{30:9} At that time, shall their messengers go forth from me in ships, to make the careless Moryans afraid, and sorrow shall come upon them in the day of Egypt for doubtless it shall come. ^{30:10} Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^p I will make an end of the people of Egypt thorow the hand of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon. ^{30:11} He and his people with him; Yea and the cruel tyrants of the Heathen shall be brought to destroy the land. They shall draw out their swords upon Egypt and fill the land full of slain men. ^{30:12} I will dry up their floods of water, and sell the land into the hands of wicked people. The land and all that is therein, will I destroy thorow the enemies. Even I the LORD have said it. ^{30:13} An thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^q I will destroy the Idols, and bring the images of Noph to an end. There shall no more be a prince of Egypt, and a fearfulness will I send into the Egyptians land. ^{30:14} As for Pathures, I will make it desolate, and kindle a fire in Zoan. ^{30:15} Alexandria will I punish and pour my wrothful indignation upon Sin which is the strength of Egypt. All the substance of Alexandria will I destroy, ^{30:16} and kindle a fire in Egypt. Sin shall be in great heaviness, Alexandria shall be rooted out, and Noph shall have daily sorrow. ^{30:17} The best men of Heliopolis and Bubasto shall be slain with the sword, and carried away captive. ^{30:18} At Taphnis the day shall be dark, when I break there the scepter of the land of Egypt, and when the pomp of her power shall have an end. A cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall be led away into captivity. ^{30:19}Thus will I punish Egypt, that they may know, how that I am the LORD. ^{30:20}It happened in the eleventh year, upon the seventh day of the first Month, that the LORD's word came unto me, saying: ^{30:21}Behold, thou son of man, I will brake the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt: and lo, it shall not be bound up to be healed, neither shall any plaster be laid upon it, for to ease it, or to make it so strong, as to hold a sword. ^{30:22}Therefore, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^f Behold, I will upon Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and bruise his strong arm (yet is it but a broken one) and will smite the sword out of his hand. ^{30:23}As for the Egyptians, I will scatter them among the Heathen, and strow them in the lands about. ^{30:24}Again I will strengthen the arm of the king of Babylon, and give him my sword in his hand: but I will break Pharaoh's arm, so that he shall hold it before him piteously, like a wounded man. ^{30:25}Yea I will stablish the king of Babylon's arm, and the armies of Pharaoh shall fall down: that it may be known, that I am the LORD, which give the king of Babylon my sword in his hand, that he may draw it out upon the land of Egypt: ^{30:26}and that when I scatter the Egyptians among the Gentiles, and strow them in the lands about, they may know, that I am the LORD. ^{31:1}Moreover, it happened in the eleventh year, the first day of the third Month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{31:2}Thou son of man speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to all his people: Whom art thou like in thy greatness? ^{31:3}Behold, Assur was like a Cedar tree upon the mount of Libanus, with fair branches: so thick, that he gave shadows, and shot out very high. His top reached into the clouds. ^{31:4}The waters made him great, and the deep set him up on high.^s Round about the roots of him ran there floods of water, he sent out his little rivers unto all the trees of the field. ^{31:5}Therefore was he higher than all the trees of the field, and thorow the multitude of waters that he sent from him, he obtained many and long branches. ^{31:6}All fowls of the air made their nests in his branches, under his boughs gendered all these beasts of the field and under his shadow dwelt all people. ^{31:7}Fair and beautiful was he in his greatness and in the length of his branches, for his root stood beside great waters, ^{31:8}no Cedar tree might hide him. In the pleasant garden of God, there was no fir tree like his branches, the plain trees were not like the boughs^t of him. All the trees in the garden of God might not be compared unto him in his beauty: ^{31:9}So fair and goodly had I made him with the multitude of his branches: In so much, that all the trees in the pleasant garden of God, had envy at him. ^{31:10}Therefore, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^u For so much as he hath lift up himself so high, and stretched his top into the clouds, and seeing his heart is proud in his highness: ^{31:11}I will deliver him into the hands of the mightiest among the Heathen, which shall root him out. According to his wickedness will I cast him away, ^{31:12}the enemies shall destroy him, and the mighty men of the Heathen shall so scatter him, that his branches shall lie upon all mountains and in all valleys: his boughs^v shall be broken down to the ground thorowout the land. Then all the people of the land shall go from his shadow, and forsake him. ^{31:13}When he is fallen, all the fowls of the air shall sit upon him, and all wild beasts of the field shall go about among his branches: ^{31:14}so that from henceforth, no tree in the water shall attain to his highness, nor reach his top unto the clouds, neither shall any tree of the water stand so high, as he hath done. For unto death shall they all be delivered under the earth, and go down to the grave, like other men. ^{31:15}Moreover, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^w In the day when he goeth down to the grave, I will cause a lamentation to be made, I will cover the deep upon him, I will staunch his floods, and the great waters shall be restrained. I shall cause Libanus to be sorrowful for his sake, and all the trees of the field shall be smitten. ^{31:16}I will make the Heathen shake at the sound of his fall, when I cast him down to hell, with them that descend into the pit. All the trees of Eden, with all the chosen and best trees of Libanus, yea and all they that are planted upon the waters, shall mourn with him also in the lower habitations: ^{31:17}for they shall go down to hell with him, unto them that be slain with the sword, which dwelt afore under the shadow of his arm among the Heathen. ^{31:18}To whom shalt thou be likened, that art so glorious and great, among the trees of Eden? Yet art thou cast down under the earth (among the trees of Eden) where thou must lie among the uncircumcised, with them that be slain with the sword. Even thus is it with Pharaoh and all his people, sayeth the Lord GOD.^x ^{32:1}In the twelfth year, the first day of the twelfth Month, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{32:2}thou son of man, take up a lamentation upon Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and say unto him: Thou art reputed as a Lion of the Heathen, and as a whalefish in the sea. Thou castest thy waters about thee, thou troublest the waters with thy feet, and stamest in their floods. ^{32:3}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^y I will spread my net over thee, namely, a great multitude of people: these shall drive thee into my yarn, ^{32:4}for I will cast thee upon the land, I let thee lie upon the field, that all the fowls of the air may sit upon thee: I will give all the beasts of the field enough of thee. ^{32:5}Thy flesh will I cast upon the hills, and fill the valleys with thy highness. ^{32:6}I will water the land with the abundance of thy blood even to the mountains, and the valleys shall be full of thee. ^{32:7}When thou art put out, I will cover the heaven, and make his stars dim. I will spread a cloud over the Sun, and the moon shall not give her light. ^{32:8}All the lights of heaven will I put out over thee, and bring darkness upon thy land, sayeth the Lord GOD.^z ^{32:9}I will trouble the hearts of many people, when I bring thy destruction among the Heathen and countries, whom thou knowest not. ^{32:10}Yea I will make many people with their kings so afraid thorow thee, that their hair shall stand up, when I shake my sword at their faces. Suddenly shall they be astonished, every man in himself, at the day of thy fall. ^{32:11}For thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^a the king of Babylon's sword shall come upon thee, ^{32:12}with the swords of the worthies will I smite down thy people. All they that be mighty among the Gentiles, shall waste the proud pomp of Egypt, and bring down all her people. ^{32:13}All the cattle also of Egypt will I destroy, that they shall come no more upon the waters: so that neither man's foot nor beasts claw, shall steer them any more. ^{32:14}Then will I make their waters clear, and cause their floods to run like oil, sayeth the Lord GOD:^b ^{32:15}when I make the land of Egypt desolate, and when the country with all that is therein, shall be laid waste: and when I smite all them which dwell in it, that they may know, that I am the LORD. ^{32:16}This is the mourning that the daughters of the Heathen shall make: Yea and sorrow and lamentation shall they take up, upon Egypt, and all her people, sayeth the Lord GOD.^c ^{32:17}In the twelfth year, the fifteenth day of the Month, came the word of the LORD unto me, saying: ^{32:18}Thou son of man. Take up a lamentation upon the people of Egypt, and cast them down, yea and the mighty people of the Heathen also, even with them that dwell beneath: and with them that go down into the grave. ^{32:19}Down (how fair soever thou be) and lay thee with the uncircumcised. ^{32:20}Among those that be slain with the sword, shall they lie. The sword is given already, he shall be drawn forth and all his people. ^{32:21}The mighty worthies and his helpers, that be gone down and lie with the uncircumcised and with them that be slain with the sword: shall speak to him out of the hell. ^{32:22}Asshur is there also with his company, and their graves round about, which were slain and fell all with the sword, ^{32:23}whose graves lie beside him in the low pit. His commons are buried round about his grave: all together wounded and slain with the sword, which men afore time brought fear in to the land of the living. ^{32:24}There is Elam also with all his people, and their graves round about: which all being wounded and slain with the sword, are gone down uncircumcised under the earth, which nevertheless sometime brought fear into the land of the living: for the which they bear their shame, with the other that be gone down to the grave. ^{32:25} Their burial is given them and all their people, among them that be slain. Their graves are round about all them, which be uncircumcised, and with them that be slain thorow the sword: for seeing that in times past they made the land of the living afraid, they must now bear their own shame, with them that go down to the pit, and lie among them, that be slain. ^{32:26} There is Mesech also and Tubal, and their people, and their graves round about. These all are among the uncircumcised, and them that be slain with the sword, because afore time they made the land of the living afraid. ^{32:27} Should not they then lie also among the worthies, and uncircumcised Giants? which with their weapons are gone down to hell: whose swords are laid under their heads, whose wickedness is upon their bones: because that as worthies, they have brought fear in to the land of the living: ^{32:28} Yea among the uncircumcised shalt thou be destroyed, and sleep with them, that perish thorow the sword. ^{32:29} There is the land of Edom with her kings and princes also, which with their strength are laid by them that were slain with the sword; Yea among the uncircumcised, and them which are gone down in to the pit. ^{32:30} Moreover, there be all the princes of the north, with all of the Sidonians, which are gone down to the slain. With their fear and strength they are come to confusion, and lie there uncircumcised, among those that be slain with the sword: and bear their own shame, with them that be gone down to the pit. ^{32:31} Now when Pharaoh seeth this, he shall be comforted over all his people, that is slain with the sword: both Pharo and all his host, sayeth the Lord GOD.^d ^{32:32} For I have given my fear in the land of the living. But Pharo and all his people shall lie among the uncircumcised, and among them that be slain with the sword, sayeth the Lord GOD.^e ^{33:1} Again, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{33:2} Thou son of man, Speak to the children of thy people, and tell them: When I send a sword upon a land, if the people of the land take a man of their country, and set him to be their watchman: ^{33:3} The same man (when he seeth the sword come upon the land) shall blow the trumpet, and warn the people. ^{33:4} If a man now hear the noise of the trumpet and will not be warned, and the sword come and take him away: his blood shall be upon his own head: ^{33:5} For he heard the sound of the trumpet, and would not take heed, therefore his blood be upon him. But if he will receive warning, he shall save his life. ^{33:6} Again, if the watchman see the sword come, and shew it not with the trumpet, so that the people is not warned: if the sword come then, and take any man from among them: the same shall be taken away in his own sin, but his blood will I require of the watchman's hand. ^{33:7} And now (O thou son of man) I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel: that where as thou hearest anything out of my mouth, thou mayest warn them on my behalf. ^{33:8} If I say unto the wicked: thou wicked, thou shalt surely die: and thou givest him not warning, that he may beware of his ungodly way: then shall the wicked die in his own sin, but his blood will I require of thy hand. ^{33:9} Nevertheless if thou warn the wicked of his way, to turn from it, where as he yet will not be turned from it, then shall he die because of his sin, but thou hast delivered thy soul. ^{33:10} Therefore (O thou son of man) speak unto the house of Israel. Yea say thus: Our offenses and sins lie upon us, and we be corrupt in them: how should we then be restored unto life? ^{33:11} Tell them: As truly as I live, sayeth the Lord GOD,^f I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but much rather that the wicked turn from his way and live. Turn you, turn you from your ungodly ways, O ye of the house of Israel. Oh, wherefore will ye die? ^{33:12} Thou son of man, tell the children of thy people: The righteousness of the righteous shall not save him, whensoever he turneth away unfaithfully: Again, the wickedness of the wicked shall not hurt him, when soever he converteth from his ungodliness. And the righteousness of the righteous, shall not save his life, when soever

he sinneth. ^{33:13}If I say unto the righteous, that he shall surely live, and so he trust to his own righteousness, and do sin: then shall his righteousnesses be no more thought upon, but in the wickedness that he hath done he shall die. ^{33:14}Again; If I say unto the wicked: Thou shalt surely die: and so he turn from his sins, and do the thing that is lawful and right: ^{33:15}In so much that the same wicked man giveth the pledge again, restoreth that he had taken away by robbery, walketh in the commandments of life, and doth no wrong: Then shall he surely live, and not die. ^{33:16}Yea the sins that he hath done, shall never be thought upon: For in so much as he doth now the thing that is lawful and right, he shall live. ^{33:17}And yet the children of thy people say: Tush, the way of the Lord^g is not right, where as their own way is rather unright. ^{33:18}When the righteous turneth from his righteousness, and doeth the thing that is wicked, he shall die therefore. ^{33:19}But if the wicked turn from his wickedness, doing the thing that is lawful and right, he shall live therefore. ^{33:20}Yet ye say: The way of the Lord^h is not equal. O ye house of Israel, I will judge every one of you after his ways. ^{33:21}In the twelfth year, the fifth day of the tenth Month of our captivity, it happened, that one which was fled out of Jerusalem, came unto me, and said: the city is destroyed. ^{33:22}Now the hand of the LORD had been upon me the evening afore this man (which was escaped) came unto me, and had opened my mouth, until the morning that he came to me: yea he opened my mouth, so that I was no more dumb. ^{33:23}Then the word of the LORD came unto me, said: ^{33:24}Thou son of man, these that dwell in the wasted land of Israel, say: Abraham was but one man, and he had the land in possession: now are we many, and the land is given us to possess also. ^{33:25}And therefore tell them: Thus sayeth the LORD: In the blood have ye eaten, your eyes have ye lift up to Idols, and have shed blood: shall ye then have the land in possession? ^{33:26}Ye lean upon your swords, ye work abominations, every one defileth his neighbour's wife: and shall ye then possess the land? ^{33:27}Say thou these words unto them: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:ⁱ As truly as I live, all ye that dwell in this wilderness, shall be slain with the sword: what so ever is upon the field, will I give unto the beasts to be devoured: those that be in strongholds and dens, shall die of the pestilence. ^{33:28}For I will make the land desolate and waste, and the pomp^j of her strength shall come to an end. The mountains in Israel shall be so waste that no man shall travel thereby. ^{33:29}Then shall they learn to know, that I am the LORD, when I make the land waste and desolate, because of all their abominations, that they have wrought. ^{33:30}And thou son of man, the children of thy people that talk of thee, by the walls and in the doors of their houses, saying one to another: Come, let us hear, what word is gone forth from the LORD: ^{33:31}These come unto thee, after the manner of a great people: yea my people sit down before thee, and hear thy words, but they do not thereafter: for in their mouths they shew themselves, as though they were fervent, but their heart goeth after their own covetous lucre. ^{33:32}And as a ballet that hath a sweet tune, and is pleasant to sing, so shalt thou be unto them: thy words shall they hear, but they will not do thereafter. ^{33:33}When this cometh to pass, (for lo, it cometh in deed) then shall they know, that there hath been a prophet among them. ^{34:1}And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{34:2}Thou son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy and speak unto them: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^k Woe be unto the shepherds of Israel, that feed themselves. Should not the shepherds feed the flocks? ^{34:3}Ye have eaten up the fat, ye have clothe you with the wool: the best fed have ye slain, but the flock have ye not nourished. ^{34:4}The weak have ye not holden up, the sick have ye not healed: the broken have ye not bound together, the outcasts have ye not brought again: the lost have ye not sought, but churlishly and cruelly have ye ruled them. ^{34:5}Thus are they scattered here and there without a shepherd: yea all the beasts of the field devour them, and they go astray. ^{34:6}My sheep go wandering upon all mountains, and upon every high hill. Yea they be scattered abroad in all fields, and there is no man, that careth for them, or seeketh after them. ^{34:7}Therefore O ye shepherds, hear the word of the LORD. ^{34:8}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^l As truly as I live, for so much as my sheep are robbed, and devoured of all the wild beasts of the field, having no shepherd: and seeing that my shepherds take no regard of my sheep, but feed themselves only, and not my sheep: ^{34:9}Therefore hear the word of the LORD, O ye shepherds: ^{34:10}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^m Behold, I myself will upon the shepherds, and require my sheep from their hands, and make them cease from feeding of my sheep: Yea the shepherds shall feed themselves no more: For I will deliver my sheep out of their mouths, so that they shall not devour them after this. ^{34:11}For thus sayeth the Lord GOD:ⁿ Behold, I will look to my sheep myself, and seek them. ^{34:12}Like as a shepherd among the flock seeketh after the sheep that are scattered abroad, even so will I seek after my sheep, and gather them together out of all places, where they have been scattered in the cloudy and dark day. ^{34:13}I will bring them out from all people, and gather them together out of all lands, I will bring them into their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel, by the rivers, and in all the places of the country. ^{34:14}I will feed them in right good pastures, and upon the high mountains of Israel shall their folds be. There shall they lie in a good fold, and in a fat pasture shall they feed: even upon the mountains of Israel. ^{34:15}I will feed my sheep myself, and bring them to their rest, sayeth the Lord GOD.^o ^{34:16}Such as be lost, will I seek: such as go astray, will I bring again: such as be wounded, will I bind up: such as be weak, will I make strong, such as be fat and well liking, those will I preserve, and feed them with the thing that is lawful. ^{34:17}And as for you (O my sheep) sayeth the Lord GOD:^p I will put a difference among the sheep, among the wethers and the goats. ^{34:18}Was it not enough for you, to eat up the good pasture, but ye must tread down the residue of your pastures with your feet also? Was it not enough for you to drink clear water, but ye must trouble the residue also with your feet? ^{34:19}Thus my sheep must be fain to eat the thing, that ye have trodden down with your feet, and to drink it, that ye with your feet have defiled. ^{34:20}Therefore, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^q unto them: Behold, I will sever the fat sheep from the lean: ^{34:21}for so much as ye have shot the weak sheep upon the sides and shoulders, and run upon them with your horns, so long till ye have utterly scattered them abroad. ^{34:22}I will help my sheep, so that they shall no more be spoiled: yea I will discern one sheep from another. ^{34:23}I will raise up to them one only shepherd: even my servant David, he shall feed them, and he shall be their shepherd. ^{34:24}I the LORD will be their God, and my servant David shall be their prince: Even I the LORD have spoken it. ^{34:25}Moreover, I will make a covenant of peace with them, and drive all evil beasts out of the land: so that they may dwell safely in the wilderness, and sleep in the woods. ^{34:26}Good fortune and prosperity will I give them, and unto all that be round about my hill. A prosperous shewer and rain will I send them in due season, ^{34:27}that the trees in the wood may bring forth their fruits, and the ground her increase. They shall be safe in their land, and shall know, that I am the LORD; which have broken their yoke, and delivered them out of the hands of those, that held them in subjection. ^{34:28}They shall no more be spoiled of the Heathen, nor devoured with the beasts of the land: but safely shall they dwell, and no man shall fraye them. ^{34:29}I will set up an excellent plant for them, so that they shall suffer no more hunger in the land, neither bear the reproof of the Heathen any more. ^{34:30}Thus shall they understand, that I the LORD their God am with them, and that they (even the house of Israel) are my people, sayeth the Lord

GOD.^r 34:31 Ye men are my flock, ye are the sheep of my pasture: and I am your God, sayeth the Lord GOD.^s 35:1 Moreover, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: 35:2 Thou son of man, turn thy face toward the mount Seir, prophesy upon it, 35:3 and say unto it: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^t Behold (O thou mount Seir) I will upon thee, I will reach out mine hand over thee, yea waste and desolate will I make thee. 35:4 Thy cities will I break down, and thou shalt lie void: that thou mayest know, how that I am the LORD. 35:5 For so much as thou bearest an old enemy against the children of Israel, and with a cruel hand hast made them afraid, what time as they were troubled and punished for their sin: 35:6 Therefore, as truly as I live, sayeth the Lord GOD,^u I will prepare thee unto blood, yea blood shall follow upon thee: seeing thou layest wait for blood, therefore shall blood persecute thee. 35:7 Thus will I make the mount Seir desolate and waste, and bring to pass, that there shall no man go thither, nor come from thence. 35:8 His mountains will I fill with his slain men: thy hills, dales and valleys shall lie full of them, that are slain with the sword. 35:9 I will make thee a perpetual wilderness, so that no man shall dwell in thy cities: that ye may know, how that I am the LORD. 35:10 And because thou hast said: what, both these nations and both these lands must be mine, and I will have them in possession, where as the LORD was there. 35:11 Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^v As truly as I live, I will handle thee according to thy wrath and jealousy, like as thou hast dealt cruelly with them: that I may be known among them, how I have punished thee. 35:12 Yea and that thou also mayest be sure, that I the LORD have heard all thy despiteful words, which thou hast spoken against the mountains of Israel, saying: Lo, they are made waste, and given us to devour. 35:13 Thus with your mouths ye have made your boast against me, yea and multiplied your proud words against me, which I have heard altogether. 35:14 Where unto, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^w when the whole world is in wealth, then will I make thee waste. 35:15 And like as thou (O mount Seir) wast glad, because the heritage of the house of Israel was destroyed: even so will I do unto thee also, that thou and whole Edom shall be destroyed, and know, that I am the LORD. 36:1 Thou son of man, prophesy^x upon the mountains of Israel, and speak: Hear the word of the LORD, O ye mountains of Israel: 36:2 Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^y Because your enemy hath said upon you: Aha, the high everlasting places are now become ours: 36:3 prophesy^z therefore, and speak: thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^a Seeing ye be wasted and trod down on every side, and become a possession unto the residue of the Gentiles, which have brought you into men's mouths and unto an evil name among the people: 36:4 Therefore, hear the word of the Lord GOD,^b O ye mountains of Israel: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD^c unto the mountains, and hills, valleys and dales, to the void wilderness and desolate cities, which are spoiled, and had in derision on every side, among the residue of the Heathen: 36:5 Yea even thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^d In the fire of my jealousy have I taken a device, against the residue of the Gentiles, and against all Edom: which have taken in my land unto themselves for a possession: which also rejoiced from their whole heart with a despiteful stomach, to waste it, and to spoil it. 36:6 Prophesy therefore upon the land of Israel, speak unto the mountains and hills, to valleys and dales, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^e Behold, this have I devised in my jealousy and terrible wrath: For so much as yea have suffered reproof of the Heathen, ^{36:7}therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^f I have sworn, that the Gentiles which lie about you, shall bear your confusion themselves. ^{36:8}And as for you (O mountains of Israel) ye shall shoot out your branches, and bring forth your fruit to my people of Israel, for it is hard by, that it will come. ^{36:9}Behold, I come unto you, and unto you will I turn me, that ye may be tilled and sown. ^{36:10}I will send you much people, which shall be all of the house of Israel: the cities shall be inhabited, and the decayed places shall be repaired again. ^{36:11}I will provide you with much people and cattle, which shall increase and bring fruit. I will restore you also to your old estate, and shew you more kindness than ever ye had before: whereby ye shall know, that I am the LORD. ^{36:12}Yea people will I send unto you (O my folk of Israel) which shall have thee in possession, and thou shalt be their inheritance, so that thou shalt no more be without them. ^{36:13}Again, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^g For so much as they say unto you: thou art an eater up of men, and a waster of thy people: ^{36:14}therefore thou shalt eat no more men; neither destroy thy people any more, sayeth the Lord GOD.^h ^{36:15}And I will not suffer thee, for to hear thine own confusion among the Gentiles from henceforth. Thou shalt not bear the reproof of the nations, nor cast out thine own people any more, sayeth the Lord GOD.ⁱ ^{36:16}Moreover, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{36:17}O thou son of man, when the house of Israel dwelt upon their own ground, they defiled themselves with their own ways and imaginations: so that in my sight their way was like the uncleanness of a menstruous woman. ^{36:18}Wherefore I poured my wrothfull displeasure upon them, because of the blood that they had shed in the land, and because of their Idols, wherewith they had defiled themselves. ^{36:19}I scattered them also among the Heathen, so that they were strowed about in the lands. According to their ways and after their own inventions, so did I punish them. ^{36:20}Now when they were gone unto the Heathen, and come in among them they dishonoured my holy name: so that it was said of them: Are these the people of GOD, and must go out of their own land? ^{36:21}Then spared I my holy name, which the house of Israel had dishonoured among the Gentiles, to whom they came. ^{36:22}Therefore tell the house of Israel: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^j I do not this for your sakes (O house of Israel) but for my holy name's sake, which ye dishonoured among the Heathen, when ye came to them.^k ^{36:23}Therefore, I will hallow my great name again, which among the Gentiles is evil spoken of: for ye yourselves have dishonoured it among them. And the Gentiles shall know, that I am the LORD, when I am honoured in you before their eyes, sayeth the Lord GOD.^{lm} ^{36:24}As for you, I will take you from among the Heathen, and gather you together out of all countries, and bring you again into your own land.ⁿ ^{36:25}Then will I pour clean water upon you, and ye shall be clean: Yea from all your uncleanness and from all your Idols shall I cleanse you.^o ^{36:26}A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put into you: As for that stoney heart, I will take it out of your body, and give you a fleshly heart.^p ^{36:27}I will give my spirit among you, and cause you to walk in my commandments, ⁿAnd I will take you from the heathen, and will gather you out from all lands and will bring you out of your own country.

^oAnd I will pour pure water upon you, and ye shall be cleansed from all uncleanness, and from all your idols. I will cleanse you.

to keep my laws, and to fulfill them.^q 36:28 And so ye shall dwell in the land, that I gave to your forefathers, and ye shall be my people, and I will be your God.^r 36:29 I will help you out of all your uncleannesses. I will call for the corn, and will increase it, and will let you have no hunger. 36:30 I will multiply the fruits of the trees, and the increase of the field for you, so that ye shall bear no more reproof of hunger among the Heathen. 36:31 Then shall ye remember your own wicked ways, and your imaginations, which were not good: so that ye shall take displeasure at your own selves, by reason of your sins and abominations. 36:32 But I will not do this for your sakes (sayeth the Lord GOD)^s be ye sure of it. Therefore, O ye house of Israel, be ashamed of your sins. 36:33 Moreover, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^t what time as I shall cleanse you from all your offenses, then will I make the cities to be occupied again, and will repair the places that be decayed. 36:34 The desolate land shall be builded again, which afore time lay waste in the sight of all them that went by. 36:35 Then shall it be said: this waste land is become like a garden of pleasure, and the void, desolate and broken down cities, are now strong, and fenced again. 36:36 Then the residue of the Heathen that lie round about you, shall know, that I am the LORD, which repair that was broken down, and plant again, that was made waste. Even I the LORD have spoken it, and will do it in deed. 36:37 Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^u I will yet once be found again of the house of Israel, and do this for them: I shall increase them as a flock of men. 36:38 Like as the holy flock and the flock of Jerusalem are in the high solempne feasts: so shall also the wild wasted cities be filled with flocks of men: and they shall know, that I am the LORD. 37:1 The hand of the LORD came upon me, and carried me out in the spirit of the LORD, and let me down in a plain field, that lay full of bones, 37:2 and he led me round about by them: and behold, the bones that lay upon the field, were very many, and marvelous dry also. 37:3 Then said he unto me: Thou son of man: thinkest thou these bones may live again? And I answered: O Lord GOD,^v thou knowest. 37:4 And he said unto me: Prophecy thou upon these bones, and speak unto them: Ye dry bones, hear the word of the LORD. 37:5 Thus sayeth the Lord GOD^w unto these bones: Behold, I will put breath into you, that ye may live: 37:6 I will give yow sinowes, and make flesh grow upon you, and cover you over with skin: and so give you breath, that ye may live, and know, that I am the LORD. 37:7 So I prophesied, as he had commanded me: and as I was prophesying, there came a noise and a great motion, so that the bones ran every one to another. 37:8 Now when I had looked, behold, they had sinews, and flesh grew upon them: and above they were covered with skin, but there was no breath in them. 37:9 Then said he unto me: Thou son of man, prophesy thou toward the wind: prophesy, and speak to the wind: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^x Come (O thou air) from the four winds, and blow upon these slain, that they may be restored to life. 37:10 So I prophesied, as he had commanded me: then came the breath into them and they received life, and stood up upon their feet, a marvelous great sorte. 37:11 Moreover, he said unto me: Thou son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Behold, they say: Our bones are dried up, our hope is gone, we are clean cut off. 37:12 Therefore prophesy thou, and speak unto them: thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^y Behold, I will open your graves (O my people) and take you out of your sepulchers, and bring you into the land of Israel again. 37:13 So shall ye know that I am the LORD, when I open your graves, and bring you out of them. 37:14 My spirit also will I put in you, and ye shall live: I will set you again in your own land, and ye shall know, that I am the LORD which have said it, and fulfilled it in deed. ^{37:15}The word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{37:16}Thou son of man, take a stick and write upon it: Unto Judah and to the children of Israel his companions. Then take another stick, and write upon it: Unto Joseph the stock of Ephraim, and to all the household of Israel his companions. ^{37:17}And then take both these together in thine hand, so shall there be one stick thereof. ^{37:18}Now if the children of thy people say unto thee: wilt thou not shew us, what thou meanest by these? ^{37:19}Then give them this answer: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^z behold, I will take the stock of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim and the tribes of Israel his fellows, and will put them to the stock of Judah, and make them one stock, and they shall be one in my hand. ^{37:20}And the two sticks where upon thou writest, shalt thou have in thine hand, that they may see, ^{37:21}and shalt say unto them: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^a behold, I will take away the children of Israel from among the Heathen, unto whom they be gone, and will gather them together on every side, and bring them again into their own land: ^{37:22}Yea I will make one people of them in the land, upon the mountains of Israel, and they all shall have but one king. They shall no more be two peoples from hence forth, neither be divided in to two kingdoms: ^{37:23}they shall also defile themselves no more with their abominations, Idols, and all their wicked doings. I will help them out of all their dwelling places, wherein they have sinned: and will so cleanse them, that they shall be my people, and I their God. ^{37:24}David my servant shall be their king, and they all shall have one shepherd only. They shall walk in my laws, and my commandments shall they both keep and fulfill. ^{37:25}They shall dwell in the land, that I gave unto Jacob my servant, where as your fathers also have dwelt. Yea even in the same land shall they, their children, and their children's children dwell for evermore: and my servant David shall be their everlasting prince.

^{37:26}Moreover, I will make a bond of peace with them, which shall be unto them an everlasting covenant. I will satle them also, and multiply them, my Sanctuary will I set among them for evermore. ^{37:27}My dwelling shall be with them, yea I will be their God, and they shall be my people. ^{37:28}Thus the Heathen also shall know, that I the LORD am the holy maker of Israel: when my Sanctuary shall be among them for ever more. ^{38:1}And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{38:2}Thou son of man, turn thy face toward Gog in the land of Magog, which is the chief prince of Mesech and Tubal: prophesy against him, ^{38:3}and say: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^b O Gog thou chief prince ^c Mesech and Tubal: behold, I will upon thee, ^{38:4}and will turn thee about, and put a bit in thy chaws: I will bring thee forth and all thine host, both horse and horsemen, which be all weaponed of the best fashion: a great people, that handle all together spears, shields, and swords: ^{38:5}The Perses, Moryans, and with them the Lybians which all bear shields and helmets: ^{38:6}Gomer and all his hosts: the house of Thogorma out of the north quarters, and all his hosts, yea and much people with thee. ^{38:7}Therefore prepare thee, set thyself in array with all thy people, that are come unto thee by heaps, and be thou their defense. ^{38:8}After many days thou shalt be visited, and in the latter years thou shalt come into the land, that hath been destroyed with the sword, and now is replenished again with divers people upon the mountains of Israel, which have long lien waste. Yea they be brought out of the nations, and dwell all safe. ^{38:9}Thou shalt come up like a stormy wether, to cover the land, and as it were a dark cloud: thou with all thine hosts, and a great multitude of people with thee. ^{38:10}Moreover, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^d At the same time shall many things come into thy mind, so that thou shalt imagine mischief, ^{38:11}and say: I will up to yonder plain land, seeing they sit at ease, and dwell so safely (for they dwell all without any walls, they have neither bars nor doors) ^{38:12}to spoil them, to rob them, to lay hand upon their so well inhabited wildernesses: against that people, that is gathered together from among the Heathen, which have gotten cattle and good, and dwell in the midst of the land. ^{38:13}Then shall Saba, and Dedan, and the merchants of Tharsis with all their worthies, say unto thee: Art thou come to rob? Hast thou gathered thy people together, because thou wilt spoil? to take silver and gold: to carry away cattle and goods: and to have a great prey? ^{38:14}Therefore, O thou son of man, thou shalt prophesy, and say unto Gog: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^e In that day thou shalt know, that my people of Israel dwelleth safe: ^{38:15}and shalt come from thy place out of the north parts: thou and much people with thee, which ride upon horses, whereof there is a great multitude and an innumerable sorte. ^{38:16}Yea thou shalt come upon my people of Israel, as a cloud to cover the land. This shall come to pass in the latter days: I will bring thee up into my land, that the Heathen may know me, when I get me honour upon thee; O Gog, before their eyes. ^{38:17}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^f Thou art he, of whom I have spoken afore time, by my servants the prophets of Israel, which prophesied in those days and years, that I should bring thee upon them. ^{38:18}At the same time, when Gog cometh up in to the land of Israel, (sayeth the Lord GOD)^g shall my indignation go forth in my wrath. ^{38:19}For in my jealousy and hot displeasure I have devised, that there shall be a great trouble in the land of Israel at that time. ^{38:20}The very fishes in the sea, the fowls of the air, the beasts of the field, and all the men that are upon the earth, shall tremble for fear of me. The hills also shall be turned upside down, the stairs of stone shall fall, and all walls shall sink to the ground: ^{38:21}I will call for a sword upon them in all my mountains, sayeth the Lord GOD:^h so that every man's sword shall be upon another. ^{38:22}With pestilence and blood will I punish him: stormy rain and hail stones, fire and brimstone, will I cause to rain upon him and all his heap, yea and upon all that great people that is with him. ^{38:23}Thus will I be magnified, honoured, and known among the Heathen: that they may be sure, how that I am the LORD. ^{39:1}Therefore O thou son of man, prophesyⁱ against Gog, and speak: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^j Behold, O Gog: thou chief prince at Mesech and Tubal, I will upon thee, ^{39:2}and turn thee about, and carry thee forth, and lead thee from the north parts, and bring thee up to the mountains of Israel. ^{39:3}As for thy bow, I will smite it out of thy left hand, and cast thine arrows out of thy right hand. ^{39:4}Thou with all thine heap, and all the people that is with thee, must fall upon the mountains of Israell. Then will I give thee unto the fowls and wild beasts of the field, to be devoured: ^{39:5}there must thou lie upon the field: for even I the LORD have spoken it, sayeth the Lord GOD.^k ^{39:6}In to Magog, and among those that sit so carelessly in the isles: will I send a fire, and they shall know, that I am the LORD. ^{39:7}I will make also the name of my holiness to be known among my people of Israel: and I will not let my holy name be evil spoken of any more: but the very Heathen also shall know, that I am the LORD, the holy one of Israel. ^{39:8}Behold, it cometh, and shall be fulfilled in deed, sayeth the Lord GOD.^l This is the day whereof I have spoken: ^{39:9}They that dwell in the cities of Israel, shall go forth and set fire upon the weapons, and burn them: shields and spears, bows and arrows, bills and clubs: ^{39:10}seven years shall they be burning thereof, so that they shall else bring no sticks from the field, neither have need to hew down any out of the wood: For they shall have weapons now to burn. They shall rob those that robbed them, and spoil those that spoiled them, sayeth the Lord GOD.^m ^{39:11}At the same time will I give unto Gog, a place to be buried in, in Israel: even the valley, where thorow men go from the east to the seaward: Those that travelⁿ thereby, shall abhor it. There shall Gog and all his people be buried: and it shall be called the valley of the people of Gog. ^{39:12}Seven months long shall the house of Israel be burying of them, that they may cleanse the land. ^{39:13}Yea all the people of the land shall bury them. O it shall be a glorious day, when I get me that honour, sayeth the Lord GOD.^o ^{39:14}They shall ordain men also to be dead buryers, ever going thorow the land, and appoint them certain places to bury those in, which remain upon the field, that the land may be cleansed. From end to end shall they seek, and that seven months long. ^{39:15}Now those that go thorow the land, where they see a man's bone, they shall set up a token by it, till the dead buryers have buried it also, in the valley of the people of Gog. ^{39:16}And the name of the city shall be called, Hamonah. Thus shall they make the land clean. ^{39:17}And thou son of man: thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^p Speak unto all the fowls and every bird, yea and to all the wild beasts of the field: heap you together and come, gather you round about upon my slaughter, that I have slain for you: even a great slaughter upon the mountains of Israel: eat flesh and drink blood. ^{39:18}Ye shall eat the flesh of the worthies, and drink the blood of the princes of the land: of the wethers, of the lambs, of the goats, and of the oxen that be all slain at Bashan. ^{39:19}Eat the fat your belly full, and drink blood till ye be drunken of the slaughter, which I have slain unto you. ^{39:20}Fill you at my table, with horses and strong horsemen: with captains and all men of war, sayeth the Lord GOD.^q ^{39:21}I will bring my glory also among the Gentiles, that all the Heathen may see my judgment, that I have kept, and my hand which I have laid upon them: ^{39:22}that the house of Israel may know, how that I am the LORD their God, from that day forth. ^{39:23}And the Heathen shall know, that where as the house of Israel were led into captivity: it was for their wickedness' sake, because they offended me. all be slain with the sword. ^{39:24}According to their uncleanness and unfaithful dealings, so have I entreated them, and hid my face from them. ^{39:25}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD;^r Now will I bring again the captives of Jacob, and have mercy upon the whole house of Israel, and be jealous for my holy name's sake. ^{39:26}All their confusion and offense that they have done against me, shall be taken away: and so safely shall they dwell in their land, that no man shall make them afraid. ^{39:27}And when I have brought them again from among the people, when I have gathered them together out of their enemies' lands, and am praised in them before many Heathen: ^{39:28}then shall they know, that I am the LORD their God, which suffered them to be led into captivity among the Heathen, but now have brought them again into their own land, and not left one of them yonder. ^{39:29}After that, will I hide my face no more from them, but will pour out my spirit upon the house of Israel, sayeth the Lord GOD.^s ^{40:1}In the twenty fifth year of our captivity, in the beginning of the year, the tenth day of the month: that is the fourteenth year, after that the city was smitten down: the same day came the hand of the LORD upon me, and carried me forth: ^{40:2}even into the land of Israel brought he me in the visions of God: and set me down upon a marvelous high mountain, where upon there was a building (as it had been of a city) toward the north. ^{40:3}Thither he carried me, and behold, there was a man, whose similitude was like brass, which had a thread of flax in his hand, and a meterod also. He stood in the door, ^{40:4}and said unto me: mark well with thine eyes, harken to with thine ears, and fasten it in thine heart, whatsoever I shall shew thee, for to the intent that they might be shewed thee, therefore art thou brought hither. A whatsoever thou seest, thou shalt certify the house of Israel thereof. ^{40:5}Behold, there was a wall on the outside round about the house: the meterod that he had in his hand, was six cubits long and a span. So he measured the breadth of the building, which was a meterod, and the height also a meterod; ^{40:6}Then came he unto the east door, and went up the stairs, and measured the posts of the door, whereof every one was a meterod thick. Every chamber was a meterod long and broad: ^{40:7}between the chambers were five cubits. The post of the door within the porch, was one meterod. ^{40:8}He measured also the porche of the innermer door which contained a meterod. ^{40:9}Then measured he the entry of the door, that contained eight cubits, and his pillars two cubits: and this entry stood inward. ^{40:10}The chambers of the door eastward, were three on every side: alike broad and long. The pillars also that stood of both the sides, were of one measure. ^{40:11}After this, he measured the wideness of the door, which was ten cubits, and the height of the door thirteen cubits. ^{40:12}The edge before the chambers was one cubit broad upon both the sides, and the cambers six cubits wide of either side. ^{40:13}He measured the door from the rigge of one chamber to another, whose wideness was twenty five cubits, and one door stood against another. ^{40:14}He made pillars also sixty cubits high, round about the court door. ^{40:15}Before the inward part unto the fore entry of the innermer door, were fifty cubits. ^{40:16}The chambers and the pillars within, round about unto the door, had side windows: So had the fore entries also, whose windows went round about within. And upon the pillars there stood date trees. ^{40:17}Then brought he me into the fore court, where as were chambers and paved works, made in the fore court round about: Thirty chambers upon one paved work. ^{40:18}Now the paved work was a long beside the doors, and that was the lower paved work. ^{40:19}After this, he measured the breadth from the lower door, unto the innermer court of the outside, which had an hundredth cubits upon the east and the north part. ^{40:20}And the door in the uttermost^t court toward the north, measured he after the length and breadth: ^{40:21}his three chambers also on either side, with his pillars and fore entries: which had even the measure of the first door. His height was fifty cubits, the breadth twenty five cubits: ^{40:22}his windows and porches with his date trees, had even like measure as the door toward the east: there were seven steps to go up upon, and their porch before them. ^{40:23}Now the door of the innermer court stood straight over against the door, that was toward the north east. From one door to another, he measured an hundredth cubits. ^{40:24}After that, he brought me to the south side, where there stood a door toward the south: whose pillars and porches he measured, these had the first measure, ^{40:25}and with their porches they had windows round about, like the first windows. The height was fifty cubits, the breadth twenty five, ^{40:26}with steps to go up upon: his porch stood before him, with his pillars and date trees on either side. ^{40:27}And the door of the innermer court stood toward the south, and he measured from one door to another an hundredth cubits. ^{40:28}So he brought me in to the innermer court, thorow the door of the south side: which he measured, and it had the measure afore said. ^{40:29}In like manner, his chambers, pillars, and fore entries, had even the fore said measure also. And he had with his porches round about, windows of fifty cubits high, and twenty five cubits broad. ^{40:30}The porches round about were twenty five cubits long, and five cubits broad: ^{40:31}and his porch reached unto the uttermost^u court: upon his pillars there were date trees, and eight steps to go up upon. ^{40:32}He brought me also in to the inmost court upon the east side, and measured the door, according to the measure afore said. ^{40:33}His chambers, pillars, and porches had even the same measure, as they first had: and with his porches he had windows round about. The height was fifty cubits, the breadth twenty five cubits: ^{40:34}His porches reached unto the uttermost^v court: his pillars also had date trees on either side, and eight steps to go up upon. ^{40:35}And he brought me to the north door, and measured it, which also had the foresaid measure. ^{40:36}His chambers, pillars, and porches had windows round about: whose height was fifty cubits, and the breadth twenty five. ^{40:37}His pillars stood toward the uttermost^w court, and upon them both were date trees, and eight steps to go up upon. ^{40:38}There stood a chamber also, whose entrance was at the door pillars, and there the burnt offerings were washed. ^{40:39}In the door porch, there stood on either side two tables for the slaughtering; to slay the burnt offerings, sin offerings, and trespass offerings thereupon. ^{40:40}And on the out side as men go forth to the north door, there stood two tables. ^{40:41}Four tables stood on either side of the door, that is eight tables, where upon they slaughtered. ^{40:42}Four tables were of hewn stone for the burnt offerings, of a cubit and a half long and broad, and one cubit high: where upon were laid the vessels and ornaments, which were used to the burnt and the slain offerings, when they were slaughtered. ^{40:43}And within there were hooks four fingers broad, fastened round about, to hang flesh upon, and upon the tables was laid the offering flesh. ^{40:44}On the outside of the innermer door were the singers chambers in the inward court beside the North door over against the South. There stood one also, beside the east door northward. ^{40:45}And he said unto me: This chamber on the South side belongeth to the priests, that keep the habitation: ^{40:46}and this toward the North, is the priests that wait upon the altar: which be the sons of Sadoch, that do service before the LORD instead of the children of Levi. ^{40:47}So he measured the fore court, which had in length an hundredth cubits, and as much in breadth by the four corners. Now the altar stood before the house: ^{40:48}And he brought me to the fore entry of the house, and measured the walls by the entry door: which were five cubits long on either side. The thickness also of the door on either side, was three cubits. ^{40:49}The length of the porch was twenty cubits, the breadth eleven cubits, and upon steps went men up to it: by the walls also were pillars, on either side one. ^{41:1}After this he brought me to the temple, and measured the posts: which were of both the sides six cubits thick, according to the wideness of the tabernacle. ^{41:2}The breadth of the door was ten cubits and the walls of the door on either side five cubits. He measured the length thereof, which contained forty cubits, and the breadth twenty. ^{41:3}Then went he in, and measured the door posts, which were two cubits thick: but the door it self was six cubits, and the breadth of the door was seven cubits. ^{41:4}He measured the length and breadth thereof, which were every one twenty cubits, before the temple: And he said unto me: this is the holiest of all. ^{41:5}He measured also the wall of the house, which was six cubits. The chambers that stood round about the house, were every one four cubits wide, ^{41:6}and one stood hard upon another, whereof there were thirty three. And there stood posts beneath by the walls round about the house, to bear them up: but in the wall of the house they were not fastened: ^{41:7}The side chambers were the higher the wider, and had steps thorow them round about the house. Thus was it wider above, that from the lowest men might go to the highest^x and mid chambers. ^{41:8}I saw also that the house was very high round about. The foundation of the side chambers was a meterod (that is six cubits) broad. ^{41:9}The thickness of the side wall without, contained five cubits, and so did the outwall, of the chambers in the house. ^{41:10}Between the chambers, was the wideness of twenty cubits round about the house. ^{41:11}The chamber doors stood over against the outwall, the one door was toward the north, the other toward the South: and the thickness of the outwall was five cubits round about. ^{41:12}Now the building that was separated toward the west, was seventy cubits wide: the wall of the building was five cubits thick round about, and the length four score cubits and ten. ^{41:13}So he measured the house which was an hundredth cubits long, and the separated building with the wall were an hundredth cubits long also. ^{41:14}The wideness before the house and of it that was separated toward the East, was an hundredth cubits. ^{41:15}And he measured the length of the building before and behind with the chambers upon both the sides: and it contained an hundredth cubits. ^{41:16}The innermer temple, the porch of the fore court, the side posts, these three had side windows, and pillars round about over against the posts, from the ground up to the windows: The windows themselves were sealed^y over with boards: ^{41:17}and thus was it above the door, unto the inmost house, and without also: Yea the whole wall on every side both within and without was silled over with great boards. ^{41:18}There were Cherubins and date trees made also, so that one date tree stood ever betwixt two Cherubins: One Cherub had two faces, ^{41:19}the face of a man looking aside toward the date tree, and a lions face on the other side. Thus was it made round about in all the house; ^{41:20}Yea the Cherubins and date trees were made from the ground up above the door, and so stood they also upon the wall of the temple. ^{41:21}The byposts of the temple were four squared, and the fashion of the Sanctuary was even as it appeared unto me afore in the vision. ^{41:22}The table was of wood, three cubits high and two cubits long; his corners, the length and the walls were of wood. And he said unto me: This is the table, that shall stand before the LORD. ^{41:23}The temple and the holiest of all had either of them two doors ^{41:24}and every door had two little wickettes which were folden in one upon another, on every side two. ^{41:25}And upon the doors of the temple there were made Cherubins and date trees, like as upon the walls: and a great thick balke of wood was before on the outside of the porch. ^{41:26}Upon both the sides of the walls of the porch there were made deep windows and date trees, having beams and balkes, like as the house had. ^{42:1}Then carried he me out into the fore court toward the north, and brought me into the chamber that stood over against the back building northward, which had the length of an hundredth cubits whose door turned toward the north. ^{42:2}The wideness contained fifty cubits: ^{42:3}over against the twenty cubits of the innermer court, and against the paved work that was in the fore court. Beside all these three, there stood pillars, one over against another: ^{42:4}And before this chamber there was a walking place of ten cubits wide, and within was a way of one cubit wide, and their doors toward the north. ^{42:5}Thus the highest^z chambers were alway narrower than the lowest and middle most of the building: ^{42:6}for they bare chamber upon chamber, and stood tree together one upon another not having pillars like the fore court: therefore were they smaller than those beneath and in the midst, to reken from the ground upward. ^{42:7}The wall without that stood by the chambers toward the utmost court upon the fore side of the chambers, was fifty cubits long: ^{42:8}for the length of the utmost chambers in the fore court was fifty cubits also: but the length thereof before the temple was an hundredth cubits. ^{42:9}These chambers had under them an entrance of the east side, where by a man might go into them out of the fore court, ^{42:10}thorow the thick wall of the fore court toward the east, right over against the separated building. ^{42:11}Before the same building upon this side there were chambers also which had a way unto them, like as the chambers on the north side of the same length and wideness. Their entrance, fashion and doors were also^a of the same manner. ^{42:12}Yea even like as the other chamber doors were, so were those also of the south side. And before the way toward the singers steps on the east side, there stood a door to go in at. ^{42:13}Then said he unto me: The chambers toward the north and the south which stand^b before the back building: those be holy habitations, where in the priests that do service before the LORD, must eat the most holy offerings: and there must they lay the most holy offerings: meat offerings, sin offerings and the trespass offerings, for it is an holy place. ^{42:14}When the priests come therein, they shall not go out in to the fore court: but (seeing they be holy) they shall leave their clothes of their ministration, and put on other garments, when they have any thing to do with the people. ^{42:15}Now when he had measured all the innermer house, he brought me forth thorow the east port, and measured the same round about. ^{42:16}He measured the east side with the meterod, which round about contained five hundredth meterods. ^{42:17}And the north side measured he, which contained round about even so much. ^{42:18}The other two sides also toward the south ^{42:19}and the west (which he measured) contained either of them five hundredth meterods. ^{42:20}So he measured all the four sides where there went a wall round about five hundredth meterods long, and as broad also which separated the holy from the unholy. ^{43:1}So he brought me to the door, that turneth toward the east. ^{43:2}Behold, then came the glory of the God of Israel from out of the east, whose voice was like a great noise of waters, and the earth was lightened with his glory. ^{43:3}His sight to look upon was like the first, that I saw, when I went in, what time as the city should have been destroyed: and like the vision that I saw by the water of Cobar. Then fell I upon my face, ^{43:4}but the glory of the LORD came into the house thorow the East door. ^{43:5}So a wind took me up, and brought me into the innermer court: and behold, the house was full of the glory of the LORD. ^{43:6}I heard one speaking unto me out of the house, and there stood one by me, ^{43:7}that said unto me: O thou son of man, this rowme is my seat, and the place of my foot steps: where as I will dwell among the children of Israel for evermore: so that the house of Israel shall no more defile my holy name: neither they, nor their kings, thorow their whoredom, thorow their high places, and thorow the dead bodies of their kings: ^{43:8}which have builded their thresholds in manner hard upon my thresholds, and their posts almost at my posts: so that there is but a bare wall betwixt me and them. Thus have they defiled my holy name with their abominations, that they have committed. Wherefore I have destroyed them in my wrath: ^{43:9}But now they shall put away their whoredom, and the dead bodies of their kings out of my sight, that I may dwell among them for evermore. ^{43:10}Therefore (O thou son of man) shew thou the household of Israel a temple, that they may be ashamed of their wickedness, and measure themselves an example thereat. ^{43:11}And when they be ashamed of all their works, then shew them the form and fashion of the temple: the coming in, the going out, all the manner and description thereof, yea all the uses and ordinances of it, that they may keep and fulfill all the fashions and customs thereof. ^{43:12}This is the description of the house: Above upon the mount round about all the corners, it shall be the holiest of all. Behold, that is the description and fashion of the house. ^{43:13}This is the measure of the altar (after the true cubit: which is a span longer than another cubit) his bottom in the midst was a cubit long and wide, and the ledge that went round about it, was a span broad. This is the height^c of the altar: ^{43:14}from the ground to the lower steps the length is two cubits, and the breadth one cubit: and from the lower steps to the higher are four cubits, and the breadth but one cubit. ^{43:15}The altar was four cubits high, and from the altar upward stood four horns, ^{43:16}and it was twelve cubits long and twelve cubits broad, upon the four corners: ^{43:17}the covering of the altar was fourteen cubits long and broad upon the four corners, and the ledge that went round about, had half a cubit: and the bottom thereof round about one cubit: his steps stood toward the East. ^{43:18}And he said unto me: Thou son of man, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^d These are the ordinances and laws of the altar, in the day when it is made to offer burnt offerings, and to sprinkle blood there upon. ^{43:19}To the priests, to the Levites that be of the seed of Sadoch, and tread before me to do me service, sayeth the Lord GOD:^e Unto these give thou a young bullock, for a sin offering: ^{43:20}and take the blood of him and sprinkle his four horns withal and the four corners of the altar covering, with the ledge that goeth round about: here with shalt thou cleanse it, and reconcile it. ^{43:21}Thou shalt take the bullock also of the sin offering, and burn him in a several place without the Sanctuary. ^{43:22}The next day, take a gootbuck without blemish for a sin offering, to reconcile the altar withal: like as it was reconciled with the bullock. ^{43:23}Now when thou hast made it clean, then offer a young bullock without blemish, and a ram out of the flock without blemish also. ^{43:24}Offer them before the LORD, and let the priest cast salt thereupon, and give them so unto the LORD for a burnt offering. ^{43:25}Seven days shalt thou bring, every day a gootbuck. A young bullock, and a ram of the flock (both without blemish) shall they offer. ^{43:26}Seven days shall they reconcile and cleanse the altar, and offer upon it. ^{43:27}When these days are expired, then upon the eighth day and so forth, the priests shall offer their burnt offerings and health offerings upon the altar, so will I be merciful unto you, sayeth the Lord GOD.^f ^{44:1}After this, he brought me again to the outward door of the Sanctuary on the East side, and that was shut. ^{44:2}Then said the LORD unto me: This door shall be still shut, and not opened for any man to go thorow it, but only for the LORD God of Israel: Yea he shall go thorow it, else shall it be shut still. ^{44:3}The prince himself shall come thorow it, that he may eat bread before the LORD. At the porch shall he come in, and there shall he go out again. ^{44:4}Then brought he me to the door, upon the North side of the house. And as I looked about me, behold, the glory of the LORD filled the house: and I fell down upon my face. ^{44:5}So the LORD spake unto me: O thou son of man, fasten this to thine heart, behold, and take diligent heed to all that I will say unto thee, concerning all the ordinances of the LORD and all his laws: ponder well with thine heart the coming in of the house and the going forth of the Sanctuary: ^{44:6}And tell that obstinate household of Israel: Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^g O house of Israel: yea have now done enough with all your abominations, ^{44:7}seeing that ye have brought into my Sanctuary strangers, having uncircumcised hearts, and flesh, where thorow my Sanctuary is defiled, when ye offer me bread, fat, and blood. Thus with all your abominations ye have broken my covenant, ^{44:8}and not kept the holy ordinances of my Sanctuary, but set keepers of my Sanctuary, even after your own mind. ^{44:9}Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^h Of all the strangers that dwell among the children of Israel, no stranger, (whose heart and flesh is not circumcised) shall come within my Sanctuary: ^{44:10}No norⁱ the Levites that are gone back from me, and have deceived the people of Israel with errors, going after their idols: therefore shall they bear their own wickedness. ^{44:11}Should they be set and ordained to minister under the doors of the house of my Sanctuary? And to do service in the house: to slay burnt offerings and sacrifices for the people: to stand^j before them, and to serve them: ^{44:12}seeing the service that they do them, is before their Idols, and cause the house of Israel to stumble thorow wickedness?

For the which cause I have plucked out mine hand over them, (sayeth the Lord GOD)^k so that now they must bear their own iniquity, ^{44:13}and not to come nigh me, to serve me with their priesthead, in my Sanctuary, and most holiest of all: that they may bear their own shame and abominations, which they have done. ^{44:14}Should I use them to be porters of the house, and to all the service that is done therein? ^{44:15}But the Priests the Levites the sons of Sadoch, that kept the holy ordinances of my Sanctuary, when the children of Israel were gone from me: shall come to me, to do me service, to stand before me, and to offer me the fat and the blood, sayeth the Lord GOD.^l ^{44:16}They shall go into my Sanctuary, and tread before my table, to do me service, and to wait upon mine ordinances. ^{44:17}Now when they go in at the doors of the innermer court: they shall put on linen^m clothes, so that no woollen come upon them, while they do service under the doors of the innermer court, and within. ^{44:18}They shall have fair linenⁿ bonnets upon their heads, and linen^o breeches upon their loins, which in their labour they shall not put about them: ^{44:19}And when they go forth to the people in to the outward court, they shall put off their clothes, wherein they have ministered, and lay them in the habitation of the Sanctuary, and put on other apparel, lest they unhallow the people with their clothes. ^{44:20}They shall not shave their heads, nor nourish the bush of their hair, but round their heads only. ^{44:21}All the priests that go in to the inmost court, shall drink no wine. ^{44:22}They shall marry no widow, neither one that is put from her husband: but a maiden of the seed of the house of Israel, or a widow, that hath had a priest before. ^{44:23}They shall shew my people the difference between the holy and unholy, betwixt the clean and unclean. ^{44:24}If any discord arise, they shall discern it, and give sentence after my judgements. My solempne feasts, my laws and ordinances shall they keep, and hallow my Sabbaths. ^{44:25}They shall come at no dead person, to defile themselves (except it be father or mother, son or daughter, brother or sister that hath had yet no husband) in such they may be defiled. ^{44:26}And when he is cleansed, there shall be reckoned unto him seven days: ^{44:27}and if he go in to the Sanctuary again to do service, he shall bring a sin offering, sayeth the Lord GOD.^p ^{44:28}They shall have an heritage, yea I myself will be their heritage: else shall ye give them no possession in Israel, for I am their possession. ^{44:29}The meat offering, sin offering, and trespass offering shall they eat, and every dedicate thing in Israel, shall be theirs. ^{44:30}The firstlings of all the firstfruits, and all free will offerings shall be the priest's. Ye shall give unto the priest also the firstlings of your dough,^q that God may prosper the residue. ^{44:31}But no dead carrion shall the priest eat, nor such as is devoured of wild beasts, fowls or cattle. ^{45:1}When ye divide the land by the lot, ye shall put aside one part for the LORD, to be holy from other lands: namely twenty five thousand meterods long, and ten thousand broad. This shall be holy, as wide as it is round about. ^{45:2}Of this part there shall belong unto the Sanctuary, five hundredth meterods in all the four corners, and fifty cubits wide round about to the suburbs. ^{45:3}And from this measure, namely of twenty five thousand meterods long, and ten thousand broad, thou shalt measure, wherein the Sanctuary and the holiest of all may stand. ^{45:4}The residue of that holy ground shall be the priests, which do service in the Sanctuary of the LORD, and go in before the LORD to serve him, that they may have room to dwell in. ^{45:5}As for the Sanctuary, it shall stand for itself: and to the Levites that serve in the house, there shall be given twenty habitations, of the twenty five thousand length and ten thousand breadth: ^{45:6}ye shall give also unto the city a possession of five thousand meterods broad, and twenty five thousand long, beside the part of the Sanctuary: that shall be for the whole house of Israel. ^{45:7}Upon both the sides of the Sanctuary's part, and by the city, there shall be given unto the prince, whatsoever lieth over against the city, as far as reacheth westward and eastward: which shall be as long as one part, from the west unto the east. ^{45:8}This shall be his own land in Israel, that my princes be no more chargeable unto my people. And such as remaineth yet over in the land, shall be given unto the house of Israel according to their tribes. ^{45:9}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^r O ye princes, ye have now oppressed and destroyed enough: now leave off, handle now according to the thing, that is equal and lawful: and thrust out my people no more, sayeth the Lord GOD.^s ^{45:10}Ye shall have a true weight, and a true Ephah, and a true Bath. ^{45:11}The Ephah and the Bath shall be alike. One Bath shall contain the tenth part of an Homer, and so shall one Ephah do: their measure shall be after the Homer. ^{45:12}One Sicle maketh twenty Geras. So twenty Sicles, and twenty five and fifteen Sicles make a pound. ^{45:13}This is the heave offering, that ye shall give to be heaved: namely, the sixteenth part of an Ephah, out of an Homer of wheat: and the sixteenth part of an Ephah, out of an Homer of barley. ^{45:14}The oil shall be measured with the Bath: even the tenth part of one Bath out of a Cor. Ten baths make one Homer: for one Homer filleth^t ten Baths. ^{45:15}And one lamb from two hundredth sheep out of the pasture of Israel, for a meatoffering, burnt offering and health offering, to reconcile them, sayeth the Lord GOD.^u ^{45:16}All the people of the land shall give this heave offering with a free will. ^{45:17}Again, it shall be the prince's part to offer burnt offerings, meat offerings, and drink offerings unto the LORD, in the holy days, new Moons, Sabbaths, and in all the high feasts of the house of Israel. The sin offering, meat offering, brent offering and health offering shall he give, to reconcile the house of Israel. ^{45:18}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^v The first day of the first month thou shalt take a young bullock without blemish, and cleanse the Sanctuary. ^{45:19}So the priest shall take of the blood of the sin offering, and sprinkle it upon the posts of the house, and upon the four corners of the altar, with the door posts of the innermer court. ^{45:20} And thus shalt thou do also the seventh day of the month, for such as have sinned of ignorance, or being deceived, to reconcile the house withal. ^{45:21} Upon the fourteenth day of the first month ye shall keep Easter. Seven days shall the feast continue, wherein there shall no sour nor leavened bread be eaten. ^{45:22} Upon the same day shall the prince give for himself and all the people of the land, a bullock for a sin offering. ^{45:23} And in the feast of the seven days he shall offer every day a bullock and a ram, that are without blemish, for a burnt offering unto the LORD: and an he goat daily for a sin offering. ^{45:24} For the meat offerings, he shall give ever an Ephah to a bullock, an Ephah to a ram, and an Hin of oil to an Ephah. ^{45:25} Upon the fifteenth day of the seventh month, he shall keep the seven days holy one after another, even as the other seven days: with the sin offering, burnt offering, meat offering, and with the oil. ^{46:1} Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^w the door of the innermer court toward the East, shall be shut the six working days: but in the Sabbath and in the day of the new Moon, it shall be opened. ^{46:2} Then shall the prince come under the door porch, and stand still without by the door check. So the priests shall offer up his burnt and health offerings. And he shall worship at the door post, and go his way forth again: but the door shall no more be shut till the evening. ^{46:3} On the same manner shall the people of the land also do their worship before the LORD, without this door upon the Sabbaths and new Moons. ^{46:4} This is now the burnt offering, that the prince shall bring unto the LORD upon the Sabbath: six lambs without blemish, and a ram without blemish, ^{46:5} and an Ephah for a meatoffering, with the ram. As for the lambs, he may give as many meatofferings to them, as he will, and an Hin of oil to an Ephah. ^{46:6} In the day of the new month, it shall be a young bullock without blemish, six lambs and a ram also without blemish. ^{46:7} With the bullock he shall give an Ephah, and with the ram an Ephah also for a meat offering: but to the lambs, what he may come by: And ever an Hin of oil to an Ephah. ^{46:8} When the prince cometh, he shall go under the door porch, and even there depart forth again. ^{46:9} But when the people of the land come before the LORD in the high solempne feast, as many as come in by the North door to do worship, shall go out again at the South door. And they that come in at the South door shall go forth again at the North door. There shall none go out at the door where he came in, but shall go forth right over on the other side, ^{46:10} and the prince shall go in and out among them. ^{46:11} Upon the solempne and high feast days, this shall be the meat offering: an Ephah to a bullock and an Ephah to a ram, and to the lambs: as many as he will, but ever an Hin of oil to an Ephah. ^{46:12} Now when the prince bringeth a burnt offering or an health offering with a free will unto the LORD, the East door shall be opened unto him, that he may do with his burnt and health offerings, as he doth upon the Sabbath, and when he goeth forth, the door shall be shut after him again. ^{46:13} He shall daily bring unto the LORD a lamb of a year old without blemish for a burnt offering: this shall he do every morning. ^{46:14} And for a meat offering he shall give the sixth part of an Ephah, and the third part of an Hin of oil (to mingle with the cakes) every morning. Yea this shall be a daily meat offering unto the LORD, for an everlasting ordinance: ^{46:15} And thus shall the lamb, the meat offering and oil be given every morning, for a daily burnt offering. ^{46:16} Moreover, thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^x If the prince give a gift unto any of his sons, then shall it be his sons' heritage perpetual, that he may possess it. ^{46:17} But if he will give one of his servants some of his heritage, it shall be his to the free year, and then to return again unto the prince: for his heritage shall be his sons' only. ^{46:18} The prince also shall take none of the people's inheritance, nor put them from their possession: but to his own sons shall he give his possession, that my people be not scattered abroad, but that every man may have his own. ^{46:19} And he brought me thorow the entrance at the side of the door to the habitation of the Sanctuary, that belongeth to the priests and stood toward the north, and behold, there was a place upon the west side, ^{46:20} then said he unto me: This is the place, where the priests shall dight the trespass and sinofferings, and bake the meatofferings: that they need not bear them in to the outward court, and so to unhallow the people. ^{46:21}So he brought me into the utmost court, round about all the four corners. Behold, in every corner of the fore court, there was yet a little court. ^{46:22}Yea in all the four corners of the court, there was made a little court of forty cubits long, and thirty broad: these four little courts were of one like measure, ^{46:23}and there went a rigge wall round about them all four, under the which there were hearths made round about. ^{46:24}Then said he unto me: This is the kitchen, where the ministers of the house shall dight the slain offerings of the people. ^{47:1}After this he brought me again before the door of the house: and behold, there gushed out waters from under the posts of the house eastward (for the house stood toward the east) that ran down upon the right side of the house, which lieth to the altar southward. ^{47:2}Then carried he me out to the north door, and brought me forth there round about by the utmost door that turneth east ward. Behold, there came forth the water upon the right side. ^{47:3}Now when the man that had the meterod in his hand went ^y unto the east door, he measured a thousand cubits, and then he brought me thorow the water, even to the ankles: ^{47:4}so he measured yet a thousand, and brought me thorow the water again unto the knees: yet measured he a thousand, and brought me thorow the waters unto the loins. ^{47:5}After this he measured a thousand again, then was it such a river, that I might not wade thorow it: The water was so deep, that it was needful to have swimmied, for it might not be waded over. ^{47:6}And he said unto me: hast thou seen this, O thou son of man? And with that, he brought me to the river bank again. ^{47:7}Now when I came there, there stood many trees upon either side of the river bank. ^{47:8}Then said he unto me: This water that floweth out toward the East, and runneth down into the plain field, cometh into the sea: and from the sea it runneth out, and maketh the waters whole. ^{47:9}Yea all that live and move, where unto this river cometh, shall recover. And where this water cometh, there shall be much^z fish; For all that cometh to this water, shall be lusty and whole. ^{47:10}By this river shall the fishers stand from Engadi unto En Eglaim, and there spread out their nets: for there shall be great heaps of fish, like as in the main sea. ^{47:11}As for his clay and pits, they shall not be whole, for why, it shall be occupied for salt. ^{47:12}By this river upon both the sides of the shore, there shall grow all manner of fruitful trees, whose leaves shall not fall off, neither shall their fruit perish: but ever be ripe at their months, for their water runneth out of the Sanctuary. His fruit is good to eat, and his leaf profitable for medicine. ^{47:13}Thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^a Let this be the border, wherein ye shall divide the land unto the twelve tribes of Israel, with the line. ^{47:14}Part it indifferently unto one as unto another: of the which land I swore unto your fathers, that it should fall to your inheritance. ^{47:15}This is the border of the land upon the north side, from the main sea, as men go to Zadada: ^{47:16}namely Hemath, Berotha, Sabarim: from the borders of Damascus and Hemath unto Hazar Tichon, and that lieth upon the coasts of Haueran. ^{47:17}Thus the borders from the sea forth, shall be Hazar Euan, the border of Damascus the North, and the borders of Hemath. That is the north part. ^{47:18}The east side shall ye measure from Haueran and Damascus, from Gilead and the land of Israel by Jordan and so forth, from the sea coast, that lieth eastward. And this is the East part. ^{47:19}The south side is, from Tamar forth to the waters of strife unto Cades, the river, to the main sea: and that is the south part. ^{47:20}The west part: namely the great sea from the borders thereof, till a man come unto Hemath: this is the west part. ^{47:21}This land shall ye part among you, according to the tribes of Israel, ^{47:22}and divide it to be an heritage for you, and for the strangers that dwell among you, and begotten children. For ye shall take them among the children of Israel, like as though they were of your own household and country, and they shall have heritage with you among the children of Israel. ^{47:23}Look in what tribe the stranger dwelleth, in the same tribe shall ye give him his heritage, sayeth the

Lord GOD.^b ^{48:1}These are the names of the tribes that lie upon the north side, by the way of Hetlon, till thou comest unto Hemath and Hazar Enam, the borders of Damascus toward the north beside Hamath: Dan shall have his portion from the east quarter unto the west. ^{48:2}Upon the borders of Dan from the east side unto the west, shall Asser have his portion. ^{48:3}Upon the borders of Asher from the east part unto the west shall Nephthali have his portion. ^{48:4}Upon the borders of Nephthali from the east quarter unto the west, shall Manasses have his portion. ^{48:5}Upon the borders of Manasses from the east side unto the west, shall Ephraim have his portion. ^{48:6}Upon the borders of Ephraim from the east part unto the west, shall Ruben have his portion. ^{48:7}Upon the borders of Reuben from the east quarter unto the west shall Judah have his portion. ^{48:8}Upon the borders of Judah from the east part unto the west, ye shall set a side one portion of twenty five thousand meterods long and broad (like as another portion from the east side unto the west) wherein the Sanctuary shall stand.^c ^{48:9}As for the portion, that ye shall separate out for the LORD, it shall be twenty five thousand meterods long, and ten thousand broad. ^{48:10}Which separated holy portion shall belong unto these: namely to the priests, toward the north twenty five thousand and toward the west ten thousand broad, toward the east ten thousand broad also, and toward south twenty five thousand long, wherein the Sanctuary of the LORD shall stand. ^{48:11}Yea this same place shall be the priests, that are of the children of Sadock, and have kept my holy ordinance: which went not astray in the error of the children of Israel, like as the Levites are gone astray: ^{48:12}and this separated piece that they have of the land, shall be the most holy, hard upon the borders of the Levites. ^{48:13}And next unto the priests, shall the Levites have twenty five thousand long, and ten thousand broad. This shall be on every side twenty five thousand long, and ten thousand broad. ^{48:14}Of this portion they shall sell nothing, nor make any permutation there of, lest the chief of the land fall unto other, for it is hallowed unto the LORD. ^{48:15}The other five thousand after the breadth that lieth by the twenty five thousand shall be common: it shall belong to the city and to the suburbs for habitations, and the city shall stand in the midst thereof. ^{48:16}Let this be the measure: toward the north part five hundredth and four thousand toward the south part five hundredth and four thousand, toward the east part five hundredth and four thousand, toward the west part five hundredth and four thousand. ^{48:17}The suburbs hard upon the city, shall have toward the north fifty and two hundredth, and toward the south fifty and two hundredth, and toward the east fifty and two hundredth, and toward the west also fifty and two hundredth. ^{48:18}As for the residue of the length, that lieth hard upon the separated holy ground: namely ten thousand toward the east, and ten thousand toward the west, next unto the holy portion: it and the increase thereof shall serve for their meat, that labour in the city. ^{48:19}They that labour for the wealth of the city, shall maintain this also, out of what tribe soever they be in Israel. ^{48:20}All that is separated of the twenty five thousand long and twenty five thousand broad on the four parts, that shall ye put aside for the separated portion of the Sanctuary, and for the possession of the city. ^{48:21}The residue upon both the sides of the Sanctuary and possession of the city, shall belong to the prince, before the place of the twenty five thousand unto the east end, and before the place of the twenty five thousand westward, unto the borders of the city: this shall be the princes portion. This shall be the holy place, and the house of the Sanctuary shall stand in the midst. ^{48:22}Moreover, from the Levites and the cities possession, that lie in the midst of the princes part: look what remaineth betwixt the border of Judah and the border of Benjamin, it shall be the prince's. ^{48:23}Now of the other tribes. From the east part unto the west, shall Benjamin have his portion. ^{48:24}Upon the borders of Benjamin from the east side unto the west, shall Simeon have his portion. ^{48:25}Upon the borders of Simeon from the east part unto the west, shall Izakar have his portion. ^{48:26}Upon the borders of Izakar from the east side unto the west, shall Sabulon have his portion. ^{48:27}Upon the borders of Sabulon from the east part unto the west, shall Gad have his portion. ^{48:28}Upon the borders of Gad southward, the coasts shall reach from Thamar forth unto the waters of strife to Cades, and to the flood, even to the main sea. ^{48:29}This is the land with his portions, which ye shall distribute unto the tribes of Israel, sayeth the Lord GOD.^d ^{48:30}Thus wide shall the city reach: upon the north part five hundredth and four thousand measures. ^{48:31}The ports of the city, shall have the names of the tribes of Israel. Three ports of the north side: one Ruben, another Judah, the third Levi. ^{48:32}Upon the east side five hundredth and four thousand measures, with three ports: the one Joseph, another Benjamin, the third Dan. ^{48:33}Upon the south side five hundredth and four thousand measures, with three ports: the one Simeon, another Izakar, the third Sabulon. ^{48:34}And upon the west side five hundredth and four thousand measures, with three ports also, the one Gad, another Asser, the third Nephthali. ^{48:35}Thus shall it have eighteen thousand measures round about. And from that time forth, the name of the city shall be: the LORD is there.

The end of the Prophecy of Ezechiel.

The book of the Prophet Daniel

^{1:1}In the third year of the reign of Jehoakim king of Judah, came Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon unto Jerusalem, and besieged it: ^{1:2}and the Lord^a delivered Jehoakim the king of Judah into his hand, with certain ornaments of the house of God, which he carried away into the land of Sennar, to the house of his god, and there brought them into his gods treasury. ^{1:3}And the king spake unto Asphanaz the chief chamberlain, that he should bring him certain of the children of Israel, that were come of the king's seed and of princes, ^{1:4}young springalds without any blemish, but fair and well favoured, instructed in all wisdom, cunning and understanding: which were able to stand in the king's palace, to read and to learn for to speak Caldeish. ^{1:5}Unto these the king appointed a certain portion of his own meat, and of the wine, which he drank himself, so to nourish them three years: that afterward they might stand before the king. ^{1:6}Among these now were certain of the children of Judah: namely Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias. ^{1:7}Unto these the chief chamberlain gave other names, and called Daniel, Balthasar: Ananias, Sidrach: Misael, Misach, and Asarias, Abednago. ^{1:8}But Daniel was at a point with himself, that he would not be defiled thorow the king's meat, nor the wine which he drunk. And this he desired of the chief chamberlain, lest he should defile himself. ^{1:9}So God gave Daniel favour and grace before the chief chamberlain, ^{1:10}that he said unto him: I am afraid of my lord the king, which hath appointed you your meat and drink: lest he spy your faces to be worse liking than the other springalds of your age, and so ye shall make me lose^b my head unto the king. ^{1:11}Then Daniel answered Melassar, whom the chief chamberlain had set over Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Asarias, and said: ^{1:12}O prove but ten days with thy servants, and let us have pottage to eat, and water to drink: ^{1:13}Then look upon our faces, and theirs that eat of the king's meat. And as thou seest, so deal with thy servants. ^{1:14}So he consented to them in this matter, and proved them ten days. ^{1:15}And after the ten days, their faces were better liking and fatter, than all the young springalds, which ate of the king's meat. ^{1:16}Thus Melassar took away their meat and wine, and gave them pottage therefore. ^{1:17}God gave now these four springalds cunning and learning in all scripture and wisdom: but unto Daniel specially, he gave understanding of all visions and dreams. ^{1:18}Now when the time was expired, that the king had appointed to bring in these young springalds unto him: the chief chamberlain brought them before Nabuchodonosor, ^{1:19}and the king communed with them. But among them all were found none such as Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Asarias. ^{1:20}Therefore stood they before the king which in all wisdom and matters of understanding, that he enquired of them, found them ten times better, than all the soothsayers and charmers, that were in all his realm. ^{1:21}And Daniel abode still, unto the first year of king Cyrus. ^{2:1}In the second year of the reign of Nabuchodonosor, had Nabuchodnosor a dream, where thorow his spirit was vexed, and his sleep brake from him. ^{2:2}Then the king commanded to call together all the soothsayers, charmers, witches and Caldees, for to shew the king his dream. So they came, and stood before the king. ^{2:3}And the king said unto them: I have dreamed a dream, and my spirit was so troubled therewith, that I have clean forgotten, what I dreamed. ^{2:4}Upon this the Caldees answered the king in the Syrians speech: O king, God save thy life forever. Shew thy servants the dream, and we shall shew thee, what it meaneth. ^{2:5}The king gave the Caldees their answer, and said: It is gone from me: If ye will not make me understand the dream with the interpretation thereof, ye shall die, and your houses shall be prised. ^{2:6}But if ye tell me the dream and the meaning thereof, ye shall have of me gifts, rewards and great honour: only, shew me the dream, and the signification of it. ^{2:7}They answered again, and said: the king must shew his servants the dream, and so shall we declare what it meaneth. ^{2:8}Then the king answered, saying: I perceive of a truth, that ye do but prolong the time: for so much as ye see, that the thing is gone from me. ^{2:9}Therefore, if ye will not tell me the dream, ye shall all have one judgement: But ye feign^c and dissemble with vain words, which ye speak before me, to put off the time. Therefore tell me the dream, and so shall I know, if ye can shew me, what it meaneth. ^{2:10}Upon this, the Caldees gave answer before the king, and said: There is no man upon earth, that can tell the thing, which the king speaketh of: Yea there is neither king, prince, nor lord,^d that ever asked such things at a soothsayer, charmer, or Caldeer: ^{2:11}for it is a very hard matter, that the king requireth. Neither is there any, that can certify the king thereof, except the Gods: whose dwelling is not among the creatures. ^{2:12}For the which cause the king was wroth with great indignation, and commanded to destroy all the wise men at Babylon: ^{2:13}and the proclamation went forth, that the wise men should be slain. They sought also to slay Daniel with his companions. ^{2:14}Then Daniel enquired Arioch the king's steward, of the judgement and sentence, that was gone forth already to kill such as were wise at Babylon. ^{2:15}He answered, and said to Arioch being then the king's deputy:^e Why hath the king proclaimed so cruel a sentence? So Arioch told Daniel the matter. ^{2:16}Upon this, went Daniel up, and desired the king, that he might have leisure, to shew the king the interpretation: ^{2:17}and then came he home again and shewed the thing unto Ananias, Misael, and Asarias his companions: ^{2:18}that they should beseech the God of heaven for grace in this secret, that Daniel and his fellows with others such as were wise in Babylon, perished not. ^{2:19}Then was the mystery shewed unto Daniel in a vision by night. And Daniel praised the God of heaven. ^{2:20}Daniel also cried aloud, and said: O that the name of God might be praised for ever and ever, for wisdom and strength are his own: ^{2:21}he changeth the times and ages: he putteth down kings, he setteth up kings: he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and understanding to those that understand, ^{2:22}he openeth the deep secrets: he knoweth the thing that lieth in darkness, for the light dwelleth with him. ^{2:23}I thank thee, and pray thee, O thou God of my fathers, that thou hast lent me wisdom and strength, and hast shewed me the thing, that we desired of thee, for thou hast opened the king's matter unto me. ^{2:24}Upon this went Daniel in unto Arioch, whom the king had ordained to destroy the wise at Babylon: he went unto him, and said: destroy not such as are wise in Babylon, but bring me in unto the king, and I shall shew the king the interpretation. ^{2:25}Then Arioch brought Daniel into the king in all the haste, and said unto him: I have found a man among the prisoners of Judah, that shall shew the king the interpretation. ^{2:26}Then answered the king, and said unto Daniel, whose name was Balthasar: Art thou he, that canst shew me the dream, which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof? ^{2:27}Daniel answered the king to his face, and said: As for this secret, for the which the king maketh inquisition: it is neither the wise, the sorcerer, the charmer nor the devil conjurer, that can certify the king of it: ^{2:28}Only God in heaven can open secrets, and he it is, that sheweth the king Nabuchodnosor, what is for to come in the latter days. Thy dream, and that which thou hast seen in thine head upon thy bed, is this: ^{2:29}O king, thou didst cast in thy mind, what should come hereafter: So he that is the opener of mysteries, telleth thee, what is for to come. ^{2:30}As for me, this secret is not shewed me, for any wisdom that I have, more than any other living: but only that I might shew the king the interpretation, that he might know the thoughts of his own heart. ^{2:31}Thou king sawest, and behold: there stood before thee a great Image, whose figure was marvelous great, and his visage grim. ^{2:32}The image head was of fine gold, his breast and arms of silver, his body and loins were of copper, ^{2:33}his legs were of iron, his feet were part of iron, and part of earth. ^{2:34}This thou sawest, till the time that (without any hands) there was hewn of a stone which smote the image upon the feet, that were both of iron and earth, and brake them to powder:^f ^{2:35}Then was the iron, the earth, the copper, the silver and gold broken altogether in pieces: and became like the chaff of corn, that the wind bloweth away from the summer floors, that they can no more be found. But the stone that smote the Image, became a great mountain, which fulfilleth the whole earth: ^{2:36}This is the dream. And now will we shew before the king, what it meaneth. ^{2:37}O king, thou art a king of kings: For the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, riches, strength, and majesty: ^{2:38}And hath delivered thee all things, that are among the children of men: the beasts of the field, and the fowls under the heaven, and given thee dominion over them all. Thou art that golden head. ^{2:39}After thee there shall arise another kingdom, which shall be less than thine. The third kingdom shall be like copper, and have domination in all lands. ^{2:40}The fourth kingdom shall be as strong as iron. For like as iron bruise and breaketh all things: Yea even as iron beateth everything down, so shall it beat down and destroy. ^{2:41}Where as thou sawest the feet and toes, part of earth and part of iron: that is a divided kingdom, which nevertheless shall have some of the iron ground mixt with it, for so much as thou hast seen the iron mixt with the clay. ^{2:42}The toes of the feet that were part of iron and part of clay, signifieth: that it shall be a kingdom partly strong and partly weak. ^{2:43}And whereas thou sawest iron mixt with clay: they shall mingle themselves with the seed of simple people: and yet not continue one with another, like as iron will not be soldered with a potsherd. ^{2:44}In the days of these kings, shall the God of heaven set up an everlasting kingdom, which shall not perish, and his kingdom shall not be given over to another people: Yea the same shall break and destroy all these kingdoms, but it shall endure for ever. ^{2:45}And where as thou sawest, that without any hands there was cut out of the mount a stone, which brake the iron, the copper, the earth, the silver and gold in pieces: by that hath the great God shewed the king, what will come after this. This is a true dream, and the interpretation of it is sure. ^{2:46}Then the king Nabuchodonosor fell down upon his face, and bowed himself unto Daniel, and commanded that they should offer meatofferings and sweet odours unto him. ^{2:47}The king answered Daniel, and said: Yea of a truth your God is a God above all gods, and Lord^g above all kings, and an opener of secrets: seeing thou canst discover this mystery. ^{2:48}So the king made Daniel a great man, and gave him many and great gifts. He made him ruler of all the countries of Babylon, and lord of all the nobles, that were at Babylon. ^{2:49}Now Daniel intreated the king for Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago, so that he made them rulers over all the offices in the land of Babylon: But Daniel himself remained still in the court by the king. ^{3:1}Nabuchodonosor the king caused a golden Image to be made, which was sixty cubits high, and six cubits thick. This he made to be set up in the field of Dura, in the land of Babylon ^{3:2}and sent out to gather together the dukes, lords and nobles, the judges and officers, the deputies^h and shreves, with all the rulers of the land: that they might come to the dedication of the Image which Nabuchodonosor the king had set up. ^{3:3}So the dukes, lords and nobles, the judges and officers, deputiesⁱ and shreves with all the rulers of the land gathered them together, and came unto the dedicating of the Image that Nabuchodonosor the king had set up. Now when they stood before the Image, which Nabuchodonosor had set up, ^{3:4}the bedel cried out with all his might: O ye people, kindreds and tongues, to you be it said: ^{3:5}that when ye hear the noise of the trumpets, which shall be blown, with harps, shawmes Psalteries, Symphonies and all manner of Music: ye fall down and worship the golden Image, that Nabuchodonosor the king hath set up. ^{3:6}Who so then falleth not down and boweth himself, shall even the same hour be cast in to an hot burning oven. ^{3:7}Therefore, when all the folk heard the noise of the trumpets, that were blown, with the harps, shawmes, Psalteries, Symphonies and all kind of Melody: then all the people, kindreds and nations fell down, and bowed themselves unto the golden Image, that Nabuchodonosor the king had set up. ^{3:8}Now were there certain men of the Caldees, that went even then and accused the Jews, ^{3:9}and said unto the king Nabuchodonosor: O king, God save thy life for ever. ^{3:10}Thou being king hast given a commandment, that all men when they hear noise of the trumpets, harps, shawmes psalteries, symphonies and all the other melodies: shall fall down and bow themselves toward the golden Image: ^{3:11}whoso then fell not down and worshipped not, that he should be cast in to an hot burning oven. ^{3:12}Now are there certain Jews, whom thou hast set over the offices of the land of Babylon: namely, Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago. These men, (O king) regard not thy commandment, yea they will not serve thy Gods, nor bow themselves to the golden Image, that thou hast set up. ^{3:13}Then Nabuchodonosor in a cruel wrath and displeasure, commanded that Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago should be brought unto him. So these men were brought before the king. ^{3:14}Then Nabuchodonosor spake unto them, and said: what? O Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago, will not ye serve my Gods? nor bow yourselves to the golden Image, that I have set up? ^{3:15}well, be ready hereafter, when ye hear the noise of the trumpets blow with the harps, shawmes psalteries, symphonies and all the other melodies: that ye fall down, and worship the Image which I have made. But if ye worship it not, ye shall be cast immediately in to an hot burning oven. Let see, what God is there, that may deliver you out of my hands? ^{3:16}Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago, answered the king, an said: O Nabuchodonosor, we ought not to consent unto thee in this matter, for why: ^{3:17}our God whom we serve, is able to keep us from the hot burning oven (O king) and can right well deliver us out of thy hands: ^{3:18}And though he will not, yet shalt thou know (O king) that we will not serve thy Gods, nor do reverence to the Image, which thou hast set up. ^{3:19}Then was Nabuchodonosor full of indignation, so that the countenance of his face changed upon Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago. Therefore he charged and commanded, that the oven should be made seven times hotter, than it was wont to be: ^{3:20}and spake unto the strongest worthies that were in his house, for to bind Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago, and to cast them in to the hot burning oven. ^{3:21}So these men were bound in their coats, hosen, shoes with their other garments, and cast in to the hot burning oven. ^{3:22}For the king's commandment was so straight, and the oven was exceeding hot. As for the men that put in Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago, the flame of the fire destroyed them. ^{3:23}And these three men, Sidrach, Misach, and

Abednago fell down in the hot burning oven, being fast bound. ^{3:24}Then Nabuchodonosor the king marveled, and stood up in all haste: he spake unto his counsel and said: did not ye cast these three men bound into the fire? They answered, and said unto the king: Yea O king. ^{3:25}He answered and said: Lo, for all that, yet do I see four men going loose^j in the midst of the fire, and nothing corrupt: and the fourth is like an angel^k to look upon. ^{3:26}Upon this went Nabuchodonosor unto the mouth of the hot burning oven: he spake also, and said: O Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago, ye servants of the high^l God: go forth, and come hither. And so Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago, went out of the fire. ^{3:27}Then the dukes, lords and nobles, and the king's counsel came together to see these men, upon whom the fire had no manner of power in their bodies: in so much that the very hair of their head was not burnt, and their clothes unchanged: Yea there was no smell of fire felt upon them. ^{3:28}Then spake Nabuchodonosor, and said: Blessed be the God of Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago: which hath sent his angel, and defended his servants, that put their trust in him: that have altered the king's commandment: and jeopardy their bodies there upon: rather than they would serve or worship any other god, except their own God only. ^{3:29}Therefore I will and command, that all people, kindreds and tongues, which speak any blasphemy against the God of Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago, shall die and their houses shall be prised: Because, there is no God that may save, as this. ^{3:30}So the king promoted Sidrach, Misach, and Abednago, in the land of Babylon. ^{4:1}Nabuchodonosor king, unto all people, kindreds and tongues that dwell upon the whole earth: peace be multiplied among you, ^{4:2}I thought it good to shew the tokens and marvelous works, that the high God hath wrought upon me. ^{4:3}O how great are his tokens, and how mighty are his wonders? His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and his power lasteth for ever and ever. ^{4:4}I Nabuchodonosor being at rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace, ^{4:5}saw a dream, which made me afraid: and the thoughts that I had upon my bed, with the

^k{the son of God}

visions of mine head, troubled me. ^{4:6}Then sent I out a commission, that all they which were of wisdom at Babylon should be brought before me, to tell me the interpretation of the dream. ^{4:7}So there came the soothsayers, charmers, Caldees and conjurers of devils: to whom I told the dream, but what it be tokened, they could not shew me: ^{4:8}till at the last, there came one Daniel (other wise called Balthasar, according to the name of my God) which hath the spirit of the holy Gods, in him: to whom I told the dream, saying: ^{4:9}O Balthasar, thou prince of southsayers:^m For so much as I know, that thou hast the spirit of the holy Gods,ⁿ and no secret is hid from thee: tell me therefore, what the vision of my dream (that I have seen) may signify. ^{4:10}I saw a vision in my head upon my bed: and behold, there stood a tree upon the ground, ^{4:11}which was very high, great and mighty: the height^o reached unto the heaven, and the breadth extended to all the ends of the earth: ^{4:12}his leaves were fair, he had very much fruit, so that every man had enough to eat therein. The beasts of the field had shadows under it, and the fowls of the air dwelt in the boughs thereof. Shortly, all creatures fed of it. ^{4:13}I saw in my head a vision upon my bed: and behold, a watcher^p came down from heaven, ^{4:14}and cried mightily, saying: Hew down the tree, break off his branches, shake off his leaves, and scatter his fruit abroad: that all the beasts may get them away from under him, and the fowls from his branches. ^{4:15}Nevertheless leave the ground of his root still in the earth, and bind him upon the plain field, with chains of iron and steel. With the dew of heaven shall he be wet, and he shall have his part in the herbs of the ground with other wild beasts. ^{4:16}That man's heart of his shall be taken from him, and a beast's heart shall be given him, till seven years be come and gone upon him. ^{4:17}This errand of the watcher, is a commandment grounded and sought out in the counsel of him, that is most holy: to learn men for to understand, that the highest^q hath power over the kingdoms of men, and giveth them, to whom it liketh him, and bringeth the very outcasts of men over them. ^{4:18}This is the dream, that I king Nabuchodonosor have seen. Therefore O Balthasar, tell thou me what it signifieth: for so much as all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to shew me, what it meaneth. But thou canst do it, for the spirit of the holy Gods is in thee. ^{4:19}Then Daniel (whose name was Balthasar) held his peace by the space of an hour and his thoughts troubled him. So the king spake, and said: O Balthasar, let neither the dream nor the interpretation thereof fear thee. Balthasar answered saying: O my lord,^r this dream happen to thine enemies, and the interpretation to thine adversaries. ^{4:20}As for the tree that thou sawest which was so great and mighty, whose height reached unto the heaven, and his breadth in to all the world: ^{4:21}whose leaves were fair, and the fruit much: under the which the beasts of the field had their habitation, and upon whose branches the fowls of the air did sit. ^{4:22}Even thou (O king) art the tree, great and strong. Thy greatness increaseth, and reacheth unto the heaven, so doth thy power to the ends of the earth. ^{4:23}But where as the king saw a watcher even an holy angel, that came down from heaven, and said: hew down the tree, and destroy it: yet leave the ground of the root in the earth: and bind him upon the plain field with chains of iron and steel: He shall be wet with the dew of heaven, and his part shall be with the beasts of the field, till seven years be come and gone upon him: ^{4:24}This (O king) is the interpretation, yea it is the very device of him, that is highest of all, and it toucheth my lord^s the king. ^{4:25}Thou shalt be cast out from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field: with grass shalt thou be fed like an ox. Thou must be wet with the dew of the heaven: yea seven years shall come, and go upon thee, till thou know, that the highest hath power upon the kingdoms of men, and giveth them to whom he list. ^{4:26}Moreover, where as it was said, that the root of the tree should be left still in the ground: it betokeneth, that thy kingdom shall remain whole unto thee, after thou hast learned to know, that the power cometh from heaven. ^{4:27}Wherefore, O king, be content with my counsel, that thou mayest lose^t thy sins with righteousness, and thine offenses with mercy to poor people: for such things shall prolong thy peace. ^{4:28}All these things touche the king Nabuchodonosor. ^{4:29}So after twelve months, the king walked up and down in the palace of the kingdom of Babylon, ^{4:30}and said: This is the great city of Babylon, which I myself (with my power and strength) have made a king's court, for the honour of my majesty. ^{4:31}While these words were yet in the king's mouth, there fell a voice from heaven, saying: O king Nabuchodonosor, to thee be it spoken: Thy kingdom is departed from thee, ^{4:32}thou shalt be cast out of men's company: thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field, so that thou shalt eat grass like as an ox, till seven years be come and gone over thee: even until thou knowest, that the highest^u hath power upon the kingdoms of men, and that he may give them, unto whom it pleaseth him. ^{4:33}The very same hour was this matter fulfilled upon Nabuchodonosor: so that he was cast out of men's company, and ate grass like an ox; His body was wet with the dew of heaven, till his hairs were as great as Aegles' feathers, and his nails like birds' claws. ^{4:34}When this time was past, I Nabuchodonosor lift up mine eyes unto heaven, and mine understanding was restored unto me again. Then gave I thanks to the highest. I magnified and praised him that liveth for evermore, whose power endureth alway, and his kingdom from one generation to another: ^{4:35}in comparison of whom all they that dwell upon the earth, are to be reputed as nothing. He handleth according to his will, among the powers of heaven and among the inhabitants of the earth: and there is none that may resist his hand, or say: what doest thou? ^{4:36}At the same time was mine understanding given me again, and I was restored to the honour of my kingdom, to my dignity, and to my own shape again. My great estates and princes sought unto me, and I was set in my kingdom again, so that I had yet greater worship. ^{4:37}Then did I Nabuchodonosor, love, magnify and praise the King of heaven: for all his works are true, and his ways right. As for those that go on proudly, he is able to bring them down. ^{5:1}King Balthazar made a great banquet to his thousand lords: with all these thousand he made great cheer, ^{5:2}and when he was drunken with wine, he commanded to bring him the golden and silver vessels, which his father Nabuchodonosor had taken out of the temple at Jerusalem: that the king and his lords with his queen and concubines might drink thereout. ^{5:3}So they brought the golden vessel, that was taken out of the temple of the Lord's^v house at Jerusalem. Then the king and his lords with his queen and concubines drunk out of them. ^{5:4}They drunk wine, and praised their Idols of gold, silver, copper, iron, wood and stone. ^{5:5}In the very same hour there appeared fingers, as it had been of a man's hand writing, right over against the candlestick upon the plain wall in the king's palace: and the king saw the palm of the hand that wrote. ^{5:6}Then changed the king his countenance, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the joints of his body shook, and his knees smote one against another. ^{5:7}Wherefore the king cried mightily, that they should bring him the charmers, Caldees and the conjurers of devils. The king spake also to the wise men of Babylon, and said: Who so can read this writing, and shew me the plain meaning thereof: shall be clothed with purple, have a chain of gold about his neck, and rule the third part of my kingdom. ^{5:8}Upon this, came all the king's wise men: but they could neither read the writing, nor shew the king what it signified. ^{5:9}Then was the king sore afraid in so much, that his color changed, and his lords were sore vexed. ^{5:10}So by reason of this matter, that had happened to the king and his lords, the queen went up herself into the banquet house, and spake unto the king, saying: O king, God save thy life forever: Let not the^w thoughts trouble thee, and let not thy countenance be changed. ^{5:11}For why: there is a man in thy kingdom, that hath the spirit of the holy gods within him, as it was seen in thy father's days. He hath understanding and wisdom like the gods; Yea the king Nabuchodonosor thy father made this man chief of the soothsayers, charm-ers, Caldees and devil conjurers: ^{5:12}because that such an abundant spirit, knowledge and wisdom, to expound dreams, open secrets, and to declare hard doubts, was found in him: Yea even in Daniel, whom the king named Balt-hazar. Let this same Daniel be sent for, and he shall tell, what it meaneth. ^{5:13}Then was Daniel brought before the king. So the king spake unto Daniel, and said: Art thou that Daniel, one of the prisoners of Juda whom my father the king brought out of Jewry? ^{5:14}I have heard speak of thee, that thou hast the spirit of the holy gods, experience and understanding, and that there hath been great wisdom found in thee. ^{5:15}Now have there been brought me, wise and conjuring charm-ers, to read this writing, and to shew me the meaning thereof: but they could not tell me, what this matter signified. ^{5:16}Then heard I say, that thou can expound dark things, and declare hard doubts. Well then, if thou can read this writing, and shew me the meaning thereof: thou shalt be clothed with purple, have a chain of gold about thy neck, and rule the third part of my kingdom. ^{5:17}Daniel answered, and said before the king: As for thy rewards, keep them to thyself, or give thy rich gifts to another: yet not the less, I will read the writing unto the king, and shew him the interpretation thereof. ^{5:18}O king, God the highest^x gave unto Nabuchodonosor thy father, the dignity of a king, with worship and honor: ^{5:19}So that all people, kindreds and tongues stood in awe and fear of him, by reason of the high estate, that he had sent him. For why: he slew whom he would: he smote, whom it pleased him. Again: whom he would he set up: and whom he list, he put down. ^{5:20}But because his heart was so proud, and his stomach set so fast unto wilfulness: he was deposed from his kingly throne, and his majesty was taken from him. ^{5:21}He was shot out from among men, his heart was like a beasts heart, and his dwelling was with the wild asses: he was fain to eat grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven: till he knew, that the highest^y had power upon the kingdoms of men, and setteth over them, whom he list. ^{5:22}And thou his son (O Balthazar) for all this, hast not submitted thine heart, though thou knewest all these things: ^{5:23}but hast magnified thyself above the Lord^z of heaven, so that the vessels of his house were brought before thee: that thou, and thy lords, with thy queen and concubines, might drink wine thereout: and hast praised the Idols of silver and gold, copper and iron, of wood and stone: As for the God in whose hand consisteth thy breath and all thy ways: thou hast not loved him. ^{5:24}Therefore is the palm of this hand sent hither from him, to token up this writing. ^{5:25}And this is the scripture, that is written up: Mane, Thetel, Phares. ^{5:26}Now the interpretation of the thing is this: Mane, God hath numbered the^a kingdom, and brought it to an end: ^{5:27}Thetel, thou art weighed in the balance, and art found to light: ^{5:28}Phares, thy kingdom is dealt in parts, and given to the Medes and Perses. ^{5:29}Then commanded Balthazar, to clothe Daniel with purple, to hang a chain of gold about his neck, and to make a proclamation concerning him: that he should be the ruler of the third part of his kingdom. ^{5:30}The very same night was Balthazar the king of the Caldees slain, ^{5:31}and Darius out of Medea took in the kingdom, being sixty two year of age. ^{6:1}It pleased Darius to set over his kingdom an hundredth and twenty lords, which should be in all his kingdom about. ^{6:2}Above these he set three princes (of whom Daniel was one) that the lords might give accomptes unto them, and the king to be undiseased. ^{6:3}But Daniel exceeded all these princes and lords, for the spirit of God was plenteous in him: so that the king was minded to set him over the whole realm. ^{6:4}Wherefore the princes and lords sought, to pick out in Daniel some quarrel against the kingdom: yet could they find none occasion nor fault upon him. For why: he was so faithful, that there was no blame nor dishonesty found in him. ^{6:5}Then said these men: we will get no quarrel against this Daniel, except it be in the law of his God. ^{6:6}Upon this, went the princes and lords together unto the king, and said thus unto him: King Darius God save thy life forever; ^{6:7}All the great estates of the realm: as the princes, dukes, senators and judges, are determined to put out a commandment of the king, and to make a sure statute: namely, that who so desireth any petition, either of any god or man (within this thirty days) except it be only of thee, O king: the same person may be cast into the lions' den. ^{6:8}Wherefore, O king, confirm thou this statute, and make a writing: that the thing which the Medes and Perses have ordained^b be not altered nor broken. ^{6:9}So Darius made the writing, and confirmed it. ^{6:10}Now when Daniel understood that the writing was made, he went into his house: and the windows of his hall toward Jerusalem stood open. There kneeled he down upon his knees, three times a day: there he made his petition, and praised his God, like as his manner was to do afore time. ^{6:11}Then these men made search, and found Daniel making his petition and praying unto his God. ^{6:12}So they came to the king, and spake before him concerning his commandment, saying: O king, hast thou not subscribed the statute, that within thirty days who so requireth his petition of any god or man, but only of thyself, O king, he shall be cast into the den of the lions? The king answered, and said: it is true. It must be as a law of the Medes and Perses, that may not be broken. ^{6:13}Then answered they, and said unto the king: Daniel one of the prisoners of Judah, O king, regardeth neither thee nor thy statute, that thou hast made, but maketh his petition three times a day. ^{6:14}When the king heard these words, he was sore grieved, and would have excused Daniel, to deliver him, and put off the matter, unto the Sun went down, to the intent that he might save him. ^{6:15}These men perceiving the king's mind, said unto him: know this (O king) that the law of the Medes and Perses is, that the commandment and statute which the king maketh, may not be altered. ^{6:16}Then the king had them bring Daniel, and cast him into the Lions' den. The king also spake unto Daniel, and said: thy God whom thou alway servest, even he shall defend thee. ^{6:17}And there was brought a stone, and laid upon the hole of the den: this the king sealed with his own ring, and with the signet of his princes: that the king's commandment concerning Daniel, should not be broken. ^{6:18}So the king went in to his palace, and kept him sober all night, so that there was no table spread before him, neither could he take any sleep. ^{6:19}But by times in the morning, at the break of the day, the king arose, and went in all haste unto the den of the Lions. ^{6:20}Now as he came nigh unto the den, he cried with a piteous voice unto Daniel: Yea the king spake, and said to Daniel: O Daniel, thou servant of the living God, is not thy God, whom thou alway servest, able to deliver thee from the lions? ^{6:21}Daniel said unto the king: O king, God save thy life for ever. ^{6:22}My God hath sent his angel, which hath shut the lions' mouths, so that they might not hurt me. For why: mine unguiltiness is found out before him. And as for thee, O king, I never offended thee. ^{6:23}Then was the king exceeding glad, and commanded to take Daniel out of the den. So Daniel was brought out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him; For he put his trust in his God. ^{6:24}And as for those men which had accused Daniel, the king commanded to bring them, and to cast them in the Lions' den: them, their children, and their wives. So the Lions had the mastery of them, and brake all their bones asunder, or ever they came at the ground. ^{6:25}After this, wrote king Darius unto all people kindreds and tongues, that dwelt in all lands: peace be multiplied with you. ^{6:26}My commandment is, in all my dominion and kingdom, that men fear and stand in awe of Daniel's God. For he is the living God, which abideth ever: his kingdom shall not fail and his power is everlasting. ^{6:27}It is he that delivereth and saveth: he doth wonders and marvelous works, in heaven and in earth: he hath preserved Daniel from the power of the Lions. ^{6:28}This Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius and Cirus of Persia. ^{7:1}In the first year of Balthazar king of Babylon, saw Daniel a dream, and a vision was in his head upon his bed. Which dream he wrote, and the sum of the matter is this: ^{7:2}Daniel spake and said: I saw in my vision by night, and behold, the four winds of the heaven strove upon the sea, ^{7:3}and four great beasts came up from the sea, one unlike another. ^{7:4}The first was as a lion, and yet had he Aegle's wings. I saw, that his wings were plucked from him, and he taken away from the earth: that he stood upon his feet as a man, and that there was given him a man's heart. ^{7:5}Behold, the second beast was like a bear, and stood upon the one side. Among his teeth in his mouth he had three great long teeth, and it was said unto him: Arise, eat up, much flesh. ^{7:6}Then I looked, and behold, there was another like unto a leopard: this had wings as a fowl, even four upon the back. This beast had four heads, and there was power given him. ^{7:7}After this I saw in a vision by night, and behold, the fourth beast was grim and horrible, and marvelous strong. It had great iron teeth, it devoured and destroyed, and stamped the residue under feet. It was far unlike the other beasts that were before it: for it had ten horns, whereof I took good heed. ^{7:8}And behold, there came up among them, another like horn, before whom there were three of the first horns plucked away. Behold, this horn had eyes like a man, and a mouth speaking presumptuous things. ^{7:9}I looked till the seats were prepared, and till the old aged sat him down. His clothing was white as snow, and the hairs of his head like the pure wool. His throne was like the fiery flame, and his wheels as the burning fire. ^{7:10}There drew forth a fiery stream, and went out from him. A thousand times a thousand served him. Ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him. The judgment was set, and the books opened. ^{7:11}Then took I heed there unto, because of the voice of the proud words, which the^c horn spake. I beheld, till the beast was slain, and his body destroyed, and given over to be brent in the fire. ^{7:12}As for the power of the other beasts also, it was taken away, but their lives were prolonged for a time and season. ^{7:13}I saw in a vision by night, and behold, there came one in the clouds of heaven like the son of a man, which went unto the old aged, before whom they brought him: ^{7:14}Then gave he him power and dignity regal, that all people, tribes and tongues should serve him: His power is an everlasting power, which shall never be put down: and his kingdom endureth uncorrupt. ^{7:15}My heart was vexed, and I Daniel had a troubled spirit within me, and the visions of my head made me afraid: ^{7:16}till I gat me to one of them that stood by, to know the truth, concerning all these things. So he told me, and made me understand the interpretation of these things. ^{7:17}These four great beasts, are four kings which shall arise out of the earth. ^{7:18}These shall take in the kingdom of the saints of the most highest, and possess it still more and more for a long season. ^{7:19}After this I required diligently to know the truth, concerning the fourth beast, which was so far unlike the other beasts, and so horrible: whose teeth were of iron, and his nails of brass: which devoured and destroyed, and stamped the residue under his feet. ^{7:20}I desired also to know the truth, as touching the ten horns that he had upon his head, and this other which came up afterward, before whose face there fell down three: which horn had eyes and a mouth that spake presumptuous things, and looked with a grimmer visage than his fellows. ^{7:21}I beheld, and the same horn made battle against the saints, yea and gat the victory of them ^{7:22}till the time that the old aged came, that the judgement was given to the chiefest saints: and till the time, that the saints had the kingdom in possession. ^{7:23}He gave me this answer: That fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom upon earth: it shall be more than all other kingdoms, it shall devour, tread down, and destroy all other lands. ^{7:24}The ten horns, are ten kings that shall arise out of that kingdom, after whom there shall stand up another, which shall be greater than the first. ^{7:25}He shall subdue three kings, and shall speak words against the highest^d of all: he shall destroy the saints of the most highest,^e and think, that he may change times and laws. They shall be given under his power, until a time, two times, and a half a time. ^{7:26}But the judgement shall be kept, so that his power shall be taken from him, for he shall be destroyed, and perish at the last. ^{7:27}As for the kingdom, power and all might that is under the heaven: it shall be given to the holy people of the most highest, whose kingdom is everlasting, yea all powers shall serve and obey him. ^{7:28}Thus far extend the words. Nevertheless, I Daniel was so vexed in my thoughts, that my countenance changed, but the words I kept still in my heart. ^{8:1}In the third year of the reign of king Balthazar, there appeared a vision unto me Daniel, after that I had seen the first. ^{8:2}I saw in a vision, and when I saw it, I was at Susis in the chief city, which lieth in the land of Elam, and in the vision me thought I was by the river of Ulai. ^{8:3}Then I looked up, and saw, and behold, there stood before the river, a ram, which had horns: and these horns were high, but one was higher than another, and the highest^f came up last. ^{8:4}I saw that this ram pushed with his horns, against the west, against the north and against the south: so that no beasts might stand before him, nor defend them from his power: but he did as him listed, and waxed greatly. ^{8:5}I took heed unto this, and then came there an he goat from the west over the whole earth, and touched not the ground. This goat had a marvelous goodly horn betwixt his eyes, ^{8:6}and came unto the ram, that had the two horns (whom I had seen afore by the river side) and ran fiercely upon him with his might. ^{8:7}I saw him draw nigh unto the ram, being very fierce upon him: yea he gave him such a stroke, that he brake his two horns: Neither had the ram so much strength as to stand before him: but he cast^g him down, trod him under his feet: and no man was able to deliver the ram out of his power. ^{8:8}The goat waxed exceedingly great, and when he was at the strongest, his great horn was broken also. Then grew there other four such like in the stead, toward the four winds of the heaven. ^{8:9}Yea out of one of the least of these horns, there came up yet another horn, which waxed marvelous great: toward the south, toward the east, and toward the fair pleasant land. ^{8:10}It grew up to the host of heaven, whereof it did cast some down to the ground, and of the stars also, and trod them under feet. ^{8:11}Yea it grew up unto the prince of the host, from whom the daily offering was taken, and the place of his Sanctuary casten down. ^{8:12}And a certain season was given unto it, against the daily offering (because of wickedness) that it might cast down the verity to the ground, and so to prosper in all things, that it went about. ^{8:13}Upon this I heard one of the saints speaking, which saint said unto one that asked this question: How long shall this vision of the daily sacrifice and of the wasting abomination endure: that the Sanctuary and the power shall so be trodden under foot? ^{8:14}And he answered him: Unto the evening and the morning, even two thousand and three hundredth days: then shall the Sanctuary be cleansed again. ^{8:15}Now when I Daniel had seen this vision, and sought for the understanding of it: behold, there stood before me a thing like unto a man. ^{8:16}And I heard a man's voice in the river of Ulai, which cried, and said: O Gabriel, make this man understand the vision. ^{8:17}So he came, and stood by me. But I was afraid at his coming, and fell down upon my face. Then said he unto me: O thou son of man, mark well, for in the last time shall this vision be fulfilled. ^{8:18}Now as he was speaking unto me, I waxed faint, so that I sunk down to the ground. But he took hold upon me, and set me up again, ^{8:19}saying: Behold I will shew thee, what shall happen in the last wrath: for in the time appointed it shall be fulfilled. ^{8:20}The ram which thou sawest with the two horns, is the king of the Medes and Perses: ^{8:21}but the goat is the king of Greek land: the great horn that stood betwixt his eyes, that is the principal king. ^{8:22}But where as it brake, and four other rose up in the stead: it signifieth, that out of this people shall stand up four kingdoms, but not so mighty as it. ^{8:23}After these kingdoms (while ungodliness is a growing) there shall arise a king of an unshamefast face, which shall be wise in dark speakings. ^{8:24}He shall be mighty and strong, but not in his own strength. He shall destroy above measure, and all that he goeth about, shall prosper: he shall slay the strong and holy people. ^{8:25}And thorow his craftiness, falsity shall prosper in his hand, his heart shall be proud, and many one shall be^h put to death in his wealthiness: He shall stand up against the Prince of Princes, but he shall be destroyed without hand. ^{8:26}And this vision that is shewed unto thee, is as sure as the evening and the morning. Therefore write thou upon this sight, for it will be long or it come to pass. ^{8:27}Upon this was I Daniel very faint, so that I lay sick certain days: but when I rose up, I went about the king's business, and marveled at the vision, nevertheless no man knew of it. ^{9:1}In the first year of Darius the son of Ahasuerus, which was of the seed of the Medes, and was made king over the realm of the Caldees: ^{9:2}Yea even in the first year of his reign, I Daniel desired to know the yearly number out of the books, whereof the LORD spake unto Jeremy the Prophet: that Jerusalem should lie waste seventy years: ^{9:3}and I turned me unto God the Lord,ⁱ for to pray and make mine intercession, with fasting, sack cloth and ashes, ^{9:4}I prayed before the LORD my God, and knowledgeable, saying: O Lord,^j thou great and fearful God, thou that keepest covenant and mercy with them, which love thee, and do thy commandments: ^{9:5}We have sinned, we have offended, we have been disobedient and gone back: yea we have departed from all thy precepts and judgments. ^{9:6}We would never follow thy servants the Prophets, that spake in thy name to our kings and princes, to our forefathers, and to all the people of the land. ^{9:7}O Lord,^k righteousness belongeth unto thee, unto us pertaineth nothing but open shame: as it is come to pass this day unto every man of Judah, and to them that dwell at Jerusalem: Yea unto all Israel, whether they be far or nigh: thorowout all lands: wherein thou hast strowed them, because of the offenses that they had done against thee. ^{9:8}Yea O Lord,^l unto us, to our kings and princes, to our forefathers: even to us all, that have offended thee, belongeth open shame. ^{9:9}But unto thee O Lord^m our God, pertaineth mercy and forgiveness. As for us, we are gone back from him, ^{9:10}and have not obeyed the voice of the LORD our God, to walk in his laws, which he laid before us by his servants the Prophets: ^{9:11}Yea all Israel have transgressed, and gone back from thy law, so that they have not hearkened unto thy voice. Wherefore the curse and oath, that is written in the law of Moses the servant of God (against whom we have offended) is poured upon us. ^{9:12}And he hath performed his words, which he spake against us, and against our judges that judged us: to bring upon us such a great plague, as never was under heaven, like as it is now come to pass in Jerusalem. ^{9:13}Yea all this plague, as it is written in the law of Moses, is come upon us. Yet made we not our prayer before the LORD our God, that we might turn again from our wickedness, and to be learned in thy verity.ⁿ ^{9:14}Therefore hath the LORD made haste, to bring this plague upon us: for the LORD our God is righteous, in all his works which he doth: for why, we would not hearken unto his voice. ^{9:15}And now, O Lord^o our God, thou that with a mighty hand hast brought thy people out of Egypt, to get thyself a name, which remaineth this day: we have sinned, ^{9:16}O Lord,^p and done wickedly against all thy righteousness: Yet let thy wrothful displeasure be turned away (I beseech thee) from thy city Jerusalem, thy holy hill. And why? for our sins' sake, and for the wickedness of our forefathers is Jerusalem and thy people abhorred, of all them that are about us. ^{9:17}Now therefore, O our God, hear the prayer of thy servant, and his intercession. O let thy face shine over thy Sanctuary, that lieth waste. ^{9:18}O my God, incline^q thine ear, and hearken (at the least for thine own sake) open thine eyes: behold, how we be desolated, yea and the city also, which is called after thy name: for we do not cast our prayers before thee in our own righteousnesses, no, but only in thy great mercies. ^{9:19}O Lord, hear: O forgive Lord, O Lord consider, tarry not over long: but for thine own sake do it. O my God: for thy city and thy people is called after thy name. ^{9:20}As I was yet speaking at my prayers, knowledging mine own sins, and the sins of my people, making so mine intercession before the LORD my God, for the holy hill's sake of my God: ^{9:21}Yea while I was yet speaking in my prayer, behold, the man Gabriel, (whom I had seen afore in the vision) came flying to me, and touched me about the offering time in the evening. ^{9:22}He informed me, and spake unto me: O Daniel said he, I am now come, to make thee understand it: ^{9:23}For as soon as thou beganest to make thy prayer, it was so devised, and therefore am I come to shew thee. And why? For thou art a man greatly beloved. Wherefore, ponder the matter well, that thou mayest learn, to understand the vision. ^{9:24}Seventy weeks are determined over thy people, and over the holy city: that the wickedness may be consumed, that the sin may have an end, that the offense may be reconciled, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, to fulfill the visions and the Prophets, and to anoint the most holy one. ^{9:25}Understand this then, and mark it well: that from the time it shall be concluded, to go and repair Jerusalem again, unto Christ (or the anointed) Prince: there shall be seven weeks. Then shall the streets and walls be builded again sixty two weeks, but with hard troublous time. ^{9:26}After these sixty two weeks, shall Christ be slain, and they shall have no pleasure in him. Then shall there come a people with the prince, and destroy the city and the Sanctuary: and his end shall come as the water flood. But the desolation shall continue till the end of the battle. ^{9:27}He shall make a strong bond with many, for the space of a week: and when the week is half gone, he shall put down the slain and meat offering. And in the temple there shall be an abominable desolation, till it have destroyed all. And it is concluded, that this wasting shall continue unto the end. ^{10:1}In the third year of king Cyrus of Persia, there was shewed unto Daniel (otherwise called Balthasar) a matter, yea a true matter, but it is yet a long time unto it. He understood the matter well, and perceived what the vision was. ^{10:2}At the same time, I Daniel mourned for the space of three weeks, ^{10:3}so that I had no lust to eat bread: as for flesh and wine, there came none within my mouth: No, I did not once anoint myself, till the whole three weeks were out. ^{10:4}Upon the twenty fourth day of the first month, I was by the great flood called Tigris: ^{10:5}I lift up mine eyes, and looked: and behold, a man clothed in linen,^r whose loins were girded up with fine gold of Araby: ^{10:6}His body was like the Chrisolite stone, his face (to look upon) was like lightning, his eyes as the flame of fire, his arms and feet were like fair glistening metal, but the voice of his words was like the voice of a multitude. ^{10:7}I Daniel alone saw this vision, the men that were with me, saw it not: but a great fearfulness fell upon them, so that they fled away, and hid themselves. ^{10:8}I was left there myself alone, and saw this great vision, so long till there remained no more strength within me: Yea I lost my colour clean, I wasted away, and my strength was gone. ^{10:9}Yet heard I the voice of his words: and as soon as I heard it, faintness came upon me, and I fell down flat to the ground upon my face. ^{10:10}And behold an hand touched me, which set me up upon my knees and upon the palms of my hands, ^{10:11}saying unto me: O Daniel, thou well beloved man: take good heed of the words, that I shall say unto thee, and stand^s right up, for unto thee am I now sent. And when he had said these words, I stood up trembling. ^{10:12}Then said he unto me: fear not, Daniel: for why since the first day that thou set thine heart to understand, and didst chasten thyself before thy God: thy words have been heard. And I had come unto thee, when thou beganest to speak ^{10:13}had not the prince over the kingdom of the Perses withstand me twenty one days. But lo, Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, him have I left by the king of Persia, ^{10:14}and am come to shew thee, what shall happen unto thy people in the latter days: For it will be long yet or the vision be fulfilled. ^{10:15}Now when he had spoken these words unto me, I cast^t down my head to the ground and held my tongue. ^{10:16}Behold, there touched my lips one very like unto a man. Then opened I my mouth, and said unto him, that stood before me: O my lord, my joints are lowsed in the vision, and there is no more strength within me: ^{10:17}How may my lord's servant then talk with my lord? seeing there is no strength in me, so that I can not take my breath? ^{10:18}Upon this there touched me again, one much like a man, and comforted me, ^{10:19}saying: O thou man so well beloved, fear not: be content, take a good heart unto thee, and be strong. So when he had spoken unto me, I recovered, and said: Speak on my lord, for thou hast refreshed me. ^{10:20}Then said he: knowest thou wherefore I am come unto thee? now will I go again to fight with the prince of the Perses: As soon as I go forth, lo, the prince of Grekland shall come. ^{10:21}Nevertheless, I will shew thee the thing, that is fast noted in the scripture of truth. And as for all yonder matters, there is none that helpeth me in them, but Michael your prince. ^{11:1}And in the first year of Darius of Medea, I stood by him, to comfort him and to strength him, ^{11:2}and now will I shew thee the truth. Behold, there shall stand up yet three kings in Persia, but the fourth shall be far richer than they all. And when he is in the chiefest power of his riches, he shall provoke every man against the realm of Grekland. ^{11:3}Then shall there arise yet a mighty king, that shall rule with great dominion, and do what him list. ^{11:4}And as soon as his kingdom cometh up, it shall be destroyed, and divided toward the four winds of the heaven. They that come after him, shall not have such power and dominion as he: but his kingdom shall be scattered, yea even among other than those. ^{11:5}And the king of the south shall be mightier, than his other princes. Against him there shall one make himself strong, and shall rule his dominion with great power. ^{11:6}But after certain years they shall be joined together, and the king's daughter of the south shall come to the king of the North, for to make friendship, but she shall not obtain the power of that arm, neither shall she be able to endure thorow his might: but she, and such as brought her, yea and he that begat her, and comforted her for his time, shall be delivered up. ^{11:7}Out of the branches of her root, there shall stand one up in his stead: which with power of armies shall go thorow the king's land of the north, and handle him according to his strength. As for their Idols and princes, with their costly Jewels of gold and silver, ^{11:8}he shall carry them away captives into Egypt, and he shall prevail against the king of the north certain years. ^{11:9}And when he is come into the king's realm of the south, he shall be fain to turn again in to his own land. ^{11:10}Wherefore his sons shall be displeased, and shall gather together a mighty great host of people: and one of them shall come, and go thorow like a water flood:^u then shall he return, and go forth with defying and boasting^v unto his own land. ^{11:11}Then the king of the south shall be angry, and shall come forth to fight against the king of the north: Yea he shall bring a great multitude of people together, and a great heap shall be given into his hand. ^{11:12}These shall he carry away with great pride, for so much as he hath cast down so many thousands, nevertheless he shall not prevail. ^{11:13}For the king of the north shall gather (of the new) a greater heap of people than afore, and come forth (after a certain time and years) with a mighty host and exceeding great good. ^{11:14}At the same time there shall many stand up against the king of the south, so that the wicked children of thy people also shall exalt themselves (to fulfill the vision) and then fall. ^{11:15}So the king of the north shall come to lay siege, and to take the strong fenced cities: And the power of them of the south shall not be able to abide him, and the best men of the people shall not be so strong, as to resist him. ^{11:16}Shortly, when he cometh, he shall handle him as he list, and no man shall be so hardy as to stand against him. He shall stand^w in the pleasant country, which thorow him shall be destroyed. ^{11:17}He shall set his face with all his power to obtain his kingdom, and to be like it. Yea that shall he do, and give him unto the daughters among women, to destroy him. But he shall fail, neither shall he obtain his purpose. ^{11:18}After this shall he set his face unto the Isles, and take many of them. A prince shall stop^x him, to do him a shame, beside the confusion that else shall come unto him. ^{11:19}Thus shall he turn again to his own land, stumble, and fall, and be no more found: ^{11:20}so that he that came upon him and did him violence, shall stand in his place, and have a pleasant kingdom: and after few days he shall be destroyed, and that neither in wrath, nor in battle. ^{11:21}In his stead there shall arise a vile person, not holden worthy of a king's dignity: this shall come in craftily, and obtain the kingdom with fair words: ^{11:22}he shall fight against the armies of the mighty (and destroy them) yea and against the prince of the covenant. ^{11:23}So after that he hath take truce with him, he shall handle deceitfully: that he may get up, and overcome him with a small flock: ^{11:24}and so with craftiness to get him to the fattest place of the land, and to deal otherwise, then either his fathers or grandfathers did. For he shall destroy the thing, that they had robbed and spoiled, yea and all their substance: imagining thoughts against the strong holds, and that for a time. ^{11:25}His power and heat shall be stirred up with a great army against the king of the south: where thorow the king of the south shall be moved then unto battle, with a great mighty host also. Nevertheless, he shall not be able to stand, for they shall conspire against him. ^{11:26}Yea they that eat of his meat, shall hurt him: so that his host shall fall, and many be slain down. ^{11:27}These two kings shall be minded to do mischief, and talk of deceit at one table: but they shall not prosper: for why, the end shall not come yet, unto the time appointed. ^{11:28}Then shall he go home again into his own land with great good, and set his heart against the holy covenant, he shall be busy against it, and then return home. ^{11:29}At the time appointed he shall come again, and go toward the south: So shall it happen otherwise then at the first, yet once again. ^{11:30}And why? the ships of Cithum shall come upon him, that he may be smitten and turn again: that he may take indignation against the covenant of holiness, to meddle against it. Yea he shall turn him, and draw such unto him, as leave the holy covenant. ^{11:31}He shall set mighty men to unhallow the Sanctuary of strength, and to put down the daily offering, and to set up the abominable desolation. ^{11:32}And such as break the covenant shall he flatter with fair words. But the people that will know their God, shall have the overhand and prosper. ^{11:33}Those also that have understanding among the people shall inform^y the multitude: and for a long season, they shall be persecuted with sword, with fire, with captivity and with the taking away of their goods. ^{11:34}Now when they fall, they shall be set up with a little help: but many shall cleave unto them faindly. ^{11:35}Yea some of those which have understanding shall be persecuted also: that they may be tried, purified, and cleansed, till the time be out: for there is yet another time appointed. ^{11:36}The king shall do what him list, he shall exalt and magnify him self against all, that is God. Yea he shall speak marvelous things against the God of all gods, wherein he shall prosper, so long till the wrath be fulfilled, for the conclusion is devised already. ^{11:37}He shall not regard the God of his fathers, but his lust shall be upon women: Yea he shall not care for any God, for he shall magnify himself above all. ^{11:38}In his place shall he worship the mighty Idols: and the God whom his fathers knew not, shall he honour with gold and silver, with precious stones and pleasant jewels. ^{11:39}This shall he do, seeking help and succour at the mighty Idols and strange gods. Such as receive him, and take him for God, he shall give them great worship and power: yea and make them lords of the multitude, and give them the land with rewards. ^{11:40}In the latter time, shall the king of the south strive with him: and the king of the north in like manner shall come against him with chariots, horsemen and with a great navy of ships. He shall come into the lands, destroy and go thorow: ^{11:41}he shall enter also in to the fair pleasant land. Many cities and countries shall decay, except Edom, Moab and the best of the children of Ammon, which shall escape from his hand. ^{11:42}He shall stretch forth his hands upon the countries, and the land of Egypt shall not escape him. ^{11:43}For thorow his going in, he shall have dominion over the treasures of silver and gold, and over all the precious jewels of Egypt, Lybia and Ethiopia. ^{11:44}Nevertheless the tidings out of the East and the north shall trouble him, for the which cause he shall go forth to destroy and curse a great multitude. ^{11:45}The tents of his palace shall he pitch betwixt the two seas, upon the hill of the noble Sanctuary, for he shall come to the end of it, and then shall no man help him. ^{12:1}The time will come also, that the great prince Michael, which standeth on thy people side, shall arise up, for there shall come a time of trouble, such as never was, since there began to be any people, unto that same time. Then shall thy people be delivered, yea all those that be found written in the book. ^{12:2}Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth, shall awake, some to everlasting life, some to perpetual shame and reproof. ^{12:3}The wise (such as have taught other) shall glister, as the shining of heaven: and those that have instruct the multitude unto Godliness, shall be as the stars, world without end. ^{12:4}And thou O Daniel, shut up these words, and seal the book, till the last time. Many shall go about here and there, and then shall knowledge increase. ^{12:5}So I Daniel looked, and behold, there stood other two: one upon this shore of the water, the other upon yonder side. ^{12:6}And one of them said unto him, which was clothed in linen,^z and stood above upon the waters of the flood; How long shall it be to the end of these wonderous works? ^{12:7}Then heard I the man with the linen^a clothes, which stood above upon the waters of the flood: when he held up his right and left hand unto heaven, and sware by him which liveth for ever: that it shall tarry for a time, two times and half a time: when the power of the holy people is clean scattered abroad, then shall all these things be fulfilled. ^{12:8}I heard it well, but I understood it not. Then said I: O my Lord, what shall happen after that? ^{12:9}He answered: Go thy way Daniel, for the words shall be closed up and sealed, till the last time: ^{12:10}and many shall be purified, cleansed and tried. But the ungodly shall live wickedly, and those wicked (as many as they be) shall have no understanding. As for such as have understanding, they shall regard it. ^{12:11}And from the time forth that the daily offering shall be put down and the abominable desolation set up, there shall be a thousand two hundredth and ninety days. ^{12:12}O well is him, that waiteth, and cometh to the thousand three hundredth and thirty five days. ^{12:13}Go thou thy way now, till it be ended: take thy rest, and bide in thy lot, till the days have an end.

The end of the Prophecy of Daniel.

The book of the prophet Oseas

^{1:1}This is the word of the LORD, that came unto Oseas the son of Beerī, in the days of Oseas, Joathan, Ahaz, and Jezekeiah kings of Judah: and in the time of Jeroboam the son of Joas king of Israell. ^{1:2}First, when the LORD spake unto Oseas, he said unto him: Go thy way, take an harlot to thy wife, and get children by her: for the land hath committed great whoredom against the LORD. ^{1:3}So he went, and took Gomer the daughter of Deblaim: which conceived, and brought forth a son. ^{1:4}And the LORD said unto him: Call his name Iesrael, for I will shortly avenge the blood of Iesrael upon the house of Jehu,^a and will bring the kingdom of the house of Israell to an end. ^{1:5}Then will I break the bow of Israell in the valley of Iesrael. ^{1:6}She conceived yet again, and bare a daughter. And he said unto him: Call her name Loruhamah (that is, not obtaining mercy) for I will have no pity upon the house of Israell, but forget them, and put them clean out of remembrance. ^{1:7}Nevertheless I will have mercy upon the house of Judah, and will save them even thow the LORD their God. But I will not deliver them thow any bow, sword, battle, horses, or horsemen. ^{1:8}Now when she had weaned Loruhamah, she conceived again, and bare a son. ^{1:9}Then said he: call his name Lo amy. For why? ye are not my people, therefore will not I be yours. ^{1:10}And though the number of the children of Israell be as the sand of the sea, which can neither be measured nor told: yet in the place where it is said unto them; Ye be not my people: even there shall it be thus reported of them: they be the children of the living God. ^{1:11}Then shall the children of Judah^b and the children of Israel be gathered together again, and chose themselves one head, and then depart out of the land: for great shall be the day of Israel. ^{2:1}Tell your brethren, that they are my people: and your sistren, that they have obtained^c mercy. ^{2:2}As for your mother, ye shall chide with her, and reprove her: for she is not my wife, neither am I her husband, unless she put away her whoredoms out of my sight, and her advoutry from her breasts. ^{2:3}If no, I shall strip her naked, and set her, even as she came into the world: Yea I shall lay her waste, and make her like a wilderness, and slay her for thirst. ^{2:4}I shall have no pity also upon her children, for they be the children of fornication. ^{2:5}Their mother hath broken her wedlock, and she that bare them, is come to confusion. For she said: I will go after my lovers, that give me my water and my bread, my wool^d and my flax, my oil and my drink. ^{2:6}But I will hedge her way with thorns, and stop^e it, that she shall not find her footsteps: ^{2:7}and though she run after her lovers, yet shall she not get them: she shall seek them, but not find them. Then shall she say: well, I will go turn again to my first husband, for at that time was I better at ease, than now. ^{2:8}But this would she not know, where as I yet gave her corn, wine, oil, silver and gold, which she hath hanged upon Baal. ^{2:9}Wherefore now will I go take my corn and wine again in their season, and fet again my wool and my flax, which I gave her to cover her shame. ^{2:10}And now will I discover her foolishness, even in the sight of her lovers, and no man shall deliver her out of my hands. ^{2:11}Moreover, I will take away all her mirth, her holy days, her new moons, her Sabbaths, and all her solempne feasts: ^{2:12}I will destroy her vineyards and fig trees, though she sayeth: lo, here are my rewards, that my lovers have given me. I will make it a wood, and the wild beasts shall eat it up. ^{2:13}I will punish her also for the days of Baal, wherein she censed him, decking him with her earrings and chains: when she followed her lovers, and forgat me, sayeth the LORD. ^{2:14}Wherefore behold, I will call her again bring her into a wilderness, and speak friendly unto her: ^{2:15}there will I give her, her vineyards again, yea and the valley of Achor also, to shew her hope and comfort. Then shall she sing there as in the time of her youth, and like as in the day when she came out of the land of Egypt. ^{2:16}Then (sayeth the LORD) she shall say unto me: O my husband, and shall call me no more Baal: ^{2:17}for I will take away those names of Baal from her mouth, yea she shall never remember their names any more. ^{2:18}Then will I make a covenant with them, with the wild beasts, with the fowls of the air, and with everything that creepeth upon the earth. As for bow, sword and battle, I will destroy such out of the land, and will make them to sleep safely. ^{2:19}Thus will I marry thee unto mine own self forevermore: yea even to myself will I marry thee, in righteousness, in equity, in loving-kindness, and mercy. ^{2:20}In faith also will I marry thee, unto myself, and thou shalt know the LORD. ^{2:21}At the same time will I shew myself friendly and gracious unto the heavens, sayeth the LORD: and the heavens shall help the earth, ^{2:22}and the earth shall help the corn, wine, and oil, and they shall help Iesrael. ^{2:23}I will sow them upon earth, for a seed to mine own self, and will have mercy upon her, that was without mercy. And to them which were not my people, I will say: Thou art my people. And he shall say: thou art my God. ^{3:1}Then said the LORD to me: Go yet thy way and vow^f an advoutrous woman, whom thy neighbour loveth, as the LORD doth the children of Israell: how be it they have respect to strange gods, and love the wine cans. ^{3:2}So I gat her for fifteen silverlings, and for an homer and an half of barley, ^{3:3}and said unto her: Thou shalt bide with me a long season, but see that thou playest not the harlot, and look thou meddle with none other man, and then will I keep my self for thee. ^{3:4}Thus the children of Israel shall sit a great while without king and prince, without offering and alter, without priest and revelation. ^{3:5}But afterward shall the children of Israel convert, and seek the LORD their God, and David their king: and in the latter days they shall worship the LORD, and his loving-kindness. ^{4:1}Hear the word of the LORD, O ye children of Israel: For the LORD must punish them, that dwell in the land. And why? There is no faithfulness, there is no mercy, there is no knowledge of God in the land: ^{4:2}but swearing, lying, manslaughter, theft, and advoutry have gotten the overhand, and one bloodguiltyness followeth another. ^{4:3}Therefore shall the land be in a miserable cause, and all they that dwell therein, shall mourn. The beasts in the field, the fowls in the air, and the fishes in the sea shall die. ^{4:4}Yet is there none, that will chasten nor reprove another. The priests which should reform other men, are become like the people. ^{4:5}Therefore stumblest thou in the daytime and the prophet with them in the night. I will bring thy mother to silence, and why? ^{4:6}my people perish, because they have no knowledge. Seeing then that thou hast refused understanding, therefore will I refuse thee also: so that thou shalt no more be my priest. And for so much as thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children. ^{4:7}The more they increased in multitude, the more they sinned against me, therefore will I change their honour into shame. ^{4:8}They eat up the sins of my people, and courage them in their wickedness. ^{4:9}Thus the priest is become like the people. Wherefore I will punish them for their wicked ways, and reward them according to their own imaginations. ^{4:10}They shall eat, and not have enough: they have used whoredom, therefore shall they not prosper: and why? they have forsaken the LORD, and not regarded him. ^{4:11}Whoredom, wine and drunkenness take the heart away. ^{4:12}My people ask counsel at their stocks, their staff must tell them. For an whorish mind hath deceived them, so that they commit fornication against their God. ^{4:13}They make sacrifices upon the high mountains, and burn their incense upon the hills, yea among the oaks, groves and bushes, for there are good shadows. Therefore your daughters are become harlots, and your spouses have broken their wedlock, ^{4:14}I will not punish your daughters for being defiled, and your brides that became whores: seeing the fathers themselves have meddled with harlots, and offered with unthriftiness: but the people that will not understand must be punished. ^{4:15}Though thou Israel are disposed to play the harlot, yet shouldest not thou have offended, O Juda: thou shouldest not have run to Gilgal,^g nor gone up to Bethhaven, nor have sworn, the LORD liveth. ^{4:16}For Israel is gone back like a wanton cow. The LORD therefore shall make her feed, as the lamb that goeth astray. ^{4:17}And whereas Ephraim is become partaker of Idols, well, let him go. ^{4:18}Their drunkenness hath put them back, and brought them to whoredom. Their rulers love rewards, bring (say they) to their own shame. ^{4:19}A wind shall take hold of their feathers, and they shall be confounded in their offerings. ^{5:1}O ye priests: hear this, take heed, O thou household of Israel: give ear, O thou kingly house: for this punishment will come upon you, that are become a snare unto Mizpah, and a spread net unto the mount of Thabor. ^{5:2}They kill sacrifices by heaps, to beguile the people therewith: therefore will I punish them all. ^{5:3}I know Ephraim well enough, and Israell is not hid from me: for Ephraim is become an harlot: and Israel is defiled. ^{5:4}They are not minded to turn unto their God, for they have an whorish heart, so that they can not know the LORD. ^{5:5}But the pride of Israel will be rewarded him in his face, yea both Israel and Ephraim shall fall for their wickedness, and Judah with them also. ^{5:6}They shall come with their sheep and bullocks to seek the LORD, but they shall not find him, for he is gone from them. ^{5:7}As for the LORD, they have refused him, and brought up bastard children: a month therefore shall devour them with their portions. ^{5:8}Blow with the shawmes at Gabea, and with the trumpet in Ramah, cry out at Bethaven upon the yon-side of Benjamin. ^{5:9}In that time of the plague shall Ephraim be laid waste, therefore did I faithfully warn the tribes of Israel. ^{5:10}Yet are the princes of Juda become like them, that remove the landmarks, therefore will I pour out my wrath upon them like water. ^{5:11}Ephraim is oppressed, and can have no right of the law: for why? they follow the doctrines of men. ^{5:12}Therefore will I be unto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Juda as a caterpillar. ^{5:13}When Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah his disease: Ephraim went unto Assur, and sent unto king Jareb: yet could not he help you, nor ease you of your pain. ^{5:14}I am unto Ephraim as a lion, and as a lion's whelp to the house of Judah. Even I, I will spoil them, and go my way. I will take them with me, and no man shall rescue them. ^{5:15}I will go, and return to my place, till they wax faint, and seek me. ^{6:1}In their adversity they shall seek me, and say: come, let us turn again to the LORD: for he hath smitten us, and he shall heal us: ^{6:2}He hath wounded us, and he shall bind us up again: after two days shall he quicken us, in the third day he shall raise us up, so that we shall live in his sight. ^{6:3}Then shall we have understanding, and endeavor ourselves to know the LORD. He shall go forth as the spring of the day, and come unto us as the evening and morning rain upon the earth. ^{6:4}O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee? O Judah, how shall I entreat thee? seeing your love is like a morning cloud, and like a dew that goeth early away. ^{6:5}Therefore have I cut down the prophets, and let them be slain for my words' sake: so that thy punishment shall come to light. ^{6:6}For I have pleasure in loving-kindness, and not in offering: Yea in the knowledge of God, more than in burnt sacrifice. ^{6:7}But even like as Adam did, so have they broken my covenant, and set me at naught. ^{6:8}Gilead is a city of wicked doers, of malicious people and bloodshedders. ^{6:9}The multitude of the priests is like an heap of thieves, murderers and bloodthirsty: for they have wrought abomination. ^{6:10}Horrible things have I seen in the house of Israel, there playeth Ephraim the harlot, and Israell is defiled: ^{6:11}but Judah shall have an harvest for himself, when I return the captivity of my people. ^{7:1}When I undertake to make Israel whole, then the ungraciousness of Ephraim and the wickedness of Samaria cometh to light: then go they about with lies. At home, they be thieves: and without they fall to robbing. ^{7:2}They consider not in their hearts that I remember all their wickedness. They go about with their own inventions, but I see them well enough. ^{7:3}They make the king and the princes, to have pleasure in their wickedness and lies. ^{7:4}All these burn in advoutry, as it were an oven that the baker heateth, when he hath left kneading, till the dough be leavened. ^{7:5}Even so goeth it this day with our kings and princes, for they begin to be wood drunken thorow wine: they use familiarity with such as deceive them. ^{7:6}They with the imagination of their heart are like an oven, their sleep is all night like the sleep of a baker, in the morning is he as hot as the flame of fire: ^{7:7}they are altogether as hot as an oven. They have devoured their own judges, all their kings are fallen: yet is there none of them that calleth upon me. ^{7:8}Therefore must Ephraim be mixt among the Heathen. Ephraim is become like a cake, that no man turneth: ^{7:9}Strangers have devoured his strength, yet he regardeth it not: he waxeth full of gray hairs, yet will he not know it: ^{7:10}And the pride of Israel is cast down before their face, yet will they not turn to the LORD their God, nor^h seek him for all this. ^{7:11}Ephraim is like a dove, that is beguiled, and hath no heart. Now call they upon the Egyptians, now go they to the Assyrians: ^{7:12}but while they be going here and there, I shall spread my net over them, and draw them down as the fowls of the air: and according as they have been warned, so will I punish them; ^{7:13}Woe be unto them, for they have forsaken me. They must be destroyed, for they have set me at naught. I am he that have redeemed them, and yet they dissemble with me. ^{7:14}They call not upon me with their hearts, but lie howlingⁱ upon their beds. Where as they come together, it is but for meat and drink, and me will they not obey. ^{7:15}I have taught them, and defended their army, yet do they imagine mischief against me. ^{7:16}They turn themselves, but not a right, and are become as a broken bow. Their princes shall be slain with the sword, for the malice of their tongues, such blasphemies have they learned in the land of Egypt. ^{8:1}Set the horn to thy mouth, and blow: get thee swiftly (as an Aegle) into the house of the LORD: for they have broken my covenant, and transgressed my law. ^{8:2}Israel can say unto me: thou art my God, we know thee: ^{8:3}but he hath refused the thing that is good, therefore shall the enemy follow upon him. ^{8:4}They have ordained kings, but not thorow me: they have made princes, and I must not know of it. Of their silver and gold have they made them images, to bring them selves to destruction. ^{8:5}Thy calf, O Samaria, shall be taken away, for my wrothfull indignation is gone forth against thee. How long will it be, or they can be cleansed? ^{8:6}For the calf came from Israel, the workman made it therefore can it be no God, but even to a spiders web shall the calf of Samaria be turned. ^{8:7}They have sown wind, therefore shall they reap a storm. Their seed shall bear no corn, there shall no meal be made of their increase: though they reap,^j yet shall strangers devour it up. ^{8:8}Israel shall perish, the Gentiles shall entreat him as a foul vessel. ^{8:9}Since they went up to the Assyrians, they are become like a wild ass in the desert. Ephraim giveth rewards to get lovers. ^{8:10}Therefore are they scattered among the Heathen; There will I gather them up. They shall soon be weary of the burthen of king and princes. ^{8:11}Ephraim hath made many altars to do wickedness, therefore shall the altars turn to his sin. ^{8:12}Though I shew them my law never so much, they count it but strange doctrine. ^{8:13}Where as they do sacrifice, offering the flesh and eating it: The LORD will have no pleasure therein: but will remember their wickedness, and punish their sins. Israel turneth again into Egypt, ^{8:14}they have forgotten him that made them, they build churches, and Juda maketh many strong cities: therefore will I send a fire into their cities, and it shall consume their places. ^{9:1}Do not thou triumph, O Israel make no boasting^k more than the Heathen, for thou hast committed advoutry against thy God: strange rewards hast thou loved, more than all the corn floors. ^{9:2}Therefore shall they no more enjoy the corn floors and winepresses, and their sweet wine shall fail them. ^{9:3}They will not dwell in the LORD's land, but Ephraim turneth again into Egypt, and eateth unclean things among the Assyrians. ^{9:4}They pour out no wine for a drink offering unto the LORD, neither give they him their slain offerings: but they be unto them as mourners meats, wherein all they that eat them, are defiled. For the bread that they have such lust unto, shall not come into the house of the LORD. ^{9:5}What will ye do then in the solempne days, and in the feast of the LORD? ^{9:6}Lo, they shall get them away for the destruction? Egypt shall receive them, and Noph shall bury them. The nettles shall overgrow their pleasant goods, and burrs shall be in their tabernacles. ^{9:7}Be ye sure (O Israel) the time of visitation is come, the days of recompensing are at hand. As for the prophet, ye hold him for a fool: and him that is rich in the spirit, for a mad man: so great is your wickedness and malice. ^{9:8}Ephraim hath made himself a watchman of my God, a prophet that is become a snare to do hurt in every street, and abomination in the house of his God. ^{9:9}They be gone too far, and have destroyed themselves, like as they did afore time at Gabaa. Therefore their wickedness shall be remembered, and

their sins punished. ^{9:10}I found Israel like grapes in the wilderness, and saw their fathers as the first figs in the top of the fig tree. But they are gone to Baal Peor, and run away from me to that shameful Idol, and are become as abominable as their lovers. ^{9:11}Ephraim flyeth like a bird, so shall their glory also: In so much, that they shall neither beget, conceive nor bear children. ^{9:12}And though they bring up any, yet will I make them childless among men. Yea woe shall come to them, when I depart from them. ^{9:13}Ephraim (as me think) is planted in wealthiness, like as Tyrus, but now must she bring her own children forth to the manslayer. ^{9:14}O LORD thou shalt give them: what shalt thou give them? give them an unfruitful womb and dry breasts. ^{9:15}All their wickedness is done at Gilgal, there do I abhor them. For the ungraciousness of their own inventions, I will drive them out of my house. I will love them no more, for all their princes are unfaithful. ^{9:16}Ephraim is hewn down, their root is dried up, so that they shall bring no more fruit: yea and though they bring forth any, yet will I slay even the best beloved fruit of their body. ^{9:17}My God shall cast them away, for they have not been obedient unto him, therefore shall they go astray among the Heathen. ^{10:1}Israel was a goodly vine, but he hath brought forth unprofitable fruit: yea the more fruit he had the more alters he made: the more good I did to their land, the more friendship shewed they to their Images. ^{10:2}Their heart is divided, therefore will they be destroyed. The LORD shall break down their Images, he shall destroy their altars. ^{10:3}Then shall they say: we have no king, for why? we have not feared the LORD. And what shall then the king do to us? ^{10:4}They commune¹ together, and swear vain oaths: they be confederate together, therefore groweth their punishment, as the weeds in the furrows of the land. ^{10:5}They that dwell in Samaria have worshipped the calf of Bethaven: therefore shall the people mourn over them, yea and the priests also, that in their wealthiness rejoiced with them: and why? it shall pass away from them. ^{10:6}It shall be brought to the Assyrian for a present unto king Jareb. Ephraim shall receive full punishment: Israel shall be confounded for his own imaginations, ^{10:7}Samaria with his king shall vanish away, as the scum in^m the water. ^{10:8}The high places of Aven, where Israel do sin, shall be cast down: thistles and thorns shall grow upon their alters. Then shall they say to the mountains: cover us, and to the hills: fall upon us. ^{10:9}O Israel, thou hast sinned as Gabaa did afore time, where they remained: should not the battle then come upon the wicked children, as well as upon the Gabaonites? ^{10:10}I will chasten them, even after mine own desire, the people shall be gathered together over them, when I punish them for their great wickedness. ^{10:11}Ephraim was unto me, as a cow that is used to go to plow, therefore I loved him, and fell upon his fair neck. I drove Ephraim, Juda plowed, and Jacob played the husbandman: ^{10:12}that they might sow unto righteousness, and reap the fruits of well doing: that they might plow up their fresh land and seek the LORD, till he came, and learned them righteousness. ^{10:13}But now they have plowed them wickedness, therefore shall they reap sin, and eat the fruit of lies. Seeing thou putttest thy confidence in thine own ways, and leanest to the multitude of thy worthies: ^{10:14}there shall grow a sedition among thy people. All thy strong cities shall be laid waste, even as Salmana was destroyed with his familiars, thorow him that was avenged of Arbel,ⁿ in the day of battle where the mother perished with her children. ^{10:15}Even so shall it go with you (O Bethel) because of your malicious wickedness. Like as the morning goeth away, so shall the king of Israel pass. ^{11:1}When Israel was young, I loved him: and called my son out of the land of Egypt. ^{11:2}But the more they were called, the more they went back, offering unto Idols, and censing Images. ^{11:3}I learned Ephraim to go, and bare them in mine arms, but they regarded not me, that would have helped them. ^{11:4}I led them with cords of friendship, and with bands of love. I was even he, that laid the yoke upon their necks. I gave them their fodder myself, ^{11:5}that they should not go again into Egypt. And now is Assur their king: for they would not turn unto me. ^{11:6}Therefore shall the sword begin in their cities, the store that they have laid up,^o shall be destroyed and eaten: ^P and that because of their own imaginations. ^{11:7}My people hath no lust to turn unto me, their prophets lay the yoke upon them, but they ease them not of their burthen. ^{11:8}What great things have I given thee, O Ephraim? how faithfully have I defended thee, O Israel? have I dealt with thee as with Adam? or have I entreated thee like Seboim? No, my heart is otherwise minded. Yea my mercy is to fervent: ^{11:9}therefore have I not turned me to destroy Ephraim in my wrathful displeasure. For I am God, and no man, I am even that holy one in the midst of thee, though I came not within the city. ^{11:10}The LORD roareth like a lion, that they may follow him: yea as a lion roareth he, that they may be afraid like the children of the sea: ^{11:11}that they may be scattered^q away from Egypt, as men scare birds: and frayed away (as doves use to be) from the Assirian's land: and that because I would have them tarry at home, sayeth the LORD. ^{11:12}But Ephraim goeth about me with lies, and the house of Israel dissembleth. Only Juda holdeth him with God, and with the true holy things. ^{12:1}Ephraim keepeth the air, and followeth after the east wind: he is ever increasing lies and destruction. They be confederate with the Assyrians, their oil is carried into Egypt. ^{12:2}The LORD hath a court to hold with Judah, and will punish Jacob: After their own ways and according to their own inventions, shall he recompense them. ^{12:3}He took his brother by the heel, when he was yet in his mother's womb: and in his strength he wrestled with God. ^{12:4}He strove with the angel, and gat the victory: so that he prayed and desired him. He found^r him at Bethel, and there he talked with us. ^{12:5}Yea the LORD God of hosts, even the LORD him self remembered him: ^{12:6}Then turn to thy God, keep mercy and equity, and hope still in thy God. ^{12:7}But the merchant hath a false weight in his hand, he hath a pleasure to occupy extortion. ^{12:8}Ephraim thinketh thus: Tush, I am rich, I have good enough: In all my works shall not one fault be found, that I have offended. ^{12:9}Yet am I the LORD thy God, even as when I brought thee out of the land of Egypt, and set thee in thy tents, and as in the high feast days. ^{12:10}I have spoken thorow the prophets, and shewed divers visions, and declared myself by the ministration of the prophets. ^{12:11}But at Gilead is the abomination, they are fallen to vanity. At Gilgal they have slain oxen: and as many heaps of stones as they had in their land furrows, so many alters have they made. ^{12:12}Jacob fled into the land of Syria, and Israell served for a wife, and for a wife he kept sheep. ^{12:13}By a prophet the LORD brought them out of Egypt, and by a prophet he preserved them. ^{12:14}But Ephraim hath provoked him to displeasure thorow his abominations; therefore shall his blood be poured upon himself, and the Lord^s his God shall reward him his blasphemies. ^{13:1}The abomination of Ephraim is come also into Israel. He is gone back to Baal, therefore must he die. ^{13:2}And now they sin more and more: of their silver, they make them molten Images, like the idols of the Heathen, and yet all is nothing but the work of the craftsmen. Notwithstanding they preach of the same: who so will kiss the calves, offereth to men. ^{13:3}Therefore they shall be as the morning cloud, and as the dew that early passeth away, and like as dust that the wind taketh away from the floor, and as smoke that goeth out of the chimney. ^{13:4}I am the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt: that thou shouldest know no God but me only, and that thou shouldest have no Saviour but only me. ^{13:5}I took diligent heed of thee in the wilderness, that dry land. ^{13:6}But when they were well fed and had enough, they waxed proud, and forgot me. ^{13:7}Therefore will I be unto them as a lion, and as a leopard in the way to the Assirians. ^{13:8}I will come upon them as a she bear, that is robbed of her whelps, and I will break that stubborn heart of theirs. There will I devour them as a lion: yea the wild beast shall tear them. ^{13:9}O Israel, thou doest but destroy thyself; In me only is thy help. ^{13:10}Where are thy kings now, that shouldest help thee in all thy cities? Yea and thy judges, of whom thou sayest: give me a king and princes? ^{13:11}well, I gave thee a king in my wrath, and in my displeasure will I take him from thee again. ^{13:12}The wickedness of Ephraim is bound together, and his sin lieth hid. ^{13:13}Therefore shall sorrows come upon him, as upon a woman that travaileth. An undiscrete son is he: for he considereth not, that he should not have been able to have endured in the time of his birth, ^{13:14}had not I defended him from the grave, and delivered him from death. O death, I will be thy death: O hell, I will be thy sting. ^{13:15}Yet can I see no comforth, for when he is now the goodliest among the brethren, the East wind (even the wind of the LORD) shall come down from the wilderness, and dry up his conduits,^t and drink up his wells: he shall spoil the treasure of all pleasant vessels. ^{13:16}As for Samaria, they shall be made waste, and why? they are disobedient unto their God. They shall perish with the sword, their children shall be slain, and their women great^u with child shall be ripped^v up. ^{14:1}O Israel, turn thee now, unto the LORD thy God, for thou hast taken a great fall thorow thy wickedness.^w ^{14:2}Take these words with you, when ye turn to the LORD,^x and say unto him: O forgive us all our sins, receive us graciously, and then will we offer thee bullocks of our lips unto thee.^y ^{14:3}Assur shall be no more our helper, neither will we ride upon horses any more. As for the works of our hands, we will no more call upon them: for it is thou that art our God, thou shewest ever mercy unto the fatherless.^z ^{14:4}O (if they would do this) I should heal their sores: yea with all my heart would I love them: so that my wrath should clean be turned away from them:^a ^{14:5}Yea I would be unto Israel as the dew, and he should grow as the lily, and his root should break out as Libanus.^b ^{14:6}His branches should spread out abroad, and be as fair as the olive tree, and smell as Libanus.^c ^{14:7}They that dwell under his shadow, should come again, and grow up as the corn, and flourish as the vine: he should have as good a name, as the wine of Libanus.^d ^{14:8}O Ephraim what have I to do with Idols any more? I will graciously hear him, and lead him forth. I will be unto thee as a green fir tree, upon me shalt thou find thy fruit.^e ^{14:9}Who so is wise, shall understand this: and he that is right instruct, will regard it. For the ways of the LORD are righteous, such as be godly will walk in them: As for the wicked, they will stumble therein.^f

The book of the prophet Joel

^{1:1}This is the word of the LORD, that came to Joel the son of Phatuel: ^{1:2}Hear O ye elders: ponder this well, all ye that dwell in the land: if ever there happened such a thing in your days, or in the days of your fathers. ^{1:3}Tell your children of it, and let them shew it to their children, and so they to certify their posterity thereof. ^{1:4}Look what the caterpillar hath left, that hath the grasshopper eaten up: what the grasshopper left, that hath the locust eaten up: and what the locust hath left, that hath the blasting consumed. ^{1:5}Wake up ye drunkards, and weep: mourn all ye wine sippers because of your sweet wine, for it shall be taken away from your mouth. ^{1:6}Yea a mighty and an innumerable people shall come up into my land: these have teeth like the teeth of Lyons, and chafbones like the lioness. ^{1:7}They shall make my vineyard waste, they shall pull off the bark of my fig trees, strip them bare, cast them away, and make the branches white. ^{1:8}Make thy moan as a virgin doth that girdeth herself with sack, because of her bride groom. ^{1:9}For the meat and drink offering shall be taken away from the house of the LORD: and the priests the LORD's ministers shall mourn. ^{1:10}The field shall be wasted, the land shall be in a miserable cause: for the corn shall be destroyed, the sweet wine shall come to confusion, and he oil utterly desolate. ^{1:11}The husband men and the wine gardeners shall look piteously and make lamentation, for the wheat, wine and barley, and because the harvest upon the field is so clean destroyed. ^{1:12}The grape gathers shall make great moan, when the vineyard and fig trees be so utterly wasted. Yea all the pomegranates, palm trees, apple trees, and the other trees of the field shall wither away. Thus the merry cheer of the children of men shall come to confusion. ^{1:13}Gird you, and make your moan, O ye priests: mourn ye ministers of the alter: go your way in, and sleep in sack cloth, O ye officers of my God: for the meat and drink offering shall be taken away from the house of your God. ^{1:14}Proclaim a fasting, call the congregation, gather the elders and all the inhabitants of the land together in to the house of the LORD your God, and cry unto the LORD: ^{1:15}alas, alas for this day. And why? the day of the LORD is at hand, and cometh as a destroyer from the Almighty. ^{1:16}Shall not the meats be taken away before our eyes, the mirth also and joy from the house of our God? ^{1:17}The seed shall perish in the ground, the garners shall lie waste, the floors shall be broken down, for the corn shall be destroyed. ^{1:18}O what a fighting make the cattle? the bullocks are very evil liking, because they have no pasture: and the sheep are famished away. ^{1:19}O LORD, to thee will I cry: for the fire hath consumed the goodly pastures of the wilderness, and the flame hath brent up all the trees of the field. ^{1:20}Yea the wild beasts cry also unto thee, for the water rivers are dried up, and the fire hath consumed the pastures of the wilderness. ^{2:1}Blow out the trumpet in Sion, and cry upon my holy hill, that all such as dwell in the land, may tremble at it: for the day of the LORD cometh, and is hard at hand: ^{2:2}a dark day, a glooming day, a cloudy day, yea and a stormy day, like as the morning spreadeth out upon the hills: Namely, a great and mighty people: such as have not been since the beginning, neither shall be after them for evermore. ^{2:3}Before him shall be a consuming fire, and behind him a burning flame. The land shall be as a garden of pleasure before him, but behind him shall it be a very waste wilderness, and there is no man, that shall escape him. ^{2:4}They are to look upon like bairded horses, and run like horse men. ^{2:5}They skipped up upon the hills, as it were the sound of chariots: as the flame of fire that consumeth the straw, and as a mighty people ready to the battle. ^{2:6}The folk shall be afraid of him, all faces shall be as black as a pot. ^{2:7}These shall run like giants, and leap over the walls like men of war. Every man in his going will keep his array, and not go out of his Path. ^{2:8}There shall not one drive another, but each shall keep his own way. They shall break in at the windows, and not be hurt: ^{2:9}They shall come in to the city, and run upon the walls: They shall climb up upon the houses, and slip in at the windows like a thief. ^{2:10}The earth shall quake before him, yea the heavens shall be moved: The Sun and Moon shall be darkened, and the stars shall withdraw their shine. ^{2:11}The LORD shall shew his voice before his host, for his host is great, strong and mighty to fulfill his commandment. This is that great and marvelous fearful day of the LORD: And who is able to abide it. ^{2:12}Now therefore sayeth the LORD: Turn you unto me with all your hearts, with fasting, weeping and mourning,^{a 2:13} rent your hearts, and not your clothes. Turn you unto the LORD your God, for he is gracious and merciful, long suffering and of great compassion: and ready to pardon wickedness.^{b 2:14} Then (no doubt) he also shall turn, and forgive: and after his chastening, he shall let your increase remain, for meat and drink offerings unto the LORD^c your God:^{d 2:15} Blow out with the trumpet in Sion, proclaim a fasting, call the congregation,^{e 2:16} and gather the people together: warn the congregation, gather the elders, bring the children and sucklings together. Let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her closet.^{f 2:17} Let the priests serve the LORD betwixt the porch and the altar, weeping and saying: be favourable O LORD, be favourable unto thy people: let not thine heritage be brought to such confusion, lest the Heathen be lords thereof. Wherefore should they say among the Heathen: where is now their God?^{g 2:18} Then shall the LORD be jealous over his land, and spare his people:^{h 2:19} yea the LORD shall answer, and say unto his people: Behold, I will send you corn, wine, and oil, so that ye shall have plenty of them: And I will no more give you over to be a reproof among the Heathen.^{i 2:20} Again, as for him of the North, I shall drive him far from you: and shoot him out in to a dry and waste land, his face toward the east sea, and his hinder parts toward the utmost sea. The stink of him shall go up, and his filthy corruption shall fall upon himself, because he hath dealt so proudly.^{2:21} Fear not (O land) but be glad and rejoice, for the LORD will do great things.^{2:22} Be not ye afraid neither (O ye beasts of the field) for the pastures shall be green and the trees shall bear their fruit: the fig trees and vineyards shall give their increase.^{2:23} Be glad then (O ye children of Sion) and rejoice in the LORD your God, for he hath given you a^j teacher of righteousness: and he it is that shall send you down showers of rain, early and late in the first month:^{k 2:24} so that the garners shall be full of corn, and the presses plenteous in wine and oil.^{l 2:25} And as for the years that the grasshopper, locust, blasting, and caterpillar (my great host, which I sent among you) have eaten up, I shall restore them to you again.^{m 2:26} so that ye shall have enough to eat, and be satisfied: and praise the name of the LORD your God, that so marvelously hath dealt with you. And my people shall never be confounded anymore.^{n 2:27} Ye shall well know, that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am your GOD: yea and that there is none other, and my people shall no more be brought to confusion.^{o 2:28} After this, will I pour out my spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy: your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions: ^{2:29}Yea in those days I will pour out my spirit upon servants and maidens. ^{2:30}I will shew wonders in heaven above, and tokens in the earth beneath: blood and fire, and the vapour of smoke. ^{2:31}The sun^P shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood: before the^q great and notable day of the LORD come. ^{2:32}And the time shall come: that whosoever calleth upon the name of the LORD, shall be saved. For upon the mount Sion and at Jerusalem, there shall be a salvation, like as the LORD hath promised: yea and among the other remnant, whom the LORD shall call. ^{3:1}For take heed: in those days and at the same time, when I turn again the captivity of Juda and Jerusalem: ^{3:2}I shall gather all people together, and bring them in ^r the valley of Josaphat: and there will I reason with them: because of my people and heritage of Israel: whom they have scattered about in the nations, and parted my land: ^{3:3}yea they have cast lots for my people, the young men have they set in the bordel house, and sold the damsels for wine, that they might have to drink. ^{3:4}Thou Tirus and Sidon and all the borders of the Philistines: what have ye to do with me? Will ye defy me? well, if ye will needs defy me, I shall recompense you, even upon your head, and that right shortly: ^{3:5}for ye have taken away my silver and gold, my fair and goodly jewels, and brought them into your gods' houses. ^{3:6}The children also of Juda and Jerusalem have ye sold unto the Greeks, that ye might bring them the far from the borders of their own countries. ^{3:7}Behold therefore, I will raise them out of the place, where ye have sold them, and will reward you even upon your head. ^{3:8}Your sons and your daughters will I sell thorow the hands of the children of Juda, and so they shall give them forth to sell, unto them of Saba, a people of a far country:

for the LORD himself hath said it. ^{3:9}Cry out these things among the Gentiles, proclaim war, wake up the giants, let them draw nigh, let them come up all the lusty warriors of them. ^{3:10}Make you swords of your plowshares, and spears of your sickles and scythes. Let the weak man say: I am strong. ^{3:11}Muster you, and come, all ye Heathen round about: gather you together, there shall the LORD lay all thy giants to the ground. ^{3:12}Let the people arise, and get them to the valley of Josaphat: for there will I sit, and judge all Heathen round about. ^{3:13}Lay to your scythes, for the harvest is ripe: come, get you down: the winepress is full, yea the winepresses run over, for their wickedness is waxen great. ^{3:14}In the valley appointed, there shall be many, many people: for the day of the LORD is nigh in the valley appointed. ^{3:15}The sun and moon shall be darkened, and the stars shall withdraw their light. ^{3:16}The LORD shall roar out of Sion, a cry out of Jerusalem, that the heavens and the earth shall quake withal. But the LORD shall be a defense to his own people, and an refuge for the children of Israel. ^{3:17}Thus shall ye know, that I the LORD your God dwell upon my holy mount of Sion. Then shall Jerusalem be holy, and there shall no strangers go thorow her any more. ^s ^{3:18}Then shall the mountains drop sweet wine, and the hills shall flow with milk. All the rivers of Juda shall have water enough, and out of the LORD's house, there shall flow a spring, to water the broke of Sitim: ^t ^{3:19}but Egypt shall be laid waste, and Edom shall be desolate: because they have dealt so cruelly with the children of Juda, and shed innocent blood in their land. ^u ^{3:20}Again, Juda shall be inhabited for evermore, and Jerusalem from generation to generation: ^v ^{3:21}for I will not leave their blood unavenged. And the LORD shall dwell in Sion. ^w ^sAnd ye shall know that I the LORD your God, dwell in Sion my holy mount. And Jerusalem shall be holy, and there shall no stranger pass thorow there any more.

^uEgypt shall go to ruin, and Edom shall be a desert and a wilderness, which oppressed the children of Israel, and which shed innocent blood in their land.

The end of the prophecy of Joel.

The book of the prophet Amos

^{1:1}These are the sermons that were shewed unto Amos (which was one of the shepherds at Thecua) upon Israel, in the time of Osiah king of Judah, and in the time of Jeroboam the son of Joah king of Israel, two year before the earthquake. ^{1:2}And he said: The LORD shall roar out of Sion, and shew his voice from Jerusalem: so that the pastures of the shepherds shall be in a miserable case, and the top of Charmel dried up. ^{1:3}Thus sayeth the LORD: for three and four wickednesses of Damascus, I will not spare her: because they have threshed Gilead with iron stales: ^{1:4}But I will send a fire into the house of Hazael, the same shall consume the palaces of Benadab. ^{1:5}Thus will I break the bars of Damascus, and root out the inhabiter from the field of Aven, and him that holdeth the scepter, out of the pleasant house: so that the people shall be driven out of fair Syria, sayeth the LORD. ^{1:6}Thus sayeth the LORD: For three and four wickednesses of Gaza, I will not spare her: because they make the prisoners yet more captive, and have driven them into the land of Edom. ^{1:7}Therefore will I send a fire in to the walls of Gaza, which shall devour her^a houses. ^{1:8}I will root out them that dwell at Asdod, and him that holdeth the scepter of Ascalon, and stretch out mine hand over Accaron, that the remnant of the Philistines shall perish, sayeth the LORD. ^{1:9}Thus sayeth the LORD: For three and four wickednesses of the city of Tire, I will not spare her: because they have increased the captivity of the Edomites, and have not remembered the brotherly covenant. ^{1:10}Therefore will I send a fire into the walls of Tire, that shall consume her palaces. ^{1:11}Thus sayeth the LORD: For three and four wickednesses of Edom, I will not spare him, because he persecuted his brother with the sword, destroyed his mother's womb, bare hatred very long, and so kept indignation alway by him. ^{1:12}Therefore will I send a fire into Theman, which shall devour the palaces of Bosra. ^{1:13}Thus sayeth the LORD: For three and four wickednesses of the children of Ammon, I will not spare them: because they ripped^b up the women great with child in Gilead, to make the borders of their lands the wider.

^{1:14}Therefore I will kindle a fire in the walls of Rabbath, that shall consume her palaces: with a great cry, in the day of battle, in tempest and in the day of storm: ^{1:15}So that their king shall go into captivity, he and his princes together, sayeth the LORD. ^{2:1}Thus sayeth the LORD: For three and four wickednesses of Moab, I will not spare him: because he brent the bones of the king of Edom to ashes. ^{2:2}Therefore will I send a fire into Moab, which shall consume the palaces of Carioth: so that Moab shall perish with a noise and the sound of a shawme: ^{2:3}I will root out the judge from among them, and slay all his princes with him, sayeth the LORD. ^{2:4}Thus sayeth the LORD: For three and four wickednesses of Judah, I will not spare him: because he hath cast aside the law of the LORD, and not kept his commandments: for why, they would needs be deceived with the lies, that their forefathers followed. ^{2:5}Therefore will I send a fire into Judah, which shall consume the palaces of Jerusalem. ^{2:6}Thus sayeth the LORD: For three and four wickednesses of Israel, I will not spare him: because he hath sold the righteous for money, and the poor for shoes. ^{2:7}They tread upon poor men's heads, in the dust of the earth, and crook the ways of the meek. The son and the father go to the harlot, to dishonour my holy name, ^{2:8}they lie beside every alter upon clothes taken to pledge, and in the house of their gods they drink the wine of the oppressed. ^{2:9}Yet destroyed I the Amorite before them, that was as high as the Cedar trees, and as strong as the oaks: notwithstanding I destroyed his fruit from above and his root from under. ^{2:10}Again: I brought you out of the land of Egypt, and led you forty years thorow the wilderness, that ye might have the Amorites land in possession. ^{2:11}I raised up prophets among your children, and abstainers among your young men. Is it not so, O ye children of Israel? sayeth the LORD. ^{2:12}But ye gave the abstainers wine to drink, yea ye commanded the prophets, saying: Prophesy not. ^{2:13}Behold, I will crash you in sunder, like as a wain crasheth, that is full of sheaves: ^{2:14}so that the swift shall not escape, neither the strong be able to do anything: no, the giant shall not save his own life. ^{2:15}The archer shall not abide, and the swift of foot shall not escape.

The horseman shall not save his life, ^{2:16} and he that is as manly of stomach as a giant, shall in that day be fain to run his way naked, sayeth the LORD. ^{3:1} Hear, what the LORD speaketh unto you (O ye children of Israel) namely, unto all the tribes, whom I brought out of Egypt, and said: ^{3:2} You only have I accepted from all the generations of the earth: therefore will I visit you in all your wickednesses. ^{3:3} May twain walk together except they be agreed among themselves? ^{3:4} Doth a lion roar in the woods, except he have prey? Or crieth a Lion's whelp out of his den, except he have gotten something? ^{3:5} Doth a bird fall in a snare upon the earth where no fouler is? Taketh a man his snare up from the ground, afore he catch somewhat? ^{3:6} Cry they out Alarum with the trumpet in the city, and the people not afraid? Cometh there any plague in a city without it be the LORD's doing? ^{3:7} Now doth the Lord GOD^c no manner of thing, but he telleth his secret before unto his servants the prophets. ^{3:8} When a lion roareth, who will not be afraid? Seeing then that the Lord GOD^d himself speaketh, who will not prophesy? ^{3:9} Preach in the palaces at Asded, and in the palaces of the land of Egypt, and say: Gather you together upon the mountains of Samaria, so shall ye see great murder and violent oppression among them, for why, they regard not the thing that is right, ^{3:10} sayeth the LORD: they gather together evil gotten goods, and lay up robbery in their houses. ^{3:11} Therefore thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^e This land shall be troubled and besieged round about, thy strength shall be plucked^f from thee, and thy palaces robbed. ^{3:12} Thus sayeth the LORD: like as an herdman taketh two legs or a piece of an ear out of the lion's mouth: Even so shall the children of Israel (that dwell in Samaria having their couches in the corner, and the beds at Damascus) shall be plucked^g away. ^{3:13} Hear, and bear record in the house of Jacob (sayeth the Lord GOD^h of hosts) ^{3:14} That when I begin to visit the wickedness of Israel, I will visit the alters at Bethel also: so that the horns of the alter shall be broken off, and fall to the ground. ^{3:15} As for the winter house and summer house, I will smite them down: and the houses of Ivory, yea and many other houses shall perish, and be destroyed, sayeth the LORD. ^{4:1} O hear this word, ye fat kine, that be upon the hill of Samaria, yea that do poor men wrong, and oppress the needy, yea that say to your lords: bring hither, let us drink. ^{4:2} Therefore the LORD hath sworn by his holiness: The days shall come upon you, that ye shall be lift up upon spears, and your posterity carried away in fisher's paniers. ^{4:3} Ye shall get you out at the gaps one after another, and in Armon shall ye be cast away, sayeth the LORD. ^{4:4} Ye came to Bethel for to work ungraciousness, and have increased your sins at Gilgal: ye brought your sacrifices in the morning, and your tithes unto the third day. ^{4:5} Ye made a thank offering of leaven, ye promised free will offerings, and proclaimed them. Such lust had ye, O ye children of Israel, sayeth the Lord GOD.ⁱ ^{4:6} Therefore have I given you idle teeth in all your cities, and scarceness of bread in all your places: yet will ye not turn unto me, sayeth the LORD. ^{4:7} When there were but three months unto the harvest, I withheld the rain from you: yea I rained upon one city, and not upon another, one piece of ground was moistured with rain, and the ground that I rained not upon, was dry. ^{4:8} Wherefore two, yea three cities came unto one, to drink water: but they were not satisfied, yet will ye not turn unto me, sayeth the LORD. ^{4:9} I have smitten you with drought and blasting: and look how many orchards, vineyards, fig trees, and olive trees ye had: the caterpillar hath eaten them up. But yet will ye not turn unto me, sayeth the LORD. ^{4:10} Pestilence have I sent among you, as I did in Egypt: your young men have I slain with the sword, and caused your horses be taken captive: I made the stinking savour of your tents to come up into your nostrils: yet will ye not turn unto me, sayeth the LORD. ^{4:11} Some of you have I overthrown as I overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah: so that ye were as a brand plucked^j out of the fire; yet will ye not turn unto me, sayeth the LORD. ^{4:12}Therefore thus will I handle thee again, O Israel, yea even thus will I handle thee. Make thee ready then to meet thy God, O Israel. ^{4:13}For lo, he maketh the mountains, he ordaineth^k the wind, he sheweth man what he is about to do: he maketh the morning and the darkness, he treadeth upon the high places of the earth: the LORD God of hosts is his name. ^{5:1}Hear this word, O ye house of Israel, and why? I must make this moan for you: ^{5:2}The virgin Israel shall fall, and never rise up again: she shall be cast down upon her own ground, and no man shall help her up. ^{5:3}For thus sayeth the Lord GOD:^l Where as there dwelt a thousand in one city, there shall be left scarce an hundredth therein: and where yer dwelt an hundredth, there shall scarce ten be left for the house of Israel. ^{5:4}Nevertheless, thus sayeth the LORD unto the house of Israel: Seek after me, and ye shall live, ^{5:5}but seek not after Bethel; come not at Gilgal, and go not to Bersaba: for Gilgal shall be carried away captive, and Bethel shall come to naught. ^{5:6}Seek the LORD, that ye may live: lest the house of Joseph be brent with fire and consumed, and lest there be none to quench Bethel. ^{5:7}Ye turn the law to wormwood, and cast down righteousness into the ground. ^{5:8}The LORD maketh the seven stars and the Orions, he turneth the night into day, and of the day he maketh darkness. He calleth the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the plain ground: the LORD is his name. ^{5:9}He raiseth destruction upon the mighty people, and bringeth down the strong hold: ^{5:10}but they owe him evil will, that reproveth them openly: and who so telleth them the plain truth, they abhor him. ^{5:11}For so much then as ye oppress the poor, and rob him of his best sustenance: therefore, where as ye have builded houses of square stone, ye shall not dwell in them. Marvelous pleasant vineyards shall ye plant, but the wine of them shall ye not drink: and why? ^{5:12}as for the multitude of your wickednesses and your stout sins, I know them right well. Enemies are ye of the righteous, ye take rewards, ye oppress the poor in judgement. ^{5:13}Therefore the wise must now be fain to hold his tongue, so wicked a time is it. ^{5:14}Seek after the thing that is good, and not evil, so shall ye live: yea the LORD God of hosts shall be with you, according to your own desire. ^{5:15}Hate the evil, and love the good: set up right again in the port: and (no doubt) the LORD God of hosts shall be merciful unto the remnant of Joseph. ^{5:16}If no (sayeth the LORD God, the God of hosts) there shall be mourning in all streets, yea they shall say in every street: alas, alas. They shall call the husband man to lamentation, and such as can mourn, to mourning. ^{5:17}In all vineyards there shall be heaviness, for I will come among you, sayeth the LORD. ^{5:18}Woe be unto them that desire the day of the LORD: Wherefore would ye have it? As for that day of the LORD, it shall be dark and not clear: ^{5:19}Yea like as when a man runneth from a lion, and a bear meeteth^m with him: or when he cometh into the house, and leaneth his hand upon the wall, a serpent biteth him. ^{5:20}Shall not the day of the LORD be dark, and not clear? shall it not be cloudy, and no shine in it? ^{5:21}I hate and abhor your holy days, and where as ye cense me when ye come together I will not accept it. ^{5:22}And though ye offer me brentofferings and meatofferings, yet have I no pleasure therein. As for your fat thankofferings, I will not look upon them. ^{5:23}Away with that noise of thy songs, I will not hear thy plays of music: ^{5:24}but see that equity flow as the water, and righteousness as a mighty stream. ^{5:25}O ye house of Israel, gave ye me offerings and sacrifices those forty years long in the wilderness? ^{5:26}Yet have ye set up tabernacles to your Moloch, and images of your Idols, yea and the star of your God Rempha, figures which ye made to worship them. ^{5:27}Therefore will I cause you be carried away beyond Damascus, sayeth the LORD, whose name is the God of Hosts. ^{6:1}O WOE be to the proud wealthy in Sion, to such as think them so sure upon the mount of Samaria: which hold them selves for the best of the world, and rule the house of Israel, even as they

list. ^{6:2}Go unto Calne, and see: and from thence get you to Hemath the great city, and so go down to Gath of the Philistines: be they better at ease than these kingdoms, or the border of their land wider than yours? ^{6:3}Ye are taken out for the evil day, even ye that sit in the stole of willfulness: ^{6:4}Ye that lie upon beds of ivory, and use your wantonness upon your couches: ye that eat the best lambs of the flock, and the fattest calves of the droave: ^{6:5}ye that sing to the lute, and in playing of instruments compare your selves unto David: ^{6:6}ye that drink wine out of goblets, and anoint your selves with the best oil, but no man is sorry for Joseph's hurt. ^{6:7}Therefore now shall ye be the first of them, that shall be led away captive, and the lusty cheer of the willful shall come to an end. ^{6:8}The Lord GODⁿ hath sworn even by himself (sayeth the LORD God of hosts), I hate the pride of Jacob, and I abhor his palaces: and I will give over the city, with all that is therein: ^{6:9}so that though there remain ten men in one house, they shall die. ^{6:10}So their next kinfolks and the dead buryers shall take them, and carry away their bones, and say unto him, that is in the innermer house: is there yet any more by thee? And he shall answer: they are all gone, hold thy tongue (shall he say) for they would not remember the name of the LORD. ^{6:11}Behold, the LORD is minded to smite the great houses, so that they shall decay: and the little houses, that they shall cleave a sunder. ^{6:12}Who can run with horses, or plow with oxen upon the hard rocks of stone? For why, ye have turned true judgement into bitterness, and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood: ^{6:13}Yea even ye, that rejoice in vain things: ye that say: have not we obtained horns in our own strength? ^{6:14}Well, take heed, O ye house of Israel, sayeth the LORD God of hosts: I will bring a people upon you, which shall trouble you, from the way that goeth toward Hemath, unto the brook in the meadow. ^{7:1}The Lord GOD^o shewed me such a vision: behold, there stood one that made grasshoppers, even when the corn was shooting forth, after the king had clipt his sheep. ^{7:2}Now when they undertook to eat up all the green things in the land, I said: O Lord GOD,^p be merciful, I beseech thee: who should else help up Jacob that is brought so low? ^{7:3}So the LORD was gracious therein, and the LORD said: Well, it shall not be. ^{7:4}Again, the LORD shewed me this vision: behold, the Lord GOD^q called the fire to punish withal, and it devoured the great deep: yea it consumed a part already. ^{7:5}Then said I: O Lord GOD,^r hold thine hand: who should else help up Jacob that is brought so low? ^{7:6}So the LORD was merciful therein, and the Lord GOD^s said: well, it shall not be. ^{7:7}Moreover, he shewed me this vision: behold, the Lord^t stood upon a plastered wall, and a mason's trowel in his hand. ^{7:8}And the LORD said unto me: Amos, what seest thou? I answered: a mason's trowel. Then said the Lord: behold, I will lay the trowel among my people of Israel, and will no more oversee them: ^{7:9}but the high hill chapels of Isaac must be laid waste, and the churches of Israel made desolate: and as for the house of Jeroboam, I will stand up against it with the sword. ^{7:10}Upon this sent Amasiah the priest to Bethel unto Jeroboam the king of Israel saying: Amos maketh the house of Israel to rebel against thee, the land can not away with his words. ^{7:11}For Amos sayeth, Jeroboam shall die with the sword, and Israel shall be led away, captive out of their own land. ^{7:12}And Amasiah said unto Amos: Get thee hence (thou that canst^u see so well) and flee into the land of Juda: get thee there thy living, and prophesy there: ^{7:13}and prophesy no more at Bethel, for it is the king's chapel, and the king's court. ^{7:14}Amos answered, and said to Amasiah: As for me I am neither prophet, nor prophet's son: but a keeper of cattle. Now as I was breaking down mulberries, and going after the cattle, ^{7:15}the LORD took me, and said unto me: Go thy way, and prophesy unto my people of Israel. ^{7:16}And therefore, bear thou now the word of the LORD: Thou sayest:

prophesy not against Israel, and speak nothing against the house of Isaac. ^{7:17}Wherefore thus sayeth the LORD: Thy wife shall be defiled in the city, thy sons and daughters shall be slain with the sword, and thy land shall be measured out with the line. Thou thy self shall die in an unclean land, and Israel shall be driven out of his own country. ^{8:1}The Lord GOD^v shewed me this vision: and behold, there was a maunder with summer fruit. ^{8:2}And he said: Amos, what seest thou? I answered: a maunder with summer fruit. Then said the LORD unto me: the end cometh upon my people of Israel, I will no more oversee them. ^{8:3}In that day shall the songs of the temple be turned in to sorrow, sayeth the Lord GOD.^w Many dead bodies shall lie in every place, and be cast forth secretly. ^{8:4}Hear this, O ye that oppress the poor, and destroy the needy in the lands, saying: ^{8:5}When will the new month be gone, that we may sell vitaille, and the Sabbath, that we may have scarceness of corn: to make the bushel less, and the Sicle greater? ^{8:6}We shall set up false weights, that we may get the poor under us with their money, and the needy also for shoes: yea let us sell the chaff for corn. ^{8:7}The LORD hath sworn against the pride of Jacob: these works of theirs will I never forget. ^{8:8}Shall not the land tremble, and all they that dwell therein, mourn for this? Shall not their destruction come upon them like a water stream, and flow over them, as the flood of Egypt? ^{8:9}At the same time (sayeth the Lord GOD)^x I shall cause the sun^y to go down at noon, and the land to be dark in the clear day. ^{8:10}Your high feasts will I turn to sorrow, and your songs to mourning: I will bring sack cloth upon all backs, and baldness on every head: yea such a mourning will I send them, as is made upon an only begotten son, and they shall have a miserable end. ^{8:11}Behold the time cometh (sayeth the Lord GOD) that I shall send an hunger into the earth: not the hunger of bread, nor the thirst of water: but an hunger to hear the word of the LORD: ^{8:12}so that they shall go from the one sea to the other, yea from the north unto the east, running about to seek the word of the LORD, and shall not find it. ^{8:13}In that time, shall the fair virgins and the young men perish for thirst, ^{8:14}yea even they that swear in the offense of Samaria, and say: as truly as thy God liveth at Dan, and as truly as thy^z God liveth at Bersaba. These shall fall, and never rise up again. ^{9:1}I saw the Lord^a standing upon the alter, and he said: smite the door check, that the posts may shake withal. For their covetousness shall fall upon all their heads, and their posterity shall be slain with the sword. They shall not flee away, there shall not one of them escape, nor be delivered. ^{9:2}Though they were buried in the hell, my hand shall fetch them from thence: though they climb up to heaven, yet shall I cast them down: ^{9:3}though they hide themselves upon the top of Carmel, yet shall I seek them out, and bring them from thence: Though they creep down from my sight in to the deep of the sea, I shall command the serpent, even there to bite them. ^{9:4}If they go away before their enemies in to captivity, then shall I command the sword, there to slay them. Thus will I set mine eyes upon them, for their harm and not for their wealth. ^{9:5}For when the Lord GOD^b of hosts toucheth a land, it consumeth away, and all they that dwell therein, must needs mourn: And why? their destruction shall arise as every stream and run over them, as the flood in Egypt. ^{9:6}He that hath his dwelling in Heaven, and groundeth his tabernacle in the earth: He that calleth the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the plain ground: his name is the LORD. ^{9:7}O ye children of Israel, are ye not unto me, even as the Morians, sayeth the LORD: have not I brought Israel out of the land of Egypt, the Philistines from Caphtor, and the Syrians from Kir? ^{9:8}Behold, the eyes of the LORD are upon the realm that sinneth, to root it clean out of the earth: Nevertheless I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob, sayeth the LORD. ^{9:9}For lo, this I promise: though I sift the house of Israel among all nations (like as they use to sift in a sieve) yet shall not the smallest gravel stone fall upon the earth: ^{9:10}But all the wicked doers of my people, that say: Tush, the plague is not so nigh, to come so hastily upon us: those shall perish with the sword. ^{9:11}At that time will I build again the tabernacle of David, that is fallen down, and hedge up his gaps: and look what is broken, I shall repair it: Yea I shall build it again, as it was a fore time, ^{9:12}that they may possess the remnant of Edom, yea and all such people as call upon my name with them, sayeth the LORD, which doth these things. ^{9:13}Behold, the time cometh (sayeth the LORD) that the plowman shall overtake the mower, and the treader of grapes, him that soweth seed. The mountains shall drop sweet wine, and the hills shall be fruitful,^c ^{9:14}and I will turn the captivity of my people of Israel: they shall repair the waste cities, and have them in possession: they shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine thereof: they shall make gardens, and enjoy the fruits of them.^d ^{9:15}And I will plant them upon their own ground, so that I will never root them out again from their land which I have given them sayeth the LORD thy God.^e

^cBehold the days will come saith the LORD, that the earer shall overtake the reaper, and treader of grapes the sower of seed. And the mountains shall drop sweetness, and the hills shall be earable.

^dAnd I will turn the captivity of my people Israel: and they shall build the cities that are fallen in decay, and shall inhabit them, and shall plant vines and drink wine, and shall make gardens and eat the fruit of them.

^eAnd I will plant them their own land, and they shall not be any more plucked out of their land which I have given them saith the LORD thy God.

The book of the prophet Abdy ¹This is the vision that was shewed unto Abdy: Thus hath the Lord GOD^a spoken upon Edom: We have heard of the LORD that there is an embassy sent among the Heathen: Up, let us arise, and fight against them. ²Behold, I will make thee small among the Heathen, so that thou shalt be utterly despised. ³The pride of thine heart hath lift thee up, thou that dwellest in the strong holds of stone, and hast made thee an high seat: Thou sayest in thine heart: who shall cast me down to the ground? ⁴But though thou wentest up as high as the Aegle, and madest thy nest above among the stars: yet would I pluck thee down from thence. ⁵If the thieves and robbers came to thee by night, thou taking thy rest: should they not steal, till they had enough? If the grape gatherers came upon thee, would they not leave thee some grapes? ⁶But how shall they rip Esau, and seek out his treasures? ⁷Yea the men that were sworn unto thee, shall drive thee out of the borders of thine own land. They that be now at one with thee, shall deceive thee, and overcome thee: Even they that eat thy bread, shall betray thee, or ever thou perceive it. ⁸Shall not I at the same time destroy the wise men of Edom, and those that have understanding, from the mount of Esau? ⁹Thy giants (O Theman) shall be afraid, for thorow the slaughter they shall be all overthrown upon the mount of Esau. ¹⁰Shame shall come upon thee, for the malice that thou shewedest to thy brother Jacob: yea for evermore shalt thou perish, ¹¹and that because of the time, when thou didst set thy self against him, even when the enemies carried away his host, and when the aliens^b came in at his ports, and cast lots upon Jerusalem, and thou thyself wast as one of them. ¹²Thou shalt no more see the day of thy brother, thou shalt no more behold the time of his captivity: thou shalt no more rejoice over the children of Juda, in the day of their destruction, thou shalt triumph no more in the time of their trouble. ¹³Thou shalt no more come in at the gates of my people, in the time of their decay: thou shalt not see their misery in the day of their fall. Thou shalt send out no man against their host, in the day of their adversity: ¹⁴neither shalt thou stand^c waiting anymore at the corners of the streets, to murder such as are fled, or to take them prisoners, that remain in the day of their trouble. ¹⁵For the day of the LORD is hard by upon all Heathen. Like as thou hast done, so shalt thou be dealt withal, yea thou shalt be rewarded even upon thine head. ¹⁶For like wise as ye have drunken upon mine holy hill, so shall all Heathen drink continually: yea drink shall they, and swallow up, so that ye shall be, as though ye had never been. ¹⁷But upon the mount Sion, there shall a remnant escape: these shall be holy, and the house of Jacob shall possess even those, that had them selves afore in possession. ¹⁸Moreover, the house of Jacob shall be a fire, the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau the straw: which they shall kindle and consume, so that nothing shall be left of the house of Esau, for the LORD himself hath said it. ¹⁹They of the South shall have the mount of Esau in possession: and look what lieth upon the ground, that shall the Philistines have: the plain fields shall Ephraim and Samaria possess: and the mountains of Gilead shall Benjamin have. ²⁰And this host shall be the children of Israel's prisoners: Now what so lieth from Canaan unto Zareptah, and in Sepharad, that shall be under the subjection of Jerusalem: and the cities of the south shall inherit it. ²¹Thus they that escape upon the hill of Sion, shall go up to punish the mount of Esau, and the kingdom shall be the LORD's.

^{1:1}The word of the LORD came unto the prophet Jonas the son of Amithai saying: ^{1:2}rise and get thee to Nineve that great city and preach unto them, how that their wickedness is come up before me. ^{1:3}And Jonas made him ready to flee to Tharsis from the presence of the LORD, and gat him down to Joppe, and found there a ship ready to go to Tharsis, and paid his fare, and went aboard, to go with them to Tharsis from the presence of the LORD. ^{1:4}But the LORD hurled a great wind in to the sea, so that there was a mighty tempest in the sea: in so much that the ship was like to go in pieces. ^{1:5}And the mariners were afraid and cried every man unto his god, and cast out the goods that were in the ship in to the sea, to lighten it of them. But Jonas gat him under the hatches and laid him down and slumbered. ^{1:6}And the master of the ship came to him and said unto him, why slumberest thou? up! and call unto thy God, that God may think on us, that we perish not. ^{1:7}And they said one to a nother, come and let us cast lots, to know for whose cause we are thus troubled. And they cast lots. And the lot fell upon Jonas. ^{1:8}Then they said unto him, tell us for whose cause we are thus troubled: what is thine occupation, whence comest thou, how is thy country called, and of what nation art thou? ^{1:9}And he answered them, I am an Hebrew: and the LORD God of heaven which made both sea and dry land, I fear. ^{1:10}Then were the men exceedingly afraid and said unto him, why didst thou so? For they knew that he was fled from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them. ^{1:11}Then said they unto him, what shall we do unto thee, that the sea may cease from troubling us? For the sea wrought and was troublous. ^{1:12}And he answered them, take me and cast me in to the sea, and so shall it let you be in rest: for I wot, it is for my sake, that this great tempest is come upon you. ^{1:13}Nevertheless the men assayed with rowing to bring the ship to land: but it would not be, because the sea so wrought and was so troublous against them. ^{1:14}Wherefore they cried unto the LORD and said: O LORD let us not perish for this man's death, neither^a lay innocent blood unto our charge: for thou LORD even as thy pleasure was, so thou hast done.

^{1:15}And then they took Jonas, and cast him into the sea, and the sea left raging. ^{1:16}And the men feared the LORD exceedingly: and sacrificed sacrifice unto the LORD: and vowed vows. ^{1:17}But the LORD prepared a great fish, to swallow up Jonas. And so was Jonas in the bowels of the fish three days and three nights. ^{2:1}And Jonas prayed unto the LORD his God out of the bowels of the fish. ^{2:2}And he said: in my tribulation I called unto the LORD, and he answered me: out of the belly of hell I cried, and thou heardest my voice. ^{2:3}For thou hadst cast me down deep in the midst^b of the sea: and the flood compassed me about: and all thy waves and rolls of water went over me: ^{2:4}and I thought that I had been cast away out of thy sight. But I will yet again look toward thy holy temple. ^{2:5}The water compassed me even unto the very soul of me: the deep lay about me: and the weeds were wrapped about mine head. ^{2:6}And I went down unto the bottom of the hills, and was barred in with earth on every side for ever. And yet thou LORD my God broughtest up my life again out of corruption. ^{2:7}When my soul fainted in me, I thought on the LORD: and my prayer came in unto thee, even into thy holy temple. ^{2:8}They that observe vain vanities, have forsaken him that was merciful unto them. ^{2:9}But I will sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving, and will pay that that I have vowed, that saving cometh of the LORD. ^{2:10}And the LORD spake unto the fish: and it cast out Jonas again upon the dry land. ^{3:1}Then came the word of the LORD unto Jonas again saying: ^{3:2}up, and get thee to Nineve that great city, and preach unto them the preaching which I bade thee. ^{3:3}And he arose and went to Nineve at the LORD's commandment. Nineve was a great city unto God, containing three days journey. ^{3:4}And Jonas went to and entered in to the city even a days journey, and cried saying: There shall not pass forty days but Nineve shall be overthrown. ^{3:5}And the people of Nineve believed God, and proclaimed fasting, and arrayed themselves in sackcloth, as well the great as the small of them. ^{3:6}And the tidings came unto the king of Nineve, which arose out of his seat, and did his apparel off and put on sackcloth, and sat

him down in ashes. ^{3:7}And it was cried and commanded in Nineve by the authority of the king and of his lords, saying: see that neither^c man or beast, ox or sheep taste ought at all, and that they neither^d feed or drink water. ^{3:8}And they put on sackcloth both man and beast, and cried unto God mightily, and turned every man from his wicked way, and from doing wrong in which they were accustomed, saying: ^{3:9}who can tell whether God will turn and repent, and cease from his fierce wrath, that we perish not? ^{3:10}And when God saw their works, how they turned from their wicked ways, he repented on the evil which he said he would do unto them, and did it not. ^{4:1}Wherefore Jonas was sore discontent and angry. ^{4:2}And he prayed unto the LORD and said: O LORD, was not this my saying when I was yet in my country? And therefore I hastened rather to flee to Tharsis: for I knew well enough that thou wast a merciful God, full of compassion, long yer thou be angry and of great mercy and repentest when thou art come to take punishment. ^{4:3}Now therefore take my life from me, for I had lever die than live. ^{4:4}And the LORD said unto Jonas, art thou so angry? ^{4:5}And Jonas gat him out of the city and sat him down on the east side thereof, and made him there a booth and sat thereunder in the shadow, till he might see what should chance unto the city. ^{4:6}And the LORD prepared as it were a wild vine which sprang up over Jonas, that he might have shadow over his head, to deliver him out of his pain. And Jonas was exceeding glad of the wild vine. ^{4:7}And the Lord ordained a worm against the spring of the morrow morning which smote the wild vine that it withered away. ^{4:8}And as soon as the sun was up, God prepared a fervent east wind: so that the sun beat over the head of Jonas, that he fainted again and wished unto his soul that he might die, and said, it is better for me to die than to live. ^{4:9}And God said unto Jonas, art thou so angry for thy wild vine? And he said, I am angry a good, even on to the death. ^{4:10}And the LORD said, thou hast compassion on a wild vine, whereon thou bestowedest no labour nor^e madest it grow, which sprang up in one night and perished in a nother: ^{4:11}and should not I have compassion on Nineve that great city, wherein there is a multitude of people, even above an hundred thousand that know not their right hand from the left, besides much cattle?

The book of the prophet Micheal

^{1:1}This is the word of the LORD, that came to Micheas the Morastite, in the days of Jothan, Ahaz, and Jehezekiah, kings of Judah: which was shewed him upon Samaria and Jerusalem. ^{1:2}Hear all ye people, mark this well O earth, and all that therein is: Yea the Lord GOD^a himself be witness among you, even the Lord from his holy temple. ^{1:3}For why? behold, the LORD shall go out of his place, and come down, and tread upon the high things of the earth. ^{1:4}The mountains shall consume under him, and the valleys shall cleave asunder: like as wax consumeth at the fire, and as the waters run downward. ^{1:5}And all this shall be for the wickedness of Jacob, and the sins of the house of Israel. But what is the wickedness of Jacob? Is not Samaria? Which are the high places of Judah? Is not Jerusalem? ^{1:6}Therefore I shall make Samaria an heap of stones in the field, to lay about the vineyard: her stones shall I cast into the valley, and discover her foundations. ^{1:7}All her Images shall be broken down and all her winnings shall be brent in the fire: yea all her Idols will I destroy: for why, they are gathered out of the hire of an whore, and in to an whores hire shall they be turned again. ^{1:8}Wherefore I will mourn and make lamentation, bare and naked will I go: I must mourn like the dragons, and take sorrow as the ostriches: ^{1:9}For their wound is past remedy: And why? it is come in to Judah, and hath touched the port of my people at Jerusalem already. ^{1:10}Weep not, lest they at Geth perceive it. Thou at Betaphra, welter thyself in the dust and ashes. ^{1:11}Thou that dwellest at Sephir, get thee hence with shame. The proud shall boost no more for very sorrow: and why? her neighbour shall take from her what she hath. ^{1:12}The rebellious city hopeth, that it shall not be so evil: but for all that, the plague shall come from the LORD, even in to the port of Jerusalem. ^{1:13}The great noise of the chariots shall fear them, that dwell at Lachis, which is an occasion of the sin of the daughter of Sion, for in thee came up the wickedness of Israel. ^{1:14}Yea she sent her coursers into the land of Geth. The houses of lies will deceive the kings of Israel. ^{1:15}And as for thee (O thou that dwellest at Morassa) I shall bring a possession upon thee, and the plague of Israel shall reach unto Odolla. ^{1:16}Make thee bald, and shave thee, because of thy tender children: Make thee clean bald as an Aegle, for they shall be carried away captive from thee. ^{2:1}Woe unto them, that imagine to do harm, and devise ungraciousness upon their beds, to perform it in the clear day: for their power is against God. ^{2:2}When they covet to have land, they take it by violence, they rob men of their houses. Thus they oppress a man for his house, and every man for his heritage. ^{2:3}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD: Behold against this household have I devised a plague, whereout ye shall not pluck your necks: Ye shall no more go so proudly, for it will be a perilous time. ^{2:4}In that day shall this term be used, and a mourning shall be made over you on this manner: We be utterly desolate, the portion of my people is translated. When will he part unto us the land, that he hath taken from us? ^{2:5}Nevertheless there shall be no man to divide thee thy portion in the congregation of the LORD. ^{2:6}Tush, hold your tongue (say they) It shall not fall on this people, we shall not come so to confusion, ^{2:7}sayeth the house of Jacob. Is the spirit of the LORD so clean away? or is he so minded? Truth it is, my words are friendly unto them that live right: ^{2:8}but my people doth the contrary, therefore must I take part against them: for they take away both coat and cloak from the simple. Yea have turned yourselves to fight, ^{2:9}the women of my people have ye shot out from their good houses, and taken away my excellent gifts from their children. ^{2:10}Up, get you hence, for here shall ye have no rest. Because of their Idolatry they are corrupt, and shall miserably perish. ^{2:11}If I were a fleshly fellow, and a preacher of lies, and told them that they might sit bibbing and bolling, and be drunken: O that were a Prophet for this people. ^{2:12}But I will gather thee indeed, O Jacob, and drive the remnant of Israel all together. I shall carry them one with another, as a flock in the fold, and as the cattle in their stalls, that they may be disquieted of other men. ^{2:13}Who so breaketh the gap, he shall go before. They shall break up the port, and go in and out at it. Their king shall go before them, and the LORD shall be upon the head of them. ^{3:1}Hear, O ye heads of the house of Jacob, and yea leaders of the house of

Israel: Should not ye know, what were lawful and right? ^{3:2}But ye hate the good, and love the evil: ye pluck off men's skins, and the flesh from their bones: ^{3:3}ye eat the flesh of my people, and flay of their skin: ye break their bones, ye chop them in pieces as it were in to a cauldron, and as flesh into a pot. ^{3:4}Now the time shall come, that when they call unto the LORD, he shall not hear them, but hide his face from them, because that thorow their own Imaginations they have dealt so wickedly. ^{3:5}And as concerning the prophets that deceive my people, thus the LORD sayeth against them: When they have any thing to bite upon, then they preach that all shall be well: but if a man put not some thing in to their mouths, they preach of war against him. ^{3:6}Therefore your vision shall be turned to night, and your prophesying to darkness. The Sun^b shall go down over those prophets, and the day shall be dark unto them. ^{3:7}Then shall the vision seers be ashamed, and the soothsayers^c confounded: yea they shall be fain,^d all the pack of them, to stop^e their mouths, for they have not God's word. ^{3:8}As for me, I am full of strength, and of the spirit of the LORD, full of judgment and boldness: to shew the house of Jacob their wickedness, and the house of Israel their sin. ^{3:9}O hear this ye rulers of the house of Jacob, and ye judges of the house of Israel: ye that abhor the thing that is lawful, and wrest^f aside the thing that is straight: ^{3:10}Ye that build up Sion with blood, and Jerusalem with doing wrong. ^{3:11}O ye judges, ye give sentence for gifts: O ye priests, ye teach for lucre: O ye prophets, ye prophesy for money. Yet will they be taken as those that hold upon God, and say: Is not the LORD among us? Tush, there can no misfortune happen us. ^{3:12}Therefore shall Sion (for your sakes) be plowed like a field: Jerusalem shall become an heap of stones, and the hill of the temple shall be turned to an high wood.^g ^{4:1}But in the latter days it will come to pass, that the hill of the LORD's house shall be set up higher than any mountains or hills: Yea the people shall prease unto it, ^{4:2}and the multitude of the Gentiles shall haste them thither, saying: Come, let us go up to the hill of the LORD, and to the house of the God of Jacob: that he may teach us his way, and that we may walk in his paths. For the law shall come out of Sion, and the word of God from Jerusalem; ^{4:3}And shall give sentence among the multitude of the Heathen and reform the people of far countries: so that of their swords they shall make plowshares, and scythes of their spears. One people shall not lift up a sword against another, yea they shall no more learn to fight: ^{4:4}but every man shall sit under his vineyard and under his fig tree, and no man to fray him away: for the mouth of the LORD of Hosts hath spoken it. ^{4:5}Therefore, where as all people have walked every man in the name of his own god, we will walk in the name of our GOD for ever and ever. ^{4:6}At the same time, sayeth the LORD, will I gather up the lame and the outcasts, and such as I have chastened: ^{4:7}and will give issue unto the lame, and make of the outcasts a great people: and the LORD himself shall be their king upon the mount Sion, from this time forth for evermore. ^{4:8}And unto thee (O thou tower of Eder, thou stronghold of the daughter Sion) unto thee shall it come: even the first lordship and kingdom of the daughter Jerusalem. ^{4:9}Why then art thou now so heavy? is there no king in thee? are thy counselors away that thou art so pained, as a woman in her travail? ^{4:10}And now (O thou daughter Sion) be sorry, let it grieve thee as a wife labouring with child: for now must thou get thee out of the city, and dwell upon the plain field: Yea unto Babylon shalt thou go, there shalt thou be delivered, and there the LORD shall lowse thee from the hand of thine enemies. ^{4:11}Now also are there many people gathered together against thee, saying what, Sion is cursed, we shall see our lust upon her. ^{4:12}But they know not the thoughts of the LORD, they understand not his counsel, that shall gather them together as the sheaves in the barn. ^{4:13}Therefore get thee up, O thou daughter Sion, and thresh^h out the corn: For I will make thy horn iron; and thy claws brass, that thou mayest grind many people: their goods shalt thou appropriate unto the LORD, and their substance unto the ruler of the whole world. ^{5:1}After that shalt thou be robbed thyself, O thou robber's daughter: they shall lay siege against us, and smite the judge of Israel with a rod upon the cheek. ^{5:2}And thou Bethleem Ephrata, art little among the thousands of Juda, Out of thee shall come one unto me, which shall be the governour in Israel: whose outgoing hath been from the beginning, and from everlasting. ^{5:3}In the mean while he plagueth them for a season, until the time that she (which shall bear) have born: then shall the remnant of his brethren be converted unto the children of Israell. ^{5:4}He shall stand fast, and give food in the strength of the LORD, and in the victory of the name of the LORD his God: and when they be converted, he shall be magnified unto the farthest parts of the world. ^{5:5}Then shall there be peace, so that the Assirian may come in to our land, and tread in our houses. We shall bring up seven shepherds and eight princes upon them: ^{5:6}these shall subdue the land of Assur with the sword, and the land of Nimrod with their naked weapons. Thus shall he deliver us from the Assirian, when he cometh within our land, and setteth his foot within our borders. ^{5:7}And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the multitude of people, as the dew of the LORD, and as the drops upon the grass, that tarrieth for no man, and waiteth of no body. ^{5:8}Yea the residue of Jacob shall be among the gentiles and the multitude of people, as the lion among the beasts of the wood, and as the Lion's whelps among a flock of sheep: which (when he goeth thorow) treadeth down, teareth in pieces, and there is no man that can help. ^{5:9}Thine hand shall be lift up upon thine enemies, and all thine adversaries shall perish. ^{5:10}The time shall come also, sayeth the LORD, that I will take thine horses from thee, and destroy thy chariots. ^{5:11}I will break down the cities of thy land, and overthrow all thy strongholds. ^{5:12}All witchcrafts will I root out of thine hand, there shall no more soothsayings be within thee. ^{5:13}Thine Idols and thine Images will I destroy out of thee so that thou shalt no more bow thy self unto the works of thine own hands. ^{5:14}Thy groves will I pluck up by the roots, and break down thy cities. ^{5:15}Thus will I be avenged also, upon all the Heathen that will not hear. ^{6:1}Harken now what the LORD sayeth: Up, reprove the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice. ^{6:2}O hear the punishment of the LORD, ye mountains, and ye mighty foundations of the earth: for the LORD will reprove his people, and reason with Israel: ^{6:3}O my people, what have I done unto thee? or wherein have I hurt thee? give me answer. ^{6:4}Because I brought thee from the land of Egypt, and delivered thee out of the house of bondage? Because I made Moses, Aaron, and Miriam to lead thee? ^{6:5}Remember (O my people) what Balach the king of Moab had imagined against thee, and what answer that Balaam the son of Beor gave him, from Sethim unto Gilgal, that ye may know the loving-kindness of the LORD. ^{6:6}What acceptable thing shall I offer unto the LORD? shall I bow my knee to the high God? Shall I come before him with brentofferings, and with calves of a year old? ^{6:7}Hath the LORD a pleasure in many thousand rams, or innumerable streams of oil? Or shall I give my firstborn for mine offenses, and the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul? ^{6:8}I will shew thee, O man, what is good, and what the LORD requireth of thee: Namely, to do right, to have pleasure in loving-kindness, to be lowly, and to walk with thy God: ^{6:9}that thou mayest be called a city of the LORD, and that thy name may be righteousness. Hear (O ye tribes) who would else give you such warning? ^{6:10}Should I not be displeased, for the unrighteous good in the houses of the wicked and because the measure is minished? ^{6:11}Or should I justify the false balances and the bag of deceitful weights, ^{6:12}among those that be full of riches unrighteously gotten: where the citizens deal with falsity, speak lies, and have deceitful tongues in their mouths? ^{6:13}Therefore I will take in hand to punish thee, and to make thee desolate because of thy sins. ^{6:14}Thou shalt eat, and not have enough: yea thou shalt bring thyself down. Thou shalt flee, but not escape: and those that thou wouldest save, will I deliver to the sword. ^{6:15}Thou shalt sow, but not reap: thou shalt press out olives, but oil shalt thou not have, to anoint thyself withal: thou shalt

^{6:16}Ye keep the ordinances of Amri, and all the customs of the house of Ahab: Ye follow their pleasures, therefore will I make thee waste, and cause thy inhabitors to be abhorred, O my people: and thus shalt thou bear thine own shame. ^{7:1}Woe is me: I am become as one, that goeth a gleaner in the harvest. There are no more grapes to eat, yet would I fain (with all my heart) have of the best fruit. ^{7:2}There is not a godly man upon earth, there is not one righteous among men. They labour all to shed blood, and every man hunteth his brother to death: ^{7:3}yet they say they do well when they do evil. As the prince will, so sayeth the judge: that he may do him a pleasure again. The great man speaketh what his heart desireth: and the hearers allow him. ^{7:4}The best of them is but as a thistle, and the most righteous of them is but as a brier in the hedge. But when the day of thy preachers cometh, that thou shalt be visited: then shall they be wasted away. ^{7:5}Let no man believe his friend, nor put his confidence in a prince. Keep the port of thy mouth, from her that lieth in thy bosom: ^{7:6}for the son shall put his father to dishonour, the daughter shall rise against her mother, the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law: and a man's foes shall be even they of his own household. ^{7:7}Nevertheless I will look up unto the LORD, I will patiently abide God my saviour: my God shall hear me. ^{7:8}O thou enemy of mine, rejoice not at my fall, for I shall get up again: and though I sit in darkness, yet the LORD is my light. ^{7:9}I will bear the punishment of the LORD (for why, I have offended him) till he sit in judgement upon my cause, and see that I have right. He will bring me forth to the light, and I shall see his righteousness. ^{7:10}She that is mine enemy shall look upon it, and be confounded, which now sayeth. Where is thy LORD God? Mine eyes shall behold her, when she shall be trodden down, as the clay in the streets. ^{7:11}The time will come, that thy gaps shall be made up, and the law shall go abroad: ^{7:12}and at that time shall they come unto thee, from Assur unto the strong cities, and from the strong cities unto the river: from the one sea to the other, from the one mountain to the other. ^{7:13}Notwithstanding the land must be wasted, because of them that dwell therein, and for the fruits of their own Imaginations. ^{7:14}Therefore feed thy people with thy rod, the flock of thine heritage which dwell desolate in the wood: that they may be fed upon the mount of Charmell, Basan and Gilead as afore time. ^{7:15}Marvelous things will I shew them, like as when they came out of Egypt. ^{7:16}This shall the Heathen see, and be ashamed for all their power: so that they shall lay their hand upon their mouth, and stopⁱ their ears. ^{7:17}They shall lick the dust like a serpent, as the worms of the earth, that tremble in their holes. They shall be afraid of the LORD our God, and they shall fear thee. ^{7:18}Where is there such a God as thou? that pardonest wickedness, and forgivest the offenses of the remnant of thine heritage? He keepeth not his wrath for ever. And why? his delight is to have compassion: ^{7:19}he shall turn again, and be merciful to us: he shall put down our wickednesses, and cast all our sins into the bottom of the sea. ^{7:20}Thou shalt keep thy trust with Jacob, and thy mercy for Abraham, like as thou hast sworn unto our fathers long ago.

The book of the prophet Nahum

^{1:1}This is the heavy burthen of Ninive, which Nahum of Elchos did write, as he saw it. ^{1:2}The LORD is a jealous God, and a taker of vengeance: yea a taker of vengeance is the LORD, and wrothful. The LORD taketh vengeance of his enemies, and reserveth displeasure for his adversaries. ^{1:3}The LORD suffereth long, he is of great power, and so innocent that he leaveth no man faultless before him. The LORD goeth forth in tempest and stormy weather, the clouds are the dust of his feet. ^{1:4}When he reproveth the sea, he drieth it up, and turneth all the floods to dry land. Basan is desolate, Charmel and the pleasure of Libnus wasteth away. ^{1:5}The mountains tremble for him, the hills consume. At the sight of him the earth quaketh: yea the whole world, and all that dwell therein. ^{1:6}Who may endure before his wrath? Or who is able to abide his grim displeasure? His anger taketh on like fire, and the hard rocks burst in sunder before him. ^{1:7}Full gracious is the LORD, and a strong hold in time of trouble, he knoweth them that put their trust in him: ^{1:8}when the flood runneth^a over, and destroyeth the place, and when the darkness followeth still upon his enemies. ^{1:9}What do ye imagine then against the LORD on this manner? (Tush, when he hath once made an end, there shall come no more trouble) ^{1:10}For like as the thorns that stick together, and as the dry straw, so shall the drunkards be consumed together, even when they be full. ^{1:11}There come out of thee such as Imagine mischief, and give ungracious counsel against the LORD. ^{1:12}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD: Let them be as well prepared, yea and as many as they can, yet shall they be hewn down, and pass away. And as for thee, I will vex thee, but not utterly destroy thee; ^{1:13}And now will I break his rod from thy back, and burst thy bonds in sunder. ^{1:14}But the LORD hath given a commandment concerning thee, that there shall come no more seed of thy name. The carved and casten Images will I root out of the house of thy God. Thy grave shall I prepare for thee, and thou shalt be confounded. ^{1:15}Behold, upon the mountains come the feet of him, that bringeth good tidings, and preacheth peace. O Judah, keep thy holy days, perform thy promises: for Belial shall come no more in thee, he is utterly rooted out. ^{2:1}The scatterer shall come up against thee, and lay siege to the castle. Look thou well to the streets, make thy loins strong, arm thyself with all thy might: ^{2:2}for the LORD shall restore again the glory of Jacob, like as the glory of Israel. The destroyers have broken them down, and marred the wine branches. ^{2:3}The shield of his giants glistereth, his men of war are clothed in purple. His chariots are as fire, when he maketh him forward, his archers are well decked^b and trimmed. ^{2:4}The chariots roll upon the streets, and welter in the highways. They are to look upon like cressettes of fire, and go swiftly, as the lightning. ^{2:5}When he doth but warn his giants, they all in their array, and hastily they climb up the walls: yea the engines of the war are prepared already. ^{2:6}The water ports shall be opened, and the king's palace shall fall. ^{2:7}The queen herself shall be led away captive, and her gentlewomen shall mourn as the doves, and grown within their hearts. ^{2:8}Ninive is like a pool full of water, but then shall they be fain to flee. Stand, stand,^c (shall they cry) and there shall not one turn back. ^{2:9}Away with the silver, away with the gold: for here is no end of treasure. There shall be a multitude of all manner costly ornaments. ^{2:10}Thus must she be spoiled, emptied and clean stripped out: that their hearts may be melted away, their knees tremble, all their loins be weak, and their faces black as a pot. ^{2:11}Where is now the dwelling of the lions,^d and the pasture of the lion's whelps? where the lion and the lioness went with the whelps, and no man frayed them away? ^{2:12}But the lion spoiled enough for his young ones, and devoured for his lioness: he filled his dens with his prey, and his dwelling place with that he had ravished. ^{2:13}Behold, I will upon thee, sayeth the LORD of Hosts, and will set fire upon thy chariots that they shall smoke withall, and the sword shall devour the^e young lions. I will make an end of thy spoiling from out of the earth, and the voice of thy messengers shall no more be heard. ^{3:1}Woe to the^f bloodthirsty city, which is all full of lies and robbery, and will not leave off from ravishing. ^{3:2}There a man may hear scourging, rushing, the noise of the wheels, the crying of the horses, and the rolling of the chariots. ^{3:3}There the horsemen get up with naked swords, and glistening spears: There lieth a multitude slain, and a great heap of dead bodies: There is no end of dead coarses, yea men fall upon their bodies: ^{3:4}And that for the great and manyfold whoredom, of the fair and beautiful harlot: which is a mistress of witchcraft, yea and selleth the people thorow her whoredom, and the nations thorow her witchcraft. ^{3:5}Behold, I will upon thee (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) and will pull thy clothes over thy head: that I may shew thy nakedness among the Heathen, and thy shame among the kingdoms. ^{3:6}I will cast dirt upon thee, to make thee be abhorred, and a gasing stock: ^{3:7}Yea all they that look upon thee, shall start back, and say: Ninive is destroyed. Who will have pity upon thee: where shall I seek one to comfort thee? ^{3:8}Art thou better than the great city of Alexandria: that lay in the waters, and had the waters round about it: which was strongly fenced and walled with the sea?^g ^{3:9}Ethiopia and Egypt were her strength, and that exceedingly great above measure. Africa and Libya were her helpers, ^{3:10}yet was she driven away, and brought into captivity: her young children were smitten down at the head of every street, the lots were cast for the most ancient men in her, and all her mighty men were bound in chains. ^{3:11}Even so shalt thou also be drunken, and hide thyself, and seek some help against thine enemy. ^{3:12}All thy strong cities shall be like fig trees with ripe figs: which when a man shaketh, they fall into the mouth of the eater. ^{3:13}Behold, thy people within thee are but women: the ports of thy land shall be open unto thine enemies, and the fire shall devour thy barrs. ^{3:14}Draw water now against thou be besieged, make up thy strongholds, go into the clay, temper the mortar, make strong brick: ^{3:15}yet the fire shall consume thee, the sword shall destroy thee, yea as the locust doth, so shall it eat thee up. It shall fall heavily upon thee as the locusts, yea right heavily shall it fall upon thee, even as the grasshoppers. ^{3:16}Thy merchants have been numbered with^h the stars of heaven: but now shall they spread abroad as the locusts, and flee their way: ^{3:17}Thy lords are as the grasshoppers, and thy captains as the multitude of grasshoppers: which when they be cold, remain in the hedges: but when the Sunⁱ is up, they flee away, and no man can tell where they are become. ^{3:18}Thy shepherds are asleep (O king of Assur) thy worthies are laid down: thy people is scattered abroad upon the mountains, and no man gathereth them together again. ^{3:19}Thy wound can not be hid, thy plague is so sore. All they that hear this of thee, shall clap their hands over thee. For what is he, to whom thou hast not alway been doing hurt.

The book of the prophet Abacuc

^{1:1}This is the heavy burthen, which the Prophet Abacuc did see. ^{1:2}O LORD, how long shall I cry, and thou wilt not hear? How long shall I complain unto thee, suffering wrong, and thou wilt not help? ^{1:3}Why letteth thou me see weariness and labour? Tyranny and violence are before me, power over goeth right: ^{1:4}for the law is torn in pieces, and there can no right judgement go forth. And why? the ungodly is more set by than the righteous: this is the cause, that wrong judgement proceedeth. ^{1:5}Behold among the Heathen, and look well: wonder at it, and be abashed: For I will do a thing in your time, which though it be told you, ye shall not believe. ^{1:6}For lo, I will raise up the Cauldees, that bitter and swift people: which shall go as wide as the land is, to take possession of dwelling places, that be not their own. ^{1:7}A grim and boisterous people is it, these shall sit in judgement and punish. ^{1:8}Their horses are swifter than the cats of the mountain, and bite sorer than the wolves in the evening. Their horsemen come by great heaps from far, they flee hastily to devour as the Aegle. ^{1:9}They come all to spoil: out of them cometh an east wind, which bloweth and gathereth their captives, like as the sand. ^{1:10}They shall mock the kings, and laugh the princes to scorn. They shall not set by any strong hold, for they shall lay ordinance against it, and take it. ^{1:11}Then shall they take a fresh courage unto them, to go forth and do more evil, and so ascribe that power unto their God. ^{1:12}But thou O LORD my God, my holy one thou art from the beginning, therefore shall we not die. O LORD, thou hast ordained^a them for punishment, and set them to reprove the mighty. ^{1:13}Thine eyes are clean, thou mayest not see evil, thou can not behold the thing that is wicked. Wherefore then doest thou look upon the ungodly, and holdest thy tongue, when the wicked devoureth the man that is better than himself? ^{1:14}Thou makest men as the fish in the sea, and like as the creeping beasts, that have no guide. ^{1:15}They take up all with their angle, they catch it in their net, and gather it in their yarn: whereof they rejoice and are glad. ^{1:16}Therefore offer they unto their

net, and do sacrifice unto their yarn: because that thorow it their portions is become so fat, and their meat so plenteous. ^{1:17}Wherefore they cast out their net again, and never cease to slay the people. ^{2:1}I stood upon my watch, and set me upon my bulwark, to look and see what he would say unto me, and what answer I should give him that reproveth me. ^{2:2}But the LORD answered me, and said: Write the vision plainly upon thy tables, that who so cometh by, may read it: ^{2:3}for the vision is yet far off for a time, but at the last it shall come to pass, and not fail. And though he tarry, yet wait thou for him, for in very deed he will come, and not be slack. ^{2:4}Behold, who so will not believe, his soul shall not prosper: but the just shall live by his faith. ^{2:5}Like as the wine deceiveth the drunkard, even so the proud shall fail and not endure. He openeth his desire wide up as the hell, and is as unsatiable as death. All Heathen gathereth he to him, and heapeth unto him all people. ^{2:6}But shall not all these take up a proverb against him, and mock him with a byword, and say: Woe unto him that heapeth up other men's goods? How long will he lade him self with thick clay? ^{2:7}O how suddenly will they stand up, that shall bite thee, and awake, that shall tear thee in pieces? yea thou shalt be their prey. ^{2:8}Seeing thou hast spoiled many Heathen, therefore shall the remnant of the people spoil thee: because of men's blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the city and unto all them that dwell therein. ^{2:9}Woe unto him, that covetously gathereth evil gotten goods into his house: that he may set his nest on high,^b to escape from the power of misfortune. ^{2:10}Thou hast devised the shame of thine own house, for thou hast slain too much people, and hast willfully offended: ^{2:11}so that the very stones of the wall shall cry out of it, and the timber that lieth betwixt the joints of the building shall answer. ^{2:12}Woe unto him, that buildeth the town with blood, and maintaineth the city with unrighteousness. ^{2:13}Shall not the LORD of Hosts bring this to pass, that the labourers of the people shall be brent with a great fire, and that the thing where upon the people have wearied themselves, shall be lost? ^{2:14}For the earth shall be full of knowledge of the LORD's honour, like as the waters that cover the sea. ^{2:15}Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour drink, to get him wrothfull displeasure for his drunkenness: that he may see his privates.^c ^{2:16}Therefore with shame shalt thou be filled, in stead of honour. Drink thou also, till thou slumber withall: for the cup of the LORD's right hand shall compass thee about, and shameful spewing instead of thy worship. ^{2:17}For the wrong that thou hast done in Libanus, shall overwhelm thee, and the wild beasts shall make thee afraid: because of men's blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the city, and to all such as dwell therein. ^{2:18}What help then will the Image do, whom the workman hath fashioned? Or the vain cast Image, wherein because the craftsmen putteth his trust, therefore maketh he dumb Idols? ^{2:19}Woe unto him, that sayeth unto a piece of wood: arise, and to a dumb stone: stand up. For what instruction may such one give? Behold, it is laid over with gold and silver, and there is no breath in it. ^{2:20}But the LORD in his holy temple is he, whom all the world should fear. ^{3:1}A prayer of the prophet Abacuc for the ignorance.^d ^{3:2}O LORD,^e when I heard speak of thee, I was afraid. The work thou hast taken in hand, shalt thou perform in his time, O LORD: and when thy time cometh, thou shalt declare it. In thy very wrath thou thinkest upon mercy. ^{3:3}God cometh from Theman, and the holy one from the mount of Pharan. Sela. ^{3:4}His glory covereth the heavens, and the earth is full of his praise. His shine is as the sun,^f and beams of light go out of his hands, there is his power hid. ^{3:5}Destruction goeth before him, and burning cressettes go from his feet. ^{3:6}He standeth, and measureth the earth. He looketh, and the people consume away, the mountains of the world fall down to powder, and the hills are fain to bow themselves, for his goings are everlasting and sure. ^{3:7}I saw, that the pavilions of the Morians and the tents of the land of Madian were vexed for weariness. ^{3:8}Wast thou not angry, O LORD, in the waters? was not thy wrath in the floods, and thy displeasure in the sea? Yes, when thou satest upon thine horse, and when thy chariots had the victory.

^{3:9}Thou shewdest thy bow openly, like as thou hadst promised with an oath unto the tribes. Selah. Thou didst divide the waters of the earth. ^{3:10}When the mountains saw thee, they were afraid, the water stream went away: the deep made a noise at the lifting up of thine hand. ^{3:11}The Sun^g and Moon remained still in their habitation. Thine arrows went out glistering, and thy spears as the shine of the lightning. ^{3:12}Thou trodest down the land in thine anger, and didst throshe the Heathen in thy displeasure. ^{3:13}Thou camest forth to help thy people, to help thine anointed. Thou smotest down the head in the house of the ungodly, and discoveredest his foundations, even unto the neck of him. Selah. ^{3:14}Thou cursest his scepters, the captain of his men of war: which come as a stormy wind to scatter me abroad, and are glad when they may eat up the poor secretly. ^{3:15}Thou makest a way for thine horses in the sea, even in the mud of great waters. ^{3:16}When I hear this, my body is vexed, my lips tremble at the voice thereof, my bones corrupt, I am afraid where I stand. O that I might rest in the day of trouble, that I might go up unto our people, which are already prepared. ^{3:17}For the fig trees shall not be green, and the vines shall bear no fruit. The labour of the olive shall be but lost, and the land shall bring no corn: the sheep shall be taken out of the fold, and there shall be no cattle in the stalls. ^{3:18}But as for me, I will be glad in the LORD, and will rejoice in God my Saviour. ^{3:19}The LORD God is my strength, he shall make my feet as the feet of harts: and he which giveth the victory, shall bring me to my high places, singing upon my psalms.

The book of the prophet Sophony

^{1:1}This is the word of the LORD, which came unto Sophony the son of Chusi, the son of Gedoliah, the son of Amariah the son of Hezkiah: in the time of Josiah the son of Amon king of Judah. ^{1:2}I will gather up all things in the land (sayeth the LORD) ^{1:3}I will gather up man and beast: I will gather up the fowls in the air and the fish in the sea (to the great decay of the wicked) and will utterly destroy the men out of the land, sayeth the LORD. ^{1:4}I will stretch out mine hand upon Judah, and upon all such as dwell at Jerusalem. Thus will I root out the remnant of Baal from this place, and the names of the Remurins and priests: ^{1:5}yea and such as upon their house tops worship and bow them selves unto the host of heaven: which swear by the LORD, and by their Malchom also: ^{1:6}which start back from the LORD, and neither seek after the LORD, nor regard him. ^{1:7}Be still at the presence of the Lord GOD,^a for the day of the LORD is at hand: yea the LORD hath prepared a slain offering, and called his guests thereto. ^{1:8}And thus shall it happen in the day of the LORD's a slainoffering: I will visit the princes, the king's children, and all such as wear strange clothing. ^{1:9}In the same day also will I visit all those, that tread over the threshold so proudly, which fill their lords' house with robbery and falsity. ^{1:10}At the same time (sayeth the LORD) there shall be heard a great cry from the fish port and an howling from the other port, and a great murder from the hills. ^{1:11}Howl ye that dwell in the mill, for all the merchant people are gone, and all they that were laden with silver, are rooted out. ^{1:12}At the same time will I seek thorow Jerusalem with lanterns, and visit them that continue in their dregs, and say in their hearts: Tush, the LORD will do neither good nor evil. ^{1:13}Their goods shall be spoiled, and their houses laid waste: They shall build houses, and not dwell in them: they shall plant vineyards, but not drink the wine thereof. ^{1:14}For the great day of the LORD is at hand, it is heard by, and cometh on a pace. Horrible is the tidings of the LORD's day, then shall the giant cry out: ^{1:15}for that day is a day of wrath, a day of trouble and heaviness, a day of utter destruction and misery, a dark and gloomy day, a cloudy and stormy day, ^{1:16}a day of the noise of trumpets and shawmes, against the strong cities and high towers. ^{1:17}I will bring the people to such vexation, that they shall go about like blind men, because they have sinned against the LORD. Their blood shall be shed as the dust, and their bodies as the mire. ^{1:18}Neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them in that wrothful day of the LORD, but the whole land shall be consumed thorow the fire of his jealousy: for he shall soon make clean riddance of all them that dwell in the land. ^{2:1}Come together and gather you, O^b froward people: ^{2:2}Or the thing go forth that is concluded, and or the time be passed away as the dust: or the fearful wrath of the LORD come upon you, ^{2:3}yea or the day of the LORD's sore displeasure come upon you. Seek the LORD all ye^c meek hearted upon earth, ye that work after his judgement: seek righteousness, seek lowliness: that ye may be defended in the wrothfull day of the LORD. ^{2:4}For Gaza shall be destroyed, and Ascalon shall be laid waste. They shall cast out Asood at the noon day, and Accaron shall be plucked^d up by the roots. ^{2:5}Woe unto you that dwell upon the sea coast, ye murderous people: the word of the LORD shall come upon you. O Canaan thou land of the Phillistines, I will destroy thee, so that there shall no man dwell in thee any more: ^{2:6}and as for the sea coast, it shall be herdmen's cottages and sheep folds: ^{2:7}yea it shall be a portion for such as remain of the house of Juda, to feed there upon. In the houses of Ascalon shall they rest toward the night: for the LORD their God shall visit them, and turn away their captivity. ^{2:8}I have heard the despite of Moab, and the blasphemies of the children of Ammon how they have shamefully intreated my people, and magnified themselves within the borders of their land. ^{2:9}Therefore as truly as I live (sayeth the LORD of Hosts the God of Israel) Moab shall be as Sodom, and Ammon as Gomora: even dry thorn hedges, salt pits and perpetual wilderness. The residue of my folk shall spoil them, the remnant of my people shall have them in possession. ^{2:10}This shall happen unto them for their pride, because they have dealt so shamefully with the LORD of Hosts' people, and magnified them selves above them. ^{2:11}The LORD shall be grim^e upon them, and destroy all the goods in the land. And all the Isles of the Heathen shall worship him, every man in his place. ^{2:12}Ye Morians also shall perish with my sword: ^{2:13}Yea he shall stretch out his hand over the north, and destroy Assur. As for Nivive, he shall make it desolate, dry and waste. ^{2:14}The flocks and all the beasts of the people shall lie in the midst of it, pelicans and storks shall abide in the upper posts of it, fowls shall sing in the windows, and ravens shall sit upon the balks, for the borders of Cedar shall be riven down. ^{2:15}This is the proud and careless city, that said in her heart: I am, and there is else none. O how is she made so waste, that the beasts lie therein? Who so goeth by, mocketh her, and pointeth at her with his finger. ^{3:1}Woe to the abominable, filthy and cruel city: ^{3:2}which will not hear, nor be reformed. Her trust is not in the LORD, neither will she hold her to her God. ^{3:3}Her rulers within her are as roaring lions: her judges are as wolves in the evening, which leave nothing behind them till the morrow. ^{3:4}Her prophets are light persons and unfaithful men: her priests unhallow the Sanctuary, and do wrong under the pretence of the law. ^{3:5}But the just LORD that doth no unright, was among them, every morning shewing them his law clearly, and ceased not. But the ungodly will not learn to be ashamed. ^{3:6}Therefore will I root out this people, and destroy their towers: yea and make their streets so void, that no man shall go therein. Their cities shall be broken down, so that no body shall be left, nor dwell there any more. ^{3:7}I said unto them: O fear me, and be content to be reformed. That their dwelling should not be destroyed, and that there should happen unto them none of these things, wherewith I shall visit them. But nevertheless they stand up early, to follow the filthiness of their own imaginations. ^{3:8}Therefore ye shall wait upon me (sayeth the LORD) until the time that I stand up: for I am determined, to gather the people and to bring the kingdoms together, that I may pour out mine anger, yea all my wrothfull displeasure upon them. For all the world shall be consumed with the fire of my jealousy. ^{3:9}And then will I cleanse the lips of the people, that they may every each one call upon the name of the LORD, and serve him with one shoulder. ^{3:10}Such as I have subdued, and my children also whom I have scattered abroad, shall bring me presents beyond the waters of Ethiopia. ^{3:11}In that time shalt thou no more be confounded, because of all thy imaginations, where thorow thou hadst^f offended me: for I will take away the proud boasters of thine honour from thee, so that thou shalt no more triumph because of my holy hill. ^{3:12}In thee also will I leave a small poor simple people, which shall trust in the name of the LORD. ^{3:13}The remnant of Israel shall do no wickedness, nor speak lies: neither shall there any deceitful tongue be found in their mouths: For they shall be fed, and take their rest, and no man shall make them afraid. ^{3:14}Give thanks O daughter Sion, be joyful O Israel: rejoice and be glad from thy whole heart, O daughter Jerusalem, ^{3:15}for the LORD hath taken away thy punishment, and turned back thine enemies. The king of Israel, even the LORD himself is with thee: so that thou needest no more to fear any misfortune. ^{3:16}In that time it shall be said unto Jerusalem: fear not, and to Sion: let not thine hands be slack, ^{3:17}for the LORD thy God is with thee, it is he that hath power to save: he hath a special pleasure in thee, and a marvelous love toward thee: yea he rejoiceth over thee with gladness. ^{3:18}Such as have been in heaviness, will I gather together, and take out of thy congregation: as for the shame and reproof that hath been laid upon thee, it shall be far from thee. ^{3:19}And lo, in that time will I destroy all those that vex thee: I will help the lame, and gather up the cast away: yea I will get them honour and praise in all lands, where they have been put to shame. ^{3:20}At the same time will I bring you in, and at the same time will I gather you. I will get you a name and a good report among all people of the earth, when I turn back your captivity before your eyes, sayeth the LORD.

The end of the prophecy of Zephaniah.

The book of the prophet Aggeus

^{1:1}In the second year of king Darius, in the sixth month, the first day of the month, came the word of the LORD (by the Prophet Aggeus) unto Zorobabel the son of Salathiel the prince of Judah, and to Jesua the son of Josedech the high priest, saying: ^{1:2}Thus speaketh the LORD of Hosts, and sayeth: This people doth say: The time is not yet come to build up the LORD's house. ^{1:3}Then spake the LORD by the Prophet Aggeus, and said: ^{1:4}Ye yourselves can find time to dwell in sealed^a houses, and shall this house lie waste? ^{1:5}Consider now your own ways in your hearts (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) ^{1:6}ye sow much, but ye bring little in: Ye eat, but ye have not enough: ye drink, but ye are not filled: ye deck yourselves, but ye are not warm: and he that earneth any wage, putteth it in a broken purse. ^{1:7}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: Consider your own ways in your hearts, ^{1:8}get you up to the mountain, fetch wood, and build up the house: that it may be acceptable unto me, and that I may shew mine honour, sayeth the LORD. ^{1:9}Ye looked for much, and lo it is come to little: and though ye bring it home, yet do I blow it away. And why so, sayeth the LORD of Hosts? Even because that my house lieth so waste, and ye run^b every man unto his own house. ^{1:10}Wherefore the heaven is forbidden to give you any dew, and the earth is forbidden to give you increase. ^{1:11}I have called for a drouth, both upon the land and upon the mountains, upon corn, upon wine, and upon oil, upon everything that the ground bringeth forth, upon men and upon cattle, yea and upon all handy labour. ^{1:12}Now when Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, and Jesua the son of Josedech the high priest with the remnant of the people, heard the voice of the LORD their God, and the words of the Prophet Aggeus (like as the LORD their God had sent him) the people did fear the LORD. ^{1:13}Then Aggeus the LORD's angel said in the LORD's message to the people: I am with you, sayeth the LORD. ^{1:14}So the LORD waked up the spirit of Zorobabel the prince of Juda, and the spirit of Jesua the son of Josedech the high priest, and the spirit of the remnant of all the people: that they came and laboured, in the house of the LORD of Hosts their God. ^{1:15}Upon the twenty fourth day of the sixth month, in the second year of king Darius, ^{2:1}the twenty first day of the seventh month, came the word of the LORD by the Prophet Aggeus, saying: ^{2:2}speak to Zorobabel the son of Salathiel prince of Juda, and to Jesua the son of Josedech the high priest, and to the residue of the people, and say: ^{2:3}Who is left among you, that saw this house in her first beauty? But what think ye now by it? Is it not in your eyes, even as though it were nothing? ^{2:4}Nevertheless be of good cheer, O Zorobabel (sayeth the LORD) be of good comfort, O Jesua thou son of Josedech, high priest: take good hearts unto you also, all ye people of the land, sayeth the LORD of Hosts ^{2:5}and do according to the word (for I am with you, sayeth the LORD of Hosts) like as I agreed with you, when ye came out of the land of Egypt: and my spirit shall be among you, fear ye not. ^{2:6}For thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: yet once more will I shake heaven and earth, the sea, and the dry land: ^{2:7}Yea I will move all Heathen, and the comfort of all Heathen shall come, and so will I fill this house with honour, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{2:8}The silver is mine, the gold is mine, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{2:9}Thus the glory of the last house shall be greater than the first, sayeth the LORD of Hosts: and in this place will I give peace, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{2:10}The twenty fourth day of the ninth month in the second year of king Darius, came the word of the LORD unto the Prophet Aggeus, saying: ^{2:11}Thus sayeth the LORD God of hosts: Ask the priests concerning the law, and say: ^{2:12}if one bear holy flesh in his coat lape, and with his lappe do touch the bread, potage, wine, oil or any other meat: shall he be holy also? The priests answered and said: No. ^{2:13}Then said Aggeus: Now if one being defiled with a dead carcass, touch any of these: shall it also be unclean? ^{2:14}The Priests gave answer and said: yea, it shall be unclean. Then Aggeus answered, and said: even so is this people and this nation before me, sayeth the LORD: and so are all the works of their hands, yea and all that they offer, is unclean. ^{2:15}And now (I pray you) consider from this day forth, and how it hath gone with you afore: or ever there was laid one stone upon another in the temple of the LORD: ^{2:16}that when ye came to a corn heap of twenty bushels, there were scarce ten: and that when ye came to the wine press for to pour out fifty pots of wine, there were scarce twenty. ^{2:17}For I smote you with heat, blasting and hailstones in all the labours of your hands: yet was there none of you, that would turn unto me, sayeth the LORD. ^{2:18}Consider then from this day forth and afore, namely, from the twenty fourth day of the ninth month, unto the day that the foundation of the LORD's temple was laid: Mark it well, ^{2:19}is not the seed yet in the barn? have not the vines, the fig trees, the pomegranates and the olive trees been yet unfruitful? but from this day forth, I shall make them to prosper. ^{2:20}Moreover the twenty fourth day of the month came the word of the LORD unto Aggeus again saying: ^{2:21}Speak to Zorobabel the prince of Juda, and say: I will shake both heaven and earth, ^{2:22}and overthrow the seat of the kingdoms, yea and destroy the mighty kingdom of the Heathen. I will overthrow the chariots, and those that sit upon them, so that both horse and man shall fall down, every man thorow his neighbour's sword. ^{2:23}And as for thee, O Zorobabel (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) thou son of Salathiel my servant: I will take thee (sayeth the LORD) at the same time, and make thee as a seal, for I have chosen thee, sayeth the LORD of Hosts.

The book of the prophet Zachary

^{1:1}In the eighth month of the second year of king Darius, came the word of the LORD unto Zachary the son of Barachias, the son of Addo, the Prophet, saying: ^{1:2}the LORD hath been sore displeased at your forefathers. ^{1:3}And say thou unto them: thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts. Turn you unto me (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) and I will turn me unto you, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{1:4}Be not ye like your forefathers, unto whom the Prophets cried a fore time, saying: Thus sayeth the LORD God of hosts: Turn you from your evil ways, and from your wicked imaginations. But they would not hear, nor regard me, sayeth the LORD. ^{1:5}What is now become of your forefathers and the prophets? are they yet still alive? ^{1:6}But did not my words and statutes (which I commanded by my servants the Prophets) touch your forefathers? Upon this, they gave answer and said: like as the LORD of Hosts devised to do unto us, according to our ways and imaginations, even so hath he dealt with us. ^{1:7}Upon the twenty seventh day of the eleventh month which is the month Sebat, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD unto Zachary the son of Barachias, the son of Addo the Prophet, saying: ^{1:8}I saw by night, and lo, there sat one upon a red horse, and stood still among the Myrtle trees, that were beneath upon the ground: and behind him were there red, speckled and white horses. ^{1:9}Then said I: O my lord,^a what are these? And the angel that talked with me, said unto me: I will shew thee what these be. ^{1:10}And the man that stood among the Myrtle trees, answered and said: These are they, whom the LORD hath sent to go thorow the world. ^{1:11}And they answered the angel of the LORD, that stood among the myrtle trees, and said: We have gone thorow the world: and behold all the world dwell at ease, and are careless. ^{1:12}Then the LORD's angel gave answer, and said: O LORD of Hosts, how long wilt thou be unmerciful to Jerusalem and to the cities of Juda, with whom thou hast been displeased now these seventy years. ^{1:13}So the LORD gave a loving and comfortable answer unto the angel that talked with me. ^{1:14}And the angel that communed with me, said unto me: Cry thou, and speak: Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: I am exceedingly jealous over Jerusalem and Sion, ^{1:15}and sore displeased at the careless Heathen: for where as I was but a little angry, they did their best that I might destroy them. ^{1:16}Therefore thus sayeth the LORD: I will turn me again in mercy toward Jerusalem, so that my house shall be builded in it, sayeth the LORD of Hosts: yea and the plummet shall be laid abroad in Jerusalem, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{1:17}Cry also, and speak: thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: My cities shall be in good prosperity again, the LORD shall yet comfort Sion, and choose Jerusalem. ^{1:18}Then lift I up mine eyes and saw, and behold, four horns. ^{1:19}And I said unto the angel, that talketh with me: What be these? he answered me: These are the horses, which have scattered Juda, Israel, and Jerusalem abroad. ^{1:20}And the LORD shewed me four carpenters. ^{1:21}Then said I: what will these do? He answered, and said: Those are the horns, which have so strowed Juda abroad, that no man durst lift up his head: But these are come to fraye them away, and to cast out the horns of the Gentiles, which lift up their horn over the land of Juda, to scatter it abroad. ^{2:1}I lift up mine eyes again, and looked and behold, a man with a measuring line in his hand. ^{2:2}Then said I: Whither goest thou? And he said unto me: To measure Jerusalem, that I may see how long and how broad it is. ^{2:3}And behold, the angel that talked with me, went his way forth. Then went there out another angel to meet^b him, ^{2:4}and said unto him: Run, speak to this young man, and say: Jerusalem shall be inhabited without any wall, for the very multitude of people and cattle, that shall be therein: ^{2:5}Yea I myself (sayeth the LORD) will be unto her a wall of fire round about, and will be honoured in her. ^{2:6}O get you forth, O flee from the land of the north, sayeth the LORD, ye whom I have scattered in to the four winds under heaven, sayeth the LORD. ^{2:7}Save thy self, O Sion, thou that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon. ^{2:8}For thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: With a glorious power hath he sent me out to the Heathen, which spoiled you: for who so toucheth you, shall touche the apple of his own eye. ^{2:9}Behold, I will lift up

mine hand over them: so that they shall be spoiled of those, which afore served them: and ye shall know, that the LORD of Hosts hath sent me. ^{2:10}Be glad, and rejoice, O daughter of Sion: for, lo, I am come to dwell in the midst of thee, sayeth the LORD.^c ^{2:11}At the same time there shall many Heathen cleave to the LORD, and shall be my people. Thus will I dwell in the midst of thee, and thou shalt know, that the LORD of Hosts hath sent me unto thee.^d ^{2:12}The LORD shall have Judah in his possession for his part in the holy ground, and shall choose Jerusalem yet again.^e ^{2:13}Let all flesh be still before the LORD, for he is risen out of his holy place.^f ^{3:1}And he shewed me Jesua the high priest, standing before the angel of the LORD, and Satan stood at his right hand to resist him. ^{3:2}And the LORD said unto Satan: The LORD reprove thee (thou Satan) yea the LORD that hath chosen Jerusalem, reprove thee. Is not this a brand taken out of the fire? ^{3:3}Now Jesua was clothed in unclean raiment, and stood before the angel: ^{3:4}Which answered and said unto those, that stood before him: take away the foul clothes from him. And unto him he said: Behold, I have taken away thy sin from thee, and will deck thee with change of raiment. ^{3:5}He said more over: set a fair mitre upon his head; So they set a fair mitre upon his head, and put on clothes upon him, and the angel of the LORD stood there. ^{3:6}Then the angel of the LORD testified unto Jesua, and spake, ^{3:7}thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: If thou wilt walk in my ways, and keep my watch: thou shalt rule my house, and keep my courts, and I will give thee place among these that stand here. ^{3:8}Hear O Jesua thou high priest, thou and thy friends that dwell before thee, for they are wonderous people. Behold, I will bring forth the branch of my servant: ^{3:9}for lo, the stone that I have laid before Jesua: upon one stone shall be seven eyes. Behold, I will hew him out (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) and take away the sin of that land in one day. ^{3:10}Then shall every man call for his neighbour, under the vine and under the fig tree, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{4:1}And the angel that talked with me, came again, and waked me up, as a man that is raised out of his sleep, ^{4:2}and said unto me: What seest thou? And I said: I have looked, and behold: a candlestick all of gold, with a bowl upon it, and his seven lamps therein, and upon every lamp seven stalks. ^{4:3}And two olive trees thereby, one upon the right side of the bowl, and the other upon the left side. ^{4:4}So I answered, and spake to the angel that talked with me, saying: O my lord what are these? ^{4:5}The angel that talked with me answered and said unto me: knowest thou not what these be? And I said; No, my lord. ^{4:6}He answered, and said unto me: This is the word of the LORD unto Zorobabel, saying: Neither throw an host of men, nor throw strength, but throw my spirit, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{4:7}What art thou, thou great mountain, before Zorobabel? thou must be made even. And he shall bring up the first stone so that men shall cry unto him: good luck, good luck. ^{4:8}Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{4:9}The hands of Zorobabel have laid the foundation of this house, his hands also shall finish it: that ye may know, how that the LORD of Hosts hath sent me unto you. ^{4:10}For he that hath been despised a little season, shall rejoice, when he seeth the tin weight in Zorobabel's hand. The seven eyes are the LORD's, which go throw the whole world. ^{4:11}Then answered I, and said unto him: What are these two olive trees upon the right and left side of the candlestick? ^{4:12}I spake moreover, and said unto him: what be these two olive branches (which throw the two golden pipes) empty themselves into the gold? ^{4:13}He answered me, and said: knowest thou not, what these be? And I said: No, my lord. ^{4:14}Then said he: These are the two olive branches, that stand before the ruler of the whole earth. ^{5:1}So I turned me, lifting up mine eyes, and looked, and behold, a flying book. ^{5:2}And he said unto me: what seest thou? I answered: I see a flying book of twenty cubits long, and ten cubits broad. ^{5:3}Then said he unto me: This is the curse, that goeth forth over the whole earth: for all thieves shall be judged after this book, and all swearers shall be judged according to the same, ^{5:4}I will bring it forth (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) so that it shall come to the house of the thief, and to the house of him, that falsely sweareth by my name: and shall remain in his house, and consume it, with the timber and stones thereof. ^{5:5}Then the angel that talked with me, went forth, and said unto me: lift up thine eyes and see what this is that goeth forth. ^{5:6}And I said: what is it? He answered: this is a measure going out. He said moreover: Even thus are they (that dwell upon the whole earth) to look upon. ^{5:7}And behold, there was lift up a talent of lead: and lo, a woman sat in the midst of the measure. ^{5:8}And he said: This is ungodliness. So he cast her into the midst of the measure, and threw the lump of lead up in to an hole. ^{5:9}Then lift I up mine eyes, and looked: and behold, there came out two women, and the wind was in their wings (for they had wings like the wings of a stork) and they lift up the measure betwixt the earth and the heaven. ^{5:10}Then spake I to the angel that talked with me: whither will these bear the measure? ^{5:11}And he said unto me: in to the land of Sinear, to build them an house: which when it is prepared, the measure shall be set there in his place. ^{6:1}Moreover I turned me, lifting up mine eyes, and looked: and behold, there came four chariots out from betwixt two hills, which hills were of brass: ^{6:2}In the first chariot were red horse, in the second chariot were black horse, ^{6:3}in the third chariot were white horse, in the fourth chariot were horses of divers colours and strong. ^{6:4}Then spake I and said unto the angel that talked with me: O lord, what are these? ^{6:5}The angel answered, and said unto me: These are the four winds of the heaven, which be come forth to stand^h before the ruler of all the earth. ^{6:6}That with the black horse went in to the land of the north, and the white followed them, and the speckled horses went forth toward the south. ^{6:7}These horses were very strong, and went out: and sought to go and take their journey over the whole earth. And he said: get you hence, and go thorow the world. So they went thorowout the world.

^dAnd many nations shall cleave unto the LORD at that day and shall be my people. And I will dwell in the middle of thee, and thou shalt know that the LORD Sabaoth hath sent me unto thee.

^{6:8}Then cried he upon me, and spake unto me, saying: behold, these that go toward the north, shall still my wrath in the north country. ^{6:9}And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{6:10}Take of the prisoners that are come from Babylon: namely, Heldai, Tobiah and Idaia: and come thou the same day, and go into the house of Josiah the son of Sophony. ^{6:11}Then take gold and silver, and make crowns thereof, and set them upon the head of Jesua the son of Josedeh, the high priest; ^{6:12}And speak unto him: Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: Behold the man whose name is the branch: and he that shall spring up after him, shall build up the temple of the LORD: ^{6:13}Yea even he shall build up the temple of the LORD. He shall bear the praise, he shall sit upon the Lord'sⁱ throne, and have the domination. A priest shall he be also upon his throne, and a peaceable counsel shall be betwixt them both. ^{6:14}And the crowns shall be in the temple of the LORD, for a remembrance unto Heldai, Tobiah and Jedaia and Hen the son of Sophony. And such as be far off, shall come and build the temple of the LORD, ^{6:15}that ye may know, how that the LORD of Hosts hath sent me unto you. And this shall come to pass, if ye will hearken diligently unto the voice of the LORD your God. ^{7:1}It happened also in the fourth year of king Darius, that the word of the LORD came unto Zachary in the fourth day of the ninth month, which is called Casleu: ^{7:2}what time as Sarasar and Rogomelech and the men that were with them, sent unto Bethel for to pray before the LORD: ^{7:3}and that they should say unto the priests, which were in the house of the LORD of Hosts, and to the prophets: Should I weep in the fifth month, and abstain, as I have done now certain years? ^{7:4}Then came the word of the LORD of Hosts unto me, saying: ^{7:5}Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the priests, and say: when ye fasted and mourned in the fifth and seventh month (now this seventy years) did ye fast unto me? ^{7:6}When ye ate also and drank, did ye not eat and drink for your own selves? ^{7:7}Are not these the words, which the LORD spake by his prophets afore time, when Jerusalem was yet inhabited and wealthy, she and the cities round about her: when there dwelt men, both toward the south and in the plain countries? ^{7:8}And the word of the LORD came unto Zachary, saying: ^{7:9}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: Execute true judgment, and shew mercy and loving-kindness, every man to his brother. ^{7:10}Do the widow, the fatherless, the stranger, and poor no wrong: and let no man imagine evil against his brother in his heart. ^{7:11}Nevertheless they would not take heed, but turned their backs, and stopped their ears, that they should not hear: ^{7:12}yea they made their hearts as an Adamant stone lest they should hear the law and words, which the LORD of Hosts sent in his holy spirit by the prophets afore time. Wherefore the LORD of Hosts was very wroth at them. ^{7:13}And thus is it come to pass, that like as he spake and they would not hear: even so they cried, and I would not hear (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) ^{7:14}but scattered them among all Gentiles, whom they knew not. Thus the land was made so desolate, that there traveled no man in it neither^j to nor^k fro, for that pleasant land was utterly laid waste. ^{8:1}So the word of the LORD came unto me, saying: ^{8:2}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: I was in a great jealousy over Zion, yea I have been very jealous over her in great displeasure. ^{8:3}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: I will turn me again unto Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: so that Jerusalem shall be called a faithful and true city, the hill of the LORD of Hosts, yea a holy hill.¹ ^{8:4}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: There shall yet old men and women dwell again in the streets of Jerusalem: yea and such as go with staves in their hands for very age.^m ^{8:5}The streets of the city also shall be full of young boys and damsels, playing upon the streets.ⁿ ^{8:6}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: If the residue of this people think it to be impossible in these days, should it therefore be impossible in my sight, sayeth the LORD of Hosts:^o ^{8:7}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: Behold, I will deliver my people from the land of the east and west,^p ^{8:8}and will bring them again: that they may dwell at Jerusalem. They shall be my people, and I will be their God, in truth and righteousness.^q ^{8:9}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: let your hands be strong, ye that now hear these words by the mouth of the prophets which be in these days that the foundation is laid upon the LORD of Hosts' house, that the temple may be builded. ^{8:10}For why? before these days, neither men nor cattle could win anything, neither might any man come in and out in rest, for trouble: but I let every man go against his neighbour. ^{8:11}Nevertheless I will now entreat the residue of this people no more as afore time, sayeth the LORD of Hosts, ^{8:12}but they shall be a seed of peace. The vineyard shall give her fruit, the ground shall give her increase, and the heavens shall give their dew: and I shall cause the remnant of this people, to have all these in possession. ^{8:13}And it shall come to pass, that like as ye were a curse among the Heathen (O ye house of Juda and ye house of Israel) Even so will I deliver you, that ye shall be a blessing: fear not, but let your hands be strong. ^{8:14}For thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: Like as I devised to punish you, what time as your fathers provoked me unto wrath, sayeth the LORD of Hosts, and spared not. ^{8:15}Even so am I determined now in these days, for to do well unto the house of Juda and Jerusalem, therefore fear ye not. ^{8:16}Now the things that ye shall do, are these: Speak every man the truth unto his neighbour, execute judgment truly, and peaceably within your ports, ^{8:17}none of you imagine evil in his heart against his neighbour, ¹Thus saith the LORD: I will return to Zion and will dwell in the middle of Jerusalem. And Jerusalem shall be called the city of truth and the hill of the LORD Sabaoth and an holy hill.

^oThus saith the LORD Sabaoth, though it seem hard in the eyes of the remnant of this people, shall it seem hard in mine eyes saith the LORD Sabaoth.

^pThus saith the LORD Sabaoth: behold I will deliver my people from the east country and from the land of the going down of the sun and love no false oaths: for all these are things that I hate, sayeth the LORD. ^{8:18}And the word of the LORD of Hosts came unto me, saying: ^{8:19}thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: The fast of the fourth month, the fast of the fifth, the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth, shall be joy and gladness, and prosperous high^r feasts unto the house of Juda: Only, love the truth and peace. ^{8:20}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: There shall yet come people, and the inhabitants of many cities: ^{8:21}and they that dwell in one city, shall go to another, saying: Up, let us go, and pray before the LORD, let us seek the LORD of Hosts, I will go with you: ^{8:22}Yea much people and mighty Heathen shall come and seek the LORD of Hosts at Jerusalem, and to pray before the LORD. ^{8:23}Thus sayeth the LORD of Hosts: In that time shall ten men (out of all manner of languages of the Gentiles) take one Jew by the hem of his garment, and say: we will go with you, for we have heard, that God is among you. ^{9:1}The word of the LORD shall be received in Adrach, and Damascus shall be his offering: for the eyes of all men and of the tribes of Israel shall look up unto the LORD. ^{9:2}The borders of Hemath shall be hard thereby, Tyrus also and Sidon, for they are very wise. ^{9:3}Tyrus shall make herself strong, and heap up silver as the sand, and gold as the clay of the streets. ^{9:4}Behold, the Lord^s shall take her in, and have her in possession: he shall smite down her power in to the sea, and she shall be consumed with fire. ^{9:5}This shall Ascalor see, and be afraid. Gaza shall be very sorry, so shall Accaron also, because her hope is come of confusion. For the king of Gaza shall perish, and at Ascalon shall no man dwell. ^{9:6}Strangers shall dwell at Asdod, and as for the pride of the Philistines, I shall root it out. ^{9:7}Their blood will I take away from their mouth, and their abominations from among their teeth; Thus they shall be left for our God, yea they shall be as a prince in Juda, and Accaron like as Jebusy. ^{9:8}And so will I compass my house round about with my men of war going to and fro: that no oppressor come upon them any more. For that have I seen now with mine eyes. ^{9:9}Rejoice thou greatly, O daughter Sion be glad, O daughter Jerusalem. For low, thy King cometh unto thee, even the righteous and Saviour: Lowly and simple is he, he rideth upon an ass, and upon the foal of an ass ^{9:10}I will root out the chariots from Ephraim and the horse from Jerusalem, the battle bows shall be destroyed. He shall give the doctrine of peace unto the Heathen, and his dominion shall be from the one sea to the other, and from the floods to the ends of the world. ^{9:11}Thou also throw the blood of thy covenant: shalt let thy prisoners out of the pit, wherein is no water. ^{9:12}Turn you now to the strong hold, ye that be in prison, and long sore to be delivered: And this day I bring the word, that I will reward thee double again. ^{9:13}For Juda have I bent out as a bow for me and Ephraim have I filled. Thy sons (O Sion) will I raise up against the Greeks, and make thee as a giant's sword: ^{9:14}the LORD God shall be seen above them, and his darts shall go forth as the lightning. The Lord GOD^t shall blow the trumpet, and shall come forth as a storm out of the south. ^{9:15}The LORD of Hosts shall defend them, they shall consume and devour, and subdue them with sling stones. They shall drink and rage, as it were throw wine. They shall be filled like the basins, and as the horns of the altar. ^{9:16}The LORD their God shall deliver them in the day, as the flock of his people: for the stones of his Sanctuary shall be set up in his land. ^{9:17}O how prosperous and goodly a thing shall that be: The corn shall make the young men cheerful, and the new wine the maidens. ^{10:1}Pray the LORD then by times to give you the latter rain, so shall the LORD make clouds, and give you rain enough for all the increase of the field: ^{10:2}For vain is the answer of Idols. The soothsayers see lies, and tell but vain dreams: the comforth that they give, is nothing worth. Therefore go they astray like a flock of sheep, and are troubled, because they have no shepherd. ^{10:3}My wrothful displeasure is moved at the shepherds, and I will visit the goats. For the LORD of Hosts will graciously visit his flock, the house of Juda, and hold them as a goodly fair horse in the battle. ^{10:4}Out of Juda shall come the helmet, the nail, the battle bow, and all the princes together. ^{10:5}They shall be as the giants, which in the battle tread down the mire upon the streets. They shall fight, for the LORD shall be with them, so that the horse men shall be confounded. ^{10:6}I will comfort the house of Juda, and preserve the house of Joseph. I will turn them also, for I pity them; and they shall be like as they were, when I had not cast them off. For I the LORD am their God, and will hear them. ^{10:7}Ephraim shall be as a giant, and their heart shall be cheerful as thow wine: Yea their children shall see it, and be glad, and their heart shall rejoice in the LORD. ^{10:8}I will blow for them and gather them together, for I will redeem them. They shall increase, as they increased afore. ^{10:9}I will sow them among the people, that they may think upon me in far countries: they shall live with their children, and turn again. ^{10:10}I will bring them again also from the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Assiria. I will carry them into the land of Gilead and to Libanus and they shall want nothing. ^{10:11}He shall go upon the sea of trouble, and smite the sea waves: so that all the deep floods shall be dried up. The proud boasting^u of Assur shall be cast down, and the scepter of Egypt shall be taken away. ^{10:12}I will comfort them in the LORD, that they may walk in his name, sayeth the LORD. ^{11:1}Open thy doors, O Libanus, that the fire may consume thy cedar trees. ^{11:2}Howl ye Fir trees, for the cedar is fallen, yea all the proud are wasted away. Howl (O ye oak trees of Baasan) for the mighty strong wood is cut down. ^{11:3}Men may hear the shepherds mourn, for their glory is destroyed. Men may hear the lion's whelps roar for the pride of Jordan is wasted away. ^{11:4}Thus sayeth the LORD my God: feed the sheep of the slaughter, ^{11:5}which shall be slain of those that possess them: yet they take it for no sin, but they that sell them, say: The LORD be thanked, I am rich: yea their own shepherds spare them not. ^{11:6}Therefore will I no more spare those that dwell in the land (sayeth the LORD) but lo, I will deliver the people, every man into his neighbour's hand, and in to the hand of his king: that they may smite the land, and out of their hands will not I deliver them. ^{11:7}I my self feed the slaughter sheep (and poor flock verily) and took unto me two staffs: the one I called loving meekness, the other I called woe, and so I kept the sheep. ^{11:8}Three shepherds destroyed I in one month, for I might not away with them, neither had

they any delight in me. ^{11:9}Then said I: I will feed you no more, the thing that dieth, let it die: and that will perish, let it perish, and let the remnant eat, every one the flesh of his neighbour. ^{11:10}I took also my loving meek staff, and brake it, that I might disannul the covenant, which I made with all people. ^{11:11}And so it was broken in that day. Then the poor simple sheep that had a respect unto me, knew thereby, that it was the word of the LORD. ^{11:12}And I said unto them: if ye think it good, bring hither my price: if no, then leave. So they weighed down thirty silver pens, the value that I was prised at. ^{11:13}And the LORD said unto me: cast it unto the potter (a goodly price for me to be valued at of them) and I took the thirty silver pens, and cast them to the potter in the house of the LORD. ^{11:14}Then brake I my other staff also (namely woe) that I might lowse the brotherhead betwixt Juda and Israel. ^{11:15}And the LORD said unto me: Take to thee also the staff of a foolish shepherd: ^{11:16}for lo, I will raise up a shepherd in the land, which shall not seek after the things that be lost, nor care for such as go astray: he shall not heal the wounded, he shall not nourish the thing that is whole: but he shall eat the flesh of such as be fat, and tear their claws in pieces. ^{11:17}O Idols shepherd, that leaveth the flock. The sword shall come upon his arm and upon his right eye. His arm shall be clean dried up, and his right eye shall be sore blinded. ^{12:1}The heavy burthen which the LORD hath devised for Israel. Thus sayeth the LORD, which spread the heavens abroad, laid the foundation of the earth, and giveth man the breath of life: ^{12:2}Behold, I will make Jerusalem a cup of surfet, unto all the people that are round about her: Yea Juda himself also shall be in the siege against Jerusalem. ^{12:3}At the same time will I make Jerusalem an heavy stone for all people, so that all such as lift it up, shall be torn and rent, and all the people of the earth shall be gathered together against it. ^{12:4}In that day, sayeth the LORD, I will make all horses abashed, and those that ride upon them, to be out of their wits. I will open mine eyes upon the house of Judah, and smite all the horses of the people with blindness. ^{12:5}And the princes of Judah shall say in their hearts: The inhabitants of Jerusalem shall give me consolation in the LORD of Hosts their God. ^{12:6}In that time will I make the princes of Judah like an hot burning oven with wood, and like a cresset of fire among the straw: so that they shall consume all the people round about them, both upon the right hand and the left. Jerusalem also shall be inhabited again: namely, in the same place where Jerusalem standeth. ^{12:7}The LORD shall preserve the tents of Judah, like as afore time: so that the glory of the house of David and the glory of the citizens of Jerusalem, shall be but little regarded, in comparison of the glory of Juda. ^{12:8}In that day shall the LORD defend the citizens of Jerusalem: so that the weakest then among them shall be as David: and the house of David shall be like as God's house, and as the Angel of the LORD before them. ^{12:9}At the same time will I go about to destroy all such people as come against Jerusalem. ^{12:10}Moreover, upon the house of David and upon the citizens of Jerusalem, will I pour out the spirit of grace and prayer, so that they shall look upon me, whom they have pierced: and they shall bewep him, as men mourn for their only begotten son: Yea and be sorry for him, as men are sorry for their first child. ^{12:11}Then shall there be a great mourning at Jerusalem, like as the lamentation at Adremnon in the field of Maggadon. ^{12:12}And the land shall bewail, every kindred by themselves: the kindred of the house of David themselves alone, and their wives by themselves: ^{12:13}The kindred of the house of Nathan themselves alone, and their wives by themselves: The kindred of the house of Levi themselves alone, and their wives by themselves: The kindred of the house of Semei themselves alone, and their wives by themselves: ^{12:14}In like manner, all the other generations, everyone by themselves alone, and there wives by themselves. ^{13:1}In that time shall the house of David and the citizens of Jerusalem have an open well, to wash of sin and uncleanness. ^{13:2}And then (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) I will destroy the names of Idols out of the land: so that they shall no more be put in remembrance. As for the false prophets also and the unclean spirit, I shall take them out of the land: ^{13:3}so that if any of them prophesy any more, his own father and mother that begat him, shall say unto him: Thou shalt die, for thou speakest lies under the name of the LORD: Yea his own father and mother that begat him, shall wound him, when he prophesieth. ^{13:4}And then shall those prophets be confounded, everyone of his vision when he prophesieth: neither shall they wear sack cloths any more, to deceive men withal. ^{13:5}But he shall be fain to say: I am no Prophet: I am an husband man, for so am I taught by Adam from my youth up. ^{13:6}And if it be said unto him: How came these wounds then in thine hands? He shall answer: Thus am I wounded in the house of mine own friends. ^{13:7}Arise, O thou sword, upon my shepherd, and upon the prince of my people, sayeth the LORD of Hosts: Smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered abroad, and so will I turn mine hand to the little ones. ^{13:8}And it shall come to pass (sayeth the LORD) that in all the land two parts shall be rooted out, but the third part shall remain therein. ^{13:9}And the same third part will I bring thorow the fire, and will cleanse them, as the silver is cleansed: Yea and try them, like as gold is tried. Then shall they call upon my name, and I will hear them: I will say; It is my people. And they shall say; LORD, my God. ^{14:1}Behold, the day of the LORD cometh, that thou shalt be spoiled and robbed: ^{14:2}For I will gather together all the Heathen, to fight against Jerusalem: so that the city shall be won, the houses spoiled, and the women defiled. The half of the city shall go away into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be carried out of the city. ^{14:3}After that shall the LORD go forth, to fight against those Heathen, as men use to fight in the day of battle. ^{14:4}Then shall his feet stand^v upon the mount olivete, that lieth upon the east side of Jerusalem. And the mount olivete shall cleave in two, eastward and westward, so that there shall be a great valley: and the half mount shall remove toward the north, and the other half toward the south. ^{14:5}And ye shall flee unto the valley of my hills, for the valley of the hills shall reach unto Asia. Yea flee shall ye, like as ye fled for the earthquake in the days of Osiah king of Juda. And the LORD my God shall come, and all saints with him. ^{14:6}In that day shall it not be light, but cold and frost. ^{14:7}This shall be that special day which is known unto the LORD: neither day nor night, but about the evening time it shall be light. ^{14:8}In that time shall there waters of life run out from Jerusalem: the half part of them toward the east sea, and the other half toward the uttermost^w sea, and shall continue both summer and winter. ^{14:9}And the LORD himself shall be king over all the earth. At that time shall there be one LORD only, and his name shall be but one. ^{14:10}Men shall go about the whole earth, as upon a field: from Gibeon to Remmon, and from the south to Jerusalem. She shall be set up, and inhabited in her place: from Benjamin's port, unto the place of the first port, and unto the corner port: and from the tower of Hananeel, unto the king's wine presses. ^{14:11}There shall men dwell, and there shall be no more cursing, but Jerusalem shall be safely inhabited. ^{14:12}This shall be the plague, wherewith the LORD will smite all people, that have fought against Jerusalem: Namely, their flesh shall consume away, though they stand upon their feet: their eyes shall be corrupt in their holes, and their tongue shall consume in their mouth. ^{14:13}In that day shall the LORD make a great sedition among them, so that one man shall take another by the hand, and lay his hands upon the hands of his neighbour. ^{14:14}Juda shall fight also against Jerusalem, and the goods of all the Heathen shall be gathered together round about: gold and silver and a very great multitude of clothes. ^{14:15}And so shall this plague go over horses, mules, camels, asses, and all the beasts that shall be in the host, like as yonder plague was. ^{14:16}Every one that remaineth then of all the people, which came against Jerusalem, shall go up yearly, to worship the King (even the LORD of Hosts) and to keep the feast of tabernacles. ^{14:17}And look what generation upon earth goeth not up to Jerusalem, for to worship the King (even the LORD of Hosts) upon the same shall come no rain. ^{14:18}If the kindred of Egypt go not up, and come not, it shall not rain upon them neither. This shall be the plague wherewith the LORD will smite all Heathen, that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles: ^{14:19}Yea this shall be the sin plague of Egypt and the sin plague of all people, that go not up to keep the feast of tabernacles. ^{14:20}At that time shall the riding gear of the horses be holy unto the LORD, and the kettles in the LORD's house shall be like the basins before the altar: ^{14:21}yea all the kettles in Jerusalem and Juda, shall be holy unto the LORD of Hosts: and all they that slay offerings, shall come and take of them, and dight them therein. And at that time there shall be no more Cananities in the house of the LORD.

^{1:1}The heavy burthen, which the LORD sheweth against Israel by Malachi. ^{1:2}I have loved you, sayeth the LORD: And yet ye say: wherein hast thou loved us? Was not Esau Jacob's brother? sayeth the LORD: yet have I loved Jacob, ^{1:3}and hated Esau: Yea I have made his hills waste, and his heritage a wilderness for dragons. ^{1:4}And though Edom said: well, we are destroyed, we will go build up again the places that be wasted: yet (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) what they builded, that brake I down: so that it was called a cursed land, and people, whom the LORD hath ever been angry withal. ^{1:5}Your eyes have seen it, and ye your selves must confess, that the LORD hath brought the land of Israel to great honour. ^{1:6}Should not a son honour his father, and a servant his master? If I be now a father, where is mine honour? If I be the LORD, where am I feared? sayeth the LORD of Hosts. Now to you priests, that despise my name. And if ye say: wherein have we despised thy name? ^{1:7}In this, that ye offer unclean bread upon mine altar. And if ye will say: wherein have we offered any unclean thing unto thee? In this that ye say: the altar of the LORD is not to be regarded. ^{1:8}If ye offer the blind, is not that evil? And if ye offer the lame and sick, is not that evil? Yea offer it unto thy prince, shall he be content with thee, or accept thy person, sayeth the LORD of Hosts? ^{1:9}And now make your prayer before God, that he may have mercy upon us: for such things have ye done. Shall he regard your persons, think ye, sayeth the LORD of Hosts? ^{1:10}Yea what is he among you, that will do so much as to shut the doors, or to kindle the fire upon mine alter for naught? I have no pleasure in you, sayeth the LORD of Hosts: and as for the meatoffering, I will not accept it at your hand. ^{1:11}For from the rising up of the son unto the going down of the same, my name is great among the Gentiles: Yea in every place shall there sacrifice be done, and a clean meatoffering offered up unto my name: for my name is great among the Heathen, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{1:12}But ye have unhallowed it, in that ye say, the alter of the LORD is not to be regarded, and the thing that is set thereupon, not worthy to be eaten. ^{1:13}Now say ye: It is but labour and travail, and thus have ye thought scorn at it (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) offering robbery, yea the lame and the sick. Ye have brought me in a meatoffering, should I accept it of your hand? sayeth the LORD. ^{1:14}Cursed be the dissembler, which hath in his flock one that is male, and when he maketh a vow, offereth a spotted one unto the Lord.^a For I am a great King (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) and my name is fearful among the Heathen. ^{2:1}And now (O ye priests) this commandment toucheth you: ^{2:2}If ye will not hear it, nor regard it, to give the glory unto my name, sayeth the LORD of Hosts, I will send a curse upon you, and will curse your blessings: yea curse them will I if ye do not take heed. ^{2:3}Behold, I shall corrupt your seed, and cast dung in your faces: even the dung of your solempne feasts and it shall cleave fast upon you. ^{2:4}And ye shall know that I have sent this commandment unto you: that my covenant which I made with Levi, might stand, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{2:5}I made a covenant of life and peace with him: this I gave him, that he might stand in awe of me: and so he did fear me, and had my name in reverence. ^{2:6}The law of truth was in his mouth, and there was no wickedness found in his lips. He walked with me in peace and equity, and did turn many one away from their sins. ^{2:7}For the priest's lips should be sure knowledge, that men may seek the law at his mouth, for he is a messenger of the LORD of Hosts. ^{2:8}But as for you, ye are gone clean out of the way, and have caused the multitude to be offended at the law: ye have broken the covenant of Levi, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{2:9}Therefore will I also make you to be despised, and to be of no reputation among all the people: because ye have not kept my ways, but been partial in the law. ^{2:10}Have we not all one father? Hath not one God made us? why doth every one of us then despise his own brother, and so break the covenant of our fathers? ^{2:11}Now hath Judah offended: yea the abomination is done in Israel and in Jerusalem, for Judah hath defiled the Sanctuary of the LORD, which he loved, and hath kept the daughter of a strange God. ^{2:12}But the LORD shall destroy the man that doth this, yea both the master and the scholar, out of the tabernacle of Jacob, with him that offereth up meatoffering unto the LORD of Hosts. ^{2:13}Now have ye brought it to this point again, that the altar of the LORD is covered with tears weeping, and mourning: so that I will no more regard the meatoffering, neither will I receive or accept anything at your hands. ^{2:14}And yet ye say: wherefore? Even because that where as the LORD made a covenant betwixt thee and the wife of thy youth, thou hast despised her: Yet is she thine own companion and married wife. ^{2:15}So did not the one, and yet had he an excellent spirit. What did then the one? He sought the seed promised of God. Therefore look well to your spirit, and let no man despise the wife of his youth. ^{2:16}If thou hatest her, put her away, sayeth the LORD God of Israel and give her a clothing for the scorn, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. Look well then to your spirit, and despise her not. ^{2:17}Ye grieve the LORD with your words, and yet ye say: wherewithall have we grieved him? In this, that ye say: All that do evil are good in the sight of God, and such please him. Or else where is the God that punisheth? ^{3:1}Behold, I will send my messenger, which shall prepare the way before me: and the Lord^b whom ye would have, shall soon come to his temple, yea, even the messenger of the covenant whom ye long for. Behold, he cometh, sayeth the LORD of Hosts.^c ^{3:2}But who may abide the day of his coming? Who shall be able to endure, when he appeareth? For he is like a goldsmith's fire, and like washer's soap.^d ^{3:3}He shall sit him down to try and to cleanse the silver, he shall purge the children of Levi, and purify them like as gold and silver: that they may bring meatofferings unto the LORD in righteousness.^e ^{3:4}Then shall the offering of Judah and Jerusalem be acceptable unto the LORD, like as from the beginning and in the years afore time.^f ^{3:5}I will come and punish you, and I myself will be a swift witness against the witches, against the advouterers, against false swearers: yea and against those, that wrongfully^g keep back the hirelings duty: which vex the widows and the fatherless, and oppress the stranger, and fear not me, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{3:6}For I am the LORD that change not, and ye (O children of Jacob) will not leave off: ^{3:7}ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and since the time of your forefathers have ye not kept them. Turn you now unto me, and I will turn me unto you, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. Ye say: Wherein shall we turn? ^{3:8}Should a man use falsity and deceit with God, as ye use falsity and deceit with me. Yet ye say wherein use we deceit with thee? In Tithes and heave offerings. ^{3:9}Therefore are ye cursed with penury, because ye dissemble with me, all the sort of you. ^{3:10}Bring every Tithes in to my barn, that there may be meat in mine house: and prove me withall (sayeth the LORD of Hosts) if I will not open the windows of heaven unto you, and pour you out a blessing with plenteousness. ^{3:11}Yea, I shall reprove the consumer for your sakes, so that he shall not eat up the fruit of your ground, neither shall the vineyard be barren in the field, sayeth the LORD of Hosts: ^{3:12}In so much that all people shall say, that ye be blessed, for ye shall be a pleasant land, sayeth the LORD of Hosts. ^{3:13}Ye speak hard words against me, sayeth the LORD. And yet ye say: What have we spoken against thee? ^{3:14}Ye have said: It is but lost labour, to serve God: What profit have we for keeping his commandments, and for walking humbly before the LORD of Hosts? ^{3:15}Therefore may we say, that the proud are happy, and that they which deal with ungodliness, are set up: for they tempt God and yet escape. ^{3:16}But they that fear God, say thus one to another: the LORD considereth and heareth it. Yea it is before him a memorial book, written for such as fear the LORD, and remember his name. ^{3:17}And in the day that I will make (sayeth the LORD of

are fourteen generations. And from the captivity of Babylon unto Christ, are also fourteen generations. ^{1:18}The birth of^g Christ was on this wise, when his mother Mary was married^h unto Joseph, before they came to dwell together,ⁱ she was found with child by the holy ghost. ^{1:19}Then her husband Joseph being a perfect man, and loth to defame^j her, was minded to put her away secretly. ^{1:20}While he thus thought, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in sleep^k saying: Joseph the son of David, fear not to take unto thee, Mary thy wife. For that which is conceived in her, is of the holy ghost. ^{1:21}She shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus.^l For he shall save his people from their sins. ^{1:22}All this was done to fulfil that which was spoken of the Lord, by the prophet saying: ^{1:23}Behold a maid shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they^m shalt call his name Emmanuel, which is as much to say, by interpretation, as God with us. ^{1:24} ⁿ Joseph as soon as he awoke out of sleep, did as the angel of the Lord bade him, and took his wife unto him, ^{1:25}and knew her not, till she had brought forth her first son, and called his name Jesus. ^{2:1}When Jesus was born in^o Bethlehem a town of^p Jury,^q in the time of king Herod. and all Jerusalem with him, ^{2:4}and he sent for^v all the chief priests and scribes of the people, and demanded^w of them where Christ should be born. ^{2:5} ^x They said unto him: in Bethlehem a town of Jury. For thus it is written by the prophet: ^{2:6} And thou Bethlehem in the land of Jury, shalt not be the least as pertaining to^y the princes of Juda. For out of thee shall come a^z captain, which^a shall govern my people Israel. ^{2:7} Then Herod privily called the wise men, and diligently enquired of them, the time of the star that appeared. ^{2:8} And sent them to Bethlehem saying: when ye be come thither^b search diligently for the child. And when ye have found him bring me word, that I may come and worship him also. ^{2:9} When they had heard the king, they departed, and lo the star which they saw in the east went before them, until^c it came and stood over the place where the child was. ^{2:10} When they saw the star, they were marvelously glad. ^{2:11} And entered^d into the house, and found^e the child with Mary his mother, and kneeled down and worshipped him, and opened their treasures, and offered unto him gifts, gold, frankincense, and myrrh. ^{2:12} And after they were warned in their sleep,^f that they should not go again to Herod, they returned into their own country another way. ^{2:13} After that^g they were departed, lo^h the angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in his sleepⁱ saying: arise and take the child and his mother, and fly into Egypt, and abide there till I bring thee word. For Herod will seek the child to destroy him. ^{2:14} Then he arose, and took the child and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt, ^{2:15} and was there unto the death of Herod, to fulfil that which was spoken of the Lord, by the prophet, which saith: out of Egypt have I called my son. ^{2:16} Then Herod perceiving that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, as many as were two year old and under, according to the time which he had diligently searched out of the wise men. ^{2:17} Then was fulfilled, that which was spoken by the prophet Jeremy, saying: ^{2:18} On the hills was a voice heard, mourning, weeping, and great lamentation. Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they were not. ^{2:19} When Herod was dead, lo^j an angel of the Lord appeared^k unto Joseph in Egypt ^{2:20} saying: arise and take the child and his mother, and go into the land of Israel. For they are dead, which sought the child's death.^l ^{2:21} Then he arose up, and took the child and his mother, and came into the land of Israel. ^{2:22} But when he heard that Archelaus did reign in Jury, in the room of his father Herod, he was afraid to go thither. Notwithstanding after he was warned in his sleep,^m he turned aside into the parts of Galilee, ^{2:23} and went and dwelt in a city called Nazareth, to fulfil, that which was spoken by the prophets: He shall be called of Nazareth.ⁿ ^{3:1} In those days John the Baptist,^o came and preached in the wilderness of Jury^p

^{3:2}saying: repent,^q the kingdom of heaven is at hand. ^{3:3}This is he of whom it is spoken by the prophet Isay,^r which saith: The voice of a crier in wilderness, prepare the Lord's^s way, and make his paths straight. ^{3:4}This John had his garment of camel's hair, and a girdle of a skin about his loins. His meat was locusts and wild honey. ^{3:5}Then went out to him Jerusalem, and all Jury,^t and all the region round about Jordan, ^{3:6}and were baptised of him in Jordan, knowledging^u their sins. ^{3:7}When he saw many of the pharisees and of the sadducees come to his baptism, he said unto them: O generation of vipers, who hath taught you to flee from the vengeance to come? ^{3:8}Bring forth therefore the fruits belonging to repentance. ^{3:9}And see that ye once think not to say in yourselves, we have Abraham to our father. For I say unto you, that God is able of these stones, to raise up children unto Abraham. ^{3:10}Even now is the axe put unto the root^v of the trees: so that every tree which bringeth not forth, good fruit, shall be^w hewn down, and cast into the fire. ^{3:11}I baptise you in water, in token of repentance, but he that cometh after me, is mightier than I: whose shoes I am not worthy to bear. He shall baptise you with the holy ghost, and with fire, ^{3:12}which hath also his fan in his hand, and will purge his flour, and gather the wheat into his garner, and will burn the chaff with everlasting^x fire. ^{3:13}Then came Jesus from Galilee into^y Jordan to^z John, for to be baptised of him. ^{3:14}But John forbade him saying: I ought to be baptised of thee: and comest thou to me? ^{3:15}Jesus answered and said to him, let it be so now. For thus it becometh us, to fulfil all righteousness. Then he suffered him. ^{3:16}And Jesus as soon as he was baptised, came straight out of the water. And lo heaven was open unto^a him: and he^b saw the spirit of God descend like a dove, and light upon him. ^{3:17}And lo there came a voice from heaven saying: this is my dear^c son, in whom is my delight. ^{4:1}Then was Jesus led away of the spirit in to a desert,^d to be tempted of the devil. ^{4:2}And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, at the last he was^e an hungered. ^{4:3}Then came until^f him the tempter, and said: If thou be the son of God, command that these stones be made bread. ^{4:4}He answered and said: It is written, man shall not live only by bread, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. ^{4:5}Then the devil took him up into the holy city, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, ^{4:6}and said unto him: if thou be the son of God, cast thyself down. For it is written, he shall give his angels charge over thee, and with their hands they shall stey^g thee up, that thou dash not thy foot against a stone. ^{4:7h} Jesus said to him, it is written also: thou shalt not tempt thy Lord God. ^{4:8}The devil took him up again and led him into an exceeding highⁱ mountain, and shewed him all the kingdoms of the world, and the beauty of them,^j ^{4:9}and said unto^k him: all these will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down

For it is written, thou shalt worship thy Lord God,^l and him only, shalt thou serve. ^{4:11}Then the devil left him, and lo^m the angels came and ministered unto him. ^{4:12}When Jesus had heard that John was taken, he departed into Galilee, ^{4:13}and left Nazareth, and went and dwelt in Capernaum, which is a city upon the sea, in the coasts of Zabulon and Nephthalim, ^{4:14}to fulfil that which was spoken by Esay the prophet, saying: ^{4:15}Behold the land of Zabulon and Nephthalim, the way of the sea beyond Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles, ^{4:16}the people which sat in darkness, saw great light. And to them which sat in the region and shadow of death, light is sprong.ⁿ ^{4:17}From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say: Repent,^o for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. ^{4:18}As Jesus walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw two brethren: Simon which was called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea (for they were fishers) ^{4:19}and he said unto them, follow me, and I will make you (to become) fishers of men. ^{4:20}And they straightway left their nets, and followed him. ^{4:21}And he went forth from thence, and saw other two brethren, James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother in the ship, with Zebedee their father, mending their nets, and called them. ^{4:22}And they without tarrying left the ship and their father and followed him. ^{4:23}And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel^p of the kingdom, and healing^q all manner of sickness, and all manner diseases among the people. ^{4:24}And his fame spread abroad throughout all Syria. And they brought unto him all sick people, that were taken with divers diseases and gripings, and them that were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatic, and those that had the palsy. And he healed them. ^{4:25}And there followed him a great number of people, from Galilee, and from the ten cities, and from Jerusalem, and from Jury,^r and from the regions that lie beyond Jordan. ^{5:1}When he saw the people he went up into a mountain, and when he was set, his disciples came to him, ^{5:2}and he opened his mouth,^s and taught them saying: ^{5:3}Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. ^{5:4}Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted. ^{5:5}Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. ^{5:6}Blessed are they which hunger and thirst for righteousness: for they shall be filled. ^{5:7}Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy. ^{5:8}Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. ^{5:9}Blessed are the maintainers of peace:^t for they shall be called the children of God. ^{5:10}Blessed are they which suffer persecution for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. ^{5:11}Blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall falsely say all manner of evil sayings against you for my sake. ^{5:12}Rejoice, and be glad, for great is your reward in heaven. For so persecuted they the prophets which were before your days. ^{5:13}Ye are the salt of the earth: but and if the salt be once unsavory,^u what can be salted there with? It is thence forth good for nothing, but to be cast out at the doors, and that men tread it under feet. ^{5:14}Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill, cannot be hid, ^{5:15}neither do men light a candle and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick, and it lighteth all them which^w are in the house. ^{5:16}See that^x your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your father which is in heaven. ^{5:17}Ye shall not think,^y that I am come to disannul^z the law, other the prophets: no I am not come to disannul^a them, but to fulfil them. ^{5:18}For truly I say unto you, till heaven and earth perish, one jot, or one tittle of the law shall not scape, till all be fulfilled. ^{5:19}Whosoever breaketh one of these least commandments, and teacheth men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven. But whosoever shall observe^b and teach them,^c that person^d shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. ^{5:20}For I say unto you except your righteousness exceed the righteousness of the scribes and pharisees, ye cannot enter into the kingdom of heaven. ^{5:21}Ye have heard how it was said unto them of the old time: Thou shalt not kill. Whosoever shall kill,^e shall be in danger of judgement. ^{5:22}But I say unto you, whosoever is angry with his brother, shall be in danger of judgement. Whosoever shall say^f unto his brother raca, shall be in danger of a council. But whosoever say unto his brother^g thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire. ^{5:23}Therefore when thou offerest thy gift at the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath anything against thee: ^{5:24}leave there thine offering before the altar, and go thy way first and reconcile thyself^h to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift. ^{5:25}Agree with thine adversary at once,ⁱ whiles thou art in the way with him, lest thine^j adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the minister, and then thou be cast into prison. ^{5:26k} I say unto thee verily: thou shalt not come out thence till thou have paid the utmost farthing. ^{5:27}Ye have heard how it was said to them of old time, thou shalt not commit advoury. ^{5:28}But I say unto you, that whosoever eyeth^l a wife, lusting after her, hath committed advoury with her already in his heart. ^{5:29}Wherefore if thy right eye offend thee, pluck him out, and cast him from thee. Better it is for thee that one of thy members perish than that thy whole body should be cast into hell. ^{5:30}Also if thy right hand offend thee, cut him off and cast him from thee. Better it is that one of thy members perish, than that all thy body should, be cast in to hell. ^{5:31}It is said, whosoever put away his wife, let him give her a testimonial of her^m divorcement. ^{5:32}But I say unto you: whosoever put away his wife, (except it be for fornication) causeth her to break matrimony. And whosoever marrieth her that is divorced, breaketh wedlock. ^{5:33}Again ye have heard, how it was said to them of old time, thou shalt not forswear thyself, but shalt perform thine oath to God. ^{5:34}But I say unto you swear not at all: neither by heaven, for it is God's seat:ⁿ ^{5:35}nor yet by the earth, for it is his footstool: Neither by Jerusalem, for it is the city of that great King: ^{5:36}neither shalt thou swear by thy head, because thou canst not make one white hair, or black: ^{5:37}But your communication shall be, yea, yea: nay, nay. For whatsoever is more than that, cometh of evil. ^{5:38}Ye have heard how it is said, an eye for an eye: a tooth for a tooth. ^{5:39}But I say to you, that ye withstand^o not wrong. Bless them that curse you. Do good to them that hate you. Pray for them which do you wrong, and persecute you, ^{5:45} that ye may be the children of your heavenly father:^f for he maketh his sun to arise, on the evil, and on the good, and sendeth his rain on the just and unjust. ^{5:46} For if ye shall love them, which love you: what reward shall ye have? Do not the publicans even so? ^{5:47} And if ye be friendly to your brethren only: what singular thing do ye? Do not the publicans likewise? ^{5:48} Ye shall therefore be perfect, even as your heavenly father^s is perfect. ^{6:1} Take heed to your alms.^t That ye give it not in the sight of men, to the intent that ye would be seen of them. Or else ye get no reward of your father ^u in heaven. ^{6:2} Whensoever therefore thou givest thine alms, thou shalt not make a trumpet to be blown before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues, and in the streets, for to be praised of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward. ^{6:3} But when thou doest thine alms, let not thy left hand know, what thy right hand doth, ^{6:4} that thine alms may be secret, and thy father which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly. ^{6:5} And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are. For they love to stand and pray in the synagogues, and in the corners of the streets, because they would be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward. ^{6:6} But when thou prayest, enter into thy chamber, and shut thy door to thee, and pray to thy father which is in secret: and thy father which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly. ^{6:7} But^v when ye pray, babble not much, as the gentiles^w do: for they think that they shall be heard, for their much babbling's sake. ^{6:8} Be ye not like them therefore. For your father knoweth whereof ye have need, before ye ask of him. ^{6:9} After this manner therefore pray ye. O our father, which art in heaven hallowed be thy name. ^{6:10} Let thy kingdom come. to hear, let him hear. ^{13:10}And his^v disciples came, and said to him: Why speakest thou to them in parables? ^{13:11}He answered and said unto them: It is given unto you to know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given. ^{13:12}For whosoever hath, to him shall be given: and he shall have abundance. But whosoever hath not: from him shall be taken away even that same that he hath. ^{13:13}Therefore speak I to them in similitudes.^w For though they see, they see not: and hearing they hear not: nether understand. ^{13:14}And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Esay, which prophecy saith: with your^x ears ye shall hear, and shall not understand, and with your^y eyes ye shall see, and shall not perceive. ^{13:15}For this people's heart is^z waxed gross. And their ears were dull of hearing, and their eyes have they closed, lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and should understand with their hearts, and should turn, that I might heal them. ^{13:16}But blessed are your eyes, for they see, and your ears, for they hear. ^{13:17}Verily I say unto you, that many prophets and perfect^a men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them: and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them. ^{13:18}Hear ye therefore the similitude of the sower. ^{13:19}When a man^b heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, there cometh the evil man, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. And this is he which was sown by the way side. ^{13:20}But he that was sown in the stony ground, is he, which heareth the word of God, and anon with joy receiveth it,

^{13:21}yet hath no roots in himself, and therefore dureth but a season: for as soon as tribulation^c or persecution ariseth be cause of the word, by and by he falleth.^d ^{13:22}He that was sown among thorns, is he, that heareth the word of God, but the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches choke the word, and so is he made unfruitful. ^{13:23}He which is sown in the good ground, is he, that heareth the word and understandeth it, which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundred fold, some fifty^e fold, and some thirty fold. ^{13:24}Another similitude put he forth, unto them saying: The kingdom of heaven is like unto a man which sowed good seed in his field. ^{13:25}But while men slept, there came his foe, and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. ^{13:26}When the blade was sprung up, and had brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. ^{13:27}The servants^f came to the householder, and said unto him. The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven which a woman took^m and hideth inⁿ three pecks of meal, till all was^o leavened. ^{13:34}All these things spake Jesus unto the people by similitudes, and with out similitudes spake he nothing to them, ^{13:35}to fulfil that which was spoken by the prophet saying: I will open my mouth in similitudes, and will speak forth things which have been kept secret from the beginning of the world. ^{13:36}Then sent Jesus the people away, and came to house,^p and his disciples came unto him, saying: declare unto us the similitude of the tares of^q the field: ^{13:37}Then answered he and said to them. He that soweth the good seed, is the son of man, ^{13:38} ^r the field is the world. ^s The children of the kingdom ^t are the good seed. ^u The evil man's children are the tares.^v ^{13:39}But^w the enemy which^x soweth it,^y is the devil. There shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. ^{13:43}Then shall the just men shine as bright as the son in the kingdom of their father. Whosoever hath ears to hear, let him hear. ^{13:44}Again the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in the field, the which a man found^a and hid^b it: and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field. ^{13:45}Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant, seeking^c good pearls, ^{13:46}which when he had found one precious pearl, went and sold all that he had, and bought it. ^{13:47}Again the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net cast in to the sea, that gathereth of all kinds (of fishes): ^{13:48}the which when it is full, men draw to land, and sit and gather the good into their vessels, and cast the bad away. ^{13:49}So shall it be at the end of the world. The angels shall come^d and sever the bad from the good,^e ^{13:50}and shall cast them in to a furnace of fire, there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. ^{13:51}Jesus said unto them: Have ye understood^f all these things? They said, yea sir.^g ^{13:52}Then said he unto them: Therefore every scribe which is conning^h unto the kingdom of heaven, is like an householder, which bringeth forth, out of his treasure, things both new and old. ^{13:53}And it came to pass when Jesus had finished these similitudes that he departed thence, ^{13:54}and came in to his own country, and taught them in their synagogues, insomuch that they were astonied, and said:

and if we shall say of men, then fear we the people. For all men held John as a prophet. ^{21:27}And they answered Jesus, and said: We cannot tell. ^f He likewise said unto them: neither tell I you by what authority I do these things. ^{21:28}What say ye to this? A certain man had two sons, and came to the elder saying:^g go and work today in my vineyard. ^{21:29}He answered and said, I will not: but afterward repented and went. ^{21:30}Then came he to the second, and said like wise, and he answered and said: I will sir: yet went he not. ^{21:31}Whether of these two fulfilled their father's will?^h And they said unto him: The first. Jesus said unto them: Verily I say unto you, that the publicans and the harlots shall come into the kingdom of God before you. ^{21:32}For John came unto you, in the way of righteousness, and ye believed him not. But the publicans and the whoresⁱ believed him. But^j ye (though ye saw it) yet were not moved with repentance, that ye might afterward have believed him. ^{21:33}Hearken another similitude. There was a certain householder, which set^k a vineyard, and hedged it round about, and made a winepress in it, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a strange country. ^{21:34}And when the time of the fruit drew near, he sent his servants to the husbandmen, to receive the fruits of it, ^{21:35}and the husbandmen caught his servants, and beat one, killed another, and stoned another. ^{21:36}Again he sent other servants more than the first, and they served them likewise. ^{21:37}But last of all, he sent unto them his own son, saying: they will fear my son. ^{21:38}^l When the husbandmen saw his^m son, they said among them selves: This is the heir, come on let us kill him, and let us take his inheritance, to our selves. ^{21:39}And they caught him and thrust him out of the vineyard, and slew him. ^{21:40}When the lord of the vineyard cometh: what will he do with those husbandmen? ^{21:41}They said unto him: he will evilⁿ destroy those evil persons, and will let out his vineyard unto other husbandmen, which shall deliver him his^o fruit at times convenient. ^{21:42}Jesus said unto them: did ye never read in the scriptures? The same stone which the builders refused,^p is set in the principal part of the corner: this was the Lord's^q doing, and it is marvelous in our eyes. ^{21:43}Therefore say I unto you, the kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and shall be given to the Gentiles which shall bring forth the fruits of it. ^{21:44}And whosoever shall fall on this stone,^r shall be alto broken. And^s whosoever this stone^t shall fall upon, he shall^u grind him to powder.^v ^{21:45}And when the chief priests and pharisees heard these similitudes they perceived that he spake of them. ^{21:46}And they went about to lay hands on him, but they feared the people, because they counted^w him as a prophet. ^{22:1}And Jesus answered and spake unto them again, in similitudes, saying: ^{22:2}The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain King, which married his son, ^{22:3}and sent forth his servants, to call them that were bid to the wedding, and they would not come. ^{22:4}Again he sent forth other servants,

And kissed him. ^{26:50} And Jesus said unto him: friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they and laid hands on Jesus and took him. ^{26:51} And behold, one of them which were with Jesus, stretched out his hand and drew his sword, and struck a servant of the high priest, and smote off his ear. ^{26:52} Then said Jesus unto him: Put up thy sword into his sheath. They answered and said: He is worthy to die.^v 26:67 Then spat they in his face, and beat^w him with their fists. And other smote him with the palm of their hands on the face,^{26:68} saying: Areed to us^{xy} Christ, who is he that smote thee? 26:69 Peter sat without in the palace, and a damsel came to him, saying: Thou also wast with Jesus of Galilee: 26:70 ^z he denied before them all saying: I wot not what thou sayest. 26:71 When he was gone out into the porch, another wench saw him, and said unto them that were there: This fellow was also with Jesus of Nazareth: 26:72 And again he denied with an oath,^a and said: I know not the man. 26:73 And after a while came unto him they that stood by, and said unto Peter: Surely thou art even one of them, for thy speech betrayeth thee. 26:74 Then began he to curse and to swear, that he knew not the man. And immediately the cock crew. 26:75 And Peter remembered the words of Jesu, which he said unto him: before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice: and went out at the doors and wept bitterly. 27:1 When the morning was come, all the chief priests and seniors^b of the people held a counsel against Jesu, to put him to death, 27:2 and brought him bound and delivered him unto Pontius Pilate the deputy. 27:3 Then when Judas which betrayed him, saw that he was condemned, he repented himself, and brought again the thirty plates of silver to the chief priests and seniors^c 27:4 saying: I have sinned betraying the innocent blood. And they said: What is that to us? see thou to that. 27:5 And he cast down the silver plates in the temple, and departed, and went and hung himself. 27:6 ^d The chief priests took the silver plates and said: It is not lawful for to put them into the treasury, because it is the price of blood. 27:7 And they took counsel, and bought with them a potter's field to bury strangers in. 27:8 Wherefore that field is called, (Haceldema, that is) the field of blood, until this day. 27:9 Then was fulfilled, that which was spoken by Jeremy^e the prophet, saying: And they took thirty silver plates, the value^f of him that was priced,^g whom they bought of the children of Israel, 27:10 and they gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord appointed me. 27:11 Jesus stood before the deputy: and the deputy asked him, saying: Art thou the King of the Jews? Jesus said unto him: Thou sayest. 27:12 ^h When he was accused of the chief priests and seniors,ⁱ he answered nothing. 27:13 Then said Pilate unto him: Hearest thou not how many things they lay against thee? 27:14 and he answered him to never a word: insomuch that the deputy marveled very sore.^j 27:15 At that feast, the deputy was wont to deliver unto the people a prisoner whom they would choose.^k 27:16 He had then a notable prisoner called^l Barabbas. 27:17 And when they were gathered together, Pilate said unto them: Whether will

And they said, Barabbas. ^{27:22} Pilate said unto them: What shall I do then with Jesus, which is called Christ? They all said to him: Let him be crucified. ^{27:23} Then said the deputy: What evil hath he done? And they cried the more saying: Let him be crucified. ^{27:24} When Pilate saw that he prevailed nothing, but that more business was made, he took water and washed his hands before the people saying: I am innocent of the blood of this just^q person, and that ye shall see.^r ^{27:25} Then answered all the people, and said: His blood fall^s on us, and on^t our children. ^{27:26} Then let he Barabbas loose unto them, and scourged Jesus, and delivered him to be crucified. ^{27:27} Then the soldiers of the deputy took Jesus unto the common hall, and gathered unto him all the company. ^{27:28} And they stripped him, and put on him a purple robe, ^{27:29} and plaited a crown of thorns and put upon his head, and a reed in his right hand.

And bowed their knees before him, ^u saying: Hail King of the Jews, ^{27:30} and spitted upon him, and took the reed and smote him on the head. ^{27:31} And when they had mocked him, they took the robe off him again, and put his own raiment^v on him, and led him away to crucify him. ^{27:32} And as they came^w out, they found a man of Cyren, named Simon: him they compelled to bear his cross. ^{27:33} And ^x came unto the place, which is called Golgotha (that is to say^y a place of dead men's skulls) ^{27:34} they gave him vinegar to drink mixt^z with gall. The Gospell off S. Mark

^{1:1}The beginning of the Gospell of Jesu Christ the son of God, ^{1:2}as it is written in the prophets, behold I send my messenger before thy face which shall prepare thy way before thee. ^{1:3}The voice of one that crieth^a in the wilderness: prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight. ^{1:4}John did baptise in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance,^b for the remission of sins. ^{1:5}And all the land of Jewry, and they of Jerusalem went out unto him, and were all baptised of him in the river Jordan, knowledging,^c their sins. ^{1:6}John was clothed with camel's hair, and with a girdle of a beast's skin about his loins. And he ate^d locusts and wild honey, ^{1:7}and preached saying: a stronger than I cometh after me, whose shoe latchet I am not worthy to stoop down and unloose. ^{1:8}I have baptised you with water: but he shall baptise you with the holy ghost. ^{1:9}And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth, a city of Galilee: and was baptised of John in Jordan. ^{1:10}And immediately he came^e out of the water, and^f saw the heavens open, and the holy ghost descending upon him like a dove. ^{1:11}And there came a voice from heaven: Thou art my dear son, in whom I delight. ^{1:12}And immediately the spirit drove^g him into a wilderness: ^{1:13}and he was there in the wilderness forty days, and was tempted of Satan, and was with wild beasts. And the angels ministered unto him. ^{1:14}After that John was taken, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel^h of the kingdom of God, ^{1:15}and saying: the time is ful come,ⁱ and the kingdom of God is even at hand, repent^j and believe the gospel.^k ^{1:16}As he walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting nets into the sea, for they were fishers. ^{1:17}And Jesus said unto them: follow me, and I will make you to be fishers of men. ^{1:18}And they straightway forsook their nets, and followed him. ^{1:19}And when he had gone a little further thence, he saw James the son of Zebede, and John his brother, even as they were in the ship dressing^l their nets. ^{1:20}And anon he called them. And they left their father Zebede in the ship with his hired servants, and went their way after him. ^{1:21}And they entered into Capernaum, and straight way on the Sabbath days he entered into the synagogue and taught. ^{1:22}And they marveled^m at his learning. For he taught them as one whichⁿ had power with him, and not as the scribes did. ^{1:23}And there was in the^o synagogue, a man vexed with an unclean spirit, and he^p cried ^{1:24}saying: let me alone:^q what have we to do with thee ^r Jesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroy us? I know ^s what thou art, thou art ^t that holy man promised of God. ^{1:25}And Jesus rebuked him, saying: hold thy peace and come out of the man.^u ^{1:26}And the unclean spirit tare him, ^vcried out with a loud voice,

And he cast out many devils and suffered not the devils^b to speak, because they knew him. ^{1:35}And in the morning very early, Jesus arose and went out into a solitary place, and there prayed. ^{1:36}And Simon and they that were with him followed after him. ^{1:37}And when they had found him, they said unto him: all men seek for thee. ^{1:38}And he said unto them: let us go in to the next towns, that I may preach there also: for truly I came out for that purpose. ^{1:39}And he preached in their synagogues, throughout all Galilee, and cast^c devils out. ^{1:40}And there came a leper to him beseeching him, and kneeled down unto him, and said unto him: if thou wilt, thou arte able to^d make me clean. ^{1:41}^e Jesus had compassion on him, and put forth his hand, touched him, and said unto him: I will, be f clean. ^{1:42}And as soon as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleansed. ^{1:43}And he charged him and sent him away forthwith ^{1:44}and said unto him: See that thou tell no^g man, but get thee hence and shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing, those things which Moses commanded, for a testimonial unto them. ^{1:45}But he (as soon as he was departed) began to tell many things and to publish the deed, insomuch that Jesus could no more openly enter into the city, but was without in desert places, and they came to him from every quarter. ^{2:1}After a few days he entered into Capernaum again, and it was noised that he was in a house: ^{2:2}And anon many gathered together,^h insomuch that now there was no room to receive them: no, not in placesⁱ about the door. And he preached^j unto them. ^{2:3}And there came unto him that brought one sick of the palsy, borne of four men: ^{2:4}and because they could not come nigh unto him for press: They opened^k the roof of the house where he was. And when they had broken it open, they let down the bed wherein the sick of the palsy lay. ^{2:5}When Jesus saw their faith, he said to the sick of the palsy, son thy sins are forgiven thee. ^{2:6}^l There were certain of the scribes sitting,^m and reasoning in their hearts: ^{2:7}how doth this fellow so blaspheme? Who can forgive sins, but God only? ^{2:8}And immediately when Jesus perceived in his spirit, that they so reasoned in themselves, he said unto them: why think ye such things in your hearts? ^{2:9}Whether is it easier to say to the sick of the palsy, thy sins are forgiven thee: or to say, arise, take up thy

And they anointed, many that were sick with oil and healed them. ^{6:14}And king Herod heard of him, for his name was spread abroad; And he said: John Baptist is risen again from death, and therefore miracles are wrought in^v him. ^{6:15}Other said, it is Helias: and some said: it is a prophet, or as one of the prophets. ^{6:16}But when Herod heard of him, he said: it is John whom I beheaded, he is risen from death again. ^{6:17}For Herod himself, had sent forth, and had taken John, and bound him and cast him into prison for Herodias' sake which was his brother Philip's wife. For he had married her. ^{6:18}John said unto Herod: It is not lawful for thee to have thy brother's wife. ^{6:19}Herodias laid wait for him, and would have killed him, but she could not. ^{6:20}For Herod feared John, knowing that he was ^w just ^x and ^y holy, and gave him reverence; And when he heard him he did many things, and heard him gladly. ^{6:21}And^z when a convenient day was come: Herod on his birthday made a supper to the lords, captains, and chief estates of Galilee. ^{6:22}And the daughter of the same^a Herodias came in and danced, and pleased Herod and them that sat at board also. Last of all the wife died also. ^{12:23}In the resurrection then, when they shall rise again: whose wife shall she be of them? For seven had her to wife. ^{12:24}Jesus answered, and said unto them: Are ye not therefore deceived^m because ye know notⁿ the scriptures? Neither the power of God? ^{12:25}For when they shall rise again from death, they neither marry, nor are married: but are as the angels which are in heaven. ^{12:26}As touching the dead, that they shall rise again: have ye not read in the book of Moses, how in the bush God spake unto him saying: I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? ^{12:27}He is not the God of the dead, but the God of

^{12:28}And there came one of the scribes, and when he^o had heard them disputing together, and perceived that he had answered them well, he^p asked him: Which is the first of all the commandments? ^{12:29}Jesus answered him: the first of all the commandments is. Hear Israel, our^q Lord God, is one Lord. ^{12:30}And thou shalt love thy Lord God^r with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength. This is the first commandment. ^{12:31}And the second is like unto this. Thou shalt love thy neighbor, as thy self. There is none other commandment greater than these. ^{12:32}And the scribe said unto him: well master, thou hast said the truth,^s that there is one God, and that there is none but he. ^{12:33}And to love him with all the heart, and with all the mind, and with all the soul, and with all the strength. And to love a man's neighbor as himself, is a greater thing than all holocausts^t and sacrifices. ^{12:34}And when Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, he said unto him: Thou art not far from the kingdom of God. And no man after that durst ask him any question. ^{12:35}And Jesus answered, and said teaching in the temple: how say the scribes, that Christ is the son of David? ^{12:36}for David himself inspired with the holy ghost said: The Lord said to my Lord, sit on my right hand till I make thine enemies thy foot stool. ^{12:37}Then David himself calleth him Lord, and by what means is he then his son? And much people heard him gladly. ^{12:38}And he said unto^u them in his doctrine: beware of the scribes which love to go in long, clothing: and love salutations in the market places, ^{12:39}and the chief seats in the synagogues, and to sit in the uppermost rooms at feasts, ^{12:40}and unto you: wheresoever this gospel^j shall be preached thorowout the whole world: this also that she hath done, shall be rehearsed in remembrance of her. ^{14:10}And Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, went away unto the high priests, to betray him unto them. ^{14:11}When they heard that, they were glad, and promised that they would give him money. And he sought, how he might conveniently betray him. ^{14:12}And the first day of sweet bread, when men offer the paschal lamb, his disciples said unto him: where wilt thou that we go and prepare that thou mayest eat the ester lamb? ^{14:13}And he sent forth two of his disciples, and said unto them: Go ye into the city, and there shall a man meet you bearing a pitcher of water, follow him. ^{14:14}And whithersoever he goeth in, say ye to the good man of the house: the master asketh^k where is the guest chamber, where I shall eat the ester lamb with my disciples? ^{14:15}And he will shew you a great parlour, paved, and prepared: there make ready for us. ^{14:16}And his disciples went forth, and came in to the city, and found as he had said unto them, and made ready^l the ester lamb. ^{14:17}And at even, he came with the twelve. ^{14:18}And as they sat at board and ate, Jesus said: Verily I say unto you: that one of you shall betray me, which eateth with me. ^{14:19}And they began to mourn, and to say to him one by one: is it I? And another said: Is it I? ^{14:20}he answered, and said unto them: It is one of the twelve and the same dippeth with me in the platter. ^{14:21}The son of man goeth, as it is written of him: but woe be to that man, by whom the son of man is betrayed. Good were it for him, if that man had never been born. ^{14:22}And as they ate, Jesus took bread, gave thanks,^m brake it and gave it to them and said: Take, eat; This is my body. ^{14:23}And he took the cup, gave thanks, and gave it to them, and they drank all of it. ^{14:24}And he said unto them: This is my blood of the new Testament, which shall beⁿ shed for many. ^{14:25}Verily I say unto you: I will drink no more of this fruit of the vine, until that day, that I shall drink it new in the kingdom of God. ^{14:26}And when they had said grace, they went out into the mount olivet. ^{14:27}And Jesus said unto them: All ye shall hurt^o thorow me this night. For it is written: I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered.^p ^{14:28}But after that I am risen again I will go into Galilee before you. ^{14:29}Peter said unto him: And though all men should be hurt,^q yet would not I. ^{14:30}And Jesus said unto him: Verily I say unto thee this day even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. ^{14:31}And he spake bolder: no, if I should die with thee, I will not deny thee. Likewise also said they all. ^{14:32}And they came into a place named Gethsemani. And he said to his disciples: Sit ye here while I go apart and pray. ^{14:33}And he took with him Peter, James, and John, and he began to wax abashed and to be in an agony. ^{14:34}And said unto them: My soul is very heavy even unto the death, tarry here and watch. ^{14:35}And he went forth a little and fell down on the ground and prayed: That if it were possible, the hour might pass from him. ^{14:36}And he said: Abba father, all things are possible unto thee, take away this cup from me. Nevertheless not that I will, but that thou wilt be done. ^{14:37}And he came and found them sleeping, and said to Peter: Simon sleepest thou? Coudest not thou watch with me one hour? ^{14:38}watch ye, and pray, least ye enter into temptation, the spirit is ready,^r but the flesh is weak. ^{14:39}And again he went away and prayed, and spake the same words. ^{14:40}And he returned and found them asleep again, for their eyes were heavy: neither could they tell^s what they might answer to him. ^{14:41}And he came the third time, and

^x He that betrayed him, gave^y them a general token, saying: whosoever I do kiss, he it is, take him, and lead him away warily. ^{14:45}And as soon as he was come, he went straightway to him, and said unto him: master, master, and kissed him. ^{14:46}And they laid their hands on him, and took him. ^{14:47}And one of them that stood by drew out a sword, and smote a servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear. ^{14:48}And Jesus answered and said unto them: ye came^z

^{14:51}And there was a certain young man that followed him clothed in linen upon the bare, and the young men caught him, ^{14:52}and he left his linen and fled from them naked. ^{14:53}And they led Jesus away to the highest priest of all, and to him came all the high priests and the seniors,^a and the scribes. ^{14:54}And Peter followed him a great way off even into the palace of the high priest, and he was there and sat with the servants, and warmed himself at the fire. ^{14:55}And the high priests and all the council sought for witness against Jesu, to put him to death; And they found none. ^{14:56}Yet many bare false witness against him, but their witness agreed not together. ^{14:57}And there arose certain and brought false witness against him, saying: ^{14:58}We heard him say: I will destroy^b this temple made with hands, and within three days I will build another, made without hands. ^{14:59}And^c their witness agreed not together. ^{14:60}And the highest priest stood up amongst them all, and asked Jesus saying: answerest thou nothing? How is it that these bear witness against thee? ^{14:61}And he held his peace, and answered nothing. Again the highest priest asked him, and said unto him: Art thou the Christ the son of the blessed? ^{14:62}And Jesus said: I am. And ye shall see the son of man sit on the right hand of power, and come in the clouds of heaven. ^{14:63}Then the highest priest rent his clothes and said: what need we any further ^d witness? ^{14:64}ye have heard the blasphemy, what think ye? And they all gave sentence that he was worthy of death. ^{14:65}And some began to spit at him, and to cover his face, and to beat him with their fists, and to say unto him, aread^e unto us. And the servants buffeted him on the face. ^{14:66}And Peter was beneath in the palace, and there came one of the wenches of the highest priest; ^{14:67}And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked on him, and said: was not thou also with Jesus of Nazareth? ^{14:68}And he denied it saying: I know him not, neither wot I what thou sayest: And he went out into the porch, and the cock crew. ^{14:69}And a damsel saw him, and again began to say to them that stood by, this is one of them. ^{14:70}And he denied it again. And anon after,^f again they that stood by, said ^g to Peter: surely thou art one of them, for thou art of Galilee, and thy speech agreeth thereto. ^{14:71}And he began to curse and to swear, saying: I know not this man of whom ye speak. ^{14:72}And again the cock crew. And he answered, and said unto him: thou sayest it. ^{15:3} And the high priests accused him of many things. (but he answer nothing) ^{15:4} ^j Pilate asked him again, saying: Answerest thou nothing? Behold how many things they lay unto thy charge. ^{15:5} Jesus yet answered never a word, so that Pilate marveled. ^{15:6} At the^k feast Pilate was wont to deliver at their pleasure a prisoner: whomsoever they would desire. ^{15:7} And there was one named Barabas, which lay bound with them,^l that caused^m insurrection, and in the insurrectionⁿ committed murder. ^{15:8} And the people called unto him, and began to desire of him, according as he had ever done unto them. ^{15:9} Pilate answered them, and said: Will ye that I loose unto you the King of the Jews? ^{15:10} For he knew that the high priests had delivered him of envy. ^{15:11} But the high priests had moved the people that he should rather deliver Barabas unto them. ^{15:12} ^o Pilate answered again, and said unto them: What will ye then that I do with him, whom ye call the^p King of the Jews? ^{15:13} And they cried again: crucify him. ^{15:14} Pilate said unto them: What evil hath he done? And they cried the more fervently: Crucify him. ^{15:15} ^q Pilate willing to content the people, loosed^r them Barabas; And delivered Jesus ^s scourged ^t for to be crucified. ^{15:16} And the soldiers led him away into the common hall, and called together the whole multitude, ^{15:17} and they clothed him with purple, and they plaited a crown of thorns and crowned him withal; ^{15:18} And began to salute him: Hail King of the Jews. ^{15:19} And they smote him on the head with a reed, and spat upon him, and kneeled down and worshipped him. ^{15:20} And when they had mocked him, they took the purple off him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out, to crucify him. ^{15:21} And they compelled one that passed by, called Simon of Cyrene (which came out of the field, and was father of Alexander and Rufus) to bear his cross. ^{15:22} And they brought him to a place named Golgotha (which is by interpretation, the place of dead men's skulls) ^{15:23} and they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrh, but he received it not. ^{15:24} And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting lots for them, what every man should have. ^{15:25} And it was about the third hour, and they crucified him. ^{15:26} And the title of the^u cause of his death was written:^v The King of the Jews. ^{15:27} And they crucified with him two thieves:^w the one on his^x right hand, and the other on his left hand. ^{15:28} And the scripture was fulfilled, which sayeth: and he was counted among the wicked.^y ^{15:29} And they that went by, railed on him: wagging their heads, and saying: A wretch, that destroyest the temple and buildest it in three days. ^{15:30} Save thyself, and come down from the cross. ^{15:31} Likewise also mocked him the high priests among themselves with the scribes, and said: He saved other men, himself he cannot save. ^{15:32} Let Christ the King of Israel now descend from the cross, that

And they that were crucified with him, checked him also. ^{15:33} And when the sixth hour was come, darkness arose over all the earth, until the ninth hour. ^{15:34} And at the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying: Eloi, Eloi, lama sabaththani, ^{za} which is if it be interpreted: my God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? ^{15:35} And some of them that stood by when they heard that said: behold he calleth for Helias. ^{15:36} And one ran, and filled a sponge full of vinegar, and put^b it on a reed, and gave it him to drink, saying: let him alone, let us see whether Helias will come and take him down. ^{15:37} But Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost. ^{15:38} And the veil of the temple did rent in two parts,^c from the top to the bottom. ^{15:39} And when the undercaptain^d which stood before him saw that he so cried and gave up the ghost, and he said: truly this man was the son of God. ^{15:40} There were also women a good way off beholding him: among whom was Mary Magdalen, and Mary the mother of James the little and of Joses, and Mary Salome: ^{15:41} which also when he was in Galilee, followed him and ministered unto him, and many other women which came up with him to Hierusalem. ^{15:42} And now when night was come (because it was the even^e that goeth before the Sabbath) ^{15:43} Joseph of Arimathia a noble senator^f (which also looked for the kingdom of God) came; And went in boldly unto Pilate, and begged the body of Jesu. ^{15:44} ^g Pilate marveled that he was already dead, and called unto him the under captain,^h and asked of him, whether he had been any while dead. ^{15:45} And when he knew

^{1:1}Forasmuch^a as many have taken in hand to compile a treatise of those things, which are surely known among us, ^{1:2}even as they declared them unto us, which from the beginning saw them with their eyes,^b and were ministers at the doing: ^{1:3}I determined also, as soon as I had searched out diligently all things from the beggining, that then I would write^c unto thee, good Theophilus, ^{1:4}that thou mightest know the certainty of those things, whereof thou art informed. ^{1:5}In the time of Herod^d king of Jewry, there was a certain priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abie. And his wife was of the daughters of Aaron: And her name was Elizabeth. ^{1:6}Both were perfect^e before God, and walked in all the laws and ordinances^f of the Lord that no man could find fault with them.^g ^{1:7}And they had no child, because that Elizabeth was barren; And both were well stricken in age. ^{1:8}^h It came to pass, as he executed the priest's office, before God as his course came ^{1:9}(according to the custom of the priest's office) his lot was to burn odoures.ⁱ And ^j went into the temple of the Lord, ^{1:10}and all the^k multitude of ^l people were without in their prayers while the odoures were^m a burning. ^{1:11}ⁿ There appeared unto him the Lord's angel,^o standing on the right side of the altar of odoures.^p ^{1:12}And when Zacharias saw him, he was abashed, and fear came on him. ^{1:13}^q The angel said unto him: fear not Zacary, for thy prayer is heard: And thy wife Helizabeth shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John: ^{1:14}And thou shalt have joy and gladness: And many shall rejoice at his birth. ^{1:15}For he shall be great in the sight of God,^r and shall neither drink wine nor^s strong drink. And he shall be filled with the holy ghost, even in his mother's womb: ^{1:16}and many of the children of Israel shall he turn to their Lord God.^t ^{1:17}And he shall go before him in the spirit and power of Helias to turn the hearts of the fathers to their children, and the unbelievers^u to the wisdom of the just men:^v to make the people ready for the Lord. ^{1:18}And Zacary said unto the angel: Whereby shall I know this? seeing that I am old, and my wife well stricken in years.^w ^{1:19}And the angel answered, and said unto him: I am Gabriel that stand in the presence of God,^x and am sent to speak unto thee: and to shew thee this^y glad tidings. ^{1:20}And take heed^z thou shalt be dumb, and not able to speak until the time that these things be performed, because thou believedst not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season. ^{1:21}And the people waited for Zacharias and marveled that he tarried in the temple. ^{1:22} ^a When he came out, he could not speak unto them. And ^b they perceived, that he had seen some vision in the temple. And he beckoned unto them, and remained speechless. ^{1:23} And it fortuneth, as soon as the time of his office was out, he departed home into his own house. And after those days, ^{1:24} his wife Elizabeth conceived, and hid herself five months, saying: ^{1:25} This wise hath God dealt with me in the days when he looked on me, to take from me the rebuke that I suffered among men. ^{1:26} And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from ^c God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, ^{1:27} to a virgin spoused to a man, whose name was Joseph, of the house of David, and the virgin's name was Mary. ^{1:28} And the angel went in unto her, and said: Hail full of grace, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women. ^{1:29} When she saw him, she was abashed at his saying: and cast in her mind ^d what manner of salutation that should be. ^{1:30} And the angel said unto her: fear not Mary, ^e thou hast found grace with God. ^{1:31} Lo: thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and shalt bear a child, ^f and shalt call his name Jesus. ^{1:32} He shall be great, and shall be called the son of the highest. ^g And the Lord God shall give unto him the seat of his father David: ^{1:33} And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever, and of his kingdom shall be none end. ^{1:34} Then said Mary unto the angel: How shall this be, seeing I know not a man? ^{1:35} And the angel answered, and said unto her: The holy ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the highest ^h shall overshadow thee. Therefore also that holy thing which shall be born, shall be called the son of God. ^{1:36} And mark, ⁱ thy cousin Elizabeth, ^j hath also conceived a son in her old age. of God, for therefore am I sent. ^{4:44} And he preached in the synagogues of Galilee. ^{5:1} It came to pass as the people pressed upon him, to hear the word of God, that he stood by the lake of Genazareth: ^{5:2} and saw two ships stand by the lakeside, for^x the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets. ^{5:3} Jesus^y entered into one of the ships, which pertained to Simon, and prayed him, that he would carry him^z a little from the land. And he sat down and taught the people out of the ship. ^{5:4} When he had left speaking, he said unto Simon: Carry us^a into the deep, and let slip thy net^b to make a draught. ^{5:5} And Simon answered, and said to him: Master we have laboured all night, and have taken nothing. Yet now^c at thy word I will loose forth the net. ^{5:6} And when they had so done, they inclosed^d a great multitude of fishes. And the^e net brake: ^{5:7} and^f they made signs to their fellows which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and they filled both the ships, that they sunk again. ^{5:8} When Simon Peter saw that, he fell down at Jesus' knees saying: Lord go from me, for I am a sinful man. ^{5:9} For he was utterly astonished, and all that were with him at the draught of fish which they took: ^{5:10} and so was also James and John the sons of Zebedei, which were partakers^g with Simon. And Jesus said unto Simon: fear not, from henceforth thou shalt catch men. ^{5:11} And they brought the ships to land, and forsook^h all, and followed him. ^{5:12} And it fortun'd as he was in a certain city, and behold there was a man full of leprosy: and when he had spied Jesus, he fell on his face and besought him saying: Lord if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. ^{5:13} And he stretched forth hisⁱ hand, and touched him saying: I will, be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him. ^{5:14} And he warn'd him, that he should tell no man: but that he should go and shew himself to the priest, and offer for his cleansing according as Moses commandment was, for a witness unto them. ^{5:15} But his name^j spread^k the more abroad, and the^l people came together to hear, and to be healed of him, of^m infirmities. ^{5:16} And he kept himself apart in the wildernesses, and gave himself to prayer. ^{5:17} And it happened on a certain day, that he taught, and there sat the pharisees, and doctors of law, which were come out of all the towns of Galilee, Jewry,ⁿ and Jerusalem, and the power of the Lord was to heal them. ^{5:18} And behold, men brought a man lying in his bed, which was taken with a palsy, and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him. ^{5:19} And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in, because of the press, they went up on^o the top of the house, and let him down thorow the tiling, bed and all in the midst^p before Jesus. ^{5:20} When he saw their faith he said unto him: man thy sins are forgiven thee. ^{5:21} And the scribes, and the pharisees, began to think saying: What fellow is this: which speaketh blasphemy? Who can forgive sins, but God only? ^{5:22} When Jesus perceived their thoughts, he answered and said unto them: What think ye in your hearts? ^{5:23} Whether is easier to say, thy sins are forgiven thee, or to

And there was a great company of publicans, and of other that sat at meat with him. ^{5:30} And the scribes and pharisees murmured against his disciples, saying: Why eat ye and drink ye, with publicans and sinners? ^{5:31} Jesus answered and said unto them: They that are whole, need not of the physician: but they that are sick. ^{5:32} I came not to call the righteous to repentance: but the sinners. ^{5:33} ^t They said unto him: Why do the disciples of John fast often and pray: and the disciples of the pharisees also: and thine eat and drink? ^{5:34} ^u To whom he said: ^u Can ye make the Children of the wedding fast, as long as the bridegroom is present with them? ^{5:35} The days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, then shall they fast in those days. ^{5:36} ^v He spake unto them in a similitude: No man putteth a piece of a new garment, into an old vesture: for if he do, then breaketh^w he the new and the piece that was taken out of the new, agreeth not with the old. ^{5:37} Also no man poureth new wine into old vessels, ^x if he do, the new wine breaketh the vessels, and runneth out itself, and the vessels perish: ^{5:38} But new wine must be poured into new vessels, and both are preserved. ^{5:39} Also no man that drinketh old wine, straightway can away with new, for he sayeth: the old is pleasanter. ^{6:1} It happened on an after^y Sabbath, they^z went thorow the corn field, and ^a his disciples plucked the ears of corn, and ate them, and rubbed them in their hands. ^{6:2} ^b Certain of the pharisees said unto them: Why do ye that which is not lawful to be done on the Sabbath days? ^{6:3} ^c Jesus answered them and said: Have ye not read what David did, when he himself was an hungered,^d and they which were with him: ^{6:4} how he went into the house of God, and took and ate the loaves of hallowed bread,^e and gave also to them which were with him: which was not lawful to eat, but for the priests only. ^{6:5} And he said unto them: The son of man is Lord even of the Sabbath day. ^{6:6} And it fortuned in another Sabbath also, that he entered into the synagogue and taught. And there was a man, whose right hand was dried up.^f ^{6:7} ^g The scribes, and pharisees watched him, to see whether he would heal on the Sabbath day or not, that they might find an accusation^h against him. ^{6:8} But he knewⁱ their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand: Rise

Blessed are ye that weep: ^r for ye shall laugh. ^{6:22} Blessed are ye when men hate you, and thrust you out of their company, and rail on^s you, and abhor your name, as an evil thing, for the son of man's sake. ^{6:23} Rejoice ye then, and be glad: for behold your reward is great in heaven. After this manner their fathers entreated the prophets. ^{6:24} But woe be to you that are rich: for ye have therein your consolation. ^{6:25} Woe be to you that are full: for ye shall hunger. Woe be to you that now laugh: for ye shall wail, and weep. ^{6:26} Woe be to you when all men praise you: for so did their fathers to the false prophets. ^{6:27} But I say unto you which hear: Love your enemies. Do good to them which hate you. ^{6:28} Bless them that curse you. And pray for them which wrongfully trouble you. ^{6:29} And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek, offer also the other. And him that taketh away thy gown, forbid not to take thy coat also. ^{6:30} Give to every man that asketh of thee. And if any man^t that take away thy goods, ask them not again. ^{6:31} And as ye would that men should do to you: so do ye to them likewise. ^{6:32} If ye love them which love you: what thank are ye worthy of? seeing that^u the very sinners love their lovers. ^{6:33} And if ye do for them which do for you: what thank are ye worthy of? For the very sinners do even the same. ^{6:34} If ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive: what thank shall ye have: for the very sinners, lend to sinners, to receive as much again. ^{6:35} ^v Love ye your enemies, do good, and lend, looking for nothing again: and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the children of the highest: for he is kind unto the unkind,^w and to the evil. ^{6:36} Be ye therefore merciful, as your father is merciful. ^{6:37} Judge not and ye shall not be judged. Condemn not: and ye shall not be condemned. Forgive, and ye shall be forgiven. ^{6:38} Give, and it shall be given unto you: good measure, pressed down, shaken together, and running over,

Do they not both then fall into the ditch? ^{6:40}The disciple is not above his master. Every man shall be perfect, even as his master is. ^{6:41}Why seest thou a mote in thy brother's eye, and considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye? ^{6:42}Other^y how canst thou say to thy brother: Brother let me pull out the mote that is in thine eye: when thou perceivest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Hypocrite, cast out the beam out of thine own eye first, and then shalt thou see perfectly,^z to pull out the mote out of thy brother's eye. ^{6:43}It is not a good tree that bringeth forth evil fruit: Neither is that an evil tree, that bringeth forth good fruit. ^{6:44}For every tree is known by his fruit. Neither of thorns gather men figs, nor of bushes gather they grapes. ^{6:45}A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good. And the^a evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart, bringeth forth that which is evil. For of the abundance of the heart, the^b mouth^c speaketh. ^{6:46}Why call ye me Master, Master: and do not as I bid you? ^{6:47}whosoever cometh to me, and heareth my sayings, and doth the same, I will shew you to whom he is like. ^{6:48}He is like a man which built an house: which^d digged deep, and laid the foundation on a rock. When the waters arose, the flood beat upon that house, and could not move it. For it was grounded upon a rock. ^{6:49}But he that heareth and doth not, is like a man, that without foundation built an house upon the earth, against which, the flood^e beat: and it fell by and by. And the fall of that house was great. ^{7:1}When he had ended all his sayings in the audience of the people, he entered into Capernaum. ^{7:2}And the servant of a certain Centurion was sick, and ready to die, whom he made much of. ^{7:3}And when he heard of Jesu, he sent unto him the seniors^f of the jews, beseeching him that he would come and heal his servant. ^{7:4}And they came to Jesus and besought him instantly, saying: He is worthy that thou shouldest do this for him. ^{7:5}For he loveth our nation,^g and hath built us a synagogue. ^{7:6}And Jesus went with them. And when he was not far from the house, the Centurion sent to him his friends, saying unto him: Lord trouble not thyself, for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter into my house.^h ^{7:7}Wherefore I thought not myself worthy to come unto thee: but say the word and my servant shall be whole. ^{7:8}For I likewise am a man under power,ⁱ and have under me soldiers, and I say unto one, go: and he goeth. And to another, come: and he cometh. And to my servant, do this: and he doeth it. ^{7:9}When Jesus heard this, he marveled at him, and turned him about and said to the people that followed him: I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no not in Israel, certainly. ^{7:10}And they that were sent, turned back home again, and found the servant that was sick whole. ^{7:11}And it fortun'd after that, ^jhe went into a city called Naym, and ^khis disciples went with him, and a great number of^l people. ^{7:12}When he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, which was the only son of his mother, and she was a widow, and much people of the city was

And they glorified^p God saying: a great prophet is risen among us, and God hath visited his people. ^{7:17} And this rumor^q of him went forth throughout^r all Jewry,^s and thorowout all the regions which lie round about. ^{7:18} And unto John shewed his disciples^t of all these things. ^{7:19} And John called unto him two of his disciples, and sent them to Jesus saying: Art thou he that shall come: or shall we look for another? ^{7:20} When the men were come unto him, they said: John baptist sent us unto thee saying: Art thou he that shall come: or shall we wait for another? ^{7:21} ^u At that^v same time, he cured many of their infirmities^w and plagues; And of evil spirits, and unto many that were blind, he gave sight. ^{7:22} And he^x answered, and said unto them: Go your ways and shew John, what things ye have heard and seen: how that the blind see, the halt go, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead arise: To the poor is the gospel^y preached, ^{7:23} and happy^z is he that falleth not, by reason of me.^a ^{7:24} When the messengers of John were departed, he began to speak unto the people of John: What went ye out for to see me. For he was yer than I, ^{1:31}and I knew him not: but that he should be declared to Israel, therefore came I^x baptising with water. ^{1:32}And John bare record, saying: I saw the spirit descend from heaven, like unto a dove, and it abode^y upon him, and I knew him not: ^{1:33}But he that sent me to baptise in water,^z said unto me: Upon whom thou shalt see the spirit descend, and tarry still on him, the same is he which baptiseth with the holy ghost. ^{1:34}And I saw it, and bare record, that this is the^a son of God. ^{1:35}The next day after John stood again, and two of his disciples, ^{1:36}and he beheld Jesus as he walked by, and said: behold the lamb of God. ^{1:37}And the two disciples heard him speak, and they followed Jesus. ^{1:38}^b Jesus turned about, and saw them follow, and said unto them: What seek ye? They said unto him: Rabbi (which is to say by interpretation, Master) where dwellest thou? ^{1:39}He said unto them: come and see. They came and saw where he dwelt: and abode with him that day. For it was about the tenth hour. ^{1:40}One of the two which heard John speak, and followed Jesus, was Andrew Simon Peter's brother. ^{1:41}The same found his brother Simon first, and said unto him: we have found Messias, which is by interpretation anointed: ^{1:42}And brought him to Jesus. And Jesus beheld him and said: thou art Simon the son of Jonas, thou shalt be called Cephas: which is by interpretation a stone. ^{1:43}The day following Jesus would go into Galilee, and found Philip, and said unto him, follow me. ^{1:44}Philip was of Bethsaida the city of Andrew and Peter. ^{1:45}^c Philip found Nathanael, and said unto him: We have found him of whom Moses wrote in the law, and the prophets:^d Jesus the son of Joseph of Nazareth. ^{1:46}And Nathanael said unto him: Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip said to him: Come and see. ^{1:47}Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him, and said of him: Behold a right Israelite, in whom is no guile. ^{1:48}Nathanael said unto him: From whence^e knewest thou me? Jesus answered and said unto him: Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, I saw thee. ^{1:49}Nathanael answered and said unto him: Rabbi, thou art the son of God; Thou art the King of Israel. ^{1:50}Jesus answered and said unto him: Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the fig tree, thou believest. Thou shalt see greater things than these. ^{1:51}And he said unto him: Verily, verily, I say unto you: hereafter shall ye see heaven open, and the angels of God ascending, and descending over the son of man. ^{2:1}And the third day, was there a marriage in Cana a city of Galilee. And Jesus' mother was there. ^{2:2}^f Jesus was called also and his disciples unto the marriage. ^{2:3}And when the wine failed, Jesus' mother said unto him: they have no wine. ^{2:4}Jesus said unto her: woman, what have I to do with thee? mine hour is not yet come. ^{2:5}His mother said unto the ministers: whatsoever he sayeth unto you, do it. ^{2:6}And there were standing ^gsix waterpots of stone after the manner of the purifying of the jews, containing two or three firkins apiece.^h ^{2:7}ⁱ Jesus said unto them: fill the water pots with water, and they filled them up to the hard brim. ^{2:8}And he said unto them: Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast. And they bare it. ^{2:9}When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was turned unto wine, neither^j knew^k whence it was (But the ministers which drew the water knew) He called the bridegroom, ^{2:10}and said unto him: all men at the beginning set forth good wine;

And when men be drunk, then that which is worse: But thou hast kept back the good wine hitherto.¹ ^{2:11}This beginning of miracles^m did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and shewed his glory, and his disciples believed on him. ^{2:12}After that descended he intoⁿ Capernaum, and his mother, and his brethren, and his disciples: But continued not long^o there. ^{2:13}And the jews' ester was even at hand; And Jesus went up to Jerusalem, ^{2:14}and found sitting in the temple those that sold oxen and sheep, and doves, and changers of money sitting. ^{2:15}And he made a scourge of small cords, and drave them all out of the temple, both^p sheep and oxen, and poured down^q the changers' money, and overthrew their^r tables. ^{2:16}And said unto them that sold doves: Have these things hence, and make not my father's house, an house of merchandise. ^{2:17}^s His disciples remembered, how that it was written: The zeal of thine house, hath even eaten me. ^{2:18}Then answered the jews and said unto him: what token shewest thou unto us, seeing that thou dost^t these things? ^{2:19}Jesus answered, and said unto them: destroy^u this temple, and in three days I will raise^v it up again. ^{2:20}Then said the jews: In forty six years this temple was built:^w and wilt thou raise it up in three days? ^{2:21}But he spake of the temple of his body. ^{2:22}As soon therefore as he was risen from death again, his disciples remembered that he thus said unto them. man ascendeth up to heaven, but he that came down from heaven, that is to say, the son of man which is in heaven. ^{3:14} And as Moses lift up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the son of man be lift up, ^{3:15} that none which^e believeth in him perish: but have eternal life. ^{3:16} ^f God so loved^g the world, that he gave^h his only son for the intent, that none that believe in him, should perish: But should have everlasting life. ^{3:17} For God sent not his son into the world, to condemn the world: But that the world through him, might be saved.ⁱ ^{3:18} He that believeth on him shall not be condemned. But he that believeth not, is condemned all ready, because he believeth not in the name of the only son of God. ^{3:19} And this is the condemnation: ^j Light is come into the world, and the men have loved darkness more than light, because their deeds were evil. ^{3:20} For every man that evil doeth, hateth the light: neither cometh to light, lest his deeds should be reproved. ^{3:21} But he that doth truth, cometh to the light, that his deeds might be known, how that they are wrought^k in God. ^{3:22} After that^l came Jesus and his disciples into the jews' land, and there abode^m with them and baptised, ^{3:23} and John also baptised in Enon besides Salim, because there was much water there, and they came, and were baptised. ^{3:24} For John was not yet cast into prison. ^{3:25} ⁿ There arose a question between John's disciples and the jews about purifying. ^{3:26} And they came unto John, and said unto him: Master,^o behold he that was with thee beyond Jordan, to whom thou barest witness,^p baptiseth, and all men come to him. ^{3:27} John answered, and said: A man can receive nothing at all except it be given him from heaven. ^{3:28} Ye yourselves are witnesses, how that I said: I am not Christ: but am sent before him. ^{3:29} He that hath the bride is the bridegroom: But the friend of the bridegroom which standeth by and heareth him, rejoiceth greatly of the bridegroom's voice. Therefore this my joy is fulfilled. ^{3:30} He must increase: and I must decrease. ^{3:31} He that cometh from on high is above all: he that is of the earth is of^q the earth,^r and speaketh of the earth. He that cometh from heaven, is above all: ^{3:32} And testifieth that he hath seen, and heard: and his testimony no man receiveth.^s ^{3:33} Whosoever receiveth his witness, the same hath sealed that God is true.^t ^{3:34} For he whom God hath sent, speaketh the words of God. For God giveth not the spirit by measure. ^{3:35} The father loveth the son, and hath given all things into his hand. ^{3:36} He that believeth on the son, hath everlasting life. And he that beloveth^u not the son, shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him. ^{4:1} As soon as the Lord had knowledge, how that it was come to the ears of the pharisees,^v that Jesus made and baptised more disciples than John ^{4:2} (though that Jesus himself baptised not: but his disciples) ^{4:3} he left Jewry, and departed again in to Galilee. ^{4:4} And it was so that he must needs go thorow Samaria. ^{4:5} Then came he to a city of Samaria called Sichar besides the possession^w that Jacob gave to his son Joseph, ^{4:6} and there was Jacob's well. thus on the well. ^x It was about the sixth hour: ^{4:7} ^y There came a woman of Samaria to draw water. ^z Jesus said unto her: Give me drink. ^{4:8} (for his disciples were gone away unto the town to buy meat.) ^{4:9} ^a The woman of Samaria said unto him: how is it, that thou being a jew^b askest drink of me, which am a Samaritan? (for the jews meddle not with the Samaritans.) ^{4:10} Jesus answered and said unto her: if thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is, that sayeth to thee give me drink: thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee water of life. ^{4:11} The woman said unto him: Sir thou hast no thing to draw it withal, and the well is deep: from whence then hast thou that water of life? ^{4:12} Art thou greater than our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and he himself drank thereof and his children and his cattle? ^{4:13} Jesus answered and said unto her: whosoever drinketh of this water, shall thirst again. ^{4:14} But whosoever shall drink of the water that I shall give him, shall never be more a thirst: But the water that I shall give him, shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life. ^{4:15} The woman said unto him: Sir give me of that water, that I thirst not, neither come hither to draw. ^{4:16} Jesus said unto her: Go and call thy husband, and come hither. ^{4:17} The woman answered and said to him: I have no husband. Jesus said to her: Thou hast well said, I have no husband. ^{4:18} For thou hast had five husbands, and he whom thou now hast, is not thy husband. That saidst thou truly.^c ^{4:19} The woman said unto him: Sir I perceive^d that thou art a prophet. ^{4:20} Our fathers worshipped in this mountain: and ye say that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to pray.^e ^{4:21} Jesus said unto her: woman trust^f me; The hour cometh, when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the father. ^{4:22} Ye worship ye wot nere^g what: we know what we worship. For salvation cometh of the jews. ^{4:23} But the hour cometh, and now is, ^h when the true worshippers shall worship the father in spirit, and in verity.ⁱ For verily such the father requireth to worship him. ^{4:24} God is a spirit, and they that worship him, must honour^j him, in spirit and verity.^k ^{4:25} The woman said unto him: I wot well Messias shall come, which is called Christ. When he is once come, he will tell us all things. ^{4:26} Jesus said unto her: I that speak unto thee, am he. ^{4:27} And even at that point,^l came his disciples, and marveled that he talked with the woman. Yet no man said unto him: what meanest^m thou, or why talkest thou with her? ^{4:28} The woman ⁿ left her water pot behind her, and went her way into the city, and said to the men^o there: ^{4:29} Come see a man which told me all things that ever I did. Is not he Christ? ^{4:30} Then they went out of the city, and came unto him. ^{4:31} ^p In the meanwhile his disciples prayed him saying: Master eat. ^{4:32} He said unto them: I have meat to eat, that ye know not of. ^{4:33} Then said the disciples between^q themselves: hath any man brought him meat? ^{4:34} Jesus said unto them: My meat is to fulfill ^r the will of him that sent me. And to finish his work. ^{4:35} Say not ye: There are yet four months, and then cometh harvest? Behold I say unto you, lift up your eyes, and look on the regions: For they are white already unto harvest. ^{4:36} And he that reapeth receiveth reward, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal:^s That both he that soweth, might rejoice also, and he that reapeth.^t ^{4:37} And herein is the saying^u true, that one soweth; And another reapeth. ^{4:38} I sent you to reap that whereon ye bestowed no labor. Other men laboured; And ye are entered into their labors. ^{4:39} Many of the Samaritans of that city believed on him; For the woman's saying, which testified: He told me all things that ever I did. ^{4:40} Then when the Samaritans were come unto him; They besought him, that he would tarry with them. And he abode there two days. ^{4:41} And many more believed because of his own words. ^{4:42} And said unto the woman: Now we believe not because of thy saying: for we have heard him ourselves, and know that this is even indeed^v Christ the saviour of the world. ^{4:43} After two days, he departed thence, and went away into Galilee. ^{4:44} And Jesus himself testified, that a prophet hath none honour in his own country. ^{4:45} Then as soon as he was come into Galilee, the Galileans received him which had seen all^w things, that he did at Jerusalem on^x the feast. For they went also unto the feast day. ^{4:46} And Jesus came again into Cana of Galilee, where he turned water into wine. And there was a certain ruler, whose son was sick at Capernaum. ^{4:47} As soon as the same heard that Jesus was come out of Jewry into Galilee he went unto him, and besought him, that he would descend, and heal his son: For he was even ready to die. ^{4:48} Then said Jesus unto him: Except ye see signs^y and wonders, ye believe not.^z ^{4:49} The ruler said unto him: Sir come away or ever that my child die. ^{4:50} Jesus said unto him go thy way, thy son liveth. And the man believed the words that Jesus had spoken unto him, and went his way. ^{4:51} And anon as he went on his way, his servants met him, and told him, saying: thy child liveth; ^{4:52} Then enquired he of them the hour when he began to amend. And they said unto him: Yesterday the seventh hour, the fever left him. ^{4:53} And the father knew^a that it was the same hour in which Jesus said unto him: Thy son liveth. And he believed, and all his household. ^{4:54} This is again the second miracle,^b that Jesus did, after he was come out of Jewry into Galilee. ^{5:1} After that there was a feast of the jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. ^{5:2} ^c There is at Jerusalem, by the slaughterhouse a pool called in the Hebrew tongue, bethesda, having five porches, ^{5:3} in them^d lay a great multitude of sick folk, of blind, halt,^e and withered, waiting for the moving of the water. ^{5:4} For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool and stirred^f the water. Whosoever then first after the stirring of the water stepped in, was made whole of whatsoever disease he had. ^{5:5} And a certain man was there, which had been diseased thirty eight years. ^{5:6} When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he now long time had been diseased, he said unto him: Wilt thou be ^g whole? ^{5:7} The sick answered him: Sir I have no man when the water is moved,^h to put me into the pool. But in the mean time, while

I am about to come, another steppeth down before me. ^{5:8} ⁱ Jesus said unto him: rise, take up thy bed, and walk. ^{5:9} And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and went. And the same day was the Sabbath day. ^{5:10} The jews therefore said unto him that was made whole: It is the Sabbath day, it is not lawful for thee to carry thy bed. ^{5:11} He answered them: he that made me whole, said unto me: Take up thy bed, and get thee hence. ^{5:12} Then asked they him: what man is that which said unto thee, take up thy bed and walk? ^{5:13} And he that was healed, wist not who it was. For Jesus had gotten himself away, because that there was press of people in the place. ^{5:14} ^k After that, Jesus found him in the temple, and said unto him: Behold thou art made whole, see thou sin no more, lest a worse thing happen unto thee. ^{5:15} The man departed, and told the jews that it was Jesus, the which had made him whole. ^{5:16} And therefore the jews did persecute Jesus, and sought the means to slay him, because he had done these things on the Sabbath day. ^{5:17} ^l Jesus answered them: My father worketh hitherto, and I work. ^{5:18} Therefore the jews sought the more to kill^m him, not only because he had broken the Sabbath: but said also that God was his father and made himself equal with God. ^{5:19} Then answered Jesus and said unto them: verily, verily, I say unto you: the son can do no thing of himself: but that he seeth the father do. For whatsoever he doeth, that doeth the son also. ^{5:20} For the father loveth the son, and sheweth him all things, whatsoever he himself doeth. And he will shew him greater works than these, because ye should marvel. ^{5:21} For likewise as the father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them, even so the son quickeneth whom he will.

^{5:22} Neither judgeth the father any man: but hath committedⁿ all judgement unto the son, ^{5:23} because that all men should honour the son, even as they honour the father. He that honoureth not the son, the same honoureth not the father which hath sent him. ^{5:24} Verily, verily I say unto you: He that heareth my words; And believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into damnation: but is scaped from death unto life. ^{5:25} Verily, verily I say unto you: the time shall come, and now is, ^o when the dead shall hear the voice of the son of God. And they that hear, shall live. ^{5:26} For as the father hath life in himself, so likewise hath he given to the son to have life in himself. ^{5:27} And hath given him power also to judge in that he is the son of man. ^{5:28} Marvel not at this, that the hour shall come, in the which all that are in the graves, shall hear his voice, ^{5:29} and shall come forth, they that have done good unto the resurrection of life. And they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation. ^{5:30} I can of mine own self do nothing at all. As I hear I judge, and my judgement is just, because I seek not mine own will: But the will of the father which hath sent me. ^{5:31} If I bear witness of myself, my witness is not true. ^{5:32} There is another that beareth witness of me. And I am sure that the witness which he beareth of me is true. ^{5:33} Ye sent unto John, and he bare witness unto the truth: ^{5:34} but I receive no^p record of man. Nevertheless, these things I say, that ye might be safe. ^{5:35} He was a burning, and a shining light, and ye would for a season have rejoiced in his light. ^{5:36} But I have greater witness, than the witness of John. For the works which my^q father hath given me to finish: the same works which^r I do, bear witness of me, that my^s father sent me. ^{5:37} And my^t father himself,^u which hath sent me, beareth witness of me. Ye have not heard his voice at any time; Nor yet^v have seen his shape.^w ^{5:38} And^x his words have ye not abiding in you: For ye believe not him whom he hath sent.^y ^{5:39} Search the scriptures, for in them, ye think ye have eternal life: And they are they which testify of me. ^{5:40} And yet will ye not come to me that ye might have life. ^{5:41} I receive not praise of men: ^{5:42} But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you. ^{5:43} I am come in my father's name, and ye receive me not. If another shall come in his own name, him will ye receive. ^{5:44} How can ye believe, which receive praise^z one of another, and seek not the praise which^a cometh of God only? ^{5:45} Suppose not,^b that I will accuse you to my father. There is one that accuseth you, verily^c Moses in whom ye trust. ^{5:46} For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: For he wrote of me. ^{5:47} But when^d ye believe not his writing: how shall ye believe my words. ^{6:1} After that^e went Jesus his way over the sea of Galilee nigh to a city called Tiberias. ^{6:2} And a great multitude^f followed him, because they had seen his miracles^g that^h he did on them that were diseased. ^{6:3} ⁱ Jesus went up into a mountain, and there he sat with his disciples. ^{6:4} (And ester a feast of the jews, was nigh.) ^{6:5} Then Jesus lift up his eyes, and saw a great company come unto him, and said unto Philip: whence shall we buy bread that these might eat: ^{6:6} This he said to prove him. For he himself knew what he would do. ^{6:7} Philip answered him, two hundred pennyworth of bread are not sufficient for them, that every man have a little. ^{6:8} Then said unto him, one of his disciples (Andrew Simon Peter's brother.) ^{6:9} There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves, and two fishes: but what is that among so many? ^{6:10} Jesus said: Make the people to sit down. (There was much grass in the place.) And the men sat down, in number, about five thousand. ^{6:11} ^k Jesus took the bread, and gave thanks, and gave to his^l disciples, and his disciples, to them that were set down. And likewise of the fishes, as much as they would. ^{6:12} When they had eaten enough, he said unto his disciples: gather up the broken meat that remaineth: that nothing be lost. ^{6:13} ^m They gathered it together, and filled twelve baskets with the broken meat, of the five barley loaves, which broken meat remained unto them that had eaten. ^{6:14} Then those men, when they had seen the miracleⁿ that Jesus did, said: This is of a truth the same prophet which shall^o come into the world. ^{6:15} ^p Jesus knew well enough,^q that they would come, and take him up, to make him King: and therefore departed he again, into a mountain, himself alone. ^{6:16} ^r When even was come his disciples went unto the sea, 6:17 and entered into a ship. And went over the sea unto Capernaum. And anon it was dark, and Jesus was not come to them. 6:18 And the sea arose with a great wind. ^s 6:19 ^t When they had rowed about a twenty five or a thirty furlongs, they saw Jesus walk on the sea, and to draw nigh unto the ship, and they were afraid. 6:20 And he said unto them: It is I, be not afraid. 6:21 Then would they have received him into the ship, and the ship was by and by at the land whither they went. 6:22 The day following, the people which stood on the other side of the sea, saw that there was none other ship there save that one wherein his disciples were entered, and that Jesus went not in with his disciples into the ship: but that his disciples were gone away alone. 6:23 (^u There came other ships from Tiberias nigh unto the place, where they ate bread, when the Lord had blessed.)^v 6:24 Then when the people saw that Jesus was not there neither his disciples, they also took shipping and came to Capernaum seeking for Jesus. 6:25 And when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him: Master^w when camest thou hither? 6:26 Jesus answered them and said: verily, verily I say unto you: ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles: but because ye ate of the loaves, and were filled. 6:27 Labor not for the meat which perisheth, but for the meat that endureth unto everlasting life, which meat the son of man shall give unto you. For him hath God the father sealed. 6:28 Then said they unto him: what shall we do that we might work the works of God? 6:29 Jesus answered and said unto them: This is the work of God, that ye believe on him, whom he hath sent. 6:30 They said unto him: what sign shewest thou then? that we may see and believe thee? What dost thou work? 6:31 our fathers did eat manna in the desert,^x as it is written: He gave them bread from heaven to eat. 6:32 Jesus said unto them: verily, verily I say unto you: Moses gave you not bread^y from heaven: but my father giveth you the true bread from heaven. 6:33 For he is the bread of God, which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world. 6:34 Then said they unto him: Master^z ever more give us this bread. 6:35 And Jesus said unto them: I am that bread of life. And I will raise him up at the last day. ^{6:45}It is written in the prophets: And^j they shall all be taught of God. Every man which^k hath heard, and^l learned of the father, cometh unto me, ^{6:46}not that any man hath seen the father, save he which is of God. The same hath seen the father. ^{6:47}Verily, verily I say unto you, he that believeth on me hath everlasting life. ^{6:48}I am that bread of life. ^{6:49}Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead? ^{6:50}This is that bread which cometh from heaven, that he which of it eateth, should also not die. ^{6:51}I am that living bread which came down from heaven. If any man eat of this bread, he shall live forever. And the bread that I will give, is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world. ^{6:52}^m The jews strove among themselves saying: How can this fellow give us his flesh to eat? ^{6:53}ⁿ Jesus said unto them: Verily, verily I say unto you, except ye eat the flesh of the son of man, and drink his blood, ye shall not have life in you. ^{6:54}Whosoever eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, the same hath eternal^o life: And I will raise him up at the last day. ^{6:55}For my flesh is meat indeed: and my blood is drink indeed. ^{6:56}He that eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me and I in him. ^{6:57}As my^p living father hath sent me, even so live I by my father: and he that eateth me, shall live by me. ^{6:58}This is the bread which came from heaven: not as your fathers have eaten manna and are dead. He that eateth of this bread, shall live ever. ^{6:59}These things said he in the synagogue as he taught in Capernaum. ^{6:60}Many^q of his disciples, when they had heard this, said: this is an hard saying; Who can abide the hearing of it? ^{6:61}Jesus knew^r in himself, that his disciples murmured at it, and said unto them: Doth this offend you? ^{6:62}what and if ye shall see the son of man ascend up where he was before? ^{6:63}It is the spirit that quickeneth, the flesh profiteth nothing. The words that I speak unto you are spirit and life. ^{6:64}But there are some of you that believe not. For Jesus knew from the beginning, which they were that believed not. And who should betray him. ^{6:65}And he said: Therefore said I unto you: that no man can come unto me, except it were given unto him of my father. ^{6:66}From that time many of his disciples went away from him,^s and companied^t no more with him. ^{6:67}Then said Jesus to the twelve: will ye also go away? ^{6:68}^u Simon Peter answered him: Master to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal^v life; ^{6:69}And we have believed, and known, that thou art Christ the son of the living God. ^{6:70}Jesus answered them: Have not I chosen you twelve? And yet one of you is the devil? ^{6:71}He spake it of Judas Iscariot the son of Simon. For he it was that should betray him, and was one of the twelve. ^{7:1}After that Jesus went about into Galilee, and would not go about in Jewry, for the jews sought to kill him. ^{7:2}The jews' tabernacle feast was at hand. ^{7:3}His brethren therefore said unto him: Get thyself^v hence and go into Jewry that thy disciples may see thy works that thou doest. ^{7:4}^x There is no man that doeth any thing secretly, and he himself seeketh to be known. If thou do such things, shew thyself to the world. ^{7:5}For as yet his brethren believed not in him. ^{7:6}Then Jesus said unto them: My time is not yet come, your time is alway ready. ^{7:7}The world cannot hate you. Me it hateth: Because I testify of it, that the works of it are evil. ^{7:8}Go ye up unto this feast, I will not go up yet unto this feast, for my time is not yet full come. ^{7:9}These words he said unto them, and abode still in Galilee. ^{7:10} ^y As soon as his brethren were gone up, then went he also up unto the feast, not openly: but as it were privily. ^{7:11}Then sought him the jews at the feast, and said: Where is he? ^{7:12}And much murmuring was there of him among the people. Some said: He is good. Other said nay, but he deceiveth the people. ^{7:13} ^z No man spake openly of him, for fear of the jews. ^{7:14}In the midst of the feast, Jesus went up into the temple, and taught. ^{7:15}And the jews marveled, saying: How knoweth he the scriptures? seeing that he never learned. ^{7:16}Jesus answered them, and said: My doctrine is not mine: but his that sent me. ^{7:17}If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God: or whether I spake^a of myself. ^{7:18}He that speaketh of himself, seeketh his own praise. But he that seeketh his praise that sent him, he^b is true, and no unrighteousness is in him. ^{7:19}Did not Moses give you a law? And yet none of you keepeth the law? Why go ye about to kill me? ^{7:20}The people answered and said: Thou hast the devil. Who goeth about to kill thee? ^{7:21}Jesus answered, and said unto them, I have done one work, and ye all marvel. ^{7:22}Moses therefore gave unto you circumcision, not because it is of Moses, but of the fathers. And yet ye on the Sabbath day circumsise a man. ^{7:23}If a man on the Sabbath day receive circumcision without breaking of the law of Moses: Disdain ye at me, because I have made a man every whit whole on the Sabbath day? ^{7:24}Judge not after the utter appearance: but judge righteous judgement. ^{7:25}Then said some of them of Jerusalem: Is not this he whom they go about to kill? ^{7:26}behold he speaketh boldly, and they say nothing to him. Do not our rulers^c know in deed, that this is very Christ? ^{7:27}But^d we know this man whence he is, but when Christ cometh, no man shall know whence he is. ^{7:28}Then cried Jesus in the temple as he taught saying: And me ye know, and whence I am ye know: and^e I am not come of myself. But he that sent me is true, whom ye know not. ^{7:29}I know him: (And if I say that I know him not, I shall be a liar like unto you, but I know him) For I am of him, and he hath sent me. ^{7:30}Then sought the jews^f to take him, but no man laid hands on him, because his time was not yet come. ^{7:31}Many of the people believed on him, and said: When Christ cometh: Will he do more miracles than this man hath done? ^{7:32}The pharisees heard that the people murmured such things about him: and^g the pharisees and scribes^h sent ministersⁱ forth to take him. ^{7:33}Then said Jesus unto them: Yet am I a little while with you, and then go I unto him that sent me. ^{7:34}Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: And where I am, thither can ye not come. ^{7:35}Then said the jews between themselves: Whither will he go? that we shall not find him. Will he go among the gentiles, which are scattered all abroad, and teach the gentiles? ^{7:36}What manner of saying is this that he said: ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: And where I am, thither can ye not come? ^{7:37}In the last day, that great day of the feast: Jesus stood and cried saying: If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink. ^{7:38}Whosoever^j believeth on me, as sayeth the scripture, out of his belly shall flow rivers of water of life. ^{7:39}This spake he of the spirit, which they that believed on him should receive. For the holy ghost was not yet there, because that Jesus was not yet glorified. ^{7:40}Many of the people, when they heard this saying said: This is, no doubt,^k a Prophet.

7:41 Other said: this is Christ. Some said: shall Christ come out of Galilee? 7:42 Saith not the scripture that Christ shall come of the seed of David: and out of the town of Bethlehem where David was? 7:43 So was there dissension among the people for his sake.¹ 7:44 And some of them would have taken him: but no man laid hands on him. 7:45 Then came the ministers^m to the high priests, and pharisees. And they said unto them: why have ye not brought him? 7:46 The servants answered: never man spake as this man speaketh.ⁿ 7:47 Then answered them the pharisees: are ye also deceived? 7:48 Doth any of the rulers, or of the pharisees believe on him? 7:49 But the common people which know not the law are accursed. 7:50 Nicodemus said unto them (He that came to Jesus by night which^o was one of them.) 7:51 Doth our law judge any man, before it be heard,^p and known, what he hath done? 7:52 They answered, and said unto him: Art thou also of Galilee? Search and look, for out of Galilee ariseth^q no prophet. 7:53 And every man went unto his own house. 8:1 ^r Jesus went unto mount olivet, 8:2 and early in the morning came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him; And he sat down, and taught them. 8:3 ^s The scribes and pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in advoutry, and set her in the midst and said unto him: 8:4 Master this woman was taken in advoutry, even as the deed was a doing. 8:5 Moses in the law commanded us that such should be stoned: What sayest thou therefore? 8:6 And this they said to tempt him: that they might have, whereof to accuse him. Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground; (not presuming any semblance.) 8:7 And while they continued asking him, he lifted himself up; And said unto them: let him that is among you without sin, cast the first stone at her. 8:8 And again he stooped down and wrote on the ground. 8:9 ^t As soon as they heard that, they went out one by one the eldest first. And Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst. 8:10 When Jesus had lifted up himself again, and saw no man, but the woman; He said unto her: Woman, where are those thine accusers? Hath no man condemned thee? 8:11 She said: Sir no man.^u ^v Jesus said: Neither do I condemn thee. Go hence and sin no more. 8:12 Then spake Jesus again unto them saying: I am the light of the world. He that followeth me shall not walk in darkness: but shall have the light of life. 8:13 The pharisees said unto him: thou bearest record of thyself, thy record is not true. 8:14 Jesus answered and said unto them: And if^w I bear record of myself, ^x my record is true for I know whence I come,^y and whither I go. ^z Ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go. 8:15 Ye judge after the flesh, I judge no man, 8:16 and if^a I judge, then^b is my judgement true. For I am not alone: but I and my^c father that sent me. 8:17 It is also written in your law, that the testimony of two men is true. 8:18 I am one that bear witness of myself, and my^d father that sent me beareth witness of me. 8:19 Then said they unto him: where is thy father? the son therefore shall make you free, then are ye free in deed. ^{8:37}I know that ye are Abraham's seed: but ye seek means to kill me because my sayings have no place in you. ^{8:38}I speak that I have seen with my father: and ye do that which ye have seen with your father. ^{8:39}They answered and said unto him: Abraham is our father. But Jesus hid himself, and went out of the temple. ^{9:1}And as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth; ^{9:2}And his disciples asked him saying: Master, who did sin: this man, or his father and mother, that he was born blind? ^{9:3}Jesus answered: Neither this man hath sinned, nor yet his father and mother: but that the works of God should be shewed on him. ^{9:4}I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day. The night cometh, when no man can work. ^{9:5}As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world. ^{9:6}As soon as he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and rubbed the clay on the eyes of the blind, ^{9:7}and said unto him: Go wash thee in the pool of Siloe (which by interpretation, signifieth sent.) He went his way and washed, and came again seeing. ^{9:8}The neighbours, and they that had seen him before how that he was a beggar said: Is not this he that sat and begged? ^{9:9}Some said: this is he. Other said: he is like him. ^w He himself said: I am even he. ^{9:10}They said unto him: How are thine eyes opened then? ^{9:11}He answered and said: The man that is called Jesus, made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me: Go to the pool Siloe, and wash. I went and washed and received my sight. ^{9:12}They said unto him: where is he? He said: I cannot tell. ^{9:13}Then brought they to the pharisees, him that a little before was blind. ^{9:14}(^x It was the Sabbath day when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes.) ^{9:15}Then again the pharisees also asked him how he had received his sight. He said unto them: He put clay upon mine eyes; And I washed, and I^y see. ^{9:16}Then said some of the pharisees: this man is not of God, because he keepeth not the Sabbath day. Other said: how can a man that is a sinner do such miracles? And there was strife among them. ^{9:17}Then spake they unto the blind again: What sayest thou of him, because he hath opened thine eyes? And he said: He is a prophet. ^{9:18}^z The jews did not believe of the fellow, how that he was blind, and received his sight: until they had called the father and mother of him that had received his sight. ^{9:19}And they asked them saying: Is this your son, whom ye say was born blind? How doth he now see then? ^{9:20}His father and mother answered them and said: we wot well that this is our son, and that he was born blind: ^{9:21}But by what means he now seeth, that can we not tell or who hath opened his eyes can we not tell. He is old enough, ask him, let him answer for himself. ^{9:22}Such words spake his father, and mother, because they feared the jews, for the jews had conspired already that if any man did confess that he was Christ, he should be excommunicate out of the Synagogue. ^{9:23}Therefore said his father and mother: he is old enough, ask him. ^{9:24}Then again called they the man that was blind, and said unto him: Give God the praise, we know that this man is a sinner. ^{9:25}He answered and said: Whether he be a sinner or no, I cannot tell: One thing I am sure of, that I was blind, Wherefore would ye hear it again? Will ye also be his disciples? ^{9:28}Then rated they him, and said: Thou art his disciple. We are^a Moses' disciples. ^{9:29}We are sure that God spake with Moses. This fellow we know not from whence he is. ^{9:30}The man answered, and said unto them: this is a marvelous thing that ye wot nere^b whence he is, and yet hath^c he opened mine eyes. ^{9:31}We know well enough^d that God heareth no^e sinners: But if any man be a worshipper of God: and do what his will is, him heareth he. ^{9:32}Since the world began was it not heard that any man opened the eyes of one that was born blind. ^{9:33}If this man were not of God, he could have done no thing. ^{9:34}They answered and said unto him: thou art altogether born in sin: and dost thou teach us? And they cast him out. ^{9:35}Jesus heard that they had excommunicated him: and as soon as he had found him he said unto him: dost thou believe on the son of God? ^{9:36}He answered and said: And who is it Lord, that I might believe on him? ^{9:37}And Jesus said unto him: Thou hast seen him, and he it is that talketh with thee. ^{9:38}And he said: Lord I believe: And worshipped him. ^{9:39}Jesus said: I am come unto judgement, into this world: that they which see not, might see, and they which see might be made blind. ^{9:40}And some of the pharisees which were with him, heard these words and said unto him: Are we then blind? ^{9:41}Jesus said unto them, if ye were blind, ye should have no sin: but now ye say we see, therefore your sin remaineth. ^{10:1}Verily, verily I say unto you: Whosoever^f entereth not in by the door, into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way: he^g is a thief and a robber. ^{10:2}He that goeth in by the door, is the shepherd of the sheep. ^{10:3}To this man^h the porter openeth the door, and the sheep hear his voice; And he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out, ^{10:4}and when he hath sent forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: For they know his voice. ^{10:5}A stranger they will not follow, but will fly from him. Nevertheless let us go unto him. ^{11:16}Then said Thomas (which is called Didymus,) unto the disciples: let us also go, that we may die with him. ^{11:17}Then went Jesus, and found, that he had lain in his grave four days already. ^{11:18}Bethanie was nigh unto Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off; ^{11:19}And many of the jews came^k to Martha and Mary, to comfort them over their brother. ^{11:20}Martha as soon as she heard that Jesus was coming, went and met him. ¹ Mary sat still at home.^m ^{11:21}Then said Martha unto Jesus: Lord if thou hadst been here, my brother had not been dead: ^{11:22}but nevertheless, I know that whatsoever thou askest of God, God will give it thee. ^{11:23}Jesus said unto her: Thy brother shall rise again. ^{11:24}Martha said unto him: I know well,ⁿ he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day. ^{11:25}Jesus said unto her: I am the resurrection and the life. Believest thou this? ^{11:27}She said unto him: yea Lord: I believe that thou art Christ the son of God, which shall^p come into the world. ^{11:28}And as soon as she had so said she went her way, and called Mary her sister secretly saying: The master is come and calleth for thee. ^{11:29}^q She as soon as she heard that, arose quickly, and came unto him. ^{11:30}Jesus was not yet come into the town: but was in the place where Martha met him. ^{11:31}The jews then which were with her in the house, and comforted her (when they saw Mary that she rose up hastily, and went out) followed her saying: She goeth unto the grave, to weep there. ^{11:32}Then when Mary was come, where Jesus was and saw him she fell down at his feet, saying unto him: Lord if thou hadst been here, my brother had not been dead. ^{11:33}When Jesus saw her weep, and the jews also weep, which came with her. He groaned in the spirit, and vexed^r himself ^{11:34}and said: Where have ye laid him? They said unto him: Lord come and see. ^{11:35}And Jesus wept. ^{11:36}Then said the jews: Behold how he loved him. ^{11:37}^s Some of them said: Could not he which opened the eyes of the blind, have made also, that this man should not have died? ^{11:38}Jesus again groaned in himself ^t came to the grave, it was a cave, and a stone laid on it. ^{11:39}^u Jesus said: Take ye away the stone. Martha (the sister of him that was dead) said unto him: Lord by this time he stinketh. with his disciples. ^{11:55} ^f The jews' ester was nigh at hand, and many went out of the country up to Jerusalem before the ester to purify themselves. ^{11:56} Then sought they for Jesus, and spake between themselves as they stood in the temple: What think ye, seeing he cometh not to the feast. ^{11:57} The high priests and pharisees had given a commandment that if any man knew where he were, he should shew it that they might take him. ^{12:1} Then Jesus before six days of ester,^g came to Bethany where Lazarus (which was dead) was, whom Jesus raised from death. ^{12:2} There they made him a supper, and Martha served: but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him. ^{12:3} Then took Mary a pound of ointment called nardus, perfect and precious,^h and anointed Jesus' feet, and weptⁱ his feet with her hair, and all the house smelled^j of the savour of the ointment. ^{12:4} Then said one of his disciples named Judas Iscarioth, Simon's son, which afterward betrayed him: ^{12:5} why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor? ^{12:6} This said he, not that he cared for the poor: but because he was a thief, and kept the bag, and bare that which was given. ^{12:7} Then said Jesus: Let her alone, against the day of my burying she kept it. ^{12:8} The poor always^k shall ye have with you, but me shall ye not always^l have. ^{12:9} Much people of the jews had knowledge that he was there. If they have kept my saying,^d so will they keep yours. ^{15:21}But all these things will they do unto you for my name's sake, because they have not known him that sent me. ^{15:22}If I had not come and spoken unto them, they should have no sin:^e but now have they nothing to cloak their sin withal. ^{15:23}He that hateth me, hateth my father. ^{15:24}If I had not done works among them which none other man did, they should be without^f sin. But now have they seen, and yet have hated both me and my father: ^{15:25}Even that the saying might be fulfilled that is written in their law: they hated me without a cause. ^{15:26}But when the comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the father, which is the spirit of verity,^g which proceedeth of the father, he shall testify of me. ^{15:27}And ye shall bear witness also, because ye have been with me from the beginning. ^{16:1}These things have I said unto you be cause ye should not be hurt in your faith.^h ^{16:2}They shall excommunicate you: yea the time shall come, that whosoever killeth you, will think that he doth God true service. ^{16:3}And such things will they do unto you, because they have not known the father neither yet me. ^{16:4}ⁱ These things have I told you, that when that hour is come, ye might remember then, that I told you so. These things said I not unto you at the beginning, because I was present with you. ^{16:5}But now go I my way to him that sent me, and none of you asketh me: whither goest thou? ^{16:6}but because I have said such things unto you, your hearts are full of sorrow. ^{16:7}Nevertheless I tell you the truth it is expedient^j for you that I go away. For if I go not away, that comforter will not come unto you. The servant's name was Malchus. ^{18:11}Then said Jesus unto Peter: put up thy sword into the sheath: shall I not drink of the cup which my father had^p given me? ^{18:12}Then the company, and the Captain, and the ministers^q of the jews, took Jesus and bound him, ^{18:13}and led him away to Anna first: For he was father-in-law unto Caiphaz, which was the high priest that same year. ^{18:14}Caiphaz was he that gave counsel to the jews that it was expedient^f that one man should die for the people. ^{18:15}^s Simon Peter followed Jesus, and another disciple, that disciple was known of the high priest, and went in with Jesus into the palace of the high priest. ^{18:16}But Peter stood at the door without. Then went out that other disciple which was known unto the high priest, and spake to the damsel that kept the door, and brought in Peter. ^{18:17}Then said the damsel that kept the door unto Peter: Art not thou one of this man's disciples? He said: I am not. ^{18:18}The servants and the ministers^t stood there, and had made a fire of coals. For it was cold, and they warmed themselves. Peter also stood among them and warmed himself. ^{18:19}The high priest asked Jesus of his disciples, and of his doctrine. ^{18:20}Jesus answered him: I spake openly in the world. I ever taught in the synagogue and in the temple whither all the jews resorted: and in secret have I said nothing: ^{18:21}why askest thou me? Ask them which heard me what I said unto them. Behold they can tell what I said. ^{18:22}When he had thus spoken, one of the ministers which stood by, smote Jesus on the face saying: Answerest thou the high priest so? ^{18:23}Jesus answered him: If I have evil spoken, bear witness of the evil: if I have well spoken, why smitest thou me? ^{18:24}^u Annas sent him bound unto Caiphaz the high priest. ^{18:25}Simon Peter stood and warmed himself, and they said unto him: Art not thou also one of his disciples? He denied it, and said: I am not. ^{18:26}One of the servants of the high priest (his cousin whose ear Peter smote off) said unto him: did not I see thee in the garden with him? ^{18:27}Peter denied it again: and immediately the cock crew. ^{18:28}Then led they Jesus from Caiphaz into the hall of judgement.^v It was in the morning, and they themselves went not into the judgement house^w lest they should be defiled, but that they might eat Pascha.^x ^{18:29}Pilate then went out unto them and said: What accusation bring ye against this man? ^{18:30}They answered and said unto him: If he were not an evil doer, we would not have delivered him unto thee. ^{18:31}Then said Pilate unto them: take^y him unto you, and judge him after your own law. ^z The jews said unto him. And they did on him a purple garment, (and came unto him) ^{19:3}and said: hail King of the Jews. And they smote him on the face. ^{19:4}Pilate went forth again, and said unto them: behold I bring him forth to you, that ye may know, that I find no fault in him. ^{19:5}Then came Jesus forth wearing a crown of thorns and a robe of purple. And Pilate said unto them: Behold the man. ^{19:6}When the high priests and ministers saw him, they cried saying: crucify him, crucify him. Pilate said unto them. Take ye him and crucify him: For I find no cause^g in him. ^{19:7}The jews answered him. Pilate said unto them: Shall I crucify your King? The high priests answered: We have no King but Cesar.ⁿ ^{19:16}Then delivered he him unto them to be crucified. And they took Jesus, and led him away. ^{19:17}And he bare his cross, and went forth into a place called the place of dead men's skulls (which is named in hebrew, Golgotha) ^{19:18}where they crucified him. it. That the scripture might be fulfilled which saith. They parted my raiment among them, and on my coat did cast lots. And the soldiers did such things in deed. ^{19:25} There stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene. ^{19:26} When Jesus saw his mother, and the disciple standing whom he loved, he said unto his mother: Woman behold thy son. ^{19:27} Then said he to the disciple: behold thy mother. And from that hour the disciple took her for his own. ^{19:28} After that when Jesus perceived that all things were performed, that the scripture might be fulfilled: he said: I thirst. ^{19:29} There stood a vessel full of vinegar by. ^u They filled a sponge with vinegar, and wound it about with hyssop, and put it to his mouth. ^{19:30} As soon as Jesus had received of the vinegar, he said: It is finished, and bowed his head, and gave up the ghost. ^{19:31} The jews then because it was the Sabbath^v even that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the Sabbath day (For that Sabbath day was an high day) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken and that they might be taken down. ^{19:32} Then came the soldiers and brake the legs of the first, and of the other which was crucified with Jesus. ^{19:33} ^w When they came to Jesus and saw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs: ^{19:34} but one of the soldiers with a spear, thrust him into the side, and forthwith came there out blood and water. ^{19:35} And he that saw it bare record, and his record is true. And he knoweth that he saith true that ye might believe also. ^{19:36} These things were done that the scripture should be fulfilled: Ye shall not break a bone of him. ^{19:37} And again another scripture saith: They shall look on him, whom they pierced. ^{19:38} After that, Joseph of Arimathia (which was a disciple of Jesus: but secretly for fear of the jews) besought Pilate that he might take down the body of Jesus. And Pilate gave him license. (he came therefore, and took the body of Jesus) ^{19:39} And there came also Nicodemus which at the beginning came to Jesus by night, and brought of myrrh and aloes mingled together^x about an hundred pound weight. ^{19:40} Then took they the body of Jesu and wound it in linen clothes with those confections^y as the manner of the jews is to bury. ^{19:41} ^z In the place where Jesus was crucified, was a garden, and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was never man laid. ^{19:42} There laid they Jesus because of the jews' Sabbath even,^a for the sepulchre was nigh at hand. ^{20:1} The morrow after the Sabbath day came Mary Magdalene early when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and saw the stone rolled^b away from the tomb. ^{20:2} Then she ran, and came to Simon Peter, and to the other disciple whom Jesus loved, and said unto them: They have taken away the Lord out of the tomb and we cannot tell where they have laid him. ^{20:3} Peter went forth and that other disciple, and came unto the sepulchre. ^{20:4} They ran both together,^c and that other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre. ^{20:5} And he stooped down^d and saw the linen clothes,^e yet went he not in. ^{20:6} Then came Simon Peter following him, and went into the sepulchre, and saw the linen clothes lie,^{20:7} and the napkin that was about his head not lying with the linen cloth, but wrapped together in a place by itself. ^{20:8} Then went in also that other disciple which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw and believed. ^{20:9} For as yet they knew not the scriptures, that he should rise again from death. ^{20:10} And the disciples went away again unto their own home. ^{20:11} Mary stood without at the sepulchre weeping: ^f As she wept, she bowed herself into the sepulchre ^{20:12} and saw two angels clothed in white sitting

She said unto them: ^h They have taken away my Lord, and I wot not where they have laid him. ^{20:14} When she had thus said, she turned herself back and saw Jesus standing, and knew not that it was Jesus. ^{20:15} Jesus said unto her: woman why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou? She supposing ⁱ that he had been the gardener, said unto him: Sir if thou have borne him hence tell me where thou hast laid him, that I will take him away. ^{20:16} Jesus said unto her: Mary. She turned herself, and said unto him: Rabboni which is to say master. ^{20:17} Jesus said unto her: touch me not, for I have^k not yet ascended to my father. And he said unto them: except I see in his hands the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe. ^{20:26} And after eight days again, his disciples were with in, and Thomas was with them. Jesus ^q came when the doors were shut, and stood in the midst and said: peace be with you: ^{20:27} Than^r said he to Thomas: put in^s thy finger here,^t and see my hands, and put forth^u thy hand and thrust him^v into my side, and be not without faith: but believe. ^w ^{20:28} Thomas answered and said unto him: my Lord, and my God. ^{20:29} Jesus said unto him: Thomas, because thou hast seen me, therefore hast thou believed:^x Happy^y are they that have not seen, and yet believe. ^{20:30} And many other signs^z did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book. ^{20:31} These are written that ye might believe that Jesus is Christ the son of God. They went their way and entered into a ship straightway, and that night caught they nothing. ^{21:4} ^a When the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore; Nevertheless the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. ^{21:5} Jesus said unto them: Sirs, have ye any meat? They answered him no. ^{21:6} And he said unto them: cast out your^b net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast out, and anon they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes. ^{21:7} Then said the disciple whom Jesus loved unto Peter: It is the Lord. When Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he gird^c his mantle to him (for he was naked) and sprang into the sea. ^{21:8} The other disciples came by ship: For they were not far from land, but as it were two hundred cubits; And they drew the net with fishes. ^{21:9} As soon as they were come to land, they saw hot coals laid and fish laid thereon, and bread. ^{21:10} Jesus said unto them: bring of the fishes which ye have now caught. ^{21:11} Simon Peter stepped forth and drew the net to land full of great fishes, an hundred and fifty three. And for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken. ^{21:12} Jesus said unto them: come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him: what art thou? For they knew that it was Christ the Lord. ^{21:13} Jesus then came and took bread, and gave them, and fish likewise. ^{21:14} And this is now the third time that Jesus appeared to his disciples, after that he was risen again from death. ^{21:15} When they had dined, Jesus said to Simon Peter: Simon Joanna, lovest thou me more than these? He said unto him: yea Lord, thou knowest, that I love thee. He said unto him: feed my lambs. ^{21:16} He said to him again the second time: Simon Joanna, lovest thou me? He said unto him: yea Lord thou knowest that I love thee. He said unto him: feed my sheep. ^{21:17} He said unto him the third time: Simon Joanna, lovest thou me? ^d Peter sorrowed because he said to him the third time, lovest thou me, and said unto him: Lord, thou knowest all things, thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus said unto him:

feed my sheep. ^{21:18} Verily, verily I say unto thee, when thou wast young, thou girdedst thyself, and walkedst whither thou wouldest: but when thou art old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and lead thee whither thou wouldest not. ^{21:19} That spake he signifying by what death he should glorify God. And when he had said thus, he said to him: Follow me. ^{21:20} Peter turned about, and saw that disciple whom Jesus loved following (which also leaned on his breast at supper) and said: Lord which is he that shall betray thee? ^{21:21} When Peter saw him, he said to Jesus: Lord what shall he here do? ^{21:22} Jesus said unto him: If I will have him to tarry till I come, what is that to thee? follow thou me. ^{21:23} Then went this saying abroad among the brethren, that that disciple should not die. And^e Jesus said not to him, he shall not die: but if I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? ^{21:24} The same disciple is he, which testified of these things, and wrote these things. And we know, that his testimony is true. ^{21:25} There are also many other things which Jesus did: the which if they should be written every one, I suppose the world could not contain the books that should be written.

^{1:1}In my first^a treatise (Dear friend Theophilus) I have written of all that Jesus began to do and teach, ^{1:2}until the day in the which he was taken up, after that he thow the holy ghost, had given commandments unto the apostles, which he chose:^b ^{1:3}to whom also he shewed himself alive, after his passion by many tokens, appearing unto them forty days, and spake^c of the kingdom of God, ^{1:4}and gathered them together, and commanded them, that they should not depart from Jerusalem: but to wait for the promise of the father, whereof ye have heard of me. ^{1:5}For John baptised with water but ye shall be baptised with the holy ghost, and that within this few days. ^{1:6}When they were come together, they asked of him, saying: Master^d wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel? ^{1:7}^e He said unto them: It is not for you to know the times, or the seasons which the father hath put in his own power: ^{1:8}but ye shall receive power of the holy ghost which shall come on you. And ye shall be witnesses unto me in Jerusalem, and in all Jewry, and in Samary, and even unto the world's end.^f ^{1:9}And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld he was taken up, and a cloud received him up out of their sight. ^{1:10}And as^g they fastened their eyes in^h heaven, as he went, loⁱ two men stood by them in white clothing,^j ^{1:11}which also said: ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come, even as ye have seen him go into heaven. ^{1:12}Then returned they unto Jerusalem from mount Olivete, which is nigh to Jerusalem, containing a Sabbath day's journey. ^{1:13}And when they were come in, they went up into a parlour, where abode both Peter and James, John and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartlemew and Matthew, James the son of Alpheus, and Simon Zelotes, and Judas James' son. ^{1:14}These all continued with one accord, in prayer, and supplication with the women, and Mary the mother of Jesu. And with his brethren. ^{1:15}And in those days Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples and said (The number of names were^k about an hundred and twenty) ^{1:16}Ye men and brethren, this scripture must^l needs be^m fulfilled which the holy ghost thow the mouth of David spake before of Judas, which was guide to them that took Jesus. ^{1:17}For he was now numbered with us andⁿ obtained fellowship in this ministration. ^{1:18}And the same hath now possessed a plot of ground with the reward of iniquity.^o And when he was hanged, burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out. ^{1:19}And it is known unto all the inhabitors of Jerusalem. Insomuch that that field is called in their mother tongue, Acheldema, that is to say the blood field. ^{1:20}It is written in the book of psalms: His habitation be void, and no man be dwelling therein: and his bishopruck let another take. ^{1:21}Wherefore of these men which have companied with us (all the time that the Lord Jesus went out and in among us, ^{1:22}beginning at the baptism of John unto that same day that he was taken up from us) must one be ordained to be a^p witness with us of his resurrection. ^{1:23}And they appointed two, Joseph called Barsabas (whose surname was Justus) and Matthias. ^{1:24}And they prayed saying: Thou Lord which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether thou hast chosen of these two, ^{1:25}that the one may take the room of this ministration, and apostleship from the which Judas by transgression fell, that he might go to his own place. ^{1:26}And they gave forth their lots, and the lot fell on Mathias. And he was counted with the eleven apostles. ^{2:1}When the fiftieth day was come, they were all with one accord gathered together in one place. ^{2:2}And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as it had been the coming of a mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they sat. ^{2:3}And there appeared unto them cloven tongues, ^q as they had been fire, and it sat upon each of them: ^{2:4}and they were all filled with the holy ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, even as the spirit gave them utterance. ^{2:5} ^r There were dwelling at Jerusalem jews, devout men, which were of all nations under heaven. ^{2:6}When this was noised about, the multitude came together^s and were astonished, because that every man heard them speak his own tongue. ^{2:7}They wondered all, and marveled saying among themselves: Look,^t are not all these which speak of Galilee? ^{2:8}And how hear we every man his own tongue wherein we were born? ^{2:9}Parthians, Medes, and Elamites and the inhabitants of Mesopotamia, of Jury, ^u Capadocia, ^v Ponthus, and of Asia; ^{2:10}Phrigia, Pamphlia, and of Egypt, and of the parts of Libia, which is beside Syrene; And strangers of Rome; ^{2:11}Jews and Proselytes,^w Greeks and Arabians: We have heard them speak with our own tongues the great works of God. ^{2:12}They were all amazed, and wondered saying one to another: what meaneth this? ^{2:13}Other mocked them saying: They are full of new wine. ^{2:14} ^x Peter stepped forth with the eleven, and lift up his voice, and said unto them: Ye men of Jewry, and all ye that inhabit Jerusalem: be this known unto you, and with your ears hear my words.^y ^{2:15}These are not drunken, as ye wene:^z For it is yet but the third hour of the day: ^{2:16}but this is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel: ^{2:17}It shall be in the last days (saith God) of my spirit I will pour out upon all flesh. And your sons, and your daughters shall prophesy, ^a your young men shall see visions. And your old men shall dream dreams. ^{2:18}And on my servants, and on my hand maidens I will pour out of my spirit in those days; And they shall prophesy. ^{2:19}And I will shew wonders in heaven above, and tokens in the earth beneath, blood and fire, and the vapour of smoke. ^{2:20}The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great, and notable day of the Lord come. ^{2:21}And the time shall come^b that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord, shall be saved. ^{2:22}Ye men of Israel, hear these words. Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you with miracles and wonders, and signs^c which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves know: ^{2:23}him have ye taken by the hands of unrighteous persons, after he was delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, and have crucified and slain him, ^{2:24}whom God hath raised up and loosed^d the sorrows of death, because it was impossible that he should be holden of it. ^{2:25} ^e David speaketh of him: Aforehand, saw I God always before me: For he is on my right hand, that I should not be moved. ^{2:26}Therefore did my heart rejoice, and my tongue was glad. not leave my soul in hell, neither shalt^g suffer thy saint^h to see corruption. ^{2:28}Thou hast shewed me the ways of life; Thouⁱ shalt make me full of joy with thy countenance. ^{2:29}Men and brethren, let me freely speak unto you of the patriarch David: For he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre remaineth with us unto his day. ^{2:30}Therefore since^j he was a prophet, and knew that God had sworn^k with an oath to him, that the fruit of his loins should sit on his seat: (in that Christ should rise again in the flesh) ^{2:31}He saw before, and spake of the resurrection of Christ, that his soul should not be left in hell: neither his flesh should see corruption. ^{2:32}This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses. ^{2:33}Since^l now that he by the right hand of God exalted is, and hath received of the father the promise of the holy ghost, he hath shed forth that (gift) which ye now see and hear. ^{2:34}For David is not ascended into heaven, but he said: The Lord said to my Lord sit on my right hand, ^{2:35}until I make thy foes,^m thy foot stool. ^{2:36}So therefore let all the house of Israel know for a surety, that God hath made the same Jesus whom ye have crucified, Lord and Christ. ^{2:37}When they heard this, they were pricked in their hearts, and said unto Peter, and unto the other apostles: Ye men and brethren, what shall we do? ^{2:38}Peter said unto them: Repentⁿ and be baptised every one of you in^o the name of Jesus Christ; For the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the holy ghost. ^{2:39}For the promise was made unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar, even as many as our^p Lord God shall call. ^{2:40}And with many other words bare he witness, and exhorted them saying: Save yourselves from this untoward generation. ^{2:41}^q They that gladly received his preaching were baptised; And the same day, there were added unto them about a three thousand souls. ^{2:42}And they continued in the Apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayer. ^{2:43}And fear came over every soul. And many wonders and signs were shewed^r by the apostles. (at Ierusalem. And great fear came upon all men)^s ^{2:44}And all that believed gathered then^t together, and had all things common. ^{2:45}And sold their possessions and goods, and departed them to all men, as every man had need. ^{2:46}And they continued daily with one accord in the temple, and brake bread in every house, and ate^u their meat together with gladness, and singleness of heart praising God, ^{2:47}and had favour with all the people, and the Lord added to the congregation daily them that^v should be saved. ^{3:1}Peter and John went up together into the temple at the ninth hour of prayer: ^{3:2}And there was a certain man halt from his mother's womb, whom they brought and laid at the gate of the temple called beautiful, to ask his alms of them that entered into the temple. ^{3:3}^w When he saw Peter and John, that they would into the temple, he desired to receive an alms; ^{3:4}^x Peter fastened his eyes on^y him with John and said: look on us, ^{3:5}and he gave heed unto them, trusting^z

And immediately his feet and anklebones received strength, ^{3:8}and he sprang, stood, and also walked, and entered with them into the temple walking, and leaping, and lauding^a God. ^{3:9}And all the people saw him walk and laud^b God. ^{3:10}And they knew him, that it was he which sat and begged^c at the beautiful gate of the temple. And they wondered, and were sore astonied at that which had happened unto him. ^{3:11} ^d As the halt which was healed held Peter and John, all the people ran amazed unto them in Solomon's hall.^e ^{3:12}When Peter saw that, he answered unto the people: Ye men of Israel, why marvel ye at this? 3:23 For the time will come,^d that every soul which shall not hear that same prophet, shall be exiled^e from ^f the people. 3:24 Also all the prophets from Samuel, and thenceforth, as many as have spoken, have in likewise told of these days. 3:25 Ye are the children of the prophets, and to you pertaineth the testament that^g God hath made unto our fathers saying to Abraham: Even in thy seed shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed. 3:26 First unto you hath God raised up his son Jesus, and him he hath sent to bless you, that every one of you should turn from his^h wickedness. 4:1 As they spake unto the people, the priests and the ruler of the temple, and the sadducees came upon them, 4:2 taking ⁱ grievously that they taught the people and preached in the name of Jesus^j the resurrection from death. 4:3 And they laid hands on them, and put them in hold until the next day.^k For it was now eventide. 4:4 ^l Many of them which heard the words believed, and the number of the men was about five thousand. 4:5 ^m It chanced on the morrow that their rulers, and seniors,ⁿ and scribes, 4:6 as Annas the chief priest, and Caiaphas, and John and Alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the high priest, were gathered together at Jerusalem, 4:7 and set them in the midst,^o and asked by what power,^p or in what name have ye done this sirs? 4:8 Then Peter full of the holy ghost said unto them. Ye rulers of the people, and seniors^q of Israel, 4:9 if we

this day are examined of the good deed done to the sick man by what means he is made whole: 4:10 be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, and whom God raised from death again, this man standeth^r here present before you whole. 4:11 This is the stone cast aside^s of you builders which is set in the chief place of the corner.^t 4:12 Neither is there health^u in any other. Nor yet also is there any other name given to men wherein we must be saved. 4:13 When they saw the boldness of Peter and John; And knew^v that they were unlearned men and lay people, they marveled, and they knew them, that they were with Jesu: 4:14 Seeing^w also the man which was healed standing with them, they could not say against it, 4:15 but ^x commanded them to go aside out of the council; And communed^y among themselves 4:16 saying: what shall we do to these men? For a manifest sign is done by them, and is openly known to all them that dwell in Jerusalem, and we cannot deny it: 4:17 But that it be noised no farther among the people, let us threaten and charge them that they speak henceforth to no man in this name. 4:18 And they called them, and commanded them that in no wise they should speak or teach in the name of Jesu. 4:19 But Peter and John answered unto them and said: whether it be right in the sight of God to obey you more than God judge ye. 4:20 For we cannot

 And found no thing how to punish them, because of the people: For all men lauded^z God for the miracle which was done. ^{4:22}For the man was above forty year old, on whom ghost*) by the mouth of thy servant David (our father) hast said: Why did the heathen grudge,^g and the people imagine vain things. ^{4:26}The kings of the earth stood up and the rulers came together against the Lord; And against his Christ. ^{4:27}For of a truth against thy holy Herod and also Pontius Pilate with the gentiles, and the people of Israel, gathered themselves threatenings, and grant unto thy servants with thou stretch forth thy^j hand that healing, and signs,^k and wonders be done by the name of thy holy child Jesus. ^{4:31}And as soon as they had prayed, the place moved where they were assembled^l together, and they were all filled with the holy ghost, and they spake the word of God boldly. ^{4:32} ^m The multitude of them that believed, were of one heart; And of one soul. Also none of them said, that any thing of thoseⁿ which he possessed was his own: But had all things common. ^{4:33}And with great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesu. And great grace was with them all. ^{4:34}Neither was there any among them that lacked. For as many as were possessors of lands or houses, sold them and brought the price of the things that were sold, ^{4:35} and laid it down at the apostles' feet.

 And distribution was made unto every man according as he had need. ^{4:36}And Joses which was also called of the apostles Barnabas (that is to say the son of consolation, being a Levite, and of the country of Cipers) ^{4:37} had land, and sold it, and laid the price down at the apostles' feet. ^{5:1} A certain man named Ananias with Saphira his wife sold a possession, ^{5:2} and kept away part of the price (his wife also being of counsel) and brought a certain part, and laid it down at the apostles' feet. ^{5:3} Then said Peter: Ananias how is it that Satan hath filled thine heart, that thou shouldest lie unto the holy ghost, and keep away part of the price of thy^o livelihood: ^{5:4} Pertained it not unto thee only?
 And after it was sold, was not the price in thine own power? How is it that thou hast conceived this thing in thine heart? Thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God. ^{5:5} When Ananias heard these words, he fell down and gave up the ghost. And great fear came on all them that these things heard. ^{5:6} And the young men rose up, and put him apart, and carried him

Lo,^u the feet of them which have buried thy husband are at the door, and shall carry thee out; ^{5:10} Then she fell down straightway at his feet and yielded up the ghost. ^v The young men came in and found her dead, and carried her out and buried her by her husband. ^{5:11} And great fear came on all the congregation. And on as many as heard it. ^{5:12} By the hands of the apostles were many signs^w and wonders shewed among the people. And they were all together with one accord in Solomon's hall.^x ^{5:13} And of other durst no man join himself to them: but^y the people magnified them. ^{5:14} The number of them that believed in the Lord both of men and women grew more and more ^{5:15} insomuch that they brought their^z sick into the streets, and laid them on beds and pallets, that at the least way the shadow of Peter when he came by, might shadow some of them. (and that they might all be delivered from their infirmities) ^{5:16} There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing with them sick ^a and them which were vexed with unclean spirits. And they were healed every one. ^{5:17} ^b The chief priest rose up and ^c they that were with him (which is the sect of the sadducees) and were full of indignation, ^{5:18} and laid hands on the apostles, and put them in the common prison: ^{5:19} but the angel of the Lord by night opened the prison door,^d and brought them forth, and said: ^{5:20} go step forth, and speak in the temple to the people all the words of this life. ^{5:21} When they heard that, they entered into the temple early in the morning and taught. The chief priest came and they that were with him and called a council together, and all the seniors^e of the children of Israel, and sent to the prison to fetch them. ^{5:22} When the ministers came and found them not in the prison, they came again^f and told ^{5:23} saying: The prison found we shut with all diligence,^g and the keepers standing without before the doors: but when we had opened we found no man within. ^{5:24} When the chief priest of all and the ruler of the temple, and the high priests heard these things, they doubted of them, whereunto this would grow. ^{5:25} Then came one and shewed them: Lo^h the men that ye put in prison stand in the temple, and preach toⁱ the people. ^{5:26} Then went the ruler of the temple with ministers, and brought them without violence. For they feared the people lest they should have been stoned. ^{5:27} And when they had brought them, they set them before the council. And the chief priest asked them ^{5:28} saying: did not we straitly command you that ye should not teach in this name? and behold ye have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine, and ye intend to bring this man's blood upon us. ^{5:29} Peter and the other apostles answered, and said: We ought more to obey God than men. ^{5:30} The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom ye slew and hanged on tree. ^{5:31} Him being a ruler and a saviour hath

God exalted with his right hand,^j for to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins.^{5:32} And we are his records as concerning these things:^k and also the holy ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey him.^{5:33} When they heard that they clave asunder, and sought means to slay them.^{5:34} Then stood there up one in the council, a pharisee named Gamaliel, a doctor of law,^l had in authority among^m ⁿ the people and commanded^o to put the apostles aside a little space,^{5:35} and said unto them: Men of Israel take heed to yourselves what ye intend to do as touching these men.^{5:36} Before these days rose up one Theudas boasting^p himself, to whom resorted a number of men, about a four hundred, which was slain, and they all which believed^q him were scattered abroad, and brought to nought.^{5:37} After this man arose there up one Judas of Galilee, in the time when tribute began, and drew away much people after him. He also perished: and all even as many as harkened to^r him are scattered a broad.^{5:38} And now I say unto you: refrain yourselves from these men, let them alone: For if this^s counsel or ^t work be of men, it will come to nought:^{5:39} but and if it be of God, ye cannot destroy it, lest haply ye be found to strive against God.^{5:40} And to him they agreed, and called the apostles, and beat them, and commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jesu, and let them go.^{5:41} And they departed from the council rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer rebuke for his name.^{5:42} And daily in the temple, and in every house they ceased not, teaching and preaching ^u Jesus Christ.^{6:1} In those days as the number of the disciples grew,^v there arose a grudge among the greeks against the hebrews, because their widows were despised^w in the daily ministration.^x^{6:2} Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples together^y and said: it is not meet that we should leave the word of God and serve at the tables,^{6:3} wherefore brethren look ye out among you seven men of honest report, and full of the holy ghost and wisdom, which we may appoint to this needful business:^{6:4} but we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministration of the word.^z^{6:5} And the saying pleased the whole multitude well. And they chose Stephen a man full of faith, and of the holy ghost, and Philip, and Prochorus, and Nichanor, and Timon, and Permenas, and Nicholas a proselyte^a of Antioch,^{6:6} which they set before the apostles, and they prayed and laid their hands on them.^{6:7} And the word of God increased, and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly. And a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith.^{6:8} ^b Stephen full of faith and power did great wonders, and miracles among the people.^{6:9} Then there arose certain of the Synagogue, which are called libertines, and Sirenens, and Alexandrians,^c and Cilicians,^d and Asians,^e and disputed with Steven.^{6:10} And they could not resist the wisdom, and the spirit, with which he spake. ^{6:11}Then sent they in men which said: we have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses, and against God, ^{6:12}and they moved the people, and the seniors,^f and the scribes: and they came upon him and caught him, and brought him to the council, ^{6:13}and brought forth false witnesses which said: This man ceaseth not to speak blasphemous words against this holy place and the law, ^{6:14}for we heard him say: This Jesus of Nazareth shall destroy this place, and shall change the ordinances which Moses gave unto us. ^{6:15}And all that sat in the council looked steadfastly on him, and saw his face as it had been the face of an angel. ^{7:1}Then said the chief priest: is it even so? ^{7:2}And he said: ye men, brethren, and fathers, hearken to. The God of glory appeared unto our father Abraham while he was yet in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran, ^{7:3}and said unto him: come out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and come into the land which I shall shew unto thee. ^{7:4}Then came he out of the land of Caldey,^g and dwelt in Charran. And after that as soon as his father was dead, he brought him into this land, wherein^h ye now dwell, ^{7:5}and he gave him none inheritance in it, no not one foot of ground.ⁱ And^l promised that he would give it to him ^k and to his seed after him, when as yet he had no child. ^{7:6}God verily spake on this wise, thy^l seed shall^m be a dwellerⁿ in a strange land, and ^o they shall put^p them in bondage, and entreat them evil four hundred years. ^{7:7}And^q the nation to whom they shall be in bondage, will I judge (said God) and after that shall they come forth, and serve me in this place. ^{7:8}And ^r gave him the testament^s of circumcision, and he begat Isaac, and circumcised him the eighth day, and Isaac begat Jacob, and Jacob the twelve patriarchs. ^{7:9}And the patriarchs having indignation sold Joseph into Egypt, and God was with him, ^{7:10}and delivered him out of all his adversities,^t and gave him favour and wisdom in the sight of Pharaoh king of Egypt; And Pharaoh^u made him governor over Egypt, and over all his household. ^{7:11}Then came there a dearth over all the land of Egypt, and Canaan, and great affliction,^v that our fathers found no sustenance. ^{7:12} ^w When Jacob heard that there was corn in Egypt, he sent our fathers first, ^{7:13}and when he had sent them the^x second time, Joseph was known of his brethren, and Joseph's kindred was made known unto Pharaoh. ^{7:14}Then sent Joseph and caused his father to be brought and all his kin, three score and fifteen souls. ^{7:15}And Jacob descended into Egypt, and died both he and our fathers, ^{7:16}and were translated into^y Sichem, and were put in the sepulchre that Abraham bought for money of the sons of Emor, at Sichem. ^{7:17}When the time of the promise drew nigh (which God had promised with an oath^z to Abraham) the people grew and multiplied in Egypt ^{7:18}till another king arose which knew not of Joseph. ^{7:19}The same dealt subtly with our kindred, and evil intreated our fathers, and made them to cast out their^a children, that they should not remain alive. ^{7:20}The same time was Moses born, and was a proper child in the sight of God, which was nourished up in his father's house three months. ^{7:21}When he was cast out Pharaoh's daughter took him up, and nourished him up for her own son. ^{7:22}And Moses was learned in all manner wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in deeds and in words. ^{7:23}^b When he was full forty year old, it came into his heart to visit his brethren, the children of Israel. ^{7:24}And when he saw one of them suffer wrong, he defended him, and avenged his quarrel that had the harm done to him, and smote the Egyptian. ^{7:25}For he supposed^c his brethren would have understood how that God by his hands should give them health:^d but they understood not. ^{7:26}And the next day he shewed himself unto them as they strove, and would have set them at one again saying: Sirs ye are brethren why hurt ye one another? ^{7:27}But he that did his neighbour wrong, thrust him away saying: Who made thee a ruler and a judge among^e us? ^{7:28}What wilt thou kill^f me, as thou didst the Egyptian yesterday? ^{7:29}Then fled Moses at that word,^g and was a stranger in the land of Madian; Where he begat two sons. ^{7:30}^h When forty years were expired, there appeared to him in the wilderness of mount Sina theⁱ angel of the Lord in a flame of fire in a bush. ^{7:31}When Moses saw it he wondered at the sight, and as he drew near to behold it. And the voice of the Lord came unto him: ^{7:32}I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob. Moses trembled and durst not behold. ^{7:33}Then said the Lord to him put off thy shoes from thy feet, for the place where thou standest is holy ground. ^{7:34}I have perfectly seen the affliction^j of my people which is in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and am come down to deliver them. And now come and I will send thee into Egypt. ^{7:35}The same^k Moses whom they forsook saying: who made the a ruler and a judge: ^{7:36}God sent both a ruler and a deliverer, by the hands of the angel which appeared to him in the bush. ^{7:36}This man^m brought them out shewing wonders and signsⁿ in Egypt, and in the reed sea, and in the wilderness forty years. ^{7:37}This is that Moses which said unto the children of Israel: A prophet shall your^o Lord God raise up unto you of your brethren like unto me, him shall ye hear. ^{7:38}This is he that was in the congregation, in the wilderness with the angel which spake to him in the mount Sina, and with our fathers. This man received the word of life to give unto us, ^{7:39}to whom our fathers would not obey: But cast it from them, and in their hearts turned back again into Egypt, ^{7:40}saying unto Aaron: Make us gods to go before us. For we wot not what is become of this Moses that brought us out of the land of Egypt. ^{7:41}And they made a calf in those days, and offered sacrifice unto the image, and rejoiced in the works of their own hands. ^{7:42}Then God turned himself, and gave them up, that they should worship the stars of the sky, as it is written in the book of the prophets: O ye of the house of Israel: have ye given unto me offerings or sacrifice,^p by the space of forty years in the wilderness? ^{7:43}And ye took unto you the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of

And I will translate you beyond Babylon. ^{7:44}Our fathers had the tabernacle of testimony^q in the wilderness, as he had appointed them speaking unto Moses, that he should make it according to the fashion that he had seen, ^{7:45}which tabernacle our fathers received, and brought it in with Josue into the possession of the gentiles, which gentiles God drave out before the face of our fathers unto the time of David, ^{7:46}which found favour before God, and desired that he might find^r a tabernacle for the God of Jacob. ^{7:47}And^s Solomon built him an house. ^{7:48}But^t he that is highest of all dwelleth not in temples made with hands, as saith the prophet: ^{7:49}Heaven is my seat, and earth is my foot stool, what house will ye build for me saith the Lord? or what resting place?^u ^{7:50}hath not my hand made all these things? ^{7:51}Ye stiffnecked and of uncircumcised hearts and ears: ye have always^v resisted the holy ghost: as your fathers did, so do ye. ^{7:52}Which of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted? And they have slain them, which shewed before of the coming of that Just, whom ye have betrayed and murdered. ^{7:53}And ye also have received a law by the ordinance^w of angels, and have not kept it. ^{7:54}When they heard these things, their hearts clave asunder, and they gnashed on him with their teeth. ^{7:55} ^x He being full of the holy ghost looked up^y with his eyes into heaven and saw the majesty^z of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God, ^{7:56}and said: lo,^a I see the heavens open, and the son of man stand^b on the right hand of God. ^{7:57}Then they gave a shout with a loud voice, and stopped their ears and all ran upon him at once, ^{7:58}and cast him out of the city, and stoned him. And the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet named Saul. ^{7:59}And they stoned Steven calling on and saying: Lord Jesu receive my spirit. ^{7:60}And he kneeled down and cried with a loud voice: Lord impute not this sin unto them;^c For they wot not what they do. And when he had thus spoken he fell asleep. ^{8:1}Saul had pleasure in his death. ^d At that time there was a great persecution against the congregation which was at Jerusalem, and they were all scattered abroad thorowout the regions of Jury and Samaria, except the apostles. ^{8:2}Then devout men dressed Steven, and made great lamentation over him. ^{8:3} ^e Saul made havoc of the congregation entering into every house, and drew out both man and woman, and thrust them into prison. ^{8:4} ^f They that were scattered abroad went every where preaching the word. ^{8:5}Then came Philip into a city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them. ^{8:6}And the people gave heed unto those things which Philip spake with one accord, in that they heard and saw the miracles which he did. ^{8:7}For unclean spirits crying with loud voice, came out of many which^g were possessed of them. ^h Many taken with palsies, and many that halted were healed. ^{8:8}And there was great joy in that city. ^{8:9}And there was a certain man called Simon, which beforetime in the same city, used witchcraft and bewitched the people, ⁱ saying that he was a man that could

And continued with Philip, and wondered beholding the (great) miracles^p and signs, which were shewed. ^{8:14}When the apostles which were at Jerusalem heard say that Samaria had received the word of God: they sent unto them Peter and John, ^{8:15}which when they were come, prayed for them, that they might receive the holy ghost. ^{8:16}For as yet he was come on none of them: But they were baptised only in the name of Christ Jesu. ^{8:17}Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the holy ghost. ^{8:18}When Simon saw that thorow laying on of the apostles' hands on them, the holy ghost was given: he offered them money saying: ^{8:19}Give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay^q hands, he may receive the holy ghost. ^{8:20}Then said Peter unto him: Perish thou and thy money together.^r For thou wenest that the gift of God may be obtained with money? ^{8:21}thou hast neither part nor fellowship in this business. He answered saying:^l I believe that Jesus Christ is the son of God. ^{8:38}And ^m commanded the chariot to stand still. And^p the gelded man^q saw him no more. And he went on his way rejoicing: ^{8:40}but Philip was found at Azotus. And he walked thorow out the country preaching in their^r cities, till he came to Cesarea. ^{9:1}^s Saul yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest, ^{9:2}and desired of him letters to Damasco, to the synagogues: that if he found any of this way whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem. ^{9:3}^t As he went on his journey, it fortuned that he drew

Then was Saul a certain days with the disciples which were at Damasco. ^{9:20} And straightway he preached Christ in the Synagogues how that he was the son of God. ^{9:21} All that heard him were amazed and said: is not this he that spoiled them which called on this name in Jerusalem? And came hither for the intent that he should bring them bound unto the high priests? ^{9:22} ^g Saul increased in strength; And confounded the jews which dwelt at Damasco affirming that this was very Christ. ^{9:23} ^h After a good while, the jews took counsel ⁱ among themselves to kill him. ^{9:24} But their layings wait were^j known of Saul. And they watched at the gates day and night to kill him. ^{9:25} Then the disciples took him by night, and put him thorow the wall and let him down in a basket. ^{9:26} ^k When Saul came^l to Jerusalem he assayed to couple himself with the disciples, and they were all afraid of him and believed not that he was a disciple. ^{9:27} But Barnabas took him and brought him to the apostles and told^m them how he had seen the Lord in the way and had spoken with him: and how he had done boldly at Damasco in the name of Jesu; ^{9:28} And he had his conversation with them at Jerusalem, ^{9:29} and quit himself boldly in the name of the Lord Jesu. And he spake and disputed with the greeks and they went about to slay him. ^{9:30} ⁿ When the brethren knew of that, they brought him to Cesarea, and sent him forth to Tharsus. ^{9:31} Then had the congregations rest thorowout all Jewry and Galilee and Samary, and were edified, and walked in the fear of the Lord; And multiplied by^o the comfort of the holy ghost. ^{9:32} ^p It chanced that as Peter walked throughout all quarters, he came to the saints which dwelt at Lydda. ^{9:33} And there he found a certain man named Eneas, which had kept his bed eight year sick of the palsy. ^{9:34} Then said Peter unto him: Eneas, the Lord Jesus Christ make thee whole: Arise and make thy bed. And he arose immediately. ^{9:35} And all that dwelt at Lydda and Assaron, saw him, and turned to the Lord. ^{9:36} There was at Joppa a certain woman (which was a disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas) she^q was full of good works and alms deeds, which she did. ^{9:37} ^r It chanced in those days that she was sick and died. When they had washed her and laid her in a chamber: ^{9:38} Because Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him, desiring him that he would not be grieved to come unto them. ^{9:39} Peter arose and came with them: ^s when he was come, they brought him into the chamber, and all the widows stood round about him weeping and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made while she was

He said unto him: Thy prayers and thy alms are come up into remembrance in the presence of ^a God. ^{10:5} And now send men to Joppa, and call for one Simon named also Peter. ^{10:6} He lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the seaside. He shall tell thee, what thou oughtest to do. ^{10:7} When the angel which spake unto Cornelius was departed, he called two of his household, ^b and a devout soldier of them that waited on him, ^{10:8} to whom he told ^c all the matter, and sent them to Joppa. ^{10:9} On the morrow as they went on their journey and drew nigh unto the city, Peter went up into the uppermost part ^d of the house to pray, about the sixth hour. ^{10:10} Then waxed he an hungered, and would have eaten; ^e while they made ready for him. He fell into a trance, ^{10:11} and saw heaven opened, and a certain vessel come down unto him, as it had been a great sheet, knit at the four corners, and was let down to the earth, ^{10:12} wherein were all manner of four footed beasts of the earth and vermin and worms, and fowls of the air. ^{10:13} And ^f a voice spake unto him from heaven: Rise Peter Kill and eat. ^{10:14} ^g Peter said: God forbid Lord, for I have never eaten any thing that is common or unclean. ^{10:15} And the voice spake unto him again the second time: What God hath cleansed that make thou not common. ^{10:16} This was done thrice; And the vessel was received up again into heaven. ^{10:17} While Peter mused in himself what this vision which he had seen meant, behold, the men which were sent from Cornelius, had made inquirance for Simon's house, and stood before the door. ^{10:18} And called out one and asked whether Simon which was also called Peter, were lodged there. ^{10:19} While Peter thought on this vision, the spirit said unto him: Lo, ⁱ men seek thee: arise therefore, get thee down, ^{10:20} and go with them, and doubt not. For I have sent them. ^{10:21} Peter went down to the men which were sent unto him from Cornelius, and said: Lo, ^j I am he, whom ye seek, what is the cause wherefore ye are come? ^{10:22} ^k They said unto him: Cornelius the captain a just man, and one that feareth God, and of good report among all the people of the jews was warned by an holy angel, to send for thee in to his house, and to hear words of thee. ^{10:23} Then called he them in, and lodged them. ^l On the morrow Peter went

I ask therefore: for what intent have ye sent for me? ^{10:30} And Cornelius said: This day now four days I fasted, and at the ninth hour I prayed in my house, and behold, a man stood before me in bright clothing, ^{10:31} and said: Cornelius, thy prayer is heard, and thine alms deeds are had in remembrance in the sight of God. ^{10:32} Send therefore to Joppa, and call for Simon which is also called Peter. He is lodged in the house of one Simon a tanner by the seaside, the which as soon as he is come, shall speak unto thee. ^{10:33} Then sent I for thee immediately, and thou hast well done for to come. Now are we all here, present before God to hear all things that are commanded unto thee of God. ^{10:34} ^v Peter opened his mouth^w and said: Of a truth I perceive, that God is not partial,^x ^{10:35} but in all people he that feareth^y him and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him. ^{10:36} Ye know the preaching that God sent unto the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christe (which is Lord over all things.) ^{10:37} which preaching was published thorowout all Jewry, and began in Galilee, after the baptism preached by John; ^{10:38} After that^z God had anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the holy ghost, and with power, he^a went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed with^b devils, for God was with him. ^{10:39} And we are witnesses of all things which he did in the land of the jews and at Jerusalem, whom they slew, and hung on tree. ^{10:40} Him God raised up the third day, and shewed him openly, ^{10:41} not to all the people, but unto us witnesses chosen before of God, which ate and drank with him, after he arose from death. ^{10:42} And he commanded^c us to preach unto the people and testify, that it is he that is ordained of God a judge of quick and dead. ^{10:43} To him giveth all the prophets witness, that thorow his name shall receive remission of sins all that believe in him.^d ^{10:44} While Peter yet spake these words, the holy ghost fell on all them which heard his^e preaching.^f ^{10:45} And they^g of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the gentiles also was shed out the gift of the holy ghost. ^{10:46} For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. that these should not be baptised, which have received the holy ghost as well as we? ^{10:48} And he commanded them to be baptised in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him, to tarry a few days. ^{11:1} It came to the ears of the apostles and the brethren which were in Jewry, that the heathen also had received the word of God.^h ^{11:2} ⁱ When Peter was come up to Jerusalem, they of the circumcision disputed^l with him, saying: ^{11:3} Thou wentest in unto^k men uncircumcised, and atest with them. ^{11:4} ^l Peter began and expounded the thing in order to them saying: ^{11:5} I was in the city of Joppa praying, and in a trance I saw a vision; A certain vessel descend, as it had been a large linen cloth, let down from heaven by the four corners; And it came to me: ^{11:6} into the which when I had fastened mine eyes I considered and saw fourfooted beasts of the earth, and vermin and worms, and fowls of the air. ^{11:7} ^m I heard also a voice saying unto me: Arise Peter, slay and eat. ^{11:8} And I said: God forbid Lord, for nothing common or unclean hath at any time entered into my mouth.ⁿ ^{11:9} ^o The voice answered me again from heaven count not thou those things common,^p which God hath cleansed. ^{11:10} And this was done three times. And all were taken up again into heaven. ^{11:11} And behold immediately were there three men come unto the house where I was, sent from Cesarea unto me. ^{11:12} And the spirit said unto me, that I should go with them, without doubting. Moreover the six brethren accompanied me. And we entered into the man's house. ^{11:13} And he shewed us, how he had seen an angel in his house, which stood and said to him: Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, named also Peter ^{11:14} he shall tell thee words, whereby both thou and all thine house shall be saved. ^{11:15} And as I began to preach, the holy ghost fell on them, as he did on us at the beginning. ^{11:16} Then came to my remembrance the words of the Lord, how he said: John baptised with water, but ye shall be baptised with the holy ghost. ^{11:17} Forasmuch then as God gave them like gifts, as he did unto us, when we believed on the Lord Jesus Christ: what was I that I should have withstood God? ^{11:18} when they heard this, they held their peace and glorified^q God, saying: Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life. ^{11:19} They which were scattered abroad throw the affliction^r that arose about Steven, walked throw out till they came unto Phenice and Cypers and Antioche, preaching the word to no man, but unto the jews only. ^{11:20} Some of them were men of Cypers and of Syrene, which when they were come into Antioch, spake unto the greeks, and preached the Lord Jesus.^s ^{11:21} And the hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number believed and turned unto the Lord. ^{11:22} Tidings of this^t came unto the ears of the congregation, which was in Jerusalem; And they sent forth Barnabas that he should go unto Antioche. ^{11:23} Which when he was come, and had seen the grace of the Lord,^u was glad, and exhorted them all, that with purpose of heart they would continually cleave unto the Lord. ^{11:24} For he was a perfect^v man, and full of the holy ghost and of faith. And much people was added unto the Lord. ^{11:25} Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seek Saul, ^{11:26} and when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioche. people insomuch that the disciples of Antioche were the first that were called Christen. ^{11:27}In those days came prophets from Jerusalem unto Antioche. ^{11:28}^w There stood up one of them named Agabus, and signified^x by the spirit, that there should be great dearth throughout all the world, which came to pass in the Emperor Claudius days. ^{11:29}Then the disciples every man according to his ability, purposed to send succour^y unto the brethren which dwelt in Jewry, ^{11:30}which thing they also did, and sent it to the seniors,^z by the hands of Barnabas and Saul. ^{12:1}In that time Herod the king layed^a hands on^b certain of the congregation, to vex them. ^{12:2}And he killed James the brother of John with a^c sword: ^{12:3}and because he saw that it pleased the jews, he proceeded further, to take^d Peter also. Then were the days of unleavened^e bread, ^{12:4}and when he had caught him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four quaternions of soldiers to be kept, intending after ester to bring him forth to the people. ^{12:5}Then was Peter kept in prison. But prayer was made without ceasing of the congregation unto God for him. ^{12:6}^f When Herod would have brought him out unto the people, the same night slept Peter between two soldiers, bound with two chains; And the keepers before the door kept the prison. ^{12:7}And behold the angel of the Lord was there present, and a light shined in the lodge. And he smote Peter on the side, and stirred^g him up saying: arise up quickly. And the^h chains fell off from his hands. ^{12:8}And the angel said unto him: gird thyself and bind on thy sandals; And so he did. And he said unto him: cast on thy mantle about thee, and follow me. ^{12:9}And he came out and followed him, and wist not, that it was truth which was done by the angel, but thought he had seen a vision. ^{12:10}When they were past the first and the second watch, they came unto the iron gate, that leadeth unto the city, which opened to them by his own accord. And they went out and passed thorow one street, and by and by the angel departed from him. ^{12:11}And when Peter was come to himself, he said: now I know of a surety,ⁱ that the Lord hath sent his angel, and hath delivered me from^j the hand of Herod, and from all the waiting for of the people of the jews. ^{12:12}And as he considered the thing, he came to the house of Mary the mother of one John, which was called Mark also, where many were gathered together in prayer. ^{12:13}As Peter knocked at the entry door, a damsel came forth to hearken, named Rhoda. ^{12:14}And when she knew Peter's voice, she opened not the entry for gladness, but ran in and told how Peter stood before the entry. ^{12:15}And they said unto her: thou art mad. And she bare them down that it was even so. Then said they: it is his angel. ^{12:16}Peter continued knocking: When they had opened the door, and saw him, they were astonied. ^{12:17}^k He beckoned unto them with his^l hand to hold their peace, and told them by what means the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And ^m said: go shew thisⁿ unto James and to the brethren. And they came all at once,^p and made intercession unto Blastus the king's chamberlain, and desired peace, because their country was nourished by the king's land. ^{12:21}^q Upon a day appointed, the king^r arrayed him in royal apparel, and set him in his seat, and made an oration unto them. ^{12:22}And the people gave a shout, saying: It is the voice of a God and not of a man. ^{12:23}And immediately the angel of the Lord smote him, because he gave not God the honour, and he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghost. ^{12:24}^s The word of God grew and multiplied. ^{12:25}And Barnabas and Saul^t returned to Jerusalem, and^u fulfilled their office, and took with them John, which was also called Marcus. ^{13:1}There were at Antioche, in the congregation, ^v prophets and doctors,^w as Barnabas and Simeon^b called Nyger; And Lucius of Cerene, and Manahan Herod the tetrarkes nurse-fellow, and Saul. ^{13:2}As they served God,^x and fasted; The holy ghost said: separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the work whereunto I have called them. ^{13:3}Then fasted they and prayed, and put their hands on them, and let them go. ^{13:4}And they after they were^y sent of the holy ghost, came unto Seleutia, and from thence they sailed to Cyprus. ^{13:5}And when they were come to

^{13:15} ^k After the lecture of the law and the prophets,^l the rulers of the synagogue sent unto them saying: Ye men and brethren, if ye have any sermon to exhort the people, say on.
^{13:16} ^m Paul stood up and beckoned with hisⁿ hand^o and said: Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, give audience.^p ^{13:17} The God of this people chose our fathers, and exalted the people when they dwelt as strangers in the land of Egypt, and with a mighty arm brought them out of it,^{13:18} and about the time of forty years, suffered he their manners^q in the wilderness.
^{13:19} And he destroyed seven nations in the land of Canaan, and divided^r their land to them by Lott.
^{13:20} And afterward he gave unto them judges about the space of four hundred and fifty years unto the time of Samuel the prophet.
^{13:21} And after that they desired a king, and God gave unto them Saul the son of Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the space of forty years.
^{13:22} And after he had put him down, he set up David to be their king, to^s whom he gave witness,^t saying: I have found David the son of Jesse, a man after mine own heart, he shall fulfil all my will.
^{13:23} Of this man's seed hath God (according to his promise) brought forth to the people of Israel a saviour, one Jesus,
^{13:25} ^u When John had fulfilled his

^{13:27} The inhabitants of Jerusalem, and their rulers because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every Sabbath day, ^x have fulfilled them in condemning him.
^{13:28} And when they found no cause of death in him, yet desired they Pilate to kill him.
^{13:29} And when they had fulfilled all that were written of him, they took him down from the tree and put^y him in a sepulchre: ^{13:30} But God raised him again from death, (the third day) ^{13:31} and he was seen^z many days of them, which came with him from Galilee to Jerusalem which are his witnesses unto the people.
^{13:32} And we declare unto you, how that the promise made unto the fathers; ^{13:33} God hath now fulfilled unto us the^a children, in that he raised up Jesus again, even as it is written in the * first psalm: Thou art my son, this same day begat I thee. ^{*b} ^{13:34} As concerning that he so raised him up from death, now no more to return to corruption, he said on this wise: The holy promises made^c to David I will keep faithfully.^d

David after he had in his time fulfilled^g the will of God, he slept, and was laid with his fathers, and saw corruption. ^{13:37}But he whom God raised again, saw no corruption. ^{13:38}Be it known unto you therefore ye men and brethren, that thorow this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins; ^{13:39}And ^h by him are all that believe ⁱ justified from all things from the which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses. ^{13:40}Beware therefore lest that fall on you, which is spoken of in the prophets: ^{13:41}Behold ye despisers, and wonder, and perish ye: for I do a work in your days, which ye shall not believe, if a man would declare it you. ^{13:42}When the jews^j were gone^k out of the Synagogue,^l the gentiles besought them that they would preach the word of god to them between the Sabbath days. ^{13:43}When the congregation was broken up, many of the jews and virtuous proselytes^m followed Paul and Barnabas, which spake to them and exhorted them to continue in the grace of God. ^{13:44}And the next Sabbath day came Almost the whole city togetherⁿ to hear the word of God. ^{13:45}When the jews saw the people, they were full of indignation and spake against those things which were spoken of Paul; They spake^o against it, and dispraised it, railing on it. ^{13:46}Then Paul and Barnabas waxed bold, and said: it was meet that the word of God should first have been preached to you. But seeing ye put it from you, and think yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, lo, we turn to the gentiles. ^{13:47}For so hath the Lord commanded us: I have made thee a light to the gentiles, that thou be health^p unto the end of the world. ^{13:48}The gentiles heard, and were glad and glorified^q the word of the Lord, and believed even as many as were ordained unto eternal^r life. ^{13:49}And the word of the Lord was published^s thorowout all the region. ^{13:50}But the jews moved the worshipful and honorable women, and the chief men of the city. And raised persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coasts. ^{13:51}But^t they shook off the dust off their feet against them, and came unto Iconium. ^{13:52}And the disciples were filled with joy and with the holy ghost. ^{14:1} ^u It fortun'd in Iconium that they went both together^v into the synagogue of the jews, and so spake, that a great multitude both of the jews and also of the greeks believed. ^{14:2}But the unbelieving jews, stirred up and unquieted the minds^w of the gentiles against the brethren. ^{14:3}Long time abode they there and quit themselves boldly with the help of the Lord, the which gave testimony unto the word of his grace; And caused signs and wonders to be done by their hands. ^{14:4}The people of city were divided: and part held with the jews, and part with the apostles. ^{14:5}When there was a fault made both^x of the gentiles and also of the jews with their rulers, to put them to shame and to stone them, ^{14:6}they were ware of^y it, and fled unto Lystra and Derba, cities of Licaonia, and unto the region that lieth round about, ^{14:7}and there preached the gospel.^z (and all the multitude was moved at their doctrine, but Paul and Barnabas taried still at Lystra) ^{14:8}And there sat a certain man at Lystra weak in his feet, being halt^a from his mother's womb, and never walked. ^{14:9}The same heard Paul preach, which beheld him and perceived that he had faith to be whole, ^{14:10} and said with a loud voice: (I say to thee in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ) stand upright on thy feet. And he started up, and walked. ^{14:11} ^b When the people saw what Paul had done, they lift up their voices, saying in the speech of Lycaonia: Goddes are come down to us in the likeness of men. ^{14:12} And they called Barnabas, Jupiter, and Paul Mercurius, because he was the preacher. ^{14:13} Then Jupiter's priest, which dwelt before their city, brought oxen and garlands unto the church porch,^c and would have done sacrifice with the people. ^{14:14} ^d When the apostles, Barnabas and Paul heard that, they rent their clothes, and ran in among the people, crying ^{14:15} and saying: sirs, why do ye this? We are mortal men like unto you, and preach unto you, ^e that ye should turn from these vanities unto the living God, which made heaven and earth and the sea and all that in them is, ^{14:16} the which in times past suffered all nations to walk in their own ways. ^{14:17} Nevertheless he left not himself without witness, in that he shewed his benefits, in giving us rain from heaven and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness. ^{14:18} And with these sayings, scarce refrained they the people, that they had not done sacrifice unto them. ^{14:19} (And whiles they tarried, and taught) Thither came certain jews from Antioche and Iconium, and obtained the peoples' consent^f and stoned Paul, and drew him out of the city, supposing he had been dead. ^{14:20} ^g As the disciples stood round about him, he arose up and came into the city. And the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derba. ^{14:21} After they had preached ^h to that city, and ⁱ taught many, they returned again to Lystra, and to Iconium and Antioche, ^{14:22} and strengthened the disciples souls, exhorting them to continue in the faith, affirming that we must thorow much adversity^j enter into the kingdom of God. ^{14:23} And when they had ordained them seniors^k by election in every congregation, after they had prayed and fasted, they commended them to God on whom they believed. ^{14:24} And they went over all^l Pisidia and came into Pamphilia, ^{14:25} and when they had preached the word of God in Perga, they descended into Attalia, ^{14:26} and thence departed by ship to Antioche, from whence they were delivered unto the grace of God, to the work which they had fulfilled. ^{14:27} When they were come and had gathered the congregation together, they rehearsed all that^m God had done by them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles. ^{14:28} And there they abode long time with the disciples. ^{15:1} And thereⁿ came certain from Jewry and taught the brethren: except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses ye cannot be saved. ^{15:2} Then arose there^o dissension and disputing not a little unto Paul and Barnabas against them. their way by the congregation, they passed over^t Phenices and Samaria, declaring the conversation^u of the Gentiles, and they brought great joy unto all the brethren. ^{15:4} ^v When they were come to Jerusalem they were received of the congregation and of the apostles and seniors.^w And they declared what things^x God had done by them. ^{15:5} Then arose there up certain of the sect of the pharisees, which did believe saying that it was needful to circumsise them and to enjoin them^y to keep the law of Moses. ^{15:6} ^z The apostles and seniors^a came together to reason of this matter. ^{15:7} ^b When there was much disputing, Peter rose up and said unto them: Ye men and brethren, ye know how that a good while ago, God chose among us that the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the word of the gospel^c and believe. ^{15:8} And God which knoweth the heart, bare them witness, and gave unto them the holy ghost, even as he did unto us; ^{15:9} And he put no difference between them and us, and^d with^e faith purified their hearts. ^{15:10} Now therefore why tempt ye God, that ye would put a yoke on the disciples necks which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear: ^{15:11} But we believe that thorow the grace of the Lord Jesu Christ we shall be saved as they do. ^{15:12} Then all the multitude was peaced and gave audience to Barnabas and Paul which told what signs^f and wonders God had shewed among the gentiles by them. ^{15:13} As soon as^g they held their peace, James answered saying: Men and brethren hearken unto me; ^{15:14} Simeon told how God at the beginning did visit the gentiles, and received of them people unto his name. ^{15:15} And to this agreeth the words of the prophets, as it is written: ^{15:16} After this I will return, and will build again the tabernacle of David which is fallen down, and that which is fallen in decay of it will I build again and I will set it up, ^{15:17} that the residue of men might seek after the Lord, and also the Gentiles upon whom my name is called^h saith the Lord, which doth all these things: ^{15:18} known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world. ^{15:19} Wherefore my sentence is, that we trouble not them which ofⁱ the gentiles are turned to God: ^{15:20} but that we write unto them, that they abstain themselves from filthiness of images, from fornication, from strangled, and from blood. ^{15:21} For Moses of old time in every city hath them that preach him, and he is read in the synagogues every Sabbath day. ^{15:22} Then pleased it the apostles and seniors^j with the whole congregation to send chosen men of their own company to Antioche with Paul and Barnabas. They sent Judas called also Barsabas and Silas which were chief men among the brethren ^{15:23} and gave them letters in their hands after this manner. The apostles, seniors^k and brethren send greetings unto the brethren which are of the gentiles in Antioch, Syria and Cilicia. ^{15:24} Forasmuch as we have heard that certain which departed from us, have troubled you with words, and cumbered your minds saying: Ye must be circumcised and keep the law, to whom we gave no such commandment. ^{15:25} It seemed therefore to us a good thing, when we were come together with one accord, to send chosen men unto you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul, ^{15:26} men

There stood a man of Macedonia and prayed him saying: Come into^u Macedonia and help us. ^{16:10} After he had seen the vision immediatly we prepared^v to go into Macedonia certified that the Lord had called us for^w to preach the gospel^x unto them. ^{16:11} Then loosed we forth^y from Troada, and with a straight course came we to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolim, ^{16:12} and from thence to Philippos, which is the chiefest city in the parts of Macedonia and a free city. We were in that city abiding a certain days. ^{16:13} And on the Sabbath days we went out of the city besides a river where men were wont to pray, and we sat down and spake unto the women which thither resorted. ^{16:14} And a certain^z woman named Lidia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira which worshipped God, gave us audience,^a whose heart God^b opened that she attended unto those^c things which^d Paul spake. ^{16:15} When she was baptised, and her household, she besought us saying: If ye think that I believe on the Lord come into my house, and abide there. And she constrained us. ^{16:16}

^e It fortun'd as we went to prayer, a certain damsel possessed with a spirit that prophesied^f met us, which brought her master and masters much vantage with prophesying.^g ^{16:17} The same followed Paul and us^h saying: These men are the servants of the most high God, which shew unto usⁱ the way of health.^j ^{16:18} And this did she many days. And the prisoners heard them. ^{16:26}^w Suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundation of the prison was shaken, and by and by all the doors opened, and every man's bonds were loosed.^x ^{16:27}When the keeper of the prison waked out of his sleep, and saw the prison doors open, he drew out his sword and would have killed himself, supposing^y the prisoners had been fled. ^{16:28}^z Paul cried with a loud voice saying: Do thyself no harm, for we are all here. ^{16:29}^a He called for a light and sprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas, ^{16:30}and brought them out and said: Sirs what must I do to be saved? ^{16:31}And they said: believe on the Lord Jesus, and thou shalt be saved and thy household. ^{16:32}And they preached unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house. ^{16:33}And he took them the same hour of the night and washed their wounds,^b and was baptised with all that belonged unto him straight way.^c ^{16:34}When he had brought them into his house, he set meat before them, and

Now therefore get you hence and go in peace. ^{16:37}Then said Paul unto them: They have beaten us openly uncondemned, for all that we are romans, and have cast us into prison: and now would they send us away privily? Nay not so, but let them come themselves and fetch us out. ^{16:38}^d The ministers told these words unto the officers and they feared when they heard that they were romans, ^{16:39}and came and besought them, and brought them out, and desired^e them to depart out of the city. ^{16:40}^f They went out of the prison and entered into the house of Lidia, and when they had seen the brethren, they comforted them and departed. ^{17:1}As they made their journey thorow Amphipolis, and Apolonia, they came to Thessalonica where was a synagogue of the jews. ^{17:2}^g Paul as his manner was went in unto them, and three Sabbath days declared out of the scripture unto them, ^{17:3}opening and alleging that Christ must needs have suffered and risen again from death. And that this Jesus was Christ, whom (said he) I preach to you. ^{17:4}And some of them believed and came and companied with Paul and Silas. And some there were which said: what will this babbler say. Other said: he seemeth to be a tidings bringer of new devils,^z because he preached unto them Jesus,^a and the resurrection, ^{17:19} and they took him, and brought him into Marce street^b saying: may we not know what is this new doctrine whereof thou speakest. ^{17:20} For thou bringest strange tidings to our ears. Jesu,^w 19:6 and when Paul laid his hands upon them, ^x the holy ghost came on them. And they spake with tongues and prophesied; 19:7 ^y All the men were about twelve. 19:8 And he went into the synagogue, and behaved himself boldly for the space of three months, disputing, and giving them exhortations of the kingdom of God. 19:9 When divers waxed hard hearted, and believed not, but spake evil of the way of the Lord ^z before the multitude: he departed from them; And severed^a the disciples away; And taught^b daily in the school of one called Tirannus. 19:10 And this continued by the space of two years: So that all they which dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesu, both jews and greeks. 19:11 And God wrought not small miracles by the hands of Paul. 19:12 So that from his body were brought unto the sick, napkins or partlets, and the diseases and evil spirits departed from them.^c 19:13 ^d Certain of the vagabond jews exorcists,^e took upon them to call over them which had evil spirits the name of the Lord Jesus saying: We adjure you by Jesu whom Paul preacheth. 19:14 ^f There were seven sons of one Sceva a ruler of the synagogue^g which did so: 19:15 and the evil spirit answered and said: Jesus I know, and Paul I know: but who are ye? 19:16 And the man in whom the wicked devil^h was, ran on them, and overcame them, and prevailed against them, so that they fled out of theⁱ house naked and wounded. 19:17 ^j This was known to all the jews and greeks also, which dwelt at Ephesus, and fear came on them all. And they magnified the name of the Lord Jesus. 19:18 And many that believed came, and confessed and shewed their works. 19:19 Many of them which used curious crafts, brought their books and burned them before all men, and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand silverlings. 19:20 So mightily grew the word of God,^k and prevailed. 19:21 After these things were ended Paul purposed in the spirit, to pass over^l Macedonia and Acaia, and to go to Jerusalem saying: After I have been there I must also see Rome. 19:22 So sent he into Macedonia two of them that ministered unto him: Timotheus and Erastus: but he himself remained in Asia. For a season. 19:23 The same time there arose no little a do about that way. 19:24 For a certain man named Demetrius, a goldsmith,^m which made silver shrines for Diana, was not a little beneficialⁿ unto the craftsmen: 19:25 which he called together with the workmen of like occupation, and said: Sirs ye know that by this craft we have vantage. 19:26 Moreover ye see and hear that not alone at Ephesus: but almost thorow out all Asia, this Paul entiseth,^o and turned away much people saying: that they be not gods which are made with hands: 19:27 so that not only this our craft cometh into peril to be set at nought: but that also the temple of ^p great ^q Diana should be despised. And her majesty^r should be destroyed, which all Asia, and the world worshippeth. 19:28 When they heard these sayings, they were full of wrath, and cried out saying: Great is Diana of the Ephesians.

19:29 And all the city was on a roar, and they rushed into the common hall^s with one assent, and caught Gaius, and Aristarcus, men of Macedonia, Paul's companions. 19:30 When Paul would have entered in unto the people, the disciples suffered him not. 19:31 Certain also of the chief of Asia which were his friends, sent unto him, desiring him that he would not press into the common hall. 19:32 Some cried one thing, and some another and the congregation was all out of quiet, and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together. 19:33 Some of the company drew forth Alexander (the jews thrusting him forwards) Alexander beckoned with the hand, and would have given the people an answer. 19:34 When they knew that he was a jew, there arose a shout almost for the space of two hours of all men crying, great is Diana of the Ephesians. 19:35 When the town clerk had ceased the people he said: ye men of Ephesus: what man is it that knoweth not how that the city of the Ephesians is a worshipper of the great goddess Diana, and of the image which came from heaven.^t 19:36 Seeing then that no man saith here against, ye ought to be content, and to do nothing rashly;^u 19:37 For ye have brought hither these men, which are neither robbers of churches, nor yet despisers^v of your goddess. 19:38 Wherefore if Demetrius and the craftsmen which are with him, have any saying to^w any man, the law is open, and there are rulers, let them accuse one another. 19:39 If ye go about any other thing, it may be determined in a lawful congregation. 19:40 For we are in jeopardy to be accused of this day's business.^x Forasmuch as there is no cause whereby we may give a reckoning of this concourse of people.^y 19:41 And when he had thus spoken, he let the congregation depart. 20:1 After the rage^z was ceased, Paul called the disciples unto him, and took his leave of them, and departed for to go into Macedonia. 20:2 And when he had gone over^a those parts, and given them large exhortations,^b he came into Greece. 20:3 And there abode three months. ^c When the jews laid wait for him as he was about to sail into Syria; He purposed to return through Macedonia. 20:4 There accompanied him into Asia Sopater of Berea: And of Thessalonica Aristarcus and Secundus, and Gaius of Derba, and Timotheus:^d Out of Asia Tychicus, and Trophimos. 20:5 These went before, and tarried us at Troas. 20:6 ^e We sailed away from Philippos after the ester holidays,^f and came unto them to Troas in five days, where we abode^g seven days. 20:7 On a^h Sabbath dayⁱ the disciples came together^j for to break bread, and Paul preached unto them (ready^k to depart on the morrow) and continued the preaching unto midnight. 20:8 ^l There were many lights in the chamber where we^m were gathered together, 20:9 and there sat in a window a certain young man named Eutichus, fallen into a deep sleep. Paul declaredⁿ he was the more overcome with sleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead. ^{20:10}Paul went down and fell on him, and embraced him, and said: Make nothing ado. And we kneeled down in the shore and prayed. ^{21:6}And when we had taken our leave one of another, we took ship, and they returned home again. ^{21:7}When we had full ended the course, from Tyre, we arrived at Ptholomaida, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day. ^{21:8}The next day, we that were of Paulus company,^k came unto Cesarea. And we entered into the house of Philip the evangelist, which was one of the seven,^l and abode with him. ^{21:9}The same man had four daughters virgins, which did prophesy. ^{21:10}And as we tarried there a good many days, there came a certain prophet from Jewry,^m named Agabus. ^{21:11}When he was come unto us, he took Paul's girdle, and bound his hands and feet and said: Thus saith the holy ghost: So shall the jews at Jerusalem, bind the man that owneth this girdle, and shall deliver him into the hands of the gentiles. ^{21:12}When we heard this, both we and other of the same place, besought him, that he would not go up to Jerusalem. ^{21:13}Then Paul answered, and said: What do ye weeping, and breaking mine heart? I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesu. ^{21:14}When we could not turn his mind,ⁿ we ceased saying: The will of the Lord be fulfilled. ^{21:15}After those days we made ourselves ready, and went up to Jerusalem. ^{21:16}There went with us also certain of his disciples of Cesarea, and brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an old disciple, with whom we should lodge. ^{21:17}And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly. ^{21:18} ^o On the morrow Paul went in with us unto James. And all the seniors^p came together. ^{21:19}And when he had saluted them, he told by order, what^q things ^r God had wrought among the gentiles by his ministration. ^{21:20} ^s When they heard it, they glorified^t the Lord, and said unto him: Thou seest brother, how many thousand jews there are which believe, and they are all zealous over the law. ^{21:21}And they are informed of thee that thou teachest all the jews which are among the gentiles to forsake Moses, and sayest that they ought not to circumcise their children, neither to live after the customs. ^{21:22}What is it therefore? I wot wellⁱ thou believest. ^{26:28} Agrippa said unto Paul: Somewhat thou bringest me in mind for^j to become christen.^k ^{26:29} And Paul said: I would to God that not only thou: but also all that hear me today, were not somewhat only, but altogether such as I am except these bonds.^l ^{26:30} And when he had thus spoken, the king rose up, and the deputy,^m and Bernice, and they that sat with them. ^{26:31} And when they were gone apart, they talked between themselves saying: This man doth nothing worthy of death, nor of bonds. ^{26:32} Then said Agrippa unto Festus: This man might have been loosedⁿ if he had not appealed unto Cesar.^o ^{27:1} When it was concluded that we should sail into Italy, they delivered Paul and certain other prisoners unto one named Julius, an under-captain of Cesar's soldiers. ^{27:2} And we entered into a ship of Adramicium, and loosed^p from land, appointed to sail by the coasts of Asia, one Aristarcus out of Macedonia, of the country of Thessalia, being with us. ^{27:3} ^q The next day came we to Sidon, and Julius courteously entreated Paul, and gave him liberty to go unto his friends, and to refresh himself. ^{27:4} And from thence launched we and sailed hard by Cypers, because the winds were contrary. ^{27:5} Then sailed we over the sea of Cicill,^r and Pamphylia, and came to Myra a city in Lycia. ^{27:6} And there the under-captain found a ship of Alexandry ready to sail into Italy, and put us therein, ^{27:7} and when we had sailed slowly many days, and scarce were come over against Gnydon (because the wind withstood us) we sailed hard by the coast of Candy, over against Salmo, ^{27:8} and with much work sailed beyond it, and came unto a place called Goode port. Nigh^s whereunto was a city called Lasea. ^{27:9} When much time was spent and sailing was now jeopardous, because also that we had overlong fasted, Paul put them in remembrance,^t ^{27:10} and said unto them: Sirs I perceive that this voyage will be with hurt and ^u damage, not of the lading and ship only: but also of our lives. ^{27:11} But^v the under-captain believed the governor, and the master, better than those things which were spoken of Paul. ^{27:12} And because the haven was not commodious to winter in, many took counsel to depart thence, if by any means they might attain to Phenices and there to winter, which haven pertaineth to^w Candy, and serveth to the southwest, and northwest wind. ^{27:13} When the south wind blew, they supposing to obtain their purpose loosed^x unto Asson, and sailed past all Candy. ^{27:14} But anon after there arose (against their purpose) a flaw of wind out of the northeast. ^{27:15} ^y When the ship was caught, and could not resist the wind, we let her go and drave with the weather. ^{27:16} ^z We came unto an isle named Clauda; And had much work to come by a boat, ^{27:17} which they took up, and used help undergirding the ship, fearing lest we should have fallen into Syrtes, and we let down a vessel and so were carried.

And lo, God hath given unto thee all that are in the ship^f with thee, ^{27:25}wherefore sirs be of good cheer, for I believe God that so it shall be even as it was told me, ^{27:26}and^g we must be cast into a certain island. ^{27:27}But when the fourteenth night was come as we were carried in Adria, about midnight the shipmen deemed that there appeared some country unto them, ^{27:28}and they sounded, and found it twenty fathoms; ^hthey wentⁱ a little further and^j sounded again, and found fifteen fathoms. ^{27:29}Then fearing lest they should have fallen on some Rocke, they cast four anchors out of the stern, and wished for the day. ^{27:30}As the shipmen were about to flee out of the ship, and had let down the boat into the sea, under a colour as though they would have cast anchors out of the foreship: ^{27:31}Paul said unto the under-captain and the soldiers: except these abide in the ship ye cannot be safe. ^{27:32}Then the soldiers cut off the rope of the boat, and let it fall away. ^{27:33}And in the meantime, betwixt that and day, Paul besought them all to take meat, saying: this is the fourteenth day that ye have tarried and continued fasting receiving nothing at all, ^{27:34}wherefore I pray you to take meat: for this no doubt is for your health, for there shall not an hair fall from the head of any of you. ^{27:35}And when he had thus spoken he took bread and gave thanks to God in presence of^k them all, and brake it, and began to eat. ^{27:36}Then were they all of good cheer, and they also took meat. ^{27:37}We were all together in the ship, two hundred and three score and sixteen souls. ^{27:38}^l When they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship and cast out the wheat into the sea. ^{27:39}When it was day they knew not the land, but they spied a certain reach^m with a bank, into the which they were minded (if it were possible) to thrust in the ship. ^{27:40}And when they had taken up the anchors, they committed themselves unto the sea, and loosedⁿ the rudder bonds and hoised up the main sail to the wind and drew to^o land, ^{27:41}but they fell into^p a place, which had the sea on both the sides, and thrust in the ship. And the fore part stuck fast, and moved not, but the hinder part brake with the violence of the waves. ^{27:42}The soldiers' counsel was to kill the prisoners lest any of them, when he had swum out should flee away: ^{27:43}but the under-captain willing to save Paul kept them from their purpose, and commanded that they that could swim should cast themselves first in to the sea, and scape to land. ^{27:44}And the other he commanded to go, some on boards, and some on broken pieces of the ship. The Epistle of the Apostle S. Paul to the Romaine

^{1:1}Paul the servant of Jesus Christ, called unto the office of^a an apostle, put apart to preach the Gospell of God, ^{1:2}which he promised afore by his prophets, in the holy scriptures ^{1:3}that make mention of his son, the which was begotten (unto him) of the seed of David, as pertaining to the flesh: ^{1:4}and declared to be the son of God with power of the holy ghost, that sanctifieth, since the time that Jesus Christ our Lord rose again from death, ^{1:5}by whom we have received grace and apostleship, that all gentiles should obey to the faith which is in his name,^b ^{1:6}of the which number are ye^c also, which are Jesus Christ's^d by vocation. ^{1:7}To all you of Rome beloved of God, and saints by calling. Grace be with you and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. ^{1:8}First verily I thank my God thorow Jesus Christ for you all, because your faith is published^e throughout all the world. ^{1:9}For God is my witness, whom I serve with my spirit, in the Gospell of his son that without ceasing I make mention of you always in my prayers, ^{1:10}beseeching that at one time or another, a prosperous journey (by the will of God) might fortune me to come unto you. ^{1:11}For I long to see you, that I might bestow among you some spiritual gift, to strengthen you withal ^{1:12}(that is) that I might have consolation together^f with you, through the common faith, which both ye and I have. ^{1:13}I would that ye should know, brethren, how that I have oftentimes purposed to come unto you (but have been let hitherto) to have some fruit among you, as I have among other of the gentiles. ^{1:14}For I am debtor both to the greeks, and to them which are no greeks, unto the learned and also unto the unlearned.^g ^{1:15}Likewise, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the Gospell to you of Rome also. ^{1:16}For I am not ashamed of the Gospell of Christ, because it is the power of God unto salvation to^h all that believe, namely to the jew, and also to the gentile. ^{1:17}For by it the righteousness which cometh ofⁱ God is opened, from faith to faith. As it is written: The just shall live by faith.^j ^{1:18}For the wrath of God of heaven appeareth^k against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men which withhold the truth^l in unrighteousness, ^{1:19}seeing that that, which^m may be known of God, ⁿis manifest among them. For God did shew it unto them. ^{1:20}For^o his invisible things (that is to say, his eternal power and godhead) are understood and seen, by the works from the creation of the world. So that they are without excuse, ^{1:21}inasmuch as when they knew God, they glorified^p him not as God, neither were thankful, but waxed full of vanities in their imaginations. And their foolish hearts were blinded. ^{1:22}When they counted themselves wise, they became fools ^{1:23}and turned the glory of the immortal God, unto the similitude of the image of mortal man, and of birds, and four footed beasts and ^qserpents. ^{1:24}For this cause^r God ^sgave them up unto their hearts' lusts, unto uncleanness to defile their own

For even their women did change the natural use unto the unnatural. ^{1:27}And likewise also the men left the natural use of the woman, and brent in ^tlust^u one on another among themselves. And man with man wrought filthiness, and received in themselves the reward of their error as it was according. ^{1:28}And as it seemed not good unto them to be aknownd of^v God, even so God delivered them up unto a lewd mind, that they should do those things which were not comely, ^{1:29}being full of all unrighteous doing, of fornication,^w wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness, full of envy, murder, debate,^x deceit, evil conditioned whisperers, ^{1:30}backbiters, haters^y of God, doers of wrong, proud, boasters,^z bringers up of evil things, disobedient to fathers and mothers,^a ^{1:31}without understanding, covenant breakers, unloving, stubborn^b and merciless.^c ^{1:32}Which men, though they knew the righteousness of God, (considered not) how that they which such things commit are worthy of death, yet not only (they that) do the same, but also (they which) had^d pleasure in them that did^e them. ^{2:1}Therefore art thou inexcusable O man whosoever thou be that judgest. For in the same wherein thou judgest another, thou condemnest thyself. For thou that judgest doest even the same self things. ^{2:2}But we are sure that the judgement of God is according to truth, against them which commit such things. ^{2:3}Thinkest thou ^fO thou man that judgest them which do such things and yet doest even the very same, that thou shalt escape the judgement of God? ^{2:4}Other^g despisest thou the riches of his goodness and patience, and long sufferance? and rememberest not how that the kindness of God leadeth thee to repentance? ^{2:5}But thou after thine hard heart that cannot repent, heapest thee together the treasure of wrath against the day of vengeance,^h when shall be opened the righteous judgement of God, ^{2:6}which will reward every man according to his deeds, ^{2:7}that is to say praise, honour, and immortality,ⁱ to them which continue^j in good doing, and seek eternal life: ^{2:8}But unto them that are rebellious, and disobey the truth, yet^k follow iniquity,^l shall come indignation, and wrath, ^{2:9}tribulation^m and anguish upon the soul of every man that doth evil. Of the jew first: And also of the gentile. ^{2:10}To every man that doth good shall come praise, honour and peace, to the jew first, and also to the gentile. ^{2:11}For there is no partiality with God:ⁿ ^{2:12}But whosoever hath sinned without law, shall perish without law. And as many as have sinned under the law, shall be judged by the law. ^{2:13}For before God they are not righteous which hear the law: but they which do^o the law shall be justified. ^{2:14}For if the gentiles which have no law, do of nature the things contained in the law: then they having no law, are a law unto themselves, ^{2:15}which shew the deed^p of the law written in their hearts: While their conscience beareth witness unto them, and also their thoughts, accusing one another, or excusing ^{2:16}at the day when God shall judge the secrets of men, by Jesus Christ according to my Gospell. ^{2:17}Behold, thou art called a jew, and trustest in the law and rejoicest in^q God, ^{2:18}and knowest his will, and hast experience of good and bad, in that thou art informed by the law: ^{2:19}And believest that thou thyself art a guide unto the blind,^r a light to them which are in darkness, ^{2:20}an informer of them which lack discretion,^s a teacher of the unlearned,^t which hast the ensample of that which ought to be known,^u and of the truth in the law. ^{2:21}Now teachest thou another: but teachest not thyself.^v Thou preachest, a man should not steal: and yet thou stealest. ^{2:22}Thou sayest, a man should not commit advoutry and thou breakest wedlock. ^{2:23}Thou abhorrest images, and robbest God of his honour. which is a jew outward. Neither is that thing circumcision, which is outward in the flesh: ^{2:29}But he is a Jew which is hid within, and the circumcision of the heart is the true circumcision, which is in the spirit, and not in the letter: whose praise is not of men but of God. ^{3:1}What preferment^z than hath the jew? other what advantageth circumcision? ^{3:2}Surely very much. First unto them was committed the word of God.^a ^{3:3}What then though some of them did not believe? shall their unbelief make the promise of God without effect? ^{3:4}God forbid. Let God be true, and all men liars, as it is written: That thou mightest be justified in thy sayings and shouldest overcome when thou art judged. ^{3:5}If our unrighteousness make the righteousness of God more excellent: what shall we say? Is God unrighteous which taketh vengeance?^b (I speak after the manner of men.) ^{3:6}God forbid. For how then shall God judge the world? ^{3:7}if the verity^c of God appear more excellent thorow my lie,^d unto his praise, why am I hence forth judged as a sinner? ^{3:8}and say not rather (as men evil speak of us, and as some affirm^e that we say) let us do evil, that good may come thereof. Whose damnation is just.^f ^{3:9}What say we then? Are we better than they? no, in no wise. For we have all ready proved how that both jews and gentiles are all under sin, ^{3:10}as it is written: There is none righteous, no not one: ^{3:11}There is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God, ^{3:12}they are all gone out of the way, they are all made unprofitable, there is none that doeth good, no not one. ^{3:13}Their throat is an open sepulchre, with their tongues they have deceived: the poison of Aspes is under their lips; ^{3:14}whose mouths are full of cursing and bitterness. ^{3:15}Their feet are swift to shed blood. ^{3:16}Destruction and wretchedness are in their ways: ^{3:17}And the way of peace have they not known. ^{3:18}There is no fear of God before their eyes. ^{3:19}Yea and we know that whatsoever the law saith, he saith it to them which are under the law: That all mouths may be stopped, and all the world be subdued^g to God, ^{3:20}because that by the deeds of the law, shall no flesh be justified in the sight of God. For by the law cometh the knowledge of sin. ^{3:21}Now verily is the righteousness that cometh of God declared with out the fulfilling of^h the law having witness yet of the law, and of the prophets. ^{3:22}The righteousness no doubt which is good before God cometh by the faith of Jesus Christ unto all, and upon all them that believe. (of him) ^{3:23}For there is no difference, ⁱ all have sinned, and lack^j the praise that is of valour before God: ^{3:24}but are justified freely^k by his grace, through the redemption that is in^l Christ Jesu, ^{3:25}whom God hath made a seat of mercy thorow faith in his blood, to shew the righteousness which before him is of valour,^m in that he forgiveth the sins that are passed, ^{3:26}which God did suffer to shew at this time: the righteousness that is allowed of him,ⁿ that he might be counted just, and a justifier of him which believeth on Jesus.^o ^{3:27}Where is then thy rejoicing? It is excluded. By what law? by the law of works? Nay: but by the law of faith. ^{3:28}We suppose therefore ^p that a man is justified by faith without the deeds^q of the law. ^{3:29}Is he the God of the jews only? Is he not also the God of the gentiles? He is no doubt, God also of the gentiles.^r ^{3:30}For it is God only which justifieth circumcision, which is of faith: and uncircumcision thorow faith. ^{3:31}Do we then destroy the law thorow faith? God forbid. ^s We rather maintain the law. ^{4:1}What shall we say then, that Abraham our father as pertaining to the flesh did find? ^{4:2}If Abraham were justified by deeds,^t then hath he wherein to rejoice: but not with^u God. ^{4:3}For what saith the scripture? Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness. ^{4:4}To him that worketh is the reward not reckoned of favour: but of duty. ^{4:5}To him that worketh not, but believeth (onely) on him that justifieth the ungodly, is^v faith counted for righteousness. when he was yet uncircumcised. ^{4:11} And he received the sign^b of circumcision, as a seal of the righteousness which is by faith, which faith he had yet being uncircumcised, that he should be the father of all them that believe, though they be not circumcised, that righteousness might be imputed^c to them also; ^{4:12} And that he might be the father of the circumcised: not because they are circumcised only: but because they walk also in the steps of that faith, which^d was in our father Abraham before the time of circumcision. ^{4:13} For the promise that he should be heir of the world was not given to Abraham, or to his seed thorow the law: but thorow the righteousness which cometh of faith. ^{4:14} For if they which are of the law be heirs, then is faith but vain, and the promise of none effect. ^{4:15} Because the law causeth wrath. For where no law is, there is no transgression. ^{4:16} Therefore by faith is the inheritance given,^e that it might come of favour: and that the promise might be sure to all the seed. year old. Neither considered he the barrenness of Sara.ⁱ ^{4:20} He staggered not at the promise of God thorow unbelief: But was made strong in the faith, and gave honour^j to God and steadfastly believed,^k ^{4:21} that he which had made the promised was able also to make it good.^l ^{4:22} And therefore was it reckoned to him for righteousness. ^{4:23} It is not written for him only, that it was reckoned^m to him for righteousness: ^{4:24} but also for us, to whom it shall be counted for righteousness so we believe on him that raised, up Jesus our Lord from death. ^{4:25} Which was delivered for our sins, and rose again for to justify us. ^{5:1} Because therefore that we are justified by faith we are at peace with God thorow our Lord Jesus Christ: ^{5:2} by whom we have a way in thorowⁿ faith unto this favour^o wherein we stand and rejoyce in hope of the praise that shall be given (of the children) of God. ^{5:3} Neither do we so only: but also we rejoyce in tribulation: For we know that tribulation bringeth patience, ^{5:4} patience bringeth fealing, fealing^p bringeth hope. ^{5:5} And hope maketh not ashamed,^q because the love that God hath unto us,^r is shed abroad in our hearts, by the holy ghost, which is given unto us. ^{5:6} For when we were yet weak according to the time: Christ died for us which were ungodly. ^{5:7} Yet scarce will any man die for a righteous man. Peradventure for a good man durst a man die. ^{5:8} But God setteth out his love that he hath to us; Seeing that while we were yet sinners; (according to the time) Christ died for us. ^{5:9} Much more then now (seeing we are justified^s in his blood) shall we be preserved^t from wrath thorow him. ^{5:10} For if when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his son: much more, seeing we are reconciled, we shall be preserved^u by his life. ^{5:11}Not only so, but we also joy^v in God by the means of^w our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have received this^x atonement. ^{5:12}Wherefore as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by the means of sin. And so death went over all men, insomuch that all men sinned. ^{5:13}For even unto the time of the law was sin in the world: but sin was not regarded, as long as there was no law: ^{5:14}nevertheless death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them also that sinned not, with like transgression as did Adam: which is the similitude^y of him that was^z to come. ^{5:15}But the gift is not like as the sin. For if thorow the sin of one, many be dead: much more plenteous upon many was the favour^a of God and gift by favour:^b which favour^c was given by one man Jesus Christ. ^{5:16}And the gift is not over one sin, as death came thorow one sin of one that sinned. For damnation^d came of one sin unto condemnation: But the gift came to justify from many sins. ^{5:17}For if by the sin of one, death reigned by the means of one, much more shall they which receive abundance of favour^e and of the gift of righteousness reign in life by the means of one (that is to say) Jesus Christe. ^{5:18}Likewise then as by the sin of one, condemnation came on all men: even so by the justifying of one cometh the righteousness that bringeth life, upon all men. ^{5:19}For as by one man's disobedience many became sinners: so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous. ^{5:20} ^f The law in the mean time entered in that sin should increase. And^g where abundance of sin was, there was more plenteousness of grace. ^{5:21}That as sin had reigned unto death, even so might grace reign thorow righteousness unto eternal life, by the help^h of Jesuⁱ Christ. ^{6:1}What shall we say then? shall we continue in sin, that there may be abundance of grace? ^{6:2}God forbid. How shall we that are dead as touching sin live any longer therein? ^{6:3}Remember ye not that all we which are baptised in the name of Christ Jesu, are baptised to die with him? ^{6:4}We are buried with him by baptism for to die: That^j as Christ was raised up from death by the glory of the father: even so we also should walk in a new life. ^{6:5}For if we be graft in death like unto him: even so must we be in the resurrection. ^{6:6}This we must remember, that our old man is crucified with him also, that the body of sin might utterly be destroyed,^k that henceforth we should not be servants of sin.^l ^{6:7}For he that is dead, is justified from sin. ^{6:8}Wherefore if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall live with him: ^{6:9}remembering that Christ once raised from death, dieth no more. Death hath no more power over him. ^{6:10}For as touching that he died, he died as concerning sin once. And as touching that he liveth, he liveth unto God. ^{6:11}Likewise imagine ye also, that ye are dead concerning sin: but are alive unto God thorow Jesus Christ our Lord. ^{6:12}Let not sin reign therefore in your mortal bodies, that ye should thereunto obey in the lusts of it. ^{6:13}Neither give ye your members as instruments^m of unrighteousness unto sin: But give yourselves unto God, as they that are alive from death. And give your members as instrumentsⁿ of righteousness unto God. ^{6:14}Sin shall not have power over you.^o For ye are not under the law, but under grace. ^{6:15}What then? Shall we sin, because we are not under the law: but under grace? God forbid. ^{6:16}Remember ye not how that to whomsoever ye commit yourselves as servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey: whether it be of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness? ^{6:17}God be thanked. ^p Ye were once the servants of sin: But now ^q have ^r obeyed with your hearts^s unto the form of doctrine where unto ye were delivered. ^{6:18}Ye are then made free from sin, and are become the servants of righteousness. ^{6:19}I will speak grossly because of the infirmity^t of your flesh. As ye have given your members servants to uncleanness and to iniquity, from iniquity unto iniquity: even so now give your members servants unto^u righteousness, that ye may be sanctified.^v ^{6:20}For when ye were servants of sin, ye were not under righteousness. ^{6:21}What fruit had ye then in those things, where of ye are now ashamed. For the end of those things is death. ^{6:22}But now are ye delivered^w from sin, and made^x the servants of God, and have your fruit that ye should be sanctified,^y and the end everlasting life. ^{6:23}For the reward of sin is death: but eternal life is the gift of God, thorow Jesus Christ our Lord. ^{7:1}Remember ye not brethren (I speak to them that know the law) how that the law hath power over a man as long as it endureth: ^{7:2}For the woman which is in subjection to a man, is bound by the law to the man, as long as he liveth. If the man be dead, she is loosed^z from the law of^a the man. ^{7:3}So then if while the man liveth she couple herself with another man, she shall be counted a wedlock breaker. But if the man be dead she is free from the law: so that she is no wedlock breaker, though she couple herself with another man. ^{7:4}Even so ye my brethren, ye also are made dead as concerning the law by the body of Christ, that ye should be coupled to another (I mean to him that is risen again from death) that we should bring forth fruit unto God. ^{7:5}^b When we were in the flesh, the lusts of sin which were stirred up by the law, reigned^c in our members, to bring forth fruit unto death. ^{7:6}But now are we delivered^d from the law, and dead from it,^e whereunto we were in bondage,^f that we should serve in a new conversation of the spirit, and not in the old conversation of the letter. ^{7:7}What shall we say then? is the law sin? God forbid: but I knew not what sin meant but by the law. For I had not known what lust had meant, except the law had said, thou shalt not lust. ^{7:8}But sin took an occasion by the means of the commandment, and wrought^g in me all manner of concupiscence.^h For verily without the law sin was dead. ^{7:9}I once lived without law: but when the commandment came, sin revived, and I was dead. ^{7:10}And the very same commandment which was ordainedⁱ unto life, was found to be unto me an occasion of death. ^{7:11}For sin took occasion by the means of the commandment and so deceived me, and by the self commandment slew me. ^{7:12}Wherefore the law is holy,^j and the commandment holy, just, and good. ^{7:13}Was that then which is good made death unto me? God forbid. Nay sin was death unto me, that it might appear how that sin by the means of that which is^k good, had wrought death in me: that sin which is under the commandment, might be out of measure sinful. ^{7:14}For we know that the law is spiritual: but I am carnal, sold under sin: ^{7:15}because I wot^l not what I do. For what I would, that do I not: but what I hate, that do I. ^{7:16}If I do now that which I would not, I grant to the law that it is good. ^{7:17}So then now it is not I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me. ^{7:18}For I know that in me (that is to say in my flesh) dwelleth no good thing. To will is present with me: but I find no means to perform that which is good. ^{7:19}For I do not that good thing which I would: but that evil do I, which I would not. ^{7:20}Finally, if I do that I would not, then is it not I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me doeth it. ^{7:21}I find then by the law that when I would do good, evil is present with me. ^{7:22}I delight in the law of God, as concerning the inner man. ^{7:23}But I see another law in my members rebelling against the law of my mind, and subduing me unto the law of sin, which is in my members. ^{7:24}O wretched man that I am: who shall deliver me from this body of death? ^{7:25}I thank God by^m Jesus Christ our Lord: So then I myself in my mind serve the law of God, and in my flesh the law of sin. ^{8:1}There is then no damnation to them which are in Christ Jesu, which walk not after the flesh: but after the spirit. ^{8:2}For the law of the spirit, wherein isⁿ life thorow Jesus Christ hath delivered me^o from the law of sin, and death. ^{8:3}For what the law could not do inasmuch as it was weak because of the flesh: that performed God, and sent his son in the similitude of sinful flesh, and by sin damned sin in the flesh: ^{8:4}that the righteousness required of the law, might be fulfilled in us, which walk not after the flesh: but after the spirit. ^{8:5}For they that are carnal, are carnally minded; and^p they that are spiritual are ghostly minded. ^{8:6}To be carnally minded is death; and^q to be spiritually minded is life, and peace: ^{8:7}because that the fleshly mind is enmity against God: For it is not obedient to^r the law of God, neither can be. ^{8:8}So then they that are given to the flesh, cannot please God. ^{8:9}But ye are not given to the flesh; But to the spirit: If so be that the spirit of God dwell in you. If there be any man that hath not the spirit of Christ, the same is none of his. ^{8:10}If Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin: But the spirit is life for righteousness' sake. ^{8:11}Wherefore if the spirit of him that raised up Jesus from death, dwell in you: even he that raised up Christ from death, shall quicken your mortal bodies, be cause that his^s spirit dwelleth in you. ^{8:12}Therefore brethren we are now debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh: ^{8:13}For if ye live after the flesh, ye must die. But if ye mortify the deeds of the body, by the help of the spirit, ye shall live, ^{8:14}for as many as are led by the spirit of God, ^t are the sons of God. ^{8:15}For ye have not received the spirit of bondage to fear any more, but ye have received the spirit of adoption whereby we cry Abba father.^u ^{8:16}The same spirit certifieth our spirit that we are the sons of God. ^{8:17}If we be sons, we are also heirs (the heirs I mean of God) and heirs annexed with Christ, if so be that we suffer together, that we may be glorified together. ^{8:18}For I suppose that the afflictions of this life, are not worthy of the glory which shall be shewed upon us. ^{8:19}Also the fervent desire^v of the creatures abideth looking when the sons of God shall appear ^{8:20}because the creatures are subdued to vanity against their will: but for his will which subdued^w them in hope. ^{8:21}For the very creatures shall be delivered^x from the bondage of corruption, into the glorious liberty of the sons of God.^y ^{8:22}For we know that every creature groaneth with us also, and travaileth in pain even unto this time. ^{8:23}Not they only, but even we also which have the first fruits of the spirit mourn^z in ourselves and wait for the adoption (of the children God) and look for the deliverance of our bodies. ^{8:24}For we are saved by hope. But hope that is seen is no hope. For how can a man hope for that which he seeth? ^{8:25}but and if we hope for that we see not, then do we with^a patience abide for it. ^{8:26}Likewise the spirit also helpeth our infirmities. For we know not, what to desire as we ought: but the spirit maketh intercession mightily for us with groanings which cannot be expressed with tongue. ^{8:27}And he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the meaning^b of the spirit: for he maketh intercession for the saints according to the pleasure of God. ^{8:28}For we know well that all things work^c for the best unto them that love God, which also are called of purpose. ^{8:29}For those which he knew before, he also ordained before, that they should be like fashioned unto the shape of his son, that he might be the first begotten son among many brethren. ^{8:30}Moreover which he appointed^d before, them he also called; and which he called, them also he justified; which he justified,^e them he also glorified. ^{8:31}What shall we then say unto these things? if God be on our side: who can be against us? ^{8:32}which spared not his own son, but gave him for us all: How shall he not with him give us all things also? ^{8:33}Who shall lay anything to the charge of God's^f chosen? It is God that justifieth:^g ^{8:34}who then shall condemn? it is Christ which is dead; Yea rather which is risen again, which is also on the right hand of God and maketh intercession for us. ^{8:35}Who shall separate us from God's love?^h shall tribulation? or anguish? or persecution, other hunger? other nakedness? other peril? other sword? ^{8:36}As it is written: For thy sake are we killed all day long, and are counted as sheep appointed to be slain. ^{8:37}Nevertheless in all these things we overcome strongly thorow his help that loved us. ^{8:38}Yea and I am sure that neither death, neither life, neither angel,ⁱ nor rule, neither power, neither things present, neither things to come, ^{8:39}neither height, neither lowth, neither any other creature shall be able to depart us from God's love,^j which is^k in Christ Jesu our Lord. ^{9:1}I Say the truth in Christ and lie not, in that whereof my conscience beareth me witness in the holy ghost, ^{9:2}that I have great heaviness, and continual sorrow in my heart. ^{9:3}For I have wished myself to be cursed from Christ for my brethren, which are^l my kinsmen as pertaining to the flesh. ^{9:4}Which are the Israelites, to whom pertaineth the adoption, (of the children) and the glory, and the testaments,^m and the ordinance of the law,ⁿ and the service of God, and the promises, ^{9:5}whose also are the fathers, and they of whom (as concerning the flesh) Christ came: which is God over all things blessed forever Amen. ^{9:6}I speak not these things as though the words of God had took^o none effect. For they are not all Israelites which came of Israel; ^{9:7}Neither are they all children straightway because they are the seed of Abraham: But in Isaac shall thy seed be called, ^{9:8}that is to say; They which are the children of the flesh, are not the children of God. But the children of promise are counted the seed. ^{9:9}For this is a word of promise, about this time will I come, and Sara shall have a son. ^{9:10}Neither was it so with her only: but also when Rebecca was with child by one, I mean^p by our father Isaac, ^{9:11}yer the children were born, when they had neither done good neither bad (that the purpose of God which is by election, might stand) it was said unto her, not by the reason^q of works, but by grace of the caller, ^{9:12}the elder shall serve the younger.^r ^{9:13}As it is written: Jacob he loved, but Esau he hated. ^{9:14}What shall we say then? is there any unrighteousness with God? God forbid. ^{9:15}For he saith to Moses: I will shew mercy to whom I shew mercy: And will have compassion on whom I have compassion. ^{9:16}So lieth it not then in a man's will, or running,^s but in the mercy of God. ^{9:17}For the scripture saith unto Pharaoh: Even for this same purpose^t have I stirred thee up, to shew my power on thee, and that my name might be declared thorowout all the world.^u ^{9:18}So hath he mercy on whom he will. And whom he will he maketh hard hearted.^v ^{9:19}Thou wilt say then unto me: why then blameth he us yet? For who can resist his will? ^{9:20}But O man what art thou, which disputest with God? shall the work say to the workman: why hast thou made me on this fashion? ^{9:21}Hath not the potter power over the clay, even of the same lump to make one vessel unto honour, and another unto dishonour? ^{9:22}Even so, God willing to shew his wrath, and to make his power known, suffered with long^w patience the vessels of wrath, ordained to damnation, ^{9:23}that he might declare the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy, which he had prepared^x unto glory: ^{9:24}that is to say, us which he called, not of the jews only, but also of the gentiles. ^{9:25}As he saith in Osee: I will call them my people which were not my people: and her beloved which was not beloved. (and one that had obtained mercy, her that was without mercy.) ^{9:26}And it shall come to pass in the place where it was said unto them: Ye are not my people, that there shall be called the sons^y of the living God. ^{9:27}But Esaias crieth for^z Israel, though the number of the children of Israel be as the sand of the sea, yet shall a remnant be saved. ^{9:28}He finisheth the work verily and maketh it short in righteousness. (That is nothing else than to fetch Christ down.) ^{10:7}Other^m who shall descendⁿ into the deep? That is nothing else but to fetch up Christ from death. ^{10:8}But what saith the scripture? difference between the jew and the gentile. For one is Lord of all, which is rich unto all that call on him. ^{10:13}For whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be safe.^s ^{10:14}t How shall they call on him, on whom they believed not? how shall they believe on him of whom they have not heard? how shall they hear with out a preacher? ^{10:15}And how shall they preach except they be sent? As it is written: how beautiful are the feet of them which bring glad tidings of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things. ^{10:16}But they have not all obeyed to the gospel.^u For Esaias saith: Lord who shall believe our sayings?^v ^{10:17}So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing cometh by the word of God. ^{10:18}But I ask: have they not heard? First Moses saith: I will provoke you for to envy by them that are no people, and by a foolish nation I will anger you. ^{10:20}Esaias after that is bold and saith. I am found of them that sought me not, and have appeared to them that asked not after me. ^{10:21}And against Israel he saith: All day long have I stretched forth my hands unto a people that believeth not, but speaketh against me. ^{11:1}I say then: hath God cast away his people? secret should be hid from you my brethren (lest ye should be wise in your own conceits) that partly blindness is happened in Israel, until the fullness of the gentiles be come in. ^{11:26}And so all Israel shall be saved. As it is written: There shall come out of Sion he that doth deliver, and shall turn away the ungodliness of Jacob. ^{11:27}And this is my covenant unto them, when I shall take away their sins. ^{11:28}As concerning the gospel,^s They are enemies for your sakes: but as touching the election, they are loved for the fathers' sakes. ^{11:29}For verily the gifts and calling of God are such, that it cannot repent him of them, ^{11:30}for look, as ye in time passed have not believed God, yet have now obtained mercy thorow their unbelief: ^{11:31}even so now have they not believed the mercy which is happened unto you; That they also may obtain mercy. ^{11:32}God hath wrapped all nations in^t unbelief, that he might have mercy on all. ^{11:33}O the deepness of the abundant wisdom and knowledge off God: how incomprehensible^u are his judgements, and his ways unsearchable.^v ^{11:34}For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who was his counsellor? ^{11:35}other who hath given unto him first, that he might be recompensed again? ^{11:36}For of him, and thorow him, and unto^w him are all things. To him be glory^x forever Amen. ^{12:1}I beseech you therefore brethren by the mercifulness of God that ye make your bodies a quick sacrifice, holy and acceptable unto God which is your reasonable serving of God. ^{12:2}And fashion not yourselves like unto this world: But be ye changed in your shape, by^y the renewing of your wits,^z that ye may feel^a what thing that good, that acceptable, and perfect will of God is. ^{12:3}For I say (thorow the grace that unto me given is) to every man among you, that no man esteem of himself more than it becometh him to esteem: But that he discreetly judge of himself according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith. ^{12:4}As we have many members in one body: and all members have not one office:^b ^{12:5}So we being many are one body in Christ: and every man (among ourselves) one another's members. ^{12:6}Seeing that we have divers gifts according to the grace that is given unto us, if any man have the gift of prophecy, let him have it that it be agreeing unto^c the faith. ^{12:7}Let him that hath an office, wait on his office. ^{12:8}Let him that teacheth take heed to his doctrine. Let him that exhorteth give attendance to his exhortation. If any man give, let him do it with singleness. Let him that ruleth do it with diligence. If any man shew mercy let him do it with cheerfulness. ^{12:9}Let love be without dissimulation. Hate that which is evil, and cleave unto that which is good. ^{12:10}Be kind one to^d another, with brotherly love. In giving honour go one before another. ^{12:11}Let not that business which ye have in hand be tedious to you. Be fervent in the spirit. Apply yourselves to the time. (serving the Lord) ^{12:12}Rejoice in hope. Be patient in tribulation, continue in prayer. ^{12:13}Distribute unto the necessity of the saints. ^e ^{12:14}Bless them which persecute you: bless but curse not. ^{12:15}Be merry with them that are merry. Weep with them that weep. ^{12:16}Be of like affection one towards another.^f Be not high minded,^g but make yourselves equal to them of the lower sort. Be not wise in your own opinions. ^{12:17}Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide aforehand things honest (not only before God, but also)^h in the sight of all men. ^{12:18}If it be possible, yet onⁱ your part^j have peace with all men. ^{12:19}Dearly beloved avenge not yourselves but give room unto the wrath of God. For it is written: vengeance is mine, and I will reward saith the Lord. ^{12:20}Therefore if thine enemy hunger feed him: if he thirst, give him drink. For in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head: ^{12:21}Be not overcome of evil: But overcome evil with goodness. ^{13:1}Let every soul submit himself unto the authority of the higher powers. ^k There is no power but of God. The powers that be, are ordained of God. ^{13:2}Whosoever therefore resisteth power, resisteth the ordinance of God. ^l They that resist, shall receive to themselves damnation. ^{13:3}For rulers are not to be feared for good works but for evil. Wilt thou be without fear of the power? Do well then: and so shalt thou be praised of the same. ^{13:4}For he is the minister of God, for thy wealth. But and if thou do evil, then fear: for he beareth not a sword for nought; for he^m is the minister of God, to take vengeance on them that do evil. ^{13:5}Wherefore ye must needs obey, not for fear of vengeance only:ⁿ but also because of conscience. ^{13:6} ^o Even for this cause pay ye tribute. For they are God's^p ministers, serving for the same purpose.^q ^{13:7}Give to every man therefore his duty: Tribute to whom tribute belongeth: Custom to whom custom is due: fear to whom fear belongeth: Honour to whom honour pertaineth. ^{13:8}Owe no thing to any man: but to love one another. For he that loveth another, fulfilleth^r the law. ^{13:9}For these commandments: Thou shalt not commit advoutry:^s Thou shalt not kill: Thou shalt not steal: Thou shalt not bear false witness: Thou shalt not desire:^t and so forth if there be any other commandment, ^u are all comprehended in this saying: Love^v thine neighbor as thyself. ^{13:10}Love hurteth not his neighbor:^w Therefore is love the fulfilling of the law. ^{13:11}This also we know, I mean the season, how that it is time that we should now awake out of sleep.^x For now is our salvation nearer than when we believed. ^{13:12}The night is passed and^y the day is come nigh. Let us therefore cast away the deeds^z of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light. ^{13:13}Let us walk honestly as it were in the daylight: not in^a eating and drinking: neither in chambering and wantonness: neither in strife and envying: ^{13:14}but put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ. And make not provision for the flesh, to fulfill the lusts of it. ^{14:1}Him that is weak in the faith, receive unto you, not in disputing and troubling his conscience. ^{14:2}One believeth that he may eat all things. Another which is weak eateth herbs; ^{14:3}Let not him that eateth, despise him that eateth not. And let not him which eateth not judge him that eateth. For God hath received him. ^{14:4}What art thou that judgest another man's servant? Whether he stand or fall, that pertaineth unto his master. Yea, he shall stand. And if we die, we die at the Lord's will. Whether we live therefore or die, we are the Lord's. ^{14:9}For Christ therefore died and rose again, and revived, that he might be Lord both of dead and quick. ^{14:10}But why doest thou then judge thy brother? other why dost thou despise thy brother? We shall all be brought before the judgement seat of Christ. ^{14:11}For it is written: As truly as I live saith the Lord, all knees shall bow to me, and all tongues shall give ^g knowledge ^h to ⁱ God. ^{14:12}So shall every one of us give accounts^j of himself to God. ^{14:13}Let us not therefore, judge one another any more. and is commended of men. ^{14:19}Let us follow those things which make for peace: and things wherewith one may edify another. ^{14:20}Destroy not the work of God for a little meat's sake. For this cause I will praise thee among the gentiles, and sing in thy name. ^{15:10} And again he saith: ye gentiles reioice with his people. ^{15:11} ^u Again, praise the Lord all ye gentiles, and laud him all nations. ^{15:12} And in another place Esaias saith: there shall be the root^v of Jesse, and he that shall rise to reign^w over the gentiles: in him shall the gentiles trust. ^{15:13} The God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that ye may be rich^x in hope thorow the power of the holy ghost. ^{15:14} I myself am full certified of you my brethren that ye yourselves are full of goodness, and filled with all knowledge, and are able to counsel^y one another. ^{15:15} Nevertheless brethren I have somewhat boldly written unto you, as one that putteth you in remembrance, for^z the grace which^a is given me of God ^{15:16} for this purpose that I should be the minister of Jesu Christ among the gentiles, and should minister the glad tidings^b of God, that the gentiles might be an acceptable offering, sanctified by the holy ghost. ^{15:17} I have therefore whereof I may reioice in^c Christ Jesu, in those things which pertain to God. ^{15:18} For I dare not speak of any of those things which Christ hath not wrought^d by me (to make the gentiles obedient) with word and deed, ^{15:19} in mighty signs and wonders, by the power of the spirit of God, so that from Jerusalem and the coasts round about, unto Illyricum, I have filled all countries with glad tidings of Christ. ^{15:20} So have I enforced myself to preach the gospel,^e not where Christ was named, lest I should have built on another man's foundation: ^{15:21} but as it is written: To whom he was not spoken of, they shall see: and they that heard not, shall understand. ^{15:22} For this cause I have been oft let (and am let as yet) to come unto you: ^{15:23} but now seeing I have no more to do in these countries, and also have been desirous many years to come unto you, ^{15:24} when I shall take my journey into Spayne, I will come to you. I trust to see you in my journey, and to be brought on my way thitherward by you after that I have somewhat enjoyed you. ^{15:25} Now go I unto Jerusalem, and minister unto the saints. ^{15:26} For it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Achaia, to make a certain distribution upon^f the poor saints which are at Jerusalem. ^{15:27} It hath pleased them verily,^g and their debtors are they. For if the gentiles be made partakers^h of their spiritual things, their duty is to minister unto them in carnal things. ^{15:28} When I have performed this, and have shewed them this fruit,ⁱ I will come back again^j by you into Spayne. ^{15:29} And I am sure when I come, that I shall come with abundance of the^k blessing of the gospel^l of Christ. ^{15:30} I beseech you brethren for our Lord Jesu Christ's^m sake, and for the love of the spirit, that ye help me in my business, with your prayers to God for me, ^{15:31} that I may be delivered from them which believe not in Jewry; and that this my service, which I have to Jerusalem, may be accepted of the saints, ^{15:32} that I may come unto you with joy, by the will of God, and may with you be refreshed. ^{15:33} The God of peace be with all you Amen. ^{16:1} I commend unto you Phebe our sister (which is a minister of the

^{1:1}Paul by vocation^a an apostle of Jesus Christ thorow the will of God, and brother Sostenes. ^{1:2}Unto the congregation of God which is at Corinthum. To them that are sanctified in Jesus^b Christ, saints by calling, with all that call on the name of our Lord Jesus Christ in every place, both of theirs and of ours. ^{1:3}Grace be with you and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. ^{1:4}I thank my God always on your behalf for the favour^c of God which is given you by Jesus Christ, ^{1:5}that in all things^d ye are made rich by him, in all speech^{ef} and in all knowledge^g ^{1:6}(even as the testimony of Jesus Christ was confirmed in you,) ^{1:7}so that ye are behind in no gift,^h and wait for the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ ^{1:8}which shall strength you unto the end, that ye may be blameless in the day (of the coming) of our Lord Jesus Christ. ^{1:9}ⁱ God is faithful, by whom ye are called unto the fellowship of his son Jesus Christ our Lord. ^{1:10}I beseech you brethren in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak one thing, and that there be no dissension among you: but be ye perfectⁱ in one mind, and one meaning: ^{1:11}It is shewed unto me (my brethren) of you by them that are of the house of Cloe, that there is strife among you; ^{1:12}I speak of that which everyone of you sayth:^k I hold of Paul; Another sayth: I hold of Apollo: Another^l saith: I hold of Cephas: and another saith^m I hold of Christ. ^{1:13}Is Christ divided? was Paul crucified for you? otherⁿ were ye baptised in the name of Paul? ^{1:14}I thank God that I christened^o none of you, but Crispus and Gaius, ^{1:15}lest any should say that I in mine own name had baptised. ^{1:16}I baptised also the house of Stephana. Furthermore know I not whether I baptised any man (of you) or no. ^{1:17}For Christ sent me not to baptise, but to preach the gospel,^p not with wisdom of words, lest the cross of Christ should have been made of none effect. ^{1:18}For the preaching^q of the cross is to them that perish foolishness: but unto us which are saved, it is the power of God. ^{1:19}For it is written: I will destroy the wisdom of the wise and will cast away the understanding of the prudent. ^{1:20}Where is the wise man? where is the scribe? where is the searcher^r of this world? Hath not God made the wisdom of this world foolishness? ^{1:21}For when the world thorow wisdom knew not God, in the wisdom of God: it pleased God thorow foolishness of preaching to save them that believe. ^{1:22}For the jews require a sign,^s and the greeks seek^t after wisdom. ^{1:23}But we preach Christ crucified, unto the jews an occasion of falling and unto the greeks foolishness: ^{1:24}but unto them which are called both of jews and greeks we preach Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God. ^{1:25}For Godly foolishness^u is wiser than men: And Godly weakness^v is stronger than are men. ^{1:26}Brethren look on your calling how that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many of high degree are called: ^{1:27}But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world, to confound the wise. And ^w hath chosen the weak things of the world, to confound things which are mighty. ^{1:28}And vile things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen yea and things of no reputation, for to bring to nought things of reputation, ^{1:29}that no flesh should rejoice in his presence. ^{1:30}And unto him pertain ye, in Christ Jesu, which of God is made unto us wisdom, and also righteousness, and sanctifying, and redemption. ^{1:31}That according as it is written: he which rejoiceth, should rejoice in the Lord. ^{2:1}And I brethren when I came to you, came not in gloriousness of^x words or of wisdom, shewing unto you the testimony of God.^y ^{2:2}Neither shewed I myself that I knew any thing among you save^z Jesus Christ, even the same that was crucified. ^{2:3}And I was among you in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling. ^{2:4}And my words, and my preaching were not with enticing words of man's wisdom: but in shewing of the spirit and of power, ^{2:5}that your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men: but in the power of God. ^{2:6}We speak that which^a is wisdom among them that are perfect: not the wisdom of this world neither of the rulers of this world (which goeth to nought,) ^{2:7}but we speak the wisdom of God, which is in secret and lieth hid, which God ordained before the world unto our glory: ^{2:8}which wisdom none of the rulers of the world knew. For had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory: ^{2:9}but as it is written: The eye hath not seen, and the ear hath not heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. ^{2:10}But God hath opened them unto us by his spirit. For the spirit searcheth all things, yea the bottom of God's^b secrets.^c ^{2:11}For what man knoweth^d the things of a man: save the spirit of a man which is within him? Even so the things of God knoweth^e no man, but the spirit of God. ^{2:12}And we have not received the spirit of the world: but the spirit which cometh of God, for to know the things that are given to us of God, ^{2:13}which things also we speak, not in the cunning words of man's wisdom, but with the cunning words of the holy ghost, making spiritual comparisons of spiritual things.^f ^{2:14}For the natural man perceiveth not the things of the spirit of God: For they are but foolishness unto him. Neither can he perceive them because he is spiritually examined.^g ^{2:15}but he that is spiritual discusseth all things: yet he himself is judged of no man. ^{2:16}For who knoweth the mind of the Lord, other who shall inform him? but we understand the mind of Christ. ^{3:1}And I could not speak unto you brethren as unto spiritual: but as unto carnal, even as it were unto babes in Christ. ^{3:2}I gave you milk to drink and not meat. For ye then were not strong, no neither yet are strong. ^{3:3}For ye are yet carnal. As long verily as there is among you envying, strife and dissension: are ye not carnal, and walk after the manner of men? ^{3:4}As long as one saith: I hold of Paul, and another, I am of Apollo, are ye not carnal? ^{3:5}What is Paul? what thing is Apollo? but^h ministersⁱ by whom ye believed even as the Lord gave every man grace. ^{3:6}I have planted: Apollo watered: but God gave increase. ^{3:7}So then, neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth: but God which gave the increase. ^{3:8}He that planteth, Every man yet shall receive his reward according to his labour. ^{3:9}We are God's^j laborers: ye are God's^k husbandry, ye are God's^l building. ^{3:10}According to the grace of God given unto me, as a wise builder have I laid the foundation, ^m another hath built thereon: but let every man take heed how he buildeth upon. ^{3:11}For other foundation can no man lay, than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ. ^{3:12}If any man build on this foundation, gold, silver, precious stones, timber, hay, or stubble: ^{3:13}every man's work shall appear. For the day shall declare it, and it shall be shewed in fire, and the fire shall try every man's work what it is. ^{3:14}If any man's work that he hath built upon, abide, he shall receive a reward. ^{3:15}If any man's work burn, he shall suffer loss: but he shall be safe himself: nevertheless yet as it were throw fire. ^{3:16}Are ye not ware that ye are the temple of God, and how that the spirit of God dwelleth in you? ^{3:17}If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy. For the temple of God is holy, which temple are ye.ⁿ ^{3:18}Let no man deceive himself. If any man seem^o wise among you, let him be^p a fool in this world, that he may be wise. ^{3:19}For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written: he compasseth the wise in their craftiness. ^{3:20}And again, God knoweth the thoughts of the wise that they be vain. ^{3:21}Therefore let no man rejoice in men. For all things are yours, ^{3:22}whether it be Paul, other^q Apollo, either Cephas: whether it be the world, either^r life, either death, whether they be present things or things to come: all are yours, ^{3:23}and ye are Christ's,^s and Christ is God's.^t ^{4:1}Let men this wise esteem us, even as the ministers of Christ, and disposers^u of the secrets of God. ^{4:2}Furthermore it is required of the disposers^v that they be found faithful. ^{4:3}With me is it but a very small thing, that I should be judged of you, either of man's day. It is the Lord that judgeth me. ^{4:5}Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, which will lighten things that are hid in darkness: and open the counsels of the hearts. And then shall every man have praise of God. ^{4:6}These things brethren I have described in mine own person, and Apollos: for your sakes, that ye might learn by us that no man count of himself beyond that which is above written: that one swell not against another for any man's cause. ^{4:7}For who preferreth thee? What hast thou, that thou hast not received? if thou have received it: why rejoicest^w thou as though thou hadst^x not received it? ^{4:8}Now ye are full: now ye are made rich: ye reign as kings without us: and I would to God ye did reign, that we might reign with you. ^{4:9}Me thinketh that God hath shewed^y us which are apostles, for the hindmost^z of all, as it were men appointed to death. For we are a gazingstock unto the world, and to the angels, and to men, ^{4:10}we are fools for Christ's^a sake, and ye are wise throw Christ: we are weak, and ye are strong. working with our own hands. We are reviled, and yet we bless. We are persecuted, and suffer it. ^{4:13}We are evil spoken of, and we pray. We are made as it were the filthiness^b of the world, the offscouring of all things, even unto this time. ^{4:14}I write not these things to shame you: but as my beloved sons^c I warn you. ^{4:15}For though ye have ten thousand instructors in Christ: yet have ye not many fathers. In Christ Jesu, I have begotten you thorow the gospel.^d ^{4:16}Wherefore I desire^e you to counterfeit^f me. (as I follow Christ) ^{4:17}For this cause have I sent unto you Timotheus, which is my dear son, and faithful in the Lord, which shall put you in remembrance of my ways which I have in Christ, even as I teach everywhere in all congregations. ^{4:18}Some swell^g as though I would come no more at you: ^{4:19}but I will come to you shortly, if God will, and will know, not the words of them which swell,^h but the power. ^{4:20}For the Kingdom of God is not in words, but in power. ^{4:21}What will ye? Shall I come unto you with a rod, or else in love, and in the spirit of meekness? ^{5:1}There goeth a common sayingⁱ that there is fornication^j among you, and such fornication^k as is not once named among the gentiles:^l that one should have his father's wife. ^{5:2}And ye swell^m and have not rather sorrowed, that he which hath done this deed might be put from among you. ^{5:3}For I verily as absent in body, even so present in spirit, have determined already (as though I were present) of him that hath done this deed, ^{5:4}in the name of our Lord Jesu Christ, when ye are gathered together, and my spirit, with the power of the Lord Jesus Christ, ^{5:5}to deliver him unto Satan, for the destruction of the flesh that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus. ^{5:6}Your rejoicing is not good. Know ye not that a little leaven sowereth the whole lump of dough? ^{5:7}Purge therefore the old leaven, that ye may be new dough as ye are sweet bread. For Christ our ester lamb is offered up for us. ^{5:8}Therefore let us keep holyday, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of maliciousness and wickedness but with the sweet bread of pureness and truth. ^{5:9}I wrote unto you in theⁿ pistel^o that ye should not company with fornicators.^p ^{5:10}And I meant not at all of the fornicators^q of this world, either of the covetous, or of extortioners, either of ^r idolaters:^s for then must ye needs have gone out of the world: ^{5:11}but now I have written^t unto you that ye company not together. be judged by^v you: are ye not good enough to judge small trifles.^w 6:3 Know ye not how that we shall judge the angels? How much more may we judge things that pertain to the life?^x 6:4 If ye have judgements of worldly^y matters, take them which are despised in the congregation, and make them judges. 6:5 This I say to your shame. Is there utterly no wise man among you? what not one at all? that can judge between brother and brother? 6:6 but one brother goeth to law with another: and that under^z the unbelievers? 6:7 Now therefore there is utterly a fault among you, because ye go to law one with another. Why rather suffer ye not wrong? why rather suffer ye not yourselves to be robbed?^a 6:8 Nay ye yourselves do wrong, and rob:^b and that the brethren. 6:9 Do ye not remember how that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived. For neither fornicators,^c neither worshippers of images, neither whoremongers, neither weaklings, neither abusers of themselves with mankind, 6:10 neither thieves, neither the covetous, neither drunkards, neither cursed speakers, neither pillers,^d shall inherit the kingdom of God. 6:11 And such were ye verily: but ye are washed: ye are sanctified: ye are justified^e by the name of the Lord Jesus: And by the spirit of our God. 6:12 All things are lawful unto me: but all things are not profitable. I may do all things: but I will be brought under no man's power. 6:13 Meats are ordained for the belly, and the belly for meats:

but God shall destroy both him^f and them. Let not the body be applied unto fornication,^g but unto the Lord, and the Lord unto the body. 6:14 God hath raised up the Lord, and shall raise us up by his power. 6:15 Other^h remember ye not, that your bodies are the members of Christ? Shall I now take the members of Christe, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid. 6:16 Do ye not understandⁱ that he which coupleth himself with an harlot, is become one body? For two (saith he) shall be one flesh: 6:17 but he that is joined^j unto the Lord is one spirit. 6:18 Flee fornication.^k All sins that a man doth, are without the body. But he that is a fornicator, sinneth against his own body. 6:19 ^l Know ye not how that your bodies are the temple of the holy ghost, which is in you, whom he have of God, and how that ye are not your own? 6:20 For ye are dearly bought.^m Therefore glorifyⁿ ye^o God in your bodies and in your spirits, for they are God's.^p 7:1 As concerning the things whereof ye wrote unto me: It is good for a man, not to touch a woman. 7:2 Nevertheless to avoid fornication,^q let every man have his wife: and let every woman have her husband. 7:3 Let the man give unto the wife due benevolence. fasting and prayer, and afterward come again to the same thing, lest Satan tempt you for your incontinency. ^{7:6}This I say of favour, not of commandment. ^{7:7}For I would that all men were as I my self am: but every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, another after that. ^{7:8}I say unto the unmarried men, and widows: it is good for them if they abide even as I do: ^{7:9}but and if they cannot abstain, let them marry. For it is better to marry than to burn. ^{7:10}Unto the married command not I, but the Lord: that the wife separate not herself from the man. ^{7:11}If she separate herself, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled unto her husband again. And let not the husband put away his wife from him. ^{7:12}To the remnant speak I, and not the Lord: if any brother have a wife that believeth not, if she be content to dwell with him, let him not put her away. ^{7:13}And the woman which hath to her husband an infidel, if he consent^r to dwell with her, let her not put him away. ^{7:14}For the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the wife: and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the husband. Or else were your children unclean: but now are they pure.^s ^{7:15}But and if the unbelieving depart, let him depart. A brother or a sister is not in subjection to such.^t God hath called us in peace. ^{7:16}For how knowest thou o woman, whether thou shalt save thy husband or not?^u Other how knowest thou o man, whether thou shalt save the wife or not?^v ^{7:17}but even as God hath distributed to every man. As the Lord hath called every person, so let him walk: and so ordain I in all congregations. ^{7:18}If any man be called being circumcised, let him add nothing thereto. If any be called uncircumcised: let him not be circumcised. ^{7:19}Circumcision is nothing, uncircumcision is nothing: but the keeping of the commandments of God is altogether. ^{7:20}Let every man abide in the same state wherein he was called. ^{7:21}Art thou called a servant? care not for it. Nevertheless if thou mayst be free, use it rather. ^{7:22}For he that is called in the Lord being a servant, is the Lord's freeman. Likewise he that is called being free, is Christ's^w servant. ^{7:23}Ye are dearly bought, be not men's servants. ^{7:24}Brethren let every man wherein he is called, therein abide with God. ^{7:25}As concerning virgins, I have no commandment of the Lord: yet give I counsel as one that hath obtained^x of the Lord to be faithful. ^{7:26}I suppose that it is good for the present necessity. For it is good for a man so to be. ^{7:27}Art thou bound unto a wife? seek not to be loosed.^y Art thou loosed^z from a wife? seek not a wife. ^{7:28}But and if thou take a wife, thou hast not sinned.^a Likewise if a virgin marry, she hath not sinned.^b nevertheless such shall have trouble in their flesh: but I favor^c you. ^{7:29}This say I brethren, the time is short. It remaineth that^d they which have wives, be as though they had none: ^{7:30}and they that weep, be as though they wept not: and they that rejoice, be as though they rejoiced not: And they that buy, be as though they possessed not: ^{7:31}And they that use this world, be as though they used it not: For the fashion of this world goeth^e away. ^{7:32}I would have you without care, the single man careth for the things of the Lord, how he may please the Lord: ^{7:33}but he that hath married, careth for the things of the world, how he may please his wife. ^f ^{7:34}There is difference between a virgin and a wife. body and also in spirit: but she that is married, careth for the things of the world, how she may please her husband. ^{7:35}This speak I for your profit, not to tangle you in a snare: but for that which is honest and comely unto you; And that ye may quietly cleave unto the Lord without separation.^h ^{7:36}If any man think that it is uncomely for his virgin if she pass the time of marriage, and if so need require, let him do what he listeth, he sinneth not: let them be coupled in marriage. ^{7:37}Nevertheless, he that purposeth surely in his heart, having none need: but hath power over his own will: and hath so decreedⁱ in his heart that he will keep his virgin, doth well. ^{7:38}So then he that joineth his virgin in marriage doth well. And^j he that joineth not his virgin in marriage doth better. ^{7:39}The wife is bound to the law as long as her husband liveth. If her husband sleep, she is at liberty to marry with whom she will only in the Lord. ^{7:40}But she is happier if she so abide, in my judgement. And I think verily that I have the spirit of God. ^{8:1}To speak of things dedicated unto idols,^k we are sure that we all have knowledge. Knowledge maketh a man swell: but love edifieth. ^{8:2}If any man think that he knoweth any thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know. ^{8:3}But if any man love God, the same is known of him. ^{8:4}To speak of meat dedicated unto idols, we are sure that there is none idol^l in the world: and that there is none other God but one. ^{8:5}And though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven or in earth (as there be gods many and lords many) ^{8:6}but^m unto us is thereⁿ one God, which is the father, of whom are all things, and we in him: and one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things, and we by him. ^{8:7}But every man hath not knowledge. For some suppose that there is an idol, until this hour, and eat as of a thing offered unto the idol, and so their consciences being yet weak are defiled. ^{8:8}Meat maketh us not acceptable to God: Neither if we eat are we the better: Neither if we eat not are we the worse.^o ^{8:9}But take heed that your liberty cause not the weak to fall.^p ^{8:10}For if some man see thee which hast knowledge sit at meat in the idol's temple shall not the conscience of him which is weak be boldened^q to eat those things which are offered unto the idol? ^{8:11}And so thorow thy knowledge shall the weak brother perish for whom Christ died. ^{8:12}When we^r sin so against the brethren and wound their weak consciences, we^s sin against Christ. ^{8:13}Wherefore if meat hurt^t my brother, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth, because I will not hurt^u my brother. ^{9:1}Am I not an apostle? am I not free? have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord? Are not ye my work in the Lord. ^{9:2}If I be not an apostle unto other, yet am I unto you. For the seal of mine apostleship are ye in the Lord. ^{9:3}Mine answer to them that ask me, is this: ^{9:4}Have we not power to eat and to drink? ^{9:5}Either have we not power to lead about a sister to wife as well as other apostles, and as the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas? ^{9:6}Either only I and Barnabas have not power this to do? ^{9:7}Who goeth a warfare any time at his own cost?^v who planteth a vineyard and eateth not of the fruit?^w or who feedeth a flock and eateth not of the milk? ^{9:8}Say I these things after the manner of men? or sayth not the law the same also? ^{9:9}For it is written in the law of Moses: Thou shall not muzzle^x been judged. ^{11:32} ^a When we are judged of the Lord we are chastened, because we should not be damned with the world. ^{11:33} Wherefore my brethren, when ye come together^b to eat, tarry one for another. ^{11:34} If any man hunger, let him eat at home, that ye come not together unto condemnation. Other things will I set in order when I come. ^{12:1} In spiritual things brethren I would not have you ignorant. ^{12:2} Ye know that ye were gentiles,^c and went your ways unto dumb idols, even as ye were led. ^{12:3} Wherefore I declare unto you that no man speaking in^d the spirit of God defieth Jesus. Also no man can say that Jesus is the Lord: but by the holy ghost. ^{12:4} There are diversities of gifts verily, yet but one spirit. ^{12:5} And there are differences of administrations, and yet but one Lord. ^{12:6} And there are divers manners of operations, and yet but one God, which worketh all things that are wrought in all creatures. ^{12:7} The gifts of the spirit are given to every man to profit the congregation. ^{12:8} To one^e is given^f the utterance of wisdom: to another is given the utterance of knowledge by^g the same spirit: ^{12:9} to another is given faith, by the same spirit. To another the gifts of healing, by the same spirit. ^{12:10} To another power to do miracles: To another prophecy; To another judgement of spirits;^h To another divers tongues: To another the interpretation of tongues: ^{12:11} and these all worketh even the self same spirit, dividing to every man several gifts even as he will.ⁱ ^{12:12} For as the body is one, and hath many members, and^j all the members of one body though they be many, yet are but one body: even so is Christ. ^{12:13} For in one spirit are we all baptised to make one body, whether we be jews or gentiles: whether we be bond or free, and have all drunk of one spirit. ^{12:14} For the body is not one member, but many. ^{12:15} If the foot say: I am not the hand, therefore I am not^k of the body: is he therefore not^l of the body? ^{12:16} and if the ear say I am not the eye: therefore I am not^m of the body: is he therefore notⁿ of the body? ^{12:17} if all the body were an eye: where were then the ear? if all were hearing: where were the^o smelling? ^{12:18} But now hath God disposed^p the members, every one of them^q in the body, at his own pleasure. ^{12:19} If they were all one member: where were the body? ^{12:20} Now are there many members, yet but one body. ^{12:21} And the eye cannot say unto the hand: I have no need of thee: nor the head also to the feet: I have no need of you. ^{12:22} Yea rather a great deal those members of the body which seem to be most feeble, are most necessary. ^{12:23} And upon those members of that body which we think least honest, put we most honesty on. And our ungodly^r parts^s have most beauty on. ^{12:24} For our honest members need it not: but God hath so disposed^t the body, and hath given most honour to that part which lacked,^u ^{12:25} lest there should be any strife in the body: but that the members should indifferently care for one another. ^{12:26} And if one member suffer all suffer with him: if one member be had in honour, all members be glad also. ^{12:27} Ye are the body of Christ, and members one of another. ^{12:28}And God hath also ordained in the congregation, first the apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, then them that do^v miracles, after that, the gifts of healing, helpers, governors, diversity of tongues. ^{12:29}Are all apostles? are all prophets? Are all teachers? are all doers of miracles? ^{12:30}have all the gifts of healing? Do all speak with tongues? do all interpret? ^{12:31}Covet after the best gifts. And yet shew I unto you a more excellent way. ^{13:1}Though I spake with the tongues of men and angels, and yet had no love, I were even as sounding brass: and^w as a tinkling cymbal. ^{13:2}And though I could prophesy, and understood all secrets, and all knowledge: yea, if I had all faith so that I could move mountains out of their places, and yet had no love, I were nothing. ^{13:3}And though I bestowed all my goods to feed the poor, and though I gave my body even that I burned, and yet had no love, it profiteth me nothing. ^{13:4}Love suffereth long,^x and is courteous. Love envieth not. Love doth not frowardly, swelleth not,^y ^{13:5}dealeth not dishonestly, seeketh not her own, is not provoked to anger, thinketh not evil ^{13:6}rejoiceth not in^z iniquity: but rejoiceth in the truth, ^{13:7}suffereth^a all things, believeth all things hopeth all things, endureth in^b all things. ^{13:8}Though that prophesying fail, or tongues shall cease, or knowledge vanish away:^c yet love falleth never away. ^{13:9}For our knowledge is unperfect, and our prophesying is unperfect: ^{13:10}but when that which is perfect is come: then that which is unperfect shall be done away. ^{13:11}When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I imagined as a child: but as soon as I was a man I put away childishness. ^{13:12}Now we see in^d a glass even in a dark speaking: but then shall we see face to face. Now I know unperfectly: but then shall I know even as I am known. ^{13:13}Now abideth faith, hope, and love, even these three: but the chief^e of these is love. ^{14:1}Labour for love, and covet spiritual gifts: and most chiefly for to prophesy. ^{14:2}For he that speaketh with tongues speaketh not unto men, but unto God. ^f No man heareth him: For^g in the spirit he speaketh mysteries. ^{14:3}But he that prophesieth speaketh unto men, for their^h edifying, ⁱ and^j comfort. ^{14:4}He that speaketh with tongues, profiteth himself: he that prophesieth edifieth the congregation. ^{14:5}I would that ye all spake with tongues: but rather that ye prophesied. For greater is he that prophesieth, than he that speaketh with tongues, except he expound it also, that the congregation may have edifying. ^{14:6}Now brethren if I come unto you speaking with tongues: what shall I profit you? except I speak unto^k you, either by revelation, or knowledge, or prophesying, or doctrine. ^{14:7}Moreover when things without life give sound: whether it be a pipe, or an harp: except they make a distinction in the sounds: how shall it be known what is piped or harped? ^{14:8}And also if the trumpet give an uncertain voice,^l who shall prepare himself to fight?^m ^{14:9}Even so likewise when ye speak with tongues, except ye speak words that have

For ye shall but speak in the air. ^{14:10}Many kinds of voices are in the world, and none of them are^p without signification. ^{14:11}If I know not what the voice meaneth, I shall be unto him that speaketh an alien: and he that speaketh shall be an alien unto me. ^{14:12}Even so ye (forasmuch as ye covet spiritual gifts) seek that ye may have plenty unto the edifying of the congregation. ^{14:13}Wherefore let him that speaketh with tongues, pray that he may interpret also. ^{14:14}If I pray with tongues, my spirit prayeth: but my mind is without fruit.^q ^{14:15}What is it then? ^r I will pray with my^s spirit, and will pray with my^t mind^u also. I will sing^v with my^w spirit, and will sing with my^x mind also.^y ^{14:16}For else when thou blessest^z with the spirit, how shall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned say amen at thy giving of thanks? seeing he understandeth not^a what thou sayest? ^{14:17}Thou verily givest thanks well: but the other is not edified. ^{14:18}I thank my God, I speak with tongues more than ye all. ^{14:19}Yet had I lever in the congregation to speak five words with my mind to the information of other,^{bc} rather than ten thousand words with the tongue. ^{14:20}Brethren, be not children in wit:^d ^e as concerning maliciousness be children: but in wit^f be perfect. ^{14:21}In the law it is written, with other tongues, and with other lips will I speak unto this people, and yet for all that will they not hear me saith the Lord. ^{14:22}Wherefore tongues are for a sign,^g not to them that believe: but to them that believe not. Contrariwise prophesying serveth not for them that believe not: but for them which believe. ^{14:23}If therefore when all the congregation is come together, and all speak with tongues, there come in they that are unlearned, or they which believe not: will they not say that ye are out of your wits? ^{14:24}But and if all prophesy, and there come in one that believeth not, or one unlearned, he is reproveth^h of all men, and is judged of every man: ^{14:25}and so are the secrets of his heart opened: and thenⁱ falleth he down on his face, and worshippeth God, and saith that God is with you indeed.^j ^{14:26}How is it then brethren? when ye come together every man hath his song,^k hath his doctrine, hath his tongue, hath his revelation, hath his interpretation: Let all things be^l unto edifying. ^{14:27}If any man speak with tongues, let it be two at once: or at the most three at once: and that by course,^m and let another interpret it: ^{14:28}But if there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the congregation, and let him speak to himself, and to God. ^{14:29}Let the prophets speak two at once, or three at once, and let

^{1:1}Paul an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, and brother Timotheus. Unto the congregation of God, which is at Corinthum, with all the saints which are in all Achaia: ^{1:2}Grace be with you and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. ^{1:3}Blessed be God the father of our Lord Jesus the Christ, father of mercy, and the God of all comfort, ^{1:4}which comforteth us in all our tribulation, insomuch that we are able to comfort them which are troubled, in whatsoever tribulation it be, with the same comfort wherewith we our selves are comforted of God. ^{1:5}For as the afflictions of Christ are plenteous in us: even so is our consolation plenteous by Christ. ^{1:6}Whether we be troubled for your consolation, and health, (Or whether we be comforted, it is for youre comfort and salvation) which health^a sheweth her power in that ye suffer the same afflictions which we also suffer: or whether we be comforted for your consolation and health:^b ^{1:7}yet our hope is steadfast for you inasmuch as we know how that as ye have your part in afflictions, so shall ye be partakers of consolation. ^{1:8}Brethren I would not have you ignorant of our trouble, which happened unto us in Asia. For we were grieved out of measure passing strength, so greatly that we despaired even of life. ^{1:9}Also we received an answer of death in ourselves, and that was done because we should not put our trust in ourselves: but in God, which raiseth the dead to life again: ^{1:10}^c Which delivered us from so great a death, and doth deliver, on whom we trust, that yet hereafter he will deliver us, ^{1:11}by the help of your prayer for us: That by the means of many occasions, thanks may be given of many on our behalf; For the grace given unto us. ^{1:12}Our rejoicing is this, the testimony of our conscience, that we without doubleness, but^d with godly pureness: ^e not in fleshly wisdom, but by the grace of God, ^f have had our conversation in the world, and most of all to you-wards. ^{1:13}We write no other things unto you, than that ye read and also know. Yea and I trust ye shall find us unto the end ^{1:14}even as ye have found us partly, for we are your rejoicing, even as ye are ours in the day of the Lord Jesus. ^{1:15}And in this confidence was I minded the other time to have come unto you (that ye might have had a double pleasure,)^g ^{1:16}and to have passed by you into Macedonia, and to have come again out of Macedonia unto you, and to have been led forth to Jewry ward of you. ^{1:17}When I thus wise was minded: Did I use lightness? Or think I carnally those things which I think? that with me should be yea yea, and nay nay. ^{1:18}God is faithful: For our preaching^h unto you, was not yea and nay. ^{1:19}For God'sⁱ son Jesus Christ which was preached among you by us (that is to say^j by me and Silvanus and Thimotheus) was not yea and nay: but in him it was Yea: ^{1:20}For all the promises of God, in him are Yea: and are in him Amen, unto the laud^k of God thorow us.^l ^{1:21}^m It is God which stablisheth us and you in Christ, and hath anointed us, ^{1:22}which hath also sealed us, and hath given the earnest of the spirit into our hearts. ^{1:23}I call God for a record unto my soul, that for to favor you withal, I came not any more unto Corinthum. ^{1:24}Not that we be lords over your faith: but helpers of your joy. For by faith ye stand. ^{2:1}But I determined this in myself, that I would not come again to you in heaviness. ^{2:2}For if I make you sorry: who is it that should make me glad, but the same which is made sorry by me?

^{2:3}And I wrote this same pistel unto you, lest if I came, I should take heaviness (upon heaviness) of them, of whom I ought to rejoyce. Certainly this confidence have I in you all, that my joy is the joy of you all. ^{2:4}For in great affliction and anguish of heart I wrote unto you with many tears: not to make you sorry, but that ye might perceive the love which I have most specially unto you. ^{2:5}If any man hath caused sorrow, the same hath not made me sorry: but partly, lest I should grieve you all. ^{2:6}It is sufficient unto the same man that he was rebuked of many. ^{2:7}So that now contrariwise ye ought to forgive him and comfort him: lest that same ⁿ should be swallowed up with overmuch heaviness. ^{2:8}Wherefore I exhort you, that love may have strength over him. ^o ^{2:9}For this cause verily did I write, that I might know the proof of you, whether ye should be obedient in all things. ^{2:10}To whom ye forgive any thing, I forgive also. And verily if I forgive any thing, to whom I forgave it for your sakes forgave I it, in the room of Christ, ^{2:11}lest Satan should prevent us. For his thoughts are not unknown unto us. ^{2:12}When I was come to Troada for Christ's^p gospel's sake (and a great door was opened unto me of the Lord) ^{2:13}I had no rest in my spirit, because I found not Titus my brother: but took my leave of them and went away into Macedonia. ^{2:14}Thanks be unto God which always giveth us the victory in Christ, and openeth the savor of his knowledge by us in every place. ^{2:15}For we are unto God the sweet savor^q of Christ, both among them that are saved, and also among them which perish: ^{2:16}to the one part are we the savor of death unto death: ^r unto the other part are we the savor of life unto life. And who is meet unto these things? ^{2:17}For we are not as many are which chop and change with the word of God: but as they which speak^s of pureness, and as they which speak^t of God ^u in the sight of God, so speak we in Christ. ^{3:1}We begin to praise ourselves again. Need we as some other of pistels of recommendation^v unto you? or letters of recommendation^w from you? ^{3:2}Ye are our pistel written in our hearts, which is understood and read of all men, ^{3:3}in that ye are known, how that ye are the pistel of Christ, ministered by us and written, not with ink: but with the spirit of the living God, not in tables of stone, but in fleshly tables of the heart. ^{3:4}Such trust have we thorow Christ to Godward, ^{3:5}not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as it were of ourselves: but our ableness cometh of God, ^{3:6}which hath made us able to minister the new testament, not of the letter, but of the spirit: For the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life. ^{3:7}If the ministration of death thorow the letters figured in stones was glorious, so that the children of Israel could not^x behold the face of Moses for the glory of^y countenance (which glory nevertheless is done away) ^{3:8}why^z shall not the ministration of the spirit be much more glorious? ^{3:9}For if the ministering of condemnation be glorious: much more doth the administration^a of righteousness exceed in glory. ^{3:10}For no doubt that which was there glorified is not once glorified in respect of this exceeding glory. ^{3:11}Then if that which is destroyed was^b glorious, much more shall that which remaineth be glorious. ^{3:12}Seeing then that we have such trust we use great boldness, ^{3:13}and do not as Moses, which put a veil over his face that the children of Israel should not see for what purpose that served which is put away.^c 3:14 But their minds were blinded. For until this day remaineth the same covering untaken away in the old testament when they read it, which in Christ is put away: 3:15 But even unto this day, when Moses is read the veil hangeth before their hearts. 3:16 Nevertheless when they turn to the Lord, the veil shall be taken away. 3:17 The Lord no doubt is a spirit. And where the spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty. 3:18 And now the Lord's glory appeareth in us all, as in a glass:^d and we are^e changed unto the same similitude, from glory to glory,^f even of the Lord which is a spirit.^g 4:1 Therefore seeing that we have such an office, even as mercy is come on us, we faint not: 4:2 but have cast from us the cloaks of dishonesty, and walk not in craftiness, neither corrupt we the word of God: but walk in open truth, and report ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God. 4:3 If our Gospell be yet hid, it is hid among them that are lost, 4:4 in whom the God of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest should shine unto them the light of the glorious gospel^h of Christ,ⁱ which is the image of God, 4:5 for we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus^j the Lord, and preach ourselves your servants for Jesus' sake. 4:6 For it is God that commanded the light to shine out of darkness, which hath shined in our hearts,^k for to give the light of knowledge of the glorious God,^l in the face of Jesus Christ. 4:7 But we have this treasure in earthen vessels that the excellent power of it^m might appear to be of God, and not of us. 4:8 We are troubled on every side, yet are we not without shift. We are in poverty: but not utterly without somewhat. 4:9 We are persecuted: but are not forsaken. We are cast down:ⁿ nevertheless we perish not. 4:10 And we always bear in our bodies the dying of the Lord Jesus, that the life of Jesu might appear in our bodies. 4:11 For we which live, are always delivered unto death for Jesus' sake, that the life also of Jesu might appear in our mortal flesh. 4:12 So then death worketh in us, and life in you. 4:13 Seeing then that we have the same spirit of faith, according as it is written (I believed and therefore have I spoken) we also believe, and therefore speak. 4:14 For we know that he which raised up the Lord Jesus, shall raise up us also by the means of Jesus, and shall set us with you, 4:15 for all things I do for your sakes, that the plenteous grace by thanks given^o of many, may redound to the praise of God. 4:16 Wherefore we are not wearied, but though our outward man perish,^p yet the inward man is renewed day by day. 4:17 For our exceeding tribulation, which is momentary^q and light, prepareth^r an exceeding, and eternal weight of glory unto us, 4:18 while we look not on the things which are seen, but on the things which are not seen. For things which are seen, are temporal: but things which are not seen are eternal. 5:1 We know surely if our earthy mansion wherein we now dwell^s were destroyed, that we have a building ordained of God, an habitation not made with hands, but eternal in heaven: 5:2 And herefore sigh we, desiring to be clothed with our mansion which is from heaven: 5:3 ^t if it happen that we be found clothed, and not naked. 5:4 For as long as we are in this tabernacle, we sigh and are grieved: for we

For we are known well enough unto God. I trust also that we are known in your consciences. ^{5:12}We praise not ourselves again unto you, but give you an occasion to rejoice of us, that ye may have somewhat against them, which rejoice in the face,^e and not in^f the heart. ^{5:13}For if we be too fervent, to God are we to^g fervent: if we keep measure, for your cause^h keep we measure. ^{5:14}For the love of Christ constraineth us, becauseⁱ we thus judge, if one be dead for all, that then are all dead, ^{5:15}and that he died for all, because that they which live, should not henceforth live unto themselves: but unto him which died for them and rose again. ^{5:16}Wherefore henceforth know we no man after the flesh. Insomuch that though we have known Christ after the flesh, now henceforth know we him so no more. ^{5:17}Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature. Old things are passed away, behold all things are become new. ^{5:18}Nevertheless all things are of God, which hath reconciled us unto himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given unto us the office to preach the atonement. ^{5:19}For God was in Christ, and made agreement between the world and himself, and imputed not their sins unto them: and hath committed to us the preaching of the atonement.^j ^{5:20}Now then are we messengers in the room of Christ: even as though God did beseech you thorow us:^k So pray we you^l in Christ's^m stead, that ye be at one with God: ^{5:21}for he hath made him to be sin for us, which knew no sin, that we by his means should be that righteousness which before God is allowed.ⁿ ^{6:1}We as helpers therefore exhort you, that ye receive not the grace of God in vain. ^{6:2}For he saith: I have heard thee in a time accepted: and in the day of health,^o have I succoured thee. Behold now is that well accepted time: behold now is the day of health.^p ^{6:3}Let us give no man occasion of evil, that in our office be found no fault:^q ^{6:4}but in all things let us behave ourselves as the ministers of God.

And how that their poverty, though it be deep, yet hath followed over, and is be come unto them riches in singleness.^o ^{8:3}For to their powers (I bear them record) yea and beyond their power, they were willing of their own accord, ^{8:4}and prayed us with great instance, that we would receive their benefit, and suffer them to be partakers with other^p in ministering

For I coupled^y you to one man, to make you^z a chaste virgin to Christ: 11:3 But I fear lest as the serpent beguiled Eve, thorow^a his subtlety, even so your wits should be corrupt from the singleness that is in Christ. 11:4 For if he that cometh to you preach another Jesus than him whom we preached: or if ye receive another spirit than that which ye have received: either another gospel^b than that ye have received,^c ye might right well have been content. 11:5 I suppose that I was not behind the chief apostles.^d 11:6 Though I be rude in speaking, yet I am not so in knowledge. ⁿ{In perils among the Jews}

In jeopardies among the heathen. I have been in perils in cities, in perils in wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren, ^{11:27}in labour and travail, in watching often, in hunger, in thirst, in fastings often, in cold and in nakedness. ^{11:28} ^o Beside the things which outwardly happen unto me, I am cumbered daily and do care for all congregations. ^{11:29}Who is sick: and I am not sick?^p Who is hurt in the faith: and my heart burneth not?^q ^{11:30}If I must needs rejoice,^r I will rejoice^s of mine infirmities. ^{11:31}God the father^t of our Lord Jesus Christ, which is blessed for evermore, knoweth that I lie not. ^{11:32}In the city of Damaschon, the governor of the people under king Aretas, laid watch in the city of the Damascens, and would have caught^u me, ^{11:33}and at a window was I let down in a basket thorow the wall, and so escaped his hands. ^{12:1}It is not expedient for me^v no doubt to rejoice,^w Nevertheless I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord. ^{12:2}I know a man in Christ above fourteen years ago (whether he were in the body I cannot tell, or whether he were out of the body I cannot tell; God knoweth) which^x was taken up into the third heaven. ^{12:3}And I know the same man (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell; God knoweth) ^{12:4}how that he was taken up into paradise, and heard words not to be spoken, which no man can utter. ^{12:5}Of this man will I rejoice, of myself will I not rejoice,^y except it be of mine infirmities: ^{12:6}and yet though I would rejoice I should not be a fool:^z for I would say the truth. Nevertheless I spare,^a lest any man should think of me above that he seeth me to be, or heareth of me. ^{12:7}And lest I should be exalted out of measure thorow the abundance of revelations, there was given unto me of God unquietness of the flesh,^b the messenger of Satan to buffet me: because I should not be exalted^c out of measure. ^{12:8}For this thing besought I the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me: ^{12:9}and he said unto me: my grace is sufficient for thee. For my strength is made perfect thorow^d weakness. Very gladly therefore will I rejoice of my weakness, that the strength of Christ may dwell in me. ^{12:10}Therefore have I delectation^e in infirmities, in rebukes, in need,^f in persecutions, in anguish, for Christ's^g sake. For when I am weak, then am I strong. ^{12:11}I am made a fool in boasting myself. Ye have compelled me: I ought to have been commended of you. For in nothing was I inferior unto the chief apostles, though I be nothing, ^{12:12}yet the tokens of an apostle were wrought among you with all patience: with signs, and wonders, and mighty deeds. ^{12:13}For what is it wherein ye were inferiors unto other congregations? except it be therein that I was not grievous unto you. Forgive me this wrong done unto you. ^{12:14}Behold now the third time I am ready to come unto you, neither will I^h be grievousⁱ unto you. For I seek not yours will not spare ^{13:3}seeing that ye seek experience of Christ which speaketh in me, which among you is not weak, but is mighty in you. ^{13:4}And verily though it came of weakness that he was crucified, yet liveth he thorow the power of God: and we no doubt are weak in him: but we shall live with him, by the might^u that God gave us to you ward.^v ^{13:5}Prove yourselves whether ye are in the faith or not. Examine your own selves: know ye not your own selves, how that Jesus Christ is in you? except ye be castaways. ^{13:6}I trust that ye shall know that we are not castaways. ^{13:7}I desire before God that ye do none evil, not that we should seem commendable: but that ye should do, that which is honest:^w and let us be counted as lewd persons.^x ^{13:8}We can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth. ^{13:9}We are glad when we are weak, and ye strong. This also we wish for, even that ye were perfect.^y ^{13:10}Therefore write I these things being absent, lest when I am present I should use sharpness according to the power which the Lord hath given me, to edify, and not to destroy. ^{13:11}Furthermore^z brethren fare ye well,^a be perfect, be of good comfort,^b be of one mind, live in peace,^c and the God of love and peace, shall be with you. ^{13:12}Greet^d one another in an holy kiss. ^{13:13}All the saints salute you. ^{13:14}The favour^e of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the holy ghost, be with you all Amen.

The Epistle of Saint Paul unto the Galathians

^{1:1}Paul an apostle, not of men, neither by man, but by Jesus Christ, and by God the father which raised him from death,^a ^{1:2}and all the brethren which are with me. Unto the congregations of Galacia. ^{1:3}Grace be with you and peace from God the father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ, ^{1:4}which gave himself for our sins, to deliver^b us from this present evil world, thorow^c the will of God our father, ^{1:5}to whom be praise for ever and ever Amen. ^{1:6}I marvel that ye are so soon turned from him that called you in the grace of Christ, unto another gospel,^d ^{1:7}which is nothing else, but that there be some which trouble you, and intend to pervert the gospel^e of Christ. ^{1:8}Nevertheless though we ourselves, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel^f unto you than that which we have preached unto you, hold him as accursed.^g ^{1:9}As I said before, so say I now again, if any man preach any other thing unto you, than that ye have received, hold him accursed.^h ^{1:10}Seek I now the favour of men, or of God?ⁱ Other go I about to please men? If I studied to please men, I were not the servant of Christ. ^{1:11}I certify you brethren, that the gospel^j which was preached of me, was not after the manner of men, ^{1:12}neither received I it of man, neither was I taught it: but received it by the revelation of Jesus Christ. ^{1:13}^k Ye have heard of my conversation in times past in the jews' ways, how that beyond measure I perse-cutted the congregation of God, and spoiled it: ^{1:14}and prevailed in the jews' law,^l above many of my companions, which were of mine own nation, and much more fervently maintained^m the traditions of the elders.ⁿ ^{1:15}But when it pleased God, which separated me from my mother's womb, and called me by his grace, ^{1:16}for to declare his son by me, that I should preach him among the heathen: Immediately I commended not of the matter with flesh and blood, ^{1:17}neither returned to Jerusalem to them which were apostles before me: but went my ways into Arabia, and came again unto Damasco. ^{1:18}Then after three year, I returned to Jerusalem unto^o Peter and abode with him fifteen days, ^{1:19}no other of the apostles saw I, save James the Lord's brother. ^{1:20}The things which I write, behold, God knoweth I lie not. ^{1:21}After that I went into the coasts of Siria and Cicill:^p ^{1:22}and was unknown as touching my person unto the congregations of Jewry, which were in Christ.^q ^{1:23}But they heard only, that he which persecuted us in time past, now preacheth the faith, which before he destroyed. ^{1:24}And they glorified^r God in me.^s ^{2:1}Then fourteen years there after, I went up again to Jerusalem with Barnabas, and took with me Titus also. ^{2:2}Yea, and I went up by revelation, and commended with them of the gospel,^t which I preach among the gentiles:

^{3:1}O foolish Galatians: who hath bewitched you, that ye should not believe the truth? to whom Jesus Christ was described before the eyes, and among you crucified? ^{3:2}This only would I learn of you, received ye the spirit by the deeds of the law? or else by preaching of the faith? ^{3:3}Are ye so unwise, that after ye have begun in the spirit, ye would now end in the flesh? ^{3:4}So many things ^r ye have suffered in vain. If it be so that ye have suffered in vain.^s ^{3:5}Which ministered to^t you the spirit, and worketh miracles^u among you doth he it thorow the deeds of the law? or by preaching of the faith? ^{3:6}Even as Abraham believed God, and it was ascribed to him for righteousness. ^{3:7}Understand therefore,^v that they which are of faith, ^w are the children of Abraham. ^{3:8} ^x The scripture saw aforehand, that God would justify the heathen thorow faith, and ^y shewed beforehand glad tidings unto Abraham: In thee shall all nations be blessed. ^{3:9}So then they which be of faith, are blessed with faithful Abraham. ^{3:10}For as many as are under the deeds^z of the law, are under malediction.^a For it is written: cursed is every man that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to fulfil^b them. ^{3:11}That no man is justified by the law in the sight of God is evident. For the just shall live by faith. ^{3:12}The law is not of faith: but the man that fulfilleth the things contained in the law, shall live in them.^c

^{3:13} ^d Christ hath delivered us from the curse of the law, and was made a cursed for us (for it is written: Cursed is everyone that hangeth on tree) ^{3:14}that the blessing of Abraham might come on the gentiles thorow Jesus Christ, ^e that we might receive the promise of the spirit thorow faith. ^{3:15}Brethren I will speak after the manner of men. Though it be but a man's testament, yet no man despiseth it, or addeth any thing thereto when it is once allowed.^f ^{3:16}To Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith^g not, in thy^h seeds as in many: But in thy seed, as in one, which is Christ. ^{3:17}This I say that the law which began afterward, beyond four hundred and thirty years, doth not disannul the testament, that was confirmed ⁱ of God unto Christ ward, to make the promise of none effect. ^{3:18}For if the inheritance come of the law, it cometh not of promise: but God gave it unto Abraham by promise. ^{3:19}Wherefore then serveth the law? The law was added because of transgression (till the seed came to which the promise was made) and it was ordained by angels in the hand of a mediator.^j ^{3:20}A mediator is not a mediator of one.^k But God is one. ^{3:21}Is the law then against the promise of God? unto them that believe. ^{3:23}Before that faith came, we were kept and shut up under the law, unto the faith which should afterward be declared. ^{3:24}Wherefore^m the law was our schoolmaster unto the time of Christ, that we might be made righteous by faith. ^{3:25}But after that faith is come, now are we no longer under a schoolmaster.ⁿ ^{3:26}For ye are all the sons^o of God, by the faith which is in Christ Jesus. ^{3:27}For all ye that^p are baptised, have put Christ on you.^q ^{3:28}Now is there no jew, neither greek:^r there is neither^s bond, neither^t free: there is neither man, neither^u woman: for all are one thing in Christ Jesu.^v ^{3:29}If ye be Christ's,^w then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs by promise.^x ^{4:1}And I say that the heir as long as he is a child differeth not from a servant, though he be lord of all,^y ^{4:2}but is under tutors and governors, until the time appointed of the father. ^{4:3}Even so we, as long as we were children, were in bondage under the ordinances of the world:^z ^{4:4}But when the time was full come,^a God sent his son born of a woman, and made bond unto^b the law, ^{4:5}to redeem them which were under the law: that we thorow election should^c receive the inheritance that belongeth unto the natural sons. ^{4:6}Because ye are sons,^d God hath sent the spirit of his son into our hearts, which crieth Abba father.^e ^{4:7}Wherefore now art thou not a servant, but a son. If thou be the son, thou art also the heir of God thorow Christ. ^{4:8}Notwithstanding, when ye knew not God, ye did service unto them, which by nature were not^f goddes: ^{4:9}But now seeing ye know God (yea rather are known of God) how is it that ye turn again unto the weak and beggarly ceremonies,^g whereunto again ye desire afresh to be in bondage? ^{4:10}Ye observe the days, and months, and times, and years. ^{4:11}I^h fear of you, lest I have bestowed on you labour in vain. ^{4:12}Brethren I beseech you, be ye as I am: for I am as ye are. Ye have not hurt me. ⁱ ^{4:13}Ye know well how that thorow infirmity of^j the flesh, I preached the gospel^k unto you at the first: ^{4:14}and my temptation which I suffered by reason of my flesh, ye despised not, neither abhorred: but received me as an angel of God: yea as^l Christ Jesus. ^{4:15}How happy were ye then? for I bear you record that if it had been possible, ye would have digged^m out your own eyes, and have given them to me. ^{4:16}Am I so greatlyⁿ become your enemy, because I tell you the truth? ^{4:17}They are jealous over you amiss.

The Epistle of Saint Paul unto the Ephesians

^{1:1}Paul an apostle of Jesu Christ, by the will of God. To the saints ^a at Ephesus, and to them which believe on Jesus Christ. ^{1:2}Grace be with you and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. ^{1:3}Blessed be God the father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which hath blessed us with all manner of spiritual blessings in heavenly things by Christ, ^{1:4}according as he had chosen us in him thorow love, before the foundation of the world was laid, that we should be saints, ^b and without blame in his sight. ^c ^{1:5}And ordained us before unto him self that we should be chosen to heirs ^d thorow Jesus Christ, ^e according to the pleasure of his will, ^{1:6}to the praise of his glorious grace, ^f where with he hath made us accepted in the beloved. ^{1:7}By whom we have redemption thorow his blood, that is to say ^g the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of his grace, ^{1:8}which grace he shed on us abundantly in all wisdom, and prudency. ⁱ ^{1:9}And hath opened unto us the mystery of his will according to his pleasure, and purposed ^{1:10}the same in himself to have it declared when the time were full come, that all things, both the things which are in heaven, and also the things which are in earth, should be gathered together, even in Christ: ^{1:11}that is to say in him in whom we are made heirs, and were thereto predestinate according to the purpose of him which worketh all things after the purpose ^j of his own will: ^{1:12}that we should be unto the praise of his glory, which before hoped ^k in Christ. ^{1:13}In whom also ye (after that ye heard the word of truth, I mean the gospel ^l of your health, ^m wherein ye believed) were sealed with the holy spirit of promise, ^{1:14}which is the earnest of our inheritance, to redeem the possession purchased ⁿ ^o unto the laud ^p of his glory. ^{1:15}Wherefore even I (after that I heard of the faith which ye have in the Lord Jesu, and love unto all the saints) ^{1:16}cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers, ^{1:17}that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the father of glory, might give unto you the spirit of wisdom, and open to you the knowledge of himself, ^{1:18}and lighten the eyes of your minds, ^q that ye might know what thing that hope is, whereunto he hath called you, ^r and how glorious the riches of his ^s inheritance is upon the saints, ^{1:19}and what is the exceeding greatness of his power to us ward, ^t which believe according to the working of that his mighty power, ^{1:20}which he wrought in Christ, when he raised him from death, ^u and set him on his right hand in heavenly things, ^{1:21}above all rule, power, and might, and domination, and above all names that are named, not in this world only, but also in the world to come. ^{1:22}And hath put all things under his feet, and hath made him above all things, the head of the congregation, ^{1:23}which is his body, and fullness of him, that filleth all in all things. ^{2:1}And hath quickened the means of the gospel,ⁿ 3:7 whereof I am made a minister, by the gift of the grace of God given unto me, after^o the working of his power. 3:8 Unto me the least of all saints is this grace given, that I should preach among the gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, 3:9 and to give light to^p all men,^q that they might know what is the fellowship of the mystery, which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God which made all things thorow Jesus Christ, 3:10 to the intent, that now unto the rulers and powers in heaven might be known by the congregation the manyfold wisdom of God, 3:11 according to that eternal purpose, which he purposed^r in Christ Jesu our Lord, 3:12 by whom we are bold to draw nigh in that trust, which we have by faith on him.^s 3:13 Wherefore I desire, that ye faint not because of mine^t tribulations which I suffer for you:^u which is your praise. 3:14 For this cause I bow my knees unto the father of our Lord Jesus Christ, 3:15 which is father^v over all that is called father In heaven and in earth, that he would grant you according to the riches of his glory, 3:16 that ye may be strengthened with might by his spirit in the inner man, 3:17 that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith, that ye being rooted and grounded in love, 3:18 might be able to comprehend with all saints, what is that breadth and length, depth and height:^w 3:19 and to know what is the love of Christ, which love passeth knowledge: that ye might be fulfilled with all manner of fullness which

cometh of God. 3:20 Unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly, above all that we ask or think,^x according to the power that worketh in us, 3:21 be praise in the congregation by^y Jesus Christ, thorow out all generations from time to time.^z Amen. 4:1 I therefore which am in bonds for the Lord's sake exhort you, that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called,^a 4:2 in all humbleness of mind, and meekness, and long suffering, forbearing one another thorow love, 4:3 and that ye be diligent to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace, 4:4 being one body, and one spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling. 4:5 Let there be but one Lord, one faith, one baptism: 4:6 one God and father of all, which is above all, thorow all, and in us all.^b 4:7 Unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ. 4:8 Wherefore he saith: He is gone up on high, and hath led^c captivity captive, and hath given gifts unto men. 4:9 That he ascended: what meaneth it,^d but that he also descended^e first into the lowest parts of the earth? 4:10 He that descended, is even the same also that ascended up, even above all heavens, to fulfil all things. 4:11 And the very same, made some Apostles, some Prophets, some Evangelists, some Shepherds, some Teachers: 4:12 that the saints might have all things necessary to work and minister withal, to the edifying of the body of Christ, 4:13 till we everyeachone (in the unity of faith,^f and knowledge of the son of God) grow up unto a perfect man, after the measure of age which is in^g the fullness of Christ.^h 4:14 That we henceforth be no more children wavering and carried with every wind of doctrine, by the wilinessⁱ of men and craftiness, whereby they lay a wait for us to deceive us. 4:15 But let us follow the truth in love, and in all things grow in him which is the head, that is to say Christ, 4:16 in whom all the body is coupled and knit together, in every joint, wherewith one ministereth to another (according to the operation as every part^j hath his measure) and increaseth the body,^k unto the edifying of itself in love. 4:17 This I say herefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other gentiles walk, in vanities^l of their mind, 4:18 blinded in their understanding, being strangers from the life which is in God, thorow the ignorancy that is in them, because of the blindness of their hearts: 4:19 which being past repentance have given themselves unto wantonness, to work all manner of uncleanness even with greediness. 4:20 But ye have not so learned Christ; 4:21 If so be ye have heard of him, and are taught in him, even as the truth is in Jesu: 4:22 so then as concerning the conversation in time past, lay from you that old man, which is corrupt thorow the deceivable lusts, 4:23 and be ye renewed in the spirit of your minds, 4:24 and put on that new man, which after a godly wise,^m is shapen in righteousness, and true holiness. 4:25 Wherefore put away lying, and speak every man truth unto his neighbor, forasmuch as we are members one of another. 4:26 Be angry, but sin not: let not the son go down upon your wrath, 4:27 give noⁿ place unto the backbiter, 4:28 let him that stole steal no more, but let him rather labour with his hands some good thing, that he may have to give unto him that needeth. 4:29 Let no filthy communication proceed out of your mouths: but that which is good to edify withal, when need is: that it may have favour with the hearers. 4:30 And grieve not the holy spirit of God, by whom ye are sealed unto the day of redemption. 4:31 Let all bitterness, fierceness and wrath, roaring and cursed speaking, be put away from you, with all maliciousness. 4:32 Be ye courteous one to another, be^o merciful forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's^p sake forgave you. 5:1 Be ye followers of God as dear children, 5:2 and walk in love even as Christ loved us, and gave himself for us, an offering and a sacrifice of a sweet savour to God. 5:3 So that fornication,^q and all uncleanness, or covetousness, be not once, named among you, as it becometh saints: 5:4 neither filthiness, neither foolish talking, neither jestings, which are not comely: but rather giving of thanks. 5:5 For this ye know, that no whoremonger, either unclean person, or covetous person (which is the worshipper of images) hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ, and of God. 5:6 Let no man deceive you with vain words. For thorow such things^r cometh the wrath of God upon the children of unbelief. 5:7 Be not therefore companions with them. 5:8 Ye were once darkness, but are now light in the Lord. Walk as children of light. 5:9 For the fruit of the spirit is, in all goodness, righteousness, and truth. 5:10 Accept that which^s is pleasing to the Lord: 5:11 and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness: but rather rebuke them. 5:12 For it is shame even to name those things which are done of them in secret: 5:13 but all things, when they are rebuked of the light, are manifest. For whatsoever is manifest, that same is light. 5:14 Wherefore he saith: awake thou that sleepest, and stand up from death, and Christ shall give thee light. 5:15 Take heed therefore that ye walk circumspectly: not as fools:^t but as wise, 5:16 redeeming the time: for the days

It grieveth me not to write the very same things unto^m you. For to you it is a sure thing. ^{3:2}Beware of dogs, beware of evil workers. Beware of dissension: ^{3:3}For we are circumcision which worship God in the spirit, and rejoyce in Christ Jesu, and have no confidence in the flesh: ^{3:4}though I have whereof I might rejoyce in the flesh. If any other man thinketh that he hath whereof he might trustⁿ in the flesh: much more I: ^{3:5}circumcised the eighth day, of the kindred^o of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin an Hebrew born of the Hebrews: as concerning the law, a pharisee, ^{3:6}and as concerning ferventness I persecuted the congregation, and as touching the righteousness which is in the law I was such a one as no man could complain on.^p ^{3:7}But the things that were winning^q unto me I counted loss for Christ's^r sake. ^{3:8}Yea I think all things but loss for that excellent knowledge's sake of Christ Jesu my Lord. For whom I have counted all thing loss, and do judge them but dung, that I might win Christ, ^{3:9}and might be found in him, not having mine own righteousness which is^s of the law: But that which springeth of the faith which is in Christ. I mean^t the righteousness which cometh of God thorow^u faith ^{3:10}in knowing him, and the virtue of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his passions, that I might be conformable unto his death, ^{3:11}if by any means I might attain unto the resurrection from death.^v ^{3:12}Not as though I had all ready received^w it, either were all ready perfect: but I follow, if that I may comprehend that, wherein I am comprehended of Christ Jesu. ^{3:13}Brethren I count not myself that I have gotten it: but one thing I say: I forget that which is behind me, and stretch myself unto that which is before me ^{3:14}and press unto that mark appointed, to obtain the reward of the high calling of God in Christ Jesu. ^{3:15}Let us therefore as many as be perfect be thus wise minded: and if ye be other wise minded, I pray God open even this unto you. ^{3:16}Nevertheless in that whereunto we are come, let us proceed by one rule, that we may be of one accord. ^{3:17}Brethren be followers of me, and look on them which walk even so, as ye have us for an ensample. ^{3:18}For many walk (of whom I have told you often, and now tell you weeping) that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ, ^{3:19}whose end is damnation, whose God is their belly and ^x glory ^y to their shame, which are worldly^z minded. ^{3:20}But our conversation is in heaven, from whence we look for the^a saviour ^b Jesus Christ, ^{3:21}which shall change into another fashion our vile bodies, that they may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able to subdue all things unto himself. ^{4:1}Herefore^c

The Epistle of Saint Paul the Apostle unto the Colossians

^{1:1}Paul an apostle of Jesu Christ by the will of God, and brother Timotheus. ^{1:2}To the saints which are at Colossa, and brethren that believe in Christ. Grace be with you and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesu Christ. ^{1:3}We give thanks to God the father of our Lord Jesus Christ alway praying for you in our prayers, ^{1:4}since we heard of your faith which ye have in Christ Jesu: and of the love which ye bear to all saints ^{1:5}for the hope's sake which is laid up in store for you in heaven, of which hope ye have heard ^a by the true word of the gospel, ^b ^{1:6}which is come unto you, even as it is into all the world, and is fruitful (and groweth) as it is among you, from the first day in the which ye heard of it, and had experience in^c the grace of God in the truth, ^{1:7}as ye learned of Epaphra our dear fellow servant, which is for you a faithful minister in^d Christ, ^{1:8}which also declared unto us your love, which ye have in the spirit. ^{1:9}For this cause we also, since the day we heard of it have not ceased praying for you, and desiring that ye might be fulfilled with the knowledge of his will, in all wisdom and spiritual understanding, ^{1:10}that ye might walk worthy of the Lord in all things that please, being fruitful in all good works and increasing in the knowledge of God ^{1:11}strengthened with all might, throw his glorious power,^e unto all patience, and long suffering, with joyfulness, ^{1:12}giving thanks unto the father which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of saints in light. ^{1:13}Which hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear son, ^{1:14}in whom we have redemption throw his blood, that is to say,^f forgiveness of sins, ^{1:15}which is the image of the invisible God, first begotten before^g all creatures: ^{1:16}for by him were all things created, things that are in heaven, and things that are in earth: things visible, and things invisible: whether they be majesty or lordship, either rule or power. ^{1:17}All things are created by him, and in him, and he is before all things, and in him all things have their being. ^{1:18}And he is the head of the body, that is to wit of the congregation, he is the beginning and first begotten of the dead, that in all things he might have the preeminence. ^{1:19}For it pleased the father that in him should all fullness dwell, ^{1:20}and by him to reconcile all things unto himself, and to set at peace by him throw the blood of his cross both things in heaven and things in earth. ^{1:21}And you (which were in times past strangers and enemies, because your minds were set in evil works) hath he now reconciled ^{1:22}in the body of his flesh throw death, to make you holy, and such as no man could complain on,^h and without fault in his own sight, ^{1:23}if ye continue grounded and stablished in the faith, and be not moved away from the hope of the gospel,ⁱ whereof ye have heard, how that it is preached among all creatures, which are under heaven, whereof I Paul am made a minister. ^{1:24}Now joy I in my passions^j which I suffer for you, and fulfil that which is behind of the afflictions^k of Christ in my flesh for his body's sake, which is the congregation, ^{1:25}whereof am I made a minister according to the ordinance of God,^l which ordinance was given me unto you ward, to fulfil the word of God,^m ^{1:26}that mystery hid since the world began, and since the beginning of generations: But now is opened to his saints, ^{1:27}to whom God would make known the glorious riches of this mystery among the gentiles, which riches is Christ in you, the hope of glory, ^{1:28}whom we preach warning all men, and teaching all men in all wisdom, to make all men perfect in Christ Jesu: ^{1:29}Wherein I also labour and strive, even as far forth as his working worketh in me mightily. ^{2:1}I would ye knew what fighting I have for your sakes and for them of Laodicia, and for as many as have not seen my person in the flesh, ^{2:2}that their hearts might be comforted and knit together in love, and in all riches of full understanding, for to know the mystery of God the father and of Christ ^{2:3}in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. ^{2:4}This I say lest any man should beguile you with enticing words. ^{2:5}For though I be absent in the flesh, yet am I present with you in the spirit joying and beholding the order that ye keep, and your steadfast faith in Christ. ^{2:6}As ye have therefore received Christ Jesu the Lord, even so walk rooted and built in him, ^{2:7}and steadfast in the faith, as ye have learned: and therein be plenteous in giving thanks. ^{2:8}Beware lest any man come and spoil you thorow philosophy and deceitful vanity, thorow the traditions of men, and ordinances after the world, and not after Christ. ^{2:9}For in him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily, ^{2:10}and ye are fullⁿ in him, which is the head of all rule and power, ^{2:11}in whom also ye are circumcised with circumcision made without hands, by putting off the sinful body off the flesh, thorow the circumcision that is in Christ, ^{2:12}in that ye are buried with him thorow baptism, in whom ye are also risen again thorow faith, that is wrought by the operation of God which raised him from death. ^{2:13}And hath with him quickened you also which were dead in sin in the uncircumcision of your flesh, and hath forgiven our trespasses,^o ^{2:14}and hath put out the obligation^p that was against us, made^q in the law written, and that hath he taken out of the way, and hath fastened it on^r his cross, ^{2:15}and hath spoiled rule and power, and hath made a shew of them openly, and hath triumphed over them in his own person. ^{2:16}Let no man therefore trouble your consciences about meat and drink: or for a piece of an holyday, as the holyday of the new moon or of the Sabbath day, ^{2:17}which are nothing but shadows of things to come: but the body is in Christ. ^{2:18}Let no man make you shoot at a wrong mark, which after his own imagination^s walketh in the humbleness and holiness^t of angels, things which he never saw: causeless^u puffed up with his^v fleshly mind, ^{2:19}and holdeth not the head, whereof all the body by joints and couples receiveth nourishment, and is knit together, and increaseth with the increasing^w that cometh of God. ^{2:20}Wherefore if ye be dead with Christ from doctrine^x of the world: Why as though ye yet lived in the world, are ye led with traditions of them that say? ^{2:21}Touch not; Taste not; Handle not: ^{2:22}which all perish with the using of them, and are after^y the commandments, and doctrines of men: ^{2:23}which things have the similitude^z of wisdom in chosen holiness,^a and humbleness, and in that they spare not the body, and do the flesh no worship unto his need. ^{3:1}If ye be then risen again with Christ seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. ^{3:2}Set your affection^b on things that are above, and not on things which are on the earth. ^{3:3}For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God. ^{3:4}When Christ

The .i. Epistle of Saint Paul the Apostle unto the Thessalonians

^{1:1}Paul Silvanus and Timotheus. Unto the congregation of the Thessalonians, in God the father, and in the Lord Jesus Christ. Grace be with you, and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. ^{1:2}We give God thanks alway^a for you all, making mention of you in our prayers ^{1:3}without ceasing, and call to remembrance your work in the faith, and labour in love and perseverance^b in the hope of our Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God our father: ^{1:4}because we know brethren beloved of God, how that ye are elect. ^{1:5}For our gospel^c came not unto you in word only, but also in power, and also in the holy ghost and in much certainty, as ye know that^d we behaved ourselves among you, for your sakes. ^{1:6}And ye counterfeited^e us, and of the Lord: and received the word in much affliction, with joy of the holy ghost: ^{1:7}so that ye were an example to all that believe in Macedonia, and Achaia. ^{1:8}For from you sounded^f out the word of the Lord, not in Macedonia and in Achaia only: but your faith also which ye have unto God, spread herself abroad in all quarters, so greatly that it needeth not us to speak anything at all: ^{1:9}for they themselves shew of you what manner of entering in we had unto you, and how ye turned to God from images for to serve the living and true God, ^{1:10}and for to look for his son from heaven, whom he raised from death: I mean Jesus which delivereth us from wrath to come. ^{2:1}For ye yourselves brethren know of our entrance in unto you, how that it was not in vain: ^{2:2}but even after that we had suffered before and were shamefully entreated at Philippos (as ye well know) then were we bold in our God to speak unto you the gospel^g of God, with much striving. ^{2:3}Our exhortation was not to bring you to error, nor yet to uncleanness, neither was it with guile: ^{2:4}but as we were allowed of God, that the gospel^h should be committed unto us: even so we speak, not as though we intended to please men, but God, which trieth our hearts. ^{2:5}Neither was our conversation at any time with flattering words (as ye well know) neither in cloaked covetousness,ⁱ God is record: ^{2:6}neither sought we praise of men, neither of you, nor yet of any other,^j when we might have been chargeable, as the apostles of Christ: ^{2:7}but were tender among you, even as a nurse cherisheth her children, ^{2:8}so was our^k affection toward you our good will was to have dealt unto you, not the gospel^l of God only: but also our own souls,^m because ye were dear unto us. ^{2:9}Ye remember brethren our labour and travail. For we labouredⁿ day and night, because we would not be grievous^o unto any of you, and preached^p you the gospel^q of God. ^{2:10}Ye are witnesses, and so is God, how holily and justly (that no man could blame us)^r we behaved ourselves among you that believe, ^{2:11}as ye know how that we exhorted and comforted, and besought every one of you, as a father his children, ^{2:12}that ye would walk worthy of the Lord,^s which hath called you unto his kingdom and glory. ^{2:13}For this cause thank we God without ceasing, because that when ye received of us the word, wherewith God was preached, ye received it not as the word of man: but even as it was in deed,^t the word of God, which worketh in you that believe. ^{2:14}For ye brethren did counterfeit^u the congregations of God which in Jewry are in Christ Jesu: for ye have suffered like things of your kinsmen, as we our selves have suffered of the jews,^{2:15} which as they killed the Lord Jesus and their own prophets, even so have they persecuted us, and God they please not, and are contrary to all men: ^{2:16}and forbid us to preach^v unto the gentiles, that they might be saved, to fulfil their sins: ^wFor the wrath of God is come on them, even to^x the utmost. ^{2:17}Forasmuch brethren as we are kept from you for a season, as concerning the bodily presence but not in the heart, we enforced^y the more to see you personally with great desire, ^{2:18}and therefore we would have come unto you, I Paul once and again: but Satan withstood us. ^{2:19}For what is our hope or joy, or crown of rejoicing? are not ye it in the presence^z of our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming? ^{2:20}Yea ye are our glory^a and joy. ^{3:1}Wherefore since we could no longer forbear, it pleased us^b to remain at Athens alone, ^{3:2}and sent Timotheus our brother and minister of God, and our labour fellow^c in the gospel^d of Christ, to stablish you, and to comfort you over your faith, ^{3:3}that no man should be moved in these afflictions.^e For ye yourselves know that we are even appointed thereunto. ^{3:4}For verily when I was with you, I told you before that we should suffer tribulation even as it came to pass, and as ye know. ^{3:5}For this cause, when^f I could no longer forbear, I sent that I might have knowledge of your faith, lest haply the tempter had tempted you, and that our labour had been bestowed in vain. ^{3:6}^g Now lately when Timotheus came from you unto us and declared to us^h your faith, and your love, and how that ye have good remembrance of us always, desiring to see us, as we desireⁱ to see you. ^{3:7}Therefore brethren had I^j consolation in you, in all our adversity, and necessity through your faith. ^{3:8}For now are we alive if ye stand steadfast in the Lord. ^{3:9}For what thanks can we recompense to God again for you, over all the joy that we joy for your sakes^k before our God, ^{3:10}while we night and day pray exceedingly, that we might see you presently, and might fulfil that which is lacking in your faith. ^{3:11}God himself our father, and our Lord Jesus Christ guide our journey unto you: ^{3:12}and the Lord increase you, and make you flow over in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you, ^{3:13}to stablish^l your hearts that they might be without ought to be complained on,^m in holiness before God our father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, with all his saints. ^{4:1}Furthermore we beseech you brethren, and exhort you in the Lord Jesus, that ye increase more and more, even as ye have received of us, how ye ought to walk and to please God. ^{4:2}Ye

The second Epistle of S. Paul the Apostle to the Thessalonians

^{1:1}Paul, Sylvanus and Timotheus. Unto the congregation of the Thessalonians, which are in God our father, and in the Lord Jesus Christ. ^{1:2}Grace be with you and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. ^{1:3}We are bound to thank God always for you brethren, as it is meet, because that your faith groweth exceedingly, and every one of you swimmeth in love^a toward another between yourselves, ^{1:4}so that we ourselves rejoyce^b of you in the congregations of God, over^c your patience and faith in all your persecutions, and tribulations^d that ye suffer: ^{1:5}which is a token of the righteous judgment of God, that ye are counted worthy of the kingdom of God, for which ye also suffer. ^{1:6}It is verily^e a righteous thing with God, to recompense tribulation to them that trouble you: ^{1:7}and to you which are troubled rest with us, when the Lord Jesus (The Messiah) shall shew himself from heaven, with his mighty angels,^f ^{1:8}in^g flaming fire, rendering^h vengeance unto them that know not God, and to them that obey not unto the gospelⁱ of our Lord Jesus Christ, ^{1:9}which shall be punished with everlasting damnation, from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power, ^{1:10}when he shall come to be glorified in his saints, and to be made marvelous in all them that believe: because our testimony that we had unto you, was believed even the same

For all men have not faith: ^{3:3}but the Lord is faithful, which shall stablish you, and keep you from evil. ^{3:4}We have confidence thorow^c the Lord to you ward, that ye both do, and will do, that which we command you. ^{3:5}And the Lord guide your hearts unto the love of God, and patience of Christ. ^{3:6}We require you brethren in the name of our Lord Jesu Christ, that ye withdraw yourselves from every brother that walketh inordinately, and not after the institution which ye^d received of us. ^{3:7}Ye yourselves know how ye ought to counterfeit^e us: For we behaved not ourselves inordinately among you. ^{3:8}Neither took we bread of any man for nought: but wrought with labour and travail night and day, because we would not be grievous^f to any of you: ^{3:9}not but that we had authority: but to make ourselves an ensample unto you, to counterfeit^g us. ^{3:10}For when we were with you, this we warned you of, that if there were any which would not work, that the same should not eat. ^{3:11}We have heard say no doubt^h that there are some which walk among you inordinately, and work not at all, but are busybodies. ^{3:12}Them that are such, we command and exhort in the name ofⁱ our Lord Jesu Christ, that they work with quietness, and eat their^j bread. ^{3:13}Brethren be not weary in well doing. ^{3:14}If any man obey not our sayings, send us word of him by a letter: and have no company^k with him, that he may be ashamed: ^{3:15}And count him not as an enemy: but warn him as a brother. ^{3:16}The very Lord of peace, give you peace always, by all means. The Lord be with you all. ^{3:17}The salutation of me Paul with mine own hand. This is the token in all pistels.^l So I write. ^{3:18}The grace of our Lord Jesus be with you all Amen.

The first Epistle of Saint Paul to Timothy

^{1:1}Paul an apostle of Jesus Christ, by^a the commandment of God our saviour, and of the Lord Jesu^b Christ, which is our hope. ^{1:2}Unto Timothy his^c natural son in the faith. Grace mercy and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesu Christ.^d ^{1:3}As I besought thee to abide still in Ephesus when I departed into Macedonia, even so do that thou command some that they teach no other wise: ^{1:4}neither give heed to fables and genealogies, which are endless, and breed doubts, more than Godly edifying^e which is by faith: ^{1:5}for the end^f of the commandment is love that cometh of a pure heart and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned: ^{1:6}from the which things, some have erred, and have turned unto vain jangling, ^{1:7}because they would^g be doctors in^h the scripture, and yet understand not what they speak, neither whereof they affirm. ^{1:8}We know that the law is god,ⁱ if a man use it lawfully, ^{1:9}understanding this, how that the law is not given unto a righteous man, but unto the unrighteous and disobedient, to the ungodly and to sinners, to unholy and unclean, to murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, to manslayers ^{1:10}and whoremongers: to them that defile themselves with mankind: to menstealers: to liars and to perjured, and so forth if there be any other thing that is contrary to wholesome doctrine ^{1:11}according to the glorious gospel of the holy God,^j which gospel^k is committed unto me. ^{1:12}And I thank him that hath made me strong in Christ Jesu our Lord:^l for he counted me true, and put me in office, ^{1:13}when before I was a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and a tyrant. Nevertheless^m I obtained mercy because I did it ignorantly, inⁿ unbelief: ^{1:14}but^o the grace of our Lord was more abundant, with faith and love, which is in Christ Jesu. ^{1:15}This is a true saying, and by all means worthy to be received, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief: ^{1:16}Notwithstanding unto me was mercy given,^p that Jesus Christ should first^r shew on^s me all long patience, unto the ensample of them which shall in time to come believe on^t him unto eternal life. ^{1:17}So then unto God, King everlasting, immortal, invisible, and wise only, be honour and praise for ever and ever Amen. ^{1:18}This commandment commit I unto thee son Timotheus, according to the prophecies which in time past were prophesied of thee, that thou in them shouldest fight a good fight, ^{1:19}having faith and good conscience, which some have put away from them, and as concerning faith have made shipwreck. ^{1:20}Of whose number is Himeneus, and Alexander, which I have delivered unto Satan, that they might be taught not^u to blaspheme. ^{2:1}I exhort therefore that above all things prayers, supplications, petitions,^v and giving of thanks, be had for all men: ^{2:2}for kings, and for all that are in preeminence,^w that we may live a quiet and a peaceable life, in all godliness and honesty. ^{2:3}For that is good and accepted in the sight of god our saviour, ^{2:4}which would^x have all men saved, and ^y come unto the knowledge of the truth. ^{2:5}For there is one God, and one mediator between God and man, which is^z the man Christ Jesus, ^{2:6}which gave himself a ransom for all men, that it should be preached^a at his time, ^{2:7}whereunto I am appointed^b a preacher, and an apostle (I tell the truth in Christ and lie not) being the teacher of the gentiles in faith and verity.^c ^{2:8}I woll^d therefore that the men pray every where, lifting up pure hands without wrath, or arguing.^e ^{2:9}Likewise also the women that they array themselves in mannerly^f apparel with shamefastness, and honest^g behavior, not with broided hair, other gold, or pearls, or costly array: ^{2:10}but with such as becometh women that profess the worshipping of God thorow good works.^h ^{2:11}Let the woman learn in silence with all subjection. ^{2:12}I suffer not a woman to teach, neither to have authority over the man: but for to be in silence. ^{2:13}For Adam was first formed, and then Eve. ^{2:14}Also Adam was not deceived, but the woman was deceived, and was inⁱ transgression. ^{2:15}Notwithstanding they shall deacons^w be the husbands of one wife^x and such as rule their children well, and their own households. ^{3:13}For they that minister well, get themselves good degree, and great liberty in the faith, which is in Christ Jesu. ^{3:14}These things write I unto thee, trusting to come shortly unto thee. ^{3:15}And if I come not,^y that ^z thou mayst yet have knowledge how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the congregation of the living God, the pillar and ground of truth. ^{3:16}And without nay great is that mystery of godliness. God was shewed in the flesh, was justified in the spirit, was seen of angels, was preached unto the gentiles, was believed on in earth and received up in glory. ^{4:1}The spirit speaketh evidently that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, and shall give heed unto spirits of error, ^{4:2}and devilish doctrine of them which speak false thorow hypocrisy, and have their consciences marked with an hot iron, ^{4:3}forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from meats, which God hath created to be received with giving thanks, of them which believe, and know the truth, ^{4:4}for all the creatures of God are good: and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving: ^{4:5}For it is sanctified by the word of God, and prayer. ^{4:6}If thou shalt put the brethren in remembrance of these things, thou shalt be a good minister of Jesu Christ which hath been nourished up in the words of the faith, and good doctrine, which doctrine thou hast continually followed. ^{4:7}But cast away unghostly and old wives' fables. Exercise thyself unto godliness. ^{4:8}For bodily exercise profiteth little: But godliness is good^a unto all things, as a thing which hath promises of the life that is now, and of the life to come. ^{4:9}This is a sure saying, and of all parties worthy to be received. ^{4:10}For therefore we labour and suffer rebuke, because we believe^b in the living God, which is the saviour of all men: but specially of those that believe. ^{4:11}Such things command and teach. ^{4:12}Let no man despise thy youth: but be unto them that believe, an ensample, in word, in conversation, in love, in spirit, in faith and in pureness. ^{4:13}Till I come give attendance to reading, to exhortation, and to doctrine. ^{4:14}Despise not^c the gift that is in thee, which was given thee thorow prophecy, and with laying on of the hands of a senior.^d ^{4:15}These things exercise, and give thyself unto them, that all men may see^e how thou profitest. ^f ^{4:16}Take heed unto thyself and unto learning, and continue therein.^g For if thou shalt so do thou shalt save thyself, and them that hear thee. ^{5:1}Rebuke not a senior:^h but exhort him as a father, and the younger men as brethren, ^{5:2}the elder women as mothers, the younger as sisters, with all pureness. ^{5:3}Honour widows which are true widows. ^{5:4}If any widow have children or nephews, let them learn first to rule their own houses godly, and to recompense their elders. For that is good and acceptable before God. ^{5:5}She that is a very widow, and friendless,ⁱ putteth her trust in God, and continueth in supplication and prayer night and day: ^{5:6}but she that liveth in pleasure, is dead even yet alive. ^{5:7}And such^j things command, that they may be without fault.^k ^{5:8}If there be any^l that provideth not for his own, and namely^m

For when they have begun to wax wanton, to the dishonour of^s Christ, then will they marry, ^{5:12}having damnation, because they have despised^t their first faith. ^{5:13}And also they learn to go^u from house to house idle, yea not idle only, but also trifling and busybodies, speaking things which are not comely. ^{5:14}I will therefore that the younger women marry and bear children, and guide the house, and give none occasion to the adversary to speak evil. ^{5:15}For many of them are all ready turned back, and are gone after Satan. ^{5:16}And if any man or woman that believeth have widows, let them minister unto^v them, and let not the congregation be charged: that it^w may have sufficient^x for them that are widows in deed. ^{5:17}The seniors^y that rule well are worthy of double honour, most specially they which labour in the word and in teaching. ^{5:18}For the scripture saith: Thou shalt not muzzle^z the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn. The second Epistle of S. Paul the Apostle unto Timothy

^{1:1}Paul an apostle of Jesu Christ, by the will of God, to preach the promise of life, which life is in Christ Jesu. ^{1:2}To Timothy his^a beloved son. Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the father, and from Jesus^b Christ our Lord. ^{1:3}I thank God, whom I serve from mine elders with pure conscience, that without ceasing I make mention of thee in my prayers night and day, ^{1:4}desiring^c to see thee, mindful of^d thy tears: so that I am filled with joy, ^{1:5}when I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice: and am assured that it dwelleth in thee also. ^{1:6}Wherefore I warn thee that thou stir up the gift of God which is in thee, by the putting on of my hands. ^{1:7}For God hath not given to us the spirit of fear: but of power, and of love, and of honest behavior.^{ef} ^{1:8}Be not ashamed to testify our Lord, neither be ashamed of me, which am bound for his sake:^g but suffer^h adversity with the gospelⁱ also thorow^j the power of God, ^{1:9}which saved us, and called us with an holy calling, not after^k our deeds, but for^l his^m purpose and grace, which grace was given us thorow Christ Jesu before the world was, ^{1:10}but is now declared openly by the appearing of our saviour Jesu Christ, which hath put away death,ⁿ and hath brought life and immortality unto light thorow the gospel,^o ^{1:11}whereunto I am appointed a preacher, and an apostle, and a teacher of the gentiles: ^{1:12}for the which cause I also suffer this.^p Nevertheless I am not ashamed. For I know whom I have believed, and am sure that he is able keep that which I have committed to his keeping against that day. ^{1:13}See thou have the example of the wholesome words which thou heardest of me, in^q faith and love which is in Jesu Christ. ^{1:14}That^r good thing which was committed to thy keeping, keep in^s the holy ghost which dwelleth in us. ^{1:15}This thou knowest how that all they which are in Asia be turned from me. Of which sort are Phigellos and Hermogenes. ^{1:16}The Lord give mercy unto the house of Onesiphorus, for he often refreshed me, and was not ashamed of my chain: ^{1:17}but when he was at Rome he sought me out very diligently, and found me. ^{1:18}The Lord grant unto him that he may find mercy with the Lord at that day. that laboureth must first receive of^v the fruits. ^{2:7}Consider what I say. The Lord give thee understanding in all things. ^{2:8}Remember that Jesus Christ being of the seed of David, rose again from death according to my gospel,^w ^{2:9}wherein I suffer trouble as an evil doer, even unto bonds. But the word of God was not bound. ^{2:10}Herefore I suffer all things, for the elects' sakes, that they might also obtain that health^x which is in Christ Jesu, with eternal glory. ^{2:11}It is a true saying: If we be dead with him, we also shall live with him; ^{2:12}If we be patient, we shall also reign with him; If we deny him, he also shall deny us; ^{2:13}If we believe not, yet abideth he faithful; He cannot deny himself. ^{2:14}Of these things put them in remembrance, and testify before the Lord, that they strive not about words, which is to no profit, but to pervert the hearers. ^{2:15}Study to shew thyself laudable unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, dividing the word of truth justly. ^{2:16}Unghostly and vain voices pass over. The Epistle of Saint Paul unto Philemon ¹Paul the prisoner of Jesu Christ, and brother Timotheus. Unto Philemon the beloved, and our helper, ²and to the beloved Appia, and to Archippus our fellow soldier, and to the congregation of thy house. ³Grace be with you and peace, from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. ⁴I thank my God always making mention always of thee in my prayers, ⁵when^a I hear of thy love and faith, which thou hast toward the Lord Jesu, and toward all saints: ⁶so that the fellowship that thou hast in the faith is fruitful thorow knowledge of all good things,^b which are in you by Jesus Christ. ⁷And we have great joy^c and consolation over thy love: For by thee brother, the saints' hearts are comforted.^d ⁸Wherefore though I be bold^e in Christ to enjoin^f thee, that which becometh thee: ⁹yet for love's sake I rather beseech thee,^g though I be as I am, even Paul aged, and now in bonds for Jesu Christ's^h sake. ¹⁰I beseechⁱ thee for my son Onesimus, whom I begat^j in my bonds, ¹¹which in time passed was to thee unprofitable: but now profitable both to thee and also to me, ¹²whom I have sent home again. Thou therefore receive him, that is to say mine own bowels, ¹³whom I would fain have retained^k with me, that in thy stead he might have ministered unto me in the bonds of the gospel.^l ¹⁴Nevertheless, without thy mind, would I do nothing, that that^m good which springeth of thee should not be as it were of necessity,ⁿ but willingly. ¹⁵Haply he therefore departed for a season, that thou shouldest receive him for ever, ¹⁶not now as a servant: but above a servant, I mean^o a brother beloved, specially to me: but how much more unto thee, both in the flesh, and also in the Lord? ¹⁷If thou count me a fellow,^p receive him^q as myself. ¹⁸If he have hurt thee or oweth thee ought, that lay to my charge. ¹⁹I Paul have written it with mine own hand. I will recompense it. So that I do not say to thee how that thou owest unto me even thine own self. ²⁰Even so brother, let me enjoy thee in the Lord. Comfort my bowels^r in the Lord. ²¹Trusting in thine obedience, I wrote unto thee, knowing that thou wilt do more than I say for. ²²Moreover prepare me lodging: for I trust^s thorow the help of your prayers, I shall be given unto you. ²³There salute thee, Epaphras my fellow prisoner in Christe Jesu; ²⁴Marcus, Aristarchus, Demas, Lucas, my helpers. ²⁵The grace of our Lord Jesu Christ be with your spirits, Amen.

The Epistle of S. Paul unto the Hebrews

^{1:1}God in time past diversely and many ways, spake unto the fathers by prophets: ^{1:2}but in these last days he hath spoken unto us by his son, whom he hath made heir of all things: by whom also he made the world. ^{1:3}Which son being the brightness of his glory, and very image of his substance, bearing up all things with the word of his power, hath in his own person purged our sins, and is sitten on the right hand of the majesty on high, ^{1:4}and is more excellent than the angels, inasmuch as he hath by inheritance obtained an excellent^a name then have they. ^{1:5}For unto which of the angels said he at any time: Thou art my son, this day begat I^b thee? And again: I will be his father, and he shall be my son. ^{1:6}And again when he bringeth in the first begotten son in^c the world, he saith: And all the angels of God shall worship him. ^{1:7}And unto^d the angels he saith: He maketh his angels spirits, and his ministers flames of fire. ^{1:8}But unto the son he saith: God thy seat shall be^e for ever, and ever. The sceptre of thy kingdom is a right sceptre. ^{1:9}Thou hast loved righteousness and hated iniquity: Wherefore hath God, which is thy God,^f anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows. ^{1:10}And thou Lord in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth: And the heavens are the works of thy hands. ^{1:11}They shall perish, but thou shalt endure. They all shall wax old as doth a garment: ^{1:12}and as a vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall be changed: but thou art the same,^g and thy years shall not fail. ^{1:13}Unto which of the angels said he at any time? Sit on my right hand till I make thine enemies thy footstool. ^{1:14}Are they not all spirits to do service,^h sent for to minister for their sakes, which shall be heirs of health?ⁱ ^{2:1}Wherefore we ought much more to attend unto those^j things which we have heard, lest we perish. ^{2:2}For if the word which was spoken by angels was steadfast: and^k every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense to reward: ^{2:3}how shall we escape if we despise so great health?^l which at the first began to be preached of^m the Lord himself, and after ward was confirmed unto us ward,ⁿ by them that heard it; ^{2:4}God bearing witness thereto, both with signs^o and wonders also, and with divers miracles,^p and gifts of the holy ghost, according to his own will. ^{2:5}He hath not unto the angels put in subjection the world to come, whereof we speak: ^{2:6}but one in a certain place witnessed, saying: What is man, that thou art mindful of him: other the son of man, that thou visitest him?^q ^{2:7}After thou hadst for a season made him lower than the angels: thou crownedst him with honour and glory, and hast set him above the works of thy hands. ^{2:8}Thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet. But it profited not^u them that they heard the word, because they which heard it coupled it not with faith.^v 4:3 ^w We which have believed, do enter into his rest, as contrary wise^x he said to the other: as I have sworn in my wrath, they shall not enter into my rest. And that spake he verily long after that the works were made, from^y the foundation of the world laid.^z 4:4 For he spake in a certain place of the seventh day, on this wise: And God did rest^a the seventh day from all his works. 4:5 And in this place again: They shall not come into my rest. 4:6 Seeing therefore it followeth that some must enter thereinto, and they to whom it was first preached, entered not therein for unbelief's sake. 4:7 Again he appointeth in David a certain present day after so long a time, saying as it is rehearsed: this day if ye hear his voice, be not hard hearted. 4:8 For if Josue^b had given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day. 4:9 There remaineth therefore yet a rest to the people of God. 4:10 For he that is entered into his rest doth cease from his own works, as God did from his. 4:11 Let us study^c therefore to enter into that rest, lest any man fall^d into such an ensample of^e unbelief: 4:12 for the word of God is quick, and mighty in operation, and sharper than any two edged sword: and entereth through, even unto the dividing a sunder of the soul and the spirit and of the joints, and the mary: and judgeth the thoughts and the intents of the heart. 4:13 Neither is there any creature invisible in the sight of it: but^g all things are naked and bare unto the eyes of him, of whom we speak. 4:14 Seeing then that we have a great high priest which is entered into heaven (I mean Jesus the son of God) let us keep^h our profession. (of our hope) 4:15 For we have not an high priest, which cannot have compassion on our infirmities: but was in all points tempted,ⁱ in like manner:^j but yet without sin. 4:16 Let us therefore go boldly unto the seat of grace, that we may receive mercy, and find grace to help in time of need. 5:1 For every high priest that is taken from among men, is ordained for men, in things pertaining to God: to offer gifts and sacrifices for sins: 5:2 which can have compassion on the ignorant, and on them that are out of the high way, because that he himself also is compassed with infirmity: ^{5:3}For the which infirmities sake, he is bound^k to offer for sins, as well for his own part, as for the peoples. ^{5:4}¹ No man taketh honour unto himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron. ^{5:5}Even so likewise Christ honored not himself, that he might be the high priest: but he glorified him that said unto him:^m thou art my son, this day begat I thee.ⁿ ^{5:6}As he also in another place speaketh:^o Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchisedech. ^{5:7}Which in the days of his flesh, did offer up prayers and supplications, with strong crying and tears unto him that was able to save him from death: and was also heard, because he had God in reverence.^{p,q} ^{5:8}And though he were God's son,^r yet learned he obedience, by those things which he suffered, ^{5:9}and was made perfect, and the cause of eternal^s health^t unto all them that obey him: ^{5:10}and is called of God the^u high priest,^v after the order of Melchisedech. ^{5:11}Whereof we have many things to say which are hard to be uttered: because ye are dull of hearing. ^{5:12}For when as concerning the time, ye ought to be teachers, yet have ye need again that we teach you the first principles^w of the word of God: and are become such as have need of milk, and not of strong meat: ^{5:13}For every man that is fed with milk is inexpert in the word of righteousness: For he is but a babe. ^{5:14}But strong meat belongeth to them that are perfect, which thorow custom have their wits exercised, to judge both good and evil also. ^{6:1}Wherefore let us leave the doctrine pertaining to the beginning of a Christian man, and let us go unto perfection, and now no more lay the foundation of repentance from dead works, and of faith toward God, ^{6:2}of baptism, of doctrine, and of laying on of hands, and of resurrection from death,^x and of eternal judgement. ^{6:3}And so will we do, if God permit. ^{6:4}For it is not possible that they, which were once lighted, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were become partakers of the holy ghost, ^{6:5}and have tasted of the good word of God, and of the power of the world to come: ^{6:6}if they fall,^y should be renewed again unto repentance: Forasmuch as they have (as concerning them selves) crucified the son of God afresh, making a mock of him. ^{6:7}For that earth which drinketh in the rain which cometh often upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them that dress it, receiveth blessing of God: ^{6:8}but that ground, which beareth thorns and briars, is reproveth,^z and is nigh unto cursing: whose end is to be burned. ^{6:9}Nevertheless dear friends,^a we trust to see better of you, and things which accompany health,^{b,c} though we thus speak. ^{6:10}For God is not unrighteous that he should forget your work, and labour that proceedeth of love, which love shewed in his name, which have ministered unto the saints, and yet minister. ^{6:11}Yea, and we desire that every one of you shew the same diligence, to the increase of the faith,^d even unto the end: ^{6:12}that ye faint not, but counterfeit^e them, which throw faith and patience inherit the promises. ^{6:13}For when God made promise to Abraham, because he had no greater thing to swear by, he swore by himself, ^{6:14}saying: Surely I will bless thee, and multiply thee in deed. ^{6:15}And so after that he had tarried a long time, he enjoyed^f the promises. ^{6:16}Men verily swear by him that is greater than themselves; And an oath to confirm the thing, is among them an end of all strife. ^{6:17}So God willing very abundantly to shew unto the heirs of promise, the stableness of his counsel,^g he added an oath, ^{6:18}that by two immutable things (in which it was impossible that God should lie) we might have perfect^h consolation, which haveⁱ fled, for to hold fast the hope that is set before our faces,^j ^{6:19}which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast. Which hope also entereth in, into those things which are within the veil, ^{6:20}whither the forerunner is for us entered in, I mean Jesus that is made an high priest for ever, after the order of Melchisedech. ^{7:1}This Melchisedech king of Salem (which being priest of the most high^k God, met Abraham, as he returned again from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him: ^{7:2}to whom also Abraham gave tithes of all things) first is by interpretation king of righteousness, after that he is king of Salem, that is to say king of peace, ^{7:3}without father, without mother, without kin, and hath neither beginning of his time,^l neither yet end of his life: but is likened unto the son of God, and remaineth^m a priest for ever. ^{7:4}Consider whatⁿ a man this was, unto whom the patriarch Abraham gave tithes of the spoils. ^{7:5}And verily those children of Levi, which receive the office of the priests,^o have a commandment to take according to the law, tithes of the people, that is to say, of their brethren, yea though they sprung^p out of the loins of Abraham. ^{7:6}But he whose kindred is not counted among them, received tithes of Abraham, and blessed him that had the promises. ^{7:7}And no man denieth but that which is less,^q receiveth blessing of that^r which is greater.^s ^{7:8}And here men that die receive tithes. But there he receiveth tithes of whom it is witnessed, that he liveth. ^{7:9}And to say the truth, Levi him self also which receiveth tithes, paid tithes in Abraham. ^{7:10}For he was yet in the loins of his father Abraham, when Melchisedech met him. ^{7:11}If now therefore perfection came by the priesthood of the levites (for under that priesthood the people received the law) what needed it furthermore that another priest should rise, after the order of Melchisedech, and not after the order of Aaron? ^{7:12}Now no doubt, if the priesthood be translated, then of necessity must the law be translated also. ^{7:13}For he of whom these things are spoken, pertaineth unto another tribe, of which, never man served at the altar. ^{7:14}For it is evident that our Lord sprung of the tribe of Juda, of^t which tribe spake Moses nothing concerning priesthood. ^{7:15}And it is yet a more evident thing, if after the similitude of Melchisedech there arise another priest,^{7:16} which is not made after the law of the carnal commandment: but after the power of the endless life. ^{7:17}For he testifieth: Thou art a priest for ever, after the order of Melchisedech. ^{7:18}Then the commandment that went afore, is disannulled, because of his^u weakness and unprofitableness. ^{7:19}For the law made no thing perfect: but was an introduction of a better hope, by which hope, we draw nigh unto God. ^{7:20} And for this cause it is a better hope, that it was not promised without an oath. ^{7:21} Those priests were made without an oath: but this priest with an oath, by him that said unto him: The Lord sware, and will not repent: Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchisedech: ^{7:22} And for that cause was Jesus^v a stablisher of^w a better testament. ^{7:23} And among them many were made priests, because they were not suffered to endure by the reason of death. ^{7:24} But this man, because he endureth ever, hath an everlasting priesthood: ^{7:25} Wherefore he is able also ever to save them that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth, to make intercession for us. ^{7:26} Such an high priest it becometh^x us to have, which is wholly,^y harmless,^z undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than heaven. ^{7:27} Which needeth not daily (as yonder high priests) to offer up sacrifice, first for his own sins, and then for the people's sins. For that did he at once for all, when he offered up himself: ^{7:28} For the law maketh men priests, which have infirmity: but the word of the oath that came since the law, maketh the son priest, which is perfect for evermore. ^{8:1} Of the things which we have spoken, this is the pith: that we have such an high^a priest that is sitten on the right hand of the seat of majesty in heaven, ^{8:2} and is a minister of wholly^b things, and of the very^c tabernacle, which God pight,^d and not man. ^{8:3} For every high^e priest is ordained to offer gifts and sacrifices: wherefore it is of necessity, that this man have some what also to offer. ^{8:4} For he were not a priest, if he were on the earth where are priests that according to the law offer gifts, ^{8:5} which priests serve unto the ensample and shadow of heavenly things: even as the answer of God was given unto Moses when he was about to finish the tabernacle: For take heed (said he) that thou make all things according to the patron shewed to thee in the mount. ^{8:6} Now hath he (our sanctifier Iesus The Christ) obtained a more excellent office, inasmuch as he is the mediator of a better testament, which was made for better promises. ^{8:7} For if that first testament had been such a one that no man could have found fault with it:^f then should no place have been sought for the second. ^{8:8} For in rebuking them he saith: Behold the days will come (saith the Lord) and I will finish upon the house of Israel, and upon the house of Judah, a new testament: ^{8:9} not like^g the testament that^h I made with their fathers at that time, when I took them by the hands, to lead them out of the land of Egypt, for they continued not in my testament, and I regarded them not saith the Lord. ^{8:10} For this is the testament that I will make with the house of Israel: After those days (saith the Lord:) I will putⁱ my laws in their minds,^j and in their hearts, I will write them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. ^{8:11} And they shall not teach, every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying: know the Lord: For they shall know me, from the least to the most of them: ^{8:12} For I will be merciful over their iniquities: and on their sins and on their unrighteousness, will I not think any more.^k ^{8:13} In that he saith a new testament, he hath abrogate^l the old. old, is ready to vanish away. ^{9:1}That first tabernacle verily had justifyingⁿ, and servings of God, and worldly^o holiness. ^{9:2}For that first tabernacle was made,^p wherein was the candlestick, and the table, and the shew bread, which is called wholly.^q ^{9:3}Within^s the second veil was the tabernacle,^t which is called holiest of all, ^{9:4}which had the golden censer, and the ark of the testament overlaid round about with gold, wherein was the golden pot with Manna, and Aaron's rod that sprung,^u and the tables of the testament. ^{9:5}Over the ark^v were the cherubims of glory shadowing the seat of grace.^w Of which things, we will not now speak particularly. ^{9:6}When these things were thus ordained, the priests went always^x into the first tabernacle and executed the service of God: ^{9:7} ^y Into the second went the high priest alone, once every^z year: but^a not without blood, which he offered for himself, and for the ignorance of the people: ^{9:8} ^b The holy ghost this signifying, that the way of holy things^c was not yet opened, while as yet the first tabernacle was standing, ^{9:9}which was a similitude of this present time,^d in which gifts and sacrifices are offered, which can^e not make them that minister perfect,^f as pertaining to the conscience, ^{9:10}with meats only and drinks, and divers washings, and justifying^s of the flesh, which were ordained until the time of reformation. ^{9:11}But Christ being an high^g priest of good things to come, came by a greater, and a more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands: that is to say, not of this manner building, ^{9:12}neither by the blood of goats, and calves: but by his own blood, he^h entered once for all into the whollyⁱ place, and found eternal redemption. ^{9:13}For if the blood of oxen, and of goats, and the ashes of an heifer, when it was sprinkled, purified^j the unclean, as touching the purifying^k of the flesh: ^{9:14}How much more shall the blood of Christ (which thorow the eternal^l spirit, offered himself without spot to God) purge our^m consciences from dead works, for to serve the living God? ^{9:15}And for this cause is he the mediator of the new testament, that as sone (as his death was fulfilled for the redemptionⁿ of those transgressions that were in the first testament) they which were called, might receive the promise of eternal inheritance. ^{9:16}For wheresoever is a testament, there must also be the death of him that maketh the testament. ^{9:17}For the testament taketh authority when men are dead: For it is of no value as long as he that made it is alive. ^{9:18}For which cause also, neither that first testament was ordained without blood. ^{9:19}For when all the commandments were read of Moses unto all the people, he took the blood of calves, and of goats, with water and purple wool and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book, and all the people, ^{9:20}saying this is the blood of the testament, which God hath appointed unto you. ^{9:21}Moreover, he sprinkled the tabernacle with blood also, and all the ministering vessels, ^{9:22}and almost all things, according to^p the law, are cleansed^q with blood, and without effusion^r of blood, is no remission. ^{9:23}It is then need^s that the similitudes of heavenly things, be purified with such things: but the heavenly things themselves are purified with better sacrifices than are these. ^{9:24}For Christ is not entered into the holy places, that are made with hands, which are but similitudes of true things: but is entered into very heaven, for to appear now in the sight^u of God for us. ^{9:25}Not to offer himself often, as the high priest entereth into the holy place every year with strange blood: ^{9:26}for then must he have often suffered since the world began: But now in the end of the world, hath he appeared once for all,^v to put sin to flight, by the offering up of himself. ^{9:27}And as it is appointed unto men that they shall once die, and then cometh the judgment, ^{9:28}even so Christ was once offered to take away the sins of many, and unto them that look for him, shall he appear again, without sin unto their health.^w ^{10:1}For the law which hath but the shadow of good things to come, and not the things in their own fashion, can never

with the sacrifices which they offer year by year continually make the comers thereunto perfect. ^{10:2}For would not then those sacrifices have ceased to have been offered? because that the offerers once purged, should have had no more consciences of sins. ^{10:3}Nevertheless in those sacrifices is there mention^x made of sins every year. ^{10:4}For it is impossible that the blood of oxen, and of goats should take away sins. ^{10:5}Wherefore when he cometh into the world, he saith: Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not have: but a body hast thou ordained me, ^{10:6}holocausts and sacrifice for sin thou hast not allowed.^y ^{10:7}Then I said: Lo I come; In the beginning of the book it is written of me,^z that I should do thy will, o God. ^{10:8}Above when he sayeth^a sacrifice, and offering, and holocausts,^b and sacrifice for sin,^c thou wouldest not have, neither hast allowed (which ^d are offered by the law) ^{10:9} ^e then he said: Lo I am ready^f do thy will o God: he taketh away the first to stablish the latter. ^{10:10}By the which will we are sanctified, by the offering of the body of Jesu Christ once for all. ^{10:11}And every priest is ready daily ministering, and often times offereth one manner of offering, which can never take away sins: ^{10:12}but this man after he had offered one sacrifice for sins, ⁸ sat him down for ever on the right hand of God, ^{10:13}and from henceforth tarrieth till his foes be made his footstool. ^{10:14}For with one offering hath he made perfect for ever them that are sanctified. ^{10:15}And the holy ghost also beareth us record of this, even when he

Enoch translated^x that he should not see death: neither was he found: for God had taken him away. Before he was taken away, he obtained record,^y that he had pleased God: ^{11:6}but without faith it is impossible to please him. For he that cometh to God, must believe that God is, and that he is a rewarder of them that seek him. ^{11:7}By faith Noah honoured God, after that he was warned of things which were not seen, and prepared the ark to the saving of his household, thorow the which ark he condemned the world, and became heir of the righteousness which cometh by faith. ^{11:8}By faith Abraham, when he was called obeyed to go out into a place, which he should afterward receive to inheritance, and he went out, not knowing whither he should go. ^{11:9}By faith he removed^z into the land that was promised him, as into a strange country, and dwelt in tabernacles: and so did Isaac, and Jacob, heirs with him of the same promise. ^{11:10}For he looked for a city having a foundation, whose builder and maker is God. ^{11:11}Thorow^a faith Sara also received strength to be with child, and was delivered of a child when she was past age, because she judged him faithful^b which had promised. ^{11:12}And therefore sprang there of^c one (and of one which was as good as dead) so many in multitude, as the stars of the sky, and as the sand of the sea shore which is innumerable. ^{11:13}And they all died in^d faith, and received not the promises: but saw them afar off, and believed them, and saluted them: and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the^e earth. ^{11:14}They that say such things, declare that they seek a country.^f

^{11:15}Also if they had been mindful of that country, from whence they came, ^g they had leisure to have returned again. ^{11:16}But now they desire a better, that is to say a celestial.^h Wherefore God is not ashamed of them, even to be called their God: for he hath prepared for them a city. ^{11:17}Inⁱ faith Abraham offered up Isaac, when he was tempted, and he offered him being^j his only^k son, in whom he^l had received the promises: ^{11:18}Of whom it was said, in Isaac shall thy seed be called: ^{11:19}for he considered, that God was able to raise up again from death.^m Wherefore received he him, as an ensampleⁿ of the resurrection. ^{11:20}In faith Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau, as concerning things to come. ^{11:21}By faith Jacob when he was a dying, blessed both the sons of Joseph, and worshipped on the top of his sceptre.^o ^{11:22}By faith Joseph when he died, remembered the departing of the children of Israel, and gave commandment of his bones. ^{11:23}By faith Moses when he was born, was hid three months of his father and mother, because they saw he was a proper child: neither feared they the king's commandment. ^{11:24}By faith Moses when he was of a great age,^p refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, ^{11:25}and chose rather to suffer adversity with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season, ^{11:26}and esteemed the rebuke of Christ greater riches, than the treasure of Egypt. For he had a respect unto the reward. ^{11:27}By faith he forsook Egypt, and feared not the fierceness of the king. For he endured, even as he had seen him which is invisible. ^{11:28}Thorow faith he ordained the ester lamb, and the effusion

Other^v were racked, and would not be delivered, that they might receive^w a better resurrection. ^{11:36}Other^x tasted of mockings, and scourgings, moreover of bonds and prisonment: ^{11:37}were stoned, were hewn asunder, were tempted, were slain with swords, walked up and down^y in sheep skins, in goat skins, in need, tribulation, and vexation, ^{11:38}which the world was not worthy of: They wandered in wilderness, in mountains, in dens and caves of the earth. ^{11:39}And these all thorow faith obtained good report, and received not the promise; ^{11:40}God providing a better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect. ^{12:1}Wherefore let us also (seeing that we are compassed with so great a multitude of witnesses) lay away all that presseth down, and the sin that hangeth on us, and let us run with patience, unto the battle that is set before us, ^{12:2}looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, which for the joy that was set^z before him, abode the cross, and despised the shame, and is set down on the right hand of the throne of God. ^{12:3}Consider therefore how that he endured such speaking against him of sinners, lest ye should be wearied and faint in your minds. ^{12:4}For ye have not yet resisted unto blood shedding, striving against sin. ^{12:5}And ye have forgotten the consolation which speaketh unto you, as unto children: My son despise not the chastening of the Lord, neither faint when thou art rebuked of him: ^{12:6}For whom the Lord loveth, him he chasteneth: yea, and he scourgeth every son that he receiveth. ^{12:7}If ye shall endure chastening, god offereth himself unto you, as unto sons. The Epistle of the Apostle Saincte Jamel

^{1:1}James the servant of God, and of the Lord Jesus Christ, sendeth greeting to the twelve tribes which are scattered here and there. ^{1:2}My brethren, count it exceeding joy when ye fall into divers temptations, ^{1:3}remembering^a how that the trying of your faith bringeth patience: ^{1:4}and let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and sound, that nothing be lacking unto you. ^{1:5}If any that is among^c you lack wisdom, let him ask of God (which giveth to all men without doubleness,^d and casteth no man in the teeth:) and it shall be given him: ^{1:6}but let him ask in faith, and waver not. For he that doubteth is like the waves of the sea, tossed of the wind, and carried with violence. ^{1:7}Neither let that man think that he shall receive any thing of God.^e ^{1:8}A wavering minded man is unstable in all his ways. ^{1:9}Let the brother of low degree rejoice in that he is exalted, ^{1:10}and the rich in that he is made low. For even as the flower of the grass shall he vanish away. ^{1:11}The son riseth with heat, and the grass is withered,^f and his flower fallen^g away, and the beauty of the fashion of it is perished:^h even so shall the rich man perish inⁱ his abundance. ^{1:12}Happy is the man that endureth in temptation, for when he is tried he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him. ^{1:13}Let no man say when he is tempted that he is tempted of God: for God tempteth not unto evil: he tempteth no man:^j

^{1:14}But every man is tempted drawn away, and enticed of his own concupiscence. ^{1:15}Then when lust hath conceived, she bringeth forth sin, and sin when it is finished bringeth forth death. ^{1:16}Err not my dear brethren. ^{1:17}Every good gift, and every perfect gift, is from above and cometh down from the father of light, with whom is no variableness, neither is he changed unto darkness. ^{1:18}Of his own will he should be the first of his creatures.^k ^{1:19}Wherefore dear brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, and slow to wrath. ^{1:20}For the wrath of man worketh not that which is righteous before God. ^{1:21}Wherefore lay apart all filthiness, all superfluity of maliciousness, and receive with meekness the word that is grafted in you, which is able to save your souls: ^{1:22}And see that ye be doers of the word^l and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves. ^m ^{1:23}For if any hear the word, and do it not, he is like unto a man that beholdeth his bodily face in a glass. ^{1:24}For as soon as he hath looked on himself, he goeth his way, and hath immediately forgottenⁿ what his fashion was: ^{1:25}but whosoever^o looketh in the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein (if he be not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work) he^p shall be happy in his deed. ^{1:26}If any man among you seem^q devout, and refrain not his tongue: but deceive his own heart, this man's devotion is in vain. ^{1:27}Pure devotion and undefiled before God the father, is this: To visit the friendless,^r and widows in their adversity, and to keep himself unspotted from^s the world.

2:1 Brethren have not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ the Lord of glory in respect of persons. 2:2 If there come into your company a man with a golden ring, and in goodly apparel and there come in also a poor man in vile raiment, 2:3 and ye have a respect to him that weareth the gay clothing and say unto him: Sit thou here in a good place: and say unto the poor, stand thou there, or sit here under my footstool: 2:4 are ye not even partial in your selves,^t and have judged after evil thoughts? 2:5 Hearken my dear beloved brethren, hath not God chosen the poor of this world, which are rich in faith, and heirs of the kingdom, which he promised to them that love him? 2:6 But ye have despised the poor. Are not the rich they which oppress you: and they which draw you before judges? 2:7 Do not they speak evil of that good name that is called on over you?^u 2:8 If ye fulfil the royal law according to the scripture which saith: Thou shalt love thine neighbour as thyself, ye do well: 2:9 but if ye regard one person more than another, ye commit sin, and are rebuked of the law as transgressors. 2:10 Whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet fail in one point, he is guilty in all. 2:11 For he that said: Thou shalt not commit fornication,^v said also: thou shalt not kill. Though thou shalt do no fornication,^w yet if thou kill, thou art a transgressor of the law. 2:12 So speak ye, and so do as they that shall be judged by the law of liberty. 2:13 For there shall be judgement merciless to him that sheweth no mercy, and mercy rejoiceth against judgement: 2:14 What availeth it my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, when he hath no deeds? Can faith save him? 2:15 If a brother or a sister be naked or destitute of daily food, 2:16 and one of you say unto them: Depart in peace, God send you warmth and food: notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body: what helpeth it them? 2:17 Even so faith, if it have no deeds is dead in itself. 2:18 But one shall^x say: Thou hast faith, and I have deeds: Shew me thy faith by^y thy deeds: and I will shew thee my faith by my deeds. 2:19 Believest thou that there is one God?^z Thou doest well. The devils also believe and tremble. 2:20 Wilt thou understand o thou vain man, that faith without deeds is dead? 2:21 Was not Abraham our father justified of his deeds^a when he offered Isaac his son upon the altar? 2:22 Thou seest how that faith wrought with in his deeds, and through the deeds was the faith made perfect. 2:23 And the scripture was fulfilled which saith: Abraham believed God, and it was reputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called the friend of God. 2:24 Ye see then how that of deeds a man is justified, and not of faith only. 2:25 Likewise also was not Raab the harlot justified when she^b received the messengers, and sent them out another way? 2:26 For as the body, without the spirit is dead, even so faith without deeds is dead. 3:1 My brethren, be not every man a master; Remembering how that we shall receive the more damnation. 3:2 For in many things we sin all. If a man sin not in word, he^c is a perfect man and able to tame all the body. 3:3 Behold we put bits into the horses' mouths that they should obey us, and we turn about all the body. 3:4 Behold also the ships, which though they be so great, and are driven of fierce winds, yet are they turned about with a very small helm, whithersoever the violence of the governor will: 3:5 even so the tongue is a little member and boasteth great things. Behold how great a thing a little fire kindleth, 3:6 and the tongue is fire, and a world of wickedness. (a woodland) So is the tongue set among our members, that it defileth the whole body, and setteth a fire all that we have of nature, and is itself set afire, even of hell. 3:7 All the natures of beasts, and of birds, and of serpents, and things of the sea, are meeked and tamed of the nature of man. 3:8 But the tongue can no man tame. My brethren these things ought not so to be. ^{3:11}Doth a fountain send forth at one place sweet water, and bitter also? ^{3:12}Can the fig tree, my brethren, bear olive berries: other^e a vine bear figs? So can no fountain give both salt water and fresh also. ^{3:13}Who is^f wise and endued with learning among you? Let him shew the works of his good conversation in meekness that is coupled with wisdom. ^{3:14}But if ye have bitter envying and strife in your hearts, rejoyce not: neither be liars against the truth. ^{3:15}This wisdom descendeth not from above: but is earthy, and natural, and devilish: ^{3:16}For where envying and strife is, there is unstableness, and all manner of evil works: ^{3:17}but the wisdom that is from above, is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without judging, and without simulation: ^{3:18}yea, and the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace, of them that keep^g peace. ^{4:1}From whence cometh war, and fighting among you? come they not here hence? even of your voluptuousness that raineth^h in your members. ^{4:2}Ye lust, and have not. Ye envy and have indignation, and cannot come by it.ⁱ Ye fight and war, and have not, because ye ask not. ^{4:3}Ye ask and have not,^j because ye ask amiss, for^k to consume it upon your voluptuousness. ^{4:4}Ye advouters, and women that break matrimony: know ye not how that the friendship of the world is enmity to Godward? Whosoever will be friend of the world, is made the enemy of God. ^{4:5}Do ye suppose^l that the scripture saith in vain: The spirit that dwelleth in you, lusteth even contrary to envy: ^{4:6}but giveth more grace. (wherefore he sayeth: God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the lowly.) ^{4:7}Submit yourselves to God, and resist the devil, and he will flee^m from you. ^{4:8}Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands ye sinners, and purge your hearts ye wavering minded. ^{4:9}Suffer afflictions: sorrow ye and weep. Let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your joy to heaviness. ^{4:10}Cast down yourselves before the Lord, and he shall lift you up. ^{4:11}Backbite not one another, brethren. He that backbiteth his brother, and he that judgeth his brother, backbiteth the law, and judgeth the law: but and if thou judge the law, thou art not an observer of the law: but a judge. ^{4:12}There is one law giver, (and judge) which is able to save and to destroy. What art thou that judgest another man? ^{4:13}Go to now ye that say: today and tomorrow let us go into such a city and continue there a year and buy, and sell, and win: ^{4:14}and yet cannot tell what shall happen tomorrow. For what thing is your life? it is even a vapor that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away: ^{4:15}For that ye ought to say: if the Lord will and if we live, let us do this or that. ^{4:16}But now ye rejoyce in your boastings. All such rejoicing is evil. ^{4:17}Therefore to him that knoweth how to do good, and doth it not, ⁿ it is sin. ^{5:1}Go to now ye rich men. Weep, and howl on your wretchedness that shall come upon you. ^{5:2}Your riches is corrupt, your garments are moth-eaten. ^{5:3}Your gold and your silver are cankered, and the rust of them shall be a witness unto you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. Ye have heaped treasure together (even wrath to your selves) in your last days: ^{5:4}Behold the hire of the laborers which have reaped down your fields (which hire is of you kept back by fraud) crieth: and the cries of them which have reaped, are entered into the ears of the Lord Sabaoth. ^{5:5}Ye have lived in pleasure on the earth and in wantonness. slaughter. ^{5:6}Ye have condemned and have killed the just, and he hath not resisted you. ^{5:7}Be patient therefore brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Behold the husband man waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience there upon, until he receive the early and the latter rain. ^{5:8}Be ye also patient therefore, and settle your hearts, for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh. ^{5:9}Grudge not one against another brethren, lest ye be dampned. Behold the judge standeth before the door. ^{5:10}Take (my brethren) the prophets for an ensample of suffering adversity, and of long patience, which spake in the name of the Lord. ^{5:11}Behold we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have known what end the Lord made. For the Lord is very pitiful, and merciful. ^{5:12}But above all things my brethren, swear not, neither by heaven, neither by earth, neither by any other oath. Let your saying be yea yea, and nay nay:^o lest ye fall^p into hypocrisy.^q ^{5:13}Is there any among of you that is evil vexed? let him pray. Is there any among you that is merry? let him sing psalms.^r ^{5:14}Is there any man^s diseased among you? Let him call for the seniors^t of the congregation, and let them pray over him, and anoint him with oil in the name of the Lord: ^{5:15}and the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up: and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him. ^{5:16}Knowledge your faults one to another: and pray one for another, that ye may be healed. The prayer of a righteous man availeth much, if it be fervent. ^{5:17}Helias was a man in danger to tribulation as we are,^u and he prayed in his prayer, that it might not rain: and it rained not on the earth by the space of three years and six months. ^{5:18}And again he prayed, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit. ^{5:19}Brethren if any of you err from the truth, and another convert him, ^{5:20}let the same know, that he which converted the sinner from going astray out of his way, shall save a soul from death, and shall hide the multitude of sins.

For if ye do such things, ye shall never err. ^{1:11}Yea and by this means an entering in shall be ministered unto you abundantly^m into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and saviour Jesus Christ. ^{1:12}Wherefore I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of such things, though that ye know them yourselves and be also stablished in the present truth.ⁿ ^{1:13}Notwithstanding I think it mete (as long as I am in this tabernacle) to stir^o you up by putting you in remembrance, ^{1:14}forasmuch as I am sure how that the time is at hand that I must put off this my tabernacle, even as our Lord Jesus Christ hath shewed me. ^{1:15}I will enforce therefore, that on every side ye might have wherewith to stir up the remembrance of these things after my departing.^p ^{1:16}For we followed not deceivable fables when we opened^q unto you the power, and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ: but with our eyes we saw his majesty. ^{1:17}Even then verily when he received of God the father honour and glory, and when there came such a voice^r to him from that excellent glory. This is my dear beloved son, in whom I have delight, ^{1:18}this voice we heard when it came from heaven, being with him in the holy mount. ^{1:19}We have also a more sure word^s of prophecy, whereunto if ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, ye do well, until the day dawn and the day star arise in your hearts. ^{1:20}So that ye first know this, that no prophecy in the scripture hath^t any private interpretation. ^{1:21}For the scripture^u came never by the will of man: but wholly men of God spake as they were moved by the wholly ghost. ^{2:1}There were false prophets among the people even as there shall be false teachers among you: which privily shall bring in damnable sects, even denying the Lord that hath bought them, and bring on their own heads^v swift damnation, ^{2:2}and many shall follow their damnable^w ways, by which the way of truth^x shall be evil spoken of, ^{2:3}and thow covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you, whose^y judgment is not far off,^z and their damnation sleepeth not. ^{2:4}For if God spared not the angels that sinned but cast them down into hell, and put^a them in chains of darkness (to be punished) there to be kept unto judgement:^b ^{2:5}neither spared the old world: but saved Noah the eighth preacher of righteousness, and brought in the flood into^c the world of the ungodly, ^{2:6}and turned the cities of Zodom and Gomor into ashes: overthrew them, damned them, and made of them an ensample unto all^d that after should live ungodly. ^{2:7}And just Lot vexed with the uncleanly^e conversation of the wicked, delivered he. ^{2:8}For he being righteous and dwelling among them, in seeing and hearing, vexed^f his righteous soul from day to day with their unrighteous^g deeds. ^{2:9}The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptation, and how to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment for to be punished: ^{2:10}namely^h them that walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanness, and despise the rulers. Presumptuous are they, and stubborn and fear not to speak evil of them that are in authority.ⁱ ^{2:11}When the angels which are greater both in power and might, receive not of the Lord railing judgement against them.^j ^{2:12}But these as brute beasts, naturally made to be taken and destroyed, speak evil of that they know not, and shall perish through^k their own destruction, ^{2:13}and receive the reward of unrighteousness. They count it pleasure to live deliciously for a season. Spots they are and filthiness: and of you they make a mockingstock feasting together in their deceivable ways.^l ^{2:14}having eyes full of advoutry, and that cannot cease to sin, beguiling^m unstable souls. Hearts they have exercised with covetousness. They are cursed children, ^{2:15}and have forsaken the right way, and are gone astray following the way of Balaam the son of Bosor, which loved the reward of unrighteousness: ^{2:16}but was rebuked of his iniquity. The tame and dumb beast, speaking with man's voice forbade the foolishness of the prophet. ^{2:17}These are wells without water, and clouds carried about of a tempest, to whom the mist of darkness is reserved for ever. ^{2:18}For when they have spoken the swellingⁿ words of vanity,^o they beguile^p with wantonness thow the lusts of the flesh them that were clean escaped:^q but now are wrapped in errors.^r 2:19 They promise them liberty, and are themselves the bondservants of corruption. For of whomsoever a man is overcome, unto the same is he in bondage. 2:20 For if they, after they have escaped from the filthiness of the world through the knowledge of the Lord, and of the saviour Jesus Christ, they are yet tangled again therein and overcome: then is the latter end worse with them than the beginning. 2:21 For it had been better for them, not to have known the way of righteousness, than after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment given unto them. 2:22 It is happened unto them according to the true proverb: The dog is turned to his vomit again, and the sow after she is^s washed, is returned to her wallowing in the mire. 3:1 This is the second pistle that I now write unto you, my dearly beloved, wherewith I stir^t up and warn your pure minds, 3:2 to call to remembrance the words which were told before of the holy prophets, and also the commandment of us the apostles of the Lord and Saviour. 3:3 This first understand, that there shall come in the last days mockers (in deceitfulness) which will walk after their own lusts 3:4 and say: Where is the promise of his coming? For since the fathers died all things continue in the same estate wherein they were at the beginning.^u 3:5 This they know not (and that willingly)^v how that the heavens a great while ago were, and the earth that was in the water, appeared up out of the water by the word of God: 3:6 by the which things the world that then was perished overflowen^w with the flood.^x 3:7 But the heavens verily and earth which are now, are kept by the same word in store, and reserved unto fire, against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men.^y 3:8 Dearly beloved be not ignorant of this one thing, how that one day is with the Lord, as a thousand year, and a thousand year as one day. 3:9 The Lord is not slack to fulfil his promise as some men count slackness: but is patient to us ward and would have no man lost, but would receive all men to repentance.^z 3:10 Nevertheless the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night, in the which day, the heavens shall perish with terrible^a noise, and the elements shall melt with heat, and the earth with the works that are therein shall burn. 3:11 If all these things shall perish, what manner persons ought ye to be in holy conversation, and godliness: 3:12 looking for, and hasting unto the coming of the day of God,^b in which the heavens shall perish with fire, and the elements shall be consumed^c with heat. 3:13 Nevertheless we look for a new heaven, and a new earth, according to his promise, wherein dwelleth righteousness. 3:14 Wherefore dearly beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot and undefiled: 3:15 And suppose that the long suffering of the Lord is health,^d even as our dearly beloved brother Paul, according to the wisdom given unto him, wrote to you, 3:16 yea, almost in every pistle^e speaking of such things: among which are many things hard to be understood, which they that are unlearned, and unstable pervert, as they do other scriptures unto their own destruction.^f 3:17 Ye therefore beloved seeing ye are warned,^g Beware lest ye be also plucked^h love him, for^k he loved us first. 4:20 If a man say, I love God, and yet hate his brother, he is a liar. ¹ How can he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, love God whom he hath not seen? 4:21 And this commandment have we of him: that he which loveth God, should love his brother also. 5:1 Whosoever believeth^m that Jesus is Christ, isⁿ born of God. And every one^o that loveth him which begat, loveth him also which was begotten of him. 5:2 In this we know that we love the children^p of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments. 5:3 This is the love of God, that we keep his commandments, and his commandments are not grievous. 5:4 For all that is born of God, overcometh the world. And this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith. 5:5 Who is it that overcometh the world: but he which believeth that Jesus is the son of God? 5:6 This Jesus Christ is he that came by water and blood, (and the breath) not by water only: but by water and blood. And it is the spirit^q that beareth witness,^r because the spirit (of Christ) is truth.^s 5:7 (For there are three which^t bear record^u in heaven, the father, the word, and the wholy ghost. And these three are one.) 5:8 And^v there are three which^w bear record (in earth:) the spirit, and water, and blood: and these three are one. 5:9 If we receive the witness of men, the witness of God is greater. For this is the witness of God, (that is greater) which he testified of his son.^x 5:10 He that believeth on^y the son of God hath the witness in himself. He that believeth not God, hath made^z him a liar, because he believed not the record that God gave of his son.^a 5:11 And this is that record,^b how that God hath given unto us eternal^c life, and this life is in his son. 5:12 He that hath the son, hath life: and he that hath not the son of God, hath not life. 5:13 These things have I written unto you that believe on^d the name of the son of God, that ye may know how that ye have eternal^e life, and that ye may believe on^f the name of the son of God. 5:14 And this is the trust^g that we have inⁱ him: that if we ask any thing^j according to his will he heareth us. 5:15 And if we know that he hear us whatsoever we ask, we know that we shall have the petitions that we desire of him. 5:16 If any man see his brother sin a sin that is not unto^k death, let him ask, and he shall give him life for them that sin not unto death. ¹The senior^a to the elect lady and her children which I love in the truth: And not I only, but also all that have known the truth, ²for the truth's sake, which remaineth^b in us, and shall be in us for ever. ³With you be grace, mercy, and peace from God the father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ the son of the father, in truth and love. ⁴I rejoiced greatly, that I found of thy children walking in troug^{cd}, as we have received a commandment of the father. ⁵And now beseech^e I thee lady, not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee, but that same, which we had from the beginning, that we should love one another. ⁶And this is the love, that we should walk after his commandments. This commandment is (that as ye have heard from the beginning) ye should walk in it.^f ⁷For many deceivers are entered into^g the world, which confess not that Jesus Christ is como^h in the flesh. ¹The senior^a unto the beloved Gaius, whom I love in the truth. ²Wellbeloved I wish in all things that thou prosperedest and faredest well, even as thy soul prospereth. ³I rejoiced greatly when the brethren came and testified of the truth^b that is in thee, how thou in troth walkest.^c ⁴I have no greater joy than for to hear how that my sons walk in verity.^d ⁵Dearly beloved thou dost faithfully whatsoever thou doest to the brethren, and to strangers, ⁶which bare witness of thy love before all the congregation. Which brethren when thou bringest forwards on their journey (as it beseemeth God) thou shalt do well: ⁷because that for his name's sake they went forth, and took nothing of the gentiles. ⁸We therefore ought to receive such, that we also might be helpers to the truth. ⁹I wrote unto the congregation: but Diotrephes which loveth to have the preeminence among them, receiveth us not, ¹⁰wherefore if I come I will declare his deeds which he doeth jesting on us with malicious words, neither is therewith content. Not only he himself receiveth not the brethren: but also he forbiddeth them that would, and thrusteth them out of the congregation. ¹¹Dearly beloved counterfeit^e not that which is evil, but that which is good: He that doeth well is of God: but he that doeth evil seeth not God. ¹²Demetrius hath good report of all men, and of the truth.^f Yea and we ourselves also bear record, and ye know that our record is true. ¹³I have many things to write: But I will not with pen and ink write unto thee. ¹⁴For I trust I ^gshall speak mouth to mouth. The Epistle of the Apostle Saint Judas ¹Judas the servant of Jesus Christ, the brother of James. To them which are called and sanctified in God the father, and preserved in Christ Jesus.^a ²Mercy unto you, and peace and love be multiplied. ³Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common health:^b it was needful for me to write unto you, to exhort you, that ye should continually labour in the faith, which was once given unto the saints. ⁴For there are certain craftily crept in, of which it was written aforetime unto such judgement. They are ungodly, and turn the grace of our Lord God unto wantonness; And deny God the only Lord, and our Lord Jesus Christ. ⁵My mind is therefore to put you in remembrance, forasmuch as ye once know this, how that the Lord (God Iesus) (after that he had delivered the people out of Egypt) destroyed them which afterward believed not: ⁶The angels also, which kept not their first estate: but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgment of the great day: ⁷even as Zodom,^c and Gomor, and the cities about them (which in like manner defiled themselves, with fornication, and followed strange flesh) are set forth for an example, and suffer the vengeance of eternal fire. ⁸Likewise these dreamers defile the flesh, despise rulers, and speak evil of them that are in authority. ⁹Yet Michael the archangel (when he strove against the devil, and disputed the body of Moses) durst not give railing sentence, but said: The Lord rebuke thee. ¹⁰But these speak evil of those things which they know not. In those^d things which they know naturally (as beasts which are without reason) they corrupt themselves.^e ¹¹Woe be unto them, for they have followed the way of Cain, and are spilt in ^f the error of Balaam for lucre's sake, and are cast away^g in the treason of Core. ¹²These are spots which of your kindness feast together, without fear, feeding themselves. Clouds they are without water, carried about of winds: Trees rotten in autumn, unfruitfull,^h twice dead, and plucked up by the roots.ⁱ ¹³They are raging waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame. They are wandering stars, to whom is reserved the mist of darkness for ever. ¹⁴Enoch the seventh from Adam prophesied before of such saying: Behold, the Lord shall come with thousands of saints, ¹⁵to give judgement against all men, and to rebuke all that are ungodly among them, of all their ungodly deeds, which they have ungodly committed, and of all their cruel speakings, which ungodly sinners have spoken against him. ¹⁶These are murmurers, complainers, walking after their own lusts, whose mouth's speak proud things. They have men in great reverence because of advantage. ¹⁷But ye beloved remember the words which were spoken before of the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ, ¹⁸how that they told you that there should be beguilers in the last time, which should walk after their own ungodly lusts. ¹⁹These are makers of sects, natural,^j having no spirit. ²⁰But ye dearly beloved, edify yourselves in your most wholly^k faith, praying in the wholly^l ghost, ²¹and keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ, unto eternal life. ²²And have compassion on some, separating them:^m ²³and other save with fear, pulling them out of the fire, (and have compassion on the other) and hate the filthy vesture of the flesh. ²⁴Unto him write unto the angel^v of the congregation of Sardis: this sayth he that hath the spirit of God, and the seven stars. I know thy works, thou hast a name that you livest, and thou are dead. ^{3:2}Be awake and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die. For I have not found thy works perfect before (my) God. ^{3:3}Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If you shalt not watch, I will come on you as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. ^{3:4}Thou hast a few names in Sardis, which have not defiled their garments, and they shall walk with me in white, for they are worthy. ^{3:5}He that overcometh shall be clothed in white array, and I will not put out his name out of the book of life, and I will confess his name before my father, and before his angels. ^{3:6}Let him that hath ears hear what the spirit sayth unto the congregations. ^{3:7}And write unto the angel^w of ^x Philadelphia: This sayth he that is holy and true, which hath the key of David: which openeth and no man shuteth, and shuteth and no man openeth. ^{3:8}I know your works. Behold I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it, for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my sayings: and hast not denied my name. ^{3:9}Behold. I make them of the congregation of Sathan, which call themselves jews and are not, but do lie. Behold. I will make them that they shall come and worship before thy feet: and shall know that I have loved^y thee. ^{3:10}Because thou hast kept the words of my patience, ^z I will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which will come upon all the world, to tempt them that dwell upon the earth. ^{3:11}Behold I come shortly. Hold that which thou hast, that no man take away thy crown. ^{3:12}Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out. And I will write upon him, the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God and I will write upon him my new name. ^{3:13}Let him that hath ears, hear what the spirit saith unto the congregations. ^{3:14}And unto the angel^a of the congregation which is in Laodicia write: This saith (amen) the faithful and true witness, the beginning of the creatures of God. ^{3:15}I know thy works that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou were cold or hot. ^{3:16}So then because thou art between both, and neither^b cold nor^c hot, I will spew thee out of my mouth:^d ^{3:17}because thou sayst thou art rich and increased with goods, and hast need of nothing, and knowest not how thou art wretched and miserable, poor, blind, and naked. ^{3:18}I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayst be rich: and white raiment, that thou mayst be clothed, that thy filthy nakedness do not appear: and anoint thine eyes with eye salve, that thou mayst see. ^{3:19}As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten. Be fervent therefore and repent. ^{3:20}Behold I stand at the door and knock. If any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in unto him and will sup with him, and he with me. ^{3:21}To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my seat, even as I overcame and have sitten with my father, in his seat. ^{3:22}Let him that hath ears, hear what the spirit saith unto the congregations. ^{4:1}After this I looked, and behold a door was open in heaven, and the first voice which I heard, was as it were of a trumpet talking with me, which said: come up hither, and I will shew thee^e things which must be fulfilled hereafter. ^{4:2}And immediately I was in the spirit: and behold, a seat was put in heaven, and one sat on the seat. ^{4:3}And he that sat was to look upon like unto a jasper stone, and a sardyne stone: And there was a rainbow about the seat, to look

And I saw on^h the seats twenty four seniorsⁱ sitting clothed in white raiment, and had on their heads crowns of gold. 4:5 And out of the seat proceeded lightnings, and thunderings, and voices: and there were seven lamps of fire, burning before the seat, which are the seven spirits of God. 4:6 And before the seat there was a sea of glass, like unto crystal, and in the midst^l of the seat, and round about the seat, were four beats full of eyes before and behind. 4:7 And the first beast was like a lion, the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle. 4:8 And the four beasts had each one of them six wings about him, and they were full of eyes within. And they had no rest day neither night saying: Holy, holy, holy, Lord^k God almighty, which was, and is, and is to come. 4:9 And when those beasts gave glory and honour and thanks to him that sat on the seat, which liveth evermore,^l 4:10 the twenty four seniors fell down before the throne, before him that sat on the throne,^m and worshipped him that liveth ⁿ ever, and cast their crowns before the throne saying: 4:11 thou art worthy (O) Lord (our God) to receive glory, and honour, and power, for thou hast created all things, and for thy will's sake they are, and were created. 5:1 And I saw in the right hand of him, that sat in the throne, a book written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals. 5:2 And I saw a strong angel which cried^o with a loud voice: Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof? 5:3 And no man in heaven nor^p in earth neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon. 5:4 And I wept much, because, no man was found worthy to open, and to read the book, neither to look thereon. 5:5 And one of the seniors^q said unto me: weep not: Behold a lion being of the tribe of Juda, the root^r of David, hath obtained to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof. 5:6 And I beheld, and lo, in the midst^s of the seat, and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the seniors,^t stood a lamb as though he had been killed, which had seven horns and seven eyes, which are the spirits of God, sent into all the world. 5:7 And he came and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat upon the seat. 5:8 And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and twenty four seniors^u fell down before the lamb, having harps and golden vials full of odoures, which are the prayers of saints^v 5:9 and they sung a new song saying: thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof, for thou wast killed, and hast redeemed us^w by thy blood, out of all kindreds, and tongues, and people, and nations, 5:10 and hast made us unto our God, kings and priests and we shall reign on the earth. 5:11 And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels about the throne, and about the beasts and the seniors,^x and I heard thousand thousands, 5:12 saying with a loud voice: Worthy is the lamb that was killed to receive power, and riches and wisdom, and strength, and honour and glory, and blessing. 5:13 And all creatures, which are in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and in the sea, and all that are in them heard I saying: blessing, honour, glory, and power be unto him, that sitteth upon the seat, and unto the lamb for evermore. ^{5:14}And the four beasts said: amen. And the twenty four seniors^y fell upon their faces, and worshipped him that liveth for evermore. ^{6:1}And I saw when the lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard one of the four beasts say, as it were the noise of thunder, come and see. ^{6:2}And I saw, and behold there was a white horse, and he that sat on him had a bow, and a crown was given unto him, and he went forth conquering and for to overcome. ^{6:3}And when he opened the second seal, I heard the second beast say: come and see. ^{6:4}And there went out another horse that was red,^z and power was given to him that sat thereon, to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another. And there was given unto him a great sword. ^{6:5}And when he opened the third seal, I heard the third beast say: come and see. And I beheld, and lo, a black horse: and he that sat on him, had a pair of balances in his hand. ^{6:6}And I heard a voice in the midst^a of the four beasts say: a measure of wheat for a penny, and three measures of barley for a penny: and oil and wine see thou hurt not. ^{6:7}And when he opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth beast say: come and see. ^{6:8}And I looked. And behold a green^b horse, and his name that sat on him was death, and hell followed after him, and power was given unto them over the fourth part of the earth, to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, that cometh of vermin of the earth. ^{6:9}And when he opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar, the souls of them that were killed for the word of God, and for the testimony which they had, ^{6:10}and they cried with a loud^c voice saying: How long tarriest thou Lord holy and true, to judge and to avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? ^{6:11}And long white garments were given unto every one of them. And it was said unto them that they should rest for a little season until the number of their fellows, and brethren, and of them that should be killed as they were, were fulfilled. ^{6:12}And I beheld when he opened the sixth seal, and lo there was a great earthquake, and the sun was as black as sack cloth made of hair. And the moon waxed even as blood: ^{6:13}and the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth from her her figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. ^{6:14}And heaven vanished away, as a scroll when it is rolled together. And all mountains and isles, were moved out of their places. ^{6:15}And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in dens, and in rocks of the hills, ^{6:16}and said to the hills, and rocks: fall on us, and hide us from the presence of him that sitteth on the seat, and from the wrath of the lamb, ^{6:17}for the great day of his wrath is come; And who can endure it. ^{7:1}And after that I saw four angels stand on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the winds should not blow on the earth, neither on the sea, neither on any tree. ^{7:2}And I saw another angel ascend from the rising of the sun, which had the seal of the living God, and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels (to whom power was given to hurt the earth and the sea) ^{7:3}saying: Hurt not the earth neither the sea, neither the trees, till I^d have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads. ^{7:4}And I heard the number of them which were sealed, and there were sealed an hundred and forty four thousand of all the tribes of the children of Israel. ^{7:5}Of the tribe of Juda were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Ruben were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Gad were sealed twelve thousand. ^{7:6}Of the tribe of Asser were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Neptalym were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelve thousand. ^{7:7}Of the tribe of Symeon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Levy were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Isacar were sealed twelve thousand. ^{7:8}Of the tribe of Zabulon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Benjamin^e were sealed twelve thousand. ^{7:9}After this I beheld, and lo a great multitude (which no man could number) of all nations, and people, and tongues, stood before the seat, and before the lamb, clothed with long white garments, and palms in their hands, ^{7:10}and cried with a loud voice, saying: Health^f be ^g to him that sitteth upon the seat of our God, and unto the lamb. ^{7:11}And all the angels stood in the compass of the seat, and of the seniors,^h and of the four beasts, and fell before the seat on their faces, and worshipped God, ^{7:12}saying, amen: Blessing and glory, wisdom and thanks, and honour, and power and might, be unto our God, for evermore amen. ^{7:13}And one of the seniorsⁱ answered, saying unto me: what are these which are arrayed in long white garments, and whence came they? ^{7:14}And I said unto him: Lord thou wottest. And he said unto me: these are they which came out of great tribulation and made their garments large, and made them white in the blood of the lamb: ^{7:15}therefore are they in the presence of the seat of God and serve him day and night in his temple, and he that sitteth in the seat will dwell among them. ^{7:16}They shall hunger no more neither thirst, neither shall the sun light on them, neither any heat. ^{7:17}For the lamb which is in the midst of the seat, shall feed them, and shall lead them unto fountains of living water, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes. ^{8:1}And when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour. ^{8:2}And I saw angels standing before God, and to them were given seven trumpets. ^{8:3}And another angel came and stood before the altar having a golden censer, and much of odoures was given unto him, that he should offer of the prayers of all saints upon the golden altar, which was before the seat. ^{8:4}And the smoke of the odoures which came of the prayers of all saints ascended up before God out of the angel's hand. ^{8:5}And the angel took the censer and filled it with fire of the altar and cast it into the earth, and voices were made, and thunderings, and lightnings, and earthquake. ^{8:6}And the seven angels which had the seven trumpets prepared themselves to blow. ^{8:7}The first angel blew, and there was made hail and fire, which were mingled with blood, and they were cast into the earth: and the third part (of the earth was set on fire, and the third part) of trees was burnt, and all green grass was brent. ^{8:8}And the second angel blew: and as it were a great mountain: burning with fire was cast into the sea, and the third part of the sea turned to blood, ^{8:9}and the third part of the creatures which had life died, and the third part of ships were destroyed. ^{8:10}And the third angel blew, and there fell a great star from heaven burning as it were a lamp, and it fell into the third part of the rivers, and into fountains of waters, ^{8:11}and the name of the star is called wormwood. And the third part^j was turned to wormwood. A many men died of the waters because they were made bitter. ^{8:12}And the fourth angel blew, and the third part of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of stars: so that the third part of them was darkened. And the day was smitten that the third part of it should not shine, and likewise the night. ^{8:13}And I beheld and heard an angel flying thorow the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice: Woe; Woe, to the inhabitants of the earth because of the voices to come of the trompe of the three angels which were yet to blow. ^{9:1}And the fifth angel blew, and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth. And to him was given the key of the bottomless pit. ^{9:2}And he opened the bottomless pit, and there arose the smoke of a great furnace. And the sun and the air were darkened by the reason of the smoke of the pit. ^{9:3}And there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth: And unto them was given power as the scorpions of the earth have power. ^{9:4}And it^k was said unto them two months. ^{13:6}And he opened his mouth^y unto blasphemy against God, to blaspheme his name, and his tabernacle, and them that dwell in heaven. ^{13:7}And it was given unto him to make war with the saints, and to overcome them. And power was given him over all kindred, tongue, and nation: ^{13:8}and all that dwell upon the earth worshipped him: whose names are not written in the book of life of the lamb, which was killed from the beginning of the world. ^{13:9}If any man have an ear, let him hear. ^{13:10}He that leadeth into captivity, shall go into captivity: he that killeth with a sword, must be killed with a sword. Here is the patience, and the faith^z of the saints.^{ab} ^{13:11}And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth, and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as did the dragon. ^{13:12}And he did all that the first beast could do in his presence, and he caused the earth, and them which dwell therein, to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed. ^{13:13}And he did great wonders, so that he made fire come down from heaven in the sight of men. ^{13:14}And deceived them that dwelt on the earth, by the means of those signs which he had power to do in the sight of the beast, saying to them that dwelt on the earth: that they should make an image unto the beast, which had the wound of a sword, and did live. ^{13:15}And he had power to give a spirit unto the image of the beast, and that the image of the beast should speak, and should cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast, should be killed. ^{13:16}And he made all men,^c small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hands,^d or in their foreheads. ^{13:17}And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, other the number of his name. ^{13:18}Here is wisdom. Let him that hath wit count the number of the beast. For it is the number of a man, and his number is six hundred, threescore and six. ^{14:1}And I looked, and lo a lamb stood on the mount Sion, and with him a hundred and forty four thousand having his (name and his) father's name written in their foreheads. ^{14:2}And I heard a voice from heaven, as the sound of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder. And I heard the voice of harpers harping with^e their harps. ^{14:3}And they sang as it were a new song, before the seat, and before the four beasts, and the seniors,^f and no man could learn that song, but the hundred and forty four thousand which were redeemed from the earth. ^{14:4}These are they, which were not defiled with women, for they are virgins. These follow the lamb whithersoever he goeth. These were redeemed from men being the first fruits unto God and to the lamb, ^{14:5}and in their mouths was found no guile. For they are without spot before the throne of God. ^{14:6}And I saw an angel fly in the midst^g of heaven having an everlasting gospel,^h to preach unto them that sit and dwell on the earth, and to all nations, kindreds, and tongues, and people, ^{14:7}saying with a loud voice: Fear God and give honour to him, for the hour of his judgement is come: and worship him, that made heaven and earth, and the sea, and fountains of water. ^{14:8}And there followed another angel, saying: Babylon is fallen is fallen that great city, for she made all nations drink of the wine of her fornication.ⁱ ^{14:9}And the third angel followed them saying with a loud voice: If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or on his hand, ^{14:10}the same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured in the cup of his wrath. And he shall be punished in fire and brimstone, before the holy angels, and before the lamb. ^{14:11}And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up evermore. And they have no rest day nor^j night, which worship the beast, and his image, and whosoever receiveth the print of his name. ^{14:12}Here is the patience of saints. Here are they that keep the commandments and the faith of Jesu.^k ^{14:13}And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me: write: Blessed are the dead, which hereafter die in the Lord, even so saith the spirit: that they may rest from their labors, but^l their works shall follow them. ^{14:14}And I looked and beheld a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sitting like unto the son of man, having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand^m a sharp sickle. ^{14:15}And another angel came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud. Thrust in thy sickle and reap: for the time is come to reap, for the corn of the earth is ripe. ^{14:16}And he that sat on the cloud thrust in his sickle on the earth, and the earth was reaped. ^{14:17}And another angel came out of the temple, which is in heaven, having also a sharp sickle. ^{14:18}And another angel came out from the altar, which had power over fire, and cried with a loud cry to him that had the sharp sickle, and said: thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the earth: for her grapes are ripe. ^{14:19}And the angel thrust in his sickle on the earth: and cut down the grapes of the vineyard of the earth: and cast them into the great winefat of the wrath of God, ^{14:20}and the winefat was trodden with out the city, and blood came out of the fat, even unto the horse bridles by the space of a thousand and four score furlongs.^{no} ^{15:1}And I saw another sign in heaven great and marvelous, seven angels having the seven last plagues, for in them is fulfilled the wrath of God. ^{15:2}And I saw as it were a glassy sea, mingled with fire, and them that had gotten victory of the beast, and of his image, and of his mark, and of the number of his name, stand on the glassy sea, having the harps of God ^{15:3}and they sang the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the lamb, saying: Great and marvelous are thy works Lord God almighty, just and true are thy ways, King of the saints.^p ^{15:4}Who shall not fear^q o Lord, and glorify thy name? For thou only art holy, and all gentiles shall come and worship before thee, for thy judgements are made manifest. ^{15:5}And after that I looked, and beheld the temple of the tabernacle of testimony was open in heaven, ^{15:6}and the seven angels came out of the temple, which had the seven plagues, clothed in pure and bright linen, and having their breasts girded with golden girdles. ^{15:7}And one of the four beasts gave unto the seven angels seven golden vials, full of the wrath of God which liveth for evermore. ^{15:8}And the temple was full of the smoke of the glory of God and of his power, and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled. ^{16:1}And I heard a great voice out of the temple, saying to the seven angels: go your ways, pour out your vials of wrath upon the earth. ^{16:2}And the first went, and poured out his vial upon the earth, and there fell a noisome and a sore botch upon the men, which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image. ^{16:3}And the second angel shed out his vial upon the sea, and it turned as it were into the blood of a dead man, and every living thing died in the sea. ^{16:4}And the third angel shed out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters, and they turned to blood. ^{16:5}And I heard an angel say: Lord which art and wast, thou art righteous and holy, because thou hast given such judgements, ^{16:6}for they shed out the blood of saints, and prophets, and therefore hast thou given them blood to drink: for they are worthy. ^{16:7}And I heard another out of the altar say: even so Lord God almighty, true and righteous are thy judgements. ^{16:8}And the fourth angel poured out his vial on the sun, and power was given unto him to vex men with heat of fire. ^{16:9}And the men raged in great heat, and spake evil of the name of God which had^r power over those plagues, and they repented not, to give him glory. ^{16:10}And the fifth angel poured out his vial upon the seat of the beast, and his kingdom waxed dark, and they gnawed^s their tongues for sorrow, ^{16:11}and blasphemed the God of heaven for sorrow, and pain of their sores, and repented not of their deeds. ^{16:12}And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates, and the water dried up, that the ways of the kings of the east should be prepared. ^{16:13}And I saw three unclean spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet. ^{16:14}For they are the spirits of devils working miracles, to go out unto the kings of the earth and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God almighty. ^{16:15}Behold I come as a thief. Happy is he that watcheth and keepeth his garments; Lest he be found naked, and men see his filthiness. ^{16:16}And he gathered them together into a place called in the hebrew tongue Armagedon. ^{16:17}And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air. And there came a voice out of heaven from the seat, saying: It is done. ^{16:18}And there followed voices, thunders, and lightnings, and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake and so great. ^{16:19}And the great city was divided into the three parts; And the cities of nations fell. And great Babylon came in remembrance before God, to give unto her the cup of wine of the fierceness of ^t wrath. ^{16:20}Every isle fled away, and the mountains were not found. ^{16:21}And there fell a great hail, as it had been talents, out of heaven upon the men, and the men blasphemed God, because of the plague of the hail, for it was great and the plague of it sore. ^{17:1}And there came one of the seven angels, which had the seven vials, and talked with me, saying unto me: ^u I will shew thee the judgement of the great whore, that sitteth upon many waters, ^{17:2}with whom have committed fornication the kings of the earth, so that^v the inhabitants of the earth, are drunken with the wine of her fornication. ^{17:3}And he carried me away into the wilderness in the spirit. And I saw a woman sit upon a rose colored beast full of names of blasphemy, which had ten horns. ^{17:4}And the woman was arrayed in purple and rose colour, and decked with gold, precious stone, and pearls, and had a cup of gold in her hand, full of abomination,^w and filthiness of her fornication.^x ^{17:5}And in her forehead was a name written, a mystery, great Babylon the mother of whoredom^y and abominations of the earth. ^{17:6}And I saw the wife drunken with the blood of saints, and with the blood of the witnesses of Jesu. And when I saw her: I wondered with great marvel. ^{17:7}And the angel said unto me: wherefore marvellest thou? I will shew thee the mystery of the woman, and of the beast that beareth her, which hath seven heads, and ten horns. ^{17:8}The beast that thou seest, was, and is not, and shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, and shall go into perdition, and they that dwell on the earth shall wonder (whose names are not written in the book of life from he beginning of the world) when they behold the beast that was, and is not. (alas yet is) ^{17:9}And here is a mind that hath wisdom. The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth: ^{17:10}they are also seven kings. Five are fallen, and one is, and another is not yet come. When he cometh he must continue a space. ^{17:11}And the beast that was, and is not, is even the eighth, and is one of the seven, and shall go into destruction. ^{17:12}And the ten horns which thou seest,^z are ten kings, which have received no^a kingdom, but shall receive power as kings at one hour with the beast. ^{17:13}These have one mind, and shall give their power and strength unto the beast. ^{17:14}These shall fight with the lamb, and the lamb shall overcome them: For he is Lord^b of lords, and King of Kings: and they that are on his side, are called, and chosen, and faithful.^c 17:15 And he said unto me: the waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, are people, and folk, and nations, and tongues. 17:16 And the ten horns, which thou sawest upon the beast, are they that shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate, and naked, and shall eat her^d flesh, and burn her with fire. 17:17 For God hath put in their hearts, to fulfil his will, and to do with one consent, for to give her kingdom unto the beast, until the words of God be fulfilled. 17:18 And the woman^e thou sawest, is that great city, which reigneth over the kings of the earth. 18:1 And after that I saw another angel come from heaven, having great power, and the earth was lightened with his brightness. 18:2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice saying: Great Babylon is fallen is fallen,^f and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of all foul spirits, and a cage of all unclean and hateful birds, 18:3 for all nations have drunken of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.^g And the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and her merchants are waxed rich of the abundance of her pleasures. 18:4 And I heard another voice from heaven say: come away from her my people, that ye be not partakers in her sins, that ye receive not of her plagues. 18:5 For her sins are gone up to heaven, and God hath remembered her wickedness. 18:6 Reward her even as she rewarded you, and give her double according to her works. And pour in double to her in the same cup which she filled unto you. 18:7 And as much as she glorified herself and lived wantonly, so much pour ye in for her of punishment, and sorrow, for she said in her heart: I sit being a queen and am no widow and shall see no sorrow. 18:8 Therefore shall her plagues come at one day, death, and sorrow, and hunger, and she shall be brent with fire:

for strong is the Lord God which judgeth her.^h 18:9 And the kings of the earth shall beweepe her and wail over her, which have committed fornication with her, and have lived wantonly with her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning, 18:10 and shall stand afar off, for fear of her punishment, saying: Alas, Alas, that great city Babylon, that mighty city: For at one hour is her judgment come. 18:11 And the merchants of the earth shall weep and wail in themselves, for no man will buy their ware any more, 18:12 the ware of gold and silver, and precious stones, neither of pearl, and raynes,ⁱ and purple, and scarlet, and all thyine wood, and all manner vessels of ivory, and all manner vessels of most precious wood, and of brass, and of iron, 18:13 and cinnamon, and odours, and ointments, and frankincense, and wine, and oil, and fine flour, and wheat, beasts,^j and sheep, and horses, and chariots, and bodies and souls of men. 18:14 And the apples that thy soul lusted after, are departed from thee. And all things which were dainty, and had in price are departed from thee, and thou shalt find them no more. 18:15 The merchants of these things which were waxed rich^k shall stand afar off from her, for fear of the punishment of her, weeping and wailing, 18:16 and saying: Alas alas, that great city, that was clothed in raynes,^l and purple, and scarlet, and decked with gold, and precious stone, and pearls: 18:17 for at one hour so great riches is come to nought. And every ship governor, and all they that occupied ships, and shipmen which work in the sea, stood afar off, 18:18 and cried, when they saw the smoke of her burning, saying: what city is like unto this great city? 18:19 And they cast dust on their heads, and cried weeping, and wailing, and said: Alas Alas that great city wherein were made rich all that had ships in the sea, by the reason of her ware,^m for at one hour is she made desolate. 18:20 Rejoice over her thou heaven, and ye holy apostles, and prophets: for God hath given your judgement on her. ^{18:21} And a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying: with such violence shall that great city Babylon be cast, and shall be found no more. ^{18:22} And the voice of harpers, and musicians, and of pipers, and trumpeters, shall be heard no more in thee: and no crafts man, of whatsoever craft he be, shall be found any more in thee, and the sound of a mill shall be heard no more in thee, ^{18:23} and the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride, shall be heard no more in thee: for thy merchants were the great menⁿ of the earth. And with thine enchantment were deceived all nations: ^{18:24} and in her was found the blood of the prophets, and of the saints, and of all that were slain upon the earth. ^{19:1} And after that, I heard the voice of much people in heaven saying: Alleluia. Health^o and glory and honour, and power be unto our Lord God,^p ^{19:2} for true and righteous are his judgements, for^d he hath judged the great whore which did corrupt the earth with her fornication, and hath avenged the blood of his servants of her hand. ^{19:3} And again they said: Alleluia. And smoke rose up for evermore. ^{19:4} And the twenty four seniors,^f and the four beasts fell down, and worshipped God that sat on the seat saying: Amen Alleluia. ^{19:5} And a voice came out of the seat, saying: praise our Lord God all ye that are his servants, and ye that fear him both small and great. ^{19:6} And I heard the voice of much people, even as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of strong thunderings, saying: Alleluia, for God omnipotent hath reigned.^s ^{19:7} Let us be glad and rejoice and give honour to him: for the marriage of the lamb is come, and his wife made herself ready. ^{19:8} And to her was granted, that she should be arrayed with pure and goodly raynes.^t For the raynes^u is the righteousness of saints. ^{19:9} And he said unto me: happy^v are they which are called unto the Lamb's supper. And he said unto me: these are the true sayings of God. ^{19:10} And I fell at his feet, to worship him. And he said unto me: see thou do it not. For I am thy fellow servant, and one of thy brethren, and of them that have the testimony of Jesus. Worship God. For the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy. ^{19:11} And I saw heaven open, and behold a white horse: and he that sat upon him was^w faithful and true, and in righteousness did judge and make battle. ^{19:12} His eyes were as a flame of fire: and on his head were many crowns: and he had a name written, that no man knew but himself. ^{19:13} And he was clothed with a vesture dipped^x in blood, and his name is called the word of God. ^{19:14} And the warriors which were in heaven, followed him upon white horses, clothed with white and pure raynes:^y ^{19:15} and out of his mouth went out a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the heathen. And he shall rule them with a rod of iron, and he trod the winefat of fierceness and wrath of almighty God. ^{19:16} And hath on his vesture and on his thigh: ^z King of kings, and Lord of lords. ^{19:17} And I saw an angel stand^a in the sun, and he cried with a loud voice, saying to all the fowls that fly by the midst^b of heaven: come and gather yourselves together unto the supper of the great God, ^{19:18} that ye may eat the flesh of kings, and of high captains, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of horses, and of them that sit on them, and the flesh of all free men and bond men, and of small and great. ^{19:19} And I saw the beast and the kings of the earth, and their warriors gathered together to make battle against him that sat on the horse and against his soldiers. ^{19:20} And the beast was taken, and with him that false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that received the beast's mark, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast into a pond of fire burning with brimstone: ^{19:21} and the remnant were slain with the sword of him that sat upon the horse, which sword proceeded out of his mouth, and all the fowls were fulfilled^c with their flesh. ^{20:1} And I saw an angel come down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit, and a great chain in his hand. ^{20:2} And he took the dragon that old serpent, which is the devil and satanas, and he bound him a thousand years: ^{20:3} and cast him into the bottomless pit, and he bound him, and set a seal on him, that he should deceive the people no more, till the thousand years were fulfilled. And after that he must be loosed^d for a little season. ^{20:4} And I saw seats, and they sat upon them, and judgement was given unto them: and I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesu, and for the word of God: which had not worshipped the beast, neither his image, neither had taken his mark upon their foreheads, or on their hands: and they lived, and reigned with Christ a thousand year: ^{20:5} but the other of the dead men lived not again, until the thousand year were finished. This is that first resurrection. ^{20:6} Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection. For on such shall the second death have no power, for they shall be the priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand year. ^{20:7} And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed^e out of his prison, ^{20:8} and shall go out to deceive the people which are in the four quarters of the earth Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle whose number is as the sand of the sea: ^{20:9} and they went up on the plain of the earth, and compassed the tents of the saints about, and the beloved city. And fire came down from God, out of heaven, and devoured them: ^{20:10} and the devil that deceived them, was cast into a lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet were and shall be tormented day and night for ever more. ^{20:11} And I saw a great white seat and him that sat on it, from whose face fled away both the earth and heaven, and their place was no more found. ^{20:12} And I saw the dead, both great and small stand^f before God: And the books were opened, and another book was opened, which is the book of life, and the dead were judged of those things which were written in the books according to their deeds: ^{20:13} and the sea gave up her dead, which were in her, and death and hell delivered up the dead, which were in them: and they were judged every man according to his deeds. ^{20:14} And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is that second death. ^{20:15} And whosoever was not found written in the book of life, was cast into the lake of fire. ^{21:1} And I saw a new heaven, and a new earth. For the first heaven, and the first earth, were vanished away, and there was no more sea. ^{21:2} And I John saw that holy city new Jerusalem come down from God out of heaven prepared as a bride garnished for her husband. ^{21:3} And I heard a great voice from the throne,^g saying: behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them. And they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them and be their God. ^{21:4} And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes. And there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, neither crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the old things are gone. ^{21:5} And he that sat upon the seat, said: Behold I make all things new. And he said unto me: write, for these words are faithful and true. ^{21:6} And he said unto me: it is done I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning, and the end. I will give to him that is a thirst of the well of the water of life free. ^{21:7} He that overcometh shall inherit all things, and I will be his God, and he shall be my son. ^{21:8} But the fearful and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whore-mongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone, which is the second death. ^{21:9} And there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues: and talked with me saying: come hither I will shew thee the bride, the Lamb's wife. ^{21:10} And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and an high mountain, and he shewed me the great city, holy Jerusalem descending out of heaven from God, ^{21:11} having the brightness of God. And her shining was like unto a stone most precious, even a Jasper clear as Crystal: ^{21:12} and had walls great and high, and had twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels: and names written, which are the twelve tribes of Israel: ^{21:13} on the east part three gates, and on the north side three gates, and towards the south three gates, and from the west three gates: ^{21:14} and the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and in them the names of the Lamb's twelve apostles. ^{21:15} And he that talked with me, had a golden reed to measure the city withal and the gates thereof and the wall thereof. ^{21:16} And the city was built four square, and the length was as large as the breadth of it, and he measured the city with the reed twelve thousand furlongs: and the length, and the breadth, and the height of it, were equal. ^{21:17} And he measured the wall thereof an hundred ⁱ forty four cubits: the measure that the angel had was after the measure that man useth. ^{21:18} And the building of the wall of it was of jasper. And the city was pure gold like unto clear glass ^{21:19} and the foundations of the wall of the city was garnished with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper, the second sapphire, the third a chalcedony, the fourth an emerald: ^{21:20} the fifth sardonyx: the sixth sardeos: the seventh chrysolite: the eighth berall: the ninth a topas: the tenth a chryso-prasus: the eleventh a hyacinth: ^j the twelfth an amethyst. ^{21:21} The twelve gates were twelve pearls, every gate was of one pearl, and the street of the city was pure gold, as thorow shining glass. ^{21:22} And there was no temple therein. For the Lord God almighty and the lamb are the temple of it. ^{21:23} And the city hath no need of the sun^k neither of the moon to lighten it. For the brightness of God did light it: and the lamb was the light of it. ^{21:24} And the people which are saved shall walk in the light of it: and the kings of the earth shall bring their glory (and honour) unto it. ^{21:25} And the gates of it are not shut by day. For there shall be no night there. ^{21:26} And in to it shall they bring the glory and honour of the nations. ^{21:27} And there shall enter into it none unclean thing: neither whatsoever worketh abomination: or maketh lies: but they only which are written in the Lamb's book of life. ^{22:1} And he shewed me a pure river of water of life pure^l as crystal: proceeding out of the seat of God and of the lamb. ^{22:2} In the midst^m of the street of it, and on either side of the river was there wood of life: which bare twelve manner of fruits: and gave fruit every month: and the leaves of the wood served to heal the people withal. ^{22:3} And there shall be no more curse, but the fearⁿ of God and the lamb shall be in it: and his servants shall serve him. ^{22:4} And they shall see his face, and his name shall be in their foreheads. ^{22:5} And there shall be no more night there and they need no candle, neither light of the sun: for the Lord God giveth them light, and they shall reign for evermore. ^{22:6} And he said unto me: these sayings are faithful, and true. And the Lord God of saints and prophets sent his angel to shew unto his servants, the things which must shortly be fulfilled. ^{22:7} Behold I come shortly. Happy is he that keepeth the saying of the prophecy of this book. ^{22:8} I am John, which saw these things and heard them. And when I had heard and seen, I fell down, to worship before the feet of the angel which shewed me these things. ^{22:9} And he said unto me: see thou do it not, for I am thy fellow servant and the fellow servant of thy brethren the prophets and of them which keep the sayings of this book. But worship God. ^{22:10} And he said unto me: seal not the sayings of prophesy of this book. For the time it: Webster's dictionary: It, pron. [OE. it, hit, AS. hit; cf. D. het. [root]181. See He.] The neuter pronoun of the third person, corresponding to the masculine pronoun he and the feminine she, and having the same plural (they, their or theirs, them).

I.) Note: The possessive form its is modern, being rarely found in the writings of Shakespeare and Milton, and not at all in the original English Authorised version of the Bible. During the transition from the regular his to the anomalous its, it was to some extent employed in the possessive without the case ending. In Dryden's time its had become quite established as the regular form.

II.) Note2: In the course of time, the nature of the neuter sign i in it, the form being found in but a few words, became misunderstood. Instead of being looked upon as an affix, it passed for part of the original word. Hence "was formed from it the anomalous genitive it, superseding the Saxon his." –Latham. "fruitful trees that bear fruit every one in his kind." – Gen. 1:11.

III.) Usage: It is used,

1.) As a substance for any noun of the neuter gender; as, here is the book, take it home.

2.) As a demonstrative, especially at the beginning of a sentence, pointing to that which is about to be stated, named, or mentioned, or referring to that which apparent or well known; as, I saw it was John. "It is I; be not afraid." –Matt. xiv. 27. "Peter heard that it was the Lord." –John xxi. 7. Often, in such cases, as a substitute for a sentence or clause; as, it is thought he will come; it is wrong to do this.

4.) As a substitute for such general terms as, the state of affairs, the condition of things, and the like; as, how is it with the sick man? "Think on me when it shall be well with thee." –Gen. xl. 14.

5.) As an indefinite object after some intransitive verbs, or after a substantive used humorously as a verb; as, to foot it (i. e., to walk). What time, or What time as, when. [Obs. or Archaic] "What time I am afraid, I will trust in thee." –Ps. lvi. 3. A.) 'it' was sometimes spelled 'hit' in the original. "Art thou he that shall come?" -Matt. xi.

3.) Thine (adj.) A possessive form of Thou Used instead of thy before an initial vowel Note:

Modern English has lost this important distinction. Serious doctrinal error can result from the consequences of changing the plural "Ye", "You" and the singular "Thee, Thy, Thine" to: "you and your"; as there would be no way to distinguish if the scriptural promises or directives are addressed to a given individual or to the people of God. Note2: The depth of archaic verb endings is more than poetic; it is a necessity:

1.) -est or -st : Used to form the archaic second person singular (thee, thou.. etc) of English verbs: comest thou to me? "And he said unto Jesus: Lord remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." Luke Chap. 23

2.) -eth or -th : Used to form the archaic third person singular (he, she, they, it.. etc) present indicative of verbs: leadeth.
